NUMBER 20

The hostage murder of the German diplomat by Guatemala terrorists Sunday stands out as another extreme of communist insolence which calls for counter action by civilized people of the world.

Our sympathy goes out to the victim's family and country for his blameless tragic involvement in the affair of another country and its bandits. Sympathy is due also to the Guatemala government for the shocking outcome of its decision to stand on principle. It refused to be blackmailed for the release of 22 convicted criminals. It made the mistake of assuming that even the reds were not inhuman enough to carry out their threat.

Now they know the score. This removes any doubt on what reds will do to achieve their purpose. And, unless counter measures are adopted soon, this gives reds an advantage in carrying out more revolutionary operations. Their hazard of capture is nullified because anyone caught in the act can be freed by a kidnapping and an ultimatum. Two such releases were carried out in recent weeks, and now this savagery proves that the ultimatums were not bluffs.

This situation points up the problem that has existed for years in civilization's dealings with communism. Governments abide by rules of justice and humanitarian standards whereas reds have no scruples whatever about killing people. It's time for governments to apply the same standard of justice to red revolutionaries that political enemies receive in red countries.

It is disappointing that Guatemala did not issue an ultimatum of its own in answer to the red demand. It could have served notice that the 22 prisoners would die if the diplomat was not released.

People of the free world desperately need to realize that they have to get as tough as the communists if they hope to survive. They have to admit to themselves that the red operation is revolution. It is war. The criminals carrying out acts of murder, arson, bombing, ambush and other types of terrorism are enemies and traitors deserving death. If that policy were put into effect wherever reds are operating the red menace would be less menacing.

As regards the kidnap and ransom stunt, an official warning ought to be issued in every free country. Governments can handle the situation if they get tough and show that they will do unto the reds as reds do unto others.

Saturday's victory march in Washington brings on mixed emotions. Dedicated Americans stood up before their government pleading for a change of policy that will bring victory out of the no-win debacle in Vietnam.

In our hearts we know that the demonstrators are right. We should have won years ago. We could have won years ago. We could have won years ago. We could have won years ago.

The job is somewhat harder than it would have been at the start, but the method is essentially the same as they recommended before. That is, strike at the enemy's source. Blockade the ports and bomb vital production centers of North Vietnam along with major supply lines. In brief, use our most effective methods instead of allowing the enemy to choose the way of fighting. Go on the offense and whip North Vietnam instead of just trying to turn back the invasion of South Vietnam.

The victory marchers have reason on their side, but unfortunately, that is not what determines official policy. After our many years of a futile winless policy we would need a near miracle to revive a victory spirit in the country. So, we are committed to backing out the best way we can.

Another discouraging fact about the march is that it did not stir up the enthusiasm it deserved in the national news media. Coverage generally presented the demonstrators as so many misguided patriots spinning their wheels. What a sad commentary on the apathy of the American (Continued on Page 8)

Dope Addict Tells His Story to 450 Local Students

About 450 Muenster students along with a few dozen adults sat spellbound for a full hour Tuesday as they heard the gruesome account of one man's career in dope and crime.

The speaker was Richard Perigo, executive director of HIP (Help is Possible) at a joint assembly of the two local schools in the MHS auditorium. His talk was sponsored by the Muenster Jaycees.

Perigo told it as if he is describing his 14 years of hellish existence as an addict and criminal, a slave to dope and a fugitive from justice until the inevitable day of reckoning when he was sentenced to 16 years in the penitentiary and an even more miserable way of life.

Perigo blamed only himself for his shameful waste of years. He started on the "grass" for an occasional high sensation, confident that anyone can kick the habit, but learned soon that he was hooked. Soon he was on heroin and discovered that his habit cost him $70 a day.

That, he pointed out, is how dope leads to crime. To support the habit a man has to rob and steal. A woman turns to prostitution. The misery of addiction is intensified by the misery of a criminal life.

