Stroke after Car Crash is Fatal to Aged Lindsay Man

After the apparent sweetness and light of the Geneva Conference and the generally optimistic appraisal of its achievements, it's natural for us to assume that perhaps the world conflict which seemed inevitable not so long ago can be prevented after all.

For the first time in years the Soviet bosses actually seemed to be motivated by a desire to make friends and influence people. They wore smiles instead of their usual sullenness. They refrained from customary abuse and blaming all the world's turmoil on Uncle Sam. They acted like civilized people seeking reasonable solutions, and they convinced lots of people that the free world can get along with them after all.

In view of such facts one begins to wonder who gained what at the summit gab fest. Suppose, as most of us will admit, that world tension has eased considerably, what side profits most by being "relieved of the strain?" While we are quite proud of President Eisenhower's refusal to let the Russians gain any more advantages in world politics, we may yet wake up to realize that the Reds achieved their principal objective . . . to ease external strain so they can direct more attention to other plans and problems in their goal of world domination.

We have it on the authority of top communists themselves that the main purpose never changes. What does change, however, is the method. Reds blow hot or cold as suits their cause. They are tough when they have the advantage, conciliating when they have reason to fear a showdown.

One circumstance pointing to that possibility was their failure to discuss Eisenhower's surprise proposal on mutual inspection of military strength. They had talked about disarmament, specifically banning our most potent weapons or breaking the organization which most effectively guards Western security. They also proposed reducing armies while intending to retain the millions of armed men enrolled in state police and security police.

As usual, Russia was not interested in a fair and square deal. It wanted the kind of arrangement that cripples other countries and leaves it proportionately stronger. It also wanted to have the opportunity to cheat on agreements. The Kremlin double crossers do not intend to live up to promises, so they do not want anyone checking to see whether they do.

Considered from another angle, refusal to discuss Eisenhower's proposition was smart on Russia's part. After years of espionage they already have most of the information Eisenhower was willing to show, and more besides. We stood to learn a lot more than they by inspections, and they knew it.

All in all, it may be correct to say that neither Russia nor the Western Three gave more than a smile at Geneva. But it remains to be seen which side will exploit that smile the most.

Just as a reminder that the top reds are not sleeping on the job, we have reports of their smearing around East Germany for a while before returning to Moscow. Next we hear that Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany has been invited for a chat with the Kremlin gang. What's cooking?

Don't be surprised if that conference hatches some sort of major problem for the allies. Stinkers don't become fine fellows overnight, so the odds are we'll soon discover that the much publicized Soviet smiles were only smirks.

R. C. Livingston is VA Service Officer

Robert C. Livingston has been appointed Cooke county veterans service officer to replace the late Ed Merzbacher.

His appointment was made by the county commissioners court Friday and he will assume his duties at a date to be determined. He has been Gainesville city recorder for the past several years.

P. C. Sparks, retired traveling salesman, was appointed Gainesville city recorder Tuesday to serve Livingston's unexpired term.

August Schmidkofer, 84, a resident of Lindsay for 50 years, died Tuesday night at 11:30 in a Gainesville hospital where he was a patient since last week Wednesday following an automobile accident.

Mr. Schmidkofer was thrown from his car when it collided with a truck at the intersection of Harvey and Throckmorton streets in Gainesville, but it was thought he was not seriously injured. The following day he suffered a stroke, believed to be the result of shock, and never regained consciousness.

Funeral services with requiem high mass will be held Friday morning at 9 o'clock in Saint Peter's church, Lindsay, with Rev. Conrad Herda, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Lindsay cemetery under direction of George J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home. Two rosary services were held at the Carroll chapel, one on Wednesday and one on Thursday night.

Schmidkofer was a native of Wisconsin but as a child moved to Alabama with his parents. He later lived in Oklahoma and married Miss Mary Noggler there. The couple moved to Texas in 1905, settling at Lindsay and his wife died there in 1909. He was a retired farmer and carpenter.

In spite of his advanced age he was in good health and very active. He lived alone doing all his household chores and always drove his own car. He still liked to work at carpentering and kept his home and other buildings in excellent condition. He was interested in the parish and community and in church activity.

