Council okays two paving jobs

The weekend escalation of the civil war in Lebanon magnifies this country's dilemma over the advisability of keeping US peacekeeping troops over there. The big question is whether American national interest is better served by our effort to restrain the hostilities and especially whether our risk is justified by the benefits we receive.

It's an enormous problem as the nation is divided on the question of bringing our forces home. Prominent in favor of keeping them there are leaders of the Administration, like President Reagan, and Senator Tower, whereas the opposition is led by the top ranking Democrats. But the issue isn't completely partisan. Members of both sides, along with the media and the public are divided.

The President said his mind is clearly set on keeping the Marines over there. Senator Tower, following his fact finding tour, is in emphatic agreement. He said "I firmly believe that a Congressionally mandated withdrawal at this time would be disastrous for American influence in the area. Officials of every friendly nation I visited emphasized this point."

He continued that "Middle East leaders feel if American forces withdraw it would be seen as a Syrian victory against US, thus raising Syria's stature in the region. A withdrawal would also weaken the influence of Arab states friendly to the United States."

They also stated there would be practically no difference between setting a time limit on the presence of our forces and requiring their immediate withdrawal. They felt that Syrians and other opposing forces would refuse to negotiate, but rather would simply wait out the time limit.

On the other side of this issue we have a strong conviction that this is another Vietnam in which US will be the eventual loser and our peace keeping forces over there are only sitting ducks with the odds hopelessly stacked against them. They think a voluntary retreat on our principle is better than the forced retreat after lives are sacrificed.

The issue reflects the nation's division of principle in foreign affairs. With few exceptions since World War 2, America has been generous to the USSR in detente and trade and military agreements and has patiently tolerated cheating by the Reds on a vast variety of deals. As a result Russia has grown into super-power world menace, a threat to freedom everywhere. During the global expansion our country made a few efforts to restrain it, but without success.

Then came Reagan realizing that Russia is dangerously close to a take over, and freedom everywhere is threatened. He told the nation that the eleventh hour is here. It's time to stand our ground, to stop the Red advance and possibly even turn it back. That's why he resisted the Russian-Cuban conquest of Central America and stopped the Red take-over of Granada, why he's determined now to resist a Soviet created chaos, which is intended to lead to Pavement projects on Mesquite and Maple Streets, which originally were to be done by city workers, will be done by a paving company. The city council made that decision at its Monday night meeting and also approved advertising for bids on the two jobs.

Work is to be done in the summer, when favored by warm weather. On Mesquite Street it will extend four and a half blocks, from First to 150 feet north of Fifth. Also included are one block on First, Mesquite to Sycamore and one block on Third, Mesquite to Sycamore. On Maple it consists of separate strips north and south of existing pavement. North Maple will extend from Ninth to FM 373 and South Maple will extend from Third to Hwy. 82.

In other business the council approved a request by Muenster Jaycees for installation of a 250 gallon underground tank for disposal of waste beer in the city park. It is intended for use principally at Germanfest allowing elimination of steel barrels which are regarded as unsightly and in the way. Jaycees offered to pay for materials and work and the city approved.

Another approving vote was cast for a requested zoning change on Block 82 to allow construction of a duplex apartment. It becomes the exception to a rule requiring single residential locations.

Also the council appointed David Bright and Dan Bayer to the Muenster Water Board. Bright continues in the position, Bayer succeeds Michael Sloan. Previous members remaining are Ken McDougle, Al Walter and James Roark.

Finally, the city accepted the resignation, effective May 1, by Werner Yosten from the job of City Sanitation Superintendent and ordered that the city invite applications for a successor. Yosten has held the position ten years.

Stenholm will talk at Texoma agriculture conference

Rep. Charles Stenholm, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, will be the featured speaker Feb. 16 at the 13th Annual Texoma Agricultural Conference.

The conference, under the joint sponsorship of Texas Power and Light Co. and the Texoma Bankers Association, will be held in the Silver Wings Club at the West Campus of Grayson County College.

It is keyed on the theme of "Opportunities for Agriculture" and will span subjects as diverse as catfish farming and foreign trade. Stenholm, 17th District congressman, will address the group on the subject of "American Agriculture...the 80s...and Beyond".

The one-day event will begin with registration at 9:00 a.m. and will conclude with Stenholm's address at noon.

After a welcome by Grayson County College President Dr. Jim Williams, Rutherford Stough, a stocker operator from Rice, Texas, will relate the story of operating a profitable livestock operation on 88 acres.

Don Essary, a consultant affiliated with the Texas Quarter Horse Association, Amarillo, will discuss the growing economic impact of horses. Essary also will appraise the potential economic effects of Oklahoma's newly legalized pari-mutuel gambling as it affects Texas horses raisers.

Dr. Wayne Sharp, special assistant to the Vice Chairman of Republic Bank Dallas, will speak on foreign trade. After Dr. Sharp's address, a fisheries specialist from College Station will discuss the expanding market for farm-raised fish products, such as catfish, shrimp and crayfish.

