APPLICATION FOR REA LOAN IS SUBMITTED

Request $300,000 to Build 300 Miles of Line for 932 Consumers

The Rural Electrification Administration of Washington has been requested to appropriate $300,000 for the construction of 300 miles of line in Muenster's Rural Electrification project, J. W. Hess, chairman, advised early this week after receiving a communication from William G. Morrison, Rural Electrification engineer of Waco, who is assisting in the project.

In his letter Mr. Morrison advises that the requested sum is for lines to reach 682 homes shown on survey slips and 250 additional prospects. He also explains that the area around Muenster cannot be surpassed in Texas as a profitable project and that it will compare favorably with any the government has handled thus far.

While 300 miles of wire is more than was considered by the local committee, it is thought that a suf- JOE BEZNER ASKS ficient expanse of new territory can be added to use that mileage and still maintain the desired average of at least three consumers per mile. One proposed addition is that extending into the Calisburg school district, another would reach north and west from Bulcher into the Cap's Corner area. There is also a possibility of developing more thoroughly some of the territory that is already shown on the survey.

When submitting his application to official headquarters Mr. Morrison also wrote W. D. McFarlane, representative of this congressional district, requesting his support and influence in bringing the propect to and early and successful conclusion.

The next appropriation of REA funds by the Federal government is scheduled for July 1. Mr. Morrison and Muenster committeemen are confident that their application, submitted at this early date, will have passed inspection and stand ready for approval shortly after

STATION FOR CREAM AND PRODUCE ADDED

What has been a very inconspicuous warehouse in the past will soon become a receiving station for eggs, cream and poultry, Roy Endres said Tuesday in explaining his expansion program at the Muenster Milling Company. Preparations are now in progress to convert the small building south of the mill into the produce department.

Interior changes in the building include a screened off section at the south side of the front room to serve as a cream station. The north side of this room will be the egg depart-

CRUSH ROCK MAKES LOW COST COURT AT PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

A new low for expense in playground construction was reached at the Parochial school this week when in an automobile accident last sumits crushed rock tennis court was completed for about $3.00.

Rivaling concrete in smoothness and hardness the crushed rock court is said to be as good as a several hundred dollar job unless it should develop that the rock will begin to chip away, in which event an asphalt surface similar to road topping will probably be added.

Rock was secured from the large piles left on Joe Hacker's farm by the R. W. McKinney Co. It was hauled to school by truck and spread over the court by tenth and eleventh grade boys during recess periods. Soaking and rolling produced a smooth hard surface. Lines, made with discolored oil, penetrated deep into the rock and are considered as permanent.

With the court completed Father Francis announces that henceforth it will be used on school days only by pupils of the Parochial school. Others are welcome to the court at other times provided they will observe a regulation made for school children, to play only in tennis

OFFICERS SEEKING PERSONS GUILTY OF LOCAL BURGLARIES

After working since Monday in Gainesville and Cooke County, Constable Frank Hoedebeck stated that no arrests had yet been made in connection with burglaries Saturday night in the homes of F. E. Schmitz, Al Conrad and Tony Gremminger. He added, however, that officers are working on the case every day and hope to uncover some clue that will lead to the arrest of the guilty persons.

It is thought that all three of the houses, which are located side by side on the same lot, were entered past few years. Saturday night while each of the families was out of town, but nothing was missed until Monday noon although each family discovered immediately after returning Sunday night that someone had been in the house. Conrads found their lock broken but did not miss anything in tin Klement, and Giles Lehnertz. others had not locked the houses and seeing their doors open thought their visitors must have been acquaintances. They all became alarmed after Mrs. Schmitz found several items missing.

A search thereafter revealed that several dresser scarfs, doilies, bedspreads and an evening gown with slip to match had been taken from Mrs. Schmitz. Mrs. Conrad's fur coat was taken. The Gremmingers have not missed anything to date.

The thief seemed oddly particular in his, or her, choice. Many items of value were passed over in making a limited selection of ladies apparel and decorative items.

These burglaries are not considered surprising in view of the epidemic of thievery here and at Gainesville during the past few weeks. Some local cases are the theft of 60 or 70 bushels of oats from Hubert Felderhoff on March 15, of 70 chickens from the Hennigan farm on March 16, a set of harness from Carl Herr, frequent gasoline thefts from the R. W. McKinney Company, another gas theft in which Hale Neathery's car was drained, overcoats stolen from Leo Henscheid's and Henry Luke's cars numerous small thefts.

