VOLUME XVII

MUENSTER, COOKE, COUNTY, TEXAS,

JULY 24, 1953

NO. 35

People who have been waiting for some of the economies promised by the Republican administration saw a bright sign this week in President Eisenhower's appointment of a commission to carry on the good work started a few years ago by the Hoover Commission. Probably one of the most encouraging aspects of that event is the re-appointment of former President Hoover as a member of the group.

Most of us remember the former Hoover report. It was packed with suggestions by which the federal government could eliminate duplication waste, lost motion and various other inefficiencies now costing taxpayers needless billions of dollars a year. Recommendations at that time, we recall fell on deaf ears. The old Washington crowd was reluctant to push any of its favorites off the political gravy train, and it was equally reluctant to accept the advice of one who rated as the grand old man of the opposition party. As a result the former economy commission's efforts were mostly in vain.

But signs are more favorable now. In the first place the persons to be eliminated by streamlining measures are not political pets of the present administration but hangers on from the old regime. Some might even be classed as obstructionists in the new program, the kind of people who would be regarded as good riddance by top level policy makers. Along with that, the present administration is more disposed to listen to Hoover. Incidentally, the appointments do not name Hoover as chairman, but it may be taken for granted that other members of the commission will agree to give him that position.

The possibilities for improvement as a result of the committee's recommendations are practically limitless. It's possible, for instance to cut out thousands of job duplications. It's possible to re-distribute millions of dollars worth of surplus supplies. It's possible to streamline cumbersome methods which waste time and money. It's possible to eliminate certain luxuries and conveniences which federal job holders enjoy at the taxpayer's expense.

We have no idea how far the government will go in cleaning out its present extravagant confusion but we hope it will be guided by the old maxim "he governs best who governs least."

One pet peeve that yours truly would like to see wiped out is the present system of collecting income tax by withholding and quarterly payments. Besides being a nuisance to every person who has to act as Uncle Sam's tax collector it requires a tremendously increased staff of internal revenue employees.

Imagine the complications in the present system. For instance, a man and wife have separate-withholding payments turned in quarterly and the tax office has to keep a file on each. That's eight transactions in the year followed by the final joint return accompanied either by final payment or a claim for refund. The joint return is examined, then checked against both files to see that all the tax is accounted for. In most cases a refund is due, requiring the additional clerical red tape of sending a check. How much simpler to just examine the final return, accept the money and settle the year's tax account in one operation. Why must we pay extra taxes to perpetuate a nuisance?

According to a radio report Monday night we have another encouraging sign in our country's stiffening policy as regards a Korean peace treaty. The report is that America will insist on a means of permitting Koreans to unite and choose their own form of government, that we will not resume trade with Chinese communists, that we will not agree to Red China's admission to the UN, and, in the event that the communists choose to continue the war or fail to abide by the armistice agreements, we definitely will not fight under the handicaps we have accepted up to now. If the war continues we'll be in there to win, blasting the enemy wherever we find him.

1.98 Rain Improves Moisture Situation In Muenster Area

The moisture situation here continues to improve slowly. Rains the past Thursday and Sunday added another 1.98 inch bringing the July total to date, in the vicinity of the city, to 3.14.

Areas south of town are even more fortunate. Reports from farmers are that many had more than 2 inches Sunday and some had as much as 3.

Thursday's rain came shortly after noon along with an electrical storm that caused considerable minor damage in the city and killed 2 of Clem Hofbauer's cows a mile south of town. In town there were reports of light globes being blown out and about 30 telephones being knocked out.

The phone trouble resulted from lightning on the cable serving the east end of town. The heat fused wires together and also damaged the cable so that rain got in and caused more shorts. All of the troubles were corrected by Saturday morning, except two phones that were not reported until Saturday. The rain Thursday amounted to .41.

Sunday's rain started about 7 a.m. and lasted most of the morning.

The year's rainfall to date now measures 16.15, according to Steve Moser's U. S. Weather Bureau record.

NEWS OF SICK AND INJURED

Jane Hess, 5, underwent major surgery Monday at Baylor Hospital in Dallas and will be there at least 10 days. She would like to receive mail from her friends at home. The room number is 469. Mrs. Hess is staying at her daughter's bedside.

Henry Sprengel, employee at the Wilde Garage, sustained a broken left foot Thursday morning when a jack slipped and dropped the car of his foot. The injury was placed in a cast at the local clinic.

Mrs. Charles Cler has been dismissed from Gainesville Sanitarium following a major operation and is convalescing at her home.

