TELEPHONE CO. ANNOUNCES PLANS TO MOVE OFFICES FROM DALLAS TO BROWNWOOD MAY 1

PLANS for moving the general offices of the Southwestern States Telephone Company and its affiliate, the Southwest Telephone Company, from Dallas to Brownwood were announced Thursday by D. T. Strickland, general manager of the company. The move will be made May 1. The companies operate telephone properties in Brownwood, and in four Southwestern states, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas.

The transfer of the company's general office to Brownwood will mean, at this time, an additional annual payroll of approximately $75,000 per year, which is in addition to the present payroll of the local exchange and district office here. The payroll together with other items of expense such as postage, printing and other supplies, will mean a total annual expenditure in the city of Brownwood of approximately $120,000 per year.

In announcing the move of the company's general office from Dallas, Mr. Strickland said that the move has been contemplated for some time. The delay has been due to the company's desire carefully to check its selection of Brownwood as the company's future headquarters for general operations, both with regard to the cost and particularly with regard to the additional amount of time for its supervisory forces to travel between Brownwood and the properties which the company operates in other areas, he said. Brownwood is considered a central location for these operations.

CWA QUOTA FOR THE COUNTY CUT AGAIN

A second cut in the Brown county CWA quota within two weeks was announced this week, bringing the number of workers allowed for this county down to 524. Additional cuts at the rate of 10 per cent per week are anticipated, and the heavy cut this week probably was due to the fact that this county worked its full quota one week longer than most Texas counties.

1000 Contracts To Reduce Cotton In County Complete

Few More Days Needed To Complete Job of Reducing Acreage in 1934 and 1935

Approximately 1,000 cotton reduction contracts will be ready to send to Washington, via Abilene, within the next few days. The contracts call for reduction of the cotton acreage of Brown county farmers in 1934 and 1935.

While the cotton reduction program actually was brought to a close several days ago, a number of contracts had to be returned to the community committees for revision, and all of these have not been returned to the office of the county agent. Until these are returned the contracts will not be forwarded to the district office in Abilene for approval, after which they will be sent to Washington.

The campaign in this county was satisfactory, C. W. Lehmer, county agent, stated, and almost all farmers eligible to sign the contracts have signed up. The reduction in this county should be approximately the 49 per cent set by the government for the coming two years.

CWA PROJECTS FOR COUNTY WILL CARRY ON WITH CUT QUOTA

Provisions for carrying on the more important of the CWA projects in Brownwood and Brown county with the reduced quota were arranged at meetings this week of city and county officials with representatives of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, and local CWA officials.

The quota of CWA workers for this county was reduced last week to 524. This number will be reduced by 10 per cent each week until May 1, at which time all CWA work will be stopped. The new ruling will mean elimination of about 63 workers each week.

PARK WORK GRANTED ADDITIONAL FUNDS AND TIME EXTENDED

An additional appropriation of $26,141 for work at the park at Lake Brownwood, considered the most important CWA project in the county at present, was granted this week, an extension of time for the improvement of the park work until May 1 was granted.

PARK NOT AFFECTED

BROWNWOOD BANNER

The most remarkable record of achievement while operating on an economical basis that it has ever been our pleasure to hear was that reported to the membership of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce last week by Chester Harrison, secretary. That so much could be done on so little is actually hard to believe.

It is comparatively easy to show results when plenty of funds are available, and yet it is doubtful if any twelve-month period of the Brownwood service organization can show so many accomplishments.

Given only some $1700 as operating capital, the directors and the secretary faced at best a difficult year. But far from being discouraged, active work was begun at once, and before the summer was over one of the finest pieces of work of the year—the Trades Day program—was well under way.

Granted that much of the work this year was done in cooperation with governmental agencies—the city, the county, the water board—and that these organizations stood most of the actual expense, it cannot be denied that they profited more through the work of the chamber of commerce than they had anticipated, or than they have in the past, and without the intelligent advice and help of that organization, much of the grants and aid secured would not have been received.

