An Associated Press article in last Sunday's papers complains that the new Reagan Administration is starting to back away from campaign promises even before it gets into office. A few of the gripes refer to pledges to balance the budget in two years and reopen arms talks with Russia soon. As regards the expected tax cut, fault finders are unhappy that it does not look possible as retroactive to Jan. 1, as proposed earlier.

Remarks like those are in line with predictions made shortly after the election. The nation was reminded that lots of poor losers were involved, and their aim is to do whatever they can to make Reagan look bad, as well as to use their legislative influence to resist changes and defend the old liberal policies. This pre-inaugural sniping at the president-elect seems very much like a part of the resistance program. The opponents want to diminish confidence in the minds of us citizens.

As we think about such remarks we agree that delays can be expected, but we can't go along with the idea that the new administration has started discarding pledges. On the other hand, we are firmly convinced that the reform program as outlined during the campaign remains a positive guideline. We can feel confident that many important improvements are coming. However we should be able to understand that some will have to be delayed. After all, the faults that previous administrations have accumulated over many years can't be eliminated in a few days.

In the first place, we have the assurance of the liberals that they will throw up all possible resistance, and progress will necessarily be slow. As it looks from here, Congress will be busy the next four years in replacing lots of existing mistakes with common sense legislation.

Besides, there are other problems. For instance, in relation to an early tax cut. When we think of last year's $60 billion deficit we can understand that lots of trimming will be necessary to arrive at a new budget which will allow tax cuts.

Similarly, lots of study on the military situation will be needed before anyone can be ready to talk with the Soviets about arms limitation. After allowing Russia to lead the arms race for several years we can't expect to start negotiating on short notice.

So, regardless of what the pessimists say, we have no reason to suspect that the new administration intends to hedge on its conservative promises. The simple truth is that it intends to think issues over carefully and take action consistent with its long range program of bringing traditional solid values back into American life.

Reagan enters office facing a multitude of problems, which hopefully will be remedied, but will require time. We have inflation, high interest rates, high unemployment, a high national debt, a spendthrift government, welfare graft and waste, a high crime rate, miscarriage of justice, moral decay, and what not. When the masses of America voted for a change, they were in reality handing down a mandate for return of the principles which made the country great. They don't expect such things to happen over night but they will wait patiently for them.

While listing our most urgently wanted changes we have to give priority to a moral re-awakening. While we worry about the economic problem and the ambitions of Russia, we have to face the possibility that our country, like Rome, can go to pieces from internal rot. This is the idea continued on page 2...

Burglars Fail at Muenster Pharmacy

A pair of burglars apparently left empty handed after breaking into the Muenster Pharmacy about 6:45 a.m. last Thursday. According to co-owner Bob Pels, they searched through several drawers, presumably for narcotics, but nothing, drugs or otherwise, was missing.

A likely reason is that they limited their search to 2 or 3 minutes while a burglar alarm was sounding off at full volume. Neighbors, who heard the sound instantly and watched the activity from across the street, estimated the time the men were inside.

They said they were alerted by the alarm, notified the sheriff's office dispatcher, and watched as the thieves searched through drawers, also that the thieves cleared out before Officers David Province and Helen Tompkins arrived. The witnesses gave a description of the men and their vehicle.

Pels said that the break-in was similar to break ins recently reported in Nocona and Whitesboro. In this case, as in those, there's little doubt that they were looking for narcotics. He said that the burglars entered by crashing a heydite tile through the glass front door.

"The God of heaven will give us success; therefore we His servants will arise and build." Nehemiah 2:20

The congregation of Muenster's First Baptist Church observed the official groundbreaking for the construction of the new Baptist worship center on Sunday, January 11 with a special Sunday morning worship service presented by Rev. Keith Thomas, pastor, and Andy Cherry, associate pastor.

During the service, Jess Cason, charter member of the Baptist Church in Muenster, was honored by the where the new church is being constructed.

The "Together We Build" campaign for the new worship center began October 26, 1980 and canvassing for pledges started a month later, November 26. The completion time of the new Baptist church is expected to be May 1981, 40 years after the first Baptist church was started in Muenster.

A fellowship dinner followed the worship service and groundbreaking ceremony.

Avis Robertson, who was present for the groundbreaking ceremony, is the construction superintendent and some of the work will be sub-contracted through him.

At the building fund banquet in November, Dr. Larry Tisdale said the greatest need for the new space "is for the youth of the church and the anticipated future growth."

As the first protestant church in the history of Muenster, the Baptist Church has grown from the original 19 members to a 50 family-member congregation.

Through their pledges, prayers and support, the "Together We Build" plans are now becoming a reality.

Koesler Sells Jewelry Store to Mike L. Fuhrmann

Effective this week Michael L. Fuhrmann of Lindsay is the owner and operator of the jewelry and watch repair business in Muenster, and the name changes to Fuhrmann's Jewelry. The new arrangement will be introduced next week at a week-long open house with coffee and cookies. Fuhrmann has bought the business from Norbert Koesler who opened it on November 11, 1964. His intention is to continue sales of watches, clocks, jewelry, china, silver crystal and gift lines, along with the watch and clock repair business.

He is qualified by education and experience in all phases of the business. After a year of study at Mountain View college of Dallas he graduated as a watch and clock maker (horologist). And during the six years since then he was employed at Kinne's Jewelry in Gainesville.

On the job here, he will use modern equipment in cleaning and repairing watches, clocks and jewelry, including a brand new ultrasonic unit for cleaning rings and small jewelry.

A new look goes with the new ownership. A partition has been removed to enlarge store area about 25 per cent, new carpet was installed, watch repair work bench was moved to the front and shelves and show cases were re-arranged.

Fuhrmann will continue living on Highway 82, some 2 miles west of Lindsay and commute daily to the business. He and his wife, the former Beverly Walterscheid of Muenster, have two children.

Salespeople assisting Fuhrmann in the store are his wife, a sister, Mrs. Annette Anderle of Muenster and Christi Klement.

Muenster State Bank Capitalization Increased

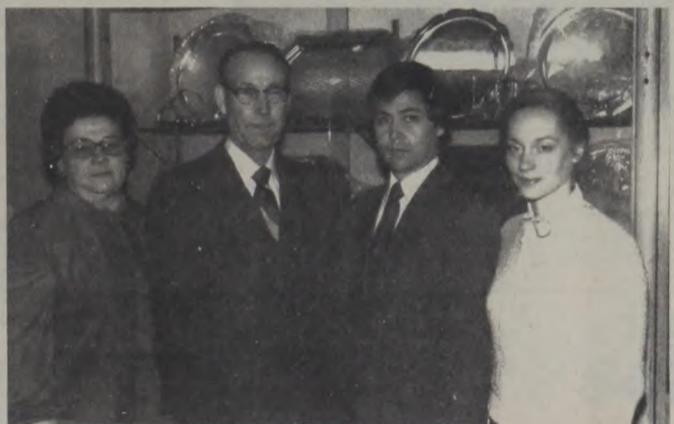

The capitalization of Muenster State Bank has been increased from $100,000 to $500,000. The action was taken by stockholders at their annual meeting Monday by transferring $400,000 from the surplus account to the capital account.

This increase of capitalization increases the financial strength of the bank but it does not change the total capital account, which also includes surplus, profits and reserves, according to President Earl Fisher. The total of capital accounts is $1,921,352.07.

The stockholders also re-elected directors as follows: J.R. Dangelmayr, Earl J. Fisher, J.W. Fisher, Herbert Meurer, John D. Meurer, Henry G. Weinzapfel, J.M. Weinzapfel. And directors elected officers as follows: Earl J. Fisher, president; Henry G. Weinzapfel, executive vice-president; John D. Meurer, vice-president and cashier; Lillian Walterscheid, assistant vice-president; Paula Reiter, assistant cashier.

