Signs from Central America bring back the well known observation that people who refuse to learn from the mistakes of history are doomed to repeat them. It's happening now in El Salvador as it happened in Nicaragua and Cuba.

Actually there were two stages of mistakes in each of those countries. Batista started it in Cuba with a high living, autocratic class wallowing in luxury and favoritism while the poorer class was suffering with hunger, disease and misery. The revolution that followed was understandable. Likewise communist exploitation of the situation was understandable. By supporting the revolutionaries they become heroes, defenders of the downtrodden, with strong possibility to take over when the government was overthrown.

There were daily emphatic denials of Castro's ties with Communism. Cuban peasants flocked to him. The Church praised his claim of restoring social justice. US sympathies turned to Castro's side. And when the big conflict ended, with Castro dictatorship firmly established, he made the shocking statement. "Surprise, he was a communist all the time and he's just become a Soviet satellite." The people, the Church, and the US had a rude awakening and have since seen Cuba in decay. Conditions have become far worse than under Batista.

Nicaragua is another horrible example. The feudal system flourished with extremes of wealth and poverty. The situation was ripe again for the miserable ones to rise in rebellion against Somoza, and the opportunity was ripe again for the Reds, led by Sandanista, to enter the conflict with lip service to social justice. Like Castro, they won the favor of the Church and the US. They took over as they did in Cuba and then arrogantly informed all concerned that they were red all along.

So, now we come to Salvador with a similar contrast of wealth and misery. But there was a difference in that government saw the handwriting on the wall and enacted land reforms. Huge land holdings were divided and conditions improved immensely. However old sores continued to fester and old envies were sharpened by Reds, intent on the wreckage of another country.

A police state, trying to avoid downfall, is challenged by the same schemers who preach social justice while pursuing conquest. They too are succeeding at the same old communist lie. They have established themselves as heroes to many people of the Church and our government. They are concentrating now in preventing US help to the legitimate government. They will proclaim their allegiance to Moscow if and when they succeed in taking over the country.

Really, it is an unfortunate fact of history that people who fail to learn by history's mistakes are doomed to repeat them. The feudal barons of Central America should have realized that their selfishness was leading them to disaster. All could have improved conditions with reforms. Likewise the people and churchmen and US diplomats made a terrible mistake in allowing themselves to be taken in by red deceit. All have to go through the same mistakes because they did not learn before.

This time we could say there is a difference. President Reagan recognizes the Salvador conflict as another Red attempt to take over. His idea is to prevent the

Deacon Jerry Klement talks at KC event

Deacon Jerry Klement, who left the community after graduating from Muenster High in 1955, delighted some 200 old and new friends Sunday with an interesting talk about his calling to the deaconate of the Catholic Church.

The occasion was a communion breakfast sponsored by the Muenster Knights of Columbus in the KC Hall following the 9 a.m. Mass in Sacred Heart Church, at which he assisted with the liturgy.

He said that the rank of deacon was frequently held in the early church, especially when priests were less numerous and deacons were welcome as helpers in clerical duties. In these times the number is increasing, he said, but the purpose is less that of a priest's assistant than a personal desire to identify with activity that is closer to God. He added that in the course of changes women, too, can be expected to become deacons, and possibly priests...but not likely in our lifetime.

The speaker said his interest in the deaconate started when he felt a desire to serve God in a more meaningful way than average lay activity in a parish. He inquired about reaching his goal and found himself with a four-fold program. The first was piety, a conscious effort to keep in communication with God. Next was study, especially of the scripture, to learn more about God and His works and His people. Also Christian Action, bringing others nearer to Christ by word and example. And finally by cultivating a sense of love and tolerance and helpfulness to others.

Klement said a deacon is an ordained minister, qualified to proclaim the word of God, to assist with church liturgy, to officiate at a baptism, a marriage, or a funeral and to administer the last rites. In addition he may carry out administrative and organizational work for a parish or diocese. He is very much involved in God's work but remains an average

City expects early end to delay on new well connection

Looking forward to next summer and a possible heavy demand on the local water system, the city council decided at Monday's meeting that its No. 6 water well will be in service. The well was finished early last year but pump and line installation were delayed until right of way easement could be obtained.

Chuck Bartush, city attorney, said that negotiation and condemnation will probably be used to get the clearance and in either case the city can start soon in

Psalm 62:1-2

I wait patiently for God to save me; I depend on him alone. He alone protects and saves me; he is my defender, and I shall never be defeated.

City OKs additional park sanitation facilities

Additional permanent sanitation facilities will be available at Germanfest this year as a result of action at the city council meeting Monday night. The council approved an offer by the Chamber of Commerce to build and finance the structure rather than return to the use of portable toilets.

