BEHIND THE SCENES
in
AMERICAN BUSINESS

By JOHN CRADDOCK

NEW YORK—BUSINESS—Hopes of a spring rise in business seem to be fading, with unrelieved European tension considered chiefly responsible. On the other hand, there appears no reason for great alarm because industry and trade, by merely holding to present levels from now to July 1, still will be a 30 per cent better than during the second quarter last year. Government spending will not reach a peak for 1939 until mid-summer. This means expanding buying power for millions of consumers in the next three months and could be a powerful recovery influence if the fate of Europe can be settled peaceably soon. Arrival of better weather is expected to stimulate retail auto sales since rain and cold in recent weeks have delayed inquiries of many prospective purchasers. Pre-Easter promotions on the retail front have been reasonably satisfying, with sales of Easter and Spring clothing approximating $500,000,000, a gain of seven per cent over last year.

NO PLUTOCRAT—To show that the average stockholder of American corporations is not a plutocrat, a survey by the Container Corporation covering more than half its 8,000 shareholders concludes that the typical stockholder was graduated from high school but not college, is married and has children, is 48 years old and dependent on a salary, owns an automobile and his own home, and for hobbies prefers gardening and fishing.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR — A new "all-year system" for providing hot water from the same anthracite-burning equipment that heats the home in winter—A golf ball in 480 different color combinations to lessen chances of players getting wrong ball after driving over a hill—An all metal electric fly trap that electrocutes flies and deposits their bodies in a removable tray—Furniture-proof Seal-o-matic inner tubes built by scientists who studied the structure of the human skin and modeled a three-ply tube with plastic inner layers which "grow" over and "heal" cuts, changing dangerous blowouts into safe, slow leaks—Possible appearance of a three-cent airmail lettergram, consisting of one sheet of paper folded up and having a weight limit of half an ounce; it is being considered by the Post Office Department—A new carbonated beverage whose main ingredient is the tropical fruit papaya — A folding camp chair with back that can be raised or lowered to fit the contours of a human being.

LOUIS MAYER HEADS LIST OF AMERICA'S HIGHEST SALARIES

WASHINGTON.—Louis B. Mayer, motion picture executive, was the highest paid American in 1937. He received $1,296,503 — one of the largest individual salaries ever reported.

This was revealed when the House ways and means committee gave the country its annual peek at what the other person makes. The report compiled by the treasury, listed salaries and bonuses over $15,000 paid by U. S. corporations.

Top 10 Salaries
Mayer's compensation topped a list studded with notables of Hollywood and industry. Of the 10 highest salaries, seven were paid in the motion picture and entertainment world. Of the top 20, 15 went to actors, actresses, motion picture and entertainment executives.

The top 10 salaries:
L. B. Mayer, executive Loew's, Inc., and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—$1,296,503.
J. Robert Rubin, executive, Loew's Inc., and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—$754,254.
N. M. Schenck, president, Loew's Inc.—$541,602.

This egg weighs five ounces, long circumference, 8 7/8 inches, short circumference, 7 1/2 inches, height, over 3 inches. It was laid recently by a Barred Rock hen belonging to Mrs. John J. Hamm, 4 miles west of Indianola, Iowa.

owner—$500,000.
Fredric March, actor—$484,687.
Greta Garbo, actress—$472,499.
Maj. Edward Bowes, entertainment executive—$427,817.
Thomas J. Watson, president, International Business Machines Corp.—$419,398.
Eugene G. Grace, president, Bethlehem Steel Corp.—$394,586.
David Bernstein, executive, Loew's, Inc.—$382,816.
Carol Outearns Clark

The second 10 highest salaries were: George W. Hill, president, American Tobacco Co., $380,876; Marlene Dietrich, actress, $370,000; A. M. Loew, executive, Loew's, Inc., $356,074; Claudette Colbert, actress, $355,555; Joan Crawford, actress, $351,538; Spyros F. Skouras, theatre executive, $346,954; F. B. Davis Jr., president, U. S. Rubber Products Inc., $322,999; Carole Lombard, actress, $314,000; William Powell, actor, $289,443; Clark Gable, actor, $289,000.