Survivors are a son, John C. Schmidkofer, and two daughters, Mrs. Henry Hess and Mrs. Frank Haverkamp of Lindsay; four sisters, Mmes. John P. Neu and F. J. Gruber of Lindsay, and Mmes. W. P. and E. J. Eckl of Florence, Ala., two brothers, Pete Schmidkofer of Florence, Ala., and Frank Schmidkofer of Shawnee, Okla.; 20 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Lions Will Meet at Main Cafe Tuesday

The Muenster Lions will meet and eat at the usual place next Tuesday, President Homsley announced Wednesday after being assured that the Main Cafe will not have started its moving.

In their last meeting members were told they would probably have to meet at another place, because of the cafe's plan to move the building. Development since will delay the move a few weeks. Anthony Luke, owner of the building says there's no need to hurry because the next building cannot be started for at least two months.

THEY "BELT" CARS FOR YOUR SAFETY—Seat belts may someday be as much an item of original equipment on autos as are windshields, as a result of tests such as the one pictured above at Ford's Dearborn, Mich., testing grounds. Electrically wired dummies transmit impulses to pilot-instrument truck, left, as stock-model cars are crashed into barriers to determine impact effect on the human body at the moment a collision happens. Data gained by the simulated accidents indicates that belts reduce chances of severe injury, and Ford announces that the devices will be offered as optional equipment for its various models.

Wm. J. Miller Buys Mayall Milk Trucks

W. J. Miller, owner and operator of the local Humble station is in the milk hauling business since last weekend. He bought the trucks and routes from James Mayall of Gainesville.

Miller acquired five trucks in the deal, however only four are in use at the present time. One is a tank truck serving dairymen who have the late model equipment, which sends milk directly from the milkers to a cooling tank. The other trucks are insulated van jobs serving dairymen who use cans.

The milk routes are in Cooke and Denton counties with deliveries going to Muenster and Fort Worth.

Ump Gets Fill of Gripping, Declares Forfeit in Tenth

Muenster's B-29 Bombers were winners of the first game in the 4 out of 7 play off series with the Bezner Chicks, according to an agreement some 24 hours later in a meeting of league officials with representatives of the two teams.

After going into the tenth inning as a 0-0 deadlock, spiced by frequent argument and threatened fisticuffs the game suddenly blew up in another argument. The umpire declared that Muenster wins by forfeit, and stomped off the field. The Chicks refused to accept his decision and filed a protest with League Commissioner J. C. Sluder.

At the time of the sudden halt the Chicks had strong hopes of pushing in the winning run. They had one out and a runner on second. Through the rest of the game as well the Chicks had enjoyed a slight advantage putting a total of 8 runners on base whereas the Bombers put only half as many on.

Likewise Richard Mosman bested Coffman in the pitching duel. He allowed 2 hits and no walks while striking out 6. Coffman also fanned 6 but gave up 4 hits and 2 walks.

WITH THE MEN IN SERVICE

Gets Overseas Orders

PFC Henry Weinzapfel is here to spend a 40-day leave with his family, the J. M. Weinzapfels, before reporting for overseas duty in the Far East. He has been stationed at Camp Rucker, Ala., and arrived at the Dallas airport Wednesday evening by plane. Family members met him there and brought him home. The Weinzapfels' daughter and family, Lt. Col. and Mrs. David Bright and children David and Lola are due here from Cocoa, Florida, in about two weeks. They'll have a 30-day leave before going to Alaska where Lt. Col. Bright will be stationed for two years.

Stationed in Austin

Sgt. and Mrs. Ralph Hellman and son Howard are back in the states and he's stationed at Bergstrom AFB, Austin, after being on duty in England for four years. The family returned to America June 28 and spent last Wednesday night and Thursday morning here with his brother, Charley Hellman and family. While they were in England Mrs. Hellman and Howard visited her parents in Germany. She is a native of that country and married Ralph while he was on duty there.

First Promotion

Alvin Fleitman has been advanced to private first class in Germany where he serves with an engineers battalion. He wrote his parents, the John Fleitmans, that his job is that of custodian of the outfit's engineering equipment and that he likes the assignment.

Magazine Praises Local DHIA Record

The Cooke County Dairy Association is described as one of the best Dairy Herd Improvement Associations in Texas in the August issue of The Progressive Farmer magazine.