The subject brought out considerable objection by people who disapproved of a building that is not needed for all but three days of the year. They also contended that the building would attract highway travelers and laying pipe from the well to the storage tank. The time is ample, he said, to have the new well on the line before hot weather arrives.

The council also gave second reading approval on two proposals and a third reading approval on another proposal. Final action is delayed another month on the rate hike for TV cable service from $6 to $8 per month, and a request from Cooke County Electric Co-op for a rate change to include the purchase power clause. A final approval, following third reading, authorizes an ordinance allowing the library to collect penalties on overdue books.

Other approval by the city council concerned compensation of elected officials. They decided to continue with $90 a year for the mayor and $4 per meeting for the councilmen.

others who might be inclined to vandalize when they found the doors locked. On the other hand chamber spokesmen said that proper accommodations and the better appearance is an asset to Germanfest and also that the chamber will finance it. The location is north of the pavilion just across the park driveway.

Another city park consideration is the drainage ditch at the east end. Water flowing through at every rain creates a mud problem

Over 400 attend open house observing Public Schools Week

A well attended open house featuring an outstanding arts and crafts show Tuesday night at Muenster Public School was the main event in Muenster's observance of Public Schools Week.

Alfordean Winn, principal, said some 300 names were listed on guest books in high school and elementary departments and as many as 100 others did not bother to register. Visiting the classrooms they enjoyed the over-all cheerful atmosphere imparted by last summer's fix-up and paint-up program. In addition they saw classroom facilities, teacher aids and specimens of student work. FHA members served punch and cookies in the homemaking department.

Comment on the arts and crafts show were similar to those of previous years. "It keeps getting better" with many outstanding displays of high quality workmanship. An indication of the quality was the award of 175 blue ribbons. Kathy Vogel, chairman, said they were judged on the basis of merit rather than competition, and there were many cases of the first place awards for several entries of the same category. By this method every one of the 534 entries received an award. The distribution, along with the 175 blues, was 135 reds, 131 whites and 93 greens (honorable mention).

Next blood drive scheduled March 17

The next blood collection for the Muenster community is scheduled for Wednesday, March 17, with arrival of the bloodmobile from the Red Cross regional blood center of Wichita Falls. Facilities will be set up as usual from 2 to 7 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus hall.

The blood collection is held three times a year in connection with the regional program which is regarded as a special asset to patients of Muenster Hospital and to residents of the hospital district who get transfusions in other hospitals. In transfusions no charge is made for the blood because it is donated. The actual charge is for related services and amount to about half as much as when commercial blood is used. Each community in its turn provides blood for the entire area.

Bayer asks for re-election

Robert Bayer, commissioner of Precinct 4 of Cooke County, has authorized the Enterprise to announce that he is a candidate for re-election. He will be unopposed on the Democratic Primary ballot of May 4.

His formal statement to precinct voters will appear in a later issue of the Enterprise.

for a distance of about 150 feet. An open concrete flume was suggested as a way to move the water but it would leave little surface area for other use. An alternate proposal was to install underground tile leaving the surface more useful. The idea was shelved for continued discussion at the next meeting.

Regarding TP&L's request for a rate hike averaging 15.17%, the council chose to suspend action for 120 days or until the Public Utilities Commission hands down a decision.

In addition, the blue ribbon entries were judged competitively to determine the best of show in 19 classes of six categories. Those receiving the treasured pink ribbons and categories of entry were as follows.

Crafts: Jennifer Carroll, Julie Hess, Doug Evans and Darrell Reiter.

Arrangements: John

Fleitman and Carrie Russell. Needlework: Melissa Bayer, Nancy Fleitman, Deann Walterscheid and Lisa Robison.

Weaving: Laurie Schmitz and Brian Hess

Posters: Jeannine Walterscheid, Darrell Mullins, Amy Dankesreiter and Eric Dankesreiter.

Industrial arts: Steve Trubenbach (welding), Mike Walterscheid and Anita Meurer (woodwork)

Another event in the observance of Public Schools Week is the FFA-4-H livestock show Sunday, March 7. It will be held on the parking lot of the Hornet football field. Animals entered must be ready at 2 p.m. and judging will start at 2:30 by Jack Barnes, vocational ag teacher of Lone Grove, Okla.

As at the arts-crafts show, the entries will be judged on merit rather than competition, each animal receiving a blue, red or white ribbon. In addition, fat steers will be judged competitively in selecting the grand champion and reserve champion.

Approximately 38 animals will be entered, according to Edgar Dyer, vo-ag teacher and director of the show. He expects 14 fat steers, 3 fat lambs, 5 fat barrows, 5 dairy heifers, 5 beef heifers and 7 feeder calves...and more may be added.

Mrs. Ann Herr was one of the interested visitors enjoying the exhibits at the Arts and Crafts Show Tuesday evening during Public Schools Week.