Perigo said that his awakening came while in solitary confinement, the most severe punishment that a convict can bring on himself. In total darkness and silence and hunger and nakedness he came to realize that he was his own worst enemy and for the first time after all those years got to his knees and prayed. He promised God that if he ever got out of prison he would quit the dope and crime and dedicate his life to helping others avoid them.

Improved prison behavior earned him a parole three years later. He is on parole now but will not be free until 1978. The loss of freedom and rights of citizenship he said are the worst penalties of a life of crime. Even after one has served his time he is barred from many of the rights, careers and opportunities that other people have.

Those are the things to think of when a person is tempted to take a chance on dope. They are the terrible risks one takes in thinking it won't hurt him or he can avoid the habit.

SH Wins 1 Champ 2 Runners-Up in TISC Volley Ball

Volley ball teams of Sacred Heart High, coached by Joe Felderhoff, came home from the TISC tournament at Fort Worth Country Day School last Saturday with a first place trophy and a pair of second places. Trophies were awarded only for first places.

The Tigerette Bs got the trophy by wins over the second strings of Greenhill and Day School. Tigerette A's got their second place by beating Greenhill and losing to Day School.

The boys' division was a double round robin, each team playing the others twice. Result for the Tigers was a pair of wins over Trinity Valley and a win and a loss with the Day School. That required a playoff, in which Sacred Heart went down in a hot match requiring a third game.

Additional honors for Sacred Heart came in selection of all-tournament teams. Babe Schilling, Gary Endres and Fred Fuhrman were named on the boys team, Judy Klement and Gale Sicking on the girls team. Members of the Tiger team besides the three dream team selections were Jerry Schmitz, Jim Schmitz, Clifford Zimmerer and Alan Hess. Along with Klement and Sicking on the girls teams were Donna Endres, Nancy Endres, Susan Endres, Peggy Sicking, Shirley Hacker, Theresa Hoedebeck, Donna Rohmer, Karolyn Schoech, Linda Voth, Darlene Walterscheid, Denise Walterscheid, Nancy Fuhrmann and Mary Bayer.

Tisdale and Hartman Are Election Winners

Elections in Muenster last Saturday were mostly routine as voters were required to make only two selections in electing members on three local and two county boards.

Dr. Larry Tisdale won the only local race, polling 110 for Place 6 on the Muenster school board while Willie Walterscheid got 74 and Gus Lutkenhaus 45. It is the position formerly held by David Trachta.

In the other race Herman Hartman won over Norbert Mage of Lindsay for the position of trustee at large on the county school board. The county-wide vote was 550-346, the vote in Muenster was 228-3.

Other candidates on the local school ballot were unopposed for re-election. Jerry Wimmer received 190 for Place 5 and Urban Endres received 172 for Place 7.

Doyle Selby of Era received 125 votes precinct-wide for re-election as Precinct 3 representative on the county school board. Muenster voters gave him 30.

William Pulte of Gainesville and Sloan Fortenberry of Valley View were re-elected to the board of regents of Cooke County Junior College by votes of 771 and 880 respectively. Pulte received 184 at Muenster and Fortenberry received 168.

The ballot for Muenster City Council presented three unopposed candidates seeking re-election. The result was a near unanimous election, marked by a single write-in vote. Richard Grewing polled 117, Aubrey Tuggle 123 and Roddy Klement 124. A number of votes were lost by improper balloting. Ballots were given to 132 voters.

The same was true of the other local elections. 224 ballots were used in the hospital district election but the highest number of valid votes for one candidate was 201.

The hospital ballot, like the city's presented a slate of unopposed candidates. Results of the balloting were Albert Dangelmayr 201, Ray Voth 199, Rufus Henschel 198, Norbert

Meeting Will Air Issue on Aid to Private Schools

A meeting about Citizens for Educational Freedom, with Brother Eugene Jansen of San Antonio as speaker Monday, April 13, is open to the public and is of particular interest to parents whose children are in nonpublic schools. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

Citizens for Educational Freedom works in cooperation with other groups that are interested in promoting the welfare and education of children attending nonpublic schools. CEF is interested in fighting for educational justice and will work with anyone having the same high goals.

