OH FETTE

With 1982 primary elections just ahead, this is a good oc-casion to remember that voting is not only a privilege and a civic duty but may also be an opportunity to also be an opportunity to make an important historical decision. As all of us have heard a number of elections in this country were won or lost by one vote and the course of history might have gone the other way if someone had not failed to vote.

This week Germanfest will be very much on our minds, along with our usual interest, but we need to remember nevertheless that our choice may be crucial, and if so our vote may have a bearing on the future. History has recorded many cases in which one vote made a difference. Here are a few of them.

In 1645 one vote gave Oliver Cromwell control of

In 1776 one vote gave America the English language instead of German.

In 1839 one vote elected Marcus Morton governor of Massachusetts.

In 1845 one vote brought Texas into the Union.

In 1868 one vote saved President Andrew Johnson from impeachment.

In 1876 one vote gave Rutherford Hayes the presidency of the United States.

In 1876 one vote changed

In 1876 one vote changed France from a monarchy to a republic. In 1923 one vote gave Adolph Hitler leadership of the Nazi Party.

In 1960 one vote per prec-inct elected John Kennedy president of the United States. In 1978 in Fullerton, Calif., a Democratic can-didate for state legislature lost by 10 votes in a primary election where 32000 votes were cast.

election where 32000 votes were cast.

In 1824 the US House elected John Quincy Adams president over Andrew Jackson when a single representative from New York changed his vote.

In 1948 if Thomas Dewey had received just one additional vote per precinct in Ohio and California, his race with Harry Truman would have been thrown into the House of Representatives for a final decision.

And there's a story of a California congressman seeking renomination. When all votes were counted When all votes were counted he and his opponent had exactly 10,429 votes each. In accordance with state constitution the contenders drew lots in the presence of the Secretary of State. The incumbent lost the draw and the right to his party's nomination. He sank into political oblivion all because, as the story ends, his secretary was too busy his secretary was too busy

History has lots more of such stories to tell. Some such stories to tell. Some concern races in which the outcome makes little or no outcome makes little or no difference, but some others favor a person whose later record may become a turning point in the nation's history.

Even now we may be in that kind of situation. Liberals and conservatives are waging political war over economic matters, and are waging pointeal war over economic matters, and thinking in some areas is divided about half and half. It's possible to have one-vote outcomes which later have an important bearing

Muenster ready for Germanfest

Anticipating their biggest and best festival ever, committeemen and concessioners of Germanfest 1982 are in high gear this week with final preparations under direction of Cochairmen Dick Ferber and Alvin Fuhrman.

Meanwhile they are keeping fingers crossed, hoping the good fortune of the past will stay with them and fair weather will prevail through the weekend.

A jam packed schedule is ready and waiting for an expected jam packed crowd which is estimated at some 5,000 more than last year's record attendance of more than 40,000 persons. The encouraging signs are based on increased response to German Fun Run mailing as well as more interest in Germanfest promotion by the Chamber of Commerce.

To accommodate the crowd the festival will have 36 booths, 24 of them located in an enlarged tent, now 60x150 whereas formerly 60x120. However a formerly 60x120. However a formerly 60x120. However a former small tent, has been eliminated. Twelve other booths are located in other convenient areas of the grounds, plus dances in the community center and the VFW hall.

community center and the VFW hall.

The most plentiful items will be foods and drinks. Jaycees, again, have the beer concession, serving a wide variety of draft beers from their custom built van, a portable tavern, with refrigerated kegs inside leading to 32 spigots outside. They will serve again in the popular Germanfest souvenir cups.

Other drinks, including coffee, tea, lemonade, wine and mixed drinks are available in a number of booths.

Food will be equally plentiful, with meals being served in seven booths. Emphasis will be on sausage, which can be a part of one's meal or packaged to take home, besides, there will be barbecue, fried chicken, regular or smoked cheese, cake, pie, cookies, tacos, sweets, strudel and more.

In addition, more than twenty non-food booths will offer an assortment of items

In addition, more than twenty non-food booths will offer an assortment of items such as crafts, art, jewelry, ceramics, games, carnival type attractions, bingo, amusements, etc., etc.

Again this year, Germanfest will have an admission charge of $1 for persons of high school age or older. As pointed out by Chairman Ferber, this revenue enabled the event to keep out of the red last year, when regular expenses along with increased cost of security, maintenance and sanitation exceeded the 10 percent commission from concessions. The top 5 percent of admissions will be used for park improvements.

Among new things is a special identification item. It's an ident tab with service bars for this and previous Germanfests. In addition, uniform jackets worn by key personnel last year will be in use again.

The festival will have a number of repeat attractions headlined by the Seventh Annual German Fun Run, which appears to be shaping up as another record up as another record breaker. It will be held on Sunday, May 2, starting 2 p.m. in 15 and 5 kilometer divisions for men and women.

Another repeat is the motorcycle road-eo, a skill riding event to be held across the creek west of the city park starting at 1 p.m.
Saturday,
In addition several music makers will be back on the job and there will be con-dozen chug-a-lugs, probably more. Many of these hap-penings, including a one-man-band will be at the Coor's stage, which was doubled in size by locating another flat bed truck beside it. New attractions are headed by the first "Germanfest Bike Rally," adding variety to the racing fare. It will be in 100 and 32 km. divisions over paved roads of the area. Registration begins at 8:30 Saturday morning and the ride begins at 11 a.m.

