NUMBER 12

The big news of the weekend was President Reagan's new budget of $757.6 billion and a resulting deficit of $98.6 billion...plus a prediction that the deficit will add to $273 billion in three years. It's a gloomy picture, especially in the light of optimistic estimates last year. We were assured then that the budget would be balanced in 1984.

Budget Director Stockman tries to diminish the shock of economic outlook by stating that the deficits are not large in context with a $3.3 trillion economy. This means government is using some 24 percent of the GNP, but it obviously means also that the red ink could be eliminated if government's share of the total economy could be reduced to about 21 percent. This gap between 24 and 21 percent isn't exactly staggering. It explains why Stockman isn't sharing the deep gloom.

The contrast between his attitude and predominant budget comment of the weekend was disappointing. Reporters and commentators emphasized the depressing outlook and made a point of blaming the problem squarely on Reaganomics, when they should have pointed at a number of other causes. First of all, the current distress was caused by a half century of liberalism, not just one year of conservatism. Secondly, last year's inherited recession imposed severe handicaps on the administration's program. And thirdly, the constant fault finding and mean mouthing by political enemies and the media cast undesired doubt on many of the things Reagan did. As indicated again this week, the liberals of media and politics are trying to destroy American confidence in its government.

Theirs is a dog in the manger attitude. After all these years of failure by their own warped theories, they are afraid to give other ideas a chance. If they could not succeed, they insist on denying success to others.

Well, rather than accept this position let's try to imagine the nation's outlook if all its people adopted the spirit of World War II. Patriotism was near unanimous then. Military age people by the millions did their part willingly, even eagerly. People at home worked hard and made sacrifices.

Radio, newspapers and the movies used every opportunity to praise and encourage. As it looks from here, Stockman was correct in saying that our present deficit can be overcome in a national economy of $3.3 billion. A first step in that direction could be to try for an increase of GNP by reviving the old patriotic spirit and increasing production. The nation used to accomplish this by working a little harder and giving a little more time to the job. Another step in that direction would be an agreement to take a small pay cut to keep jobs open. This has been tried but principals on both sides were too greedy to agree on a workable solution. It's unreasonable for our auto workers to demand $20 an hour when a Japanese worker gets only $7. It's been estimated that this reduction and other economies could reduce the consumer's cost by $2000 per unit.

The combination of these two factors, if spread over all of industry, could have a great effect on the economy. More people would have jobs and fewer would be left on welfare, more of us could afford to buy, more goods could be exported. An old proverb tells us that when there's a will there's a way. There was never a better time to take it seriously.

Craig Rosenbaum is Neil Tibbet's successor

Craig Rosenbaum, former assistant county agent, is back in Cooke County as the new county agent. On the job since Feb. 1, he succeeds Neil Tibbet who retired Jan. 31 after serving 29 years in the local position.

Rosenbaum is a native of South Texas, received a bachelor degree from Sam Houston State University and is presently working on a master degree in extension education at Texas A&M. He expects to graduate in May.

The new county agent said he is happy to be back in Cooke County after an absence of eight years. He worked under Tibbet's 1970-73, and has been with the Extension Service at Dallas since then. When he heard of Tibbet's retirement, he immediately applied for the position because he always wanted to return to Cooke County. He says he's thrilled to be here and expects to enjoy resuming work with many friends who were here in the early seventies.

The work in Dallas was somewhat different, involving mostly beef production, forage and the adult horse program and dealing with absentee landowners. Here he will deal with people on the farm and his work will relate to a wide range of agricultural activity rather than just a few specialized interests.

Rosenbaum said "This is one of the counties that has always had a good extension service. I hope I can live up to what's been done in the past."

Voters have 2 choices in Democratic primary ballot

Voters of Muenster will find the Democratic primary of May 1 little more than a formality. They will find most places on the ballot occupied by unopposed incumbents and only two opportunities for a choice.

County Democratic chairman Jerry Woodlock said that candidates for county judge will be Jim Robertson, incumbent, and Tom Crawford, present justice of the peace of Precinct 1, Place 2.

A crowd of candidates is seeking the JP position vacated by Crawford. They are Jim Muller, Dorothy Smith, Jerry DeVault, Ken Stormer, Willie Hennesy and Steven Phelps.

The unopposed incumbents are Phil Adams, district attorney; Frank Scoggin, county clerk; Bobbie Calhoun, district clerk; Irene Bryant, county treasurer; Robert Bayer, commissioner Precinct 4; Ken Alexander, commissioner Precinct 2; Royce Martin, JP Precinct 4; and Delbert West, county surveyor.

The county's third contest will not be on Muenster ballots. The candidates are Rick Hardin and Tom Rud, running for J.P. Precinct 2 in northeast Cooke County.

Vandalism costs in fines and restitution charges

For recent vandalism at Muenster Public School, four youths paid fines of $279 and restitution of $385 before Judge Terry Winborn of the Muenster Municipal Court. All pleaded no contest to charges of reckless damage.

One case involved three young men of Lindsay who accepted responsibility for a group of several persons accused of painting vulgarisms and smears on the score board, goal posts and other items of the Hornet football field. They were assessed fines adding to $248 and a restitution charge of $365, which was the cost of cleaning and repainting.

The other case involved a Muenster female, also charged with reckless damage. Her offense was smashing eggs on the front wall of the school administration building. She was assessed a fine of $31 and a restitution charge of $20.

In other activity reported by police, tools were stolen from Bryan Russell's pickup truck by unknown person or persons, but later were found on North Main. Also police issued two citations for traffic violations, investigated one accident, and answered a disturbance report at a local bar.

Dorothy Smith is JP candidate

Fellow citizens, I have decided to offer myself as a candidate for the office of Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 2, Cooke County. I do so on the basis of my experience in a number of responsible positions as well as my long term residence in our county.

I have been employed in both public service and private business for the past seven years. In the public sector, I have filled positions as a certified jailer, bailiff of the District Court, secretary and bookkeeper for the Cooke County Sheriff's Department. In the private

TP&L asks for rate increase

Texas Power and Light will file Feb. 12 with the Public Utility Commission of Texas and with the city of Muenster a request for a $188 million base rate increase.

If the request is granted, it would mean an increase of 15.2 percent in the company's revenues and it would result in a monthly increase of $12.17 for an average residential customer using 1040 kilowatt hours (KWH) each month, or a 20.1 percent increase, including fuel.

