Amid the charges that the oil industry is ripping off the public, Richard Leshner, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, comes forward with defensive opinions to the effect that our problem ought to be charged directly to government.

He claims that oil companies are not creating shortages to increase prices and the really big beneficiaries in current high prices are the governments, both foreign and domestic, who take up to 65 cents for every dollar we consumers pay. Taking off that amount as a starter and then allowing for the costs of refining, storage, transportation, marketing and local dealers, the companies are left with about two cents of profit out of our gasoline dollar. So, actually, who's ripping off whom?

Leshner explains that the country is looking for explanations and leadership, but so far it has gotten little more than hot air...irresponsible rhetoric suggesting our energy crisis might disappear if enough Americans go after the petroleum industry with a hatchet, and if enough of them form vigilante groups to spy on each other and force down "unreasonable prices".

The man reminds us likewise that the loose talk about the high price of gasoline isn't really justified. At 80 cents per gallon, gasoline still costs less than half as much here as it does in Europe, and the price we pay for gas has gone up less than most of our food. A wage earner works fewer minutes to buy a gallon of gas today than a worker did in 1939.

Facts like these seem to indicate that today's high gasoline price results from inflation more than any other cause. And inflation, we've learned long ago, is the result of deficit spending and a constant increase of printing press money. Well, we know who was responsible for bringing all the extra money into circulation, so we know who's to blame for the high prices on gasoline and everything else.

Leshner says, furthermore, that oil companies are not creating a shortage to increase price. The shortage already exists, and it is not the industry's fault. Seeds of the shortage were planted in 1971 when the federal government, supposedly to "protect" consumers, decided to artificially control domestic oil prices.

The result turned out to be just the opposite of the purpose. Exploration and production declined as prices failed to keep up with production costs. Next OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) became aware of our energy crisis and decided to reap a bountiful harvest from our distress. It upped the price about 500 per cent in six years. Compounding the problem, Iran's revolution interrupted shipments of oil by about 700,000 barrels a day.

Another problem not to blame on the oil companies is the use of more crude in making unleaded fuel. The government went along with its environmental bureaucrats in demanding the unleaded gasoline. Consequently, the demand for crude is going up while the supply of it is going down.

The House of Representatives has earned the praise of the nation and especially of Texas for not going along with the Senate in approving the President's gasoline rationing plans. The measure was defeated by the comfortable margin of 246-159, which seems to be a good indication that it isn't likely to be back for some time.

As Congressman Stenholm sees the issue, it would have cost $15 billion and would have created a 15,000 person bureaucracy. And Congressman Jim Collins points out that the rationing program would have been unfair to Texans, who have to drive more miles. As he sees it, lots of Texans would have to buy additional rationing coupons, adding an estimated $1.20 more to the price of each extra gallon of

Deceased of Armed Forces Honored at Memorial Service

Deceased service men of the community were honored Sunday morning in the annual memorial service sponsored by Muenster VFW Post and VFW Auxiliary in cooperation with the pastors of Sacred Heart Church.

Father Leo Koessler of Subiaco, Ark., in his memorial message, referred to a letter from St. Paul to the Romans concerning the relationship of Christ and his followers. He said they are forever united with God by a bond of patriotism and love, also that they deserve our deepest appreciation for their sacrifice, which is best expressed in prayer for their eternal happiness in heaven.

In closing Father Leo recited a prayer for a deceased person and mourners.

Following Father Leo's talk the deceased service men, some 30 of them, were remembered with the traditional military service of a three volley rifle salute and taps.

The memorial service started with a procession from Sacred Heart Church after the 7 a.m. Mass Sunday. It was led by the honor guard and rifle detail of the local VFW Post. Next were officers of the VFW Auxiliary, children with an individual carnation for each grave, then the public. A special group attending was the officers of the Gainesville VFW post, all wearing their VFW caps.

It's Time to Spray Pecan Casebearer

Pecan growers of Cooke County are reminded this week that the time to spray for casebearers is now. County Agent Neil Tibbets quotes H. A. Turney, entomologist of the A&M Extension Service, as saying that casebearer eggs are appearing on the tips of the tiny nutlets. When the eggs hatch the tiny worm bores its way inside and spoils the pecan.