Two contests on election ballots

With filing deadlines near for announcement of candidacy in three local elections, races have developed for two positions, however no place is left blank on the ballot. This is the situation as of 5 p.m. Wednesday, but more can possibly be added. Expiration dates are midnight, March 3, in city and school district elections and midnight, March 8, in the hospital district election.

The only action indicated to date is on the city ballot. In Position 1 James Hoedebeck, John Pagel and Herbert Fisher are contenders for the position being vacated by David Fette. And in Position 4, Bertha Hamric, the incumbent, is challenged by Milton Knauf. In Position 2 Aubrey Tuggle is unopposed for re-election. The school district ballot has three unopposed candidates. Harold Bindel and Joe Hellman are asking for re-election to Positions 5 and 6, and Richard Pagel, is unopposed for Position 7, which is being vacated by Urban Endres.

The hospital district ballot has five unopposed incumbents: George Berry, Dan Luke, Albert Dangelmayr, Rufus Henscheid and C. William Hermes.

Plans told for county recreation facility

A big step forward in recreational opportunity for Cooke County was taken last Thursday night when members of the newly organized Community Development Council revealed plans for the proposed new Gainesville Boys Club to a group of some 200 community leaders in a kick-off meeting at the Gainesville Country Club.

These facilities, it was pointed out, are intended not only as a boys club but for other existing youth organizations and programs in the county.

The new building is estimated to cost $750,000 and financing is to be provided by fund raising and private donations. Located at the site of the present Boys Club, its plan includes renovating and replacing the present facility, which was damaged by the October flood, and add a number of other features making up the most comprehensive physical fitness and youth activity center in North Texas. Principal features include an Olympic size enclosed and heated swimming pool, physical fitness and exercising rooms, racquetball and handball courts, a second-floor snack and viewing area and an administrative office.

The project is headed by Ed Alexander as chairman and Glenn Loch and William Lewis as vice-chairmen. Will Patterson is chairman of the development fund. Representing Muenster on the council membership are Jimmy Jack Biffle, Urban Endres and Al Felderhoff.

Davis announces as candidate for state representative

"As a former legislative assistant, I understand how state government works, but more importantly, as an independent businessman, I understand how the workings of state government affect our area," said Scott Davis of Gainesville, who announced his candidacy for State Representative, District 80. "I am fed up with the basically rural districts of the state playing second fiddle to the large urban districts, and it is time for a change," Davis stated.

Davis, a local businessman, was a legislative assistant to Representative Bruce Gibson and an assistant to Congressman Jim Mattox of Dallas. His political activities include a longtime involvement in the Texas Democratic Party, Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle describes Scott "as one of those rare political personalities that can define his goals, organize his priorities, and achieve his objectives." Congressman Mattox perhaps puts it more bluntly when he calls Davis "one of the rising stars in a new generation of political leaders." Davis, a North Texas University alumni, describes himself as an old-fashioned small business oriented Democrat who feels that it is essential for the Democratic Party to reaffirm its historical commitment to the Free Enterprise System. Davis went on to say "the business community, farming, and industry always provided our jobs, our capital and our opportunities. The government must work with the people to make our economy work."

"My background and experience has given me the necessary tools to be an effective legislator and your Representative in Austin," Davis was quoted as saying.

Davis attended Gainesville public schools until his graduation from

Looking Ahead

MEXICO
As the International Communist movement, directed and controlled from Moscow, intensifies its assault on the Western Hemisphere, it is time the American people took a good, hard, clear-eyed look at our neighbor to the south, Mexico. Where does Mexico stand in the struggle against Communism? Well, here are some facts as provided by a "Statement of Concern" signed by 36 U.S. Congressmen.

"Last January, the Communist-led guerrillas in El Salvador launched their 'final offensive.' It failed miserably, and in failing it revealed the guerrillas' lack of genuine popular support. But Mexico's President then joined the worldwide Communist propaganda effort to demand a 'political solution' which would give the guerrillas what they had failed to take by force. Why?"

"In February, after the United States Government had presented documentary proof of the pervasive Cuban involvement in this assault on El Salvador, President Lopez Portillo came to the defense of Castro in word and deed, both supporting his transparent denials and pledging more of Mexico's wealth to the support of Castro's perennially floundering economy. Why?"

"This past May, President Lopez Portillo pledged the considerable sum of $200 million from the Mexican Treasury for the support of the Marxist government of Nicaragua. This government, following the example of Castro, has generated an economic mess but has built by far the largest army in Central America, introducing Soviet armor to the mainland of the Americas. Why does Mexico's President dedicate his country to the financial support of this Soviet military outpost?"