While several states of the nation have secured help for nonpublic schools through CEF, the fledgling organization in Texas is sponsoring a bill which would provide state aid in nonpublic schools, but which has yet to be considered by the state legislature.

CEF leaders point out that Texas can get state aid for its parochial schools if enough people get involved.

Brother Jansen will explain this and other facts about CEF at the meeting Monday night. The pastors urge a full attendance of Sacred Heart parishioners.

150 Visit Library At Open House

Open house at Muenster Public Library Sunday afternoon gave visitors an opportunity to see the library in its new home.

Library board members hosted the event from 2 to 4 p.m., presented Mrs. Joe Luke, librarian, a white orchid corsage, and served punch and cookies.

Library staffers conducted tours through the building for 150 visitors and pointed out 5,000 volumes on the shelves. The building was dressed up with a number of floral tributes from business firms and friends.

Now ten years old, the library was started by the local catholic Daughters of America with 12 books. It has outgrown two previous locations and was moved to the Myrick building on Main street in January this year.

Jury Deadlocks on Penalty in Trial Of Bank Robber

A jury of seven women and five men could not agree on a penalty, and the trial of Jimmy Lee Belcher in Judge W. C. Boyd's 16th District Court this week ended as a mistrial.

Belcher is the 18 year old Sanger youth charged with robbing Muenster State Bank of $25,000 on November 25, 1969. His plea of guilty was supported by the testimony of Herbert Meurer, bank president, and officers who took part in arresting the youth some 40 minutes later after a short exchange of gunfire and in recovering the stolen money.

Witnesses for the accused, including Denton County officers and his father, testified that the young man had a good reputation and had not been in trouble before.

In keeping with testimony and the guilty plea, Judge Boyd instructed the jury to find the defendant guilty, and to consider only his punishment.

After four and a half hours of deliberation the jury reported that it was divided 7 to 5 on assessing a prison sentence or a probated sentence.

No date has been set for a retrial.

"Demonstrate" The 4-H Way

To the youths of this area we say: "Stand up and demonstrate." Out of context this would have been a bad connotation, and we hope the connotation you associate with the word "demonstrate" is powerful enough to have drawn you into this paragraph.

Yes, youths, you are encouraged to demonstrate.

Demonstrate how to operate automobiles and tractors safely;

Demonstrate how to bake a loaf of bread or can a jar of peaches;

Demonstrate how to make a dress and model it;

Demonstrate how to catch, identify and display insects;

Demonstrate how to take a picture;

Demonstrate how to give a speech;

Demonstrate how to judge

crops and show livestock;

Demonstrate how to ride and show horses, to train dogs.

Yes, the list could go on and on because there are many ways that 4-Hers "learn-by-doing." Part of the learning process is to demonstrate to others correct methods and procedures.

The children of today aren't the only beneficiaries of 4-H principals. The world of tomorrow gets the prize of today's 4-H demonstrations, and the Lord isn't the only one who knows that young minds and hands need to be kept busy in constructive ways.

More than three million preteens and teenagers have taken part in 4-H demonstrations. They make headlines, but not as big as the headlines destructive demonstrators get. Throughout this nation, the Cooperative Extension Service directs 95,000 clubs supervised by 500,000 volunteer adult and junior leaders.

Attend a county fair, visit a farm, stop in a rural community and search in a city for the 4-H emblem and you'll find the kind of demonstrators that is needed more and more in this area.

4-H is one of those organizations (there are others, too) that satisfies the burning desires of youth and kindles these flames into torches of freedom, and it touches a warm spot in hearts and renews Americans' faith in the future when 4-H youths "stand up and demonstrate."

