An interesting experiment in harvesting of oats has been tried successfully in McCulloch County, according to the Brady Standard. It consists, briefly, of use of windrows rather than the conventional shocking. The experiment was made by F. R. Wulff on the Whitelands farms, where 300 acres of oats was harvested in this manner.

Oats In Windrows

The advantage of the method, the Brady paper points out, lies in the elimination of all twine for binding the oats in bundles, as well as for the labor of shocking and then of delivery to the threshing. It is said that the oats left in windrows, dries in three or four days, since it rests loosely upon the stubble, permitting the air to circulate underneath, while the sun dries it from the top. This gives the added advantage of a savings in time lost in curing the oats in shocks.

The combine used has a pickup attachment which gathers up the windrows of oats, threshes the grain, which is delivered into a tank atop the combine, while the straw is dropped behind the machine over the land for fertilizer. Two men operate the combine.

The system seems to offer an ideal solution to harvesting large areas of oats in this section, which is not ideally suited to straight use of the combine, in that it offers the advantage of the combine at the same time giving an opportunity to cure the oats before the combining operation.

The experiment was closely watched in McCulloch County this year, and it is possible that it will revolutionize the harvesting of oats in this section.

Those of us who viewed with only passing interest the announcement that the State Highway Department soon would construct a permanent headquarters building in Brownwood to house the division headquarters, had a pleasant surprise through the publication Sunday in the Dallas News of pictures of similar construction in Lufkin. The Lufkin structure houses a division similar in importance to the Brownwood division, though probably smaller in area, and was built at approximately the cost of the building to be erected here.

New Highway Building

The pictures show a permanent structure of rare beauty and obvious utility in a landscaped setting that enhances the natural attractiveness of the picturesque location. It is a building that would be a credit to any city, and if a building of similar nature is constructed here, it doubtless will be one of the show places of the county.

At the time of the announcement of the plan to build the permanent headquarters building here, this paper took occasion to comment on what we then considered the most important result to Brownwood — the fact that the expenditure of money in permanent construction doubtless meant the permanent location here of division offices.

Now it is apparent that in addition to that important advantage, Brownwood also is to have a decided and welcome addition to its civic buildings.

During the past several weeks The Banner has been conducting a circulation campaign. We believe it has been one of the most successful, from every standpoint, ever conducted by a newspaper in this section. We know that the new readers of The Banner numbering into the thousands, have been added to our subscription list.

Welcome, New Readers

We are happy to welcome these new readers. Frankly, we are glad to have you on our list. We feel that we have one of the finest lists of subscribers it would be possible to secure in the Brownwood trade territory.

But we want you to consider yourselves more than just readers of the paper each week. Our only object here, and our only reason for remaining in business is to render you a service. This we are sincerely and honestly trying to do.

We want you to read the paper carefully each week. And if you have any suggestions for improvement or changes, feel free to make them, and be assured they will be appreciated. After all, the paper is published for you, and our efforts always are directed toward making it of the greatest possible service to the largest possible numbers. If you can help us in this, you will be helping in making your paper better.

We trust that you will enjoy each issue, and that at the expiration of your present subscription you will feel as most of our regular readers do, that you have been well repaid for your small investment, and that you will want to continue to read The Banner from year to year.

This week, The Banner was requested by one of the larger state papers to make an estimate of the apparent standing at the present time of the candidates for governor in Brown County. It is a difficult task to gauge accurately the trend of political opinion in the midst of a political campaign, and our guess in the matter may be far wrong. But, because you may be interested, we are going to give you our opinion, just as we gave it to them.

It's Our Guess

If the election were held today, we believe the standing of the candidates for Governor would be something like this: Allred, McDonald, Hunter, Hughes, Small, Witt, Russel.

The campaign is just getting under way, as far as this county is concerned, and only two of the candidates, Allred and McDonald, have made speeches here. Many things could happen between now and July 28, but we don't believe the "apparent standing" will be altered much when returns from Brown County come in.

