Attention, Brownwood Readers

During the past few months The Banner has been sending complimentary copies to a large number of residents of the City of Brownwood. We have done this with the belief that, better acquainted with the paper, more Brownwood people will want to become regular subscribers.

The response, in the form of new subscriptions, has been much greater than we had anticipated, and for this we are truly grateful. At present, The Banner has a circulation campaign in progress, in which a number of candidates are cometing for the two automobiles and cash prizes being offered

After this week, complimentary copies will be discontinued Therefore, we urge you to renew your subscription, or if not a subscriber, pay your subscription to one of the candidates this week. You will be helping your favorite win, and at the same time getting a big dollar's worth of newspaper. Thank you.

SUCCESS IS EASY FOR YOU

Success in the Brownwood Banner spare-time opportunity entails but little effort, but little sacrifice of spare moments to win one of the new 1934 model automobiles that is being given away in the "New Deal Everybody Wins" gift distribution. And persons will make these amounts in time that this amount usually calls for months and months of hard work, and some people never realize these comforts in a whole life time!

And the best part of it is that you - yes, YOU - can be one of the persons who will receive one of these automobiles, or these large sums of cash. And remember-"EVERYBODY WINS SOMETHING." It takes no more time or energy to win a big prize than a small one.

Right now all are on even terms. Right now any candidate, or an entirely new candidate, can get in, make a start really carry on and go over the top for a beautiful Dodge Six coach. There are no handicaps. Thus far very few of those nominated have made much effort in the way of securing subscriptions. Just a few of those nominated have turned in a single subscription. You have been thinking about carrying on in this great campaign. Don't let another day slip by without seeing you are an ACTIVE candidate for one of the capital prizes.

The Campaign Department of the Brownwood Banner is open each evening until 9:00 o'clock to answer inquiries and issue supplies, and to receive new candidates. The telephone number is 112. Use it if you gan't come to the Campaign Department.

THIS POSITIVELY ASSURES THE WORKERS

YOU CAN GET AHEAD

The chief trouble with lots of people is that their eye are too close to the grindstone for a mere living to see re opportunities. Or they are unwilling to devote the spare mo ments they have to bettering themselves. They would rathe get by than get ahead." Look around you and you will fi that the men and women who are wide-awake to opportunity to better themselves and their conditions, who are willing to sacrifice some of the little pleasures their evenings might give -- are the ones that achieve success in life.

It is quite puzzling to the management why so few read ers have taken advantage of The Brownwood Banner's Pna Campaign. While this newspaper has been commended of all sides for its generosity, the lack of interest being taken, the few people who have been nominated, is almost unexplaina ble. This is especially puzzling, in view of the number and value of prizes that are to be distributed within the next le weeks, regardless of how few subscriptions there are turned in

More candidates are wanted, and nominations should reach this office at once to be included among the names of candidates that will share in the distribution of really wo derful prizes.

It's time for this community to wake up to the fact that this newspaper is making the largest award of prizes ever heard of. This is not a something-for-nothing proposition but it is a clean-cut business proposition. It costs you not ing to enter an dparticipate in the lavish distribution of return for the placing of their own relatives on the state pay-Relatives roll. In fact, the practice has grown during the past few years to such an extent that the committee described it as one of the most damnable practices in all our state government.

Jobs For

The plan of trading jobs between relatives of heads of departments is not new, and has been generally regarded by the public with a smile. And, as is the rule when the public seems to condone a practice, it has grown to such proportions that some attention to it is demanded by the facts brought out by the committee.

For example, the committee found that 225 wives of state officials or employes are on the state payroll; that 2009 of the 6473, or one out of three of the employes of the state highway department are related to state job holders; and, most startling of all, 26 out of the 31 state senators, or 83.8 per cent, have relatives in state jobs. Sixtyeight per cent of the 150 house members have relatives drawing state pay. The list goes on.

The practice is described as worse than lobbying, which certainly is bad enough. A legislator, the committee states, would "slap in the face" a department head who offered a fine present to him; but offering a job to one of the legislator's relatives is something else again.

The habit would not be such a senous one provided efficient service with no favors asked were the policy. But we have no reason to believe such is the case. A department head would be a bit slow to fire the inefficient son of another state official, if he feared his own wife would lose a nice income as the result. It just doesn't stand to reason that the taxpayer isn't paying the bill.