Henry Stelzer is a patient at the MKT Hospital in Denison where he is recovering satisfactorily from major surgery. His wife was at his bedside until Friday.

Miss Anselma Kathman underwent plastic surgery recently at Dallas and is making a splendid recovery at home. She still has another operation to undergo before the surgery is finished.

Johnny Rohmer, still a patient at Hendricks Hospital in Abilene suffering from an eye injury, was improved Saturday after several days that caused anxiety for himself and his family. Inflammation was threatening removal of his right eye from which a piece of steel was removed on July 8. Specialists now believe that threat is past. Visiting him during the weekend were the Joe Fettes, the Harry Ottos, Mrs. Joe H. Walterscheid, Emma Lou Gehrig and Archie Hess. The J. M. Wimmers of Hamlin stopped in to see him Sunday, and Mrs. Henry Fette and Jerry Fette were there Saturday enroute to Cheyenne, Wyo.

Elmer Fette was in Wichita Falls Monday for a doctor's check of his broken foot, which is still in a cast. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Herman Fette, went to Wichita with him.

R. H. Sharp, route 3, received a painful gash on a finger Tuesday in an accident on an oil lease. Four stitches were necessary to close the wound.

Harold Dieter received medical care at M&S Hospital during the week.

Don Hoskins of Myra was a medical patient at Gainesville Sanitarium this week.

Lee Morris, route 3, was dismissed from Gainesville Sanitarium Sunday following surgery.

Meeting to Discuss Graded Egg Market

Farmers interested in developing a local graded egg market will have an opportunity next Tuesday night to organize for participation in a program now being set up on a county wide basis.

The meeting, to be conducted by County Agent Gerald York will be held in the school auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock.

A special feature of the meeting will be a talk by W. J. Moore, poultry specialist of the A & M Extension Service. He will discuss poultry management in general and all poultry raisers, whether or not they are interested in the graded egg program, are invited to attend.

The purpose of the program is to secure a better market for eggs. Premiums vary at different times of the year for an annual average of about 5 cents a dozen.

York said that as many who wish are welcome to join the program, that the market now waiting is considerably larger than the county can supply. He also mentioned that this program has no relation to the hatching egg program recently started here and does not compete with it in any way.

Embry Feed and Supply store of Gainesville has agreed to serve as a county collection station to handle the eggs and efforts are under way now to establish collection sub-stations in several towns of the county. The program is due to start on October 1.

To qualify for the premium egg prices poultrymen will be expected to follow certain recommendations on handling. Eggs must be gathered frequently, packed properly and kept cool. They must also be clean and uniform in size, the small eggs being sold separately from top grade eggs.

City Count Gains 7 As 4 Families Move

Muenster has gained 12 new residents with the arrival of three families who are making their homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Williamson and three children, formerly of Kerrville, arrived Monday and are at home in the house vacated by Bill Drozd. Williamson is associated with the Soil Conservation Service as range management assistant.

The Paul Taylors and two children and the Bill Fords and baby are occupying apartments at Frank Yosten's. Both families came here from Dallas, and Taylor and Ford both work at the Gainesville air base.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Bill Drozd and three children left Muenster to live in Gainesville.

"It isn't enough for people to be proud of the place they live in. They have to live so the place will be proud of them."

22 Parish Members Go to San Antonio For 3 Conventions

A delegation of 22 members of Sacred Heart parish, led by Rev. Louis Deuster, represented Muenster at the 98th annual convention of the Catholic Central Verein of America, the 37th annual convention of the National Catholic Women's Union, and the 54th annual convention of the Catholic State League of Texas held jointly in San Antonio July 18-22.

All sessions of the Central Verein and Women's Union were held in the Gunter Hotel, while meetings of the State League and its affiliates were held in St. Joseph's Hall, except on Sunday when they were held in the Gunter.

Among outstanding speakers on the program that provided a long list of church dignitaries, clergy and laity were Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, archbishop of San Antonio, Most Rev. Thomas K. Gorman of Dallas, Most Rev. Mariano S. Garriga of Corpus Christi, Rev. Albert Schreiber of Fort Worth and Joseph Matt of St. Paul, Minn.

J. W. Hess was appointed state director of the Rural Life Program, a new venture of the League being organized.

Included in the Muenster group in addition to Father Louis and Mr. Hess were John Rohmer, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Luke, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herr and 14 young people, mostly high school boys and girls.