The article "DHIA—Bologna Factories' Best Friend," explains the value of the program to dairy farmers by showing the unprofitable cows that should be culled out. DHIA is a production-testing and record-keeping program carried on by extension service and USDA in cooperation with organized groups of dairy farmers.

The Cooke County Association's cows had highest averages in the state last year with 8,992 pounds of milk and 356 pounds of fat each. This was roughly three times as much as average Texas dairy cows. Five Cooke County dairymen had herds producing an average of more than 10,000 pounds of milk and over 400 pounds of butterfat a year.

A good group of steady farmers, no high pressure, and good supervisors who guide dairymen into best use of records and dairying are considered keys to success of Cooke County Association.

Dairymen Peter Prescher, Richard Frasher, Leroy Hay, Paul Fetsch, Paul Sicking testify to the value of the program. They find their DHIA records help them manage their herds more profitably.

4 Local Swimmers Get Certificates in Water Safety Class

Four persons gave Muenster a good start in its water safety program by earning six certificates in the special Red Cross water safety course conducted the past two weeks at the Gainesville pool.

George Letson and L. B. Bruns received Red Cross Water Safety Instructor's certificates last Friday at the end of the second course. The previous week they had received Senior Red Cross Life Saving certificates.

Also at the end of the second week, Mrs. Hugh Jackson and Mrs. Kyle Waggoner received their certificates in life saving. During the first week they failed to make the grade for the senior certificates and received certificates as assistant life savers. The next week, instead of taking the instructors' course, they repeated the previous training and passed tests for the senior life saving rating.

The courses were conducted under official Red Cross supervision with Bud Bradley of Saint Louis in charge of instructors' training and Joan Yarbrough and David West of Gainesville in charge of life saving training. With local instructors available Muenster will be able to qualify for an official Red Cross class in swimming instruction. The organization offers to provide a supervisor if the town provides instructors with the Red Cross certificate.

Chicks Win Second Game, Tie Series in Softball Play-off

The Bomber-Chick series for the county softball league title went into a tie Wednesday night as the Gainesville boys put on a 3-hit barrage in the tenth for a 3-1 win.

The Chicks racked up a well earned victory, sweating out the game into the extra innings after Muenster missed one opportunity in the first and donated an un-earned run in the third.

Herbie Herr started the game with a sound blow that was good for an easy 3 bagger but was thrown out stretching it to a homer. Apparently he had plenty of time but a beautiful throw cut him off. Had he played safe Becker's double would have changed the outcome.

Two errors in the third allowed the Chicks to score their first run.

Muenster again hit twice in the fifth to knot the count at 1 each and that's how the game stood until the Chicks grouped two singles and a double for the decision.

In the fourth and the sixth the Bombers were lucky not to give up the deciding runs. They made two errors in each of those frames but retired the side with runners still on base.

Likewise Mosman had a slightly better record than Coffman's in the pitching contest. Each fanned 9 and walked none but Mosman allowed 4 hits while Coffman gave up 6.

Phyllis and Sandra Cler had as their guest for the week their cousin, Sheila Hoehn of Nocona.

Muenster Phone Co. Buys Myra System, Plans Dial Service

The Myra telephone system, serving about 75 subscribers, became a part of the Muenster Telephone Company in a deal completed this week by Herman Younger and Don Hoskins.

Younger's plan, according to Line Foreman Alvin Fuhrmann, is to install a separate automatic switch board and dial telephones at Myra. The arrangement will be similar to that operating now between Muenster and Forestburg. Subscribers at Myra will be able to call one another through the automatic switch board or to dial the Muenster operator for a connection here. If a call originates here the local operator will dial the Myra number. Two lines will connect Muenster and Myra.

Fuhrmann estimates it will take six to eight months to get the automatic system into operation. The first requirement is replacing the present single wire grounded circuit with a double wire metallic circuit. While doing that job the line crew will also repair or replace poles, cross arms, insulators etc.

Until the automatic system is installed Hoskins will continue as the Myra operator. Responsibility for maintaining the Myra line has been taken over by the Muenster line crew.