And another feature is just as bad, or even worse. One doubts if a department gets a fair consideration at the hands of legislators making up the biennial appropriation, if 29 representatives and 13 state senators, to say nothing of 11 department heads and a congressman, have relatives who are depending possibly upon the appropriation for their jobs. Such is the case with one of the major depart-

A general airing of the report would be a good thing. And, if it is in shape that it is accessible to the public, no doubt politicians are pouring over the records even now. It may be that the evil will be corrected at the polls, and lif not, certainly the next legislature should adopt corrective measures without delay.

Telephone installations always have proved a fairly accurate barometer of business conditions, and those of us who haven't any more tangible evidence are glad to observe that installations for Febary installations a year ago. March figures are not yet available. During February of this year, the major telephone company reported that installations were 25,000 above the same month last year.

The first quarter of 1934, according to this company's estimate, is expected to show a gain of approximately 75,-000, as contrasted with a net loss of $40,000 during the first quarter of 1933, or an average monthly loss last year of 114,000 telephones a month.

No longer are telephones considered a luxury, and it can be assumed that the 114,000 people who each month last year ordered their phones discontinued did so with reluctance. That they are ordering them back now is indication that at least these people have more money than they did a veat ago, which is an encouraging sign, indeed. It may be that prosperity actually is returning, and showed up for the regular commission meeting he found he had been displaced as a member and another appointed in his stead.

The new commission, minus Holliday, promptly ousted Adam Johnson as Relief Commissioner. Attorney General Allred went into court to attempt to retain Holliday on the commission, claiming he was illegally ousted.

Meanwhile Coke Stevenson who as speaker of the House of Representatives had appointed Holliday, maintained his right to remove the member "for cause." The cause in this case was a protest from El Paso laber representatives.

And, possibly through no connection with all this, the new work-relief program scheduled to start April 16, was still marking time.

We make no pretense at knowing the merits of the Holliday ouster. But it all appears to be a bit irregular and unnecessary, and certainly relief work has not been benefited by the quarrel among politicians seeking control of the state board.

Prior to the Texas Revolution, of 1835 and '36, Texas and Coahuila constituted a Mexican State.

The consummate wisdom of the campaign in 1836 and the determined valor of the men who fought for Texas are equally fearless of criticism and worthy of praise.

The annexation of Texas brought to an end a dream of a great new government in the Southwest, that might have impeded the western progress of the United States.

A Hero of Fact and Fiction THE Battle of Monmouth was over and Sir Henry Clinton's British army had retreated toward Sandy Hook and crossed over to Staten island. Hanging on their flanks were several detachments of General Daniel Morgan's famous American riflemen. On the New Jersey shore, among the horses and wagons yet to be ferried over, stood a phaeton-perhaps General Clinton's own, surmised the buckskin-clad rifleman, scouting toward them.

He noticed, too, that the phaeton was guarded by two sentinels. but the next moment he was dashing forward shouting for them to "surrender or die." One of them fled immediately, but the rifleman disarmed the other and ordered him to hitch two of the best horses to the phaeton immediately. As the frightened Briton did this, the other sentinel came running back only to receive a bullet from the

The sharp crack of the rifle attracted the attention of British artillerymen across the channel, who immediately opened fire. But the Morgan rifleman rode safely away in his captured phaeton with his prisoner beside him and another daredevil escapade was chalked up by David Ellerson.

Ellerson was a Scotchman, born on the high seas while his family were emigrating to Virginia. He won distinction as a sharpshooter and Indian fighter in Lord Dunmore's war in 1774, and a year later he marched away to Boston as member of one of those rifle companies who bore the legend. "Liberty or Death!" emblazoned across the breasts of their buckskin shirts. He became one of the picked men who made up Morgan's rifle corps, and as the boon companion of Timothy Murphy, he became an almost legendary figure in the an nals of border warfare with the Indians and Tories on the New York frontier. With the redoubtable Tim he strides across many a page in Robert W. Chambers' historical romances-a hero of fiction as well as of fact. Ellerson had many a hairbreadth escapes from death, none perhaps closer than that day in 1779 when he was a member of the scouting party led by Captain Thomas Boyd near Genese during General Sullivan's expedition against the Iroquois. Their rash young captain led his men into a nest of Indians and Tories. "Pull foot, Davy!" shouted Tim Murphy as the rifles of the enemy began to blaze around them and "pull foot" they did to such good purpose that they barely escaped the terrible fate which befell Boyd at the torture

After the Revolution, Ellerson became a farmer in the Schoharie valley of New York. He died in 1831 and is buried in the Flat Creek cemetery in Gilboa, N. Y.
