Catholic Daughters of America, Court Saint Mary No. 249, honored charter members of the court Tuesday night at a program in the high school auditorium.

Features of the program included the presentation of war bonds and a check to Rev. Louis Deuster for the new church, and a report of the state convention held in Port Arthur.

Charter members are Mrs. J. S. Horn, Mrs. Jacob Pagel and Miss Anna Hellman, continuous members, and Mrs. L. A. Bernauer, Mrs. Frank Kaiser, Mrs. M. J. Endres and Miss Theresa Luke, charter members who were out of the court for a time but later took up their membership again. Also honored was Mrs. Ben Hellman, who while not a charter member has been a member for almost 40 years, having joined the organization in Spokane, Wash., before moving to Muenster, and during that length of time has missed only two meetings.

Mrs. J. W. Fisher, grand regent of the court, introduced the charter members and gave a short history of the local court since its organization on Dec. 6, 1914, with 28 members and Mrs. G. H. Hellman as grand regent.

Each of the honored members spoke briefly. They were presented white gladiolus corsages tied with ribbons carrying out the court's colors of purple and gold.

Mrs. John Mosman, district deputy, presented the two $100 bonds and a $265 check to Father Louis who gave an address in which he expressed thanks for the gift and encouraged the organization to continue in "faith and labor."

Mrs. Mosman gave a brief resume of the court's new church fund stating that it was started in 1941 and enumerated the benefits sponsored by the court to raise the money.

Miss Olivia Stock, a delegate to Port Arthur, reported on convention proceedings.

To conclude the evening, refreshments were served in the homemaking room. Plates were attractive with purple and gold brick ice cream, golden chiffon cake and coffee.

Mrs. Joe Horn was chairman for the evening's program.

IN MEMORIAM

10 Parochial High Graduates Receive Diplomas Sunday

Relatives and friends gathered at Sacred Heart church Sunday evening at 7:30 to honor ten graduates at Sacred Heart High school's fourteenth annual commencement exercises.

Rev. Louis Deuster, pastor, delivered the commencement address using as his text the words of Saint Paul to Timothy, fourth chapter, seventh verse: "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course; I have kept the faith."

He mentioned problems that young people will meet as they go out into the world, cautioned them against the evils that lurk in the universe, and asked them to remember the lessons taught during their school years, adding that the knowledge acquired by a Christian education has prepared them to cope with the problems and avoid the dangers which arise during later life.

Father Louis also presented the diplomas.

The services began with a procession of the graduates, their

MHS Grads Hear Citizenship Talk By Senator Carter

Graduates of Muenster High School, at their commencement exercise Thursday night, were advised that good citizenship is the means by which they can contribute their share of order to the confused and turbulent times they are about to enter.

State Senator Joe Carter, principal speaker on the program, told the class of twelve seniors that they are making their start in life in a critical era marked by alarming domestic and world conditions, and the way to meet the challenge of the times is to apply the standards of personal integrity and responsibility inherent in the traditional concept of Americanism.

The commencement, held in the high school auditorium presented Jeanette Walter as valedictorian and Lawrence Dankesreiter as salutatorian. It opened with an invocation by Rev. Bill Hodge and closed with a benediction by Rev. Louis Deuster. Musical numbers included a class chorus, a piano solo by Jeanette Walter and a vocal solo by Marcelene Wimmer.

Superintendent Weldon Cowan presented college scholarship awards to Jeanette Walter, Lawrence Dankesreiter and

Soil Enthusiasts Told America Is Worst Fed Nation

Soil conservation champions of the Upper Elm-Red district were honored last Thursday night at the third annual district awards banquet held on the Turner Hotel roof garden in Gainesville.

The event, sponsored by the 16 banks of the district and attended by about 300 farmers and conservation boosters, was featured by an address on conservation in relation to health by Dr. Joe D. Nichols of Atlanta, Texas.

Dr. Nichols said "America is the poorest fed nation in the world. We've got plenty of food but it isn't fit to eat."

