Walker said it is gratifying to know that young people are concerned and are seriously seeking reasons for national and world troubles. Also that they have the loyal, patriotic attitude trying to restore the real American way of life rather than join the radicals who want revolutionary changes.

He referred to a recent official statement to the effect that flying US and UN banners at the same level is the correct policy. in order to avoid downgrading the UN flag. That attitude, he said, is all wrong. Actually our flag is downgraded when the UN flag is beside it. The flag etiquette he personally observes at his home, he said is to fly our Old Glory and the flag of little Rhodesia beside it, symbolizing his approval of Rhodesia's defiance of UN.

New Rules for Welfare State

Dumitru Danielopol, the well known news columnist (Copley Press) wonders if he didn't come to this country 25 years too soon.

According to some politicians, he relates, everyone is "entitled" to a guaranteed income ranging from $6,500 to $10,000 for a family of four. Everyone would have a sixweek vacation every year; government should take care of everyone's children; medical and dental care should be free for poor people; national subsidies are due everyone.

"I read a lot of testimony but not one seemed to mention hard work, initiative, or doing a better job," writes Danielopol. "As I recall, no one offered programs to the 'poor' when I arrived in New York 25 years ago. And believe me, I qualified under any yardstick you want to

A Dictator's Hunger Strike

If a man wants "to eat the whooole thing," that's his business, as is the indigestion that may follow. Or if a man wants not to eat, that's his business, too. But one of the mysteries that is difficult to explain is how anyone can go on a hunger strike and have others dance to his tune just because he does not choose to

No one forces a hunger striker to fast but himself, so there is no reason for any sympathy for him if he purposely injures himself in an effort to attract attention and force surrender to his demands.

A few weeks ago, Cesar Chavez, the tyrannical farm labor organizer, went on a hunger strike to protest an Arizona law governing the organization of farm workers. Chavez doesn't like for law or anything else to get in his

Contrary to much propaganda, Chavez isn't exactly a champion of freedom and the working man. His record shows that he has been unable on many occasions to get most farm workers to join his organization. So his method involves getting a few militants to follow him, getting some politicians on his side, then causing enough trouble for big farm corporations so they sign a contract with him to get him off their necks. Then, armed with a union shop contract between himself and a farm company, he forces workers to join his union and pay tribute to him or

St. Peter's Church, Lindsay, was the scene of the wedding Properly Served was the scene of the wedding Saturday of Miss Lynn Fuhrmann and Mauris Hacker mann and Maurus Hacker.

Celebrating the nuptial Mass at 4 p.m. and hearing the double ring vows was the bride's grand-uncle Father Herman Laux of Subiaco Abbey, Ark., who came from Memphis, Tenn., where he is assisting with pastoral work during the summer.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Damond Fuhrmann of Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. John Hacker of Muen-

Presented by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with lace accenting the empire waistline and extending in panels down the front of the slim skirt. The neckline and long straight sleeves were edged with the lace which also circled the chapel train. A bow held her tiered elbow-length veil and she carried a cascade of yellow and white daisies centered with a yellowthroated white orchid.

For something old and borrowed she wore a ruby ring belonging to her grandmother Mrs. Pete Block and carried a white lace handkerchief. She also carried a crystal rosary, than ever before! a gift from her grandmother Mrs. H. S. Fuhrmann.

Miss Carol Fuhrmann, bride's sister, was maid of honor and Miss Shirley Hacker, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Lu Ella Fuhrmann, another sister of the bride, and Lisa Pelzel of Pilot Point, niece of the groom, were flower girls.

They all wore identical floor-length gowns of mint green crepe with butterfly sleeves and empire bodices. Green velvet ribbon circled the waists and ended in bows at the back with yellow trim. The attendants carried nosegays of yellow daisies and the flower girls carried yellow daisies in baskets.

Donald Eckart, groom's cousin, was best man and the bride's brother Jimmy Fuhrmann was groomsman. Ushers were Gene Block. bride's uncle and Clyde Muller of Bedford, brother-in-law of the

Would you like to make an electric steadiness tester? Sometimes you will hear someone claim that his hands are steady as a rock, or that they never shake. You can make an electric steadiness tester, and you and your friends will be able to find out how steady your hands really are!