Also new is a fiddlers' contest, Sunday 2 to 4 on the Coor's stage. And a stranger making his debut is a robot, Sheriff Longneck, promoting Budweiser. Also a jazzerize demonstration is booked on combining jazz with exercise.

Meanwhile a motorized hang-glider sponsored by Miller Brewing Company will take to the air whenever the mood strikes the operator, and Mark Hess intends to join the show in his glider.

Judging from the past,

Judging from the past, dancing will be the most popular activity. The pavilion is booked for many hours Friday, Saturday and Sunday with a variety of bands and combos all experied to anyeal, to desperie the control of the same and ted to appeal to dancers. Texas votes Saturday

People of Texas will vote Saturday in the process of selecting their party nominees for the general election in November.

In many cases, however, it is equivalent to the general election, because the can-didate elected in the Democratic primary has no Republican opponent in the general election. This is the case in Cooke County, in which all county offices and a few district offices as well will be decided in the primary.

Muenster will participate in the process with its two customary elections, one to be held in Muenster Public School with Mrs. Leon Klement presiding, and the

The Democratic primary on state and district levels is one of the most active on record. It has contests for 18 out of 24 offices, some keenly contested. On the other hand Cooke County has contests for only 2 of its 8 offices. Two are running hard for county judge, six are in a hot race for justice of the peace, precinct 1, place 2. The race for judge will end Saturday, however the race for JP may need a runoff to determine the winner, but neither office will need the November election. tion

Water rights for lake extended

Muenster's lake project got a new lease on life Monday when President Henry weinzapfel and Ken McDougle of the Muenster Water Board appeared at a hearing with the Texas Water Commission relative to extension of water rights.

Weinzapfel said that the water district's permit, which expired on November 17, 1981, has been extended to November 17, 1984, with a stipulation that construction must be in progress on that date and the project must be finished one year later.

Meanwhile, Weinzapfel

Volunteers strengthen community

Volunteers constitute the undergirding strength of a community. Volunteerism becomes evident in the willingness to generate civic pride and to motivate people to reach goals, singly or in partnership, in order to improve the quality of life in a community or in a state. It takes volunteers, leading the way to inspire others to clean up, paint up, fix up and beautify their property. Inspiration will lead to an awareness of the economic impact of attractive sites. It takes volunteerism and sincere cooperation among organizations, groups and individuals: it takes discussions and planning to make a town more impressive and inviting to visitors and possibly to new business investors.

The motion picture industry has long been a high priority target of the Communists. Films are a powerful propaganda tool and whoever controls the type of movies of millions of people.

At one time, in the forties and early fifties, the industry was heavily infiltrated with Communists, fellow travelers and sympathizers. Robert Bleiberg, editor of Barron's, described Reds as 'a Communist propaganda epic. The World urged all the faithful members of the Communist Party to see the movie, to urge their friends to see it, and to talk it up at their places of work. The party obviously hopes to cash in on this opportunity to convince a lot of people who have negative attitudes toward Communists that they are 'people of the noblest aims.' That naive belief keeps a lot of our intellectuals from treating Communists with the same scorn and contempt that they feel for the Nazis."

The Cardinal Mindszenty Foundation in St. Louis has charged that Reds, "falsely portrays the Communist system as benevolent and falsely portrays the Communist system as benevolent and falsely portrays the Communist state (the Soviet Union) as a workers' paradise."

Saturday's election will present the same old voting problem that we have faced for many years. Many people will not be able to they are limited to voting in only one party primary. This arrangement doesn't fit with one's right to vote in both one's right to vote in both parties in the general elec-

The point is illustrated by the fact that Democrats of Cooke County have a near cinch for local offices. The no opponent in November.

So, to have a part in choosing local officials, one has to vote in the Democratic primary.

However, In doing so one excludes himself from the process of selecting GOP nominees for the state and national offices. It hardly seems fair. This week, for instance, Republicans would like very much to participate in choosing their party's they can't do it if they vote for judge or justice of the the voter is deprived of a

This column would like to suggest an arrangement of it might cause more harm

International Air Travelers Legal Rights In Jeopardy

By Richard F. Gerry President Association of Trial Lawyers of America

With recent airline disasters on the minds of many people who fly when traveling, it is important for consumers to be aware of a proposed change in their legal rights in terms of international air travel.

The airline industry, with support of aircraft manufacturers, is taking steps to amend the 1929 Warsaw Convention Treaty which held the absolutely liable for limited damages for injury or death to international air rank also liable for limited damages for injury or death to passengers if guilty of willful misconduct in international air crash.

The Warsaw Convention Treaty was signed in 1929 when commercial aviation was in its infancy. One of the justifications stated for the creation of the Treaty was the lack of insurance to cover the risks of air travel has proven to be one of the safest modes of travel.

At the present time, insurance carriers actively compete to sell up to $500 million of coverage per accident at a cost of approximately 30 cents per passenger round trip with no limit on the amount of recovery per passenger. Lack of insurance is therefore no longer a justification for the Treaty.

Under the proposed amendment to the Warsaw Convention Treaty, the airlines are attempting to make the limitation on damages absolute by eliminating the willful misconduct and other escape clauses.