Small Group Hears Talk on Organizing Farm Bureau Here

At its first Muenster meeting, held Tuesday night at the public school, the Farm Bureau made a slow start at organizing a local unit. Only a dozen farmers reported for the meeting and few of those indicated a willingness to join in the near future.

The meeting was conducted by Melvin Dansby of Bowie, field representative of the organization. He explained the bureau's objectives and methods and invited prospective members to attend a dinner and meeting next Monday night in Gainesville to organize the county farm bureau.

Dansby pointed out that the Farm Bureau is an organization of farmers and men interested in agriculture for the purpose of looking after the farmer's welfare. It operates on four levels, the local, the county, the state and the national. On the latter two it strives to influence legislation and administrative policies in favor of the farmer's interest.

In addition to its services at state and national capitols the bureau operates like any other organization on a local level taking up projects which the members believe will serve their welfare. It also maintains an insurance division offering policies on hospitalization, life, liability and fire. It is affiliated with the Blue Cross hospitalization plan and has a profit sharing arrangement on other lines of insurance.

The annual fee for family membership is $10.

FFA Plans Outing And Picks Delegates

Members of the Muenster FFA chapter in a special meeting Monday night elected Lawrence Dankesreiter and Donny Whitt as their delegates to the state FFA convention and also decided on Friday and Saturday of next week for their annual outing at the FFA camp at Lake Texoma.

Dankesreiter and Whitt and Vocational Ag Instructor Ralph Maglaughlin left here early Wednesday morning to attend the FFA convention at Fort Worth. They are due home Friday night.

The camp the boys will attend next week is that built by Area 5 FFA instructors and boys for use of all members in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolf and his mother, Mrs. Henry Wolf, left Monday to visit their brother and son, Ed Wolf, at McKinney. Sandra Kay and Barbara Hope Wolf are visiting their cousin, Nancy Bernauer at Gainesville, and Danny is staying with his cousin, James Wolf, while their parents are away.

REV. PATRICK HANNON, arrived in Muenster last week to assume his new duties as assistant pastor of Sacred Heart church.

Local Wildflowers On Display at Bank

A special display now decorating the bank lobby is an exhibit of dried wild flowers gathered and processed by Mrs. Lee Toothaker.

The collection includes 78 species of wild flowers, all native to this area, pressed flat and retaining to a remarkable degree the original colors of the flowers. The specimens are attached to a white cardboard background, and almost all are identified by their proper names.

The exhibit when first shown at this year's flower show lacked quite a number of identifications. Since then most of the missing names were added by Edward L. Harberson of Cuero, an authority on wild flowers.

MRS. EMBRY'S MOTHER DIES

The J. C. Embrys were in Denton Monday attending the funeral of her mother, Mrs. F. M. Craddock, 59, who passed away last Saturday after three weeks of critical illness. During almost all of that three weeks Mrs. Embry was in Denton helping take care of her mother.

Weather Prevents Water Shortage as Pump Breaks Down

Muenster got the benefit of a lucky coincidence during the past weekend when its water supply ran low at the same time its demand ran low.

The pump on the No. 2 well, north of town, failed early Thursday. Cool weather and rain that same day and the next cut water consumption to a minimum. Nevertheless the city's No. 1 well was not able to keep up with the demand. Fortunately the supply tank beside the idle pump was almost full when the pump went out and the reserve, added to the other well's output, was enough to serve the town. By the time the No. 2 well was back in use, at 3 p.m. Saturday, the reserve was almost gone and Muenster was bordering on a water emergency. Had the normally dry hot weather prevailed during that time, Steve Moser said, the city would have had a few days of water rationing.

The water shortage came at just the right time to emphasize the need of the new water well now nearing completion. When it is put to use the city will have an abundance of water at all times, unless by a rare coincidence two wells happen to fail at the same time.

Steve Moser disclosed Wednesday that the well is ready, awaiting installation of the pump which was ordered Saturday but had not arrived up to Wednesday. He also said that work was due to start immediately on laying a four inch line from the well to the city reservoir.

The well, drilled for oil and abandoned as a dry hole, was completed for water production by Grewing Brothers. They set seven inch pipe and perforated 300 one half inch holes between the 410 and 470 levels and cleaned out the well. Tests up to now indicate that it may turn out to be the city's best well.

The pump to be installed is the submerged motor type, eliminating the long shaft that has been a constant source of trouble on the other two wells. Its rated capacity is 110 gallons per minute which is estimated as being very near the volume that the water sand can supply.