Norbert and Elizabeth Koesler retired this week after 16 years as owners-operators of Koesler Jewelry. They are succeeded by Michael L. and Beverly Fuhrmann who are remodeling and improving and will introduce themselves to the public at open house all next week.

Muenster Chamber of Commerce Starts Banquet Plans

This year's Chamber of Commerce banquet is likely to be held on a Friday instead of Wednesday, as in recent years. And if so, the date probably is March 13.

Directors reporting at the regular meeting Tuesday said they are trying to determine membership preference before they set the date, and meanwhile they are thinking about the details involved in electing new directors and officers to be installed at the banquet.

Directors whose terms are expiring are Monica Hess, Lupe Evans, Doris Hamer and Sam Endres. Remaining members of the board...David Fette, Dick Ferber, Alvin Fuhrmann and Henry Weinzapfel...are acting as a nominating committee, contacting prospective candidates in choosing nominees for the ballot. Members will vote by mail. Finally, the directors will elect officers from their membership. Identity of those persons and the banquet speaker and preparing for the dinner and program are other banquet details.

About Germanfest, the directors proposed an admission charge to compensate for declining net revenue because of inflation. Increasing expenses are leaving less for annual repairs, improvements and promotions. Chamber members approved the idea in principle but suggested that directors give more thought to the problems they had mentioned...such as multiple areas of entering the park, the number of persons needed to collect, the lack of adequate admission gates, a policy on leaving and re-entering the grounds after admission had been paid. If directors like the idea in spite of difficulties, they are encouraged to go ahead with it.

Drug Abuse Rally Dated Jan. 29 at GHS Auditorium

Announcement has been made that the major rally against drug abuse will be held on Thursday, January 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Gainesville High School Auditorium. The date was erroneously given last week for two days earlier.

All interested individuals are urged to mark their calendars for January 29. Brigadier General Robbie Risner, executive director for research on drug abuse and education, will be present.

A major campaign, emphasizing the three-pronged struggle against drug abuse through awareness, prevention and education, will be launched at a meeting tonight, Thursday, January 25, at 7:30 p.m. in Schlaudroff Hall at Cooke

County College.

It will be directed by Sally Williams, co-ordinator with Governor Bill Clements and Ross Perot and the Texans' War on Drugs Program.

It will be hosted by "Cooke County Families in Action" which includes "Cooke County Citizens Against Drugs", who met for many months in 1980 in St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Invited to the special county-wide leadership meeting on January 15 have been any families interested in control of the drug abuse problem in the area, county, state and country, civic, business education, and church leaders and all other individuals concerned about widespread illegal drug traffic.

Cooke County Loses Long-Time Official

Jo Hillis Dies

Venita Jo Hillis, 49, tax assessor-collector of Cooke County for the past 16 years, died last Friday night in Westgate Hospital, Denton, following a long illness.

Funeral service was held at 3:30 Sunday in Calvary Baptist Church, Gainesville, with the Reverends D.S. Moore, Hubert Wright, Bill Jenkins and Milton Pledger officiating. And graveside service was conducted at New Hope Cemetery by the Reverends Bob Rutherford and Marvin Lancaster. Burial was directed by Vernie Keel Funeral Home.

Jo Hillis was a native of Paducah, Texas, born Nov. 22, 1931, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewis Youngblood. She moved to Cooke County with her family when she was a child. She married Lewis Hillis of Gainesville in November 1949. She was a member of Calvary Baptist Church and the Soroptimist Club. Losing her bid for reelection to the tax office in last year's Democratic primary, she ended her fourth term December 31.

Survivors include her husband, a son, a daughter, two brothers, three sisters and four grandchildren.

Local Mothers Will March

The Mothers' March of Dimes will begin this weekend, January 17 and 18, with volunteers going door to door in Muenster.

According to Margie Walterscheid, there are now several mothers and teenagers volunteering their time for the worthy cause.

The annual March of Dimes was established in 1938 as a campaign to raise funds for polio research and patient care. Funds are used today chiefly for research on birth defects and virus diseases, while continuing aid to polio victims.

Volunteers include Margie Walterscheid, Jo Walterscheid, Patsy Walterscheid, Jo Carol Stinson, Joyce Abney, Ann Perkins, Cindy Ramsey, Judy McDaniel, Meredith McDaniel and Mary Bayer.

Houston Man Will Talk at Gainesville C of C Banquet

The 59th Annual Gainesville Area Chamber of Commerce Banquet will be held Tuesday, January 27, with Dr. Bill West as featured speaker. Other entertainment will be provided during the dinner by Carl Jones and the Golden Tones. Special awards will be presented. The meeting will be held at the Activities Center, Cooke County College, at 7:30 p.m., according to David Howeth, president for 1981.

Dr. West, of West & Associates, Houston, is an incomparable public speaker. He brings a fresh approach to speaking that is logical, meaningful, and thought-provoking, as well as entertaining and easy to digest. His ideas on motivation and personality are significant and well presented. Dr. West is also a former Associate Professor, Houston Baptist University, a writer of over 100 published articles and two books, Free To Be Me and How to Survive Stress (In a Mad, Mad, World); he is listed in International Authors and Writers, Who's Who, and Who's Who in Finance and Industry.

Tickets are on sale at First State Bank, Gainesville National Bank and the Chamber office for $12.00 each, the same price as last year.

THE STATUS OF PATRIOTISM

The catalyst which helped ignite the fires of independence in the American colonies was a pamphlet called, The Crisis, published by Thomas Paine in December, 1776.

"These are the times that try men's souls," wrote Paine. "The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman."

Just as 204 years ago Thomas Paine and his colleagues of the American Revolution were concerned about patriots and patriotism, so today there are many who observe a noticeable dearth of the patriotism we once took for granted.

True, much of what is missing today is symbolic, nevertheless, it is important for it exemplifies a change in thinking — a change in spirit — which is the real substance of patriotism.

A member of our staff recently had occasion to ride on a float in a parade in a small town of about 8,000 population. On the float was the American flag, symbol of everything of which our nation stands. Along the two-mile parade route were hundreds of townspeople, yet of all those observing the parade only a half-dozen demonstrated the proper respect for the flag by standing erect as it went by.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — One group wants to raise interests rates. Another one wants to lower property taxes.

A year from now maybe taxpayers will be paying out bank loans with money they saved from tax reforms.

Last session one of the Legislature's bloodiest fights involved an effort to remove the 10 percent ceiling on home mortgage loans. In days long gone by, when mortgage rates bobbed around four percent, the Legislature prohibited lending institutions from charging more than 10 percent interest. In recent years, inflation drove up the rate beyond the worst fears of past lawmakers... through the roof, in fact.

The 10 percent ceiling, once believed a safeguard, became a hindrance. Texas lending institutions had to borrow federal money between 12 and 13 percent, and home mortgage loans came to a virtual standstill for a while in the Lone Star State.

Finally, after multiple threats flung back and forth, the Legislature raised the ceiling to 12 percent. However, when Congress temporarily suspended all state ceilings soon after, home mortgage interests shot up to 17, 18, even over 20 percent.

Whaley took it in stride. Predictions that a vote to remove the 10 percent ceiling would result in doom for any legislator did not prove true. The subject was not a serious issue anywhere in the state during campaign season.

Back Again

Now, bankers, credit unions, finance companies, retailers and auto dealers are announcing they are joining forces to remove the new 12 percent ceiling on interest rates.

A consumer association has called it "a conspiracy of lenders to allow an open season on all borrowers," but the lenders say they need the credit opportunities for businesses in Texas.

Some are predicting the issue to be a bloody repeat of last session's fracas. Then again, depending on how lawmakers sense the attitudes of their voters, they may not be afraid to approve the issue. With the recent election in mind, anti-ceiling lawmakers may have fared far better than pro-ceiling colleagues.

Property Tax Reduction

Led by John Sharp of Victoria, some seven state representatives last week proposed a plan to use a local option one-cent sales tax hike plus state surplus funds to dramatically lower local property taxes.

