The nation's present fiscal The nation's present fiscal situation is comparable to a motor vehicle descending a steep hill, accelerating and approaching the point at which brakes lose their effectiveness. The danger of a crash gets greater by the minute.

That's how it is with the federal budget. The deficit gets bigger every year, the national debt increases by that amount as the country charges headlong toward that amount as the country charges headlong toward financial ruin.

That's why the administration and the conservatives of Congress are so intent on passing the Balanced Budget Amendment, which not only limits the amount of allowable spending to the government's actual income, but also limits a tax increase to the rate of national income increase during the preceding year. To deal with emergencies, the amendment permits the amendment permits specific increase of the budget to provide for the specific need, subject to ap-proval of a three fifths vote by both houses.

proval of a three fifths vote by both houses.

Speaking in support of the amendment in the White House Rose Garden, President Reagan said "We must not, and we will not, permit prospects for lasting economic recovery to be buried beneath an endless tide of red ink. Americans understand that the discipline of a balanced-budget amendment is essential to stop squandering and overtaxing. And they're saying the time to pass the amendment is now."

Referring to the first two sections of the amendment, the eminent economist and Nobel Prize winning Milton Friedman summed up their importance as follows: "the

that makes the amendment necessary.

Indirect thanks are due to House Majority Leader Jim Wright for his foot-inmouth attempt to criticize the measure. He ridiculed that balanced budget talk is foolish just after the president has accepted the biggest deficit of all time. Simple honesty should have prompted him to keep his mouth shut. The current big budget was voted principally by members of his own party, and the many past by members of his own par-ty, and the many past deficits which add to the present trillion dollar debt were also voted by his own party. Actually the amen-dment is needed principally because of the likes of

One might say there are One might say there are two important reasons for the Balanced-Budget amendment. The first is simply that it's good sense to live within one's means. This applies to the government as well as to individuals. And the second reason is that the government is heading for disaster. It has to restore fiscal sanity to survive.

Tax estimate shocks taxpayers

False alarm!
1982 tax bills in the county will not be nearly as high as the estimate shown on appraisal notices just sent out by the Cooke County Tax Appraisal District.
Complaints have been circulating freely and the city has received phone calls demanding why.

has received phone calls demanding why.

Noting that the stated estimate is about twice as high as last year's bill, City Secretary Celine Dittfurth explains that it results from the new state law requiring valuations at 100 percent of actual value. Tax valuations last year were set at half of actual value. With valuations doubled, the tax rate can be reduced accordingly to produce the same tax revenue.

However tax rates for this

However tax rates for this year are not determined. That remains to be done as each of the several taxing agencies decides what is needed for its budget. Assuming that needs of the entities are about the same as last year, the tax bills should be about the same. But in calculating the estimated 1982 tax the appraisal district had no in-requirements, so it applied the 1981 rate to the 1982 ap-praisals. Rate changes will be made to compensate for the appraisal change.

Actually, the purpose of the notice sent out by CC-TAD is to inform taxpayers of the value at which their property has been appraised and to notify them that they can appear before the ap-praisal review board if they do not agree with the ap-praisal.

only the dedication and competence that always has characterized our armed forces, but also an enthusiasm that was lacking as recently as two years ago.

The reason for this change is that we have kept our promises to the men and women who protect our national security by serving in the military.

Two years ago, military pay relative to that in the civilian sector was so low that some of our skilled, experienced enlisted personnel could have worked fewer hours and made more money in fast food restaurants. Experienced personnel were leaving the services in droves, not because they no longer wished to serve this country, but because they felt an obligation to provide for their families.

Significant pay and benefit increases over the past two years have eased this problem significantly. People who want to stay in the military find that now they can afford to do so.

Substantial progress has been made last year and this to redress this problem as well. We have managed to fund spare parts and other operations and maintenance accounts at higher levels, and service members at bases here and abroad can tell the difference.

Finally, in the post-Vietnam era, the men and women who serve our country felt that their mission was unappreciated. Instead of the respect and appreciation they deserved, they often encountered scorn. I am proud to say that this problem never was nearly as severe in Texas as it was in other parts of the country, but it was indeed a national ill, which persisted through the 1970s.

Since my visit to military bases two years ago, however, there has been a noticeable shift in public perception. Americans understand that we live in a dangerous world, and that a strong national defense capability is essential if we are to deter aggression and live in peace. Along with that realization has come a new appreciation for those who serve and that a strong national defense capability is essential if we are to deter aggression and live in peace. Along with that realization has come a new appreciation for those who serve in the military. I cannot overstate the importance of this change to armed services members.