Tibbets said the tree should be sprayed with Malathion or Sevin and it should be sprayed again seven to 10 days later with the same insecticide.

Awareness of God's Love is Life's Priority, SH Grads Told

Twenty Seniors of Sacred Heart High School and thirty five eighth graders received diplomas Sunday night in graduation ceremonies at 7 p.m. Mass.

The presentations were made by Bishop Augustine Dangelmayr with Father Denis Soeries assisting and Patti Bayer changing tassels on the graduation caps. In addition, Sister Theresina presented a red rose to each of the girl graduates.

The commencement speaker was Father Stephen Eckart who expressed his delight at being chosen by the class after six years as an instructor. He said he has seen in them such virtues as dedication, kindness, honesty, courage, friendship, compassion and perseverance...the basic qualities upon which to build a career of success both temporal and eternal.

Father Stephen admonished the grads that the most important thing in their lives is an awareness of God and especially of the fact that God is Love...that He loves unconditionally, does not get angry and does not punish. His love is always present in spite of being obscured at times by the world's evil. It is like the shining of the sun...always there even though being obscured at times by the clouds. Father Stephen said our Lord wants us to remember Him forever as loving us, that God is completely kind and compassionate. He does not punish. What sometimes seems to be punishment is rather the natural consequence of one's misdeeds.

Another point to remember is that God's providence rules our lives, as it does the birds of the air and the lilies of the field...but more so, because we are his favorite creatures. The pattern of life, which often seems like a jigsaw puzzle, emerges as a beautiful picture when it is finished.

As a parting thought Father Stephen asked the grads to be living examples of the Prayer of St. Francis. "Lord make me an instrument of thy

SH Awards Banquet Honors Sports and Studies Leaders

Contrary to the widespread opinion that winning is everything in high school athletics, doing one's best is more important. Players who give 100 per cent, and even more, in the team effort can hold their heads high in defeat as well as victory.

That is the opinion of Bob Best, assistant coach of the Mean Green football team of North Texas State University, who was speaker of the Sacred Heart All-Awards banquet Friday night. He said the effort is the important thing. He has been proud of his boys after winning a big one, and he has been equally proud when they did a fine job but were turned back by superior strength.

The speaker has an outstanding athletic background in football, basketball and baseball, with all district and all Metro honors in football. During three years at Texas Tech he was athlete of the year in 1971. And since graduation he has coached at Richardson, Dallas and NT-SU.

Also speaking on the program were Lisa Krahl as valedictorian and Donna Hennigan salutatorian.

Mark Hess was master of ceremonies, Coaches Stock and Hess presented athletic awards and Father Stephen Eckart presented scholastic awards.

Stenholm Advises Grads to Get Involved in Government

Congressman Charles Stenholm addressed MHS Graduates and a large crowd of guests, family members and friends at graduation ceremonies Friday evening in the high school auditorium. —Photo by Janie Hartman

Getting involved in the country's economic and political problems was recommended to the graduates and their friends at the MHS commencement last Friday night by one who has been very much involved for five months.

Congressman Charles Stenholm suggested thinking of problems as lemons and ideas as sugar. Get them together and stir and the product is lemonade. In our government we are able to mix problems and ideas and produce something palatable.

In the same vein he quoted Winston Churchill as saying that democracy is the worst form of government but it beats the alternative. This assumes, however, that the public is willing to stir.

For instance, there's the matter of public debt, which amounts to $830 billion or $3,700 per individual. The debt was increased again this year by adoption of $532 billion budget when a revenue of only $509 billion is in sight. It means that government will print $23 billion, the debt will go higher and inflation will continue. This problem needs ideas and stirring, he said.

However, this problem is compounded by another. The democratic process is retarded by lack of concern, as indicated when only 25 to 30 per cent of the public bothers to vote. America should be aware than an alert and active public is the first step toward government.

As personal advice to the graduates, Stenholm suggested priorities listed by the famous coach, Vince Lombardi, to members of his Green Bay Packers. He said your loyalties are to God and country and family and the Packers, in that order. In the same way the rest of us ought to put the first three loyalties ahead of our individual interests.

Urban Endres president of the school board, introduced the speaker and followed the talk with a brief comment that Stenholm's personal success is an inspiration to the grads. He said nothing is impossible, aim high, use the opportunities to make the most of your life.

