City Pays $10,000, Still Owes $13,000

Several weeks ago press and radio reports raised a hope that the government's socialistic business ventures might be converted to private enterprise. Though it's much too early to expect any definite action, it certainly is not too early for encouraging remarks from the administration. Let's hope the idea isn't fizzling without serious consideration.

As proposed by Defense Secretary Charles Wilson the plan appears to be just what the country needs. It serves the double purpose of eliminating some of the drain on the treasury and also providing additional sources of tax revenue . . . a chance that less of our tax money will be goofed off and the remaining tax burden can be spread a little thinner.

The City of Muenster has recovered from the financial strain caused by water system troubles two years ago. At a meeting Tuesday morning the council voted to pay off the $10,000 which had to be borrowed to meet the extra expense of overhauling the No. 2 well, drilling the No. 3 well, and installing additional water line.

After spending several thousand dollars trying to salvage the old well, which was a headache from the beginning, the city finally gave up and had the new one drilled. Water line extensions cost about $6,000.

City debts now are reduced to $13,000. A balance of $5,000 is still due on the recently purchased city hall building, and $8,000 is due on waterworks bonds which mature at the rate of $1,000 a year. Sewer bonds, which were issued later, have been paid off. The city had the option of paying those before maturity date if it wished.

Council Agrees on Same Tax, Same Pay

The change over from public to private ownership ought to be simple, according to the Wilson proposal. People could buy stock in the re-organized corporations simply by trading in their government bonds. And that in itself might be quite an inducement, because corporation dividends usually run higher than the interest on government bonds.

Another big consideration is the reduction of the national debt. The value of businesses that might be transferred is variously estimated from 10 to 25 billion dollars. Compared with the total debt that isn't a lot, but it would make a fine start toward working our way out of the red.

Figuring all the angles it appears to be a wonderful idea . . . converting tax-consuming to tax-paying enterprises besides wiping out a part of the debt. It ought to get lots of encouragement.

Taxes and salaries for the city of Muenster will remain unchanged for another year, members of the city council decided Tuesday.

The local tax is $1.50 per $100 worth of assessed valuation. Salaries are $75 a year for the mayor, $50 each for the treasurer and secretary, and $1 per meeting attended for each of the aldermen.

Muenster FFA Boys See Packing Plant

Years ago we heard a great deal of talk in support of the civil service system of hiring government employees. It was hailed as the wonderful method that eliminated the insecurity resulting from the spoils system.

Old timers can recall when there was a general upheaval of jobs with every change of administration. The winning party booted out former employees and distributed the jobs as far as they would go among faithful party workers. The result was that many an experienced and efficient man got bumped by someone whose only qualification was membership on the lucky side. Capable men got a raw deal and the government had the expense of breaking in green help or being stuck with incompetents.

Civil Service was organized to stop all that. It specified that an applicant must meet a certain standard to get his job, and after that he can hold it in spite of changes in administration. Everything was fine for a long time. But now we're finding that Civil Service can cause just as much headache as the spoils system.

Developments lately indicate that Civil Service may become one of the biggest obstacles to President Eisenhower's reform program. Top level appointees of the present administration find their efforts blocked by subordinates who do as they please but cannot be fired because they are protected by civil service regulations.

How's that for a predicament? Ike's landslide victory is generally interpreted as a public mandate to get rid of waste and inefficiency, but he has to depend for his help on the very groups which created the waste and inefficiency. The public repudiated the past administration, but he's stuck with thousands of employees who are more loyal to that administration than to his.

The absurdity is the original claim of wiping out the spoils system. As it appears now the Democratic party, in its pretended reform, has carried the spoils system to the greatest extreme in history. It has not only set a new high record in hiring party favorites, but has also fixed the law so that those favorites can not be kicked out. The jobs it dished out last a lifetime not just for the duration of the party's power.

If you are wondering why promised reforms are slow in coming, don't overlook the possibilities in this New Deal super duper spoils system. As you might know Ike's appointees can't move

News of Sick And Injured

Felix Becker underwent major surgery at Gainesville Sanitarium Tuesday morning after being a patient since Friday for observation and treatment. Members of his family who visited him Wednesday said he was recovering normally.