Also under the proposed amendment to the Treaty, called the Montreal Protocols, there would be an unbreakable per passenger limit of $117,000 for injury or death; and the airlines' liability would be limited even if the grossest misconduct.

Therefore, this proposed amendment to the Treaty would restrict the financial recovery of passengers, or their heirs, who are injured or killed traveling in international air transportation.

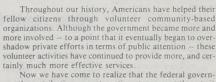

Trial lawyers are opposed to this amendment, since we feel the proper way to assure equitable distribution of damages among all those at fault is to eliminate all artificial barriers to recovery and let the legal system provide justice.

There is no longer any place in the law of the United States for antiquated, imported, inequitable concepts which would withhold full compensation from injured, and orphans of those passengers who are innocent victims of international air crash disasters.

disabled and low-income residents who lack the means to do needed work. Trimble, an independent oil scout, annually takes about four months off from his regular work to coordinate the volunteer drive. The project has no paid employees and an overhead of less than one percent. In 1981, for example, 3,000 Midland volunteers repaired 133 houses on a budget of $40,000.

Also honored by the President was Houston's New Directions — a halfway house for persons newly released from prison. In the 12 years since it was formally chartered, more than 3,700 ex-offender residents have directly benefited from the concept of one ex-offender helping another. Only 7 percent of those who participate in the New Directions program return to prison, in contrast to the Texas average of 28 percent and the national average of 51 percent. New Directions has received support from community service organizations, church groups, charitable foundations and many individuals. Its success illustrates that community resources can be gathered and channeled to meet a local need.

MAKING LOVEY-DOVEY ON THE POTOMAC

Dear Reader

Dear Reader:

If you like the United Nations, you're going to love the proposed United States Academy of Peace, a new goody two-shoes boondoggle that would have you believe a few courses in international hugging and kissing will turn even Yassir Arafat into a gentle little pussycat.

Now that you know where I stand (Let's just say I'm skeptical!), let me fill you in on the details.

Democratic Senators Edward M. BALANCED BUDGET AMMENDMENT MAY FINALLY BECOME REALITY

for the next few years, has raised the decibel level of the demands that the federal government be forced to balance the budget. The huge deficits are translated into high interest budget. The huge deficits are translated into high interest rates and high interest rates are the scourge of small-business owners.

A conversation with a small-business person these days invariably produces the question "I have to balance the books in my business; why isn't the government required to do the same?" My mail these days reflects deep concern about government spending out of control. Small business wants to force the federal government to operate within a balanced budget. Members of the National Federation of Independent Business voted overwhelmingly in favor of a constitutional amendment to limit federal spending to a specified percentage of national income, except in time of national emergencies.

But the Congress has been reluctant to adopt such a law even though it has been proposed in every legislative session in recent memory. The present system does not force the legislators to consider the cost of the programs they enact in the context of the tax revenue allowed Congress to raise taxes without ever voting to do so – no accountability for deficite or tax increases. deficits or tax increases!

Genicis of tax increases?

State legislatures, responding to the grass roots clamor for a balanced budget, are calling for a constitutional convention to adopt the concept. Already 31 of the required 34 states have passed resolutions calling for a convention.

Reacting to that pressure, the Congress may finally send a constitutional amendment to the states for ratification. Senate Joint Resolution 58 (and a companion measure in

How your child gets along with her siblings can make the difference in whether your family life is orderly (relatively speaking), or chaotic. It can also influence whether you are able to enjoy your children, or find them draining.

Your child's sibling relationships are important to her now and in the future. They will set many of her life patterns for how she will deal with others who are close to her. And they will strongly affect her feelings about herself.

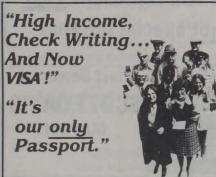

her. And they will strongly affect her feelings about herself.

Her interactions with her brothers and sisters can be stormy or calm, loving or angry, cooperative or competitive—and often all within a brief time period. The following are a gew guidelines from Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, to help you help your growing child to get along as harmoniously as possible—as often as possible—with her siblings.

1) Try not to compare this child with your other children. They are different people. Each has his or her own ways of reacting to the things that happen. Each has special strengths and weaknesses. Each has his own rate of growth and his own pace of doing things, Each child is drawn to different activities, things, and people. It is natural to compare the times at which your first and second children walked, talked, or were toilet trained. It's understandable to wonder why your third child is afraid of the water when your first two learned to swim when they were infants. But it's important to let each child be herself.

unique, and encourage them to develop their own special talents. Accept your children's differences and you will help them to accept themselves and each other.

2) Try to spend time each day alone with each of your children. If you can arrange it, it would be good to set aside at least ten or fifteen minutes a day that each child can look forward to and count on as his or her own special time with you.

For example, you might plan to spend fifteen minutes each afternoon with your preschooler, while her little brother takes his nap. Or you might give your oldest fifteen minutes in the evening after the younger ones are in bed. If you can't do this regularly each day, then try to find a regular schedule you can stick to at least once a week.

This "special time" should be that child's time with you to use as she wishes. You can offer a story, a game, or simply an understanding ear, but let her choose. These special times with you will help you get to know and enjoy each of your children more while you help them each to feel special to you. You may find that this gives you more time for yourself, too, as your children stop competing for your attention at other times.