Revenues for municipal services would increase 28.5 percent. The small commercial and industrial customers' bills would increase 12.2 percent. Larger commercial and industrial customers' rates would increase 11.6 percent. All of these percentage increases include the cost of fuel.

Tom Parsons, TP&L manager in Muenster said the rate relief the company is asking for would enable TP&L to meet its financial requirements for a two-year period.

"The financial soundness of Texas Power and Light has a direct impact on our ability to provide electric service to more than 750,000 customers," Parsons said.

"TP&L was granted only one-fourth of the last request for rate relief filed in March of 1981, and it was simply insufficient to enable the company to pay its day-to-day expenses and to offer an adequate return to investors."

"In order to insure quality service, the company must cope with obtaining financing for a construction program that includes lignite plants and the Comanche Peak nuclear plant," Parsons said. "Our current construction program is as important now as in the 1970s when we first began building modern-day lignite units.

TP&L must continue to build plants that meet the requirements for reliable service to our customers and that use fuels cheaper than natural gas."

Parsons also said that "higher material and labor costs and increased interest rates on borrowed money continually have a negative impact on TP&L's financial condition."

"We never like having to ask for rate relief from our customers," Parsons said, "but rate increases are essential if we are to provide the quality of service that our customers expect."

Germanfest plans on schedule

With visions of making this year's Germanfest bigger and better than ever, members of the steering committee reported at Tuesday's Chamber of Commerce meeting that their plans are mostly on schedule.

Dick Ferber, co-chairman, said that the giant tent will be back over the city park's tennis court with an extension to provide more space and that many of its concession booths have been taken. In addition the entertainment calendar is filling up fast, security provisions are shaping up, and word from the German Fun Run is that participation at this time also looks like a record breaker.

An order for brochures, now in the hands of the printer, is expected within two weeks.

Apparently the only unsolved problem is that of sanitation. The committee agrees that portable toilet facilities of the past few years, to supplement the permanent accommodations, have been unsatisfactory in that they detract from the festival's appearance and fail to adequately meet its need. The expected big crowd could cause serious trouble. Another objection is the cost, formerly over $2,000 and expected to be higher when preparing for larger crowds.

The proposed remedy is a permanent rest room of haydite tile construction costing $15,000 to $20,000 subject to approval of the city council and to become the city's property when payment is finished. It was suggested that Germanfest profits be applied to that project rather than other community interests until the debt is paid off.

Chamber members approved the project and an early meeting with the city council, and an early start if the city agrees.

Another Chamber proposal is installation of a water line to the festival concessions as well as drainage from the locations. The idea is proposed for convenience as well as sanitation. Regarding official visits to Germanfest, the word to now is that Congressman Stenholm will come, Governor Clements is doubtful, the mayor of Muenster, Germany and Senators Tower and Bentsen will not come.

Chamber members were reminded that March 19 is the date for the annual banquet and it will be preceded by the usual billing for dues and election of directors. The letter requesting payments is due in about a week, along with a ballot to be filled out and returned with payment. Voting will be for four directors.

Tigerettes head for TCIL state playoff

History repeated itself last Saturday when Coach Jon LeBrasseur's Sacred Heart Tigerettes won their second consecutive TCIL district title and established themselves as one of four contenders for the state championship in Class 3A.

The District 3 title game, played at Lewisville, was a run-away. They annihilated the Lady Crusaders of St. John's of Ennis, 54-26. With a definite advantage in height, Coach Jon regarded his girls as favorites, but was amazed at the way they took over. They scored 12 points before St. John's got on the board and upped their lead to 14-1 at the first quarter.

For a contrast of size, there were 6-2 Carol Walterscheid and 5-11 Susan Walterscheid, whereas the rangiest Ennis could offer was 5-4. Anne Felderhoff, at 5-5, likewise had the edge in size, but her principal assets were hustle and speed.

Combining talent with a full court press Sacred Heart shut down the Crusaders' close up shots, provoked turnovers and dominated both boards.

Going into the second quarter with a 14-1 lead, the Tigerettes spurred to a 22-1 lead after which Coach Jon ordered a calm to stop SH fouls. Ennis gained during the let-down, and the half ended at 25-9.

Third period was more aggressive again, featuring 7 points by Susan Walterscheid and a gain to 36-13. During the last quarter Sacred Heart coasted to its 54-26 win. With the game in the bag, Coach Jon turned the last quarter over to the reserves, who extended the Sacred Heart lead by 5 more points.

So, at this time the Tigerettes are where they were a year ago, facing a playoff of TCIL's four district champs at the HemisFair of San Antonio. Their first opponent is

Houston Lutheran. Meanwhile Incarnate Word of Corpus Christi and St. Joseph's of Victoria will meet in the other semifinal. After that the semifinal winners will play for the champ title and the semifinal losers will play for the No 3 honor.

In announcing plans for regular visits by members of his staff, Congressman Stenholm said that this is part of an effort to do a better job in serving the people of the 17th Congressional District.

"With thirty-five counties to represent and help in any way I can, I believe this will be a valuable means of access to my office", Stenholm said.

Anyone with a problem or desiring to have direct communication with the Congressman is urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

Looking Ahead

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR VICTORY

As the United States prepares for negotiations with the Soviets over respective armaments, it would be well to provide some perspective from the record of history.

The Soviets have held dictatorial power over the Russian people for 64 years. Yet it is important to understand that we have not had dealings with them that long and why this is the case.

From 1917 until 1933 this country did not recognize the tyranny which was and is Soviet Russia. The reason being, in those days Americans were people of honor and principle. We based our position with respect to the Soviets on the understanding of President Wilson's Secretary of State, Bainbridge Colby, who stated: "The existing regime in Russia is based upon the negation of every principle of honor and good faith. . . . The responsible leaders of the regime have frequently and openly boasted that they are willing to sign agreements and undertakings with foreign powers while not having the slightest intention of observing such undertakings or carrying out such agreements."

The philosophy of communist negotiation was set in concrete by Lenin in the early days of the Soviet nation: "Promises are like pie crusts - made to be broken."

In his book, Left-Wing Communism, Lenin pointed out that in order to advance the cause of Communism "It is necessary for Communists to resort to all sorts of devices, maneuvers, and illegal methods, to evasion and subterfuge."