Leo Lawson Joins Oil Chemical Firm

Leo Lawson, with Jones and Laughlin Supply company for the past eight and one half years, has resigned effective August 1 to become associated with Tretolite Company, chemical specialists who sample and treat oil at well sites. He will be working the area between Nocona and Sherman.

Lawson started at the bottom and worked himself up to store manager here with J&L, serving in that capacity one year. After that the company advanced him to field representative, a position he has held for the past two and a half years.

Replacing him will be W. R. Lindsay of Tulsa, Okla. Lindsay, his wife and their three children, aged seven, three and 16 months, will make their home in the Carl Schilling house on North Main street.

Building And Improvement Notes

Work started Monday on a new two-bedroom house for the Lena Kleiss farm about two miles southwest of town.

Claude Cannon's new home at Bulcher is nearing completion. Carpenters finished this week and turned the job over to painters. Richard Swirczynski's two-room addition is almost as far along. Painters are due to take over there in a few days.

Jimmy Lehnertz is handling two improvement jobs together at his service station. One is the installation of larger gasoline storage tanks, the other is replacement of defective sections of driveway with new concrete.

Framework is practically finished on the new home for Mrs. Charles Cler a block west of Sacred Heart Church. It will have 2 bedrooms and attached garage and a combination of asbestos and redwood siding.

L. B. Bruns has just started his 3 bedroom house on West Seventh across the street from his present home. The plan is modernistic featuring flat roof and siding of brick and redwood, and attached car port.

Charles Randall of Myra has a good start on his new home. It's a 2-bedroom size with attached garage.

John did some prize winning calf tying during the time, but being the modest type, was reluctant to go into details.

The Hoseas made rodeos in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota, going, and were in Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Kentucky coming back. In Kansas and Ohio they visited John's relatives, some they hadn't seen in 13 years, and every place they renewed acquaintances with old friends they hadn't seen since last summer.

They spent a week at the Lake of the Ozarks at Camden, Mo., and went through the Bridal Cave there.

LOOKING AHEAD

 DIRECTOR — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

BILLIONS BEING WASTED

In this period during which our Federal government is spending about 70 per cent of all the tax money collected on national defense, veterans' benefits and international affairs, we need to do everything humanly possible to cut waste and secure the utmost efficiency in the operation of these major activities. For the years immediately ahead any drastic economy in government spending, and thus any sizable Federal tax cut, must be achieved in this area of national defense.

In the present fiscal year $40.4 billion is being spent on national defense, $1.8 billion on international affairs, and $4.6 billion for veterans' services and benefits. This totals more than $46 billion. Interest on the national debt takes another $6.3 billion. All the other services of the Federal government cost taxpayers $9 billion. There is ample opportunity to substantially reduce the $9 billion in domestic governmental spending, and we should do it at once; but the big cut obviously must come in the big defense operations where the big spending is.

Important to Taxpayers

The Hoover Commission's findings and recommendations in the area of national defense are thus vitally important to every taxpayer in America. Included in the findings were some fantastic facts relating to food and clothing, procurement and handling by the Defense Department. During the last fiscal year ending June 30, 1955, about $1.3 billion was spent on food and clothing, and the total inventories exceeded $700 million for food and $2.7 billion for clothing. Why this cost is so huge can be partially seen in the following findings:

Although a Navy manual estimates that canned meat and poultry have a "keeping life" of 24 months, a study of 14 Naval supply depots showed: 719 months' supply of canned hamburger, 79 months' supply of canned beef and gravy, and a 75 months' supply of canned ham chunks. Another item: The Army paid freight on 807,000 pounds of canned tomatoes it bought in New York and shipped to California; and the Navy paid freight on 775,000 pounds of canned tomatoes it bought in California and shipped to the East coast. This constitutes costly mismanagement in the Defense Department.