The bill would supply an estimated $300 million a year in surplus funds to school districts which increase homestead exemptions, plus it would allow cities and counties to share equally in a sales tax increase to compensate for property tax reductions.

Using 1979 data, Sharp estimates the bill will reduce property taxes per homestead an average of $70 per month.

Redistricting Woes

Texas will probably receive the federal census figures in time to begin the redistricting process this session, but it may be all for naught, at least according to one expert.

Now in the works are several lawsuits challenging the census findings in Northern cities. If the census figures are thrown out (probably sometime after the Legislature adjourns), then the Texas redistricting plan would be voided, and the entire process begun again two years from now.

Austin attorney Steve Bickerstaff, a former assistant attorney general under John Hill, said until the census figures are resolved as reliable, then any Texas plan will remain in jeopardy.

Closing Black Colleges

A Panhandle legislator last week suggested he would introduce a bill to sell two predominantly black Texas colleges and use the proceeds to integrate their students into mostly white colleges.

Pampa legislator Foster Whaley immediately drew fire from black legislators and educators for his plan to sell Prairie View A&M and Texas Southern University.

Whaley said his bill was designed to end vestiges of a "separate but equal" system, but opponents viewed it as a way to avoid appropriating an additional $20 million to the two colleges as a means of sidestepping a discrimination lawsuit.

Letters...

My Very Dear Friends,

Now that Christmas has passed into history, and our nation is hopefully looking forward to the installation of our 40th President, it is proper, that I once again, set on paper, what I had all the while in my heart.

Thanks a million, my dear Muenster and Texan friends, for all the joy you added to my Christmas, for messages of love, in the form of: cards, autographed cards, spiritual bouquets and gifts you sent. "Absence makes hearts grow fonder," the proverb says. I assure you, this is the case with me. I think of you and pray for you very often from early morning until 10 p.m.

In the million of thanks, I wish to include also those friends who sent greetings on other occasions, such as Feasday, Birthday, Thanksgiving or simply wrote. And, if you have not written, you are my very dear friends anyway.

I am fine, enjoying good health, making a daily walk of at least 1/2 hour outdoors, and being secretary to eight old Sisters, who cannot correspond any longer with their dear ones. Six of these clients are Swiss nuns and two are Americans. And would you believe it, to my just noticed delight, the two are Texans.

I keep up with you through the Muenster Enterprise and the Sacred Heart Church Bulletin.

Congratulations and condolence to whosoever due, and have a wonderful New Year!

Warmheartedly your friend,
Sister M. Teresina, O.S.B.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Although the twin problems of inflation and unemployment loom large before us, the minimum wage rose from $3.10 to $3.35 an hour Jan. 1.

That increase, though nobly intended, will only make both problems worse.

The latest of the increases mandated by legislation passed in 1977 means that the minimum wage has increased by 46 percent since that year. A U.S. Chamber of Commerce study concluded that for every 20 percent increase in the minimum wage, 880,000 job opportunities are lost — either existing jobs abolished or the failure of new job opportunities to present themselves.

Common sense tells us that if business costs increase, only two things can happen: Ways can be sought to cut those costs, or prices must be increased to compensate. Either way, Americans on the lower end of the income spectrum lose. They lose job opportunities, and they feel more keenly the ravages of inflation than people who have more discretionary income.

Especially hard hit are teenagers. With the unemployment rate in the 16-to-19-year-old age bracket running between 15 and 20 percent — and over 50 percent among minority youths in some cities — we must find a way to put these willing workers into jobs.

Yet, it is unrealistic to expect businesses to hire untrained, even immature, workers if we require them to pay wages at a higher level than their productivity justifies. Young people find themselves in the treadmill of not being able to find work because they have no experience, and not being able to gain experience because they can't find jobs.

The best way out of this quagmire is to institute a "Youth Opportunity Wage." This youth differential in the minimum wage would allow businesses to pay teenage workers a slightly lower amount, making it economically possible to create new jobs or place these less productive workers into existing jobs.

When they have gained maturity and skills, they will be able to work at the higher adult minimum wage, or, more likely, move above that level.

Would the youth differential throw older workers out of jobs? No. Mature workers are more productive and well worth the difference in pay. Further, most of the jobs in our economy require some measure of skill or experience and thus could not be filled by the young workers who would be covered by the differential. In fact, the number of workers above the age of 20 employed in minimum wage jobs is a minimal percentage of the workforce.

If we are serious about helping our fellow citizens, we must look for workable solutions. Is it better to be unemployed, or to have the satisfaction, and income, that comes from working? The question before us is that simple. Congress must realize it does not work in a vacuum. Every action we take affects the lives of every American and the economic well-being of our nation. We have a sacred obligation to remember that and act accordingly, rather than to legislate through wishful thinking.

Students Observe and Work With Small-Town Physicians

Program Helps Fill Medical Needs

By Teresa Ralwater
Enterprise Staff Writer

This is the second of a two part story concerning the need of family physicians in Texas and how the preceptorship program is helping.

There is a lack of primary-care physicians in Texas with many of the state's counties having no doctor at all. The Texas Tech University Health Science Center is one medical school that is encouraging family-practice medicine to help fulfill that need.

The preceptorship program used at Tech gives a medical student a chance to observe and work with a family physician. According to Dr. Berry Squyres, chairman of the department of family practice at Texas Tech, it is an excellent opportunity for a medical student to see early in his training the every day work of a family doctor. "The student observes the physician's caring for his patients, his role in the community, and the full life he leads."

At the Texas Tech School of Medicine, the preceptorship program is offered as an elective for freshman or sophomore students for which they do not receive any academic credit. For the senior medical students, the preceptorship experience is required and academic credit is earned.

The number of students at Tech participating in the preceptorship program as an elective is indicative of the desire the students have to learn and to become good doctors of medicine.

Squyres reported at present there are 40 students in the senior class. The freshman class, the seniors of 1984, has 100 members. As seniors, the students will be required to participate in the preceptorship program. Squyres described the program as "a very valuable part of our curriculum."

E. Al Antonetti said he could not agree more. Antonetti spent four weeks in Muenster last summer in the preceptorship program working with Dr. Martin Kralicke. As a student of sophomore standing at that time, he received no academic credit, but described his working with Kralicke as "an extremely positive experience."

Antonetti said he likes the small-town practice in Muenster which has several advantages being geographically close to Dallas and the excellent physicians and hospitals there.

"When the family physician is able to spot disease in its primary stage, Muenster family doctors can, if necessary, prescribe their patient to specialists in Denton or Dallas," Antonetti said. While in Muenster, he was able to observe and meet many doctors in the area and commented that in his opinion, "Muenster family practice is the best there is."

Interviews with medical students from other schools revealed stress to specialize, instead of going into family-practice medicine, as a problem. Antonetti said there is no pressure at Tech from anyone. The only pressure he said he feels is "the pressure to learn the tremendous amount of information that a family practitioner has to know." At Tech, family practice is offered as a specialty and is recognized as such.

Today family-practice medicine is concerned not only with curing those who suffer from disease, but also with the prevention of illness, the care of the chronically ill, and the teaching of health maintenance, according to Squyres. "The family physician treats episodic illness, but at the same time checks and treats the patient as a whole."

The family practitioner has three objectives: to diagnose or find what is wrong with a patient, to relieve or cure him and to prevent him from becoming sick. Family physicians must therefore know diseases, disorders, injuries and understand the structure and workings of the complete body. According to Squyres, the primary objective of the Texas Tech program is to furnish primary-care physicians to smaller towns, especially family physicians to the critical need areas of West Texas.

In order to meet that goal, the preceptorship program is giving medical students a chance to experience small-town practice and help them to decide if family practice is what they want. It helped Antonetti make a decision: "Family practice is exactly what I want," he said.