Mr. Harrison with characteristic modesty gave credit for whatever had been accomplished to the directors of his organization and the public officials, but all who have heard or read the unusual report know where credit is due. Without the intelligent leadership of the Secretary, without his uncanny ability to get things done, without his persistence in staying with a proposition until it worked its way through a maze of red tape and official delays to completion, little would have been accomplished.

As Mr. Harrison begins preparations for the new year's work of the organization, it must be with a certain amount of satisfaction that he glances over the record of last year with the knowledge, so eloquently expressed at the annual meeting last week, that it has the approval of everyone who has the interests of Brownwood and Brown county at heart.

During 1933 Texas farmers will have something like 7,000,000 acres of farm land retired from cotton, wheat, and corn production. This figure is interesting when one considers that it represents slightly more than 20 per cent of the total area devoted to crop growing in the state in 1930, according to the government census report.

Use of Retired Acres

What is to be done with all this land? The question is asked by the Extension Service of A. & M. College, and the answer is "Wisely and legitimately used these acres may mean much to the farmers' welfare this year. Indifferently or illegally cropped these fields may bring losses. If handled with an eye to the future it is possible that the re-adjustment farming brought about by the problem of these retired acres may lead to better balanced long-time farm systems."

It is suggested there are perfectly sound and legitimate uses to which the land may be put. Chief of these in the case of cotton and wheat land, but not of corn land, is to use the land for making the home living and feeding the farm work stock. He cannot, however, if already producing enough food and feed, merely shift that production to the retired acreage and use the land thus released for competitive production.

The production of feedstuffs on retired acres is encouraged, provided this feed is not sold, nor used directly or indirectly as the basis of increased livestock production. It is hoped that the reduction programs will not result in surpluses along other lines.

There are many restrictions thrown around the retired acres. Yet it is hoped that the greatest good can be accomplished through their retirement. This is possible only if the farmer uses the acreage to establish living at home firmly on every farm, in which case the foundation of a good permanent Texas farm system will be strengthened greatly.

The possibility of another called session of the legislature before the end of the year is great as the present session comes to a close with little accomplished. A special session can be called easily, members have become accustomed to them, and rather like them. And, as very little ever is accomplished through a special session there is always before us the need for another.

All of which brings out more forcibly the need for reducing the number of members of the legislative organization in Texas. The fact that 30 days goes by without agreement on any important legislation is due largely to the unwieldy number of members of the law-making body. A smaller group could be just as representative of the needs of the various sections of the state, just as interested in the development of Texas as a whole, and certainly could speed action of some sort.

The saving in cost to the taxpayers would be much greater than the reduction in salaries of the eliminated members, for it could not but result in greater efficiency through a more intelligent membership and fewer sessions.

The women of early Texas illustrated the fact that it requires far less strength of character to face invisible danger than to dwell where is known to be near.

"THE BAD MAN FROM BITTER CREEK"

The city of Julesburg, Colo., perpetuates the memory of a Frenchman whose first name is known, but whose last name is a subject for dispute. It doesn't really matter, for he is only incidental to this story of Joseph A. Slade, who himself, variously known as Alf Slade, Bill Slade, "The Little Terror of the Plains," and the first to wear the dime-novelist title of "The Bad Man From Bitter Creek." Slade was a good example of the "good man gone bad." Born in 1828 of respectable parents who gave him a good education and a good start in life in the little town of Carlisle, Ill., Slade at the age of eighteen became involved in a quarrel with an older man which ended in the death of his opponent. To escape punishment he fled across the Mississippi and enlisted in a Missouri regiment marching away to the Mexican war.

But nothing more is known of his history until 1859 when he entered the employ of the Overland Stage company to wipe out the thieves and outlaws who were about to put the stage company out of business.

In accomplishing this he gained a reputation—an undesired one, albeit—for being a killer and a bad man. He also acquired many enemies, among them a certain Jules Reni or Bene, keeper of the station on the Platte river at what is now Julesburg, Colo., who was believed to be in collusion with the outlaws. Slade discharged him and Jules vowed revenge. When the Frenchman's chance came he shot Slade and left him lying with 13 bullets and buckshot in his body.