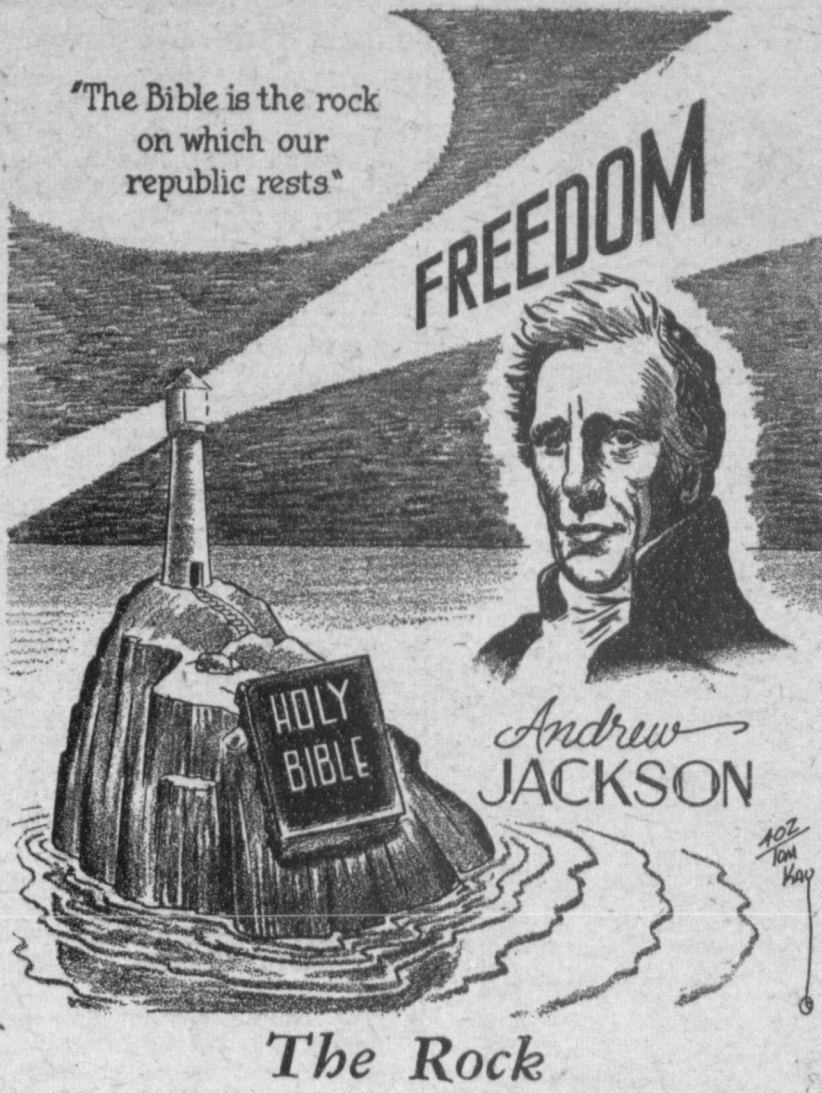

Coordination Needed

The Hoover Commission recommended that a civilian agency be set up within the Defense Department to administer purchasing, inventory control, and certain other services—now handled wastefully by less experienced Army, Navy and Air Force personnel. The Administrator of the new agency would be a presidential appointee. Billions can be saved in the efficient handling of supplying and servicing the widespread operations of the department.

The Defense Department employs 1,180,000 civilian personnel and approximately 3 million military personnel. It spends directly about $35 billion a year. It holds $66 billion of property in military warehouses, including the $2.7 billion worth of clothing—twice as much as is needed. By reducing the clothing inventory by 50 per cent, $30 million in interest and $3 million in warehousing could be saved the taxpayers of America each year, the Hoover Commission pointed out.

Up to Citizens

Although efforts have been made since the passage of the National Security Act of 1947 to achieve coordination in the field of supply, the Commission found "no acceptable degree of success." The task force which studied management practices in the department concluded that "a definite program must be outlined which will eliminate unnecessary waste—duplicate stocks, distribution systems, facilities and overhead personnel." Significantly the Committee found "inertia or strong resistance" on the part of the military departments toward coordination of common supply and service activities.

Some of the top leaders in American industry and finance, experts in the highly competitive business of keeping expenses down, have spent months at the important task of finding ways and means of saving tax money in the operation of our gigantic Defense Department. The citizens of America now have the responsibility of pushing through to concrete actions the recommendations made by these business experts.

TOO MUCH IDLE TIME

An Iowa youth has written to his hometown newspaper, asking that the town do something for the youth of the town.

Another newspaper explodes with this: "For the Love of Mike, why it is the kids cannot themselves find something legitimate to do, the way they did in the 'Good Old Days'."