A native of Cuba, Antonetti is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfredo Antonetti now of Muenster. Antonetti and his family came to the United States in January 1961 when he was four years old. Before moving to Muenster in 1968, the Antonettis lived in Miami, Florida and in Wichita Falls, Texas. He graduated from North Texas State University in Denton before enrolling in medical school at Texas Tech.

Antonetti's wife, Janet, is also involved in a medical profession. She is a registered dietician from Ferris, Texas and presently specializing in working with diabetics and the obese in Lubbock. Antonetti said he and his wife both like a small town and are especially impressed with Muenster.

"A patient needs an attitude of trust and respect for the family physician that he uses," Antonetti said. "The people of Muenster have a rapport with and respect for those doctors that you wouldn't believe. It is so special."

Funeral services were held Wednesday, Jan. 14 for Richard Yosten, 58, who died suddenly about 11:30 a.m. Monday in Kermit, where he had resided for the past 20 years.

He is survived by his wife, Laverne, and two sons, Ronnie and Roger of Kermit and four grandchildren. There are five sisters, Mrs. Joe Horn (Elsie), Mrs. Leo Hoedebeck (Marie), Mrs. Ed Pels (Gen), Mrs. Bernard Sicking (Adelaide) and Mrs. Arnold Hess (Bonnie) all of whom attended the funeral.

Joan Walterscheid Talks First Aid to YHT Chapter

Joan Walterscheid, director of nurses at Muenster Memorial Hospital, was the guest speaker for members of the Young Homemakers of Texas when the Muenster chapter held the January meeting in the Home Ec.

department of MHS.

Mrs. Walterscheid gave directions for First Aid in the home, including aid for poisoning, bleeding, burns, shock, broken bones, eye contamination, snake bites, choking and CPR. Also safety precautions related to child safety, especially in regard to medicine cabinets and household cleansers. She also distributed pamphlets emphasizing First Aid In The Home.

Pam Dangelmayr conducted the business meeting, opening with prayer. Discussion centered on the Sacred Heart Cemetery clean-up project, which includes painting crosses and possibly planting new shrubs. Further plans will await warmer weather.

The State Convention is scheduled for January 30-31 in San Antonio. The YHT Spring college will be held at TWU on April 11 for members interested in attending the craft workshop.

Members voted to give a door prize at each meeting, to an attending member. Glenda Russell was the lucky January winner. Seven members attended.

'Fest Searches For Talent

The search is on for local talent to entertain during the annual Germanfest to be held April 24, 25 and 26.

According to Johnny Fisher, this year's entertainment chairman, roving entertainers, such as accor-dian players or guitar pickers, would be ideal.

A brochure will be made and anyone interested in entertaining during Germanfest should notify Fisher as soon as possible. Any talent will be welcomed.

James Bayer Family Observes 25th

Mr. and Mrs. James Bayer were honored on Sunday, January 11 in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary, with their children as hosts. The party was held from 2 to 6 p.m. in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Jim and Carrie Bayer. Co-hosting were Sandra and Jeff Ritcheson of Grapevine and Chris Bayer and Tracy Hall.

Pictures were made of the bride in her original wedding gown, and other family pictures were taken. Silver gifts were opened and displayed. Entertainment included piano music by the children of the Ray Hoenigs, followed by card and domino games.

The wedding of James Bayer to the former Ann Neu was held on January 7, 1956. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bayer of Muenster and Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Neu of Lindsay.

Guests at the 25th anniversary party were the Frank Bayers and Joe J. Neu; the Regi Bayer family of Muenster; the Randy Bayers of Grapevine, the Charles Neu family of Lindsay, the Wilfred Bindels of Muenster, the Ray Hoenig family of Lindsay, the Michael Bengforts and Angie of Gainesville, the Leslie Sandmanns of Lindsay, Chris Bayer, Tracey Hall of Gainesville the Jim Bayers of Spring Creek, the Jeff Richesons of Grapevine, the hosts and the honorees.

Mrs. Myrtle Moon Honored on 89th

Mrs. Myrtle Moon was honored on her 89th birthday recently in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Eula Fay Singleton in San Francisco, Calif. Both are former residents of the Marysville and Gainesville areas, and have lived in California a number of years.

Five daughters of Mrs. Moon attended the event. They were Eula Mae, Eva, Nellie, Norma Gean and Lovetta; two sons, Cavitt and Carroll were unable to join the group that day.

The honoree's table was centered with the decorated birthday cake; and party foods were served to 40 guests and family members.

One of the party highlights was hearing Myrtle Moon play her harmonica. Adding to the happiness of the day for the honoree was being surrounded by her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and two of her three great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Lehnertz Entertains Guests

Guests of Mrs. Agnes Lehnertz during the Christmas-New Year's holidays were a son, Claude Lehnertz of Spokane, and Donna Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Walt Merwin all of Spokane. They returned to their homes last week, driving antique cars purchased in Texas. They phoned Mrs. Lehnertz Monday, very pleased to make the long drive to Washington encountering no snow and no flat tires, but clated over ideal weather and "great gas mileage."

THIS SPACE CONTRIBUTED BY THE PUBLISHER

"Beautiful, Beautiful Texas"

Not many Texas wildflowers dare to bloom during mid-winter, but nearly two dozen of them blossom all year long around the border of a giant poster calendar which is both educational and colorful.

Titled "Beautiful, Beautiful Texas," the big calendar—nearly 2 by 3 feet—has individual portraits of 22 different wildflowers. The centerpiece is a peaceful landscape riotous with pasture flowers, a country cabin, oak trees and a windmill.

The originator—Carroll

Abbott of Kerrville, the state's only full-time wildflower seed and plant collector—says the calendar has a much longer life than the year for which it was printed.

"After the year is over," Abbott explains, "lots of folks frame the individual portraits or use them in craft projects such as note cards and decoupage. Some people even laminate the centerpiece as an unusual place mat."

The calendar is $3.90, which includes sales tax and mailing costs, from Green Horizons, 500 Thompson Drive, Kerrville, Tx. 78028.

Abbott has been in the business of helping save the wildflowers of Texas for more than 10 years. He has been in debt for the same number of years. Sales of the calendars help keep him going during the long, slow winters.

Abbott's unique idea of conservation is to make seeds available so that Texans can plant wildflowers in their homescapes and at their country places, schools and parks.

"I don't think you can save wildflowers just by passing laws," says Abbott.

His mail-order seed company—Green Horizons—lists seeds from more than 200 different wildflowers, plus dozens of tree, shrub and cacti seed. He has just published a 24-page, colorful catalog, which costs $1.

"But that's a bargain," Abbott says, "because each catalog has a $1 seed coupon in it."

Bring The Birdies Back How To Do It...

St. Richard's Villa News

The feathered friends on your holiday gift list would like nothing more than to find their favorite foods in your backyard this winter. The secret of attracting wild birds to your feeding stations is to provide the foods they like best and to put them in the right places, says Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine.

Just as some birds would rather eat suet than nuts, many birds prefer to eat on the ground rather than from hanging feeders.

The National Wildlife Federation's monthly publication for children offers these guidelines for providing a variety of wintering birds with the right foods in the right places:

- Ground Feeders include blue jays, sparrows, juncos, quail, mourning doves, pheasants, chickadees, and house finches. Their favorite foods are sunflower seeds, cracked corn (inexpensive, but will also attract starlings, grackles, and pigeons), wild bird seed mix, and peanuts. Feeders can be split fireplace logs (flatside up),

- Tabletop or Window Feeders include cardinals, goldfinches, grosbeaks, chickadees, house finches, redpolls, purple finches, mockingbirds, and jays. Their favorite foods are sunflower seeds, shelled peanuts, wild bird seed mix, raisins, and currants.

- Feeder can be trays placed on picnic tables, benches, or stumps, or attached to windowsills.
- Hanging or High Post Feeders include cardinals, chickadees, goldfinches or other finches, pine siskins, redpolls, titmice, and nuthatches. Their favorite foods are niger or thistle seeds, sunflower seeds, wild bird seed mix, and peanut hearts or other nutmeats.

advises Ranger Rick. "Sometimes it takes a while for the birds in your area to discover your feeders. Once they've found them, they'll keep coming back so long as there is food for them."

