REA Administrator Dedicates Plant For Brazos Co-op

Norman Clapp, administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, D. C., officially dedicated the R. W. Miller steam generation facility at Palo Pinto Lake Saturday afternoon.

The Miller Plant is named in honor of Brazos former general manager, an early pioneer in rural electrification, and the plant is the third in Brazos Electric Power Co-operative's system.

Clapp told an audience of over 1,000 that facilities such as the Miller Plant are an important part of rural electrification.

The administrator pointed out that "R.E.A. financed generation and transmission facilities such as these are an integral part of rural electrification", and that "they are a necessary part of the effort to cut the cost of electricity in rural areas and bring it down to a parity with urban areas".

Brazos' general manager, H. A. Dalton of Waco, was master of ceremonies at the dedication held in front of the gleaming new plant on the shores of Lake Palo Pinto, southwest of Mineral Wells.

Rated at 66,000 kilowatts, the new plant can supply enough electricity for a city 10 times the size of Mineral Wells.

The Miller Plant features the first air heater of its type ever built in the United States, a unit manufactured by the Foster-Wheeler Corporation in Livingston, New Jersey.

An electro-hydraulic governor system on the turbine, built by Westinghouse, is the second ever produced in the U.S., the first installed in the Southwest.

R. W. Miller ties into the Brazos system by means of two sets of 138,000 volt lines. One set goes to Grandbury; the other to Brazos' North Texas steam generating plant at Weatherford.

Brazos supplies electricity to over a quarter million Texans through its 19 member co-operatives.

The Brazos system is also interconnected with the municipal system of 11 central and north central Texas cities, assuring dependable electric service at a more economical cost. Also, through the interconnection, each city and Brazos can quickly come to the aid of one another in time of emergencies.

Inadequate Wiring Is Common Problem

COLLEGE STATION — Inadequate wiring on many farms causes voltage drops of 10 percent or more. This amounts to 12 volts on a 120-volt circuit, explains W. S. Allen, Extension agricultural engineer.

This means a decrease in light output from lamps by 30 percent, he notes. The power of a motor is reduced about 20 percent from a 10 percent voltage drop. Heating equipment will give only 80 percent of its rated output under such conditions.

Many new and expanded uses of electricity that were not foreseen has made the wiring installed several years ago inadequate for today's use.

These's just one answer to overloaded farm wiring, says the Texas A&M University specialist. That is to modernize the wiring system. Sometimes larger size wire is needed in the feeder lines to the various buildings. Additional electrical circuits are often needed in farm structures. In some cases, wiring can be remodeled to meet presentday needs at relatively little expense. In other situations, a major rewiring job is needed, says the engineer.

For farmers needing help on planning a remodeling of their wiring system, he suggests a visit with their electrician or the agricultural engineer with their electric power supplier.

Motorcycle Riders Must Wear Helmet

The Texas Department of Public Safety reminds motorcycle and motor scooter owners that no person may operate on a public street or highway of this State, legally, unless he wears protective headgear which has been approved by the Department of Public Safety. Texas law, also, provides that any person convicted of riding a motorcycle without protective headgear may be fined not less than $10.00 and no more than $50.00.

The minimum age for operating a five-brake horsepower motor scooter is now 15 years. Special examinations are given to applicants desiring a license to operate a motorcycle and will include on "off street phase", and an "on street phase".

In the year 1967 there were 759 rural accidents reported in Texas, which involved motorcycles and motor scooters. Forty of these were fatal accidents. Head injuries to operators who were not wearing protective headgear were the cause of death in the majority of the fatal accidents.

If you ride a motorcycle, the same laws apply to you as when you are operating a passenger car. Maximum speed limit for motorcycles is 60 MPH day or night. Liability laws also apply to you.

DPS Says Save Lives on 4th by Heads Up Driving

AUSTIN, Tex.—"Heads up" driving can save many lives in Texas during this long July 4 holiday weekend, Texas Department of Public Safety advises.

DPS hopes to help bring a reduction in the estimated toll of 38 expected to die in traffic tragedies during the four-day, 102-hour period.

"Operation Motorcade", designed to place special emphasis on dangers of holiday travel, began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and will continue through 11:59 p.m. Sunday.

DPS will tabulate traffic fatalities during this period and release totals three times daily to news media in order to keep dangers prominently in minds of drivers.

"It is a known fact that the usually crowded conditions of the highways on Independence Day holidays makes driving more hazardous than usual," Acting DPS Director Wilson E. (Pat) Speir reminded.

On the average, said Speir, one person will be killed in traffic every two and a half hours on Texas highways, streets and roads.

As part of its overall effort to lower the anticipated toll, DPS is utilizing additional personnel from other uniformed services to augment the regular Highway Patrol force during the entire weekend.

But drivers themselves must make the most important effort, cautioned Speir. Despite mechanical defects, inadequate highways and other accident-causing factors, the vast majority of all wrecks and fatalities are traced directly to misbehavior, misjudgment, recklessness, negligence and drinking while driving.