That newspaper forgets that in the "good old days," there weren't any child labor laws to prevent a boy or girl doing work after school and over the weekends. Today, the law prohibits even a parent from working his son or daughter in his store or shop and there isn't a chance of other young people getting part-time work.

Those jobs drained off the energy of youth and at the same time some started learning a trade. Even those who didn't follow their boyhood work as a lifetime vocation, learned whether or not what they tried had been to their liking.

The social laws have made it necessary to provide recreation for young people and adults as well. The millennium we expected to come with the passage of child labor laws and 40-hour weeks, has brought new problems and one of them is the supervision of people in their idle time.

Forty years ago we didn't have radios and television sets in the home. Some homes had phonographs but the ten or 20 records got rather stale in a hurry. There just wasn't half the available entertainment we have today, but the problem of "what to do" wasn't as great as it is now.

The young lady eyed her escort with extreme disapproval.

"That's the fourth time you've gone back for more ice cream and cake, Albert," she said acidly. "Doesn't it embarrass you at all?"

"Why should it?" the hungry fellow shrugged. "I keep telling them I'm getting it for you."

PAUSE FOR REFLECTION

With James C. Ingebretsen

The following quotation from the late Dr. Charles Steinmetz provides a prediction of hopeful things to come of vast implications:

"The greatest discoveries in years to come," declared the great scientist, "will be made along spiritual lines. Some day people will learn that material things do not bring happiness and are of little use in making men and women creative and powerful. Then the scientists of the world will turn their laboratories to the study of God and prayer. When that day comes, the world will see more advancement in one generation than it has in the last four."

Perhaps what D. Steinmetz envisioned is approaching faster than a lot of us realize. At any rate, I think its advent is being hastened by the very spirit of scientific inquiry which, in its earlier, adolescent days, was inclined to shy away from anything resembling spiritual matters.

We are inevitably nearing the point, it seems to me, at which we shall be confronted with the irrefutable evidence that to violate God's law in the realm of the spirit, or of morality, is just as unscientific as to violate His law in any other realm.

Once we reach that point, science and religion will join in proclaiming the sovereignty of God over every aspect of life, and there can be not the slightest doubt that "the world will see more advancement in one generation than it has in the last four."

Modern Science Finally Catches Up With Grandpa

I got put in my place the other night. Deserved it, too. My father-in-law said we were due for bad weather. "Birds are flying low," he reported. "That means a storm."

I started to josh with the old gentleman about being superstitious. Then my nephew Jim, on vacation from college, pipes up. "Grandad's right," he says.

"At least, that's what they say at school," Jim goes on. "The heavy air you get before a storm forces insects down low—so high-flying birds have to swoop along the ground if they want to eat."

From where I sit, there's probably sound reasoning back of most old sayings . . . back of anything people have learned to believe in. Take the idea of a stitch in time saving nine—sparing rods and spoiling children—of drinking hot milk, or a refreshing glass of beer, at bedtime. You may not hold with any of these beliefs yourself . . . but it's not smart to give them the "bird."

Soil Conservation
Notes

TERRACES

Frank Hacker is building over a mile of terraces on his farm four miles south of Muenster. They will be broad, easy-to-cross and easy-to-work channel type terraces and will outlet on to a Bermuda grass waterway that was sodded only last year. The terraces will provide added protection to some 40 acres of sloping cultivated land. Hacker is cooperating with the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District to install a coordinated soil and water conservation plan on his farm. These terraces are one of the practices recommended. Local SCS personnel staked the terrace lines.

Seed Harvest

Henry Wiesman has just completed harvesting his Madrid Sweet Clover seed. J. H. Bayer has harvested seed from clover that was cut earlier for hay on the Wilson farm. Yields were fairly good on both farms. Bayer also harvested vetch from a part of his pasture. The grass had been overseeded to vetch last fall.

C. C. Ware of Saint Jo harvested some 10,000 pounds of vetch recently from a farm he operates at Dye Creek.

Legume seed is an important weapon to land owners in the battle to improve and protect the soil.

Buddy Reiter has baled King Ranch Bluestem seed hay on his farm in the Linn community. The seed hay will be kept until next spring and then will be scattered on additional acres to establish this grass where it is needed to retard erosion and furnish good grazing for livestock.

