WORK BEGINS ON NEW GULF GAS STATION

$5,000 Structure Expected to Be Complete in Five Months

After a delay of several months construction work is now under way on the new $5,000 Gulf filling station on the lot directly east of program of community progress. Walterscheid's machine shop. Staking out and digging for the foundation began last Friday morning under the direction of Wright Stevens, Gainesville contractor, who was favored with the job.

Mr. Stevens disclosed that the building is being financed by Frank Treubenbach of Muenster and that agreements have already been made whereby the Gulf Company will lease the building until the full cost has been paid out in rent. At that time Mr. Treubenbach's contract with the Gulf Company expires and he is free to make any new arrangement he

The building will be made of brick and finished with plaster on the inside and white oriental stucco on the outside. It will consist of two divisions, one of which is a 15x26 wash and grease room and the other a space 16x24 which will be used for office, storage room, and toilets. Extending from the building out over the driveway will be a 16x20 canopy. The driveway as far as the property line will be concrete, and the intervening space between the driveway and the road will be graveled. Mr. Stevens estimates the work will be completed in about five

Muenster Men Plan Group Trip To Garland Area

At the regular business meeting of the Farmers Marketing Association directors Tuesday night initial plans were made for a group trip to Garland on Saturday, August 14, Rudy Hellman disclosed Wednesday morning. All seven of the committee members expressed their desire to see the soil conservation work which is now in progress as one of the features of Garland's five-year

Though no definite figure regarding the number of persons who will visit the project is yet available, Mr. Hellman is confident that as many as four or five carloads can be induced to make the trip.

Ever since the visit of Mr. Surratt, secretary of the Kessler Plan Association of Dallas, during which citizens of Muenster adopted a fiveyear plan for city and community development, interest in soil conservation has increased steadily. With members of the Farmers Marketing Association taking a lively interest, it is hoped that a local soil conservation project will receive greater encouragement.

An added attraction for local dairymen is a proposed visit to the Guthrie Dairy Farm for a glimpse of the herd that won first place in a National contest on butter fat production a few years ago.

While at Garland the Muenster farmers expect to become familiar with the many soil conservation features which are now being introduced through the co-operation of Federal CCC workers with a view to planning similar work in the Muenster community and, if possible, extending the project over the entire Lake Dallas watershed.

Takes It on The Tongue

Imagine John Schilling unable

Such was the case Sunday night after a hectic evening robbing his bees at his home here in Muenster.

It all came about when Mr. Schilling was taking the honey from his bees and was just finishing the job when the temptation became too great - he just couldn't resist tasting of the delictous golden liquid. He did, and was very, very sorry afterward, for in this bite there was hidden a bee that resented being disturbed-and took revenge on Mr. Schilling's tongue.

Mr. Schilling paid very little attention to the sting until a while later when it began to swell and pain him. He then began to think of ways and means of easing the sting. His first thoughts were of Dr. T. S. Myrick and he made ready to use the telephone-but imagine his embarrassment when he realized he couldn't talk, his tongue was so large. The only thing left to do was wait for Mrs. Schilling to arrive home from

By midnight the swelling and pain had eased considerably, and by morning his tongue was back to normal, all but the soreness, which was still very much in evidence and he had considerable difficulty in partaking of breakfast. For a man 65 years of age this was a new experience, and Mr. Schilling is convinced now more than ever that a person never gets too old to learn. And the moral to this story is: "Look Before You

Ladies' League Forms Permanent Club Wednesday

With the acceptance of a set of by-laws the Ladies' Civic League of Muenster organized into a permanent club at its second meeting Wednesday afternoon in the school building. Also a part of the organization procedure was the election of Mrs. M. J. Endres as vice-president; the president, secretary, and treasurer had been chosen at the club's first meeting a week before.

As their first activity the ladies decided upon an intensive and systematic campaign to have all citizens get the weeds on their premises under control. To this end it was suggested that arrangements be made with someone to bring a mower to town on specified days in order to suit the convenience of citizens who do not find time to do the work themselves. Frank Schilling has expressed his willingingness to co-operate in this venture and suggested that citizens get in touch with him within the next few days so that as many jobs as possible be handled together.

Replacing Mrs. Tony Gremminger, Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel was appointed to serve as chairman of the sanitation committee.

In the future the league's meetings will be held the second Friday of each month at the school Chairmen of all committees are requested to have a report ready for the next gathering on

Muenster Booth to Feature Newly Adopted Five-Year Program

Muenster and its five-year program of civic and industrial progress are being honored with a place of outstanding importance and soil conservation will be the central theme of the Cooke County Fair, directors and superintendents of the fair announced following their annual pre-fair meeting last Friday night.