In 1920 Lenin wrote: ". . . the so-called cultured states of Western Europe and America are incapable of understanding either the present position of things or the real state of relative power. . . . The capitalists of the whole world and their governments will shut their eyes to the kind of activities on our side. . . . and will in this manner become not only deaf mutes but blind as well. They will open up credits for us, which will serve us for the purpose of supporting Communist parties in their countries. They will supply us with the materials and technology which we need for our future victorious attacks upon our suppliers. In other words, they will work hard in order to prepare their own suicide."

Probably no individual in the free world understood what Communism is and what Communist aims are as did the late great Director of the F.B.I., J. Edgar Hoover, who warned us: "We are at war with communism and the sooner every red-blooded American realizes this the safer we will be."

How did he reach this conclusion? By studying what the Communists say to themselves. And here is what they say, in the words of Dimitry Z. Manuilsky, at the Lenin School of Political Warfare in Moscow:

"War to the hilt between communism and capitalism is inevitable. . . . To win we shall need the element of surprise. The bourgeoisie will have to be put to sleep. So we shall begin by launching the most spectacular peace movement on record. There will be electrifying overtures and unheard-of concessions. The capitalist countries, stupid and decadent, will rejoice to cooperate in their own destruction. They will leap at another chance to be friends. As soon as their guard is down we shall smash them with our clenched fists." That's what they are teaching their leaders.

Any time we're going to negotiate with the enemy, we'd better remember - "there is no substitute for victory." Two steps are essential to our long range peace: First, we must keep sufficient armaments, and a strong enough army that the Communists will not decide to attack us. In the second place, we must curb and control the degree of communist infiltration and influence in our own country. We do have a determined fifth column inside America.

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

Charles W. Stenholm

There is little question that economic matters are among the most important issues to be faced by the Second Session of the 97th Congress, but there are a number of other vital issues for us to address this year, issues that sometimes get overshadowed by budget and tax bills.

There is no question that the budgetary issues will receive top priority, as well they should, and will take up a great deal of our legislative time in Congress this session.

Congress must adopt a third fiscal year 1982 budget resolution updating the second resolution adopted in December. In addition, the House and Senate will have to adopt a fiscal year 1983 budget. The President was to have presented Congress with his 1983 budget plans this past week, with additional federal spending cuts of some $30 billion expected.

But sometime during the first months of 1982, Congress may well be asked to decontrol all natural gas immediately, rather than waiting until 1985 when about half of the nation's natural gas will be decontrolled. A tough fight is expected in the House on this issue.

Just one of several environmentally sensitive issues that are sure to create extended debate is the revamping of the Clean Air Act, as well as a proposal to ban oil and gas exploration from wilderness areas.

Unless Congress acts, money to continue Clean Air programs is to expire on March 31, with Clean Water programs (other than the already approved sewer grant program) slated to end September 30. It is likely that each of these two environmental acts will be renewed in one form or another by the Congress.

We will also likely see action on legislation relating to jobs, with the President wanting to establish "enterprise zones" to create jobs in inner cities and Democrats pushing for job training legislation that would replace the Comprehensive Education and Training Administration (CETA) that is being phased out.

Action is also expected to focus on the continuing effort to reduce regulations, specifically those relating to inter-city bus transportation, the maritime industry, savings institutions and the telecommunications industry.

And of course, there are the "New Federalism" moves that I discussed in a previous column. The move to transfer many federal programs to state hands must be examined closely and thoroughly, making sure that we place no unmanageable burden on the state or local governments.

Other issues facing congressional action include tightening the Freedom of Information Act, making it a crime to reveal the names of intelligence agents, foreign aid to Central American countries and a curtailment of the Federal Election Commission, just to name a few.

It is obvious that we have a full legislative agenda before us. Judging from the past record, I have to wonder whether or not Congress will be able to meet all of those obligations (I can't forget that we failed to even be able to pass a budget at all last session). Each of the issues mentioned is important to our country and, even with the many problems caused by a weakened economy weighing down upon us, must be given close and thoughtful consideration by the House and Senate.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Abraham Lincoln was not only one of our nation's greatest President's, but also one of our most eloquent. As the anniversary of his birth approaches, much will be said to honor this great leader and statesman.

Yet, his own words are a far better tribute than any we can devise. It is a tribute to the greatness of Abraham Lincoln that his observations about people and their government hold true now as they did when they were made five score years ago. I would like to share just a few of his statements which are well worth remembering now:

"The dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present. The occasion is piled high with difficulty, and we must rise with the occasion. As our case is new, so we must think anew, and act anew."

"The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all, or cannot so well do, for themselves, in their separate and individual capacities. In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves, government ought not to interfere."

"The maintenance inviolate of the rights of the States, and especially the right of each state to order and control its own judgment exclusively, is essential to that balance of powers on which the perfection, and endurance of our political fabric depends."

"This government must be preserved in spite of the acts of any man or set of men. It is worthy of your every effort. Nowhere in the world is presented a government of so much liberty and equality. To the humblest and poorest amongst us are held out the highest privileges and position."

And finally, the Gettysburg address lives on as one of the most moving tributes to the principles which bind us together.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we can not dedicate -- we can not consecrate -- we can not hallow -- this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us -- that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion -- that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain -- that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom -- and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Top teens bullish on American direction

Just one year ago, 19% of the nation's outstanding teenagers expressed a great deal of faith in the office of the presidency. Today, 45% of the teen leaders say they have tremendous faith in the country's number one office.

The dramatic change is recorded in the results of the 12th Annual Survey of High Achievers conducted by the publishers of "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Some 22,000 student leaders participated in the survey.

In the latest survey, three-quarters of the respondents expressed support for Mr. Reagan's proposed federal spending cuts and 67% listed the economy as the President's first national priority.

If the top ranking students had the option to tell government what to do with their tax dollar, 82% would put their money towards energy resource development.

Considering national issues, eight out of ten students advocate mandatory registration of handguns. Yet three-quarters think criminals will still get guns and use them.

A fair majority (56%) of the teens favor mandatory draft registration and in the case of Third World conflicts where communist nations are involved, 48% would send "military advisors." Further, these teens would favor U.S. military intervention if a communist country were the aggressor in South/Central America (68%), Europe (70%) and the Middle East (48%).

Some 68% favor the use of nuclear power as an energy source and a little more than that number (69%) are in support of capital punishment.

It would appear that the nation's teen leaders take a hard line in dealing with national and global issues.

We would like to think that at last the country's thought moulders are disposed to get behind the president and help make his program work. After all, they certainly have no reason after the dismal failure of liberalism to keep on bucking Reaganomics. They howl about the sad consequence if the administration program fails, even while they are trying their utmost to make it fail.