Death Knell of Republic Concept

Coming before the Senate shortly is a bill that would ring the death knell of the federal Republic concept. Already passed by the House, and calling for the direct election of the President—by a plurality as low as 40% of the total vote—S. J. Res. 1 would complete the transition of the United States from a Republic to a democracy.

Nothing could serve the communists better. By splitting opposition to the candidate they favor, they can easily muster a 40% plurality, and the nation could suffer as New York City where John Lindsay was recently elected by a minority of 41% of the voters.

Without an electoral college, electing power would be even more concentrated in the liberal northeast. Demagogic appeal to big city mobs would be the key to election. The rule of the mob would be complete.

Benjamin Franklin's warning that we had a Republic—if we could keep it—assumes greater cogency than ever. Maintenance of some form of the electoral college is essential to the survival of the last vestiges of our corrupted Republic—hence the Board of Policy's vote in favor of the Mundt Plan.

The electoral college must be preserved. Originally conceived to maintain the sovereignty of the states, by having the states cast the ballots that elect the President, the college has assured a voice in the electoral process to the less populous states.

The destruction of the electoral college system would put the entire Presidential election process under the control of the Federal Government. Cook County-style vote counting would decide who led the nation. In close races, concessions would not come for weeks—until the last absentee ballot was counted and last recount completed—as candidates without the electoral vote to show them conclusively that they had lost would hang on to the last gasp.

The electoral process must not be broken down. To do so would open up a Pandora's box of evils which have not as yet even been contemplated. The entire careful protection given to us by the Founding Fathers in the Constitutional system would be lost. The character of the United States would be completely broken down, as the nihilistic forces which have sought for so long to do so see the achievement of the conversion of this nation from a Republic to a democracy.

This is the time for action. Patriots must contact their senators, letting them know that a vote for S. J. Res. 1 would irrevocably destroy the structure of America, and it must not be passed.

Full Employment in USSR

The communist regime in Russia has an interesting solution for the problem of unemployment.

Take the case of Viktor Krasin, a Russian economist who fell out of favor with the regime. He was fired from his research job last year. This made him unemployed. Unemployment is defined as "parasitism" and is against the law. So Krasin was arrested and exiled to Siberia.

That's full employment, Russian style.

A Letter of Thanks

The Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel recently printed a "thank you" letter from a Marine stationed in Vietnam, directed to certain folks "back home". It read, in part:

"We, the servicemen fighting in Vietnam, wish to give our thanks to those great patriots, Abby Hoffman and David Dellinger, who are leading our country in the streets and alleys as Hanoi's fifth column in the United States; to those illustrious statesmen, Senators Fulbright, McCarthy and McGovern, who back our country and its fighting men to the hilt in much the same way as did Caesar's friend, Brutus; to that college fraternity, the Students for a Democratic Society, which is doing so much to preserve our rights of free speech guaranteed under the Constitution, as clearly shown by their courteous attitude when an opponent to their ideas is making a speech; and to all the other comrades who are giving us so much loyal support, wherever they may be.

"Someday we will be able to tell you how proud you made us as you tore our flag from its staff and dragged it through the streets to burn.

"Someday we will be there to listen as you tell of the 'hardships' you underwent to send your blood to North Vietnam while we wasted our blood on the soil of South Vietnam.

"Someday we will be able to convey to you our feeling from your battle cry, 'Hell No! We Won't Go!' which has replaced our battle cry of the past, 'I only regret that I have but one life to give for my country'."