3) Try to provide your children with opportunities for cooperating with each other in planned activities or daily routines. For example, when you go to the supermarket, you can have the youngster who is sitting in the grocery cart look for one item you need in each aisle, and then have another child get it and hand it to the child in the cart.

Or you can ask your older child to teach your toddler how to use the toilet when he's ready. In addition, be sure to notice and compliment your children any time you see them working and playing together cooperatively: "Tommy, thank you for helping Michelle get dresses. You're really a help to me."

'Angela and Ann, I'm so glad to see you're enjoying playing dress-up together.''

4) Set limits that you think are fair for each of your children. Let your children know what the limits are and what the consequences of breaking them will be. Then try to sitck to these rules as well as you can, changing them (with your children's knowledge) when they no longer seen appropriate.

This kind of "planning ahead" can avoid many fights This "special time" should be that child's time with them (with your children's knowledge) when they no longer seen appropriate.

This kind of "planning ahead" can avoid many fights and jealousies over such things as who goes to bed at what time and who gets to do what. You will probably still get some protests of "It's not fair that I can't stay up as long as she does!" and so on. But it is fair for children of different ages to have different limits, privileges, and responsibilities. When they know what to expect, each child can look forward to growing into new ones.

to expect, earn child can look forward to growing into new ones.

5) Try to plan time for the family to meet together. It might be a good idea for family members to talk together about things that are important to them personally, and as a family. You probably already do this informally, at mealtimes ar at special family times you share on weekends.

Sometimes it's hard to get everyone together at the same time, especially if you work odd hours or if your children are involved in many different activities. It's important to try to have some time together as a family, though—just to enjoy each other's company. Also, each family member has responsibilities to the family, as well as expectations and needs of it. These can be worked out to mutual satisfaction when the family gathers together and tries to support and unerstand each other.

worked out to mutual satisfaction when the family gathers together and tries to support and unerstand each other.

For example, if squabbles occur frequently between siblings over household duties, this might be discussed at a family meeting. Sometimes it helps to make up a chart listing each family member's duties for the week or month. Then household tasks nobody likes can be assigned on a rotating basis.

The attempts and perserverance in trying to resolve matters constructively and supportively in a family provide a good example for yor growing child—a model of what a family can do for one another, and how to foster this mutual understanding.

Allowances for the children is another common topic of discussion for a family meeting. This can sometimes be a source of rivalry between older and younger children. Again, you can help each child to understand why they get the amount they do. At the same time, you can explain a little about what it costs you to run the household, including food, clothes, and other things they need. This might help them understand the family's economic situation and their part in it—a helpful lesson for their future.

In addition to using the family meeting time to work out problems, you can use it to help your children understand and like each other better. Give each child, even the youngest, a time to express himself or herself. Try to pay equal attention to each child, even the youngest, a time to express himself or herself. Try to pay equal attention to each child, even the youngest, a time to express himself or herself. Try to pay equal attention to each child, even the youngest, a time to express himself or herself. Try to pay enough the proportion but firm about giving each person an opportunity. The children will learn from your example (in time, if not right away) to respect each other as you respect each of them.

Duty of County Judge: Presiding Official over Cooke County Commissioners' Court

Mix & Match Shirts

The

Qualifications: The County Government of Cooke County is a Multi-Million dollar corporation and does everything from setting tax rates to grading County roads. Many legal questions are presented at each Commissioners' Court meeting. As County Judge and a licensed attorney, I am in a position to offer legal opinions and advice to the Commissioners' Court before any irrevocable decisions are made which could result in costly lawsuits to the taxpayers. At the present time, there is no need to hire an outside attorney to assist the operation of our county government.

Duty of County Judge: Probate Court Judge

Qualifications: Since the County Judge is the Probate Court Judge for the entire county, I feel that the citizens of Cooke County should have a person well-trained in that specialized field. In addition to taking law courses in the areas of WILLS and TRUSTS, TEXAS PROBATE CODE, DECEDENTS ESTATES, and ADVANCED ESTATE PLANNING, I have also received my license from the SUPREME COURT OF TEXAS to practice law in these fields. My educational background includes a BA DEGREE in Criminal Justice from the University of Texas at Arlington and a Doctor of Law Degree from Texas Tech University School of Law

I sincerely hope that I can EARN your support and vote in the Democratic Primary on May 1st.

Duty of County Judge: Juvenile Court Judge

Qualifications: Texas law requires that if the County Judge is not a duly licensed attorney, then an ALTERNATE JUVENILE COURT must be designated. As a practical necessity, this would force the taxpaying citizens of Cooke County to form and operate a County-Court-at-Law (the judge of which is required by law to be an attorney). An additional Judge, secretary, bailiff, and court reporter would have to be hired at additional expense to the taxpayers. Also, office space, office equipment, supplies, and surplus court dockets would be needed. THESE EXPENDITURES WOULD COST THE TAXPAYERS APPROXIMATELY $50,000.00-$70.000 OFFR YEAR $70,000,00 PER YEAR.

At the present time, I am the Juvenile Court Judge and can continue to operate as such without these needless expenditures of hard-earned taxpayer dollars

Duty of County Judge: Moral, Legal, and Ethical Responsibility of Hard Work.