A poll since the President's state of the union address says his popularity rating is still soaring in spite of the uncomplimentary comment by the Washington foes. Grass roots people respect and admire him as they did at election time.

His great problem, however, is that he's so vastly outnumbered. His program needs a change of strategy, primarily more appearances by himself, plus more people to talk in his behalf, plus removal of a number of political hold overs with old twisted ideas and loyalties from influential positions. He's been sabotaged by too many he should be able to depend on.

State Capital report

By Senator Bob Glasgow

A recent press release from Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong's office contained very good news for Texas public schools. Revenue projections just issued showed that the Permanent School Fund, which helps finance public education in Texas, should reach $9.4 billion by the end of this decade. This amount would triple the current size of a $3 billion fund.

This fund is currently the largest public endowment fund in the world and will undoubtedly continue to be so.

Deregulation of oil and gas prices, good management of the State properties and an increased royalty share by the State on mineral leases have contributed to the increase and will contribute to future increases.

The Permanent School Fund is fed by revenues from 13.2 million acres of state-owned lands and mineral resources. This includes 4.25 million acres in mineral-rich submerged tide lands off the Texas coast.

According to the General Land Office's projections, mineral revenues on school lands between now and the end of the fiscal 1989 year will amount to $6.4 billion. This will amount to an increase of twice as much as over the past century that has been contributed to the fund.

Although the forecast uses the most conservative of all available price estimates, gas royalties are still expected to increase 140 per cent by 1989, from $282 million to $680 million annually. A 75 per cent increase is projected for oil royalties, from $150 million to $261 million over the same period.

Interest income from the Permanent School Fund (called the available school fund) is used to help finance our public schools.

Available school fund contributions to public education expenditures in Texas has increased from 1.8 per cent in 1971 to presently over 7 per cent.

As the corpus of the fund grows, income from the fund will naturally increase.

This will give the State some flexibility in assisting further the financing of public education. The percentage of the fund contributed to public education could be increased to take some of the pressure off the local school districts. This could lead to less reliance on the property tax as a source of funding for the local school districts and possibly a reduction in the local tax.

I feel certain that the Legislature will be working toward this end in the next session. We are fortunate to be in such a position. But the Legislature must not become carried away - we must protect the fund and its income to be certain that no monies are spent carelessly.

A large portion of the income, of course, is derived from our oil and gas production. This is a depletable resource which we will not always have. We must protect that fund for the day when we do not have the abundant oil and gas resources.

IRS enumerates duties of tax return preparers

Commercial tax return preparers must comply with certain requirements when making out clients' returns, the Internal Revenue Service advises.

The IRS explains, paid preparers are responsible for providing a copy of the completed return to the client for his/her records when the client signs the return. Preparers are required to keep copies of returns or a list containing taxpayers' names and identification numbers for three years. These records must be available for IRS inspection during this period.

Paid preparers are also required to sign completed returns and to provide their employer identification number on the return. Rubber stamps and signature facsimiles are not accepted by the IRS.

The handling of refund checks is also regulated. A $500 penalty can be assessed against paid preparers (other than bank preparers) who endorse, cash, or in any way negotiate a client's refund check. In addition, understating a client's tax liability can result in a penalty of $500 for willful understatement or $100 for negligent or intentional disregard of rules and regulations.

Notify PO and IRS of address change

Taxpayers who move after filing their federal income tax returns and are expecting a refund should notify the post office serving the old address, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The IRS center where the return was filed should also be notified in writing of the address change. This will help the IRS to forward the refund check to the new address as soon as possible. When advising the IRS of the address change, the taxpayer's Social Security number should be included in the correspondence.

Mrs. Cain and her assistants in Beta Kappa have expressed their appreciation to all who "answered the door Thursday evening" and contributed.

Wheels turn for children's lives

Wheels will be turning to help save children's lives... St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced names of leaders of the 1982 Spring Bike-A-Thon, including Mrs. Mike Kleiss of Muenster.

The Bike-A-Thon in Muenster will be held on March 20, with a rain date of March 27. Details of the Bike Ride will be announced later, including the route. More information is available from Mrs. Mike Kleiss.

Watch deductions

If you dislike paying taxes, why pay more than you should? The Internal Revenue Service suggests that you claim every deduction you're entitled to claim. Don't forget interest on borrowed money, charitable contributions, medical expenses, real estate taxes, and so forth. Check your tax instructions for more.

Navy Hospitalman Malcolm D. Jacobs Jr., son of Malcolm D. and Sandra A. Jacobs of Forestburg, Texas, was graduated from Field Medical Service School.

The five-week course at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif., is designed to prepare Navy hospital corpsmen and dental technicians for duty with Marine Corps combat units.

Warning: Beware of bogus checks

Warning! The bogus check season seems to have returned. First National Bank of Saint Jo notified a Muenster business firm Wednesday that a recent check failed to clear because of no account. The bank further stated that three businesses of Muenster and several of Gainesville have been victimized by the bad checks lately.

The operators apparently are a man, woman and boy (about 13) all members of a family but working individually. The method is to use a counter check, not imprinted with a personal account number and name. The signatures is fictitious, and if an address or phone number is requested, that too will be fictitious.

The bank advises caution when the non-personalized check is presented. If the customer is not known personally, his identity and the check's validity can be checked by phoning the Saint Jo bank. If the check is presented during non-banking hours it should be regarded as more suspicious.

Mrs. Dora Henschel honored by three events on 80th birthday

Mrs. Dora Henschel's 80th birthday was celebrated by her children and grandchildren with several events during the weekend.

A special Mass was celebrated at 5 p.m. on February 6 by Father Stephen Eckart in Sacred Heart Church. The Liturgy was planned by Mrs. Henschel's grandchildren, who also gave the Readings, Prayers of the Faithful, music and singing. Each family was represented.

Grandchildren were ushers; grandchildren and great-grandchildren were Mass servers.

The honoree's children participated in the Offertory procession, each carried an item of significance in her life. She was born on February 6, 1901, to Franz and Elizabeth Hesse, Muenster pioneers. She married Albert Henschel on August 12, 1924. He died on November 21, 1967.

Following Mass, a reception, dinner and party were held in the KC Hall for her immediate family. All attended except several grandchildren who were prevented by severe weather.

During the reception a number of pictures were made and guests enjoyed reminiscing over a display of old pictures.

