NUMBER 31

Leaders of the Farm Bureau are deeply concerned about proposed new legislation to make farmers subject to minimum wage standards and also requiring them to bargain with union leaders when hiring farm help. Senator Harrison Williams of New Jersey recently stated his intention to introduce such bills soon, probably as amendments to the Poverty bill. There are two packages of provisions, identified as S.523 and S.529.

The first requires that a farmer who employs more than 500 man-days of help in any of the four preceding quarters shall become subject to provisions of the bill. Thereafter the applicable minimum wage would increase progressively over four years to not less than $1.25 an hour, or such wage as is generally applicable. The significant point in that last clause is the fact that labor unions are already demanding a minimum of $2.00 per hour for farm labor.

At first glance the bill's bite does not seem severe to the small farmer. He does not hire enough help to be affected. On second thought, however, one realizes that rates paid by big farmers will set the standards and little farmers will have to meet the standards in order to get help. They will become victims of circumstance if not victims of the law. Such wages will become a burden to many farmers already struggling to get along.

The second bill is the bitter pill for the average farmer, as well as for many farm workers. It provides for unionizing farm labor. A union, even though its status has not been determined by an election, may represent farm labor in bargaining with a farmer. And the worker, as a condition of employment, would be required to join the union after seven days of employment. Also a union hiring hall would be legalized and farmers would be required to fill jobs from union referrals. Finally, minimum experience qualifications would be specified and provisions made for seniority in employment to govern promotions.

These are provisions enumerated in an analysis of the bill by the Cooke County Farm Bureau. Needless to say they are enough to make most farmers see red — by which we refer not only to justified indignation but also to the threat of communist police state methods.

For a series of real shocks consider each of the provisions in the second bill. First, the union, which becomes the bargaining agent need not be established by an election of the workers who will be its members. Who then becomes the leader, or boss of the union? Will he be appointed by a federal agency or a labor union? Or will he be the first man with enough gall or goon support to step in and take charge? Whatever the answer to those questions he will not be the chosen representative of the men concerned.

Next provision: A worker must join to hold his job. Along with the first provision this simply spells out a federally imposed requirement for a closed shop in farm labor — for compulsory unionism. A man does not work unless he pays dues to and takes orders from a union boss. Nor, in his helpless status, will he even have a voice in deciding what policies will apply or how his money will be spent.

This provision presents a two-fold evil of the worst kind. As it applies to the farmer it sets up an autocratic labor czar who can be as arbitrary as he wishes in his bargaining. The farmer is completely at his mercy. He has to knuckle under or he gets no help. As it applies to the worker, it is equally bad. It robs him of his freedom. He becomes a slave subject to another's decisions or he does not eat.

It seems incredible that such legislation could be considered by lawmakers of a free country. It would be different if the bill encouraged voluntary unionism, which has real merit. Reason and justice tell us that it is all right for workers to organize to protect their interests. Reason also tells us that unions which exist by consent of their members will do a better job. They have to in order to keep their membership. That's as it should be. It violates no one's freedom and it continues to exist because

Vending Machines Take over Sales at Ferd's Ice House

Automation has arrived at Ferd's Ice House, providing a 24 hour ice service for the community. The ice is sold through vending machines which are accessible at any time.

There are two vending machines, one for a 12 1/2 pound block of ice costing 25c, the other for a 15 pound bag of crushed ice costing 35 cents. Each has its separate conveyor inside the ice house loaded with the blocks or bags. When the machine is used a motor inside moves the conveyor a notch forward and the ice falls through a trap door.

Ferd Lutmer, owner, says the machine is working out fine, except a few people are still cautious about risking their money in it. They ask an employee to operate it for them. But the machine has not failed yet.

The big advantage is service he said. No more d-lays when customers come to the ice house and gasoline pumps at the same time. Service station personnel go on with their own job while ice customers help themselves. And of course there's the convenience of getting ice when the station is closed.

Work is not eliminated, however. Just arranged better. Ice still has to be blocked, or (Continued on page 8)

Open House Friday To Show Hospital At Gainesville

An informal open house to show the new wing of Gainesville Memorial Hospital has been set for Friday night, 7 to 9 o'clock. By "informal" the Gainesville Hospital Authority means there will be no program, just the opportunity to see what is done so far in enlarging and modernizing the hospital.

According to schedule, work on the old part of the hospital will start soon. Patients are to be moved into the new rooms about July 1.

The new addition is described as modern in every respect, featuring the new look along with new facilities.