Some candidates, listening for the voice of the people to call them to enter a race, must be convinced that it is the still, small voice.—Denison Herald.

Short Ballot. (Abilene Morning News.) The state democratic ticket this year is comparatively short, only 43 names. Principal saving of space was due to the congressional redistricting, which removed the names of the candidates for congress-at-large from the state ticket. Two years ago there were more than thirty names on the ticket seeking the three places involved. Only two candidates are unopposed this year. They are L. A. Woods, for superintendent of public instruction, and W. C. Morrow, for the court of criminal appeals. Three are in the race for United States senator, but few observers believe a run-off there will be necessary. Seven would be governor, six lieutenant governor and three attorney general. Four are in the race for comptroller and also for treasurer. Five seek the railroad commission place open this year. Curiously enough, the short list of candidates is taken as an indication of better times. Hard times not only bring out a lot of opposition to established office holders, but rouses ambitions in the breasts of men seeking a solution of their economic problems. Texas could save the candidates much expense and useless campaigning by eliminating the second, or run-off, primary. This could be done with a preferential ballot, in which the voter indicates his first and second choices. Some agitation for this has already been undertaken but it has lacked adequate support. Sooner or later the people will see the justness and simplicity of the preferential primary system, and demand its adoption. Until then we must struggle along with the cumbersome and not always representative double primary plan.

State Forester Fred Merrill of Mississippi says more than a million acres of land in that state have been devastated by erosion resulting from improper agricultural practices and forest fires.

City dwellers purchase more poultry and eggs from Iowa than from any other state. During 1932 the state marketed at four principal markets 54,000,000 pounds of dressed poultry and 66,000,000 dozen eggs.

Fifty Famous Frontiersmen by Elmo Scott Watson

A Brave Man's Bluff

THE early fur traders were almost without exception a class of brave men, equipped in their daring only by their resourcefulness. Such a man certainly was Louis Chappieau, a French-Canadian voyager who shortly after the American Revolution had risen to the responsible position of agent for the British-American Fur company in charge of a trading post on the Menominee river where now stands the city of Marinette, Wis.

So long as he was dealing with the Menominee Indians who came to the mouth of the river by the hundreds at certain seasons every year to trade their mink, beaver, otter, bear and martin pelts for the white man's gew-gaws, Chappieau had little to worry about, for they were always friendly.

But there came a day when a party of Chippewas who ranged between the Menominee river and Lake Superior, arrived at the fort, and this day Chappieau happened to be alone. Before he was aware of their identity the Chippewas were inside the stockade and had filed into the warehouse where he was busily engaged at the time. From the black looks which they gave him, he knew the Chippewas were in an ugly mood.

Soon the Indians became abusive and crowded around him with cocked rifles and tomahawks and knives drawn ready for use. The trader realized that they were planning to kill him and loot the post, so he tried to placate them as best he could. But the more he talked, the more abusive they became and he knew that the first move he made as though to resist them would provoke an attack.

Hopelessly outnumbered and with no help near, Chappieau's situation seemed desperate. But he was of the breed of men who do not despair easily. Suddenly his eye roaming about the room, lighted on an open barrel of gunpowder in the center of the room. Quick as a flash he had drawn a pistol, but instead of firing at one of the Indians he stepped over them pointed the pistol down into the barrel of powder. Then he faced the Chippewas and told them that he would give them just two minutes to get outside the stockade. If they did not, he would fire and they would all die together when he pulled the trigger of the pistol.

For a moment the Indians hesitated. Then to their ears came the ominous click of the pistol being cocked. One look at Chappieau's determined face told them what to expect. They departed — hastily. The trader's bluff had worked!

While the occupants were downtown, a thief stole the lower half of a window from a Sherman, Texas, residence.