Then according to the legends, Slade rose to one elbow and gasped, "I'll live to get you yet, Jules, and when I do I'll wear one of your ears on my watchchain." According to the legend-makers Slade made good his threat—later he disarmed his enemy, tied him up to a post in the corral, tortured him for several days before finally killing him and for years afterwards carried his ghastly trophy around in his pocket.

The fact is that Slade did kill Jules after he had been disarmed by other men, but the rest of the yarn is fiction, even though it has become one of the classical yarns of the West. Later Slade was discharged by the stage company, took to drinking and began trying to live up to his reputation as a bad man. He drifted to Montana and continued his career of shooting up saloons and terrorizing peaceful miners until at last the Vigilantes, after warning him repeatedly, put an end to his career. That end was an ignominious one—the "Bad Man From Bitter Creek" dangled from the end of a rope tossed over the beam of a corral gate.

THE BANNER'S SCRAP BOOK

HE SAW WAR

When the World War began great numbers of young men had a sense of adventure—an exultation which was not without spiritual beauty. Millions of them, mostly boys, reared, were uplifted by an emotionalism which was perhaps as high as human nature may attain. They believed they were fighting for ideals above self-interest; they got their ticket for the slaughter-house and marched toward the battlefields gladly, on fire with the passion of patriotism.

These young recruits had imagined a warfare in which courage would count. But this war was not that kind. The human being hardly counted at all when crouched in a trench or herded into a dug-out, because something else, inhuman, was the real enemy. It was not a war between men and men. It was a war between machines and machines, and men were just blood and pulp for that mass production of death.

In modern machine-made war—at least under heavy barrage fire—soldiers are no longer men. They are bundles of quivering nerves under the flail of explosive shells. They can do nothing about it. They cannot even strike a heroic attitude. What course they have at such times is only passive, like that of the martyrs in the torture chamber.

Youth knows that war is dangerous. But youth, yearning for adventure, does not know that war is damned silly; that it is the last resort of the fool and the mob, the great chance for the wooden head under the brass hat; that it is the denial of life's beauty and our best code of decency. The younger minds today must decide for themselves whether they think this kind of war, or any other, is worth while for any purpose whatsoever.—Sir Phillip Gibbs in "The Way of Escape."

ALL REAL and wholesome enjoyments possible to man have been just as possible to him since first he was made of the earth as they are now; and they are possible to him chiefly in peace. To watch the corn grow, and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over plowshare or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy. Now and then a wearied kingly, or a tormented slave, found out where the true kingdoms of the world were, and possessed himself, in a furrow or two of garden ground, of a truly infinite dominion.—John Ruskin.

TEXAS FARM NEWS

COLLEGE STATION—An all-time high record for the number of farms on which terracing was done in one year showed up when the 1933 reports of the Extension Service disclosed that 15,465 individual farms had had some terracing done on them last year in the 173 counties reporting, according to a statement made by M. R. Bentley, Extension Agricultural Engineer, after a study of the annual report figures. County agents actually assisted in terracing more than half of the State's total for the year, 604,386 acres, mostly at the same time training one or more farmers or club boys to use the level, run the lines, and make the terraces themselves, Bentley said. This has been done in spite of the fact that the year has been heavy with emergency agricultural adjustment work.

Texas now has 6,895,528 acres of land protected from erosion by terraces. The valuation placed on terraces made last year is $1,814,582. Estimated values for this type of work were substantiated last year in the cotton plow-up campaign when it was proven again and again that yields on terraced lands were so much higher than those of unterraced fields that the cash difference in the checks received from the government would have gone far to pay the cost of terracing, leaving the soil saving and future profits almost clear again.

The South Plains district led the State with 114,274 acres terraced in 1933. Next came the North-Central Texas blackland district with 99,678 acres. The coast district was third with 84,711; West Texas from Waco to El Paso came in with 81,765; Northeast Texas terraced 77,101 acres; Southeast Texas 43,763; the Panhandle district 33,640; the Hill Country 23,058; and South Texas 21,396 acres.