You will need some heavy wire, a block of clay, a doorbell, a 6-volt dry-cell battery that has screw terminals, and some copper

First, make a loop of bare copper wire and attach it to a wire loop, and the heavy wire as shown in the picture. Now you are ready to test yourself and your friends.

Have the person being tested hold the wooden handle in one hand and slip the loop over the heavy wire without touching the wire with the loop. If he is very steady, he can hold the loop without touching the heavy wire. However, if his claims were exaggerated, and he is not steady, the loop will touch the wire and the doorbell will ring.

You can make the test even more difficult by reducing the size of the loop. The smaller it is, the harder it will be not to touch

Ice Cream Was A Fad In 62 A.D. Too

Welcome to the "Wonderful World of 28 Flavors" and the celebration of "National 28 Flavors Month," July 28 through August 28.

The first record of "ice cream" was in 62 A.D., in Rome, during the reign of Nero. Special runners whisked snow from the nearby mountains and raced it to Nero's cooks before it melted, to be flavored with honey, juices and fruit pulp.

During the "Dark Ages," the secret of ice cream was lost along with other knowledge of the ancients. For the next thousand years, we have no record of ice cream.

Among the many marvels and treasures that Marco Polo brought back from his journey to the Orient was a recipe for a frozen sweet which began the famous tradition of Italian

When Catherine de Medici married Henry II of France. Italian cooks from her native Florence accompanied her to her new kingdom. It was at her sumptuous banquets that 'fruit ices" were introduced to the French nobility.

As the new delicacy became widely popular in France, an Italian named Courtreaux opened a shop in Paris and carried the recipe a step further. Courtreaux added milk to the sweet liquid before freezing, thus creating the forerunner of the ice cream we enjoy

Throughout history, special foods have enjoyed a romantic place in the role of intrigue.

During the reign of Charles I of England, ice cream was held in such high esteem that he ordered it should be confined to the royal table only. His zeal to protect the secret of ice cream led him to bribe a French ice cream maker in London to keep the formula a "state secret".

Until recently, in fact, ice cream graced the tables of only the very rich, primarily because there were no means of freezing and storing it.

By 1904, of course, ice cream was a very special treat for children in America, and everyone would take turns turning the handle on the ice cream maker — a very tedious chore. But ice cream was a saucer and spoon food, altogether a sit-down affair.

That summer, a certain ice cream vendor ran out of saucers at the St. Louis, Louisiana Purchase Exposition. As everyone clamored for ice cream, he grabbed a thin crisp waffle, rolled it up, and set a scoop of ice cream right on top. Thus was born the ice cream cone.

In 1925, Howard Deering Johnson achieved spectacular success with a second-hand ice cream freezer, hard work and his own imagination. He made ice cream richer by doubling the usual butterfat content, and he used only natural flavors and the best ingredients. And that was the beginning of the "Wonderful World of 28 Flavors" of ice cream. Today, Howard Johnson's enterprise is a coast-to-coast operation comprising 875 orange roof restaurants and 470 motor

Now that you know all about "National 28 Flavors Month," go out and celebrate. Have yourself some ice cream!

Surviving are four sisters, Mmes. Frank Sandmann and Raymond Sandmann of Lindsay and Ferd Luttmer and Richard Swirczynski of Muenster; three brothers, Lambert Beyer of Gainesville, Frank Beyer of Lindsay and Carl Beyer of Fort Worth; and 30 nieces and nephews.

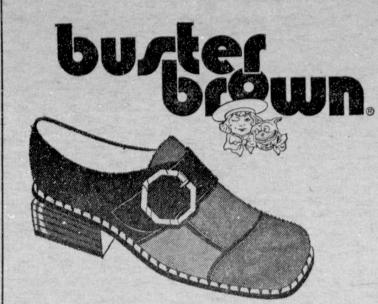

Among the crowds at Windthorst for the community's birthday celebration Sunday were Mrs. Henry Hess, Mrs. J. C. Schmidlkofer and Mrs. Schmidlkofer who joined the Gus Berend family at the festivities after visiting with them at their home. Also in the reunion group were Mr. and Mrs. Winston Fangman and children.