"In August, President Lopez Portillo joined the new Socialist government of France in granting official recognition to the Communist-directed guerrillas assaulting El Salvador. He has also tolerated the use of Mexican territory by guerrillas operating against neighboring Guatemala. These are acts clearly hostile to the legitimate governments of Mexico's Central American neighbors. Yet President Lopez Portillo berates the United States for 'interference' while he turns a permanently blind eye to Communist activity directed against the Central American nations. Why?"

"Just last September Mexico's President hosted Erich Honecker of East Germany, one of Moscow's most slavish puppets, and joined with him in reciting the Soviet propaganda line on the neutron bomb, a weapon which has no other purpose than to guard against the tens of thousands of Soviet tanks facing Western Europe. Why?"

Coupled with this knowledge is the recognition that Mexico is ripe for Communist-incited revolution. Inflation is over 30 percent a year; there is widespread unemployment, nearly 40 percent; interest rates are 40 percent, stifling business activity; and corruption in government is rampant.

A recent issue of U.S. News & World Report provides these insights: "People are close to the limits of their patience," says a Mexico City worker.

"There is no effective government any more, just chaos and anarchy." Even gloomier is this assessment from a university professor: "We are headed for a military dictatorship. But you can't keep this big country under military control for long. Eventually, there'll be a Communist government here."

Are we ready for a Communist Mexico? If not, we'd better act in Central America now.

conquest and preserve the country's freedom, and especially to put a stop to the spread of communism in the Americas. His aim is not only to preserve our freedom but turn the world trend away from its present totalitarian course.

In that endeavor the president encounters lots of trouble. National leaders are impressed by Red success so far and many are convinced by current communist propaganda. They lean toward the Red line that we waste time trying to save free people, saying communism will win regardless.

All of which leaves Reagan with a terrific dilemma. At this late hour he faces a tough conflict and a big risk by helping the Salvador government. On the other hand, failing to help is to forfeit to the enemy. It would leave the Reds unopposed in their conquest.

These circumstances make Reagan's problem more understandable. Aid to Salvador seems like the last chance, but one has to wonder if it will succeed. On principle the President is right all the way, but how about the other factors?

Regrettably we have to admit that the outlook for free countries is not good. On the other hand Russia, too, has problems with unhappy captive countries and a dismal economic system.

Perhaps US should decline getting involved with Soviet subjects and simply withhold all economic aid to the entire Red block. Except for our aid, the Soviets would have folded long ago. Their system has been a failure from the start, and it's not likely to survive if free countries quit helping.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor

Paul Harvey recently released an article which bears bad tidings to the conservative majority in this country. Entitled "Can you trust the News Media", the commentary revealed the results of a study done by the Public Opinion magazine.

The magazine spent an hour with 240 of the top media people; reporters, editors, columnists, TV anchors, producers, news executives etc. These are the people who determine what we hear and read of public affairs, Presidential and Congressional policies and proposals.

These media people are in fact not representative of the average American citizen.

Not once in four national elections did even 20 percent of these people vote for the conservative candidates. Less than 10% regularly attend church and over half of them approve of adultery. Furthermore, these people really believe they should be running the country. When asked specifically, "Who do you think should run the country", they placed themselves at the top of the list. They further stated that they believe in government guaranteed jobs and redistribution of income.

So if you sometimes question what you hear from the network news people, you're right; you should!

OUTSTANDING TEENS PREFER TRADITIONAL LIVING

NORTHBROOK, ILL. — More of America's teen leaders are drinking today than in past years, but when it comes to drugs and sex, a good majority still practice abstinence.

This is revealed in the 12th Annual Survey of High Achievers, just released by "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Nearly 22,000 outstanding teens answered survey questions.

The current poll recorded a significant leap in the number of high achievers who drink. Some 53% say they occasionally take a drink, compared to 40% two years ago and 31% in 1975. However, drugs are still taboo with this group. Nine out of ten have never used drugs and the same number report they wouldn't use marijuana, even if it were legalized.

The top teens want to be educated about sex, but a majority would rather save the experience for marriage. Three-quarters think sex education should be taught in the schools. But 73% have never had sexual intercourse and a plurality (44%) believe premarital sex is not acceptable under any circumstances.

Abortion is out of the question for these teens, too. If they did engage in sex and became pregnant, almost two-thirds of the young women said they would not consider abortion. More than half of all those polled do not favor abortion in any case.

Traditional marriage is in the cards for the high achievers. Some 90% will opt for the official blessing and certificate. A third think living together outside of matrimony is morally wrong and 44% say it's okay for others, but not for themselves. Half the teens plan to have two children and almost 25% want three.