LOWER LIGHTING RATE FOR CITY ANNOUNCED

Residential and commercial lighting rates in Brownwood have been reduced, effective with current now being used. This announcement was made today by W. P. Murphey, district manager of the Texas Power & Light Company. This is the ninth voluntary reduction in lighting rates made by the Texas Power & Light Company. Recent reductions were made in 1914, 1916, 1921, 1928 and 1929. He said further that rates were now 33 per cent lower than at the beginning of the seven-year period in 1927, and more than 50 per cent lower than cost of service at the time the Texas Power & Light Company purchased the Brownwood property.

Emergency Highway Work Expected To Help Brown County

Highway building in Texas was given a decided impetus this week with the signing by President Roosevelt of a bill creating a new federal emergency highway program. It is likely that Texas will receive $12,000,000 from this program. The Texas highway commission is to meet soon to consider projects to be included in this extensive building program. Brownwood officials expect this district to get several projects approved for this program, one of which is the proposed highway south from Brownwood to San Saba. Contract for completing the last gap in Highway 10 through the city of Comanche has been promised by the State Highway Commission, according to news reports from Comanche. This would complete Highway 10 from Brownwood through Comanche county to Dublin.

Two construction companies have small contracts in Coleman county and started work this week. The work includes a new bridge over Hord's Creek. Good progress is reported from Goldthwaite on Highway No. 81 during the past week with a number of men and teams employed. Grading on Highway 7 from Mullin to the Brown county line has been completed for some time.

The commissioners' court at Lampasas has ordered an election for July 14 when voters of that county will express their preference regarding issuance of $15,000 in bonds for the construction of the county's half of a bridge over the Colorado river at Bend.

consistent with sound business practice," Mr. Murphey said. "It is significant that the company has lowered these rates at a time when the prices of many other items in the family budget are climbing." The old 7, 5 and 3 cent commercial lighting rate has been changed to a 6, 5, 3 and 2 cent rate. This means that the top step has been reduced to 6 cents and that two new low steps of 3 and 2 cents have been provided. Here is the complete rate: Six cents for the first 100 kilowatt hours per month per kilowatt of maximum demand; 5 cents for the next 100 kilowatt hours per month per kilowatt of maximum demand; 3 cents for the next 500 kilowatt hours and 2 cents for all additional service. The same flat rate of 60 cents net per month for each 500 watts of maximum demand up to 2,000 watts and 10 cents net per month for each 100 watts of maximum demand in excess of 2,000 watts is provided in the new rate.

A new optional commercial lighting rate is also provided for customers using a small amount of service and who could not get into the new low steps of the new rate. An optional rate has been available heretofore but the new optional rate was instituted to provide lower cost of service to all customers. "This voluntary reduction is part of the policy of the Texas Power & Light Company to give the best service at the lowest possible rates

"He was out his money and but few heard his two minute oration. To avoid such injustices as the above, some states have passed laws guaranteeing to each candidate that his principles and claims shall be briefly and fairly set forth and carried to the voters at public cost.

"We are not advocating such a law here by any means, but we do believe that the public generally should encourage campaigns rather than penalize them for not being extravagant.

"We believe it will add much to good government for the public to demand nothing from a candidate except qualifications to do the job for which they apply.

Enjoying a Royal Time With Dolly

Cottonwood

Every one has a little smile today as we had a little prospect of rain yesterday (Sunday). We had quite a little rain in places and got hardly any in some places. We had a wedding in this community since last writing. The lucky man was Mr. Manus Strawn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Strawn, who were early settlers here, and the girl was Miss Marie Moore, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Moore of Grosvenor. They were both reared in this county. We all hope them lots of happiness and a long, long married life.