Mrs. Dora Henschel's family consists of seven living children and one deceased daughter; also 50 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren. Her children are Mrs. Ed (Clara) Endres, Mrs. Herb (Dolores) Miller, Mrs. Henry (Regina) Pels, Mrs. George (Leoba) Mollenkopf, Mrs. Ronnie (Alma) Herr, Ervin Henschel and Virgil Henschel and the late Mrs. Rosalie Schilling.

An Open House hosted by Herb and Dolores Miller and family in their home Sunday afternoon as an added birthday courtesy, was attended by a number of friends and relatives.

Allison is one

Allison Bayer's first birthday was the inspiration for a party in her honor for all of her cousins on January 28, hosted by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bayer in their home.

A three ring circus theme, with clowns, balloons, decorations and birthday cake, games, gifts and pictures added to the fun for the honoree and her guests.

Attending were cousins, Deano, Amy, Vickie and Kelly Bob Bayer; Jared, Weldon, Heath and Lucas Bayer; Denise and Melissa Bayer; and aunts, Mrs. Claude Bayer, Mrs. Clinton Bayer and Mrs. Dan Bayer and the grandmother, Mrs. J.H. Bayer.

Cousins visit

Mrs. Janie Cox and Kris and Kevin of Houston and Mrs. Teresa Jo McCrimmon of Denver were guests of parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Fleitman last week. Several family gatherings were held during the visit and all the grandchildren were together except Kelly Cox whose school activities kept her in Houston.

Symphony, Chorale offers student tickets

The Board of the Cooke County Symphony and Chorale has announced final plans for student tickets to be made available for the next concert on February 20. Student tickets will be $2.00 each and tickets will be placed in principals' offices in local schools and at the door the night of the concert.

"We hope that this will help make these concerts more available to the entire family," says Dr. Milton Dickson, co-chairman of the board. Dr. Harold Alan Kafer, Music Director of the Symphony and Chorale, adds "Students are the future lifeblood of this organization, both in terms of audience and participation. Already we have several talented area students playing with the symphony and singing in the chorale. We're making available a musical experience they may never have again. I feel that many young people will discover the music we perform to be as appealing as popular forms."

The next concert on February 20 is an all-orchestral program by the Cooke County Symphony, featuring music of Gustav Holst, Mozart, and Beethoven. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. at Gainesville High School Auditorium. Regular admission is $6.00.

J.M. Weinzapfel, right, here presents a gift of $1,000 to the Cooke County Arts Council honoring the memory of his wife, Julia, who was an active supporter of cultural and community events. A portrait of the late Mrs. Weinzapfel is seen in the background. David Howeth, president of the Arts Council accepted the donation and stated that a number of Muenster people are involved in the Arts Council and its member organizations which include the Cooke County Symphony and Chorale, the Butterfield Stage Players, the Community Big Band and Arts Activities. The symphony will present its next concert on Saturday, Feb. 20, 7:30 at Gainesville High School Auditorium. Howeth added that because of Muenster involvement particularly, the Arts Council is a truly county-wide organization.

Garden Club hears Bromeliad program

"Bromeliads," an easy to grow house plant, was the subject of a program by Sue Endres Monday evening at the Muenster Garden Club. She exhibited several varieties of her favorite house plant - one was the pineapple, that she started from a top of this fruit, now grown into an interesting plant.

A report on the wood street planters was given by Alice Roark, president. These large planters will soon be placed in front of stores to beautify Muenster streets. Each business has paid the cost of materials and the garden club will fill with a shrub. The planters were built in Rudy Koesler's shop class, as a community project by the students. In appreciation, the garden club voted a donation to the class, towards equipment.

The upcoming District Convention of Garden Clubs to be held in Gainesville, March 3 and 4, was detailed with working assignments for this club's members, including decorations and donations from each member for a sales table.

The meeting, held at the Cooke County Electric Coop building, was hosted by Carrie Winn who served dessert and coffee to 15 members.

SHS will observe Catholic school week

As you may know Catholic Schools Week for 1982 is February 15th-19th. We at Sacred Heart are very excited about the opportunity we have to promote Catholic School Education.

Pope John Paul II has stated, "the purpose of Catholic education is to communicate Christ to you, so that your attitude toward others will be that of Christ...Part of our Catholic education is to learn to see the needs of others, to have the courage to practice what we believe in. With the support of a Catholic education, we try to meet every circumstance of life with the attitude of Christ..." The Catholic bishops have also stated in the National Catechetical Directory that Catholic schools are "the most effective means available to the church for the education of children and young people...No other factor (except the devout Catholic family) is as effective in instilling a religion spirit in children as is the Catholic School."

Recent studies by Dr. James Coleman and Father Andrew Greeley have shown the following facts:

In terms of human resources, Catholic schools are a tremendous asset for the changing church. They produce people who are change-oriented and flexible, but secure in both their world view and their loyalty to past traditions and values.

Parochial schools also produce people who are more tolerant of others and better able to cope with our increasingly diverse society.

Far from declining in effectiveness in the past decade, Catholic schools have increased substantially in their importance to the church-keeping in the church those most likely to drift out: men and young people under 30; and thus building for the future.

Parents most frequently name "better education" as their main reason for selecting a Catholic school for their children. (Free to give as many reasons as they wished, 34 percent of all survey respondents named this reason. Religious instruction was named as the main reason by 19 percent; and more discipline by 18 percent.)

When family background factors that predict achievement are controlled, students in Catholic and other private secondary schools achieve at a higher level than students in public schools.

Catholic and other private secondary schools provide a safer, more disciplined and more ordered environment than public schools.

Catholic schools more nearly approximate the "common school" ideal of American education than do public schools in that achievement levels of children with different backgrounds are more nearly alike in Catholic than in public schools.

In order to celebrate Catholic Schools Week, we at Sacred Heart have prepared a full calendar of events. We thank you for your help in promoting Catholic Schools Week in 1982.

Sincerely,
Stephen Beyer, Principal

Forestburg News

by Myrt Denham

Mrs. Regina Blankenship has had to return to the Muenster Hospital. She was admitted Sat. night the 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wood of Wichita Falls drove down Fri. the 29th to spend the weekend in the Burg with their kin. They spent Fri. night with her parents, the Clifford Hudspeths. Then Sat. with Mr. and Mrs. Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Lunch made it to Fort Worth to do some shopping. Sun. the 31st, the Woods, the Doyle Lynchs and Rayanne, and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hudspeth and children all had lunch with the Clifford Hudspeths.