THE MEDIA ELITE

By Edwin Feulner

In a recent speech in Washington, an annual lecture at which the powerful and beautiful from the Washington journalism establishment listen to a brother journalist pat them on the back, LOS ANGELES TIMES publisher Tom Johnson — a bright and affable young man — departed from the usual script for a few minutes and suggested that some of the public's mistrust and criticism of the Fourth Estate is well-deserved.

He admitted that the media are sometimes inaccurate, biased and occasionally even caught in a lie. But overall, he concluded, they do a good job. Moreover, he said, many of the people (Big Business, for example) who are most critical of the press rank lower in public esteem than America's journalists. So overall, all is well.

I have no special criticism of what Mr. Johnson had to say. What bothers me is what he and most other media critics fail to acknowledge: that your typical national reporter, working in Washington or New York for a major news organization, is a snob and an elitist — highly paid, flamboyantly "with it" and deeply steeped in and dedicated to liberal ideology.

That's the conclusion Robert Lichter, assistant professor of political science at George Washington University, and Stanley Rothman, professor of government at Smith College, reached after they conducted hour-long interviews with more than 240 "media elite" during 1979 and 1980. They report their results in clinical detail in a recent issue of PUBLIC OPINION magazine.

All of the reporters, editors and broadcasters interviewed worked for those news organizations which are generally considered the most influential: THE NEW YORK TIMES, THE WASHINGTON POST, THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, TIME, U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT, and NEWSWEEK magazines, CBS, NBC, ABC, Public Broadcasting Service and major PBS stations.

"In some respects," the authors write, "the journalists we interviewed appear typical of leadership groups throughout society... composed mainly of white males in their thirties and forties... 93 percent have college degrees... a majority (55 percent) attended graduate school... (and) despite journalism's reputation as a low paying profession... in 1978, 78 percent earned at least $30,000, and one in three had salaries that exceeded $50,000."

Though, as the authors note, "journalism is a profession associated with upward mobility," there were few Horatio Alger stories to be found in these newsrooms. Most were raised in upper-middle-class homes. Only one in five came from a home in which the father was employed in a low-status blue- or white-collar job.

As might be expected, from all of these other characteristics, most of the media elite define themselves as liberals. "Fifty-four percent place themselves to the left of center, compared to only 19 percent who choose the right side of the spectrum."

Just how liberal? In 1972, the authors learned, when 62 percent of the American people chose Richard Nixon, 81 percent of the media elite voted for George McGovern.

The journalists were asked to rate seven "leadership groups" in terms of the influence each one exerts on society, and then they were asked which group they would rather see calling the shots. In the first case, journalists ranked second.

In the second instance? "Emerging at the top of the heap, as the group most favored to direct American society, are the media."

(Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.)

Economic activity is booming in Texas. In the first nine months of 1981 alone, over nine billion dollars in new construction was begun in our state. Yet another group of businessmen are experiencing much of the same success... They are drug smugglers, and their operations have reached in excess of three billion dollars annually.

Texas is a large and geographically diverse state... but this can be a drawback. With 644 miles of coastline and a 1200 mile border with Mexico, Texas has become a haven for drug smugglers. Airplanes, boats and land vehicles enter Texas daily, carrying tons of drugs and leaving countless victims behind, making drug trafficking the number one crime problem in Texas.

Law enforcement officers cannot adequately battle these cunning criminals without the aid of concerned citizens. The Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is ready to help bring a screeching halt to this lucrative drug business in Texas.

For the month of March, the Council will focus the "Crime of the Month" on drug smuggling. Any citizen having information on drug smuggling and trafficking operations is asked to call the anti-crime hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS. Cash rewards are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of these criminals. Citizens do not have to reveal their name, just their information, and they will be given a unique code number for identification purposes.

Governor Clements and the Texas Legislature have provided tough new laws to fight drug trafficking, but they cannot do it alone. Call 1-800-252-TIPS today with any information you may have on drug smuggling in Texas. Help shut down this menace to our state.

Congressional Comment

Fifty years ago, this country was held in the grips of an economic crisis that still has the ability to make its survivors shudder--The Great Depression.

Today, facing a similar--although not nearly as severe--economic problem, many are quick to make comparisons between these two eras in our country's history and legislative actions to correct the situations.

In the 30s, President Franklin D. Roosevelt set in motion a package of federal programs, The New Deal, to counter the economic chaos. The core of many of those programs remains in place today, but the programs themselves are far, far removed from the original FDR concept. I contend that FDR never envisioned nor intended the dependence on federal government by individuals that is commonplace in this country today.

I cannot claim to be a survivor of the Great Depression, but I am a product of that period and like many Texans, was raised in the shadow of that destructive period. As many times as I have heard those years described as "hard times," I cannot recall ever hearing any of my elders say it was their "right" that government take care of their problems. Work was the solution and pride came with being able to make it through without government help.