Mrs. Helen England took ill at singing last night and had to be taken home before singing was over. We hope she soon gets well again. Mr. Isaac Williams and Miss Nora Phillips attended the ball game at Fry Sunday. Don't forget the date of that pie supper and candidate speaking July 7th at Cottonwood. Every one has a special invitation to attend - we'll see how the candidates look full of pie. Mrs. L. E. ## MEASURE ACCURATELY, FOLLOW RULES, AND YOU WON'T HAVE JELLY THAT JUST WON'T JELL

Third of a series of articles on home-canning

BY MARY E. DAGUE

Now that jelly making has been reduced to definite rules, the tragedy of "jelly that won't jell" seldom, if ever, happens to even the most inexperienced housewife. She has the necessary ingredients and the correct proportions which are required for perfect jelly and just a case of following rules measuring accurately.

Fruit juice, fruit acid, sugar and pectin—these are the ingredients. Pectin is recognized as the important jellying agent but the presence of fruit acid is quite as essential. Some fruits contain both the substances in goodly amounts and make excellent jelly naturally. Other fruits are deficient in one or other and the lack must be supplied from some other source, such as another fruit juice or extracted pectin.

All fruits are richest in pectin before they are fully ripe, so the fruit used is half under-ripe, half perfectly ripe in order to get good color and flavor, the finished jelly can be made. As fruit becomes fully ripe much of the pectin changes to pectic acid, a condition which prevents jellying.

Fruits to Choose.
Fruits rich in both pectin and fruit acid must be chosen for jellying. If extracted pectin is not used, sour apples (including crab-apples), currants, gooseberries, blackberries, under-ripe raspberries, under-ripe grapes make excellent jelly without the addition of either pectin or fruit acid.

While the acidity of a fruit is readily detected by the taste, the presence of pectin must be determined by test. Should a juice lack it can be corrected by simply adding 1 tablespoon lemon juice to each pint fruit juice.

If you want to test fruit juice for pectin try the Epsom salts test: mix 1 tablespoon fruit juice, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1-2 teaspoon Epsom salts. Stir until dissolved and then let stand 20 minutes. The jelly-like mass or formation of flaky particles indicates the amount of sugar to use when making the jelly.

Because a certain amount of pectin can take care of a definite amount of sugar the pectin is very important. Too much sugar makes gummy, sticky jelly. Too little sugar makes a tough jelly.

In addition to the tests the following precautions should be kept in mind:
Long Cooking Kills Flavor
Make jelly in small quantities. This shortens the cooking period and a finer flavor and color are the result. Long cooking darkens color and destroys the delicate fruit flavor. It may also cause the pectin in the fruit juice to change to pectic acid. This often is the reason why jelly won't jell.

Hard fruits such as apples and peaches must be cut in quarters and cooked in enough water to be tender in order to extract juice.

Soft juicy fruits such as cherries and currants are heated in enough water to prevent burning until the juice flows freely.

When fruit is tender and juice flows freely, turn into a jelly bag and allow the juice to drip through without squeezing. Test for pectin measure. Cook this first extraction over a hot fire for five minutes, skimming if necessary. Slowly add required amount of sugar and continue to cook rapidly until jelly is done.

Jelly is done when it "sheets" on a metal spoon or when a drop is tested on a cold saucer. A thermometer may be used, but this old-time test is reliable.

When varying density, acidity and pectin content of the same fruit in different seasons make it most impossible to give the accurate temperature for all time but you can reckon the temperature to within a few degrees, 218 to 222 degrees F. is the approximate temperature for any fruit juice to reach the jelly stage.

Second extraction of juice always should be made. Return the pulp to the kettle with enough water to cover and heat slowly to boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes. Proceed as before.

Put your jelly into hot clean jelly glasses and cover with a thin layer of melted paraffin. When the jelly is cold cover with a second layer. When this has hardened cover with the tin covers that are supplied with the glasses. Store in a cool, dry, cool place.

Preserves and fruit "butters" are made by weight rather than measure in many cases although best strawberry preserve recipe I know measures the fruit and sugar.