Gerold Lanier visited with his mother Cleo Sun. a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bailey of Denton visited with his mother Mrs. Juanita Bailey Sun. p.m. the 31st.

Ricky Gates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Gates celebrated his birthday Feb. 2 as did Ross Littell and J.T. Willis. Don't know if Ross and J.T. care to tell their age but Rocky was 4 years.

Mrs. Charlene Woods and son John traveled to Austin, Fri. the 29 to visit with Charlene's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin and daughter Mackenzie. They returned home Sun. the 31st and report a nice trip and a great visit.

A much needed rain started falling in the early morning hours of Sat. the 30th and continued on and off during the day into Sat. night. Around 11 p.m. Sat. it turned to snow and by Sun. a.m. we were under a blanket of beautiful snow. The moisture was much needed as many area farmers, ranchers and gardeners were complaining it was to dry to plow their land and gardens.

Not much news to report from this area - seems everyone was staying home due to our very cold weather. Home was the best place to be.

Diane Steadham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Steadham made the '81 fall semester Dean's honor roll at NTSU in Denton, where Diane is a senior. Vatori Dill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Dill, made the President's honor roll at NTSU in Denton with a 4.0 grade average.

Master Chris Carter of Bowie spent from Fri. 5 to Sun. 7 with his dad Johnny and with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carter.

From time to time I am asked if I know anything about the former Mabel Sills and her son Don. Mabel lives in Bowie and is now Mrs. Roy Goodman. Son Don is married and he and his wife Amalie moved to Bowie several months ago from Dalhart. They are presently living with Mabel and Roy. Don works for a construction company and Amalie works at the Bowie Convalescent Home.

Last weeks picture was that of Dude berry and his brothers. They are from left to right, Dude, Walter, Lon and John. All sons of the late Henry and Julie Berry. The picture was made in 1952 in Hood, at Walter's home. They have all passed on except Dude and a sister, Mrs. Lena Brown of Springtown.

I love this: Ad in Montague County Shopper reads "Keep America Beautiful - Get a Haircut." How true!

"Tribute to a neighbor"
In these times of fast living fast moving, and "everybody for himself," the possibility of having a good neighbor is often a rarity instead of commonplace. I have been fortunate in having two good neighbors for several years, but now they are moving, and that's going to leave another empty space in my life. For a number of years Mabel Covington and her son, Robby have lived across the road from me. They were there when I needed them, through good times and bad. Maybe this little poem will best express my thoughts: "The house will be lonely, cold and dark. Birds won't sing, your dogs won't bark When I'm alone and lonely at night I can't look across the road and see your light. It's going to be lonely when you go away. Tho' we didn't see you every day, Just knowing a friend was near. Helped drive away loneliness and fear. Hope wherever you go, Health and happiness will make your lives glow. Don't ever forget our friendship true I'm going to miss you. And I love you dearly, the both of you. Mrs. Cleo Lanier

CARD OF THANKS

For many years, our mother and sister, Carrie Roberg was ill, either at home or in the hospital or in rest homes. She was frequently cheered by the kindness of relatives, neighbors and friends. For that we are also very grateful. For the many Masses, flowers, cards and every favor at her death and funeral. All of us say "Thank You," especially to Fathers Placidus, Stephen and Denis and the ladies who prepared our family dinner in the K. C. Hall.

Joan Roberg and Carrie's sisters and brother, Ida Mae, Gerie, Bernadine and Louis.

Our family expresses deep appreciation to Father Stephen and Father Cleuis who con-celebrated the funeral Mass for Eugene (Beans) Schmitz; to relatives, neighbors and friends who attended; the ladies who prepared and served the family meal in the Lindsay Parish Hall; and to all who sent Mass intentions, flowers, or foods to our homes.

The family of Eugene (Beans) Schmitz, his wife, children, brothers and sisters.

My parents, Deb and Claude Klement, and I want to say "Thank You" to relatives and friends for many favors while I was a hospital patient in Muenster and Denton. Most especially, we are grateful to this community and Fr. Denis and Fr. Stephen for prayers offered while I was very sick. We are grateful also for phone calls, visits, cards and food sent to our home.

Aaron Klement and his Mom and Dad

It is a great joy to recall the memorable birthday celebration and special weekend of visiting and reuniting planned by my children and grandchildren. I wish to thank them for everything, especially for the beautiful Liturgy during the 5 p.m. Mass on Saturday, celebrated by Father Stephen. Thanks also to all who attended the Open House Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Dora Henscheid

I am very grateful to my family, relatives, friends and neighbors whose care and concern for me during my long hospitalization helped make the time pass more quickly. Thanks to the flowers, visits and prayers. I will remember all of you in my prayers.

Mrs. H. J. Fuhrman

Thanks! We, the Jim Hoedebeck Family wish to express our sincere thanks to all persons and organizations who helped us in our hour of need. Our hearts and prayers are with each and everyone of you. May God be with you always.

Jim, Dorothy, Lisa and Bethany Hoedebeck

Here you see the end result of a topographic map which included four terraces and waterway which has been recently installed.

Grid map is a conservation tool

By: Ron Feldmann
Agricultural Engineer

Grid mapping is one of several tools being used by SCS personnel in planning conservation practices. Grid maps give the technician and accurate view of the relative changes in topography which occur over a specific cropland field. These maps can be used in the design of waterway and parallel terrace systems.

Obtaining topography by use of the grid system consists of selecting and laying out lines on a field that can be reproduced to scale on paper. Natural ground elevations are usually taken on one hundred foot intervals so that contour lines can be placed on paper between these elevations.

These contour lines then show the low areas where waterways are needed to remove surface water from the field. The number, spacing and locations of terraces can then be decided to best fit the conservation as well as the farmer's needs. The spacing of terraces is usually decided in accordance with the farmer's individual equipment.

The system or systems can then be reviewed with the farmer and proper adjustments may be made before the contractor begins work in the field.

Grid mapping is a special tool used by the SCS to insure maximum conservation efficiency and any assistance from farmers is appreciated. The smoother the surface is at the time of grid mapping, the more accurate the map can be and likewise the more efficient waterways and terraces will be.

If you are interested in conserving soil on your cropland with the use of terraces and waterways, please contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.