At Gainesville officers say they are swamped with cases of stealing.

and grass retards in certain areas. Under normal conditions topping in Cooke county should be complete at that time, and the Montague road should be ready in less time.

MORE SHELTERBELT TREES TO BE PLANTED IN DUST REGION

WASHINGTON. - Despite criticism in Congress of "this pipe-dream project," the Department of Agriculture announced today that 4,300 miles of shelterbelt trees will be planted this year from the Texas Panhandle to the Dakotas to help Plains farmers control erosion.

The shelterbelt project was started in 1935 after an idea by Rexford G. Tugwell, an early member of President Roosevelt's "Brain Trust." The plan was to plant strips of trees from Texas to the Canadian border which would serve as a windbreak on the Plains, control soil blowing and aid Soil Conservation Service experts in planting vegetative cover on denuded land.

Tree mileage quotas announced Tuesday by the Forest Service are: North Dakota 350 miles, South Dakota 400 miles, Nebraska 900 miles, Kansas 800, Oklahoma 1,050, Texas 800. Prior to 1938, 2,606 miles has been planted. The increase for this year, the Forest Service announced. was in response to demand of farmers who are encouraged over rapid growth of trees under most trying circumstances

High Tree Survival

Average survival for the six States for all plantings to date is 70 per cent of the 44,000,000 trees set out. Many of the trees are twentyfive feet high and have lived despite the 1936 drought, one of the most serious in the history of the Plains. the Forest Service said

NEW YORK .- Note to men who cram their pockets full of stuff and fumble around for more space:

New York's swanky tailors have declared war on you-for your own

Five hundred members of the Customs Cutters' Club agreed today aft er their annual style show that, far from doing anything to help the average man in his pocket plight, the overstuffing problem should be attacked by providing suits with even fewer pockets. That, they figure, will discourage men from even trying to tote around so many old letters, unpaid bills, linoleum samples, seed catalogues, etc.

The man who likes to make a filing cabinet or walking office desk out of his coat is frowned upon by the tailor," said General Committeeman Frank Nagel severely.

"To help men overcome this tendency, we are insisting upon only one inside pocket in coats. In fact, if some of us had our way, there would be no inside pockets at all in well-tailored coats and no hip pock-without a wrinkle or a crease. Now we are concentrating on the idea of how a man should look from a distance, regardless of a few wrinkles here or there."

MAN MAKES HOME IN TOMB EQUIPPED WITH CONVENIENCES

CAIRO, Egypt .- A parlor, bedrooms and bath, with all the modern conveniences, in Cairo's "city of the dead," is Okashi Zakis tomb-and he's living in it.

The 52 year-old merchant built the tomb at a cost of $150,000. It is located in the Mokattum hills, where a large area is devoted to mausoleums.

Zaki has combined all the conveniences of a modern dwelling with plans for a burial according to ancient ideas. In addition to a reception and sleeping rooms, there's a kitchen, running water, electricity a telephone, a radio, and he travels to and from his "cemetery residence" in a modern American car. The crypt, in which his body even tually will be placed, is underground at the foot of a stair that leads down from a courtyard. Okashi Zaki never enters that however. He built the tomb, he says, because "A man should plan his whole life, including preparations for his death."

YOUTH STILL ALIVE BECAUSE INTERNE SLIT HIS THROAT

NEW ORLEANS. - Roy Cooney 17, was resting easily at Charity Hospital here after a dramatic moment yesterday when a physician slit the boy's throat to prevent him from choking to death.

The youth had been suffering from badly diseased tonsils. During a choking spell he seemed on the verge of succumbing and a young interne, without waiting to give an anesthetic cut the youth's throat with a knife and inserted a rubber tube in the opening.

and better cooked meals at less cost with today's gas range

Until you actually use today's gas range you'll never know how easy and sure cooking can be, not to mention the hours one cuts from kitchen time.

There's an automatic temperature control that assures perfect baking and roasting whether you or in the kitchen or out of the house. Tight insulation holds oven heat constant . . . helps the oven to heat faster . . . saves gas . . . and keeps the kitchen cooler. Simmer burners provide a highly flexible heat that can be controlled to the exact temperature required for any boiling or frying job.