The 1937 list showed substantial changes in the high-ranking list and revealed that salaries in general increased substantially over 1936.

Mayer's salary was the largest to be disclosed since start of publication of the ways and means committee lists. It compared with top salaries of the 1929 era in which Grace in one year drew salary and bonus of $1,645,753 and Hill drew salaries and commissions substantially in excess of $1,000,000 a year.

Mae West Not Listed
Some who vanished from the top 10 included: Actor Gary Cooper, who dropped to $246,053 from $370,214; Actor Ronald Colman, who dropped to $195,528 from $362,500; Actress Mae West, who drew $323,000 in 1936 and was unlisted the next year; Charles F. Kettering, General Motors vice president, who went down to $155,510 from $304,400, and Rudy Vallee, who did not show on the 1937 list although he drew $238,744 in 1936.

BY PRODUCT OF COAL IS LATEST WEAPON AGAINST PNEUMONIA

PITTSBURGH.—Science's latest weapon in the fight against pneumonia is taken from the depths of the earth. It is a drug called sulfapyridine—a by product of coal once considered almost valueless.

Sulfapyridine has proved effective in the treatment of all types of pneumonia. Of 75 victims of the disease administered the drug in local hospitals, 72 recovered. Of the three who failed to recover, two had been ill six or seven days without treatment.

"Sulfapyridine seems to stop the pneumonia germs from multiplying," hospital officials said. "Then the white corpuscles of the blood move in and destroy the remaining bugs. The patient's temperature drops sharply within 24 hours. Formerly the crisis was not reached for from four to eight days."

For two decades, the only use science could find for sulfapyridine was in denaturing alcohol and in making paint remover. It was only recently that English research experts discovered it could be used successfully in combating one of the oldest afflictions of mankind. Its remarkable success has encouraged some medical men in the belief that the age-old scourge at last has met its match.

This new drug, once considered a waste by-product in the making of coke, is manufactured at the Neville Island plant of the Pittsburgh Coke and Iron Company. It is estimated that 8,000 gallons can be produced here annually.

TALLEST TREE

Some brash fellow put out a newspaper statement claiming that the tallest tree in the world was in Australia. S. B. Show, of the U. S. Forest Service, rushed to the defense of the U. S. A. The tallest tree in Australia, said he, is an eucalyptus in Victoria, New South Wales, and it's only 325 feet tall. In our own West is the Founders' Tree, a giant redwood named in honor of the founders of the Save-the-Redwoods League. It's 364 feet high and the tallest tree known. The Founders' Tree is located in the Humboldt State Redwood Park, near Dyerville, California.

Besides that, there's another redwood on Bull Creek Flat, California, which is 345 feet tall. So the U. S. A. is twice an easy winner.—Sunset Magazine.

SPECIAL SIGN GIVES CRASH LEGEND FOR GARAGE KIBITZERS

To the Herr Motor Company staff in general and to the resourceful genius of Ferd Yosten in particular, goes full credit for a brand new service to garage kibitzers. It is a blackboard to hang over wrecked cars giving as fully as possible the legend of the crash. There can be found the who, what, when, where, why and how pertaining to the accident and possibly a few added notes about injuries, total damage, etc.

The bulletin board is introduced by the garage employes to save wear and tear on their own dispositions. For instance, a wreck job came in Monday and before night, Ferd says, he related the full story about it no less than thirty times. It was getting monotonous but he couldn't be crabby and anyone would know he was a liar if he claimed not to know. Something had to be done. Now he just points to the sign with a triumphant grin and says "Read about it."

Tuesday there were two such signs adorning battered cars. One of them read something like this: "Otho Donnell's (St. Jo) Ford truck, tried to climb a telephone pole at Gainesville while dodging a Jay-walking nigger woman, no bad injuries. Truck in pretty bad shape." It was the motor, frame, front axle, fenders and steering mechanism all needed attention.