Coastal Bermuda grass pays off in erosion control, grazing

By Gary Rainwater
District Conservationist

Now is the time to start planting Coastal Bermudagrass. Planting coastal is one of the most effective erosion control and conservation practices that can be applied to your land. It also provides added economic benefits for the landowner by providing hay and grazing for his livestock.

All plantings should be on a well prepared firm seedbed that is free of competing vegetation. The seedbed should be prepared just like one would prepare his land for cultivated crops. The seedbed should have been prepared by October 1st. Lightly disk or horrow about one month prior to planting to eliminate any living vegetation that still exists.

Fertilization is very important with coastal planting and any other grasses that may be planted. The purpose of fertilizing is to maintain or improve the chemical and biological conditions of the soil. Fertilizers also supplies plant nutrients needed to stimulate plant growth, and to help reduce soil and water losses by increasing quality of plant growth. Also, on fertile soil, where the water taken in by the plant is well supplied with the necessary minerals, a plant needs less water to produce new growth than soils in low fertility.

If you have any questions about planting, sprigs, or people who have equipment for planting coastal contact your local SCS office.

New variety of grass introduced

A new plant selection has been released by the USDA Soil Conservation Service and cooperating agencies.

Gary Rainwater, district conservationist for SCS at Muenster said the new release is 'T-587' old world bluestem, which is actually a mixture of 80 similar grasses collected several years ago in the Near East." Rainwater said. "After 140 field evaluations in more than 100 counties, the mixture has been released to seed growers by SCS in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station."

Rainwater said the old world bluestem release appears to be adapted south of a line from Cochran County to Bowie County where rainfall averages 14 inches to 40 inches annually. Old world bluestem is palatable, a high forage producer, and very persistent under heavy grazing pressure.

Introducing "The Garden Editor"

by Ted Brice Garden Editor

Luther Burbank "The Edison of Horticulture"

Luther Burbank was born in 1849 and during his working life (1873-1926) he probably contributed or introduced more plants than any other single American in our history. Many of his productions have been of great importance to horticulture past and present.

In 1893, Luther Burbank, who was to become known to every schoolboy as "The Plant Wizard," published a little catalogue called "New Creations." Burbank had not reached the height of his fame, but he was attracting attention. Some hailed him as a genius, others, including some scientists, questioned his results. Still others were shocked that he would "dare to interfere with the handwork of God." During the following years a great number of famous Burbank fruits and plants were purchased and introduced by the Stark Brothers. The effect of Burbank's achievements on the national economy is impossible to estimate, but a good example can be found in plums alone, a fruit in which he made some of his most valuable contributions. Twenty of the varieties he developed are widely planted throughout the United States and other countries. Ten of the numbers are standard shipping varieties where ever plums are grown for marketing. In California alone, they form a major industry with some 2,000,000 trees producing thousands of carloads of fruit annually.

King Alfred of Belgium and Professor Hugo deVries, a noted botanist of Holland were just a few of the hundreds of Burbank's world famous visitors and friends which included kings, queens, presidents, horticulturists, writers, and world leaders in science, art, industry, and government. The combined creative genius of these close friends has made great strides for the benefit and enjoyment of mankind; Thomas Edison, "Wizard of electricity and Mechanics;" Luther Burbank, "Genius of Horticulture;" and Henry Ford, who was noted for revolutionizing automotive transportation.

The "Burbank July Elberta Freestone Peach" is acclaimed as the "Best of All." Many people know of and grow the Burbank Shasta Daisy. The Gold Medal of the Pan-American exposition was awarded Luther Burbank as well as the achievement Medal by the California Academy of Sciences.

At the time of Luther Burbank's death there were a great number of varieties of new kinds of fruits and flowers which the great experimenter had developed and never introduced to the public. Included were 120 types of plums, 18 varieties of peaches, 28 varieties of apples, 500 hybrid roses, 30 cherries, 34 pears, 52 gladioli, and many others. Luther Burbank's final resting place is under a "Cedar of Lebanon" in his home garden.

Good gardening until next week from your Garden Editor, Ted Brice.

Ponder sweeps series of 3 at Muenster High

Muenster High was the triple loser Tuesday night in a trio of games with the highly potent youngsters from Ponder.

As a starter the junior varsity girls ran over the future Hornets 34-8. The game became humiliating in the fourth period when the visitors outscored MHS 18-2. Hornette scorers were Jo Ell Hellman 4, Jill Wimmer 2, Jackie Farrell 2.

The varsity girls game was only slightly less one sided. The Lady Lions led all the way by counts of 11-10, 27-13, 35-15 and 52-28. Actually the game was better than the score. Most of the time the action was about even, but three spurts by Ponder poured in the extra points. Charlotte Fleitman scored 14 for MHS, Stephanie Richey added 6, Carla Walterscheid 4, Nancy Walterscheid 2, Jill Walterscheid 1, Mary Winn.

Ponder boys roared to leads of 17-10 and 44-27 in the first and second quarters, gained 4 scores in the third for a 72-51 lead and finally gave up 1 point of margin in the 89-69 win.

Dale Swirczynski led MHS scoring with 19, Kevin Felderhoff made 17, Tim Schneider 13, Wayne Carroll 12, Gary Klement 4, Steven Fisher 4.

lost its semi final, then the playoff for third place. This year Coach Jon thinks his team is stronger and its outlook has improved accordingly.

However the big hurdle to be cleared is the opening game. Houston Lutheran rapped Sacred Heart by 12 points last year and appears to be tougher this year. Its present record is 21-1, whereas Sacred Heart's is 17-8. Furthermore it out-sizes SH by an average of more than an inch. Also, it lost only one of last year's starters whereas SH lost three. Nevertheless Coach Jon is counting on improvement and hustle to get results.

The team will leave for San Antonio Thursday morning, practice there in the afternoon and play its opening game Friday morning at 8:30.

U.S. Food and Drug Administration lists dangers in sodium

Although sodium is vital to good health and nutrition, most people consume more of it than they need. And the Texas Medical Association says restricting one's intake of this mineral element often requires more than just cutting back on table salt.

Salt, the common name for sodium chloride, is the largest single contributor of sodium to the human diet but only one of many sources of sodium in food. The list also includes brine, salt pork, self-rising flour, and sodium compounds such as monosodium glutamate (MSG) sodium citrate, sodium saccharin, baking soda and baking powder.

Sodium is so prevalent that most people get more than enough without adding salt from the food and water they consume. Sodium is included in most processed foods and is present in water either because it occurs naturally or is added by the use of softeners in some community water systems.