Qualifications: I have done my very best to serve the citizens of Cooke County as a hard working Full-Time County Judge. My office hours are from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. and so long thereafter until the job is done. Any less effort on my part would be a breach of the taxpayers' trust and a burden on my considered. Best regards,

Drew Springer of Weatherford enters race for legislature

Drew Springer from Weatherford has announced his candidacy for the Texas House of Representatives in District 63. The new district covers Cooke, Parker, and Wise counties. Springer has lived in Weatherford since 1955 and is the owner of 1 Austin Place, office building complex, Drew Springer insurance, and an accounting practice.

Springer is a graduate of Weatherford High School and Weatherford College, and earned a BBA degree in accounting from North accounting from N Texas State University.

His wife, Pat, is the office manager for his businesses. They have two sons, Drew Jr., a freshman in high school, and Mark, 7th grade at Weatherford Middle School. Drew is the son of Laveren Springer, a retired teacher having taught 25 years in Weatherford, and the late Roy Springer, who was manager of Safeway stores in Weatherford for 26 years.

Springer is very active in the local community. He has been president of the Weatherfor Chamber of Commerce, president of the Commerce, president of the Weatherford Noon Lions Club, member of the Weatherford City Council and Weatherford Water and Electric Board, president of Parker County United Way, chairman of the Salvation Army Board, and many other civic activities. The Springers belong to the Grace-First Presbyterian Church where he has served as chairman of the Board of Deacons, treasurer, and other Presbyterian offices. He is presently serving as president of the Weatherford Industrial Plan.

"I am excited about working with the citizens of Cooke, Parker, and Wise counties. In the coming months I will be visiting in all three areas, listening to the voters' concerns and ideas.

"Working with small business owners, farmers, teachers, senior citizens, and other hard working Texans, I have heard many concerns and challenges and am ready to be their voice in state government in Austin.
"With additional money coming into the state from the Federal Government, a strong leaders with economic and business backgrounds are needed to insure proper distribution of funding.
"Now is the time to consider the wonders of the system that allows us to vote and voice our opinions.

"The free enterprise system has helped us to be the best fed, best dressed, and best endowed people in the world. We have built great schools and provided our children with an education that our ancestors were not privileged to have. We have built hospitals and churches to minister to our needs.

"Some may be critical that material wealth would not be a major goal in Texas. But only when a state produces surplus wealth is it possible to develop all the aspects of good life - better education - better health -more leisure - cultural activities - music - art- churches - schools and hospitals. All of the above depend on wealth. The free enterprise system is the best wealth production system the world has ever known.

"Each step in our lives present a new challenge. The challenge in the eighties is to maintain our productive capacity and improve upon that which has given us the ability to achieve greatness. With the resources now available in Texas, we need positive thinking leaders such as myself to build a better tomorrow.

"T'm looking forward to talking with citizens in our district. The time has come for us to be properly represented in Austin. I am most sincere about serving and meeting the needs of this district."

SHS Kindergartens celebrate "Baptism Birthdays"

The Sacred Heart Kindergarten class participated in a special liturgy to celebrate the anniversaries of their Baptisms, on Thursday, April 22, in the Convent Chapel. Sister Cecilia Marie, religion teacher, planned this special Mass with the help of the children's teacher, Mrs. Pauline Stoffels. Each member of the class had a part in the Mass and liturgy. The first Reading was given by Mrs. Stoffels and the Responsorial Psalm was led by Erica Schilling. The children who read petitions were Jeremy Johnston, Jason Hofbauer, Weldon Bayer, Kelly Dangelmayr, Brandi Grewing, and Donnetta Hess.

Offertory gifts were presented by Shane Huchton, Willie Hess, Brad Knabe, Jody Fleitmah, and Michael Gehrig.

DeAnna Hess and Juston Grove offered the sign of peace to those present. Tracey Vogel led the singing of "Good News" and read the Gospel acclamation.

The liturgy was highlighted by the renewal of the children's Baptismal promises. Father Denis Soerries, celebrant, presented a small, crocheted white cross to each child, as a rememberance of special guests of the class included their parents. Mrs. Ruth Felderhoff played the autoharp for the Mass and Interest earnings on public funds in the state of Texas reached a record high as of March 31, 1982, according to State Treasurer Warren G. Harding.

From April 1981 through March 1982, earnings on public money deposited in Texas banks totaled $306,092,907, an increases of $73 million over the amount earned from April 1980 through March 1981.
Harding credits the increases of the increase to his sound money management policies as Treasurer. "At the end of March 1982, 99.3 percent of all public funds had been invested," Harding said. When Harding took office, only 80 percent of the state's money was earning interest. Interest earned during March 1982 alone was $28,453,900. "My office earned well over a million dollars per working day in March," Harding said.
Harding was appointed State Treasurer in 1977 by Governor Dolph Briscoe and was elected to a four-year term by a landslide victory in 1978. He is seeking re-election in the Democratic primary May I.

"We're the only ones left with a full pantry," Black said. "Sure, the embargo was one cause for current low prices since it increased inventories, which has acted to keep farm prices low." he added. "But there was another reason. Last year was a big crop year. There was record production in cotton, corn, wheat, rice and grain sorghum, and near-record production in soybeans."