Of course, there are many other features to make your kitchen work easier and add hours of new leisure every day. And the best way to know these features is to get a first-hand look at the new ranges. They are as beautiful as they are efficient and are sold on the easiest kind of terms.

ENCOURAGING PROSPECTS

It is with a great deal of satisfaction that we hail the arrival of a more vivid community spirit at Muenster. Little by little we are coming to want more; we are no longer satisfied to merely float along on the tide of general progress but are seeking a motive power to help us reach our destination earlier.

To people of determination visions of future success are all that are needed. Once they have their hearts set on a goal, they are not content until they have reached it. They always find a way.

One encouraging symptom is the cooperative effort through which our rural electrification project was brought to its present status. Most of us are now confident that an official approval is forthcoming. We've carried it as far as Uncle Sam asked us to, and now await his fulfillment of a promise to meet us half way—or should we say more than half way?

Another encouragement is the determination to secure better roads. Our citizens have quit talking about needing them; instead they say "we will have them." They do not intend to let the community down. They will find a way.

And now the gymnasium dream gives promise of becoming a reality. For the first time in the history of this community we have two candidates for school trustee each seeking support on the ground that he has visions of building a gymnasium. A few years ago a gym was considered an unneccessary luxury, now it is coming to be regarded as a vital factor in our educational recreational, and even business welfare. Both candidates, aware that additional taxation would not be approved, insist that Muenster can and will find another way.

We are proud to point to Muenster as the nucleus of a real city, as a thoroughly democratic unit existing for the profit, pleasure and convenience of its surrounding friends. Improvements that are now in sight indicate a city of service, a city existing for the welfare of all by supplying their every need. It will bring social and financial success. It will repay hours, days and months of planning and working with a realization that we have contributed to the welfare of ourselves and others.

LET'S KEEP OUT OF IT

After devoting a few thousand acres of front page space to Hitler's recent grand coup, newspapers are beginning now to find room for other stories. In general this may be regarded as some indication that the storm is over. Or is it only the lull before the greater storm?

The answer to this question now depends entirely upon Hitler. That other nations are now watching Germany with a suspicious eye and stand ready to offer more than verbal protest can be taken for granted. For centuries the statesmen of Europe have connived to maintain a balance of power preventing any one from becoming too dangerous. Germany has about reached its limit. Another annexation would amount practically to a challenge, especially in view of Il Duce's recent warning. He said "OK" when the Nazi flag was raised over Austria, but in the same breath issued a warning against additional annexations.

Knowing Mussolini's bantam like disposition we do not wonder at what will happen if Germany becomes too great a threat. Knowing also that other powers are anxious to see Germany weakened we do not doubt that Italy might have a few allies. France, England and Russia are sufficiently afraid of Germany to join in a war against her.

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that one man holds the fate of Europe in his hand. If he is satisfied now, since he has achieved the twofold purpose of uniting two German nations and of avenging Germany's humiliation at the Versailles treaty, he can carry on a program of glorious German achievement. But if he stretches his hand farther there may be a repetition of the 1914-18 slaughter.

Fortunately most Americans look on calmly while Europeans are sparring. Our public sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of peace. Scars of the previous encounter constantly remind us that Americans, fighting other peoples battles, win nothing and lose much regardless of what side wins the decision.

For us it is much better to prepare against the day when someone attacks this land. Our life, liberty and happiness are here at home, and cannot be threatened in other quarters of the globe. Like our forefathers with Washington, we are willing to guard our inalienable rights with life and limb, but we are not willing to sacrifice our lives for causes not sacred to us.

It has been said that a few propagandists and brass bands can lead men to battle as a ram leads sheep to slaughter. If our nation's leaders wish to do a real service they will throttle the propagandists and give band leaders a different tune when Europeans ask for our help.

As regards the remote danger to us if the wrong power should win, it can be suggested that no bully is likely to spoil for a fight if Uncle Sam keeps in condition.

CORRECT VALUATION

Not so long ago a rich heiress, who has traveled all over the world and attended almost every kind of amusement known, made the pitiful remark that she longs for some kind of real activity that will bring real enjoyment. Her statement is merely another indication that the possession of money does not bring happiness.