J. M. Weinzapfel, chairman of Muenster's five-year program, as principal speaker at the meeting, called attention to Muenster's recent adoption of the five-year program and her co-operation with the Kessler Plan Association of Dallas to the end that citizens of her community might continue in their forward stride rather than desert their community because of retarded progress which is so apparent in other sections of the State. Especially did he seek co-operation in securing an extensive soil conservation project which would affect sections of Cooke, Grayson, Denton, and Montague counties.

In carrying out their central theme of soil conservation, the fair committee will place placards in prominent places to remind visitors of the urgent need of taking steps to stop the alarming loss of productive soil through erosion.

But the pair now working on the doctor's sympathies knew their victim pretty well and, having once brought him to refuse their request, needed only to persevere in order to make him grant it. This brought Carpy back that afternoon to Denison, alone.

"Doctor," said the injured man, "I couldn't be sure this morning when Jane was here whether you were talking to encourage her and me, or whether you really think you can save my sight."

"Bill, I was honest in what I said," returned Carpy. "I believe and hope I can save your eyes. But it's not all in my hands: I told you that, too. If nature's willing, we're going to get through all rightdoes that satisfy you?"

"That's all I can ask. Dod" "Bill," said the doctor suddenly,

"Who was it?" asked Denison vi-

Denison was on fire. "Why don't angrily. "What did they do?"

"First," responded Carpy, determined not to be rushed, "they found that Barney Rebstock had a pocketful of money since the fire. They lured him down to McAlpin's barn. When Sawdy began to question him, he showed fight. The upshot of it was, the two went at it hammer and tongs in a box stall. Barney had a knife-he drove it through Sawdy's leg, and Sawdy was choking him to death when Mc-Alpin and the boys heard the noise and stepped in to save the thief. Then they took him out behind the Carpy paused. He thought the sickening truth must have already begun to penetrate Denison's mind; it had not.

"Who," asked Denison, with an epithet, "paid him to burn me up?" "As Barney tells it," continued

Denison sat down with his hands over his face. It wrung Carpy's heart to see him suffer. "I can't Doc. I can't."

"Yes, you can, damn you, and back where it belongs - and you keep it there. Don't talk about eyesight unless you want it back. Where the hell do I come in? What am I getting out of this?" It was a battle between two strong wills, and it was long in the waging. But when Carpy, wiping the sweat from his forehead and, himself atmost unstrung, left Denison's side his patient had ridden out the storm and had promised quiet till the two could think of what might be done pledging in the interval mutual and absolute secrecy.

Secrecy, however well pledged, grows more difficult to control in proportion to the number of persons pledged.

Carpy swore Sawdy and Lefever to it very easily. McAlpin and Ben leaked out, it might become unpleasyou tell the story?" he demanded one was ever known to worm a secret out of him; Barney, of course, dared not talk.

Yet it will easily be understood that too many people had the story; and only the continual efforts of Dr. Carpy in silencing, through threats or another of the conspirators kept it under cover.

Jane, after the usual storm with her father, who knew what she was doing, rode next morning into town to make her visit to the hospital.

Denison was a poor actor. In his endeavor to make Jane feel there had been nothing to upset him, he was over-solicitous. Carpy did better: but he was compelled to admit that Denison had not been doing quite so well-since Jane could see that for herself

Her father continued taciturn and aloof. Jane knew she was defying him by continuing to visit Denison, yet being of much the same tenacious will as her father himself, she reckoned little of it.

But her visits and ministrations to the injured neighbor of Gunlock Ranch became so frequent, and she herself was so wholly indifferent to comment, that the situation became food for local gossip. Here was Van Tambel, a deadly enemy of Denison's with his daugeter openly showing a very special interest in Denison's condition at the hospital -carrying to him delicacies and spending with him half her time in town.

Things were at this pass when one day Van Tambel told his daughter he must go to Medicine Bend on some bank business. Jane knew that he was not able to make the trip-Carpy had told her more than once that the old man's life hung by a thread. She pleaded with her father, found out what the business was, and offered to go in his stead. She took the morning train for

A SEWER SYSTEM

From the viewpoint of general community health the most important improvement to be made in Muenster is the installation of a modern sewage disposal system. Under existing conditions, with primitive lean-to's scattered all over town flies and other insects are provided with ideal breeding conditions as well as a source of contamination for the spread of disease germs to every family of town.