Mrs. August Friske of Gainesville, formerly of Muenster, was rushed to Gainesville Sanitarium Monday evening after suffering a serious heart attack. She was improving Wednesday, according to her daughter, Mrs. Joe Luke, who attended her bedside, and doctors believed she would be permitted to return to her home at 700 N. Throckmorton by Friday.

Mrs. Mollie Walterscheid continues as a patient at Gainesville Sanitarium, her condition remaining about the same with no marked improvement. She underwent major surgery Feb. 9. A trained nurse and one of her daughters remain in constant attendance at her bedside.

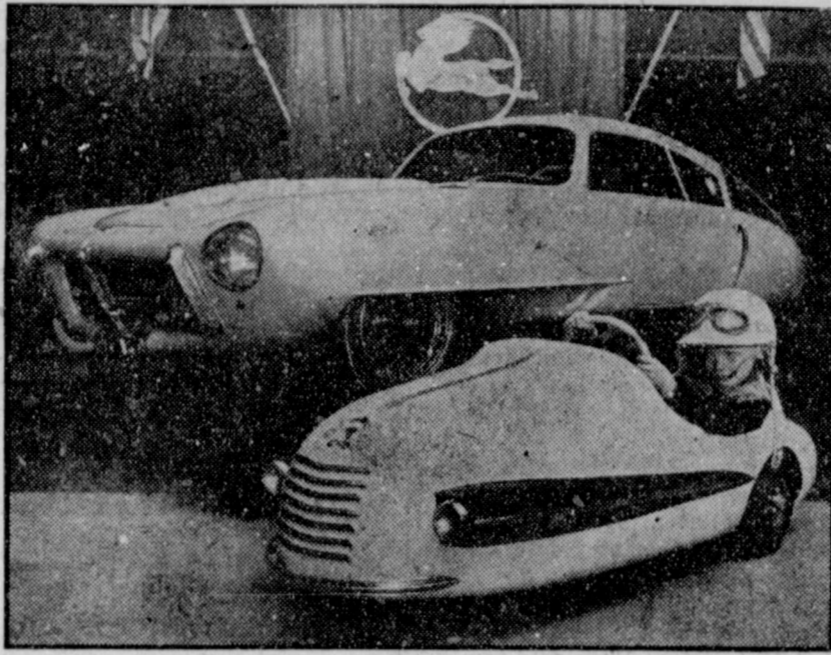

Dale Wilde is learning to walk without his braces now. His doctor has increased his time of exercise to four hours a day, spaced in 30 minute intervals. His mother, Mrs. Richard Wilde and his uncle, Harold Lutkenhaus took him to Dallas for a checkup Friday. Dale was stricken with polio last August.

Arnold Wimmer spent a week in bed and suffered considerable pain from a cut muscle in his leg. He sustained the injury in a fall during work at the J. P. Flusche residence where he was carpentering.

Randy Wimmer, young son of the Charlie Wimmers, spent several days of last week in bed after being hit in the eye with a rock while a group of youngsters were playing. The bed rest and medical treatment dissolved a blood clot back of the eye ball without surgery.

Funeral services and burial were held at Bryan Tuesday morning with Bishop L. J. Richter of Austin officiating.

Born in Bavaria, Msgr. Gleissner came to the United States in his youth. He was ordained in 1889. He reared eight orphaned boys, four preceding him in death.

Building And Improvement Notes

The latest new home for the community is Tom Sicking's, which got under way this week. It will be a 3-bedroom house with garage attached, asbestos roof and siding. Another new building job on the Sicking place is a cement tile silo of 180 ton capacity.

Also south of town, Mims Lewis is building a 3-room addition to his home and remodeling the old part of the house.

Herman Swirczynski is starting a 40 x 80 poultry house to get into a pedigreed egg production program for a large broiler concern. Like several other local producers he will follow the company's requirements and will be guaranteed a premium price for hatchery eggs.

J. W. Fleitman, working on the same program is enlarging his old poultry house. He built a new poultry house a short time ago.

An election has been ordered but the ticket is still blank for the Muenster Independent School District trustee election to be held on Saturday, April 4. With a 10 day deadline to qualify for a place on the ballot, candidates are taking their time about announcing. The school board officially ordered the election at its meeting Tuesday night.