Beside this young lady we place for comparison a young fellow who is thrilled with his job and constantly alert to the necessity of making enough money to meet his current expenses. That person finds an adventure in living. Doing constructive work he enjoys knowing that his efforts add their little bit the general welfare and at the same time he has the thrill of defeating handicap and making good in a great game, the struggle for existence.

It is gratifying that a large portion of mankind belongs to this second group. They are the ones whose energy set the wheels of industry in motion, whose ambitions lead to new fields of achievement, whose desires lead to greater comforts and more genuine pleasures. Many, while always seeming to fall short of their goal continue to face life with optimism and a realization of service rendered. A few reach one goal, immediately increase their burdens and set out in pursuit of a new mark.

In our every day life the over-emphasis placed on monetary standards causes many worthy and energetic young men to lose years in a maze of jumbled figures before discovering fundamental values. A boy, for instance, may spend hours of drudgery for a salary that permits a few hours of pleasure, whereas a more suitable job would itself bring greater pleasure besides a feeling of satisfaction for service rendered.

Being born in average families, most of us are blessed with the necessity of doing things for ourselves. We find life more complete because we earn the things we get. We appreciate things more because we must make greater efforts to secure them.

The boy who works his way through school appreciates his education more than the one whose father paid his way. The man who saves money for a year to buy a Ford thinks more of his new car than the man who buys a Packard outright. True values are measured in terms of energy and service, money is only a medium of exchange

What Others Have to Say--

"MINE CAN DO NO WRONG"

Youth has always been a problem. We are sure that as far back as the days of old Tutankamen elders were saying, "I don't know what the younger generation is coming to." The present generation of youngsters may or may not be any worse or any better than the youth of yesterday or the youth of ancient Egypt.

One thing, we feel sure, has contributed to the complicated problem of youth, however, throughout the ages, including the present. That is the perpetual attitude of parents that "Mine can do no wrong."

There seems to be something about parenthood that blinds a father or a mother to the point of eccentricity insofar as the wrongs of his or her children are concerned. A parent can readily see—and is quick to criticize—the actions of the neighbors young folks; but the moment his own youngsters do the same thing he, he quickly sees its justification.

We can easily trace many of our today's problems to that simple factor. A great many of our traffic fatalities involve young people; and in many cases the young people drive recklessly and in disregard for the rights of others, simply because of the attitude of parents that, regardless of the wild and reckless driving of the neighbor's children, theirs observe all laws and the rights of others.

Our penal institutions are jammed with youngsters; and many of them are there because their parents could not see that their children could be wrong, as well as the children of others. By justifying their own offspring in minor infactions of the law and the rights of others they encouraged them to go on into major crime—and to a life of misery for parents and children.

We don't know of any one thing that would rectify the wrongs of America oday more than that simple, homey plan through which parents somehow could lift the veil and see their own children as they see the offspring of others.—The Menard News.

GIRLS ARE CHURLS

We see no reason in the world why anyone should be expected to lift an eyebrow at the results of a recent WPA survey on the relative politeness of boys and girls. The survey, conducted among New York City school children, disclosed that boys are politer than girls.

This is not news to us. Our surprise is occasioned only by the fact that anyone should have thought it necessary to make a survey to prove it. By custom and tradition man has been forced to tip his hat, bow from the waist and kiss the hand. Woman's only concession to the amenities has been to make a curtsey now and then. So far as we know, no Lady Raleigh ever threw down her cloak for a distressed gentleman to tread on. Not yet recorded is the woman who gave up her trolley seat to an aching-footed man.

This is not intended as an argument for a change in social usuage. In general, however, we'd like to cast a vote for giving men an equal break when it comes to a rush for train seats or a question of who should be protected by an umbrella between two persons. At present, the advantages of polite society's edicts are all with woman. Out walking, man takes the outside and receives the splashes from passing autos; indoors, man rises each time a lady enters the room; man holds the womans coat, defers to the woman's desires and—pays the check

Unquestionably man is willing to continue in this fashion, but after he has complied with the letter of every law ever laid down by Mrs. Post, it seems a totally superfulous act of the WPA to make a survey questioning which sex is the more polite.—The Menard

A CHINESE PUZZLE

Nearly every American is familiar with the traditional Chinese puzzle, but we probably rarely realize how puzzled the Chinese themselves must be with certain circumstances and conditions they discover when they visit us. Take, for example, Dr. Wang Yu, who not long ago wrote to the Cleveland Plain Dealer to remark:

In studying your social conditions, I journeyed to Detroit to attend a great mass demonstration of workers and the unemployed. The Honorable Homer Martin, president of United Automobile Workers of America, made a speech. So for as I could judge it was a good speech. But I was acutely conscious that such a speech could have only been made in America.