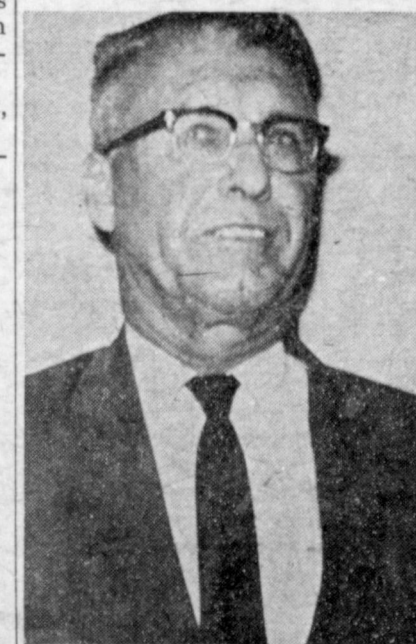

"The name of your game is confrontation and we are coming home to confront you in the streets, in the universities, in the courts of law, in the voting booths, in Our Country. Everywhere we meet we will remember what you have done and give you our personal thanks."

When the boys return home from Vietnam, it will be interesting to note the "dialogue" between those who fought and risked their lives for freedom, and those who "freaked out". Could be quite a "confrontation".

According to "Motor West", "The United States spends almost as much money to build, maintain and operate its highway systems as the rest of the world combined. Figures gathered by the International Road Federation show that in 1968 a total of $34.2 billion was spent for roads in 146 countries and territories. The only areas not supplying information were the Soviet Union, Red China, Rumania and Hungary. Of the total reported by the IRF for 1968, 48 per cent or $16.3 billion were spent in the U. S. . . . Special levies on highway users — such as motor fuel taxes, registration and license fees — provide the bulk of U. S. road funds."

Over 4.1 Million Texans Are Voters

A record total of 4,150,645 Texans are qualified to vote during the primary and general elections this year. Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. reported that count as the State Chief Election officer.

Statewide total is almost 80,000 more than in the 1968 presidential year.

Metropolitan area county registrations rose dramatically from 1969. Harris County (Houston) alone accounted for 650,612 of the votes, Dallas 466,925 and Bexar (San Antonio) 260,225.

Dies said he is confident new procedures for registration and various drives by groups produced the record sign-up, which he had predicted, even though 1970 is a non-presidential year.

Campus Fagins

"The new Ivy League educational theory is that those who need instruction so desperately that they are unfit to go out into the real world until they get four years of it are fit, however, from the moment they arrive on campus to instruct their instructors; that those who look, act, and smell like subhumans are the only true voices of humanity; that the only clear thinkers among us are the half-stoned, and that everyone else has rocks in his head; that our totally non-productive class is the only class worth producing for, and that only our un-toilet-trained can clean up the mess society is in . . .

"(They are encouraged) by campus fagins (the professors) who are waiting on campuses to teach your kid brothers and sisters, and one day your kids, not how to enrich our country with skill, service, and sacrifice, but how to impoverish it, by downgrading the acquisition of useful skills as the slavery of squares, by disdainful service, by demeaning sacrifice; by reviling our past instead of revering it, by spitting on those the democratic process has chosen to govern us, instead of defending the democratic process as their one chance to govern themselves; by laughing at the law and order that protects society and by whining for law and order to protect them."

God Help Us!

We just recently heard a sermon on the radio in which some of the known plans of the Communists for the next 3-6 years were outlined. They included a completing of the moral decline in America. What the scum of the earth commit in secret is to become common for public view in the streets of America. And—get this—the best single weapon the Communists have for completely demoralizing America is "Rock and Roll." Then, after we have been completely degraded (by 1973), by 1976 they plan to have the flag of Communism flying over America. I venture to say that if this takes place, after Communism rules America, the Communists will take steps to reverse the demoralization of America. Because they are using immorality now only as a weapon to enable them to take over. Even now there is less crime, less "free love," etc. in Russia than in America. God help us! Youth's Living Ideals

4-H Program Is On Record Books

Sacred Heart 4-H senior boys and girls clubs held a joint meeting for April with Waymon Moore and Miss Dona Brewster, county extension agents, discussing Record Books and illustrating with slides. It was pointed out that record books are revised this year with shorter method of filling out.