Strawberry Preserves
One quart berries, 4 cups granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Wash and hull berries. Put berries with 2 cups sugar into a smooth preserving kettle. Bring to the boiling point over a low fire and boil rapidly for five minutes.

Add remaining sugar and lemon juice and boil ten to fifteen minutes. A watery fruit will require the longer cooking period. Turn into an earthen-ware jar or deep crock—you can use your deepest mixing bowl—and let stand 24 hours. Stir occasionally. Seal cold in sterilized jars. The small quantity and the short cooking period are the secret of the deliciousness of these preserves.

The lemon juice preserves the vivid red of the berry. Of course you understand that you can "do" as many quarts as the earthenware jar or crock will hold, but only one quart must be cooked at a time.

Fruit "butters" are made by cooking fruit until tender, rubbing through a coarse sieve, weighing and using three pounds of sugar to four pounds of sifted fruit. This mixture is boiled on top of the stove or cooked slowly in a heat regulated oven until as thick as wanted. It will take four or five hours in the oven at 300 degrees F., and about an hour on top of the stove, stirring almost constantly to prevent sticking and burning. The butter made in the oven will be darker in color and perhaps not quite as delicate in flavor but it requires no watching.

The best way to determine the thickness of the butter is to test it on a cold saucer. When a small spoonful is of the desired consistency the butter is done. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Poultry Raisers Given Remedy For Lice and Chiggers

C. W. Lehmburg, county farm demonstration agent, has prepared formulae for preparing proven remedies for killing chiggers on poultry and for depluming mites and lice from turkeys and chickens. Mr. Lehmburg has taken this action following the receipt of numerous reports from farmers that their poultry is being bothered by these insects.

The chigger remedy is: "Treatment: If an abscess has not yet formed the inflamed area may be treated with sulphur ointment. Peruvian Balsam or a mixture of one part of kerosene with three parts of lard. Frequent light dusting with flowers of sulphur will keep the chickens or turkeys from becoming infested."

The depluming treatment is: "Treatment: Dip fowls in the following solution. Sodium fluoride, 2-4 ounce; sulphur, two ounces; laundry soap, 1-2 ounce; water, one gallon. The dip should be kept stirred so as to keep the sulphur in suspension."

Announcing Lower Residential and Commercial Lighting Rates

Constantly your electric light company is striving to offer greater service at lower costs. It is not easy to rearrange rates for all lighting customers who use varying amounts of electricity. Your electric light company has made other voluntary reductions in rates during the years it has served you. Now—after many weeks' study—NEW LOW RATES are announced that will immediately benefit residential and commercial lighting customers. Whether you use only a few lights nightly or take advantage of the many conveniences electric service offers . . . your future bills will be calculated on the new reduced rates.

RESIDENTIAL LIGHTING		COMMERCIAL LIGHTING

Minimum charge, $1.00.	Meter Rate: 6 cents net per kilowatt hour for the first 4 kilowatt hours per month; 5 cents net per kilowatt hour for the next 42 kilowatt hours used per month; 3 cents net per kilowatt hour for the next 60 kilowatt hours used per month; 2 cents net per kilowatt hour for the next 100 kilowatt hours used per month; and Flat Rate: 60 cents net per month for the first 4 rooms or less and 10 cents net per month for each room in excess of 4 rooms. Minimum charge, $1.00.

New Low Rate Applies to Lighting You Are Now Using

The old residential lighting rate was called a "7 and 5 cent" rate. The new rate can be called a "6, 5, 3 and 2 cent" rate. You can see that the first step in the new rate has been reduced from 7 cents and that new low steps of 3 cents and 2 cents have been added which will permit many customers to use much current at these new low rates.

For commercial lighting users a corresponding change in rate will make possible better lighting of stores and offices at small additional cost, or an immediate saving on the amount of service previously used.

In place of the former energy rates of "7, 5 and 3 cents," the new rate provides for "6, 5, 3 cents," and a new low rate of 2 cents for those who use lights and other electric equipment long hours each day.