Ed Endres Attends Firemen Convention

Ed Endres is representing the Muenster Volunteer Fire Department at the 24th annual Firemen's Training School at A&M College this week. Firemen, fire marshalls and instructors from Texas and several other states are learning the latest methods of fire fighting along with related subjects and will take this knowledge with them to their home towns. The City of Muenster pays expenses each year for a fireman attending the school.

Storm Near Dallas Puts City in Dark

A lightning flash during an electrical storm northeast of Dallas was the cause of the power failure between 10:14 and 10:37 here Tuesday night.

C. B. Stringer, TP&L manager at Gainesville, disclosed Wednesday morning that lightning knocked out the high voltage line which serves Muenster, Gainesville, Sherman and several other towns of North Texas.

Workmen at Gainesville attempted to meet the local emergency by starting their own power plant, but power came back just as they were getting their equipment in motion.

600,000 4-H'ers Say "Let's Help Correct Safety Hazards"

Chicago—(Special)—The largest volunteer army ever organized for a peaceful mission is now "invading" farms and rural communities throughout the Nation. It consists of more than 600,000 4-H Club boys and girls whose objective is to show rural folk how to prevent accidents and fires which result in 14,000 deaths and 1 1/4 million injuries among farm people, as well as destruction of millions of dollars' worth of buildings and equipment annually.

Falls account for 36 percent of all fatal accidents in farm homes and 19 percent outside. More than 50 percent of all fatal accidents in working with farm machinery involve tractors, and overturning accounts for more than half of the tractor accident fatalities.

Safety experts give considerable credit to the contributions made by 4-H'ers for the reduction of one-fifth in the number of fatal accidents to farm people in 1951—the last year for which estimates are available—from the estimated annual rate in 1941, the first year of the National Farm Safety Week, which will be observed this year July 19-25.

Illustrative of the 4-H'ers do "approach" to the accident problem, a Tennessee club girl reported that she picked up broken glass, rusty nails protruding from boards, and other sharp articles in the farm lot; helped her father and brother become safety conscious in working with farm machinery; had a ladder with two broken rungs repaired; persuaded her mother to use a step-ladder in reaching high places in the house, and to always wipe up grease or water immediately if it is spilled on the floor.

A Texas 4-H boy reports that their farm tractor often was filled with gasoline to overflowing when the engine was warm. He called this unsafe practice to the attention of his father and brother and now the tractor is filled correctly. His small brothers frequently asked to ride on the tractor, but this safety enthusiast taught them to understand how hazardous it was to hitchhike a ride on a tractor.

Similar reports of the 4-H'ers participating in the National 4-H Safety program are legion. Instead of using "don't" admonitions, expressions such as "Let's Correct This Hazard" prevail.

Outstanding 4-H records of achievement in safety are rewarded with awards provided by General Motors for the ninth consecutive year. They include sterling silver medals for the blue award group in each qualifying county, and an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November for the state winner. Six state winners will be chosen to receive a national award, which is a $300 college scholarship. A handsome plaque, appropriately embossed, will be awarded to the county reporting the most outstanding county-wide 4-H safety program.

The National 4-H Safety program is conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

John Bayer Honored On 82nd Birthday

The 82nd birthday of John Bayer provided the occasion for a happy family reunion Thursday night, July 16, in the parish hall. His children, grandchildren and great grandchildren gathered for a supper and social evening in his honor.

Everyone brought gifts for Mr. Bayer and covered dishes for the meal. About 100 persons were present.

Mr. Bayer is one of the few remaining pioneer residents of the community. He has lived here continuously for 61 years. A native of Michigan, he was reared in Carroll, Iowa, and came to Muenster from there. He married Miss Apollonia Fisher here. She passed away 21 years ago.

Mr. Bayer engaged in farming and the cattle business until about six years ago when he retired from active work and moved to town to live in a new home he had built on Main Street near the church. He lives alone and is still active about his home, enjoys spending part of his time, in season, tending a vegetable garden, lawn and shrubbery, and drives his own car. Of a friendly, good humored nature, and knowing practically everyone in the community, he enjoys talking and visiting with oldsters and youngsters alike.

He has five sons and two daughters: Frank, George, Martin and Johnny Bayer, Mrs. Victor Hartman and Mrs. Norbert Klement, all of Muenster, and Al Bayer of Gainesville; 49 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren. A sister and three brothers still live in Iowa and for many years he has paid them an annual summer visit. The sister, Mrs. Theresia Neuberger lives in Council Bluffs, and George, Frank and Adam Bayer live in Willey.