One of the reasons for the poor quality of food, he said, is the poor quality of land. Soil deficient in proteins and min-

Harvest of Bumper Crop Is Postponed By Rainy Weather

Grain crops in the Muenster community are exceptionally good, but doubts began to increase Tuesday as to whether the harvest will be proportionately good.

A hard rain driven by a strong wind came roaring in about 6 p.m. and knocked down wheat and oats in most fields of the area. It interrupted many farmers just as they were getting started on their harvest. Some had windrowed and intended to follow with combines in a day or two. Some were cutting with binders. Some were mowing for baling.

The rain, measuring 1.51 on Steve Moster's official U. S. Weather Bureau gauge, followed last Friday's 1.68 and left the ground thoroughly soaked. More rain on Wednesday offered little hope of returning to fields before the beginning of next week.

Though there's cause for worry, however, the ill effects are not serious to date. If favorable weather follows soon practically all grain can still be recovered. Scattered losses are more than offset by the general benefits to pastures, legumes and row crops.

Muenster War Dead Honored Sunday in Memorial Service

Members of the Muenster VFW post, the VFW Auxiliary and the Sacred Heart parish joined Sunday in special services honoring the community's war dead. Following a custom established in recent years, the Memorial Day observance was advanced to the preceding Sunday in order to avoid conflict with urgent farm work.

In his address at the graves of service men Father Louis Deuster referred to the ceremony as a fitting tribute which should be continued for all time to come as an annual expression of appreciation to those who gave their lives to preserve our heritage of liberty and human dignity.

He also pointed out that from a Christian viewpoint the occasion was one of joy as well as sorrow. While it is sad to lose loved ones, especially in the prime of life, it is consoling to think they have merited greater eternal happiness by giving their lives in the service of humanity.

The ceremony started with a procession from church to the crucifixion group in the center of the cemetery then to the service men's graves. Father Louis led in prayers at both places then gave his memorial address. After that school children placed wreaths on each service man's grave and the detail closed the service with a three-volley rifle salute and taps.

Mothers of the war victims wore white corsages, gifts of the VFW Auxiliary.

Two Thirds of Rose Plants in America Originate in Texas

California may have the Rose Parade, the Rose Bowl and all the fanfare. But Texas is the leading rose-producing state in the nation.

Texas producers are shipping up to 20,000,000 rose plants a year — or two-thirds of all roses used in outdoor planting in America.

The rose is a field crop, and growers set out ten acres of roses like other farmers plant corn or cotton. In fact, some rose growers also plant other crops, and one of the leading East Texas growers takes pride in his 8 bale-per-acre cotton yield.

During the blooming season one can see some 15,000,000 rose plants flowering 2,000,000,000-odd roses — which go to waste as they fade and die and drop off the bush, for it is the plant, not the bloom, that is marketed.

Shipments average 200 to 300 cars annually in big cities in the East and Middlewest. Up to 14,000,000 plants move in refrigerated cars; the remainder go by parcel post and truck.

Texas producers take as much pride in the development of fine rose stock as our cattle breeders take in their Hereford Whitefaces. Growers are known to have paid as much as $10,000 for a single parent plant.

They grow many varieties developed by cross-pollination by breeders in other parts of the country and Europe. But they also develop their own varieties from "sports" which occur when a plant suddenly develops characteristics unlike those of its parent. One sport may never develop into anything worthwhile. Another may become a valuable new patented variety from which a grower can collect thousands of dollars annually in royalties.

Until recent years, Texas growers shipped their plants to distributors out of the state, but they are now beginning to do some of their own distributing, going in for fancy root packing for department stores. The plant is displayed in colorful moisture-proof packages, and the roots are packed in sphagnum moss—which conserves moisture up to six weeks and allows the plant to continue growing and even to bloom on the sales counter.

Growers now store large quantities of bushes for late shipment to retail trade. Cold storage facilities can handle 2,000,000 bushes.