To provide low rates for customers living in small houses and using a small amount of electricity monthly . . . and also to benefit customer living in large houses and likewise using a small amount of service . . . a new Optional Rate has been provided. This Optional Rate provides a $1.00 minimum per month and for this minimum the customer can use 8 kilowatt hours. For the next 42 kilowatt hours the rate is 8 cents, for the next 50 kilowatt hours 5 cents, and all additional service 3 cents.

There is also provided an optional commercial lighting rate, for those who prefer a different type of rate.

BEDROOM DEMONSTRATOR TELLS OF WORK DONE IN ZEPHYR HOME

By KATHERINE FISHER, Bedroom Demonstrator for the Zephyr Club.

When I decided to try to be a bedroom demonstrator I had no idea how my room should be fixed as it was nothing but a junk room, where we had put old furniture discarded from other rooms of the house.

My room was judged in February but it seemed to me that I would never get anything done on it, because I kept waiting to get some one to put the windows in for me, as the room had no windows in it, we could not get the carpenter to do this because he took the measles, so my father, my brother-in-law and one of the neighbors got busy and put three small double windows in the room because we had no more time to lose.

My room had three doors in it but we took out one that was in the east end and put a double window there. We all like this much better because we hardly ever used the east door.

The furniture in the room consisted of a rusty iron bed and an old run down dresser.

My father and brother-in-law took the ceiling down and cleaned this and tightened the planks. They then took the north wall out and put in some better planks, because these old planks were old and rotten.

There was no place to keep your clothes in this room, because the whole room was practically unusable. We put a clothes closet in the northwest corner of the room. We put a shelf for hats and a rod for hanging clothes on and on the door we put a shoe rack.

My bed is the same bed we had at first. We took the old paint and rust off with lye water and sandpapered it. Then enameled it cream and I use a pink striped bedspread on the bed now.

We took the top off of the dresser and enameled it and straightened the drawers so they would slide and then we put wooden knobs on the drawers, and we stopped one of the holes that was used for old fashioned knobs with a mixture of paper, hot water and flour. We then enameled the entire dresser and bought a new mirror to hang above the drawers.

I needed a study table or desk so we used an old washstand for this, the drawer is used for writing material but the bottom part is used for my bathing unit, which I surely enjoy especially when my girl friends spend the night with me.

Above the desk I put a book shelf which was made from a dried peach box.

The straight chair that I have used is made from two old broken down and discarded chairs. The rocker in my room was broken and run down but we managed to get it fixed where it is as good as new almost.

I got me a rug for my floor but it did not cover the entire floor so we painted the floor around the edges of the rug.

My shades were given to me and we cut them down to fit my windows. We bought material for my curtains and made them. We bought new screen and put on the windows. We bought linen for the dresser and desk scarfs and I made them using Italian hemstitching on them. We selected some of the most attractive pictures for a girl's room and hung them in my room.

All the labor performed on my room was voluntary because every one was very interested in fixing up this room; another thing that delighted the whole family was the fixing doors so that they would latch. We bought knobs and locks and put them on.

Not only did we make improvements in this room but we made other improvements in our home. We have the wall paper and paint for the dining room and we plan to paint and paper our kitchen and make some other improvements in the house.

Our front porch was leaning and our front steps were about down. We fixed the porch and made new steps. Nearly all of the east fence was down and we had no gate. We put up a fence with lumber on hand and also made a gate.

We planted flowers in the spring and have cleaned our yards. Our front screens were painted and moved the washpot on the outside of the back yard. My father cut the dead limbs from the china trees in our yard. This house is forty years old and the room that I have improved was formerly the kitchen.

A total of forty have come to see my room and several others have told me they were coming. All who have seen it like it very much and not only do I enjoy it but the whole family enjoys it. My father is so proud of my room that he goes and looks at it every morning before he dresses. My total expense for improving my room was $26.85.