Attending the party from out of town were the Al Bayers and family of Gainesville, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Tompkins and daughters of Denton and the Teddy Gremmings of Fort Worth.

Willard and Georgia Ann Hartman, included in the group that attended the State Convention in San Antonio, went to Three Rivers Monday night for a visit with their uncle and family, the Leo Hartmans.

SOUL AND BODY

They were telling stories on a now retired Texas business leader. Long associated with him was a faithful Negro who acted as cook, body servant and fishing companion.

Feeling reminiscent late one afternoon as a small group sat around a fishing camp, the industrialist said: "Sam, we've been together a long time, haven't we?"

"Yessir, Mr. Tom, we sure has." "We've had some hard times and some good times along the road, haven't we, Sam?"

"Yessir, Mr. Tom, you sure is right."

"And, Sam," continued the business leader, "we are getting somewhere near the end. I sort of thought it would be nice if we could go together. What would you think of that?"

"Well, Mr. Tom, I've always told you the truf. I'd sort of hoped I could go up there a little ahead of you and get in a couple of weeks' rest."

President Grover Cleveland's first name was Stephen.

Dennis, recent graduate of the government weather observers school at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., was a guest speaker at the regular safety meeting of Kewanee Oil company employees at Bulcher. He was accompanied by his father, Weldon Dennis of Saint Jo, and was introduced by L. L. Pickett, chairman of the meeting.

The Saint Jo High school graduate and former Panther athlete explained in technical details various cloud formations which will or will not produce rain, snow, storm and other types of weather. He told of the extensive training he received at the school and how this knowledge is used for the protection of air force planes.

The American Way

By George Peck
A VOICE FROM THE PAST

On August 16, 1809, (144 years ago), there appeared an editorial in the Hartford (Conn.) Courant, which it would be well for every present-day American to read. World War II ended around eight years ago, the Korean "police action" is approaching the truce stage and we have had a new administration at Washington since January of this year. But, many an unnecessary bureau and tens of thousands of costly and useless bureaucrats linger on to plague us poor, oppressed taxpayers.

The Eisenhower administration is putting forth its best efforts to uproot these parasites—has succeeded in the face of great obstacles in "dehorsing" many of them—but has found that while it is easy to establish a bureau, it's awfully hard to abolish one. Now, please read what the discerning editor of the Hartford Courant wrote 144 years ago:

"A wise government is the people's guard and it takes effectual care that there should be none to molest or annoy, none to interrupt them in their lawful callings and pursuits. Thus guarded there is full scope and also sufficient encouragement for industry and enterprise. Each individual employs himself as he finds it most for his own advantage, and each in advancing his own interest by honest industry, adds to the common stock."

Doesn't sound much like New-dealism or Fairdealism does it? But, let's continue with the 1809 editorial:

"A nation resembles a swarm of bees. The bees must be well-hived, protected from external and internal annoyance and injury, and left free as air to make their combs, construct their cells, and labor in hive or field according to their own liking. Thus protected and thus free, they seldom fail to treasure up honey."

"But who makes the honey? Not the guarder of the hive but the bees themselves. So civil government (by government is meant the administration of government) however so wise and vigilant is not the direct and efficient cause of a nation's wealth, which is in fact, produced by the Great Swarm, the People."

"On the other hand, should the keeper of the bees undertake to dabble in their private concerns, interrupt their labor or divert their wonted courses of enterprise into new channels—should he foolishly do this he would find little or no honey in the hive at the end of the year. And so again, whenever government is so imprudent as to obstruct or divert the enterprise and industry of the people by hampering them with unnecessary regulation, a decay of public prosperity follows as a natural consequence."

"Some men, however, seem to think that commercial industry and enterprise should come under the particular direction of government. But why? On the one hand, there are but few among the rulers and legislators of nations who possess extensive information in mercantile matters; whilst on the other, there are no people that know better how to manage their own concerns than experienced merchants. They best know how, when and where to put their property afloat; they can best calculate the risks and all the chances of loss or gain. It belongs to government to protect commerce, to guard it by a few general regulations and there leave it. The skill of the merchant will do the rest."

"All history testifies that trade flourishes most where it is most free, and that it soon leaves the nation that shackles it."

It is 144 years since the long-departed editor of the Courant penned that editorial. Much water has flown over the dam since then, but the fundamentals are exactly the same today. Today as then, government should confine its activities solely to protecting industry and trade—it should not direct, control, obstruct or enter into competition with private entrepreneurs. Consider the bee!