Present board members whose terms expire this year are E. S. Lawson and Earl Robison.

Another position to be decided in the election is the Precinct 4 representative on the county school board. Since Ben Seyler's death Earl Robison has served in his place. Up to Wednesday noon no candidate has announced for the position.

Pee Wees Get Champ Trophy at Montague

At last the Muenster Public school has a championship basketball trophy for the 1953 season. Just before packing away their suits the Pee Wees, composed of 7th and 8th grade boys, took top honors at a junior invitation tournament in Montague.

In their preliminary game the youngsters had an easy time trimming Lone Star 33-8. Next they won the semifinal from Goldburg 14-11. In the champ final they triumphed 16-10 over the Prairie Valley lads. Saint Jo Juniors defeated Montague to win consolation honors.

The performance at Montague completes an exceptionally good season for the Pee Wees . . . 14 wins out of 15 games. Their only loss was the final in the Callisburg junior tourney to Rad Ware, a team they had defeated three times earlier in the season.

Another event to raise funds for band instruments was launched by the Muenster Lions Club Tuesday night.

It is a volley ball tournament, to be held in the gymnasium Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights of next week. Participating teams in the men and boys divisions are the four classes of high school boys, FFA, Lions Club, PTA men and VFW. Those in the ladies and girls division are the four classes of high school girls, FHA, Lions ladies, PTA ladies and VFW Auxiliary.

J. C. Embry has drawn up tournament brackets for the eight teams in each division, designating teams by numbers, and teams will draw numbers before the tourney to determine where they belong in the bracket.

One Race Assured In City Election, 5 Announce to Date

At least one race is assured in this year's city election. Mayor John J. Hoffman announced this week that he is a candidate for another term as mayor. The other contender for that position is Urban J. Endres, who announced his candidacy more than a week ago.

As regards the rest of the ticket, action is slower. Rudy Hellman and Herbert Meurer, whose terms expire this year, have not announced for re-election, but Albert Hess has announced for Hellman's position. Other candidates for aldermen to date are Ray Wilde and George Mollenkopf, both unopposed. Wilde has announced for the position being vacated by Urban Endres and Mollenkopf is running for the position left vacant by Ben Seyler's death. It has another year to go.

The election was officially ordered by the city council in its regular meeting Tuesday. The date is Tuesday, April 7, the place is the city hall, and the election judge is I. A. Schoech. Election clerks will be named later.

The council also warned that the deadline for candidates to get on the ticket is next Saturday, March 7. State law requires that candidates must file with the mayor at least 30 days before the election.

Mrs. Joe Tempel and daughter, Linda, and Mrs. Richard Grewing were in Dallas Thursday for Linda's dental appointment.

FIREMAN SOOTH MY CHILD—This might well have been the plea from the mother of two-year-old Dennis Dauper of Cleveland, O., to fireman Edward Kelley who answered her distress call. Dennis was screaming in fright after a convulsive attack. His mother was helpless but Fireman Kelley wrapped the shrieking boy in a soft blanket and rocked him until he stopped yelling.

RFC NOT NEEDED

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, an emergency lending bureau that rendered distinguished service to the nation during the depression years of the early thirties, is soon to be a memory if Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem) of Virginia and his backers have their way. The Byrd Bill, now in the Senate, is expected to receive Administration endorsement. The demise of this outworn scandal-scarred bureau will immediately save the public $14,000,000 in annual operating expense, and no one can estimate how much in losses on bad loans. It should be obvious that a bureau whose function is to lend money to ventures that the banks won't touch, is in a rather-perilous business. And, of late, its directors have been complaining that they couldn't find enough of these poor-risk loan applicants to keep all their branch offices busy. "The evil men do lives after them," wept Antony over the fallen Caesar, "the good is oft interred with their bones." And so it will probably be with the RFC. The moral here, we think, is that when a Government bureau survives its usefulness, we should spare the pulmotor. The best chance of such bodies to die honorably, is to expire punctually, not linger on until the very name is ludicrous.

FARMERS LIKE BENSON

It is with bursting pride in our fellow-Americans on the soil that we pass along to you the report of James Daniel, of the Scripps-Howard papers, that farmers favor the announced policies of the new Secretary of Agriculture 15 to 1.