Black said American farmers must begin to market their products on a collective basis, rather than bargain as individual competitors.

"It cost 52-65 cents to make a pound of dryland cotton last year and 72-85 cents to make a pound of irrigated cotton. But farmers only got 35-40 cents a pound," he said. "That tells the whole story right there. Farmers are on the brink of disaster." Best Values Classified ads are FREE

Postal service gives instructions on special mailing

When you need to send valuables or important papers through the mail, the Postal Service recommends you understand what registered, insured and certified mail can do for you.

By becoming familiar with these service options offered by the Postal Service, your mail will receive the best handling and the most cost-effective delivery. Registered, insured and certified all give you the customized services needed for mailing that special letter or package.

Registered mail is the safest way to send valuables. It offers special handling for your letter or package mailed at the First-Class rates. You receive a receipt when you take the material mailed at the First-Class rates. You receive a receipt when you take the material to the post office. Then, the movement of that piece is monitored from the point of acceptance to delivery. All irreplaceable articles, regardless of value, and all itmes worth more than $400, should be sent by registered mail.

should be sent by registered mail.

Jewelry, stocks and checks or money orders for large amounts are good candidates for registered mail. This type of service provides protection against loss or damage. The full value of the mailing must be declared when mailed for security and insurance purposes. The registration fee includes insurance protection up to $25,000 for domestic mail.

The fees for registered mail depend upon the value of the material being mailed. For instance, if the value of the package is from $101 to $500, the cost is $3.60.

A return receipt costs 60 cents extra, but it will allow the sender to have a written receipt of when and to whom the item was delivered. For a return receipt indicating to whom, the date and the address where the item was delivered, the fee is 70 cents. Restricted delivery service is also available with registered mail. It allows delivery only to the addressee, or to someone who is authorized in writing to receive mail for the addressee.

Insured mail is a good bet if you are sending birthday, wedding or other gifts or fragile items. First-Class Mail, Priority, Third and Fourth-Class mail may be insured. Insurance, available for merchandise only, can be purchased for materials mailed which are valued at less than $400. Insurance rates, like registered mail rates, vary according to the value of the material being sent. If articles are insured for more than $15, a receipt of delivery is signed by the recipient and filed at the delivery post office. The insurance enables you to receive payment for domestic mail that has been lost, rifled or damaged. You may request a return receipt or restricted delivery when sending something insured for more than $15.

Certified mail is your best buy if you are sending important letters, insurance forms, contracts or bids for business contracts mailed at the First-Class rate. At 75 cents plus the charge for

State ag department okays county scales and gas pumps

Cooke County people can count on getting their money's worth in weight through the year if the products are weighed on local scales or gas pumps, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said today.

In the county there are

In the county there are 397 weighing devices of different types, ranging from 258 fuel pumps to 87 supermarket scales.

market scales.
"Our Department regularly checks the commercial scales in the county and has found that they conform to our previous surveys across the state. Of those that were above or below tolerance, not many scales were off by significant amounts. Also, as many were giving the customer too much of the product as were giving too little. Because of frequent checks, scales are not out of calibration very long," Brown said.

"Business owners are glad to see us come in because as often as not, they have been losing money if their scales were not accurate," Brown said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture has inspectors assigned to every county. They are trained to check all different types of scales—from those for medicines in a pharmacy to those for livestock and grain.

The inspectors also spot check packaged goods, such as cereals and crackers, to make certain that the weight stated on the label is accurate. If on the average the weights of the packages are below the amount stated on the label, the shipment is put on a Stop-Sale order. The store owner then either returns the items to the processor or as is the case very often, gives them to charitable organizations. Meat packaged in the supermarket as well as processor packs are also checked by Department inspectors.

ATTENTION

TO THE VOTERS OF DISTRICT 63:

Normally I do not respond to mudslinging in a campaign. However, my liberal opponent has seen fit to publish a list of 10 votes I missed. I feel compelled to point out to you, the voters, that 6 votes were "Excused - Death in Family" - 3 Recorded Aye votes - 1 Absent. As you can see the majority of my excused absences occurred during the time of the death of my father. During the last year and one-half I lost my father-in-law, my son (in an auto accident) and my father. I am not seeking your sympathy. I want to inform you of what happened, and since I am a family-man I felt an obligation to spend some time with family and friends - something apparently my unmarried opponent cannot accept. The sad part of this is he was aware of my situation. Mr. Davis apologized to me, in private, for an unwarranted verbal attack of this nature at a candidate speaking in Weatherford on April 16, 1982.

It is regrettable that my opponent must stoop to this level of attack in an effort to garner votes. In his ad he states "I will never embarrass you." You may ask Mr. Davis how he was received and the reaction of the people following his attack on me in Weatherford. It was embarrassing!!!

The real issue in this race is that I am a conservative and he is a liberal. Mr. Davis apparently assumes that since he was originally from Cooke County he will get your vote in spite of his liberal thinking. I don't agree with this. The people of Cooke County will vote for a person who best represents their interests.

AN INEXPERIENCED LIBERAL CANNOT EFFECTIVELY REPRESENT THIS DISTRICT IN THE LEGISLATURE. I hope you will support a Conservative who has a record of proven and effective representation. I will appreciate your vote and support in the Democratic Primary May 1.