In marketing rose plants, much depends on the pull of the name. A few of the most popular varieties grown in Texas are Radiance, Peace, Talisman, Briarcliff, Gay Lady, Big Daddy, Festival, Summer Snow, Texas Centennial and General MacArthur — an old variety named for Douglas' father.

One of the best sellers is an old variety which has no place among the newer and finer plants. The secret of its popularity is the name: "American Beauty."

Endres Motor company employees enjoyed a training film and refreshments at the garage Tuesday night.

The American Way

By George Peck

VIVIEN WRITES A BOOK

The Kellems "gal" has gone and done it again. She has written a book. "What Kellems 'gal'?" you ask. Who else but Miss Vivien Kellems, manufacturer of Stonington, Conn., who in 1948 refused any longer to withhold taxes from her employees. Incidentally, four years later she is still pleading with the Federal Government to indict her and make a test case as to the constitutionality of the Withholding Tax Law.

The book is intriguingly entitled, "Toil, Taxes and Trouble."

In it Miss Kellems makes the charge that the enactment of the 16th Amendment (Income Tax) was a grave constitutional error and she proves her case, at least to my complete satisfaction.

Rupert Hughes, who needs no introduction to the American reading public, in his inimitable style, has written an introduction to the book. In it he says in part:

"Her (Miss Kellems) defiance of the Withholding Tax Law was based on a woman's practical common sense. She maintained that she had no right to withhold from her employees the tax the Government deducted. Then she put the Government in the ridiculous position of demanding that she be punished for not paying it every week, other people's taxes, while still other people paid their taxes only twice a year. She jockeyed the Government into trying to punish her for not paying it moneys which it had already received long before.

"From such a position, so bravely and unbudgeably upheld, she has gone on to the high position that the whole Income Tax Law is un-American and should be repealed.

"To those who believe that the Income Tax Law serves a good purpose; and to those who dislike but think its repeal impossible, I commend the reading of this book. . . I am convinced that the reader of this book will not only be sadder and wiser, but will be captivated and thrilled by it. . . ."

With Mr. Hughes' estimate of "Toil, Taxes and Trouble," I most heartily agree, because once I picked the book up I found it impossible to put it down. Miss Kellems proves that the Income Tax is destroying our American way of life and that the Withholding Tax violates the Constitution guaranty against involuntary servitude. She demonstrates that the very principle of taxing incomes is contrary to the provision in Section 9, Article I of the Constitution which reads:

"No capitation, or other direct taxes, shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken."

Miss Kellems asserts that the Income Tax Amendment was slipped over the unwary American taxpayer and is an instrument used by the followers of the Marx-Engels doctrine which advocates the use of a progressive income tax to destroy the capitalistic system.

As for the Withholding Tax, Miss Kellems charges that it commandeers every employer into involuntary servitude, assumes that every American worker is unfit to administer his own affairs, sows seeds of dissension between employer and employee and conceals the hold which the politicians have acquired on every pay envelope.

These two evils must be eradicated, or there will be no America as we now know it, Miss Kellems says.

Yes, I heartily recommend this book by Vivien Kellems. It is a call to arms. "Toil, Taxes and Trouble," is published by E. P. Dutton & Company, Inc., 300 Fourth Avenue, New York 10, N. Y. It sells for $2.50—a bargain, if there ever was one.

The U. S. Constitution does not stipulate the number of justices in the Supreme Court.

Do We Remember?

God and a soldier all people adore
In time of war and not before;
And when war is over and all things are righted,
God is neglected and an old soldier slighted.

—Anonymous.

The other day I received a letter from a friend in Pusan, Korea, that has been causing me to lose a lot of sleep ever since. He had just returned to his quarters after watching a group of wounded and disabled American veterans being sent back to hospitals in Japan and to the United States.

"I wonder if you people back home really appreciate what these boys have sacrificed in order that you can live a normal, peaceful life," he wrote. "All of these casualties are young men—some merely teen-age kids. They came from a comfortable home, just like yours. They were born with the expectation of living out a natural life in good surroundings. They didn't hesitate to go half way around the world to fight for decency and democratic ideals in a stinking hell-hole. And now they are coming back to you—but not as they left!