The Countess comes with a "dowry"

$150 — so small a price to pay for the lifelong thrill of dining with the COUNTESS — newest and loveliest Deep Silver pattern from International. We say, so small a price, because COUNTESS is the most extravagant silver-plate you can own. And the heaviest. It is, of course, the only silverplate inlaid with solid silver... so much so, that under normal use and care, we guarantee it for a lifetime.

Like all royalty, the COUNTESS comes with a dowry. These fabulous silver candelabra have been selling everyday for $60.00 the pair. But they're our gift to you if you purchase the Countess in 48-piece service for eight, at $150, before June 30, 1970.

So hurry.

Are Top Attraction
At 1970 Six Flags

SIX FLAGS Over Texas will begin its 1970 season April 11, featuring one of the world's most colorful and exciting attractions, Los Voladores, the Flying Indians Spectacular.

The best-known feature of the Los Voladores presentation is the "flight" by four members of the troupe who spiral from the top of a 100-foot pole while grasping four slender ropes.

The breathtaking descent of the flyers is preceded by a performance by the group's chief who dances on a 12-inch platform at the top of the pole. . . . ten stories in the air. Los Voladores will present four to five shows each day, and, like all rides, shows and attractions at SIX FLAGS, the performances are free to Park guests who have bought the popular one-price ticket.

Tickets are priced at $5.00 for adults and $4.00 for children (under 12).

From April 11, until May 22, SIX FLAGS will be open on Fridays from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m.

The Park's summer schedule begins May 23, and extends through September 7 (Labor Day). Summer hours will be 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. seven days a week.

From September 12, through September 27, the Park will be open Saturdays and Sundays only from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. From October 3, until closing day, November 29, the Saturday-Sunday hours will be 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Workmen have been busy throughout the winter months adding new surprises to many sections of the 145-acre family fun center at Arlington.

New, electric-powered boats will move swiftly through the "treacherous" waters of the LaSalle River Boat ride, passing animated figures never seen before by SIX FLAGS visitors. One of the new scenes portrays the building of the first Spanish mission in Texas, with animated figures hard at work.

Colorful animations from the studios of puppeteers Sid and Marty Krofft bring added excitement and fun to the Caddo War Canoes. Along the tracks of the Park's narrow gauge railroad, visitors will see a ghost town populated by well-dressed skeletons, and -- at Mexican Junction -- a comical, animated band pounds out rhythm for huge, smiling hot tamales doing their own version of "The Twist".

Vital Facts About Money

QUESTION: Why is Money Expensive Now?

ANSWER: Interest rates are the price of money, and like any other price they are set by supply and demand. Right now, the demand for money is heavy, because people fear that prices will continue to rise, and they want to spend now before things cost even more. Meanwhile, the supply of money has been restricted by the Federal Reserve to stop spending and slow inflation. This makes interest rates high.

QUESTION: Why Has The Federal Reserve Had To Restrict The Supply Of Money?

ANSWER: The fight against inflation has to involve some restraint on spending, and in the U.S. we feel it is better to let the official agencies merely determine how much money will be in the economy, and allow the free market to decide who gets this money that is available. This is felt to be superior to a system under which the government enters the market place and decides who will get the available funds.

QUESTION: What Can End Tight Money?

ANSWER: Two forces can help. First, an end of the fear of inflation would stop the heavy borrowing that is now undertaken by people who fear that prices will rise if they wait to borrow and spend. Second, if the deficits of the Federal Government and the state and local governments are kept under control, this will reduce the demand for borrowed funds from these government units. This lessened demand from both the public and private sectors would reduce the cost of borrowing money.

QUESTION: Do Higher Taxes Cause Inflation?

ANSWER: Higher taxes are both a cause and cure of inflation. Tax increases do add to the cost of living. But a nation that expects its governmental bodies to provide more and more public services must expect taxes to rise to pay for these. For the alternative would be that the government would have to finance these services through the creation of new money, which would be highly inflationary. This would cause far more inflation than the rise in taxes would.