Other speakers on the program were Kathy Davidson in the valedictory and Lisa Trubenbach in the salutatory.

Diplomas were presented by Board President Endres with Superintendent L. B. Bruns assisting as rings and cap tassels were changed by Fay and Dan Hamric. Bruns also presented a $200 scholarship provided by the Beta Kappa Chapter of ESA to Lisa Trubenbach.

Other awards were presented by Principal Alford Winn, beginning with perfect attendance awards to Toni Dittfurth and Sherri Wolf. In addition Kathy Davidson, Lisa Trubenbach and Allen Bayer received scholarships from the Association of Christian Colleges for Washington, D.C. — On May 16 the House of Representatives passed one of the most comprehensive conservation bills ever considered by the Congress — The Alaska Lands Act. If this legislation is also passed by the Senate and signed by the President, it will shut off much of Alaska to economic development. Alaska's Outer Continental Shelf, with its large potential for oil and gas reserves (10 to 14 billion barrels), will remain unexplored. Under the provisions of this bill 130 million acres would be closed to mining. Development of the world's second largest molybdenum deposit would be stopped. Other natural resources affected include large copper and coal deposits, tin, and cinnabar. Also 30 million acres would be closed to hunting.

Despite the fact that this state is 5000 miles away, this legislation will affect all of us. We are dependent on Alaska for large quantities of oil and gas production, many of our essential minerals, and much of our timber supply. This is a delicate issue trying to balance the needs of the environment against the needs of the American people. The current House-passed version, in my opinion, does not recognize this balance and precludes the production of many of our vital resources. The bill is opposed by all of Alaska's representatives in Congress. Much of their opposition is centered around the power of the Federal versus state governments. Are we going to allow Alaskans to rule Alaska or are we going to permit Washington to rule the people of this state? It is my belief that

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — For awhile some thought they were hiding out in a Winnebago Mobile Home. Not a likely place to find a state senator with only a week left in the session.

And some people had the sneaking suspicion that the 12 missing senators were spread from Mexico to Las Vegas, from Houston to five minutes driving time from the State Capitol Building.

But wherever they were, 12 senators were not in the Texas Senate last week—at least four and a half days of that week.

What that meant, of course, is that the Senate, left without a quorum, had to close its doors and put a halt to the business. The 12 missing senators had set out to do just that.

"Spoiled Children"

The 19 remaining senators described their absent colleagues as "deserters," and accused them of being "on strike." Even Gov. Bill Clements threw in his two cents worth by saying they were acting like spoiled children and needed a good spanking.

The whole episode, charged Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur, had been caused by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and his parliamentary slight of hand in an attempt to get SB 1149—basically an election bill—passed by the Senate. The bill was labeled a "Trojan Horse" by Sen. Lloyd Doggett and few disagreed.

Hobby's plan was to get SB 1149 (that would have put the secretary of state in charge of funds now ruled over by county party chairmen) out of the Senate and into the House where it could be substituted. The substitute, so the plan would go, would be a measure providing for a split presidential primary. That primary, in March and separate from the regular state primaries, would cost the taxpayers $5 to $7 million. But besides that, backers of the idea were quick to point out, it would give Texas one of the earliest presidential primaries and would enable the state to have more clout over critical national issues such as energy. Not so, said the absent senators.

And when Hobby announced that he would abandon the traditional order of business, it was obvious, the missing senators charged, that what was at stake was political hides and not the influence of the state on national matters.

Help Connally
 Who the split presidential primary would help and who it would hurt is a complicated story. Most agree that a split primary, non-binding as to party, would enhance the presidential hopes of John Connally. Others say a presidential primary on the same day as the regular state primaries would probably endanger the seats of some incumbent conservative Democrats.

What some called a "desperation move" on Hobby's part meant that it would take only a majority vote to bring up a bill in the Senate, instead of the traditional two-thirds. It was the first time Hobby had ever used such a tactic since becoming lieutenant governor in 1973. The last time anyone could remember the Senate going to a majority vote was in 1961.

When the 12 senators learned of Hobby's intentions, they decided the only thing left to do—the filibuster, which they had tried against SB 1149, had proven to be ineffective—was to abandon the Senate chamber.