Military service inevitably carries with it sacrifices not asked of those who work in the private sector. By joining the military, an individual agrees to give up much of his freedom to choose where he will work or even in what job. The men and women in our services more often than not work long hours without overtime pay. And they stand willwork long hours without overtime pay. And they stand willing to put their lives in danger to protect our nation.

Our greatest national defense asset is our people. They willingly make all of these sacrifices. They are bright, well-trained, professional and dedicated. We have a sacred obligation to keep faith with these outstanding people, to gay them adequately, to give them the tools they need to do the job we ask of them, and to recognize their contribution to our way of life.

the estimated interest on that amount is more than $130 billion, which happens to be far more than the entire budget deficit. Reducing the debt could be a long, hard grind, but it is a worthy goal of responsible government.

A suggestion several weeks ago by Representative Jim Collins could also help the cause. He proposes selling surplus federal property to serve the double purpose of eliminating administration and main-likely consequences of the ERA: the creation of unisex society. Both sides were probably correct.

Why the ERA lost will be analyzed in great depth in the months and years ahead. Let me add the observations of one whose main objection was the fact that approval of ERA would have resulted in a heyday for sleazy lawyers and buried us in an ocean of new litigation.

ERA lost, first, because it was not enough for its supporters to gather a simple majority. The Constitution of the United States, according to the wisdom of the Founding Fathers, is a document that is to be tampered with only after the most careful, deliberate consideration — and then only with the approval of three-fourths of the states not. only with the approval of three-fourths of the states, not

AMERICAN PURCHASING POWER HIGHEST, SURVEY SHOWS

During the past year in this column, I have complained about high interest rates, cited inflation as a major problem for small-business owners, urged lower deficits and a balanced budget, and raised other concerns of the small-business community. This time, some good news!

A survey just completed for the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) shows that while times may be tough in our country, we're still doing far better than people in Western Europe and the Soviet Union. The data was developed for a new NFIB poster called "What's the Difference."

The survey compares Soviet and Western living standards by recording the retail prices of selected consumer goods and services in Moscow, London, Paris, Munich and Washington in mid-March 1982. It computes the work-time equivalents of those prices. That is, the study shows how long a person must work to buy a pack of cigarettes, a basket of groceries

The good news is that in most instances, we Americans work fewer hours to obtain what we need or want than our counterparts in Great Britian, France, West Germany or the Soviet Union. The average monthly take-home pay for the American industrial worker is $984. That compares to $738 in Great Britian, $787 in France, $893 in Germany and $238 in the Soviet Union.

The figure accounts for deductions for medical insurance, taxes, social security and unemployment insurance where applicable. A note of interest to small-business owners: The author of the survey writes, "A deduction is made from the gross earnings of the German, French and British workers for unemployment insurance. No charge is made in the USSR where unemployment officially ceased in 1930. In the United States, the employer bears the total specific charge for unemployment insurance, (emphasis added). employment insurance (emphasis added).

How much better off are we? The American works 16.3 hours a week for a food basket sufficient for the "statistically average" family of 3.5 persons (Russian 46.8 hours, German 20.4, Frenchman 19.4, Britisher 22.5). The only surprise in the survey was monthly rent. Americans pay substantially higher rents than workers in any of the countries surveyed, and Moscow rents were the lowest of all.

A compact car, on the other hand, requires five months of work time in the U.S., 53 in Moscow, six in Munich, eight in Paris and 11 in London.

The NFIB poster—to be distributed late this summer—contains many more comparisons. If you would like to receive a copy, write NFIB POSTER, 600 Maryland Ave., S.W., Suite 695, Washington, D.C. 20024.

Strake, who is running for Lt. Governor, said he will discuss a variety of subjects in the weeks to come, in-cluding th New Federalism, the drunk driving problem, undocumented workers and education

Said Strake in his first column, 'I believe these columns will provide a unique opportunity to stimulate public discussion on these important issues."

The 47-year-old Houstonian said he hopes these columns will fill the void left by the incumbent's refusal to debate.

"I have challenged my opponent, Mr. Hobby, to a series of free wheeling debates on political issues, so both our views could be put before the people of Texas. We met in debate one time, in Houston. From all observers, Mr. Hobby lost and has announced that he will not debate again."

Also in his first column, Strake streesed the importance of the Lt. Governor's office, saying "It affects all our lives."

Speakers at the dedication were John Lofton of the Archer County Historical Commission and a Mr. Harvey of the Wichita Falls Historical Commission.

Among those attending were J.M. Weinzapfel, Victoria Gremminger, Evelyn Meurer, Julia Bright and James Bright of Muenster, also Msgr. Thomas Weinzapfel of Dallas and Hugh and Dora Jackson of Fort Worth.

The 18 x 28 official Texas historical marker is inscribed as follows.