Another placard disclosed that "Joe Streng's '36 Ford sedan got too close to the rear of the Milling Company's truck. About 8 p. m. Monday. Nobody hurt." The left front was smashed—fender, wheel, tire, and probably also the axle and steering.

MARRIAGE UNITES FRANK SCHILLING, CAROLINE STRENG

Miss Caroline Streng, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Streng, and Frank Schilling, son of John Schilling, were married Monday morning at 8 o'clock at Sacred Heart Church.

Rev. Frowin Koerdert read the ceremony and officiated at the nuptial high mass. Anthony Luke, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the church choir in the mass, "Missa Tertio." Spring blossoms, greenery and tall tapers decorated the altar before which the vows were recited.

The bride wore a white satin gown made with a square neckline and high standing collar, long fitted sleeves, a moulded waist and full swing skirt. Her full length net veil fell from a halo of seed pearls and she carried an arm bouquet of white violets and carnations. Her only ornament was a three-strand pearl necklace. Silver slippers completed her costume.

Miss Marie Streng was her sister's only attendant. She was attired in a princess-type frock of blue moire taffeta with a shoulder corsage of spring blossoms and wore a wreath of the same blossoms in her hair.

Carl Schilling, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Breakfast for the bridal party, and an informal reception for relatives and close friends, in the home of the bride's parents, followed the church services. Here the bride's chosen colors of blue and white were used in decorating. The refreshment table was centered with a three-

Mr. and Mrs. Schilling are making their home here on north main street. Both are natives of this city. For the past several years she was employed in Tyler.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Albert and Andrew Schilling of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pelzel and family of Pilot Point, Miss Ludwina Vogel of Tyler, Misses Loretta and Ida Rohmer of Dallas, and Messrs. and Mesdames Joe and Bill Streng of Gainesville.

RICHARD WILDE AND CLARA LUTKENHAUS MARRIED TUESDAY

Wedding rites performed in Sacred Heart church at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning united Miss Clara Lutkenhaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lutkenhaus, and Richard Wilde, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wilde. Rev. Frowin Koerdert, pastor, officiated.

ated at the ring ceremony—and at the nuptial high mass.

Anthony Luke, organist, played the wedding music and assisted Sacred Heart choir in rendering the Mass of the Angels. Spring blossoms and greenery decorated the church.

The bride was attired in a lovely floor length frock of peach colored chiffon made with a swing skirt and fitted bodice covered with a short jacket of peach colored lace. Her finger tip veil of pale peach net fell from a wreath of tallisman rose buds. Her arm bouquet was of tallisman roses tied with a bow of matching tulle. For her "something old and something borrowed" she wore a handsome gold chain and cross, more than 40 years old, that belongs to her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Lutkenhaus.

Miss Emma Lutkenhaus attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a princess frock of aqua blue taffeta topped with a bolero of the same material. Her modish coiffure was adorned with a cluster of tallisman roses.

Hugo Wilde was best man for his brother.

Following the church services the bridal party repaired to the Lutkenhaus home where a wedding breakfast was served. At noon relatives and a few close friends were guests at dinner. In the afternoon an informal family reunion was held.

The bride's table was covered with a lovely lace cloth that was a gift to the bride's mother at her wedding 37 years ago. A three-tiered decorated cake centered the board which was further beautified with vases of roses and pink tapers in crystal holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilde are leaving early Friday morning for a wedding trip to West Texas. For traveling Mrs. Wilde chose a fuchsia crepe dress and felt hat with patent accessories. They will make their home in the northeast part of town upon their return.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilde, both natives of Muenster, are popular in the young crowd. He is associated with his father in business at the H-5 Motor Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gray and daughter, Barbara Faye, of Bowie were guests of his sister, Mrs. Gene Carter, and Mr. Carter Tuesday afternoon.