Call on Senate

Hobby retaliated by putting a call on the Senate—the first since 1969. The Senate Sgt.-at-Arms, the Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rangers were called in to locate and return the truant senators.

Understandably, Hobby had started calling the group, "The Killer Bees." And when a statewide search failed to turn up even one of the hiding senators, almost every newspaper sang out with the same refrain: "Where are the Killer Bees?"

Hobby was more than just irritated that state police couldn't locate "12 prominent citizens of the state." Those 12—The Killer Bees—were Sens. Doggett, Babe Schwartz, Ron Clower, Parker, Bob Vale, Raul Longoria, Gene Jones, Chet Brooks, Glenn Kothmann, Oscar Mauzy, Bill Patman and Carlos Truan.

At one point during the search for the senators, the DPS nabbed a man they thought was Gene Jones at his home in Houston. Only after the man had been helicoptered back to Austin, did troopers learn that they had grabbed the wrong man—Gene Jones' brother, Clayton Jones.

Clayton said, innocently of course, he went along just to get to ride on a helicopter. But it was later learned, that while one Jones (the right one) was slipping out the back door, another Jones (the wrong one) was being escorted out the front door by the DPS.

Isn't there any way to get rid of grasshoppers? If the past winter's snows and ice plus our spring rains couldn't kill them out some don't know what will do it. The critters are getting rather plentiful again. Guess what we need is a lot of hungry birds to pay us a visit.

YOU CAN BANK ON IT!

Sometimes an increase in volume could actually hurt a small or moderate size business. It happens more often than many people think.

Let's say you run a business of moderate size which has been reasonably successful. You decide to enter a new market, and as a result sales take a sudden and sharp rise. But your working capital is tied up in accounts receivable and work in progress. You are left with no money for additional personnel, no capital for more materials, and no way to purchase needed additional equipment to capitalize on the profitable sales trend.

Here at the bank we know how increased volume of business can sometimes increase your problems. But maybe we can help. Perhaps we could work out arrangements for a modest loan using your accounts receivable, inventory, or equipment as collateral.

Come by to see any of our officers. When we say we understand the problems of small business ... You Can BANK On It!

Ag Census Bureau Wants Unreturned Reports on Forms

A drive to round up reports that have not yet been returned from farm households in the 1978 Census of Agriculture was launched today by the Bureau of the Census.

Bureau officials called the drive a "special effort to provide statistical results to the Nation's farmers and other users of census data as early as possible."

Most farm operators first received report forms last January, and most have, by now, completed and returned them. Although the rate at which reports have been returned has exceeded the pace of the last farm census, some farmers and ranchers have not sent in their reports.

"The completeness and accuracy of this important agricultural census depend upon each individual filling out the report form received," said Orvin Wilhite, Chief of the Bureau's Agriculture Division. "I am sure that farmers and agricultural leaders want their county and State totals to be as accurate and useful as possible."

The farm census is the only government or private method for gathering and reporting agriculture information on a county-by-county basis for the entire Nation, Wilhite noted.

Important decisions will be made by farmer organizations, marketing associations and co-ops on the basis of information in the farm census, he said. Census figures also are widely used by many other organizations, both public and private, on which farmers depend for services, supplies, and equipment.

Operators who neglect to fill out and return their reports, Wilhite said, are doing themselves and all other operators a disservice. They impair the accuracy of the statistics for their area and may even reduce their county's share of funds allocated for research and other agricultural purposes, Wilhite said.

A few landlords and other persons who did not operate farms in 1978 may have received report forms, and others may have received more than one form, each addressed differently, Wilhite explained this as follows:

"Each report that the Bureau mailed was assigned its own census file number (CFN). We need a response for each CFN so that the record can be cleared. Anyone who did not farm in 1978, for whatever reason, and anyone who received extra reports with different file numbers should note these facts on the forms and return them so that additional follow-up can be avoided."

The Bureau realized that some farmers and ranchers need reassurance that their report is confidential. "By law," Wilhite said, "the report may be seen only by sworn census employees, and used only to tabulate totals for your county, State and the Nation."

Hard work never killed anybody — but why take a chance being the first victim.

"It's dark out there!"