COLLEGE STATION—Farmers whose five year average cotton acreage exceeded their 1932 and 1933 plantings were permitted to base their rental contract with the government on the five-year average even when it worked out to increase their 1934 average above that planted in 1932, according to a telegram received from Washington, George E. Adams, special agent cotton campaign states. The telegram which follows is signed by E. A. Miller, assistant to the chief of the cotton section of the A. A. A.

"The five year average acreage planted to cotton in the base period constitutes the farm allotment in this case. Section B, paragraph 4 of the contract takes care of this, and makes it possible in such cases to have a larger farm allotment than the number of acres planted to cotton in 1932 or 1933."

Mr. Adams is advising all county agents and review boards of this interpretation of the contract which is particularly applicable to the sections of the State where oil booms temporarily crowded cotton off the map. Mr. Adams is also advising these agencies that the recently issued amendment to Administrative Ruling No. 15 relating to landlord-tenant agreements is interpretative and does not introduce a new element into the situation, but is confirmatory of Mr. Cobb's message dated February 8.

GALVESTON—Every dairy farm in Galveston county shipping milk into Galveston will have either sanitary pit toilet or septic tank when the cooperative program between dairy association, Federal Sanitation Survey workers and Civil Works Administration is completed, according to J. C. Yeary, county agent.

BROWNWOOD—Four hundred eighty-nine cans of sliced and ground turkey and chicken have been prepared for sale by Miss Frances Miller, member of a home demonstration club in Brown county, because the prices offered for her poultry on foot were so low. Miss Miller standardized her canned chicken and turkey in March 1933, according to Extension Service methods. In addition to her own fowls, she bought 12 of her neighbor's turkeys for $19.35. The 12 weighed 212 pounds on foot and from them she canned 192 containers which she sold for $32.33. She has sold to date $59.89 worth of these canned products and still has nearly 200 cans ready for market.

Soup Kitchen Taken Over By Labor Union

The Brown County Unemployed Welfare Association is a thing of the past. It was disbanded this week. The soup kitchen will continue in operation, however, being taken over by the recently organized common labor union, S. W. Manley is in charge.

Relief, Centennial Bills Passed at End Of Special Session

The special session of the Texas Legislature adjourned in the early hours of Wednesday, after passing important relief legislation and creating a Centennial commission to hold a Texas centennial celebration in 1936. Most important of the legislation was the authorization of $5,000,000 worth of new bonds, and the re-issuance of $2,750,000 of relief bonds for which bids had not been received. Interest rates on the new bonds was raised from 4 to 4-1/2 per cent.

Sixty-three toilets have been completed. They meet the health requirements for Grade A dairy farms. The dairy association finances its members for materials and the C. W. A. supplies the labor.

PAMPA—Retired cotton land is going partly to alfalfa in Gray county, the county agent reports. He has arranged for 16 new alfalfa demonstrations. Several years ago, he says, alfalfa was grown along every creek in the south-eastern part of the county but this land was nearly all planted to cotton when that seemed the more profitable crop.

COMANCHE—One acre of 25 pecan trees planted 23 years ago has averaged $113 per acre per year for the last six years on the farm of C. F. Denny in Comanche county. The yield last year was 550 pounds, the lowest in the six years. Mr. Denny keeps a record of a number of individual trees in this acre. A Texas Prolific tree heads the list with production last year of 116 pounds, followed by a Halbert seedling that produced 76 pounds. On 1016 other trees on this 100-acre farm which has more than 90 acres in pecans, the following records were reported by J. A. Barton county agent: an average of 4-1/2 pounds per tree was made on 99 Texas Prolific and 587 Halbert trees, and 330 Burkett trees averaged 5.8 pounds per tree.

McKINNEY—Good care of shrubbery pays, reports Mrs. George Moreland, last year's yard demonstrator of the Altona Home Demonstration Club in Collin county. During the first week in March last year, Miss Helen Dunlap, Collin county home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration of foundation planting across the front of Mrs. Moreland's house. At that time the soil was very wet and there was danger of its packing about the roots and causing them to die. Nevertheless, it was not wise to plant later, since the sap would begin rising in the plants, which often makes transplanting unsuccessful. By packing sand carefully about the roots to exclude all air and then pulling the black soil about the upper root system, the planting was successfully done and not one plant was lost. The total cost was $92. Small plants, about 6 inches in height, of nandina, photinia, abelia and euonymus were used.