Feeders should be kept clean and checked every day. Don't put out large amounts of food that could spoil or attract rats or mice. And remember that besides food and water, birds need cover. "Most birds seem to feel more comfortable eating at feeders near trees or bushes where they can perch and hide from hawks or neighborhood cats," says Ranger Rick.

It's always nice to wake up on a frosty winter morning and see a perky chickadee feeding in your backyard. And it's a perfect way to wish wildlife a "Happy Holiday."

Guests at St. Richard's Villa during the recent holidays included Paul Linn of Gainesville, visiting Edgar Linn who is a new resident at the Villa. Also Mr. and Mrs. Woody Bagwell of Sacramento, Calif. who visited Clive Gobble; Mrs. Kathryn Basinger and Martha J. Visit New Grandchild
Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Bindel, Brian Bindel and Tina Koelzer were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Dennis at The Colony. In the afternoon they all went to Plano, to visit the Wilfred Bindel's other daughter and family, Phyllis and Lionel Garcia and two day old infant daughter, Laura Marie who was born at Plano General Hospital on Friday, Jan. 9, 1981. The little girl is also a great-granddaughter for the J.R. Garcias of San Antonio and the Joe J. Neus of Lindsay and is a great-great-granddaughter for Mrs. Elizabeth Neu of Muenster.

Mrs. Henry Koelzer returned home Wednesday from Westgate Hospital where she was a patient since December 30, after transfer from Muenster Memorial Hospital. She will recuperate at home. Attending her bedside in Denton have been her daughter and family the Joe Henry Walterscheids and her sister Sister Ann Theodore of San Antonio, who came to Muenster on a Christmas visit and remained to help care for Mrs. Koelzer.

Mrs. Margaret Fisher accompanied her daughter and son-in-law Ruthie and Max Rumelhart to their home in Buda, Texas recently when they were returning from a skiing vacation in Keystone, Colorado. After the week's visit, her grandson, John Rumelhart brought her to Muenster to spend a week as her guest and to visit uncles, aunts and cousins here.

Visit With Grandmother
Mr. and Mrs. Mike Needham and small son, Tony, returned Saturday for a second visit during the holidays with his grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Needham and remained through Sunday. They were enroute to their home in Lynchburg, Virginia after visiting also in San Antonio with her mother, and with friends in Austin.

Mild and Dry

In spite of the lowest reading to date, the past week has been a continuation of fair and dry weather. Monday morning's reading was 17 but all others were above freezing.

Low and high temperatures were recorded as follows by Steve Moster. Jan. 8, 38 and 56; Jan. 9, 40 and 58; Jan. 10, 37 and 46; Jan. 11, 37 and 52; Jan. 12, 17 and 48; Jan. 13, 34 and 58; Jan. 14, 34 and 56.

The year's moisture measure is still zero following a year of 27.14, almost 9 inches below normal rainfall, and more than a month after the last recorded rain on Dec. 7, 8 and 9.

Cub Scout News

The Cub Scouts of Den 4 are working fast and furious in preparation for the pinewood derby to be held on January 26, and for the annual Blue and Gold Banquet scheduled for February 16.

Each Cub Scout was given a block of pinewood in early December to make into a car for the pinewood derby. It is a father and son event and is scheduled for January 26 at 6:30 p.m. in the VFW Hall.

The boys in Den 4 have completed their Bear Achievement and will receive their Bear Badges at the banquet in February. The Blue and Gold Banquet is the Cubs' birthday party and will start with participation in the 11 a.m. Mass at Sacred Heart Church followed by a banquet at the VFW Hall with decorations made by all the Muenster Cubs.

After receiving the Bear Badge and completing the 4th grade (or age 10), the boys move on to a transitional den called the Webelos. They are still included in the Cub Scout program but require a male leader. Hope is that one of these boys' fathers will step forward to take charge of the boys and guide them through this transitional stage.

Den 4 held their regular meeting Tuesday, January 13 in the home of Den Leader Lupe Evans. Denner for the month of February is Murlin Evans with Joseph Shane Wimmer as assistant denner.

The Cubs in den 4 are Murlin Ray Evans, Joseph Shane Wimmer, Jeff Walterscheid, Don Joe Park and Johnny Herr.

After receiving the results of the recent survey taken at Sacred Heart School and Muenster Public School, at a Cub Scout Rally has been scheduled for February 16 at 7 p.m. in the VFW Hall.

All boys who will be 8 or will complete the 2nd grade this May are eligible to become a Cub Scout. Boys who are 9 or 10 years old may also join, and anyone interested is invited to attend the rally with their parents.

Widows, Widowers
May Be Eligible
For Tax Benefits

A taxpayer who became a widow or widower in 1978 or 1979 may be entitled to a special tax benefit. The benefit allows the taxpayer to use the "Married Filing Jointly" Tax Table or a Tax Rate Schedule in computing the tax liability, a tax rate significantly lower than those in the "Single" category.

To qualify for the benefit, the taxpayer (1) must have been entitled to file a joint return with the deceased spouse for the year of death, even if one was not actually filed; (2) must have a child or stepchild who qualified as a dependent; and (3) must have furnished over half the cost of maintaining a home which was the principal residence for the dependent child or stepchild for the entire year.

Taxpayers who take advantage of this benefit should file Form 1040, check Block 5 under Filing Status, "Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child," and figure the tax using the "Married Filing Jointly" tax table or tax rate schedule.

The IRS adds that the last year a taxpayer may file jointly with, or claim an exemption for, a deceased spouse is the year of death. The special tax rate benefit is available only for the two tax years after the spouse's death.

Compost In The Pits

For any gardening activity, soil improvement is the name of the game and making compost for this improvement is a natural.

Anything that once was alive is fair game for compost. Grass clippings, hay, straw, leaves, twigs, and wood chips (there are plenty of these around from the ice storm) all are prime candidates.

Rather than having these materials hauled to the dump, why not use them for a compost pile? The resulting compost will provide a good source of organic matter for potted plants, for top-dressing the lawn, and for building up the soil in flower beds, shrub borders and vegetable gardens.

A simple method of composting is to alternate four- to six-inch layers of organic matter with two to four inches of good garden soil. If available, add manure to the soil layer. Make the compost pile four to six feet wide and any desired length, depending on material and available space.

Sprinkle a commercial fertilizer on each layer of organic matter to hasten decomposition. Use about one-half pound, or one cupful, of any good commercial fertilizer with a 1-1-1 ratio per 10 square feet. Animal manures and animal byproducts, such as bone meal and blood meal, are also good sources of the nitrogen needed for decomposition.

The top layer of the compost pile should be soil and the surface of the pile should be dish-shaped, forming a basin to hold water. Water each layer of organic matter thoroughly before adding the soil layer. This is especially true when composting leaves as they can be extremely slow to decompose if too dry. Water the pile thoroughly when completed and add additional water as needed to keep the material moist but not soggy.

Turn or mix the compost with a garden fork or shovel every four to six weeks. This aerates the material and speeds up the process. Most compost should be ready to use in three to six months.

If the compost pile is working properly, you should notice an increased temperature of the pile about the fourteenth day after the pile is completed. The heat is due to the decomposing of the organic matter.

Well-prepared compost can be used anywhere peat moss is used and is an excellent way to dispose of garden debris, leaves and other organic material.

Forestburg, Krum Beat MHS Teams

Hard times continue to haunt the basketball teams of Muenster High. Both varsity teams lost to Forestburg and Krum, which are rated as powers of the district, but had the satisfaction of improving and giving a good account of themselves in stout competition.

This applied last Friday at Forestburg where both teams lost by only a point. In the opener the Hornets were in hot pursuit all the way trailing at the quarters by 14-11, 18-17-23-19 and 32-31. It was their best game of the season, according to Sharon Felderhoff. The scorers were Charlotte Fleitman 14, Stephanie Richey 9, Carla Walterscheid 5 and Kyla Hale 3.