Six Film Stars Romp In Crosby Vehicle

Bing Crosby, Carole Lombard, Burns and Allen, Ethel Merman and Leon Errol.

That's a cast of which any single member could "carry" a picture—but they are all together in a refreshing new South Sea Island adventure film musical at the Lyric Theatre Friday and Saturday.

"We're Not Dressing" is the Paramount vehicle in which the six stars of Hollywood combine their talents to create a swift-moving sixty minutes of song and action.

Crosby is a sailor aboard the yacht of Miss Lombard. Her guests are Miss Merman, Errol, and the fortune-hunting princes, Jay Henry and Hay Milland.

Shipwrecked, this band finds haven on a South Sea Island, where George Burns and Gracie Allen are hunting big game. How Bing puts his "guests" to work and how George and Gracie get involved in the situation create a climax of love, song and laughs.

Norman Taurog adds "We're Not Dressing" to his long roster of successes. The story is from an original by Benjamin Glazer, adapted for the screen by Horace Jackson, Francis Martin and George Marion, Jr.

They have produced a clean, rapid-fire picture which proved in its first showing that it will be an outstanding attraction for the entire family.

Physicians Hold Meeting at Lake

With a large number of out of town doctors attending, the staff meeting of Medical Arts Hospital, held Tuesday night, was one of the most successful ever held. The meeting was held at the keeper's cottage at Lake Brownwood. The doctors were entertained with boat rides late Tuesday afternoon, these being followed by a fish fry at 7:30.

Following the fish fry a scientific program was carried out with Dr. Lee Rice and Dr. W. B. Russ, both of San Antonio, reading papers. Dr. Rice's subject was, "Gall Bladder Diseases" and Dr. Russ' subject was, "Surgical Treatment of Cancer of the Stomach."

Mid-Summer Heat Sends Half Million to Coney

The weatherman did his bit to boom business—the hot-dog and soda pop business, anyway—when he suddenly shot the mercury in New York up to 68. Of the 1,000,000 New Yorkers who flocked to nearby resorts, half of them found relief in Coney Island, where a general view of the crowd is afforded above. Note the line in foreground waiting at a water fountain.

Boy Scout News

Troop No. 8 on Hike.

Scouts of Troop No. 8, Brownwood, with Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Lewis Winebrenner hiked to Borsen's Cut Tuesday afternoon for an all night camp. The boys hiked back to town Wednesday morning. All reported having had an enjoyable time.

Eagle Badges Received

Eagle badges for Scouts Rex Lanford, Troop No. 35, Blanket; J. Herbert Ragdale, Troop No. 1, Brownwood, and Howard Adams, Troop No. 32, Olden, are now in the Scout office and will be presented at next Court of Honor held at these places.

Safety First

This is the swimming season. Last week a Scout received a severe head injury from diving into water that he had been misinformed about. He asked another boy how deep the water was, instead of investigating the water himself. Why not practice the safety rule, and never dive into unknown water? Investigate it yourself and not run the risk of someone being mistaken about the information they are imparting.

Another thing, this is a good time to be on the look-out for accidents, that might come your way. The Scout motto is "Be Prepared." Just the other day near Dallas, three boys rescued a young lady from being drowned. She had gone under the third time, when they made the rescue. After applying artificial respiration the patient was revived. Up to the present time the boys names are unknown. We do not know whether they are Scouts or not, but they prepared and knew what to do when the emergency came. They evidently gained their knowledge by attending some life saving instruction school or camp. Every boy whether he is a Scout or not should learn how to make a rescue in water.

On to Billy Gibbons.

Camp slogan "Every Scout a Swimmer." If you do not swim well, attend Camp Billy Gibbons and receive instructions under expert teachers. The aim of the camp this year is to see that every Scout who registers for the camp will know how to swim before going back home.

These payments included 102 taxes, and delinquent taxes to 1932 and other years in the past.