Mrs. Moreland has given these plants the best of care and as a result, some of the taller varieties have grown to a height of 18 inches while the lower growing types have spread out generously. Each week last summer, Mrs. Moreland not only worked the soil about these plants, but she watered them as well.

Bishop Hay Will Preach Sunday In Brownwood Churches

Bishop Sam R. Hay of Fort Worth will be in Brownwood Sunday and will preach Sunday morning at 10:50 at Central Methodist church and Sunday night at 7:30 at First church.

For four years Bishop Hay has been in charge of Central Texas, West Texas and New Mexico conferences and will likely be assigned to a new field at the coming General Conference to be held at Jackson, Miss., in May.

Since Bishop Hay ranks as one of the greatest preachers in the Methodist church today, it is expected that his coming to Brownwood will draw unusually large crowds at both churches Sunday.

An invitation is extended by Revs. E. H. Lightfoot and Phil E. Chappell to the smaller churches in and near Brownwood to worship at these services Sunday and Sunday night.

15,000 Miles to Film A Picture!

Fifteen-thousand miles or more to film a motion picture!

That is the record "location trip" established by Universal's expedition into arctic Greenland to film the magnificent drama of the north, "S. O. S. Iceberg" which will show Monday and Tuesday at the Lyric Theatre.

Starting from Hollywood, where Dr. Arnold Fanck, noted outdoor picture producer, and head of the expedition, conferred with Carl Laemmle, the expedition gathered strength in numbers in Berlin and finally sailed from Hamburg aboard the "S. S. Borodino" with 38 members aboard. From Hamburg to Denmark, and then on to the little known icebound continent, the expedition completed its unprecedented lengthy trek to secure the spectacular background for the outdoor drama.

"S. O. S. Iceberg" includes in its thrilling reels many beauties and spectacles of the little known land, which have never been captured by the microphones or the cameras

Arno Italy's Second River

The Arno river, the most important in central Italy next to the Tiber, has its origin in Mount Falterona, where it rises at a height of 4,444 feet above sea level. Its length is 140 miles, the river flowing into the sea eleven miles below Pisa. It reaches its greatest width at Florence, where it is 400 feet across. Principally it is noted for its rapidly developing and destructive floods.

"Dogie" Celebrated in Popular Songs, Is Just Pain in the Neck to Cowboys

FORT WORTH.—Neither the origin of the term "dogie" nor the mental social position of the dogie on a ranch, according to Texas cowboys, justifies the place to which the scrawny, motherless calf has been exalted.

There is nothing romantic about the miserable little creatures, whose chance of living is very small, cowboys say, and which are thorns in the life of every cowboy, despite the lofty plane to which the dogie has been elevated in the recent popularization of old cowboy songs and "Tin Pan Alley" imitations of them.

"It would have been a wonderful thing if the song writers, radio crooners and parographers who have succeeded in bringing about all the furor over the word 'dogie' had taken the time to get the opinion of a few old cowmen in Texas," writes John M. Hendrix, of Sweetwater, Tex., secretary of the Sweetwater board of development. Sweetwater is the heart of the Texas cattle country.

"Worthless Critters" "They are really worthless little critters, traveling in the herd behind the drags, and causing no end of trouble," Hendrix said.

"The old cowman may tell you that you can carry all the motherless calves on the ranch miles and miles in front of your saddle to get them to headquarters and try to raise them on the bottle, but that they will 'dogie' on you in spite of the devil, and you had just as well knock them in the head where you find them."

What is meant by the use of "dogie" as a verb is explained in the traditional origin of the word. Old cowmen of Clay and Montague counties, back in the '80's, explain the origin this way:

A kind-hearted old ranch lady instructed her cowboys to bring in all the motherless calves so she might attempt to raise them by gentle cows or on the bottle.

"It is common knowledge," Hendrix said, "that a stunted animal, when given an unusual amount of food, develops an abnormal paunch, which is sometimes referred to as a 'pot' or 'dough-belly'."