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Lutkenhaus, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. H. A. Walterscheid and the latter's granddaughter Jimmie Lynn Harris of Denton, were Memorial Day and weekend visitors in the home of Mr.

recovering slowly. Mmes. Lutkenhaus, Walterscheid, Plumlee and Jensen are sisters.

They also had a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Troy Jensen of Wichita Falls. Sunday afternoon they toured the tornado-stricken area of Wichita Falls. On Memorial Day a luncheon was served in the Plumlee home for the visitors and special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Rainard Walterscheid of Jacksboro.

All returned to their homes Monday evening. The Muensterites missed seeing the new home under construction for the Troy Jensens because of lack of time.

Water Tragedies Prevented By Downproofing

Spring's warm, sunny days mean an increase in swimming, boating, and water skiing for many people across the state. But even good swimmers should know about downproofing before making their splash.

Downproofing is not a swimming technique like the breast stroke. In fact, the object of downproofing is to survive in water by using as little energy as possible. In tests using this method, even non-swimmers have been able to remain in water eight hours or more without assistance.

Downproofing involves the following steps:

First, fill your lungs with air and float face-down in the water. Salt water allows you to float higher than fresh water. Let your head, arms, and whole body float freely, much like a jellyfish, until you need air.

Then slowly use your arms and legs, or one arm and one leg, to lift your head above water enough to breathe. A gentle scissors or "frogleg" kick can be helpful in pushing upward as long as it doesn't take too much energy. The motion of the waves can be helpful as well.

With you head above water, quickly exhale and catch another breath. Then slowly return to a floating position by extending your arms downward and bringing your legs together. Calmly repeat the process until help arrives.

Knowing this simple water survival method can save you from sharing the same fate as 566 Texans who drowned last year.

Linda Otto Marries John Lusk In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Linda Otto of Gainesville became the bride of John Lusk on May 18 in a double ring ceremony performed by Father Placidus Eckart in St. Mary's Church of Gainesville at 7:30 p.m.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Otto and parents of the groom are Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Lusk, all of Gainesville. The bride is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Joe Vogel and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Otto.

Presented at the altar by her father, the bride was wearing a formal bridal gown of ivory silk chiffon, designed with Elizabethan neckline and empire bodice embellished with Venice lace which was repeated on the double bell sleeves. The bouffant skirt fell to chapel length.

Her fingertip veil of English silk illusion was edged in seed pearls and caught to a pearl embroidered caplet.

She carried a cascade of white Japhet orchids, French carnations, stephanotis and English ivy.

Attendants

Sue Otto of Gainesville was her sister's maid of honor and Carol Beyer and Cathy Bryant, both of Gainesville were bridesmaids. Each was identically gowned in a sheer apricot muted floral dress with blouson bodice and full flowing skirt and wore matching flowers in her hair and carried a nosegay of apricot and tangerine carnations, yellow glad florets, and statice with baby's breath.

Timmy Bolinger was the best man and Mike Otto, bride's brother and Randy Sikes, all of Gainesville were groomsmen. Keith Enderby of Gainesville and Alan Lusk, groom's brother of Dallas were ushers.

Wedding music was presented by Patsy Henry, organist, and Loy Ann Koebelen, vocalist, and included "1st Corinthians" and "Wedding Song."

Reception

A reception followed in St. Mary's Parish Hall. Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Kim Simmons of Gainesville. Pam Otto, bride's cousin of Arlington and Sharon Hess of Gainesville poured punch and Claire Lusk and Jane Lusk, groom's sisters, and Sandy Scott and Donna Herr, all of Gainesville served the wedding cake.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip to South Padre Island, they will be at home in Dallas.

The bride attended Cooke County College and is a student at North Texas State University. The groom is a graduate of Texas A. & M.

Outlook is Good for Wheat, Poor for Oats, Survey Says

The wheat crop yield prospects in the North Central Texas area look as if they will be above average this year, despite the slow start last fall. An abundance of moisture and good growing conditions the last few weeks have greatly improved the wheat crop outlook, according to Joe Cole, Area Agronomist at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center at Dallas.

Almost all of the wheat will be harvested for grain in North Central Texas, Cole said. Very few fields will be grazed out or baled for hay, even though wheat, which is cut early enough, makes high quality hay.