"Some are blind. Others have an arm or a leg gone. Still others have injuries less serious but nevertheless of a permanent nature. Every last mother's son of them staked his life that you and yours can enjoy the blessings of freedom. I wonder if you are going to let them come home to become forgotten men, shunted to the side of the highway of life, to rot away in oblivion?"

Perhaps the reason I haven't been sleeping any too well since receiving that letter, is because I have a gnawing feeling in my heart that you and I take these disabled American veterans too much for granted. Of course we know a war is going on. Aren't taxes sky high? Naturally we keep up with the Korean conflict in a hazy sort of way. Let's see now. How many casualties have we suffered so far? A quick check of the record reveals that to date more than 103 thousand Americans have been killed or wounded in Korea!

A HUNDRED THOUSAND!! You know what that means? It means that if every American soldier that received battle wounds in the Korean conflict was suddenly dropped into Macon, Ga., there wouldn't be room left in our town for a single, solitary civilian. The number of disabled American veterans would outnumber us by several thousand! Add to this staggering number the men who were disabled in the World Wars and you would have a city, entirely populated by veterans receiving combat disabilities, larger than Atlanta.

Many thousands of these men are members of an organization very aptly called Disabled American Veterans. I still contend that DAV more properly means "Distinguished and Valiant" and heartily concur with General Douglas MacArthur's words "Membership in no group in the world carries greater honor than, in the Disabled American Veterans."

The disabled veteran today faces many problems. Living costs have risen 17 per cent since the outbreak of the Korean war, yet disabled veterans are receiving less compensation than they did 50 years ago! The 1950 average monthly payments per veteran was $34.00 as compared with $65.00 in 1900.

The DAV advocates the freeing of medical personnel within the Veterans Administration as well as legislation providing for a five-year federal aid program in medical education to increase the number of doctors, dentists and nurses for VA hospitals. They also would like to see the 1,600 hospital beds amputated from the VA by presidential order last year returned in order to adequately take care of the Korean wounded now streaming back to the states.

A recent DAV survey revealed that at least 500 million work hours annually can be made available to ease the current shortage of labor industry by utilizing an estimated 250,000 disabled veterans, now unemployed. And today a disabled veteran rated as less than 50 per cent disabled receives no consideration for compensation if he is married and has a family.

The DAV believes that since many of these men and their dependents are suffering financial hardships and that they should be granted compensation allowances based on the number of dependents involved.

All of these projects are worthy of vigorous support by you and me. This business of sending billions of dollars to the far ends of the earth to help suffering humanity is a noble and Christian gesture but I'll sleep a lot better when I know that our government has adequately and properly taken care of the fellows who got their bodies mutilated and torn to keep me and mine free and safe. FIRST!

The Basis Of Our Anxieties

by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen

ONE OF PSYCHOLOGY'S favorite descriptions of modern man is that he has an anxiety complex.

The basic reason of all anxiety is due to the fact that man is a mysterious composite of body and soul. Standing midway between the animal and the angel, living in a finite world and aspiring toward the infinite, moving in time and seeking the eternal, he is pulled at one moment toward the pleasures of the body and at another moment the joys of the spirit. That is why he is anxious; he is in a constant state of suspension between matter and spirit.

IN PLAIN LANGUAGE, every man in the world has an anxiety complex because he has the capacity to be either a sinner or a saint.

An animal can never become less than it is, but a man can, because a man is a composite of both spirit and matter. When we see a monkey acting foolishly, we do not say, "Do not act like a nut," but when we see a man acting foolishly we do say, "Do not act like a monkey." Because a man is spirit as well as matter, he can descend to the level of beasts, but not so completely as to destroy the image of God in his soul. It is this that makes the peculiar tragedy of man.

Crows have no psychoses, and pigs have no neuroses, and chickens are not frustrated, and neither would man ever be frustrated, nor have an anxiety complex, nor despair, if he were an animal made only for this world. It takes eternity to make a man despair.