"German native John H. Meurer (b. 1850)settled his family in this area about 1900 when he became a land agent for H.J. Scott of the Clark and Plumb Company. In settling over 60,000 acres of land, Meurer helped to establish the towns of Windthorst (6 mi. S) and Scotland (named for H.J. Scott), both primarily German Catholic settlements.

"Meurer had this one-

The house was erected as a contract job by Frank Luig at the same time the Otto home and St. Boniface Church were built. The community was served by the Henrietta and Southwestern Ry which extended some 40 miles from Henrietta to Archer City. The service was discontinued in 1918 and the material sold as scrap for World War 1. Materials for the house were purchased mostly in Scotland lumber yards and some were shipped from Gainesville. Other buildings on the site were a cellar, outhouse, wellhouse, barn, and stable for the buggy.

The house was and remains a showplace for the eastern part of Archer county and was the center for many parties, weddings and other events including the Meurer golden wedding in 1921, lasting for almost a week. John H. Meurer was born in Wuergas, Nassan, Germany, on Sept. 24, 1850. His family came to America 2 years later and settled in St. Louis. At the age of 21 he married Elizabeth Vandeven (born Nov. 14, 1850) in Holland). They moved to Bastrop in 1881, later to Muenster, and to Windthorst about 1900, becoming a land agent for H.J. Scott of Toronto and the Clark and Plumb Company. He colonized the Old Circle Ranch of 60,000 acres in which the towns of Windthorst and Scotland are located. When he came all was rangeland. When he died almost all was prosperous farms. Some of the land was purchased by Meurer himself enabling him later to provide each of his 12 children with a farm in the Windthorst-Scotland area. Along with the land activity he was influential in establishing the Henrietta to Archer City railroad, founding the town of Scotland and settling the town of Windthorst.

Forestburg News

The Forestburg Volunteer Fire Department met this past June. New officers were elected and they are as past June. New officers were elected and they are as follows: Fire Chief, Johnny Moseley; assr't fire cheif, Larry Dill and sec-treasurer, Ted Jackson. Some new rules were made. The building has been repaired, painted and put in good shape.

There is no one in the community or Forestburg area that would hesitate to call for the fire trucks if their property was one fire. Therefore, everyone should be interested in the Fire Department. When there is a fire the trucks have to have someone to drive them, it takes gas to run them and it takes money to keep the trucks and the building that houses them in shape. There will be monthly meetings every third Thursday at the fire hall. Won't you please take part and attend! There is no one in the

Veterans encouraged to use GI educational benefits

If you're an honorably discharged veteran, the United States government still owes you something in return for your military service—an education.

"These educational benefits should not be looked upon as 'giveaway' assistance,'' says Richard LaBarbera of Cooke County College, "they are an en-College, "they are an entitlement the veteran has earned."

LaBarbera, director of financial aid, placement and veteran services at Cooke County College, says it's easy to take advantage of these educational benefits.

easy to take advantage of these educational benefits.

"Many area veterans are not taking advantage of this opportunity because they're turned off by the bureaucratic red tape they think may be involved," he observes, "but what they don't realize is that our office is here expressly to handle all that for them."

LaBarbera explains that the first step for the veteran wanting to attend Cooke County College under his or her G.I. benefits program is to come by the Veteran Services office in the 100 building on campus.

He or she should bring along a certified copy of the DD 214 form or the certificate of eligibility (1990V). In some cases, veterans may be asked to supply documentation in

Each governing body of these taxing units may not adopt a rate that will increase tax revenues for operating purposes units may not adopt a fact that win increase tax revenues no operating purposes from properties taxed in 1981 without publishing notice in a newspaper that it is considering a tax increase and holding a hearing for taxpayers to discuss the tax increase. LaBarbera stresses that in order to receive and continue receiving monthly benefit payments, the veteran must not only be enrolled in school but must also be pursuing a stated "educational objective" or degree plan. Continued satisfactory progress toward achieving that objective also must be demonstrated.

"Here at Cooke County College, we have a staff of full-time academic counselors who are available to help the veteran decide which educational or vocational program best suits his or her needs and provide guidance in regard to seeing that these educational objectives are achieved," LaBarbera says.

The dollar amount of monthly benefit payments to veterans will depend upon the number of credit hours for which they are enrolled and the number of dependents. For example, a veteran enrolled full-time (12 or more hours) with one dependent is eligible for a monthly educational allowance of $407.

dependent is eligible for a monthly educational allowance of $407.

All honorably discharged veterans, LaBarbera explains, are eligible for one and a half months of educational benefits for each month of active duty served, up to a maximum of 45 months.

For Texas veterans who are no longer eligible for federal educational entitlement, LaBarbera has some good news. Under the state's Hazelwood Act, veterans' tuition and fees will be paid for any number some good news.