Sincerely,

Hill Coody

1899 Schützenfest was Muenster's first big party

Muenster's earliest days by the SchützenVerein with the same gusto and bent for hi-jinks - with the same love for same gusto and bent for hijinks - with the same love for military training, marching and discipline that Muenster's first settlers and their forefathers remembered from their native Germany and the old German army under Bismark. It was conducted with a great good humor, but in a somewhat different vein than Mardi Gras or Oktoberfest or Germanfest.

First leaders of the Schützen Verein between the years 1889 and 1899 were Henry Richter, "Herr Oberst" or Commander; Dr. Melcher first Major; Bernard Wiesman Captain; Frank Hess, Sr. first Leutnant; William Wieler second Leutnant; Theodore Wiesman third Leutnant; Baerscheid and Gillie, "Herr Doktors" (honorary). Maifest quickly became Schützenfest, a three day party planned and controlled by members of the SchützenVerein, a social organization of marksmen, and the orass band, but me whole community and surrounding rural areas entered into the spirit of celebration with anticipation, enthusiasm and total committment. It was the main social event of the year.

the main social event of the year.

The first formal celebration of Schützenfest was held in Muenster in May 1899, ten years after Muenster's founding. The three consecutive days of Schützenfest became reunion time, marked by fellowship and comraderie.

For the early settlers in Muenster, life was not easy; economy was tight, work was demanding and conveniences were sparse. Times for leisure were "few and far between." Travel was slow and distances seemed greater than they really were. People came mostly in wagons or on horseback. But come they didfrom all over the county.

The first Schützenfest was celebrated on the first Sunday of May, in 1899, in the Muenster Park. In preparation, many months earlier, Joseph Markowitz, Sr. scouted the woods for a chunk of elm wood, the toughest he could find. From it he carved an eagle. It was an ornate bird having a wing spread of more than three feet; with a crown on its head, a sphere in one claw and a spear in the other claw. A master craftsman, Markowitz had a shop near the present location of Knabe Tire and Radiator. The bird was secured atop a high pole, awaiting the opening of the festival, to become its focal point.

"proud of their image") members of the SchutzenVerein, the marksmen, in military formation, carried the carved eagle. Preceding them were four officers on horseback, in uniforms, with gold braid and shoulder epaulets, sabers at their sides and plumes on their hats. At the park the eagle was mounted on a 60 ft, pole.

On Monday the marksmen returned with their families, all marching ceremoniously to the music of the band. The eagle was their target in a show of marksmanship; the contest was held to name the Schützenkoenig, King of the Schützenfest. The contest was strictly disciplined and conducted according to established rules. Competition was keen, the honor was coveted because there were two prizes; the winner received $25 and named his Schützenfest Queen, who reigned with him for two days.

Marksmen first took aim at the eagle's crown, then at the

at the eagle's crown, then at the wing tips and then progressively chipping away until one of them succeeded in shooting the wooden bird from its perch. The contest usually took most of the day. The winner was carried on the shoulders of his friends, to the bar, where it was his duty to treat everyone, and his privilege to name his Queen. They were the honored ones at the dancing that followed on both days. The Schutzenfest Queen and her two ladies-in-waiting always wore white dresses, with silk red, white and blue banner and sash. The King was expected to wear a black silk top hat and black suit and a similar patriotic silk banner.

Frank Endres was the first Schutzenfest king. Following him were Joseph Noggler, Dr. Melcher, Matt Mueller, Sr., Matt Baerscheid, Franz Hesse, Henry Richter, Franz Hoenig, Joseph Markowitz, Sr., Fred Blum, Frank Hess, Sr., John Wieler, Sr., Bernard Roewe, Charlie Markowitz and Hubert Felderhoff.

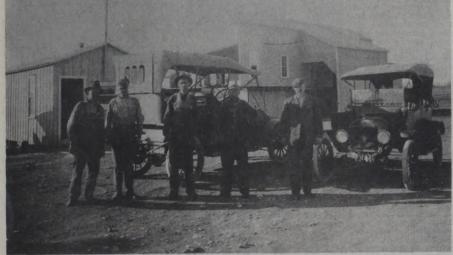

The next day, Tuesday, there was another contest, and the target was a wooden star, measuring 4-6 ft., and mounted on the same 60 ft. pole. The prize was $5.00 and this winner's queen was chosen by chance.

The third day of the festival was clean-up day, this too in true German treadition.

Much of this information was gathered through repeated interviews and conversations with Theo Miller, Joe Hoenig, Mrs.

Dressed for the characters they portrayed in a school play were Louisa Binz at left; John Noggler center; and Angela Hoenig at right. Note the steins and pipes. Miss Binz later became Mrs. Henry Wiesman and Miss Hoenig became Mrs. John Furbach. John Noggler later became the second Schützenfest king, an honor won in a contest of marksmanship. The Muenster Gin was built in 1916 by co-owners, W. Lee Stock who came from Hamlin, Texas and William Walterscheid. It served the needs of cotton growers for about 25 years until cotton was no longer a paying crop. Farmers had turned acreage to grain and pastures for cattle raising. During the 1940's the gin machinery and buildings were sold, dismantled and moved to Era. Shown in front of the newly completed gin and office are I. to r. C.M. (Connie) Walterscheid, Joe Luke, Mr. Stock, Mr. Walterscheid, and John Schilling. Stock's 1909 Buick is at back. Walterscheid's Model T. Ford is at right. Photo furnished by Rosa Driever.