There are countless examples of New Deal programs that remain throughout the 17th District. Through the Works Progress Administration (WPA), parks were built...roads were built...public buildings were built. There were no "welfare programs"; there were "work programs". WPA work was the salvation of many a West Texas family, but as soon as other work was available, participants were quick to return to work in the private sector.

Let's look at just one federal program that, although not one of the New Deal programs, is a good example of a concept that has gone far afield from its original conception: Food Stamps.

The Food Stamp program was originally a "surplus commodities" program, designed to implement the distribution of surplus farm products among the needy. After recognition of the need for a nutritionally superior program, "food stamps" could be purchased from the government by those meeting requirements. The 1977 Food Stamp Act eliminated the purchase requirement, making food stamps available to any and all who met somewhat more stringent requirements.

Food stamp costs have doubled in the past three years and one out of 10 Americans (22 million people) now participates in the program. The value of food stamp benefits grew from $5.2 billion in 1979 to more than $10.3 billion in 1981 and over 6 million people were added to food stamp rolls over that period. I believe FDR, if alive today, would point out that more emphasis needs to be given to pilot "workfare" programs that require participants to contribute some form of unpaid labor in exchange for food stamps.

I know that there are those who will argue that many of those unemployed would welcome the opportunity to work if "suitable, dignified work" was available. WPA workers in Texas built outdoor toilets and I doubt if they questioned whether their labor was "suitable or dignified". Their pay, however, fed their families.

There is no such thing as "undignified" work, in my opinion. The work ethic evident in the 30s was one of the basic ingredients of this country's success and should be instilled in each and every American citizen today.

Raegan Ann Koesler is christened Sunday

Raegan Ann Koesler, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Koesler, was christened on Sunday, February 28, in Sacred Heart Church with Father Stephen Eckart officiating. Her sponsors were her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Koesler. Raegan's lace christening gown, cap and blanket were designed and made by her mother, and by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. R.B. Cargile. The bodice and cap were covered with seed pearls and satin trim. Her white leather slippers completed the outfit. Following the service, Raegan's parents hosted a champagne reception in their home. The centerpiece for the serving table was a china doll made by the baby's great-grandmother, Mrs. R.B. Cargile, Sr. The doll's gown was a miniature of Raegan's christening gown. Silver and crystal appointments were used to serve the desserts, mints and nuts.

St Richard's Villa News

St. Richard's Villa has one new resident this month. Mrs. Lucy McKinzie moved in January 29. Mrs. McKinzie is a long-time resident of Myra, and has many friends in the area. We welcome her into our "family."

We want to thank the ladies of the Bluebonnet Home Demonstration Club for the delightful Bingo "Bash" at the Villa on February 15. We always enjoy their parties and appreciate the efforts which they so unselfishly extend for the pleasure of others.

Shelly Kneupper, former activity director at St. Richard's held a crafts class on February 18, making delicious Fruit Nobake Cookies. A sheer pleasure for the participants, and all enjoyed the products of their efforts.

On Friday, Feb. 26, we were privileged to hear the Senior Adult Choir from the First Baptist Church, in Gainesville, under the direction of Mr. Nathan Cook. A program of religious music, both old and new, was presented, with the residents joining in on some of the old-time religious songs.

On Sunday, February 28, we were treated to a Super Bingo Party, sponsored by the Youth Group at Sacred Heart Church. Everyone enjoyed the goodies for prizes as well as the delicious cake and ice cream which were served to the staff and residents by the group. We are all looking forward to the future visits of this group.

Words are inadequate to express our sincerest appreciation to these young people and their sponsors, as well as everyone who gives so unselfishly of themselves to bring joy and pleasure to others.

Mr. Ted Gremminger, long-time resident of Muenster, is in Westgate Hospital in Denton, recovering from surgery. Out thoughts and prayers are with him. We're sure he would appreciate hearing from friends.

Guests included Raegan's great-grandmother and great-aunt Mrs. Anna Walterscheid and Sister Francesca Walterscheid of Fort Worth; her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Koesler of Muenster and Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Cargile of Ardmore; an uncle Rob Cargile of Oklahoma City; and an aunt, uncle and great-aunt, Grail and Smokey Wilson and Mrs. Julia Curry of Mt. Pleasant, Texas.

Bluebirds visit fire department

The Butterfly Bluebirds met at the sacred Heart Homemaking room on February 24 at 3:30 p.m. Jami Flusche lit the Bluebird candle. Tonya Knabe called roll/costume check. Melanie Wilde collected dues. Misty Vogel led the Bluebird wish.

Assistant Leader, Lou Mosler, chaperoned the Bluebirds to the Muenster Fire Department. Chris Sicking, Muenster Fire Chief, greeted them and explained about two of the fire trucks they viewed. The rural truck is used for long distance fire runs. It holds 500 gallons of water. A special feature is a hose that is used with foam to put out gas and oil fires.