SINCE THE BASIC cause of man's anxiety is the possibility of being either a saint or a sinner, it follows that there are only two alternatives. Man can either mount upwards to the peak of eternity or else slip backwards to the chasms of despair and frustration.

There are many I know who think there is yet another alternative, namely, that of indifference. They think that just as bears hibernate for a season in a state of animated suspension, so too they can sleep through life without choosing for God or against Him. But this is no escape, not only because winter ends and one is forced to make a decision, but because indifference itself is a decision.

By the mere fact that we do not go forward, we go backward; there are no plains in the spiritual life; we are either going uphill or coming down.

FURTHERMORE, the attitude of indifference is only mental. Though a soul does not positively reject the infinite, the infinite rejects him. The talents that are unused are taken away, and God speaks in the Scriptures to the broadminded, indifferent soul saying: "But because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold, nor hot, I will begin to vomit thee out of my mouth."

WHAT IT COSTS TO TRAIN A SOLDIER IN BASIC

FORT RILEY, Kan.—Cost conscious personnel in the 10th Infantry Division's training section this week announced the Army spends $1180 to train each infantry rifle-man during the 18 weeks of his training. The total is broken down under four general headings, none of which includes the trainee's share in operating expenses, weapons, administrative overhead, entertainment, recreation, or athletic facilities of the division. The four departments are: the trainee's pay; his ration, quarters, and clothing cost of unit instructors; and the cost of ammunition used during training.

Seniors Have Class Night Exercises

The Seniors gave their final farewell to Sacred Heart faculty and student body at the annual Class Night Program, May 22, at the Relax Theater. Ronald Herr was master of ceremonies.

Floradell Endres, salutatorian, gave the welcome address, and Randolph Bayer read the Class History, a review of the four years in high school.

Anselma Kathman recited the class poem, "Each For All, And All For The Right," which was composed by her. "Farewell," the class song, was sung by the Seniors and accompanied by Irma Hofbauer. Dolores Haverkamp paraded the Seniors and Leoba Henscheid in turn stalked the Juniors.

Floradell Endres presented the memorials which the senior class left to their Alma Mater during their four years of high school. Memorials were a Webster's New Twentieth Century Dictionary, an Album of records containing the story of "Julius Caesar," a mounted racoon for the science laboratory, ten dollars worth of stage furnishings, and one hundred dollars for the girls 4-H Club department for a sewing machine, iron, and ironing board. Gladys Hoffman, junior class president, accepted the gifts.

The Glee Club then gave two selections "Roses From The South" in two part by Johann Strauss and "Lovely Lady Dressed In Blue" in four part. Irma Hofbauer and Carrie Ann Gehrig played a piano duet, the Hungarian Dance by Brahms.

George Mollenkopf and Willard Hartman read the "Can You Imagine?", Patsy Gremminger read the Last Will and Testament and Albina Mages, the class Prophecies.

Conferment of Awards:

Rev. Louis Deuster, O.S.B., pastor, conferred the awards. Irma Hofbauer, highest honor student, received the Valedictorian medal and a key charm as a remembrance of "Sedes Sapientiae Award". For the latter award Irma had her name engraved on the Balfour Honor Plaque which hangs in the school.

Floradell Endres, second highest honor student, received the Salutatorian medal and a Sheaffer pen and pencil set given by the Alumni of Sacred Heart each year. Floradell, for outstanding leadership, loyalty, and cooperation also received one of the highest honors that can be given to a student—the Citizenship Medal.

Irma Hofbauer was awarded a medal for excellency in piano.

Distribution of Gifts:

The seniors received individual gifts from members of the junior class. Anselma Felderhoff, Clara Sicking, and Della Rose Felderhoff distributed the gifts.

The program closed with the Valedictory address by Irma Hofbauer.

Alma Henscheid Is Latin Award Winner

Alma Henscheid, a second year Latin student at Sacred Heart High, has been named one of the top winners in the 21st National Latin Test sponsored by the Association for Promotion of Study of Latin, under the direction of the editor of the "Auxilium Latinum," national classroom Latin magazine.