The Hornets started with a 10-10 first quarter tie, trailed 24-23 and 39-36 at the second and third and knotted it at 50-50 at the end of regular time. In overtime MHS surged to a 6 point lead but turned cold and blew it as Forestburg won it 57-56. Scorers were Ricky Winn 17, Larry Fleitman 13, Tim Schneider 12, Steve Luke 8, Kevin Felderhoff 5, Glen Fisher 1.

Playing Krum here Tuesday night, the Muenster gals were wiped out in four decisive periods eventually ending at 74-28. Their scorers were Charlotte Fleitman 12, Stephanie Richey 7, Kyla Hale 5, Carla Walterscheid 2, Sheri Hess 2.

Krum boys, rated No. 3 in Class A of the state and normally a high scoring team were held to a 64-31 win by the Hornets. The MHS defense was improved in allowing Krum a shooting average of 50%. However the visitors had no problem in gaining every period by counts of 12-4, 25-12, 43-18 and 64-31. MHS point

Junior Hi Splits With Valley View

Junior High kids of Muenster broke even Monday night in a pair of games with Valley View. The Little Monsters made a good start, leading 9-2 in the first quarter and then sweated out a win with only 4 more points the rest of the way. They led 11-4 at the half, 11-6 at the third quarter and 13-10 at the end. Jay Mollenkopf scored 4 points, David Winn, Kevin Wolf and Ronnie Fisher 3 each.

Muenster girls also started in front but failed to keep makers were Kevin Felderhoff 11, Larry Fleitman 6, Ricky Winn 6, Tim Schneider 2, Steve Luke 2, Wayne Carroll 2, Steve Fisher 2.

In a JV game Krum demolished the young Hornets 48-18. Scorers for Muenster were Jill Wimmer 10, Shellie Zimmerer 4, Paula Russell 4.

Muenster High will host Ponder Friday and Slidell next Tuesday. The Hornets now have a record of 0-5 for the district and 8-11 for the year. Hornets are 1-4 in district, 3-17 in the season.

Forestburg Kids Are No 1 and No 2 In Slidell Tourney

Forestburg girls were champs and boys were runners up in an elementary basketball tournament at Slidell during the past weekend.

The girls defeated Argyle 10-9 in the finals after shutting out Slidell 8-0 in the semifinals. The boys were turned back 19-15 by Argyle in the final after beating Slidell 12-8 in the semifinal.

Standouts of the girls were Krista Shults, Tara Romine, Lisa Hamric and Mickie Moore. Boys leaders were Jimmy Jacobs, Bart Sirman, James Putnam and Dale Rud.

Forestburg Wins 2 from Era Jrs.

Junior High teams of Forestburg took both ends of a pair of games with Era last week. The boys won 33-34, mostly on the markmanship of Kendall Holland, who hit 25 points, his best of the year. Defensive standouts were Brent Shults and Jimmy Smith. The boys are presently leading the district with wins over Krum, Alvord and Valley View.

The girls beat Era 25-14 with Nancy Traylor leading the scoring at 16 and Laticia Bell and Michelle Reed leading the defense. The team is second in the district with a 3-1 record.

Both teams will be in the Montague tournament this weekend, meeting Goldburg in their first games.

SH Divides Two Games With Perrin

Sacred Heart Tigerettes lost by 1 point in the final 4 seconds and the Tigers won easy in a pair of contests here Friday with Perrin High.

SH girls led comfortably 19-10 at the half but lost the range in free throws, hitting only 2 of 14 in the third and fourth. Meanwhile Perrin gained slowly and won with a 25 foot jump shot just before the end.

Tammy Henscheid led the scoring with 12, Susan Walterscheid added 8, Anne Felderhoff 6, Nancy Sicking 4, Carol Walterscheid 4, Virginia Bartush 1.

The Tigers led all the way, 8-6, 18-9, 37-17 and 50-30 as Monte Endres scored 15, and got 15 rebounds, Brian Bednorz hit 12, Kirk Mollenkopf 8, Brian Herr 5, Greg Walterscheid 4, Gene Fuhrman 4, Troy Wolf 2.

A third game on the program was very much Perrin's over the JV boys of SH. Leading 10-5 at the half the visitors hit a hot streak for 22 points in the third and rolled on to a 42-17 win. Tiger scorers were Gene Haverkamp 8, Duane Haverkamp 4, Fred Hoedebeck 2, Sam Hess 2, Alfred Hennigan 10.

In two other junior varsity games, the Tigers won and the Tigerettes lost at Callisburg. With Neil Hesse leading the scoring at 22, the boys rolled on to a 41-31 win. Duane Haverkamp made 8, Curtis Henscheid 4, Alfred Hennigan 2, Sam Hess 2, T.J. Walterscheid 2, Gene Haverkamp 1.

The girls game was similar but favored the other side 26-16, and scorers were Carla Hartman 6, Mary Lin Hartman 6, Jenny Felderhoff 4.

Sacred Heart varsity teams will be in the Panhandle this weekend starting their TCIL district competition. The season will consist of a single round robin schedule of the four teams plus a district tournament.

SH will play Christ the King at Lubbock Friday night and Alamo Catholic at Amarillo Saturday afternoon. They will play Notre Dame here next Friday (Parents night) and will go to Notre Dame Jan. 29-31 for the tournament.

How many do you have?

The price of electricity has gone up in recent years and must continue to go up to enable Texas Power & Light Company to keep pace with the drastically rising costs of producing and supplying electric power.

Even so, take a look at your most recent electric bill. Divide the amount of the bill by the number of days of service it covers. This was your average daily cost.

Now, make a list of the electric appliances and equipment in your home and think of the conveniences, comforts and pleasures they provided.

Isn't electricity still one of the best buys in your family budget?

DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong,
As they sometimes will:
When the road you're on
Seems all up hill;
When the funds are low
And the debts are high,
And you want to smile
But almost cry;
When care is pressing you down a bit
Rest if you must -
But don't you quit.

Coors Co. Sponsors Domestic Tour of Volleyball Team

Adolph Coors Company, the Golden, Colorado based brewer, and the United States Volleyball Association (USVBA) have announced their partnership in presenting the 1981 USVBA National Domestic Tour.

Coors' involvement with the USVBA tour represents the first major corporate sponsorship of a National Amateur Sports Federation event since the boycott of the 1980 Moscow Summer Olympics. The 1981 Coors/USVBA tour will include more than 30 matches across the country and feature America's finest amateur volleyball players. The tour will prepare the U.S. National team for top international competition.

Included in the Coors/USVBA tour will be the National Open Championships in Arlington, Texas May 12-16 and the National Co-ed Championships in Davis, Calif. July 16-19. "By having a major sponsor with the stature of Coors, amateur volleyball in this country will certainly benefit. In fact, through this type of sponsorship, all amateur athletics should benefit," said Al Monaco, executive director of the USVBA. Men and Women will compete against teams from Japan, Peru, Bulgaria, Brazil and other nations. The tour will also include clinics by the players and personal appearances.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our friends for deeds of kindness during the illness and at the passing of our companion and mother. A special expression of thanks is offered to the hospital staff and all who had a part in her kind and tender care, to Dr. Antonetti for his wonderful help and for the kind words he offered to me. Also to all who sent flowers, but most of all we are grateful for the prayers of God's people in our behalf. May the blessings of our Lord and Savior go with you forever.

Who's Who
 Students of Muenster High School voted recently to select their fellow students named to Who's Who. Three people were nominated in each category, with results as follows: Most Witty - Betty Luttmner and Jim Biffle; Chat-a-Lot-Dora Sicking and James Bright; Most Courteous - Elaine Grewing and Marcus Tate; Most Friendly - Lisa Martinez and Vance Wells; Campus Favorites - Stephanie Richey and Monte Wimmer; Most School Spirit - Stephanie Richey and Dale Swirczynski; Best Dressed - Elaine Grewing and Lyle Huchton; Hornet Beauty - Betty Luttmner; Handsome Hornet - Monte Wimmer.