A formal portrait of a brother and sister shows "dress-up" styles of a by-gone era. R.R. Endres and Genevieve "Fafie" Endres were photographed in a studio in Gainesville. She later became Mrs. Walter Pulte. The white dress, long gloves, white stockings, parasol and elegant hat completed her costume. The ornate wicker chair would surely be an antique treasure now. Mrs. Ben Luke loaned this picture to us.

Henry Fette and August Hellman were neighbors and boyhood friends in St. Paul, Iowa before moving to Muenster about 1900. This picture was made in a Gainesville studio. Their parents were Mr. and Mrs. Ed-ward Fette and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hellman. Photo loaned by Mrs. Joe Voth.

Names of the first officers and first Schutzenkoenigs (the King) were obtained from Brother Thomas Moster's "History of Muen-ster," and Fr. Joseph Fuh-mann's "History of Muensster, and Fr. Joseph Funmann's "History of Muenster."

Theo Miller recalled that before the Schützenfest was so named, it was originally called Maifest (May Feast). He described the wooden eagle carved by Joseph Markowitz, father of Charlie Markowitz, Mrs. Luke Temple, Mrs. John Temple and Mary and Anna Markowitz. He said that Theodore Wiesman, father of Mrs. J.J. Haverkamp, Mrs. Al Fleitman and Ted Wiesman, directed the target shooting, calling contestants by name, and announcing their scores.

Target misses were called "Loch Im Natur!" (HOle in Nature) or (a Hit in the Air!), a source of much mirth and good natured ribbing. He said too that his father was the drum major for the German Band, carrying a long pole with a gilded globe on top. His father was also the beer agent, having the kegs shipped in from Dallas on the railroad, in an ice car. The ice was in 300 lb. chunks. His mother was in charge of the old kitchen for the festival with Mrs. Mary Lehnertz mother of Joe Lehnertz and Martha Lehnertz (Mrs. Bert Fisch); and Mrs. Franz Hess Sr. mother of Frank Hess. They and Mrs. Franz Hess Sr. day afternoons after mother of Frank Hess. They Vespers. However, when of course had many helpers in preparing roast beef, sausage, the inevitable sauerkraut and baked foods. There was a tent with tables and chairs for serving and eating. The celebration continued into the night and lanterns and kerosene torches were used for lighting. Theo Miller added that people came in wagons, with loose hay in the bed, some to be used to feed the horses, some to be used for weary children to sleep on as the parents drove home.

Joe Hoenig recalled that as a child he watched the German band parade to the park, and admired their splendid uniforms. He said he remembered seeing the shipment of beer kegs as it arrived at the railroad depot, for Schützenfest and he saw the last shipment of beer kegs, when Prohibition became law, putting an end to the celebration. He enjoyed telling about seeing pink lemonade for the first time at Schutzenfest. His father, Alois Hoenig, was in charge of the lemonade stand, when the red tie he father, Alois Hoenig, was in charge of the lemonade stand, when the red tie he was wearing fell into the lemonade barrel. He told too that the barrel was so deep, it took a baseball bat to stir the lemonade. Joe Hoenig described the open bowling alley in the park, that provided entertainment. Also the platform dance floor that could be picked up for storage after the celebration. Later when the old parish hall was built, the bowling alley was moved indoors and bowling tournaments were held on Sundaments w naments were held on Sun

Prohibition became law, the Kegelbahn (bowling tournament) with a glass of beer, was discontinued.

Mrs. Hubert Felderhoff and Mrs. Ben Luke recall that as teen-agers, they heard stories of Schutzenfest from their parents. heard stories of Schutzenfest from their parents. Just remembering, they said, makes one feel like a celebration; such happy memories are a delight. Each said: "I remember when Papa told me.." it was a fun time, comradery was at its best, everyone was in such a festive mood: it in such a festive mood; it was reunion time, a situation that came about because people did not gather together then as often as they do now - distances were greater and travel was not easy. They too recalled the decorations on the band uniforms, gold tassels and epaulets on their shoulders, sold braid and plumed has

Mrs. Jennie Schilling at age 99, is Muenster's only living former Schutzenfest Queen. She recalls the exciting day she was notified that her fiance, Joseph Noggler was the winner of the Schützenkoenig prize and named her as his Queen. At the time, she was a clerk in a Gainesville Department Store, when told to rush, to catch the 4 p.m.

Don't be misled:

There will be no need to create a County Court at law if a non-attorney is elected County Judge.

We already have a District Court that can be designated as a Juvenile Court.

Please share your old Photos

The Enterprise invites all our readers to share some of their treasured Photos From The Past by allowing us to use them in the paper. We will give all pictures tender, loving care and will return them to the owners.

We have been attempting to find an original picture of the first Men's Choir at Sacred Heart Church. Mrs. Florence Ellsworth of Blackfoot, Idaho sent us a copy, and was able to identify some of the members. Leo Henscheid identified all of them. Now we need the original picture to enable us to reproduce it in the newspaper.

The young man in last week's Photo From the Past was Pete Linn and the picture was made more than 65 years ago. He is now a