Miss Henscheid scored 115 out of a possible 120 points and received a gold medal award, along with a "Summa Cum Laude" certificate. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Henscheid.

Three other second year Latin students merited awards in the contest. JoAnn Starke scored 94; Edna Hesse 94; Marilyn Miller 90. They received honorable mention certificates.

Thousands of Latin students completed in the contest. The median score was 37. All ten students of the Parochial school who took part in the contest scored above the median.

A Sample of Military Waste

The story of a 40-room officers' quarters built at Andrews Air Base, southeast of Washington, D. C., when only a 21-room structure was needed, came to light before a Congressional Committee as an instance of military waste.

Committeemen said the building was planned as a bachelor officers' quarters, to cost $80,000. Because no plans had been drawn, it was suggested that Army Engineers asking bids should use plans previously drawn for quarters in Alaska.

Inspection of the plans revealed that they called for a 40-room structure instead of the 21-room building needed. However, witnesses testified that the Air Force said to go ahead anyway because the quarters were needed for WAF's who were occupying hospital space required for evacuees from Korea.

The site chosen for the building turned out to be practically a swamp. It cost $22,000 to remedy that mistake. In order to get occupancy 26 days early, another $7,000 was paid to have the building finished in 64 days instead of 90 days. However, in the 26 days thus saved, only 21 WAF's moved into the building, and the $7,000 paid to have the building ready amounted to about $13 per WAF per day.

The Calip Cannons and daughter, Cleta Sue who are on their annual two weeks vacation, are visiting relatives in Terrell and Oklahoma City this week.

The Chester Leafs and son, Bobby, of Oklahoma City visited his sister and family, the Charles Crabtrees at Bulcher during the weekend.

There's Big Money In Making Money

The House Appropriations Committee learned a lot of new coin tricks in a hearing on the Treasury Department budget for fiscal 1952, Director of the Mint, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, for instance, explained very patiently to Rep. Alfred D. Seiminski (Dem) of New Jersey, why his suggestion of adding a seven-cent nickel and a fifteen-cent dime to U. S. coinage might not be so good. Such coins, she said, were not divisible into a dollar, would not work in vending machines, would require more compartments in cash drawers. Bankers, she said, were against it, the people wouldn't care for the idea, and she didn't think much of it herself. So, we'll probably have to get along with the same old two-and-a-half cent nickels and five-cent dimes.

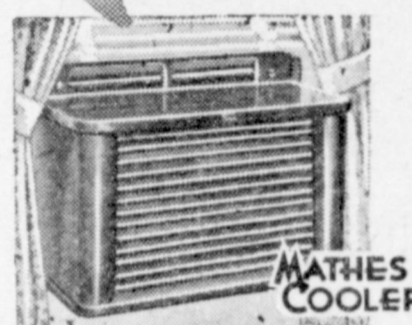

Leland Howard, assistant director of the mint, explained how the government is making money by making money. This is due to "seigniorage," which sounds like a polite name for high-jacking somehow. A pound of copper-zinc alloy will make 145 pennies, Mr. Howard said. The metal costs 24 cents, manufacturing costs 17 cents, so the profit is $1.45 less $41, or $1.04. But they do still better on nickels, he said. One pound of copper nickel alloy costing 31 cents is punched out at a cost of 27 cents into 90 nickels, or $4.50 worth, of which $3.92 is velvet.

It appeared also that those "bad luck" two-dollar bills are going to be with us for a long time. There are 33,742,133 presently in circulation, and more coming off the press at the rate of 16 million a year. Nobody asked why, or what the profit is on folding money, now that there's no gold back of it any more.

Not being a financial wizard, we can't help wondering why the Treasury Department needs that $693,900,000 appropriation. —U. S. Press Assn.

Making a Will Can Avoid Legal Snarls

College Station. — Too few people know what would happen to their property in case of death. Florence Low, home management specialist with the Service, says confusion can be avoided by thinking through plans for settlement of the property and disposing of it by a will.