QUESTION: Why Should We Fight Inflation?

ANSWER: Some people say they have never lived better than they have during periods of inflation, when prosperity was continual - just as long as their wages rose as fast as inflation advanced. But inflation remains an extremely harsh tax, even though these people do not feel it immediately.

First, it penalizes the saver, who provides the nation with growth capital, by perpetually eroding the value of his savings.

Second, it penalizes the pensioner and others on fixed incomes, as their inflow of funds does not rise to match the increased cost of living.

Third, inflation can not be kept modest. Small inflation snowballs as people try to spend faster to beat the rises in prices. And this rampant inflation has to be followed by a period of digestion, as the nation uses up all the goods bought during the inflation, before new purchases are desired.

Thus inflation first wipes out much of the value of money, and then it follows this with a steep recession or depression, as the nation makes up for its prior purchase of goods long before they were needed. This is a cost paid by all - including the man who feels that inflation brings him permanent prosperity.

QUESTION: What Is The Role Of The Federal Reserve Discount Rate?

ANSWER: The discount rate of the Federal Reserve is a rate that the Federal Reserve charges banks when they borrow from it. This rate is usually below what banks charge for their loans, and thus some people think the banks borrow cheaply from the Federal Reserve and then lend the money out to others at higher prices.

This is not the case. The discount rate is the rate the Federal Reserve charges on its loans to the banks, but these loans are only for very short time periods to meet emergency needs that arise as money leaves the individual banks unexpecttedly. Banks can not borrow from the Federal Reserve and then turn around and lend this money out to others. They can only borrow for a short time until they can sell investments or otherwise find new money to meet the deposit drains.

QUESTION: Do Bank Charge Cards Cause Inflation?

ANSWER: Some people feel that the expansion in bank distribution of charge cards has contributed to inflation in the U. S. by making it easier for people to borrow and spend. There are two reasons why the growth of the charge card movement has not been a basic cause of inflation.

First, people have not increased their borrowing sharply since the bank charge card expansion developed. They have simply used their charge cards to shift borrowing from other, less convenient forms over to borrowing through the charge card. Second, the cards have been used mainly for purchase of consumer goods that have not been in scarce supply. So to the extent that the cards have increased public spending, it has not created a shortage of goods that could lead to price increases.

QUESTION: What Is The Prime Rate?

ANSWER: The prime rate is the lowest rate charged best-credit companies when they borrow from a bank. It is used as the basis from which other rates are determined.

Generally the prime rate moves up or down at most banks at about the same time, and this makes many people think the banks get together to change the prime rate. This is not the case. What happens is that when the leader changes the prime rate, and this change is economically justified, other banks go along and change their rate too. Money is a national commodity, and if one bank has too high a rate, its large customers may well switch to other banks that have the lower rate. Similarly, if the rate is increased and this is economically justified by supply and demand, other banks will also raise their rates, or else the ones that do not raise their rates will be swamped with demands for loans.

Sometimes a rate increase may not be justified. The customers of the bank find that other banks are anxious to make loans at the old rate, or they can borrow elsewhere at lower rates. In such a case the bank that raised the rate merely has no choice but to lower its rate again to the justifiable level. For in the long run, it is supply and demand for money that determines what the prime rate will be, not the desires of individual banks.

QUESTION: Do Bank Earnings Benefit From Tight Money?

ANSWER: On the surface, it looks as if banks benefit from rising interest rates; for the rate they charge the customer for money advances when interest rates rise. But there are several offsets:

1. The banks have less money to lend when interest rates rise. (It is this lessened available of money that brings the higher interest rates.)

2. The banks have to pay the people who provide them with money - the savers and the companies with liquid funds - a higher rate for their money too as interest rates rise, or else they will move their money elsewhere. Thus banks are merely middlemen between the saver and the borrower.