Annual Staff
 Staff positions have been announced for Annual Staff as follows: Mark Grewing, editor; Claudia Flusche, co-editor; Brent McElreath, business manager; JoAnn Gibson, layout; Cindy Fleeman, copy; Betty Luttmner, activities.

Butterfield Stage
 Rene Stelzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Stelzer, and a student at Muenster Public High School, will play the part of Janice Vickery in "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man - In-the-Moon-Marigolds". The play will be presented at the Butterfield Stage Playhouse in Gainesville on March 13, 14, 15 and March 19, 20, and 21. Traci Sawyer also auditioned.

Band Concert
 Band Concerts and the musical play "Christmas on Angel Street" were presented Thursday evening, Dec. 18 in the auditorium by the Muenster Public School Music Department, which includes the high school band, junior high band and music classes of the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grades, under direction of Jon Ward. The Christmas band concert included "Christmas Tidings," "Christmas Chimes," "The Little Drummer Boy" and "Do You Hear What I Hear?"

The High School Band performed "Winter Wonderland," "Merry Christmas, Darling," "An Old English Christmas," "German Christmas Festival," "O Come Emmanuel" and "Handel" for Christmas.

The musical play "Christmas on Angel Street" was a parable of two orphans, Ted a newspaper boy and Cassie, his little sister. The story tells of Ted's determination to get Cassie a special Christmas present, leading to involvement with the evil Colonel, and meeting with Mr. Worthing and his daughter, Katey Jo, who teach Ted a true lesson in the meaning of Christmas.

Cast members were: Jed-Stuart Hess; Cassie-Gail Fisher; Colonel - Damie Hellman; Mr. Worthing - Andy Burnette; Katey Jo Worthing - Kristy Stelzer; the Angel Street Gang - Laura Hess, Pat Hellman, Alan Hudspeth and R. Sena; Policeman - Joe Pagel; Choral Director Melanie Richey. Carolers, Shoppers, Peddlers and Chorus - 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grade music classes.

A New Service to Students Begins

A new service to students of North Central Texas is currently being organized by the Region 11 Educational Service Center, established by the Texas Education Agency.

It's a directory of business firms with personnel who are available to talk to students about their operations or conduct guided tours of students through their plants.

Volunteers are invited for this directory. They can submit names of persons and firms along with related information to Principal Winn at Muenster Public School.

News of the Library

FILMS
 Four children's films are scheduled for showing this month. On Tuesday, Jan. 20, 10 a.m. and Thursday, Jan. 22, 4 p.m. Theme is musical rhymes and stories. Total show time is approximately 45 minutes. "Apt. No. 3" is about two young brothers trying to discover who is playing the harmonica in their apartment building. "Drummer Hoff" is in rhymed verse about the building and firing of a remarkable cannon. The book "Drummer Hoff" was awarded the Caldecott Medal in 1968 and was also an ALA notable children's book of 1967. "The Eric Canal" is a sing-along version of the song, "Low Bridge! Everybody Down." "London Bridge is Falling Down" is the song by a boys' choir along with illustration.

Library hours: Tuesday 8:30 to 5:00, Wednesday 2:30 to 5:30 and Thursday 8:30 to 5:00.

YEARS AGO

IT HAPPENED 40 YEARS AGO

Jan. 10, 1941

Sewer is ready for use; City authorizes connections; is available to 90 per cent of city homes and business houses. Billy Nell Cole, 7, dies after short illness. Andrew Wimmer, 88 dies after long illness. Flu epidemic hits scores of local people. Burglars take cash and gun from Jimmy's Service Station. Virgilla Schilling is first baby born here in 1941. Eleanor Henscheid and Walter Klement marry. No aluminum available for REA lines - airplanes get it. Herman Dangelmayr's left eye is okay after serious injury in which the eyeball was punctured by a fencing staple.

Jan. 11, 1946

Leo Moster, 56, dies at his home here after six-months of illness. Holy Name Society marks feast day with special services. Membership drive for local hospital makes progress. Al Walterscheid sells his machine shop to the Roberg brothers and Jerome Pagel. Paula Rosenberg is Muenster's first 1946 baby. Three-inch rain brings welcome moisture to this area. Marty Klement is back at his old pre-war job at FMA Store. Loretta Rohmer and Joe Spaeth marry here. Lindsay Sodality elects Louise Hermes as president. Marcella Knabe and Paul Hellingner of Lindsay marry here. Mary Fuhrmann and Henry Stoffels Jr. marry at Lindsay. John Klement, formerly with Shamburger Lumber Co., has joined the staff at Waples-Painter Co. Valley View's new Catholic church is dedicated Jan. 3 by Bishop Lynch.

30 YEARS AGO

Jan. 12, 1951

Architect visits here to discuss plans for new parish church. City adds 13 new street lights. The 13 local young men who joined the armed forces last week are sweating out transfers to training stations; the airmen are at the reception center in San Antonio; the soldiers at the reception center at Camp Chaffee, Ark. Pat Hennigan is elected chief of local fire department. Gene Hoedebeck moves here from Denison to join Wilde Garage as mechanic. Ethel Mae Bayer joins the clerking staff at the FMA Store...filling the vacancy created by Mike Luke who joined the Air Force. S. Sgt. and Mrs. John Durbin and three sons, back from Japan, are visiting here with the Frank Yostens.

Topdress wheat now.

Get it off to a fast start this spring.

If you didn't get all your nitrogen down preplant, a topdress application to make up the difference will give your wheat a real boost. Not only will you get increased yield, but your wheat will have a higher protein content... higher quality.

A topdress application of nitrogen is especially important if you have pastured your wheat. The added nitrogen will make it "bounce back" in the spring.

We have the nitrogen you need, so come in today for your supplies. We can also arrange for custom application if you wish.

Careless Boosting Can Blind

Cold weather, that seasonal enemy of car batteries, is upon us, bringing with it, for many, the frustrations of a dead battery. The cure for the problem - usually a jump-start from the battery of a friend's car - however, helpful, is not without hazard, warns the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness.

Done incorrectly, the deceptively simple procedure of jump starting a battery can cause injury, even blindness. Last winter, over 20,000 injuries, 12,000 to the eyes, were caused when battery acid exploded because jumper cables were carelessly or incorrectly connected. To prevent these potentially blinding explosions, the Society has prepared a safety sticker which gives motorists and mechanics easy-to-follow instructions for jump starting a car with a dead battery. On the sticker, the Society recommends these procedures.

BEFORE ATTACHING THE CABLES

*Put out all cigarettes and flames. A spark can ignite hydrogen gas from the battery fluid so don't use matches or lighters to inspect the battery.

*Make sure the cars don't touch each other. Set both cars' parking brakes and automatic shifts to park (manual transmissions should be left in neutral), and turn the ignition off.

*If removable, take off the battery caps and add water if fluid in the dead battery is low. Check for ice in the battery fluid. Never attempt to jump start a frozen battery! Replace the caps and cover with a cloth.

*Do not jump-start unless both batteries are the same voltage. American cars have either 12-volt batteries (Usually with six filler ports) or 6 volt (with three ports). Owners of foreign cars should check their operating manuals for emergency starting directions.

TO ATTACH THE CABLES

*Connect one jumper cable clamp to the positive pole of the booster battery. Avoid touching the clamps to each other because it might create a spark.

*Stay at the booster battery and connect the second cable to the negative pole. Then clamp the other end of that cable to the engine block of the car with the dead battery - as far away from the battery as possible.

*Start the car with the good battery and then the disabled car.

*Remove the cable attached to the engine block and the booster car's negative terminal. Then disconnect the positive cable from both batteries.