Mr. Daniel, who was invited to read Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's mail, reports letters and telegrams from nearly every state, and says "There is no indication of any organized letter-writing campaign."

He quotes one writer as saying that it is "good to hear somebody talk to us as though we had some intelligence. We don't think the farmer has been riding a gravy train, as we hear said. But we are tired of having our intelligence insulted by the outlandish maneuvering of the Agriculture Department (and by politicians of both parties). We are 100 percent for any man who has the courage to tell us we are capable of standing on our own feet rather than merely surviving with Government aid, because we believe such a man will help us find the right road."

A cattleman wrote: "I hope you will not judge the livestock producers by our crybabies and chisellers. Beef went up 200 percent while the index of all wholesale prices went up 113 percent. Of course beef had to come down."

And Mr. Daniel observed that many letters were apparently inspired by attacks made on Mr. Benson by members of Congress with whom the writers were acquainted. One said: "Don't let Senator So-and-so take you in. I don't think he understands enough economics to grasp what you are driving at." And another, speaking of a different senator, said: "He is a true politician who puts party above principle. He approved the Government's spending $80,000,000 on a dam in our state when two companies were willing to build it." Meanwhile, in the Senate itself, the storm over the forthright Mr. Benson and his declared opposition to compulsory price supports, grew in intensity. Senator J. William Fulbright, (Dem) of Arkansas, charged the Secretary with indifference to the drop in farm prices. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, (Dem) of Minnesota, said Mr. Benson was "waging psychological warfare" on farmers, and derided his desire for flexible supports as having "more flex than ability". Majority Leader Robert A. Taft defended Benson's views, declared that supports should not be used to store up "great quantities of things we can not use". He assailed Fulbright "and other speakers" for having the "nerve" to hang the present farm situation on the Republicans "when, for two years prices have been steadily falling".

Senator George D. Aiken, (Rep) of Vermont, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, announced that Mr. Benson probably would be asked to testify within ten days, and that he would "win out in spite of these well-organized attacks on him". Apparently, American farmers think so too—and that makes it official.

Gangster Rushes Breathless Into Heaven

CONSIDER the case of Mike Machine Gun, gambler and gangster.

The trouble begins when Mike Machine Gun comes to his end. Comes the day when Mike Machine Gun suddenly crumples over the wheel of his cream-colored convertible, mowed down by the bullets of a rival mob. He is not killed outright. In the hospital he knows he is dying.

No matter how he had lived, he had always planned to die a Christian death. So he calls for the Church, makes his peace with God's representative, and then dies.

That evening the newspapers flare it—the story of this man about town who has suddenly left town for good: "Mike Machine Gun, gambler and gangster, died at Mercy Hospital early this afternoon. He made his peace with God and will be buried from the local church on Tuesday at ten."

PEOPLE READ THIS, and their eyebrows go up like awnings. There are deep sighs of scandal.

If this swaggering rake can lead a life like that, bowling down the Ten Commandments like ten-pins; walking arm in arm with the very devil all his days; and then hops on the train for Heaven as it is actually rolling out of the station—then what is the sense and where is the percentage in trying and striving to be good all your life?

IS THERE ANY man who dare say when another man may not return to God? Who will say that it is too late and that a sinner must stay on the dead-end street of despair?

That was the thought of Judas, not of Jesus. With Jesus, as long as there is life, there is hope. The sinner may be dyed-in-the-wool, but as long as he is not dead, he is a prospect for Paradise.

Didn't Jesus take the outstretched hand of a dying criminal, and draw him up to Heaven? We call him the Good Thief, but we forget that up until a few minutes before he died, he was a felon and a public enemy, dying the death of a murderer. He had sinned; he was sorry; and at his side the Savior whispers, "This very day thou shalt be with me in Paradise!"

LET'S BE CHARITABLE and let God judge death-bed conversions. But above all let's be wise and not bank on one for ourselves. It isn't easy when you are old and your muscles are stiff to do a somersault or a backflip—especially from sin to virtue. And if we could, how do we know we shall have the chance?