Mr. Martin declared, amid great cheers: "We say frankly in an organized way—we are not going to starve. We are not going to lose our automobiles, our radios!"

The immediate justaposition of those two sentences was striking and curious to an alien on your shores. Many people in the world are saying, as they must say: "We shall not starve!"

But nowhere in the world are masses of workers and unemployed saying "we are not going to lose our automobiles and our radios." For nowhere else in the world have the masses ever owned radios and automobiles. I find this coupling of starvation with the ownership of such luxurious properties odd and piquant.

For us, of course, Bret Harte labeled the Chinese as peculiar for ways that are dark, not to mention tricks that are vain and it is probably not a bad idea to realize that we strike them very much the same way in certain respects. It is likewise interesting and worth while to have it thus driven home to us that this is the only land in the world where people even think of automobiles, radios and the ideals for which they stand as necessities of life. True enough, we have not reached those ideals completely, but, by comparison, we have made amazing progress toward them. There is an inference that our system may not be so bad after all.—Arkadelphia Siftings Herald.

PLANES NOT SO FAST

Man is pretty smug with his air liners, his air speed and his predictions of stratosphere planes five times as big as any aircraft now in existence. But he really is just a novice and a beginner at this flying business. Nature has him outstripped.

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, director of the American Museum of Natural History, tells of a little insect, the cephenomyia, whose bullet-like speed breaks all known records. The cephenomyia flies 400 yards a second or 818 miles an hour. That is faster than sound travels, almost twice as fast as the fleetest airplane ever built. The cephenomyia, if it had the endurance, could circle the globe between daylight and darkness. The insect travels in high altitudes with dowered air resistance, but there is a fly that resides in the low-land marshes of New Jersey, announces Dr. Andrews, that can take off from a branch so fast it is "utterly impossible" to tell which way he has gone. Dr. Andrews would like to get both that fly and the cepenomyia in a wind tunnel and really time the macurate-

If plane builders get discouraged, however, they can consider man's brief conquest of the air as compared to the insect's. Even birds have only been on the wing for a mere 135 million years, weheras insects have been flying around for several hundred million years.—Texarkana Gazette.

Dinner is in ...

Three P. M. and mother has just placed her dinner in her electric cooker. She has a four-pound roast and three vegetables in the cooker. She started the cooker pre-heating at twenty minutes of three, she will now leave it on high heat twenty minutes longer. There was really little work to getting this meal in the cooker.

Mother is free ..

Mother's sewing club meets at 3:30, so she dresses and prepares to leave the house with a free mind. There is not the slightest danger of fire from the electric cooker. Cut to low heat it will not burn her food, even if she were an hour or so later than her usual dinner hour. And, she knows her meal will be deliciously pleasing to her family. This, she feels, is real freedom from kitchen cares.

Dinner is Ready to Serve..

On St. Patrick's day Ireland Ind. released the story that its town roll contains nary an Irish monicker but every Herman and Frieda of its solid German population was wearing green to honor the memory of John Stewart, the modern St. Patrick who drove the snakes out of their Ireland. In 1816, so the tradition goes, this son of Erin drove out snakes, but they came back when the town's name was changed to American City. People changed the name back to Ireland and no one has complained of snakes since. What's in a name?