It has 36 patient rooms with 64 beds. Other rooms are a chapel, a kitchen, dining room, nurses' office, nurses' station, utility rooms, record room and medicine room.

The remodeling program to begin soon on the old part of the hospital will improve the old patients' rooms and other departments and connect it with the new — resulting in a modern 100 bed hospital.

Hospital Is Proud Of Machine for Respiratory Aid

An interesting piece of equipment in use at Muenster Memorial Hospital is a comparatively new gadget called the Bennett Intermittent Positive Pressure Machine. It's a welcome and versatile mechanical aid to relieve respiratory trouble and patients quickly learn to use it.

The machine can be used to force air into the lungs or to assist a patient's breathing, also to put medications into the lungs to loosen and dissolve mucus or infectious material, thereby enabling a person to cough up the troublesome material and breathe more easily.

The unit is kept in the emergency room of Muenster Hospital because it can be very helpful in overcoming the ill effect that often accompanies an emergency. Injury or insufficient air supply may cause respiratory trouble. The machine will help correct that.

Meanwhile it is also conveniently available to patients' rooms for such uses as dispensing oxygen or caring for respiratory disorders like asthma, collapse of lung, or emphysema (air escaping from lungs).

Notes on Building and Improvement

Newest of the community's building projects is a new home for the Joe Bernauer's just starting at the corner of Oak and Fourth. It will feature three bedrooms, two baths, central heat, brick siding, attached garage.

Almost as new is a home for Mr. and Mrs. Ted Henschel on Sycamore. It will have three bedrooms, two baths, central heating and cooling, brick siding, attached garage.

Another recent start is on the new house for the Jack Biffles at Myra, replacing the one they lost in a fire several weeks ago. It will have three bedrooms, two baths, central heat, brick, attached garage.

The Felix Becker home, also replacing a recent fire loss, is finished and has been occupied for about two weeks. It is a three bedroom brick house, with two baths, attached garage, central heat.

The new home for the Arthur Felderhoffs on Oak and Fourth, opposite Bernauer's, is almost finished. Its principal features are four bedrooms, three baths, brick siding, double carport, central heating and cooling.

Finished and occupied is the new Ervin Henschel home in the addition recently annexed to North Muenster. It has three bedrooms, two baths, attached garage, central heating, brick siding.

On the Koessler place north of town Mr. and Mrs. Tony Koessler will soon be moving into their new home. It's at the painting stage now. Main features are three bedrooms, one bath, fireplace, central heat, double garage.

Bayer Brothers on their farm north of town have built a practically new house. They started by moving in an old house, put on a new roof and did lots of remodeling. The job is almost finished.

Major remodeling is under way at Gene Hoedebeck's. He is adding one bedroom, bath, utility and carport.

The same applies to Werner Becker. The job, now almost finished, consists of renovations and additional built-ins for kitchen and bath, followed by a paint job inside and outside.

Similar work is in progress at Albert Henschel's. He is modernizing kitchen, living room and bath.

A big and well equipped shop for Flusche Manufacturing Co. is located in a new 40x100 metal building on south Main. Sides are enameled steel, the roof is aluminum with six 4x6 plastic sky lights. Doors at the two ends are 16 feet high and 18 feet wide, plenty of space for a big truck.

The Cardinals held on to their perfect record Wednesday night by walloping the Jays 15-9, and the Crows took second place in the loop with a 6-2 win over the Hawks.

For the Cards it was just a matter of bringing home more runners. They got their 15 on 9 hits, 4 walks and 6 errors, whereas the Jays made their 9 on 5 hits 6 walks and 6 errors. Work on Mains To Move Greater Volume of Water

Work now in progress on the city water system will increase the supply for the summer's peak demand and also prepare the city better to take care of an emergency. An eight inch line is being laid from the new reservoir, finished last year, and connecting with the main at the old reservoir.

Its purpose, Steve Moser explained, is to complete a loop enabling the pumps to send water into the mains by either or both directions. One pump forces it one way, the other forces it the other way. Running together they can supply much more water than before, probably enough to keep up with demand at peak consumption.

The big advantage, however, is emergency value. If one pump should fail or a line should break flow of water through the mains need not be interrupted. The net result will be that water here can be moved faster than ever before and a failure at the pump or main will cause less trouble. We need not fear, for instance, that water will fail to flow for a fire.