The owner of any kind of real or personal property has three choices under Texas laws for transfer of property to heirs. He may let the estate be distributed to those specified by law, make a will or arrange for joint or single ownership of real or personal property. One procedure is to let property pass to heirs without making a will. This is called intestacy. Four things can happen to community property when no will is made.

If a man or woman dies leaving no children, all the property goes to the spouse. If a man or woman dies leaving a spouse and children, one half goes to the spouse and the remainder to the children. The law provides that the homestead shall not be divided among the heirs during the lifetime of the surviving husband or wife so long as the survivor elects to use or occupy it as a homestead. If a widow or widower is survived by children, the property is divided equally among them. If a single person, a widow or a widower dies without children, the property is divided equally between the parents. If only one parent is alive one half goes to him and one half goes to brothers and sisters, and so on down to the next of kin.

Another choice offered by law in the transfer of property to heirs is by a will. A will, to be valid in Texas, must be written and witnessed. To prevent possible delays and expenses in the settlement of estates, Mrs. Low says an attorney should be consulted before a will is made. The attorney can assist in the wording of the will so that it states plainly what disposition the testator desires for the property. A third option in disposing of property is through joint ownership. There are three methods of owning property jointly. Joint tenancy is when two or more persons own any kind of property as "joint tenants" on the deed or bill of sale transferring property. Secondly there is "tenancy by the entirety" which is possible only for a wife and husband and applies only to real property. Then there is tenancy in common where two or more persons hold any kind of property as "tenants in common." The deed or bill of sale carries all the names and makes no reference to survivorship. Each of the three joint ownership of property options carries its own method of dis-should be thoroughly understood.

Each property owner has a choice of any of the three methods of disposing of property.

Soil Enthusiasts

erals grows food deficient in those elements.

Another target for the doctor's criticism is the method of processing foods. He mentioned sugar, flour and rice as foods that are robbed of their best qualities by processing.

His theory of the secret of good health is to eat natural foods grown on fertile soil and eat them while they are fresh. In support of that view he stated that many people in Asia never have a full meal but live to a ripe old age. What little they get contains the elements they need, whereas we overeat but do not get what we need.

Jack Garrett, president of the Texas Bank and Trust Company of Dallas was master of ceremonies at the program which included awards of $50 savings bonds to the outstanding farmer in each of the five zones of the district and to the farmer doing the best job of rebuilding a worn out farm; $50 cash awards to four outstanding neighborhood groups; vocal numbers by the Gainesville Junior College septet; and acknowledgments by J. Earl Marlatt Buys Paper in Colorado

Earl Marlatt, foreman of the mechanical department of the Enterprise since last November, will start next week as new owner and editor of the Platte Valley News, a weekly newspaper published at Ovid, Colorado.

Earl spent his last day Wednesday as a member of the Enterprise staff. He is spending the balance of this week moving to his new home and business. He bought the Colorado paper, located about seven miles from his home town, Julesburg, while on vacation there during the latter part of April.

During the time he worked here Earl continued to live in Bowie where his wife was employed in the Bell Telephone office.

Alvin Hartman, a member of the Enterprise staff for five years, is the new foreman of the mechanical department. He is assisted by Weldon Lyons of Gainesville, who came here a week ago on completion of a year's training in the graphic arts department of Midwestern University, Wichita Falls. The graduates wore caps and gowns, the tiny flower girls wore formal white frocks and carried nosegays of red carnations, and the pages wore white suits.

supplying the whole foods and still keep them free of bugs and worms, or getting tree ripened fruits to the consumer while they are still edible and still have their precious vitamins.

Or does it mean that we'll just have to change back to the old fashioned way of living? Like growing more of our own fruits and vegetables or maybe setting up a family or community grist mill in order to get our flour fresh.

Dr. Nichols leaves little doubt that this food subject is food for serious thought.

The Carl Rows and daughter, Carla Ann, of Denton visited her parents, the E. Newbys during the weekend. Mrs. Newby accompanied them home for a several days visit.