How are the chances of starting some kind of unusual festival at Muenster? It is beginning to seem as though the town that breaks into the limelight is almost forced to stage

TWISTER BRINGS DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

Unusual photo of a last week twister as it approached Okawville, Illinois. The funnel-like cloud was less than a fourth-mile away when the picture was taken. It struck in another moment, missing the photographer by several hundred yards and dissolved right before his eyes.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER A TWISTER DISSOLVES

Remains of a 95-year-old Evangelical church at Darmstadt, Illinois where two people were seriously injured last week after a freak twister struck with lightning like swiftness Tremendous damage and loss of life and injuries were caused before the twister dissolved.

some kind of celebration no one else | For 160 years these birds have fola treat that almost compensates for the indignity heaped on them for 364 days. In short order Shamrock way at their rose, bean, grapefruit, tomato and a dozen different kinds of festivals. Won't some one suggest a really good excuse for Muenster to put on one of those big parties? How about a big cheese day? Or a right, it needn't make sense as long as it is a good excuse for a good par- Their regularity is not natural.

To serve a double purpose we might plan a huge flogging festival element that has been burglarizing Again we feel provoked to denounce, worthless dregs of inhuman depravity who stooped to the inexcusable depth of invading the sanctum that had been purchased with the earnings of honest people. Whether flogging the culprits would be effective in checking the epidemic of thievery, we are unable to state, but that a great number are sufficiently indignant now to sanction such an extreme, is beyond doubt. Of course we realize that our anger will calm down shortly, as in the case of the hog theft, and that we would probably favor leniency if the transgressors were caught Our contempt, however, will not diminish. We wonder whether the guilty persons' contempt of themselves will diminish. One thing is certain, thieves pay a tremendous price in self respect for the article they get.

No present day phenomenon is more amazing than the regularity with which swallows return to the missions of San Juan Capistrano in California on each St. Patrick's day.

Besides having vegetables at a very early date he has tomato and pepper plants that are at least three weeks ahead of the season. They are pot plants in tin cans that have been slit down the side. As soon as transplanting is safe the cans will be removed and the plants, dirt and all, set out without disturbing in any way that might retard the growth. Mr. Schenk has a hobby that really pays dividends at meal time.

OIL FIELD ACTIVITY CONTINUES USUAL PACE DURING WEEK

Activity in the Muenster oil field continued at its usual pace during the past week as more wells of average production were completed on Johnson, Winstead and Andress leas-

While Kingery and Frost are making a good start on their Number 7 Johnson, after getting a 280 barrel well on Number 6, Kingery, drilling for Birdwell, is nearing completion on Flusche Number 3.

Pace Petroleum skidded its rotary to Number 8 Winstead early this week and moved a spudder in to finish Number 7. At the same time Mudge Oil Company was drilling its Number 22 Johnson.

YOUNG LADIES AND MEN WILL CONSIDER LOCAL C. Y. O. UNIT

The organization of a local unit of the Catholic Youth Organization will probably take place sometime next week, according to an announcement made by Father Francis Zimmerer at the Holy Name Society meeting Monday night.

Stating that praiseworthy programs are being conducted in the several other CYO units of this diocese, Father Francis said he will call a joint meeting of the young ladies and young men in the parish for the purpose of discussing the proposal and, if it is considered acceptable, of organizing the Muenster group.

The CYO is essentially a social, not a spiritual organization, and exists principally for the purpose of creating closer bonds of friendship between Catholic youth of neighboring parishes. Most of its activities are joint programs including several units of the CYO.

Athletic tournaments, dances, contests and other such programs are named as the CYO field of activity.

Many smaller items were also changed, and a few more still remain to be changed.

KEEP KITES AWAY FROM POWER LINES ASKS ELECTRIC CO.

With spring breezes and sunshiny days at hand, youngsters thoughts are turning to kite flying, and power and light company officials today issued an appeal to parents to warn children regarding precautions which should be taken in the pursuit of this popular pastime. Each year brings many serious accidents be-cause of carelessness in flying kites in the vicinity of electric power

In order to avoid accidents in this community, these five precautions are suggested, which, if observed, wil minimize the hazards of kite fly-

1. Don't fly kites in the vicinity of electric power lines.

2. Don't climb a pole or use a stick in order to dislodge a kite or string entangled in power wires. 3. Don't fly kites with metal

4. Don't fly kites with wet strings. 5. Don't pick up a wire which might have fallen to the ground.

The local power and light company representatives expressed their desire to cooperate to keep down accidents. If kites become entangled in electric power lines, a company employe will be glad to help in retrieving it. But the best rule possible is to not fly kites near power lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Carter and daughter, Peggy, spent the past week end with relatives at Bowie.