Ponds

Bruno Fleitman, whose 43 acres of Chinese Red Cowpeas are "a-doin' good," is building a pond for livestock water on the Bob Cooke farm north of Muenster.

Now's The Time

According to local SCS personnel now is the time to (1) build terraces, (2) give field terraces a good plowing up (many farmers got caught with their terraces down in the heavy spring rains), (3) locate and mark off waterways to be sodded or seeded next spring, (4) rotate grazing on pastures, (5) mow short grass pastures, (6) buy winter legume seed and fertilize for early fall plantings of vetch, alfalfa and winter peas for soil improvement and protection.

Even sheep are wearing cotton! Coats of cotton for the wool-bearing animals are the latest fashion on the western range. The cotton jacket is a new idea that has caught on with ranchers as a means of protecting the animal fleeces from dust. Last winter, Dick Stauder, sheep and wool marketing specialist with the New Mexico Extension Service, carried out a demonstration which proved that the cotton blankets kept four pounds of dust and dirt out of each fleece. Besides, coyotes are afraid of the jackets and keep their distance from such strangely garbed sheep!

HE MILKED HIS SOIL

This is the way the fence around his farm looked — all blown over with sand eroded from his fields. He was milking a good herd of dairy cows, but he was also milking his soil of every bit of plant nutrients without putting anything back.

Then one day, his county agent made some suggestions at a meeting, things he could do to stop sand from blowing and rebuild his soil. He terraced the land and he planted cover crops. He plowed under legumes to rebuild his soil. Now he milks only the cows, and because his soil is better he gets more milk.

Money management like soil management can bring success. Let us assist you with any money problems you may have.

S-K-I-T-E!—Grace Chambers is congratulated by Charles Pickering after bagging these Atlantic Skites over the ocean off Marshfield, Mass. Skites are neither fish, nor fowl—they're target kites towed by a power boat when playing seagoing skeet—a waterborne version of trapshooting. The high-flying sport was originated by two employees of a Marshfield firearms manufacturing concern.

A small boy, speaking of his teacher, remarked: "She's mean, but she's fair; she's mean to everybody."

A&M Recommends Simple Method to Control Hornflies

COLLEGE STATION — Hornflies—a problem on livestock this time of year—are causing many producers to lose 20 to 30 pounds of beef per animal annually. But the pests can be controlled with simple steps and nominal costs.

About half the size of ordinary houseflies, hornflies suck blood of livestock causing irritation which leads to loss of weight, indigestion and other disorders, explains Dr. F. M. Fuller, extension entomologist.

Sprays of .5 (five-tenths) percent DDT, toxaphene or methoxychlor are recommended for hornfly control. Any type hand or power sprayer is effective in making applications which should remain potent to the flies for three weeks or longer.

While some producers are using cable type rubbing devices, Fuller believes a good spray program gives much better control of the costly pests.

Two men in a small city joined the police force. They were so keen that they arrested dozens of people on minor charges and most of the defendants had to pay fines. The two young policemen were on the verge of promotion when the chief was amazed to receive their resignations. "Why do you want to leave the force?" he asked. "Are you discontent in any way?"

"It's not that," replied one of the young policemen. "But me and Dan here intend to start a police station of our own. He's going to run in the people and I'm going to fine them."

Nation's Industry Is Planning Ahead

With America's population growing at the rate of 2,700,000 every year, census experts predict we'll have a population of 200 to 220 million by 1975. That's just 20 years from now! The statistics, by themselves, may not startle many of us until we stop and think that today's new-born babe will have reached voting age and be ready in 1975 to go out into the world and seek his fortune.

Many of us are so busy with today's problems we don't get around to planning very much for the future. But American industry is planning ahead. Business men know for example, that they are going to be called upon to create some 22 million new jobs between now and 1975—when we can expect to have a working population totaling 88 million.

The fifty-year members are Mmes. George Spaeth, Lena Schmitt, Mike Fuhrmann, Sophie Schad, Joe Bezner, Elizabeth Neu, Nick Reinhart and Anna Wiese.

Each received a white corsage and occupied places of honor in church for a special 7 o'clock mass during which members received the Eucharist in a body. Father Conrad Herda, pastor, officiated.