Moisture conditions were critical last fall at planting time. Most fields germinated, but did not have sufficient moisture to develop a strong root system until the late fall rains started. Some fields did not develop a good root system before the extreme cold temperatures hit; therefore, some stands were thinned. The thinned wheat stands, caused by severe weather, were invaded by weeds, Cole pointed out.

Most farmers know that anything can happen until the grain is harvested, and sure enough, it did in some areas, Cole said. Army worms and some disease hit and did damage to a number of fields. Many fields were sprayed for worms. However, prospects for good yields are still on the horizon.

The oat prospects are not good. Most oat stands were thinned and some stands were even killed by the winter temperatures. Many of the oat stands that were thinned have been invaded by weeds. Some of the land where the oats were killed has been planted to some other crop. Other fields will be harvested for grain and some are being baled for hay.

For the area, as a whole, wheat prospects look good for above average yields and oat prospects look poor, Cole concluded.

Kathy Davidson also received a 1 year waiver of tuition to a state school and a certificate of scholastic achievement from the Army Recruiting Command; and David Felderhoff received a certificate of athletic achievement from the Army Recruiting Command. Also Kathy Davidson and Lisa Trubenbach received statuettes for valedictorian and salutatorian.

Baccalaureate service for the MHS graduates was held Wednesday night in Sacred Heart Church with Father Stephen Eckart as celebrant of the Mass and commencement speaker.

Reminding the group of the day's scriptural reading, he recommended lives guided by Christ's principles to make this a better world. His wish was that they will be granted the wisdom to know God clearly and help to permeate the world with Christian values. Identifying Christ's earthly mission as death, resurrection and ascension, he said there is no other name by which salvation comes.

New modern facilities . . . Clean sanitary trucks

Carl M. Hahn, Crew Foreman, Mesquite

"TRUCKS LIKE THIS ARE ONE OF THE REASONS THE COST OF ELECTRICITY HAS GONE UP."

They also are one of the reasons your electric service is so dependable. TP&L's "hole-digger" trucks do a job in minutes which used to require long and often difficult hand labor. Skilled employees utilizing these trucks can rapidly extend power lines to new homes or businesses and restore storm-damaged lines. In 1975, a "hole-digger" truck cost $42,000 . . . today, more than $75,000.

TP&L must spend hundreds of thousands of dollars each year to purchase, operate and maintain the many special-purpose vehicles which are essential to providing electric service. We're doing everything possible to hold the line on these costs.

Stenholm said he was not convinced that the gasoline shortage was critical enough to justify rationing, and he also had confidence in the President's decontrol plan to improve the situation before rationing is necessary. With other conservatives of Congress, Stenholm favors giving industry and the open market a chance.

If Washington politicians and environmentalists will only stop their interference, free enterprise will find a way.

Farmers Asked to Change Lingo in AMPI Program

Some 32,619 dairy farmers in 20 states from Wisconsin to Texas will be told within the next two weeks to banish the words "price supports" and "over order premiums" from their vocabularies.

Making the request on behalf of Secretary of Agriculture Robert Bergland in a message to the Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI) membership is President Irvin J. Elkin, Amery, Wis.

"The terms mislead consumers and Congressmen," Elkin explained.

In talks with Bergland, agreement was reached to substitute "price stabilization" because that's what the support program really is.

"In the spring, government purchases surplus milk to keep the price stable to the farmer. In fall, government sells milk products because supplies are short, to keep the prices from rising for consumers," Elkin explained.

"That's 'stabilizing' prices for farmer and consumer."

The "over order premium" will be called a "service charge," from now on because money paid farmers above the federal milk market order minimums is used to balance the market. In places one day there is too much milk and the next too little.

For example, dairy plants closed Memorial Day (May 28) and did not bottle 145 tanker loads of milk (6.9 million pounds) for distribution in Chicagoland supermarkets. The trucks were directed by AMPI to those co-ops which can convert the milk into storable dairy products like cheese and ice cream.

Bergland is asking all dairy farmers to forget the old terms and make the new ones a part of their vocabulary. Elkin revealed in his monthly column for AMPI's June Dairyman's Digest.

In recent months Congressmen and consumer groups have complained that the two programs are inflationary.