Texas FB Urges Stiff Penalties on Firearms Crimes

WACO (Sp.)—The Texas Farm Bureau has asked Texas Congressmen to support legislation to impose increased penalties on persons convicted of committing crimes with firearms.

The state's largest farm organization also urged support of strict law enforcement at every level of government, and said it opposed any legislation which will require further regulations or registration of guns.

In a letter to both Texas Senators and all Texas members of the U.S. House of Representatives, Texas Farm Bureau president Sidney Dean said farmers are deeply concerned about current proposals to register sporting firearms and to license owners of sporting firearms.

"Farmers and ranchers are dependent on their guns to protect livestock and crops from predators and pests, and to protect their families in isolated areas where police protection is scarce or non-existent," the farm leader said.

Dean quoted TFB policy dealing with the problem of firearms control which reads, in part:

"Because of the very precepts on which our nation was founded and on which our Constitution was written, we go on record as being opposed to any legislation requiring registration by or removing from the lawful citizen his right to own and use firearms for lawful purposes."

"In support of this policy," Dean wrote the Congressmen,

"we respectfully request that you support legislation to impose increased penalties on persons convicted of committing crimes with firearms. We urge you to use your influence in support of strict law enforcement at every level of government. We request and urge you to oppose any legislation which will require further regulations or registration of firearms, ammunition, etc."

We do our share of griping about high taxes, etc., but we're still better off than Great Britain. For example the annual license fee on automobiles in that country is $60, the auto sales tax is 33 1/3 percent and gasoline sells for 69 cents per gallon. Remember this is the nation that went socialist a few years back.

Tips on Budgeting For Vitamin C

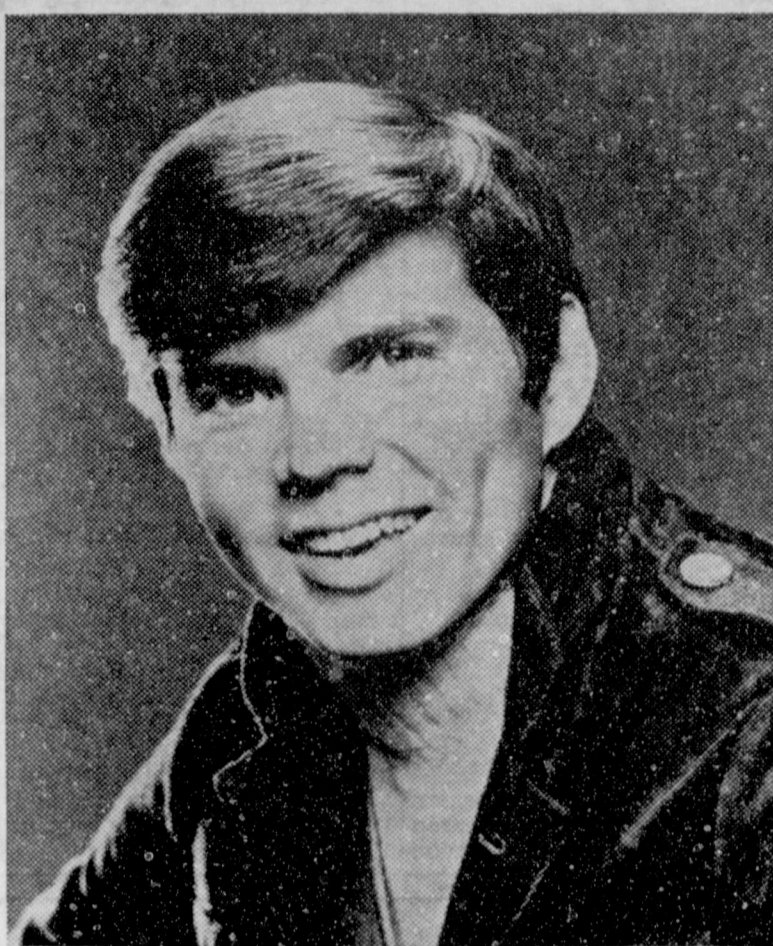

COLLEGE STATION — Many Texans have diets low in vitamin C. Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, suggests how to handle fruits and vegetables rich in vitamin C to retain their nutritive value and keep within the budget.

sible and have foods of top quality, buy items in season. Fresh grapefruit and oranges are excellent source of vitamin C; they are in greatest supply in mid-winter. Stay within the budget by using turnip greens, mustard greens, collards, cabbage, green peppers, broccoli, cantaloupe, strawberries and canned tomatoes — all high in vitamin C — in menus.

Do not expose the foods unnecessarily to the air by chopping into small pieces and do not overcook them, says the Texas A&M University specialist. Use just the amount of water necessary for cooking crisp and don't throw any of the water or juices away.

An adequate amount of vitamin C in the diet helps you have general good health and resistance to disease.

Experience has demonstrated in this country what thinking people knew all along. Personal freedom is not unlimited. It cannot be tolerated to the extent of violating the rights of others. Academic freedom does not include poisoning minds with falsehood and hate. Freedom of speech does not include inciting a riot. Applying that axiom is a vital step toward keeping order in education and in society.