People who figure on coming back to God at the eleventh hour generally die at half-past ten! (—by Rev. Joseph E. Mantou.)

The large fields on rolling land very often must have grassed waterways along natural drains before the sloping land can be protected by a terrace system. A safe outlet for excess terrace water must be provided before terraces are constructed. These grassed waterways very often provide the best pasturage on the farm since they receive extra water and some fertility from surrounding fields. Many farmers are finding that it pays to make their waterways wide enough to make a good pasture strip and to overseed the Bermuda grass to vetch and sweet clovers for extra grazing. Cooperators of the Upper Elm-Red soil conservation district are keeping the district-owned springing machine busy planting Bermuda grass roots on field acres set aside for grassed waterways. These waterways will serve dual roles as terrace outlets and as pasture strips.

Ed Knauf has planted Bermuda grass roots on 10 acres of the farm he operates northeast of Muenster. The waterway will make it possible for him to terrace 180 acres. In the same area Eddie Schmitt completed a waterway by sodding three acres along a natural drain; and Tony Walterscheid has put grass roots on a waterway on the farm he operates for Danglmayr Brothers.

Frank Needham used the springing machine to resod a part of the waterways on the Andress Estate north of Muenster. Close to town, Alfons Koesler and sons have put Bermuda grass on a natural drain waterway. A gully serving as a terrace outlet was shaped and sodded to grass to stabilize it and prevent further erosion from terrace water.

Frank Schilling has put Bermuda grass roots on a waterway on his farm at Muenster and has also sodded grass on a waterway on the Tracht Brothers farm three miles south of Muenster which he operates.

J. W. Fleitman has sodded a six acre waterway on the C. J. Kaiser farm four miles east of Muenster. The waterway will serve as a terrace outlet and also as an improved pasture to provide extra grazing.

Here is an excellent example—three farmers, Tony Walterscheid, Frank Schilling and J. W. Fleitman, working to put grassed waterways on farms they only rent. They said their landlords are interested in saving the soil and using it properly to increase its production. It shows what can be done when tenant and landowner work together for their mutual benefit to protect and improve the soil.

INFLATION IS ROBBERY

Hundreds of years ago, despots debased their money by clipping coins or increasing the amount of alloy used in minting.

Nowadays governments do it more easily, by creating so much "credit money" or printing so many banknotes that the currency loses part of its value. That's inflation.

Our inflation has cut the 1952 dollar to 53 cents compared with its 1939 value—a larger clip than any medieval despot would have dared to make in a 13-year period.

What with inflation and Federal taxes, you and your wife and two children were as well off with $2,000 income in 1939 as with $4,189 in 1952; with $4,000 in 1939 as with $9,118 today. You'd have to make more than a million in 1952 to get for your family the equivalent of $100,000 in 1939.

Inflation robs you just as a medieval king robbed his people when he sat in his tower filing the edges of gold coins into dust for his private hoard.

"Many a woman never realizes what a poor loser she is until she goes on a diet."

fast when thousands of subordinates under each one of them defiantly go on with their old ways. It's bad when reforms depend mostly on people who refuse to reform.

But don't give up hope. It stands to reason that such shenanigans should not be allowed, and will not be allowed when the administration figures out a remedy. Some fine day, we hope not so long hence, some double crossers are likely to discover that the new administration is lowering the boom on them. Civil service is a lifetime job, so they say. But does that apply when a man doesn't do his work properly? Or does it provide that an unnecessary job must be perpetuated just to employ him?

A good guess is that reforms will be delayed a while, but they'll be snowballing eventually.

Orchids to Ike for his wise statement several weeks ago when asked whether he would consider a meeting with Stalin. He said that he would meet anybody halfway if he thought it would do any good, as long as it was in keeping with what Americans expect of their president . . . that he would want allies and friends to have full knowledge of what was discussed, because this business of defending freedom is a big job and not just one nation's business.

Perhaps the most significant point in the statement is his expressed objective of "defending freedom." Notice he did not mention peace. It was as much as saying that mere peace is not enough, and he does not care to get along with the Stalin mob until it respects human rights.

More power to him. A remark like that is one on which people everywhere can build their hopes . . . and confidently unite against communism. Considering that and other developments now getting under way, things are finally starting to look better.