As we reconsider the plagues of past centuries we cannot but assume that all of them were caused by filthy conditionsmany of them are known to have been caused by such outrages as an open gutter beside the street for disposal of waste. As sanitary conditions improved plagues became less common until they are unheard of at the present time.

There are, however, many cases of sickness nowadays that are caused by filth. Typhoid fever is one of them. Another is the periodic epidemic of indigestion that frequently strikes this community. Medican men can name many more of them.

Every time someone mentions a sewer system for Muenster he brings forth a host of comments to the effect that it would be very nice to have, but usually the interest goes no farther. Too many are prone to overlook the menace of existing conditions.

Considering these conditions in their true light everyone who is serious about the general welfare must be inclined to insist that we must have a sewer system regardless of cost. We cannot measure the value of human lives in terms of dollars and cents.

But, fortunately, the cost of a sewer at Muenster would be much more moderate than the general public's estimate. It could be financed by a bond issue which could be paid out by assessing a very moderate connection fee, possibly as low as $1.00 per month.

This is not a fantastic idea. Anyone who questions the figures is invited to figure them over himself and then decide whether he can conscientiously oppose an improvement that costs him so little and still means so much to his convenience and health.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

Thousands of people were shocked a few weeks ago when newspaper headlines revealed that medical men of Chicago were conducting a citywide survey to determine whether the public is willing to submit to free tests for syphilis. Since that time it has been revealed that 93 per cent of the Chicagoans voted in favor of the tests and also that the American Institute of Public Opinion has been conducting a nationwide poll indicating that 95 per cent of the general public is also in favor of the free tests.

A generation ago such a poll would have been unthinkable Syphilis was an unmentionable word because to most people it suggested moral laxity. Victims of syphilis received no sympathy because the public felt that they were receiving a just punishment for their sins.

But the general viewpoint has changed. While it is generally conceded that the disease takes its origin in sinfulness, it is also 16,000 Bales of known that thousands of the new cases are the result of contagion or heredity even though the scourge originated with someone else.

It is for the benefit of these innocent victims especially that the nation now favors a general treatment. Likewise children who will be born in years to come have a right cast of observers who have made to come into this life free of blindness, de- an investigation of crop conditions. formity, imbecility or the numerous other This figure would be a sharp inmarks of syphilis.

Syphilis is now regarded as Enemy No. 1 to the nation's health. With 800 new cases every year per 100,000 population it has replaced tuberculosis as a national scourge and its prevalance, according to recent estimates, has reached the alarming figure of one out of every ten. In other words we have more than 13,000,000 syphilis victims in America today.

That the disease can be successfully treated, except in extreme cases, has been shown in Norway, Sweden, and Denmark. Public treatment in those nations over a period of years has decreased the number of new cases to seven per 100,000 every year. We in America can also check the spread of this scourge.

AN OPEN LETTER TO A BOOR ON WHEELS

Some day, my ill-mannered friend, you are going to go too far. Some day, when you swerve around a street corner, you are going to clip the buttons off the wrong pedestrian's vest, and he is going to catch up with you, haul you off your comfy upholstery and deal you the smacking-down you deserve. You're a veritable titan of self-assurance, aren't you, when you're behind an eight-cylinder engine? But how do you look on your feet? Are you the same dashing, imposing, self-assertive personage for whom the rest of the world must make room? Would you dare shove another pedestrian aside; would you jostle a six-footer? You would not, for you're just a grubby little inferiority complex who's been sublimated by a shot of gasoline.

And what's the reason for this breakneck rush of yours, anyway? You're in an automobile. You'll arrive at your destination, 10, 15, or 20 times quicker than the pedestrian you're crowding back onto the curb. The best he can do is five or six miles an hour. You are going 25 or 30, perhaps 40 miles an hour. Is your business ten times more urgent than his? My, my, what an important fellow you are! What vast designs, what momentous projects must occupy your waking hours to justify such impatience.

The automobile, it seems, is the devil's gift to the Little Man. Put him in control of a motor car and he's cock o' the crosswalks. But if you suddenly yanked that ton or two of iron and steel out from under him, you'd find him just a measly nonentity with the mental setup of a grammar school bully .- Menard (Texas) News.

men romped around the bases to their hearts' content. Three of them got four-baggers. In their turn Muenster threatened to retaliate by leading off with four hits and getting one man on base through an error, but the rally fell eight runs short of reaching the desired goal when the next three men were retired in order. In the hit and error columns Muenster was far in the lead for dishonors with nine bingles as compared with Hays 16 and 11 bobbles as compared with Hays' six. The score ended, Hays 19. Muenster 12.