The pumper fire truck, which has the pumps connected to hydrants, has 1000 feet of hose. It uses 5000 gallons of water per minute. The Fire Chief explained the purposes of the gauges on this truck. He put on an air-pack, the equipment they use when entering burning structures. The girls viewed a smoke injector, when mounted this machine dispels the smoke from inside buildings. They viewed the asbestos suits which protect the firemen from high heat; and the helmets which are required equipment. Of special interest was the antique 1949 Dodge fire truck, primarily used when extra firehoses are needed on fire runs.

"Thank You" Mr. Sicking, for a very informative and educational afternoon. In ten years, the Muenster Fire Department may very well have some lady firefighters.

Leader Peggy Walter discussed the up-coming Camp Fire Candy Sale, which begins Friday, February 26. There will be a Mystery House in Muenster; if a Camp Fire candy seller discovers this house they will be treated to a dinner at McDonald's in Gainesville.

Refreshments of chocolate chip cookies and punch were served by hostess Amy Dankesreiter, Amy's favorite record was played while snacking. Cheramie Mosler and Jennifer Walter assisted with hostess duties.

Leader Peggy Walter distributed the "No Greater Love" patches to the group, which were earned for writing letters/valentines to the hospitalized veterans. The girls worked in the Star Bird books.

Dyan Fisher led the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag and the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be on March 10. Jennifer Walter will be hostess and bring her favorite record. Everyone needs to bring a favorite toy to this meeting.

The Aluminum Can Sale will end February 28; Leader Peggy Walter asks that cans be turned in by February 27. Camp Fire Inc. is going to buy an Auodad sheep for the Frank Buck Zoo in Gainesville from the donations. The Butterfly Bluebirds wish to "Thank" everyone who donated cans for this project. Special "Thanks" go to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gehrig, Kountry Korner, Mrs. Richard Ferber, Mr. Wilfred Bindel, and Lissa Shankles of the Gainesville Academy of Dance. Every donation was greatly appreciated.

SSI pays $8.3 billion to 4 million

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments of $395,941,000 were paid to some 255,951 needy aged, blind, and disabled people in Texas last fiscal year, according to Gus Jones, Social Security District Manager in Sherman.

Some 4.0 million people are now receiving SSI. In fiscal 1981 payments totaled about $8.3 billion, including $6.4 billion in federal funds and $1.9 billion in state funds.

The SSI program is a federally-administered program that provides a basic cash income to people in financial need who are 65 or older, blind, or disabled. Currently, SSI provides up to $264.70 for one person and $397 for an eligible couple in monthly benefits. "Everyone that qualifies for SSI will not receive that amount," Jones said. "Some may get less because they have other income, while some may get more if they live in a state that adds money to the federal payment."

People who receive Social Security checks may also be eligible for SSI, but a person does not have to be eligible for Social Security to get SSI.

City hears library report

Muenster Public Library ended the past year with a cash balance of $486.61 and savings of $5,189.34, according to a report to the City Council Monday night by Mary Mosier, librarian. Beginning Jan. 1, 1981, with $717.65, the library had income of $15,026.12 principally on grants of $3,700 from the city of Muenster, $2,000 from Cooke County, $2,262.50 from a J. Frank Dobie award, and $4,500 from a transfer of funds. The total of original balance and receipts was $15,743.77.

Expenditures from that total were $15,257.16. Principal items of expense were $1,413.75 for books, $2,043.13 in additional book purchases from the J.F. Dobie account, along with salary, utilities, supplies, postage, etc and investment of $6500.

The report included a message that the county's allotment this year will increase from $2000 to $3000 and that minor interior remodeling this year will add some 200 square feet of floor space.

Plans for centennial hold club's attention

Plans and preparations for the Hood Community Centennial continue to hold priority for members of the Hood Community Improvement Club.

During their meeting of March 1, presided by J.T. Barker, members heard reports on centennial plans and accomplishments, including ad sales for the Centennial History reported by Mary Evelyn Hermes; availability of souvenir plates and cups reported by Imogene Zimmerer, and the possibility of pictures of an old Hood building.

Albert Zimmerer and William Hermes will make inquiries about renting a tent and restroom facilities. Additional plans for the Centennial will be made at a meeting called for Monday, March 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Following adjournment, Mmes. Imogene Zimmerer and Kelly Marrs served refreshments. The next regular meeting will be on Monday, April 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the club building.

Spinach is a member of the goosefoot plant family. Surprisingly, it is first cousin to the beet. Eating spinach is a good way to build up iron in the blood.