The Society has printed its safe procedures on bright yellow 4 by 8 vinyl stickers with adhesive backing so that permits them to be permanently affixed under the hood of the car or on the box containing the jumper cables. They are available for 25 cents each, plus a business sized stamped self-addressed envelope from the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 2020, Houston 77001.

Coastal Sprigging Time Is Here

By Gary Rainwater
District Conservationist

Now is the time to start sprigging coastal bermudagrass. The grass is now dormant and the sprigs will remain in the ground until the temperature and conditions are right for growth to begin.

Coastal bermuda should be sprigged in January or February only on a clean, well prepared seedbed. The ground should have been plowed in the fall and allowed to accumulate moisture and become mellow before the grass is sprigged. When the soil is plowed just prior to sprigging, often it will be rough and cloddy and the sprigs are more likely to dry out.

Adequate fertility is essential in getting a stand of coastal. Adequate fertility must be present when the small plants begin growth to allow them to establish a root system and to overcome any competing vegetation.

Good weed control is another item that helps to assure a stand of grass. Sunlight must get to the coastal in order for it to have the vigor to make a ground cover. If the ground is shaded by weeds or johnsongrass, the young coastal plants will grow upright and not spread over the ground. After coastal has been planted there should be no grazing or cutting of hay on it until the roots have become established. This usually takes one complete growing season.

To assure a good cover of coastal, the landowner must provide proper seedbed preparation, good quality sprigs, planted at the proper time, adequate fertility, and weed control. If these items are provided, failure to get a stand of grass will be rare unless Mother Nature doesn't do her part by providing timely moisture for the young plant.

Adequate Protein for Rumen Bugs Is the Key to Cattle Performance

When feeding cattle, producers need to know that they are actually feeding little "bugs" in the animal's rumen or stomach.

These microscopic organisms turn forage into something cattle can use, says Neil Tibbets, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Rumen bugs need 6 to 7 percent protein to function properly.

So, if hay has this much protein or more, no supplemental feed is necessary for adequate microbial activity and good digestion. However, with low quality hay or forage of 3 or 4 percent crude protein, a protein supplement will increase digestion, total feed intake and daily gain.

Classes of cattle such as growing heifers, fattening cattle or cows nursing calves require protein levels of 10-12 percent for good production--levels above those needed by rumen bugs.

One way to determine if cattle are getting an adequate protein diet is to examine their droppings. If they are dry and tall, it is a good sign of constipation and lack of protein in the diet.

Small amounts of supplemental phosphorus and protein stimulate these bugs and the digestion process so that mature cattle can use low quality forages that are available this time of the year. A pound of 30 to 40 percent protein supplement and a few ounces of a good salt-phosphorus mineral can change poor animal performance into acceptable maintenance performance on low quality forage.

However, young cattle do not have the digestive capacity to use low quality forage effectively. So they need higher levels of protein and energy supplement, higher quality forages or both for acceptable growth rates.

SOLAR FACTS

by Robert E. Lewis

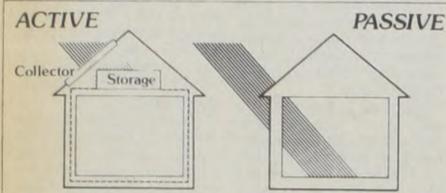

SOLAR ENERGY SYSTEMS: ACTIVE AND PASSIVE

While solar energy is understood by most people as the heat that comes from the sun, few Americans are familiar with the systems that have been developed to harness this heat for use in our homes.

Generally speaking, there are two distinct types of solar energy systems—active and passive. At the risk of oversimplification, active systems can be defined as those which use mechanical equipment to collect and transport the sun's heat. Passive systems, by comparison, collect and transport heat by non-mechanical means. Both systems can be installed in existing buildings as well as new ones.

When most people think of a solar home, they envision a house with large solar collectors mounted on the roof. These roof-mounted flatplate collectors are, in fact, an identifying mark of an active solar energy system.

As the roof collectors accumulate heat, water or air is circulated through them to absorb the heat and carry it to storage units. From the storage units, a system of pumps, valves and fans is used to move the heat out of the storage unit and through the building.

While active solar energy systems may be more discernable to the passer-by, passive systems are rapidly growing in popularity. With passive solar energy systems, the building itself is used to store and transfer heat. In most cases, the system is not distinguishable from the building itself.

Generally speaking, passive heating systems require a large south-facing glass area to gain as much of the sun's heat as possible. Within the building, heat-absorbing materials such as masonry are used for the walls and/or floors. As the sun enters the building through the glass, the walls and floors absorb the heat and distribute it into the room. Heat flow is accomplished through such natural means as radiation, convection and conduction. To avoid heat-loss at night or overheating during the day, movable insulation in the form of shutters or insulated curtains is employed as part of the passive system.

At times, a minimal amount of mechanical equipment may be used to enhance the efficiency of a passive solar energy system. When this is done, the resulting system is termed "hybrid." Because hybrid systems still rely to a great degree on the building itself to collect and distribute heat, they are usually categorized as a type of passive system.

As might be expected, passive and hybrid systems are capturing the attention of consumers because of their simplicity, reliance on common building materials and few, if any, moving parts. In addition, passive systems generally cost less than active ones, and require little in the way of operating and maintenance costs.

Regardless of whether a homeowner is considering installation of an active, passive or hybrid system, all of these solar energy designs offer the opportunity to significantly reduce the consumption of fossil fuels and to pare down conventional heating bills.

For an illustrated booklet describing the basic concepts of active and passive systems, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

Ghost Lights and Bad Dogs

There used to be a certain place, near my grandfather's farm, where strange lights appeared at night. They were, apparently, caused by luminous gasses escaping from the earth, but nobody was inclined to believe that was the case; the consensus was that the lights, which shot up into the air, marked the place where treasure was buried.

With this supposed treasure in mind, three of my uncles set out one night to find the source of the mysterious lights.

They had a bad mastiff dog that had never been known to run from anything, and they took this big dog along in the belief that he would fend off whatever boogers they might encounter. They arrived at the place where the lights seemed to come from without incident. It was a moonlight night, and the big rocks that were scattered around over the ground cast eerie shadows.

Knowing that the dog would sense any presence before they could, my uncles were keeping an eye on his activities. He seemed uneasy. He kept his head up and his ears raised. He seemed to be looking for something that he could already hear or smell, and you can bet that all six human eyes present looked everywhere he looked.

They were about ready to stampede anyway when one of those strange lights suddenly shot up from the ground, and that bad dog lit a shuck for home.

That was all the encouragement my intrepid uncles needed. The dog was hard pressed there for the first quarter-mile or so to keep from getting run over and stomped to death.

They weren't far from a country road, and once they had gained this clear, firm ground, they proceeded to put that part of the country on the Olympic map.

This road soon led across a wooden bridge, without virtue of guard rails, that spanned a deep wash. The uncle in the lead made a sudden stop on this bridge, and whirled around to see if anything was after them. Number two uncle followed suit, and the uncle in the rear, who had a long crowbar over his shoulder, did the same. Only when he whirled to look back, he wiped the other two off the bridge with his crowbar. He was so excited that he failed to realize what had happened; he only knew that there was some kind of scuffle, and when he looked, his brothers had vanished.

His bad scare turned to pure, unadulterated fear, and the running exhibition he then staged was a classic in mammalian locomotion.

He clattered into the house and gasped out a horrible tale of ghost lights and eaten-up brothers.

My grandfather had a rather firm conviction that nothing, physical or spiritual, could stand up to his old double-barrel muzzle loader. He took it and a lantern and set out to find his missing boys.

They, meanwhile, had crawled back up onto the road, considerably the worse for wear.

When my grandfather learned what had happened, he offered the opinion that it would probably be in the best interests of society if he shot all three of his boys.

Supposedly, the mysterious lights and whatever causes them is still there. At least, none of my uncles ever dug it up.

There for about the first quarter mile or so that bad dog was in considerable danger of being run over and stomped to death.