WHY DOLLARS

Too many of our home dollars succumb to the "glitter and glare" of big city temptation—and we let them go when we should show them how well they can do at home.

Unnecessary "big city buying" does harm to local merchants; it weakens our community. Let us make ourselves familiar with the quality and prices of the goods obtainable on home shelves before we permit our home-earned dollars to leave home.

THAT'S WHY

A woman in a grocery store was shocked by the high price of apples. "They're high all right, ma'am," said the clerk. "But that's because they're so scarce."

"Why," protested the woman "just this morning I read in the paper that there was such a bumper crop of apples that they're rotting on the trees."

"That's just it, ma'am," the clerk replied. "That's why they're scarce. It doesn't pay to pick them."

FREE AT LAST—Father Doquet, one of 14 Catholic priests recently freed by the Communist Viet Minh in northern Indo-China, awaits repatriation to his home in Metz, France. Also released with the priests, who were held in captivity for seven years, were four Catholic nuns.

Soil Conservation Notes

Recent dry weather forced a lull in the fight to halt soil erosion, but land owners co-operating with the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District program realized that the battle must go on until destructive soil losses are halted. They took advantage of the lull to wheel up some heavy artillery. The big guns in this case were field terraces to stop soil losses on sloping field. Terracing is one of man's oldest weapons in his battle to keep topsoil at home and when used with other soil saving practices in a complete coordinated plan to protect and improve the soil, terraces are a very effective weapon. They shorten the slope and make excess water walk, not run, off the field. Slow moving water is robbed of its soil carrying powers and more of it soaks into the soil.

Matt Muller is constructing 4100 feet of terraces on his farm south of Myra. Construction will begin soon on 2500 feet of channel type terraces on the farm operated by Oscar Walter east of Muenster. Nearly a mile of terraces have just been completed on the Henry Weisman farm two miles northwest of Muenster. The terraces on all these farms will outlet onto bermudagrass waterways that were put in to provide a safe outlet so that terraces could be built.

John and Joe Kleiss are building 2000 feet of terraces on their farm west of Muenster. They are using a disc plow and the island method of terrace construction to build terraces outletting onto a bermudagrass waterway that was planted three years ago.

An earthen tank for livestock water has just been completed on the J. W. Sicking farm south of Myra. The pond will provide stock water so that grazing can be rotated and more evenly distributed over pastures and temporary field pastures.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION

Money in circulation in the United States passed the 30 billion mark for the first time in November of last year. This indicates that many households use currency when they might well be expected to keep bank accounts. In the halcyon days of 1929, hand-to-hand or pocket money with which all business was conducted was less than 5 billion dollars.

TP&L Raises Rate To Compensate for Higher Gas Prices

Due to an increase in the cost of natural gas used as fuel for generation of electricity, Texas Power & Light Company has found it necessary to apply the fuel clause adjustment in its rates, which will just equal the added cost to the Company, it was announced today by district manager for the Company.

"The resulting initial increase in electric rates will be too small to be noticeable on the average bill for residential service," Mr. Stringer said. "Actually this increase will add approximately one penny to the average residential bill for electric service for August."

The increase brought about by application of the fuel adjustment clause is designed to produce only enough revenue to cover the actual increase to the Company of the cost of the fuel used to generate electricity, Mr. Stringer pointed out. Its application is not expected to result in any profit to Texas Power & Light Company.

Application of the fuel clause adjustments have already been made by most of the major power companies of the Southwest. Texas Power & Light Company's fuel costs have been relatively stable for several years, but gas costs have increased recently.

7 Rules to Observe For Driving Safety

1. Check your car. Look for defective brakes, missing headlights or taillights, punctures and blowouts.
2. Check your own condition. Don't drive when too fatigued, after drinking or when emotionally upset. Remember also that some medicines, including some antihistamines, antibiotics and car-sickness remedies may produce temporary drowsiness.
3. Allow for driving conditions. Wet, snowy and icy roads and fog account for hundreds of thousands of accidents each year. Accidents are more liable to happen during the hours of heaviest traffic, from 4 to 6 p.m., and on Saturdays and Sundays.
4. Watch the road markings.
5. Pay attention. Don't allow yourself to be distracted even for a moment. Keep your hands on the wheel and be attentive at all times.
6. Obey the laws. Don't get into the habit of even minor violations. Learn to derive pride and fun out of driving carefully.
7. Don't Speed. Exceeding the speed limit is a factor in at least a third of all fatal accidents.