In the afternoon, the jubilarians were recognized again at a business meeting and social in the parish hall. Mrs. William Fleitman, president, conducted the meeting and was assisted with hostess duties during the social hour by Mrs. Pete Block, society secretary.

Fr. Placidus and 9 Brothers of Subiaco Abbey Vacation Here

Nine Benedictine Brothers from Subiaco, four of them former Lindsay boys, and their director at the abbey, Father Placidus Eckert, brother of James Eckert of Muenster, are spending a five day vacation in Muenster and Lindsay with homefolks and on Wednesday went to Windthorst to visit. They will return to Subiaco Friday.

The Brothers Louis Fuhrmann, Michael Fuhrmann, Henry Fuhrmann and John Schad are sons of Messrs. and Mmes. H. S., Joe and Willie Fuhrmann and Mrs. Sophie Schad. Others in the group are Brother Leonard Schroeder whose folks live in Windthorst, and Brothers Martin Goecke, Norbert Swyfsig, Stanley Hon and Patrick Hogan.

Tuesday night Father Louis was host here in the parish hall for a get-together of the Brothers and Father Placidus with members of their families from Lindsay and Muenster. Wednesday night all the Fuhrmann clan gathered in the Lindsay Hall for a get-together honoring the visitors.

Industry Depends On Solo Inventors For Many Ideas

American industry spends billions of dollars on research—yet, contrary to popular belief, industry gets many of its most revolutionary ideas from independent inventors. Here are some of them:

The frozen food industry, pioneered by Clarence Birdseye, a biologist.

The Garand rifle, invented by John C. Garand while a member of the New York National Guard. Polaroid glass (anti-glare), invented by Edwin H. Land, a student.

Television, important developments pioneered by independent inventor Philo T. Farnsworth.

Neoprene, first U. S. synthetic rubber, developed from suggestions by Father Julius Nieuwland, a college professor.

The basic radio vacuum tube, invented by struggling inventor Lee De Forest.

B-29 and Chicks Compete for Title In County League

Muenster's B-29 Bombers and the Bezner Chicks of Gainesville are the two contenders for the 1955 championship of the Cooke County Softball league. Their 4 out of 7 series for the loop title got under way Tuesday night.

Both teams entered the final of the league play off by winning three straight in last week's semifinal series. The Bombers eliminated VFW and the Chicks eliminated Lindsay. Eligibility for the play off was determined by team standings at the end of the regular season. The first four teams in the order of their standings were Bombers, Chicks, Lindsay and VFW.

In their opening play off contest the Bombers put men on base in every inning, a total of 12 and managed to bring 4 of the runners home. Meanwhile Veterans put 5 on base and scored 1.

Muenster started the scoring in the second, getting two on a walk, a sacrifice and 2 errors. A single and a double produced another in the fifth and the same combination brought in the fourth run in the seventh. A walk and a triple in the sixth was good for VFW's 1 run.

Melvin Herr led the B-29 hitters with a perfect record of 3 hits and a walk in 4 trips to the plate. Coffman allowed 3 hits and 2 walks and fanned 2. Cain gave up 8 hits and 2 walks and fanned 2.

The second game was salted away in a strong fourth inning that brought in the only 3 runs of the contest. Herbie Herr walked, took second on Mages' single and both advanced on a wild throw. Herr came in and Mages took third on Becker's sacrifice and Mages scored on Felderhoff's single. Another threat in the sixth fell short as Becker hit and Felderhoff took base on an error but neither reached home. The Veterans got 3 scattered and ineffective hits.

Coffman allowed 1 walk and 3 hits while fanning 7. Cain gave up 1 walk and 4 hits and struck out 1.

The finale was the tight game of the series as the Bombers made their lone second inning tally stand up for the rest of the game. Melvin Herr walked, advanced on Felderhoff's sacrifice and came in on an error. Coffman fanned 5, allowed 3 hits and 1 walk. Cain struck out 7, allowed 3 hits and two walks.

Perfect fielding to a great extent accounts for Bomber wins in the series. Errors hurt the Veterans in each game whereas the Bombers did not make one error.

Self discipline is something that grows inside, like a backbone.