SONIC BOOM CASUALTY? The sudden violent explosive sound that frequently jars peoples' nerves nowadays, and rattles windows and shakes buildings, is blamed for the damage on this 5000 bushel grain storage tank at Muenster Milling Company's elevator. Immediately after one of the aerial blasts the damage was noticed and some of its wheat was promptly run out to reduce the strain. It's regarded as more than a coincidence that this tank and six others of North Texas are reported to have folded within a three day period when supersonic planes were booming in the areas concerned. Five 9000 bushel tanks at Whitewright were damaged on Tuesday, June 9. This one was damaged on June 10. A 12000 bushel tank was damaged at Sanger on June 11. All were reported to be full of grain at the time. — Boyd and Breeding photo

Field Day Set at Montague Fruit Farm on July 1

County Agent Neil Tibbets said yesterday that local growers could gain valuable information by attending the July 1 field day at the Fruit Investigations Laboratory near Montague.

Said he: "Because fruit production is an economic factor in Cooke County, many of our growers — including those who have only a tree or two in the backyard — will be interested in the practical subjects to be discussed at Montague, such as the chemical thinning of peaches, the control of insects, the pruning of grapes."

Sponsored by the Montague County Farm Bureau and the Fruit Land U. S. A. Association, the field day plans are complete, and Supt. U. A. Randolph expects to host more than 250 guests.

The laboratory, a unit of the College of Agriculture at Texas A&M University, has had a field day nearly every year since 1942. It was established in 1938 about two and a half miles southwest of Montague.

Chairman of the July 1 program, which begins at 8 a.m. and ends at 11:50 a.m., is Ted Martin of Denton, district agent of Extension District 4. Official greeter will be Brooks Smith, Montague County agricultural agent. As guests arrive at the laboratory, they will be grouped and guided by Extension agents on tour of the orchards. Then they will have short talks, mostly on peach production, by eleven county agents and specialists.

The Average American Farmer

One of the most prevalent myths is that the average farmer is rich and that where he doesn't make a profit off the poor consumer, he gets it in a subsidy from the government.

The facts in the matter look something like this: The farm operator is 50 1/2 years old.

His farm covers 302.4 acres. The value of his land and building is $33,242. He received 82c per hour in 1960 for each hour he, his family, and hired hands worked on the farm. (In a factory they would have averaged $2.29. Had they been engaged in marketing and distributing what they raised they would have averaged $2.14 per hour.)

His per capita income in 1960 was $983. Non-farm per capita income was $2,232. In 1960 the average farmer received $173 paid directly to him under farm programs.

Nancy Stambaugh Becomes Bride of Claude D. Walter

Miss Nancy Ann Stambaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis H. Stambaugh of Abbottstown, Pa., became the bride of Lt. Claude D. Walter, Highland Park, N. J., at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, June 13, in St. Thomas More Church, Arlington, Va. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Walter of Muenster.

The Rev. Paul Carroll performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short white gown of peau de soie. It was fashioned with a scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves and belled skirt. The bodice and skirt were adorned with re-embroidered Alencon lace with seed pearls. Her short bouffant veiling of pure silk illusion fell from a Swedish crown of blossoms. She carried a prayer book topped with a white orchid showered with streamers.

Mrs. Wayne Stambaugh, Abbottstown, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a street-length dress of mint green chiffon over taffeta with a lace jacket, and a matching headpiece. She carried a bouquet of pale yellow carnations.

Eugene Walter, Las Vegas, Nev., brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception for the immediate families followed afterward at the Arva Motor Hotel.

After returning from a honeymoon at Cape Cod, the couple will reside in Highland Park, New Jersey.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of New Oxford High School and a 1963 graduate of Maryland Medical Secretarial School, Hagerstown, Md. She was employed at the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

First benefit decided on is a bake sale set for Saturday July 11. Members also voted dues of a dollar a year.

A telephone committee appointed consists of Mrs. Ray Evans and Mrs. Richard Grewing. A social committee was organized with Mmes. C. M. Walterscheid, James Mollenkopf, John Wieler, Ray Evans, Dick Cain, Walter Grewing, David Reiter, Ted Gremminger and Ernest Medders as members.

Routine reports included an interesting account of activity at City Library where business is booming since school closed. Children's vacation reading seems to increase each week until the past Wednesday when near 400 books were checked out.

It was announced that the court's Christmas cards have arrived and are for sale at $1.50 a dozen. The cards are in color showing Sacred Heart Church main altar as it was decorated for Christmas last year.

Mrs. Charles Taylor, retiring grand regent, conducted business until installation, and afterward handed the gavel to the new grand regent Mrs. Al Schmitt. Mrs. Taylor thanked members for their help and cooperation and for the grand regent pin which she received as a gift at the meeting.