Introducing "The Garden Editor"

Colorful clematis

by Ted Brice - Garden Editor

Acrobatic Clematis is the neighborhood show-off, climbing trees and fences, covering walls, entwining trellises, filling arbors, scrambling up poles and mailboxes to flash its brilliant flowers.

Clematis is a beautiful vine all season, but it saves its real show for midsummer, when the verdant foliage is pushed aside by a sheath of enormous blooms. The Clematis flower is unique in that it has no true petals, but petal-like sepals instead. Because of this trait, the blooms have an unusual velvety texture and rich color intensity.

Three luscious Clematis colors that are the bloomingest, climbingest, sturdiest vines you drape about your yard are Jackmani a violet-purple, Ernest Markham a bright red and Nelly Moser a lavender-pink.

Jackmani offers rich violet-purple blooms, a color that has been prized since the variety was first exhibited in England in 1863. It was the first of the large flowered hybrids (4-5") ever developed, and it remains the all-time favorite of Clematis fanciers.

Ernest Markham is a bright petunia red that will set your lawn aglow with its vibrant tones and huge 5-7" bloom size.

Nelly Moser is everything

you'd expect from a lady—delicate, refined, and radiant in two-toned lavender-pink.

The Clematis will thrive in ordinary garden soil but loam containing lime is perhaps the ideal. If lime is lacking and the soil is light and sandy, loam, cow manure and crushed limestone should be added, the ground being dug to a depth of two feet. An annual mulching with decayed manure or compost early in June is of great benefit as it not only supplies plant food but keeps the roots cool and moist.

Mix or match colorful Clematis for new excitement in your yard this summer. You'll find a thousand uses for this versatile plant.

Extension Service offers oil and gas lease seminar

"No, the document you just signed was not a lease at all in the normal sense of the word. What you did was sell your mineral estate with a legal fee simple determinable title," says Wayne Hayenga, Economist and Attorney with the Texas Extension Service.

Property owners in Cooke County are invited to attend a free seminar Wednesday, March 10, 1982, at 7:30 p.m. The seminar will be conducted by Dr. Wayne Hayenga and is scheduled for the Action Hall of the Chamber of Commerce in Gainesville.

Topics to be discussed include: Surface Damage Claims, Royalties, Interest Payment Claims, Pooling Contracts and Tax Considerations.

Most oil leases have 13 major parts and they are all negotiable to farm estates to some extent. What you want and ask for is up to you. Also, the legal meaning of the terminology should be discussed before signed.

The Oil and Gas Leasing Seminar is sponsored by the County Extension Service. For more information, call 665-4931 or 665-1966.

Your out-of-town friends and relatives will enjoy reading about your weekend guests and family gatherings; and your guests will appreciate your thoughtfulness in recording their visit. Phone 759-4311 or send notes to Box 190, Muenster.

For outstanding effort and achievement in 1981, increasing his sales 36 percent over 1980, Mike Rennels receives a 1981 Tradition of Excellence Award from J.I. Case Company. The presentation is made here by Albert Zimmerer, right, of Case Power and Equipment.

Boy Scout yearly program outlined

Muenster Webelos, parents and Webelos Leader Terry Walterscheid met with Boy Scout Troop 664 at the regular scout meeting Monday evening, March 1.

Scoutmaster Waylon Poole explained the Boy Scout program and his plans for the coming year. He explained that the scout troop meets all year round, every Monday evening. Each scout is expected to attend; if unable, he is expected to be responsible to call and excuse himself.

Webelos who are 11 years old by April 15 may re-charter with the Boy Scout troop at that time. Webelos wishing to complete their Arrow of Light requirements may re-charter with the Cub Scout Pack and transfer to the Scout Troop in May.

Frontier Trails is planning a special summer camp on June 10-13 at Hills and Hollows Scout Ranch in Denton, for all boys new in scouting. Intended to teach boys some basic scout skills, the camp is called "The Tenderfoot Experience," and will be directed by Denton Scouter, Mr. Pat Hollis.

Webelos who attended Monday's meeting were Keith Vogel, Jason Gehrig, Shawn Vogel, Ryan Bayer, Johnny Herr, Jeff Walterscheid and Murlin Evans. They were accompanied by their parents.

Webelos Leader Terry Walterscheid has an overnighter planned for Webelos and Dads on March 12.

Veterans need not be members of the DAV to take advantage of this free service.

The project is an extension of the 62-year-old organization's National Service Program, which provides a variety of assistance at no cost to veterans and their families. Under this program, the association of wartime disabled veterans employs some 300 full-time national service officers—more than 90 percent of whom were disabled during the Vietnam War—at VA facilities across the country.

The DAV reminded any veteran or family member who visits the van to bring the veteran's VA claim number, if available, and Social Security number. These are needed for the purpose of filing claims.