"According to these old-timers the cowboys, none too pleased with the idea of lugging a bawling, squirming calf eight or ten miles in the saddle, began to refer to her collection of orphan calves as 'dough-guts,' which by common usage eventually became 'doozy' or 'dogie'."

vanced age. He was one of the oldest residents of the county and had enjoyed excellent health until a few days prior to his death. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at White & London Funeral Home chapel, with Rev. E. H. Lightfoot, pastor of the Central Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in Greenleaf cemetery. Mr. Dula was the father of W. R. Dula, for many years foreman of The Bulletin's mechanical department, and the grandfather of Frank Dula, present employe of The Bulletin and Ollie and Clarence Dula, employes of The Banner. He was born October 17, 1838, at Lenor, Colwell county, North Carolina. He was married in 1863 to Miss Martha Ann Turnbull, who preceded him in death in 1927. Mr. Dula moved to Texas in 1876. Fifty-six years ago he moved to Brownwood from Belton, where he had resided a short time. When he came here there were only six houses in the county. He worked as a miller for a time and then worked on Cameron farm, now Lucas farm, for about fifteen years. He shunned public life and lived a life devoted to his family and his work. In the past several years he had been in the business section of Brownwood only a few times. Mr. Dula was well known by the pioneers of Brown county, but many of his friends of former years have been dead for a long time. Surviving are three children, Mrs. G. A. Clements, of Brownwood and W. R. M. Estes of Dallas and W. R. Dula; 12 grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren. Four of his children are deceased these being: Mrs. Josie Mathis Sidney Dula, Mrs. Elizabeth Owens and Lactus Dula. Active pall bearers were: James C. Harpham and Charles Harpham and four grandsons of Mr. Dula, Frank Dula, William Dula, Clarence Dula and Ollie Dula.

the half century mark in age and experience, and with the cooperation of the good citizenship of this district, I promise a just, fair and efficient administration of the duties of the District Attorney, which will measure up to the expectations of the law abiding citizens of this district in the event I am elected.

At the present time I am prosecuting attorney for McCulloch County, engaged almost daily in the trial of some criminal law violation, assisting the District Attorney with his many duties in my county, including the trial of all cases in District Court in this county. It has been my good fortune to have tried cases with some of the best legal talent in this district, and I have never had a criminal complaint thrown out of court on account of errors or mistakes on my part during my tenure of office. With the study I have given criminal law in the past ten or twelve years, plus the experience as prosecutor, I feel that I can render a service which the law abiding citizens are justly entitled to from their District Attorney.

I respectfully solicit your vote and influence, and expect to meet personally the voters if it is possible for me to do so during this campaign.

It has long been my ambition to become the district attorney of this district, and I assure the citizenship that I will do my duty without fear or favor. I expect to meet the voters of this district personally, and discuss my candidacy personally, and in the meantime I respectfully ask for your vote and influence.

Respectfully submitted,
J. REAGAN SANDERS.

Sanders Announces For District Attorney

In making my announcement for the office of District Attorney of the 35th Judicial District, composed of Brown, Coleman and McCulloch counties, will state that I am a native of this state, having been born in the town of Coleman 29 years ago. My father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. (Jim) Sanders were among the early settlers in the Burkett community in Coleman county, later moving to the town of Coleman, where my father served the town and county

In several official capacities, including that of sheriff for a number of years.

I have lived in all three counties, married a Brownwood girl, Elsie Lee Sandlin, eldest daughter of J. L. Sandlin, well known to many in Brown county and over this district, being a retired claim adjuster of the Santa Fe Railway and at the present time deputy sheriff under Jack Hallmark of Brown county. We are the happy parents of four children, two boys and two girls. I am a member of several organizations, including the Masonic Lodge, Methodist church and American Legion.

A good many years of my life have been spent attending school, graduating from high school, business school, two years college and law school, and am still learning in the school of depression and hard knocks, and feel like I have acquired a common education, natural ability by inheritance, and a common understanding of my fellow man, and enough common sense to listen to the wise counsel of those folks who have passed