Boosters who were disgusted in Muenster's previous appearance were proud of the boys Monday night when they made their best showing of the season to smother Bulcher in a 20 to 2 one-sided match. As a ball game there was little for the spectator to see but as an exhibition of good playing it was a treat. Walter Becker in his first appearance on the mound, turned in a three-hit game and permitted no earned runs. Bulcher's two markers came in the first inning as a result of three errors. After that the team clamped down to give Walter almost perfect support and made only one additional error. In hitting they surpassed all their previous performances by collecting 24 safeties, several of them being home runs and triples.

In the other game Monday night Marysville and Hays had a close contest that ended 13 to 12 in favor of Hays. In this game again the strong arm sluggers of Hays got their war clubs in action to deal a pack of misery to the Marysville club which, for several innings seemed to have the game on ice.

Tuesday night's game between Hood and Leo left the champions with a perfect record. By winning 13 to 7 they stretched their list of consecutive victories to 11.

Myra's game with Era brought their percentage up a few points even though it did not elevate their position in the league standing.

THE CROWD cheered last Thurs day night at the Texaco stag picnic when Joe Wilde drank a bottle of beer out in the deep water. For a one-armed man that is quite an achievement according to the group of fellows who enjoyed the act. A lot of two-armed fellows wouldn't have been able to do as

And while we mention beer it might not be amiss to offer our sympathy to the fellows who were caught in a recent raid. Every one of those affairs stirs up the same old indignation on the part of regular citizens as well as beer vendors. In Muenster there is one predominant viewpoint - that 95 per cent of her citizens want an occasional stein and never lose control of themselves; and it isn't fair to penalize that number of sensible people just because a few cannot be gentlemen. They also feel-that the rowdies can be made to behave if beer comes out into the open and the beer parlors can call on the law for co-operation, instead of dodging the law as is necessary now. Not long ago Muenster voters submitted a petition for a local option election in this precinct. Recent developments serve as an excellent inducement to get behind that petition and push it to a successful conclusion.

Oh! whatta licking our Muenster boys took Friday night. Even though some of our alibi hunters are inclined to call attention to Hays' hitting spree, it seems only fair to admit that the big reason for the loss was plain lousy playing. Had there been less booting and less fumbling about a dozen unearned runs could have been prevented. The one time contenders for league leadership got a severe jolt in that

Mack Cole of Hays has the distinction of being the only man to achieve what dozens of players have wanted to do. With a couple of men on base he hit the open door of the little building just south of the Myra school. In spite of the dark Albert Hoehn retrieved the ball in a hurry, but he was a "fur piece" down the line and Mack came "loping" in for a home run.

> A new idea in this community is Tom Hickman's subpoena to all officers of Cooke County to appear at his home Tuesday, August 10, to "partake of a barbecued '629' calf, also to mix and mingle with all other pistol packers of this county." A novel invitation, we'd say.

How many of you old timers recall the little incident of a rock crashing through the roof of Meur-blasted to get a solid foundation for Charlie Stelzer's windmill? That was back in 1914 and the story came to light when the windmill, behind the Haverkamp Hotel, was taken down Monday.

Just before the game Monday night a fan was heard to remark that Muenster is the only club in the league that has used only one pitcher. Up to that game the remark was true, Johnny Fleitman had tossed every time. But Walter Becker came in as a dark horse that made good in his first attempt. Now Muenster has two good hurlers. Johnny is thoroughly seasoned and Walter will be hard to stop after a little practice gives him better control

What with two snakebites in reent weeks and the execution of a home Sunday. huge rattler early this week, it seems that snakes are breaking into prominence. The specimen killed by Al Hoenig is a dandy and Al did an expert job of getting results with the least possible mutilation. As a result the snake makes a good display in a jar of alcohol in F. J. Schenk's show window. All of which reminds us of a recent statement by Sam Tuggle of the Marysville community. In the good old days Sam had lotsa trouble keeping his quart of snake medicine away from the other fellows until he finally hit upon the idea of putting it in a cage with a couple of rattlers. From that time on Sam's jug was all his own. Incidentally, Sam has killed several rattlers on his place this year, the best of the lot having a total of 32 rattles.

We would suggest a hearty kick in the pants for the moron who has so little decency as to spit tobacco juice on merchants' show windows. Whoever he is, that filthy specimen of degenerate manhood would do well to change his ways, because some of the decent people are beginning to