3. As interest rates rise, the bonds that the banks have fall in price, for they become relatively less attractive in yield as new securities come out that offer higher yields. The only way an old bond with a lower fixed interest rate can be made saleable as new, higher yield securities come to market is to cut the price. Thus banks find that their old bonds fall in price as interest rates rise. As they have to sell these bonds to find money for their borrowing customers, the banks take marked losses on these bonds. In many cases these losses more than wipe out any increase in earnings that would otherwise result from the higher interest rates.

The three factors combine to curb the bank profits as interest rates rise. And the result is that bank earnings are hurt by tight money just as the earnings of other companies in other industries are hurt when economic restraint is necessary as part of the fight against inflation.

Ermelo Lovegrass Ready for Grazing On Local Renner Pasture Project

Greening up and growing, Ermelo lovegrass is nearly ready for beef cattle again at the Al Felderhoff farm near Muenster.

Ermelo lovegrass, one of the three companion forages in the year-round Reener Pasture System, was fertilized in late February and will be ready for grazing by livestock in early April, some 30 days ahead of other warm season forages, including coastal bermuda grass.

"When the grass is ready some 30 head of Felderhoff's Angus cattle will be turned in on the 20-acre pasture of Ermelo lovegrass, a stocking rate of one and one-half animals to the acre," says Jack Lair, senior agronomist at Texas Research Foundation at Renner.

Ermelo lovegrass, coastal bermuda and DeSoto grass are all receiving tender loving care at the site of the 170-acre locally-sponsored educational demonstration. This is the fourth year of the Felderhoff project, which is situated two miles north of Muenster off FM 373.

The Ermelo pasture was fertilized with 60 pounds of nitrogen and 30 pounds of phosphorus to the acre and will carry the demonstration's beef herd until bermuda grasses are ready for utilization later in the spring.

Reviewing the project in 1969, Lair said that all three grasses in the year-round forage system provided grazing for Felderhoff's cattle, despite an unfavorable growing season generally.

According to Renner's review, the Ermelo lovegrass gave grazing on 107 days during 1969. The forage was utilized for winter grazing as field cured forage for a 42 day period from Nov. 19 to Jan. 1. The pasture supported during this time 42 cows, one bull and 13 calves, or 48 animal units on 20 acres. The grass provided one-animal-unit-plus grazing in four other periods during the growing season from April 9 through July 22, Lair reported. Ermelo gave a total of 253 animal unit grazing days per acre in 1969.

During the hot, dry summer period, DeSoto grass was productive for grazing 36 days, from June 2 to June 25 and again from July 25 to Aug. 6. DeSoto grass is a sweet sorghum-type forage developed at Renner, and was seeded at Felderhoff's when the demonstration was begun in 1967.

In the demonstration, native grass areas which includes pastures of coastal bermuda and Midland bermuda were utilized for grazing the remainder of the year.

The Felderhoff demonstration is located on Grand Prairie soils ranging from very shallow to deep.

In November some 85 persons toured the project site at a progress report field day and tour sponsored by Texas Research Foundation and the Upper-Elm Red Soil and Water Conservation District.

As to plans for 1970, Lair indicates that higher rates of commercial fertilizers will be used on grasses in the system, aiming for maximum forage production.

The project is being sponsored through 1972 by a group of 32 Cooke County firms and individuals for the educational benefit of land operators and for the economic improvement of the beef cattle economy of the county.

The local soil and water conservation district is readily recommending grasses in the Renner Pasture System to beef cattlemen now in its farm and ranch planning, Lair noted.

"Mr. Felderhoff has been most cooperative with the Renner technical staff, and we appreciate his aid and willing support in bringing the pasture system concept to Cooke County for livestockmen to see firsthand by way of the demonstration located at his farm," said Dr. C. L. Lundell, Director of the Foundation.

J. M. Weinzapfel, Ernest Jaska and Michael E. Sloan are among local coordinators for the demonstration.