The people most concerned are those on sodium-restricted diets for treatment of various heart, liver and kidney ailments, or for hypertension (high blood pressure). An estimated 23 million to 60 million people in the U.S. have diseases or disorders that may require control of sodium or potassium, a common salt substitute. Excess sodium in their diets can increase the volume of water in body tissues and bring about swelling or a condition called edema.

Sodium-conscious consumers should be wary of products labeled "salt free." They might not be sodium free. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration cites the case of a brand of potato chips that was being promoted as having no added salt. The agency found that an ounce of the chips contained 175 milligrams of sodium, a "significant amount...for any consumer on a sodium-restricted diet." (A safe daily intake of sodium for a healthy adult is 1,100 to 3,300 milligrams.) The FDA has indicated that saying a product containing sodium is "salt free" is misbranding.

Although ingredient lists on the labels of most products do not give the amount of sodium they contain, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has published a booklet with the average amount of sodium in 789 items. A free copy of "The Sodium Content of Your Food" can be obtained by writing: FDA, HFE-88, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20857.

Muenster drops two at Krum

MHS basketball teams returned from Krum Friday night with a pair of losses but no sadness. Actually, they had reason to be proud considering that their opponents are exceptionally talented and highly regarded on the state level of Class A. That applied especially to the boys game, in which the Hornets played their season's best and were in competition to the end. The final count was 55-52, however MHS was only one point behind at the final buzzer. Krum got the additional two points on free shots after time had expired.

By quarters Muenster trailed 12-7 and gained to a 24-22 lead at the half then trailed again by scores of 41-40 and 55-52 at the third and fourth. The performance was the best so far, especially by Kevin Felderhoff, who hit 23 points, and Wayne Carroll, who hit 16. Other scores were Tim Schneider 9, Dale Swirczynski 2, Gary Klement 2.

Members of the Forestburg FFA senior grass judging team won first place in the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show last week.

Also two members of the Forestburg junior team scored high but a third member was absent because of bad weather and the team was disqualified in spite of a higher score than the three of the next team. Latricia Bell and Brent Shults received the No. 1 and No. 2 individual members of the contest.

Individual scores of the senior team were Jeff Carter 378 (out of a possible 400), Veronica Edwards 366, Douglas Edwards 365, Falcia Bell 359. The top three of those made up the team total of 1109. The team was awarded a first place plaque and the four members received individual medals.

Anheuser-Busch beer sales reach 54.5 million barrels

Anheuser-Busch, Inc., the brewing subsidiary of Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc., and the world's largest brewer, sold 54.5

million barrels of beer in 1981, it was announced by August A. Busch III, chairman and president of Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc.

The 1981 barrelage, another all-time industry record for any brewer in a single year, represents approximately 29.5 percent of estimated total brewing industry sales in the U.S. (including imports), compared with a 1980 year-end market share of 27.8 percent, Busch said.

The 1981 sales represent an increase of 4.3 million barrels, or 8.6 percent, over the company's 1980 beer sales volume of 50.2 million barrels. "That is particularly significant in view of the fact that total brewing industry sales are expected to show an increase for 1981 of approximately 2 percent," he said.

Through 1981, Anheuser-Busch has led the brewing industry in sales for 25 consecutive years.

In addition to Budweiser, Anheuser-Busch brews Michelob, Michelob Light, Natural Light and Busch beers and imports Wurzburger Hofbrau from Germany.

In preparation for stocking up a supply of sauerkraut for the winter, early day Muenster residents brought heads of cabbage by the wagon load, shipped in on the MKT railroad in a boxcar. The boxcar was side-tracked and residents brought their wagons alongside to load up. In this picture belonging to Mrs. Joe Sicking, the late Mrs. Barbara Becker, her grandmother, seems to be selecting choice heads.

This scene at the roadside park on Highway 82 between Muenster and Lindsay could fit a fairy tale but the "cold" facts are the real story. Water seeping from the creek bank in recent cold weather caused these formations.

Blacklands tillage workshop booked

A workshop is scheduled for March 9, 1982 at the Texas A&M University Research & Extension Center Field House, 17360 Coit Road, Dallas on the Subject of conservation tillage for blacklands, according to an announcement by Gary Rainwater, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Muenster. The meeting will commence at 1:00 p.m. and will conclude at about 4:00 p.m. Maurice Shepherd of Burleson, will moderate the meeting. Shepherd is a member of the Dalworth Soil and Water Conservation District.

Several authorities in the field of conservation tillage will present information on research, economics, insect problems, equipment, herbicides and fertilization as they relate to conservation tillage.

"Dr. B.L. Harris, soil and water use specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station, will present the introduction and will also chair a panel discussion and question and answer session," Rainwater said.

Many equipment and herbicide dealers plan to show their products. These will be on display at the center beginning at about 10:00 a.m.

The workshop is sponsored by the North Texas Association of SWCDs, the Dalworth SWCD, Texas A&M Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

In 1610, Captain Samuel Argall was blown off course near a cape on our eastern seaboard. He immediately named it for his sponsor, Lord De La Warr. It became the state of Delaware.

- 1 C. heavy cream
- Vegetable cooking spray

Place water in top of double boiler and sprinkle gelatin over surface. Beat egg yolks slightly (about 3 minutes) and mix them with the salt. Mix yolks into gelatin. Place over boiling water about 5 minutes, stirring constantly until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens a bit. Remove from double boiler. Add orange juice, strawberries and food coloring. Refrigerate mixture until it mounds a little when poured. Meanwhile, beat the egg whites lightly, adding sugar gradually. Beat the cream. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into the orange juice mixture. Coat mold with vegetable cooking spray and pour in mixture. Refrigerate overnight or until quite firm. Unmold by running warm water on the mold. Serves 10-12.

KCs sponsor father-son campout

The Muenster Council of the Knights of Columbus will sponsor the annual father-son campout Saturday, February 13. It will be held at the campsite on the Walter Klement farm and all members and their sons are urged to attend. Members can attend without sons, but sons cannot camp without their dads. All guests invited by members are welcome, and any children of deceased members wishing to go should contact any member of the council.

For directions to the campsite simply turn right on the first gravel road on Copper Switch Road, drive one mile and turn left. Those attending should be at the campsite anytime after 3:00 p.m. and should bring camping supplies and food for breakfast. The Knights will host a weiner roast that evening. If bad weather prevails, call Harold Flusche for verification of the event.