Installed with Mrs. Schmitt were Mrs. Charley Fisher, vice regent; Mrs. Charley Hellman, treasurer; Mrs. Gene Schmitz, lecturer; Mrs. R. N. Paul Fisher's Cow Leads County in Milk Production

A cow owned by Muenster Dairyman Paul Fisher produced 3,040 pounds of milk to lead all others in the Cooke County Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of April.

County Agent Neil Tibbets said the cow produced 76 pounds of butterfat with a test of 2.5 per cent.

High butterfat test for the month was from a cow owned by Wilfred Sicking. Its test was 6.9. A cow owned by Richard Frasher produced the most butterfat for the month — 90 pounds.

Twenty-three cows produced more than a ton of milk during the month, Tibbets said. They are in herds owned by Fisher, Sicking, Paul Fetsch, Jerry Hoenig, Hi-Lo Farms, F&M Dairy, H. C. and Leroy Hay, Richard Frasher and Peter Prescher.

Fisher's herd took two other honors during April. His herd had the highest average production of butterfat — 44 pounds — and the highest average production of milk — 1,344 pounds.

A total of 128 cows in the Cooke County DHIA produced 50 pounds or more of butterfat during the month and average production was 956 pounds of milk.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

More than 2000 acres of land were planted to Bermuda grass this spring in the Muenster-Saint Jo-Forestburg portion of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District. The majority of this grass was planted on reclaimed land. However thousands of acres still remain to be reclaimed.

The county cost-share programs are paying approximately one-half the cost. There is one drawback to reclaiming this land and many cooperators have tended to overlook it in hopes it might go away. But it hasn't and it won't. The big problem is this — regrowth.

Lay-out land generally contains a good supply of weed and grass seed. Cleared land gives sprouts. Regrowth must be controlled before the desired grasses can grow properly.

Research has shown that it takes more water and nutrients to grow a pound of weeds or brush than to grow a pound of grass. Which do you want?

There are different ways to control this regrowth. Soil Conservation technicians mention some of these in two separate groups. First, old field or cropland. A method growing in popularity is to use a chemical spray, 2-4-D. This is possible on all types of plantings. Also recommended is to follow the manufacturer's recommendation — he will call for plenty. Another method of control if plants are in a row is to cultivate between rows. Regular cultivators or a tiller tool can be used. Those who have done this are convinced it works. Fred Hennigan of Muenster and W. F. Landers of Forestburg are two who are convinced.

Still the most widely used method of control is to lightly graze and mow. Any of these methods will give needed control and should be used.

Two methods are available here. Lightly graze and mow or spray with chemicals. Soil conservation technicians also recommend this: some have used an off-set disk to deep plow an area where brush has been removed. Lack of regrowth is quite evident in these areas and it seems to be worth the few extra dollars to have it done.

For further information call or come by the local Soil Conservation office.

They saw cars so smartly styled, so easy to handle, so good to drive, that they made this the best sales year in Ford Division history even before the Mustang came out. They saw America's leading performance car — the Super Torque Ford (hardtop sales up 54%). They saw America's most famous personal luxury car—Thunderbird—with sales up 68% over last year's record. They found out why Falcon almost outsells Chevy II and Valiant combined. And why Fairlane is a pace-setter in its own field. One look can make you fall in love with any one of Ford's 46 models. Three common myths are that bats snarl themselves in women's hair, falling cats always land on their feet, and elephants are afraid of mice. All are untrue!

Jefferson Davis, only president of the Confederacy, was charged with treason at the end of the Civil War and detained for two years, but never brought to trial.

Public Urged to Increase Use of Dairy Products

You never outgrow your need for milk. And the people of Texas need to consume more dairy products for best health conditions, observes Shannon Carpenter, area dairy specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Since June is Dairy Month, now is a good time to plan meals which utilize the abundant supply of wholesome dairy products, says Carpenter. Too, since the temperature is approaching summer levels, it is also a time when refreshing, easy-to-serve meals come into their own and dairy products fill the bill.

From our earliest colonial history, the dairy cow has played a major role in the progress of our nation, says Carpenter. The early settlers depended upon the dairy cow for a large portion of their food and today the nation's dairy industry supplies an ever-increasing population with an abundance of wholesome and healthful dairy products—many not even dreamed of by the pioneers.

And still back of the mighty industry is the dairy cow, a marvelous creature, says Carpenter. She takes the grass and grain from our fields and makes them into nature's most nearly perfect food—milk. And what's more, according to the specialist dairy products, including milk are a food bargain in today's supermarkets. Compare their cost from the standpoint of food nutrients supplied with other sources of these same nutrients and you'll readily see why dairy products are a best food buy, Carpenter says.

Miss Patricia Block, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Block of Lindsay, became the bride of William Hemmi, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hemmi of Scotland, in nuptial mass at 10 a.m. Saturday in St. Peter's Church.

The Rev. Herman Laux of Rhineland, uncle of the bride, celebrated the mass and performed the double ring ceremony. St. Cecilia's choir, with Mrs. William Schmitz, organist, sang the mass. Mrs. Ben Hermes, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Bruno Zimmerer sang "Mother at Your Feet" after the service when the bride presented a bouquet at the Blessed Virgin's shrine.

Mr. Block escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She wore an original gown of white silk organza over taffeta with appliques of lace. The moulded bodice featured a portrait neckline and long petal point sleeves. A butterfly bow of organza accented the back waistline and the bouffant skirt swept into a chapel train. A headpiece of pearls and paillettes held her waist-length veil and she carried a white orchid on top of her prayer book, a gift from the groom.

Miss Linda Hoelker, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Nellie Ann Hess was bridesmaid. They wore street length dresses of sky blue embroidered silk organza over taffeta with square necklines and bell skirts. Their hats matched their dresses and they carried cascades of white carnations.

Eugene Block, brother of the bride, was best man and Gus Hemmi of Windthorst was groomsmen. Ewald Hoelker Jr., bride's cousin, and Art Hemmi, groom's brother of Scotland, ushered.

Wedding reception and buffet for relatives and friends were held in the Lindsay Hall beginning at 5:30 p.m. and the day's festivities concluded with a dance. Presiding at the bride's book were Miss Shirley Lindemann of Scotland and Miss Kathy Streng.

When the newlyweds left on their honeymoon she was wearing a beige suit with white accessories. They will be at home in Wichita Falls where he is employed by the Wichita Daily Times. He was graduated from Archer City High School, attended Mid-Western University and served in the army two years. The bride is a graduate of Lindsay High School and has been employed as a cashier for Texas Power & Light Co. in Gainesville.

Dehydration of fruits and vegetables was the earliest method of food preservation practiced in Texas.

crushed and packaged, and loaded on the conveyor. That is done in slack times.

Everything about the set-up is new. A pre fabricated ice house, larger than the old one, has replaced the old one. A long with vendine mechanism and crusher it has a refrigerator and circulating fan to keep the interior between 22 and 26 degrees. A thermostat starts the refrigerator when temperature gets up to 26 and stops it when the temperature drops to 22.

Bureaucracy Work In Agriculture Beats Farming

Recent statistics released concerning the nation's farm and ranch economy clearly indicate this:

If you are interested in making a living in the realm of agriculture in the near future, you had better plan on a life in the government bureaucracy. Within the past three years, our total farm population dropped from 15,600,000 to 13,800,000.

During this time, the Administration increased the Department of Agriculture payroll from 90,600 employees to 116,300. The bureaucracy gained 18 per cent; the farm population declined 12 per cent. Department of Agriculture spending increased from $5.4 billion in 1960 to $7.7 billion in 1963. While Department spending was going up 43 per cent, the farmer's cost-price ratio was going down nearly 10 per cent.

To maintain the present dietary level for the expanding population, American farmers and ranchers must produce two and one-half times what they do now by 1975.

Confetti - - -

cause it deserves to exist. But compulsory unionism clashes with basic morality. It makes tyrants of its leaders, slaves of its members.

But let's look at the third provision. A farmer would not be free to hire the help he wants — a friend or a neighbor or even a relative. He would not be free to offer his job to the one he considers most capable. No, he would be required to ask at the union hall and accept the man selected by the union boss. If the man is lazy or incapable that's his hard luck. He makes out or does without. Furthermore, it's quite likely that many workers will be poor workers when they know the employer is unable to fire them and choose someone better.

Fourth provision: experience qualifications and provisions to govern seniority in employment and promotion. In the first place experience qualification is meaningless when a worker can get by with as little as he pleases. And seniority and promotion will depend far more on the interest of the boss than on the merit of the worker.

Could it be possible that Farm Bureau's analysis of this bill is mistaken? Maybe so. We hope so. But if not we hope that legislators will have the judgment and the conscience to turn it down. To pass such a law would be an introduction to agricultural slavery.