Organizers expect around 200 registrants for the session. A $6.50 registration fee will be collected during the morning of Feb. 16. This fee covers all expenses of the conference including the luncheon.

John Wilson enters sheriff race

John Wilson, son of former Sheriff Carl Wilson, has announced his candidacy for Democratic nomination for the office of Cooke County sheriff.

As qualification for the office, Wilson refers to his study of law enforcement at Cooke County College and Texoma Police Academy and employment in the Cooke County Sheriff's Department for approximately 1 1/2 years, ending his tenure in May 1983. Currently he is employed at Weber Aircraft, where he has worked for 15 years.

He and his wife, Flora, own their home in Gainesville and have five children, Connie, Ronnie, Henry, Joyce and Carl.

If elected, he pledges to be a full time sheriff, working for all citizens of the county in a manner which would merit their approval and show his appreciation for their confidence.

City will cast ballots April 7

The Muenster City Council in regular session Monday night ordered an election to be held Saturday, April 7, to fill positions of three council members whose terms expire this year.

Persons whose terms expire are John Pagel, position 1; Aubrey Tuggle, position 2; and Bertha Hamric, position 4. Up to this time none of them has expressed intention to seek re-election. Other Council members, who will continue in office for another year, are Mayor Ronnie Felderhoff, Ted Henseid and Willie Wimmer.

Persons who wish to get their names on the election ballot are reminded of the filing deadline at least 30 days before the election. The candidacy may be filed with City Secretary Celine Dittfurth at the City Hall on or before March 7.

Fatima statue comes to parish

Special planning is under way in Sacred Heart Parish this week to observe a visit by the Pilgrim Virgin Statue of Our Lady of Fatima.

This is the statue which was blessed on May 13, 1967 by Pope Paul VI with the request that it be kept in the United States and moved about in pilgrimage. Presently it is in the Fort Worth Diocese and will be in Sacred Heart Parish for one day of that time.

The statue of Our Lady of Fatima is expected here next Tuesday, February 14. It will be formally welcomed to the church in ceremonies beginning at 6 p.m. The ceremony starts with a procession from Sacred Heart High School by the parish organizations and their families. The organizations are urged to head their groups with banners.

Services will consist of rosary, litany, homily and benediction, after which the statue will be in exposition through the night. Services beginning at 8 a.m. Wednesday will consist of showing an assortment of slides relative to the miracle of Fatima followed by recitation of the rosary. Last on the schedule is an 11:15 Mass and departure of the statue by noon.

People of area parishes are encouraged to come during the visit and especially during the spare time between early morning service and Mass.

Meaning of the cross

WHAT DOES the cross mean to you? Recently a group of Christians was asked this question. Some of the answers given are: The cross is empty; this reminds me that Christ lives today. The cross is a symbol of love; it reminds us of what Christ did for us, as He gave his life; no one could take it from him. It reminds me that Christ died; but that He lives again. It reminds me that we have eternal life; the cross is an open door to heaven.

I doubt if any of the above statements make much sense to a lost person. Paul explains it this way in I Cor. 1:17-18: "For Christ did not send me to baptize, but to preach the gospel, not in cleverness of speech, but that the cross of Christ should not be made void. For the word of the cross is to those who are perishing foolishness, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God."

Although Paul did baptize some, it is clear from this statement that he did not consider the baptizing of others to be his primary calling or even to be an absolute necessity for salvation.

Paul considered his job to be the preaching of how Jesus died on the cross, and to this end he devoted the remainder of his life. However, the same was true then as is true now. Many heard the plan of salvation but failed to accept Christ as their Lord and Savior. Those on the outside saw the works of Jesus but did not see God working redemptively through his Son. They heard the words of Jesus and Paul without hearing the truth in the words.

In Mark 4:12 Jesus put it this way: "That seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should be converted, and their sins should be forgiven them." Even today, how many times do we hear God's word proclaimed, but we do not understand; that is, we don't really hear the message; we only hear the words.

God longs to forgive every person. This forgiveness is not blocked because God blinds a person's eyes, but because one is unwilling to see, his need. When a person is blind to his sin, he will be blind to his sin to yield in faith.

The parables that Jesus spoke were given to reveal the truth. However, they remained only parables or riddles to those who lacked the disposition to believe. To those who believed in Christ and heard the message of the cross preached by Paul or the parables spoken by Jesus, it was to them as it is to Christians now, the power of God speaking.

"Make me an offer"

American automakers have begun to produce good cars at reasonable prices, but there is one other big change the industry can make to compete with foreigners: drop the antiquated frontier tradition in selling cars to the public.

If you go to buy virtually any other commodity in America, the price is marked and that's what you pay. Even when you buy a house, you may do some haggling but you do it through a broker who's acting primarily on your behalf. Sometimes Toyota and Volkswagen dealers act like American car salesmen, but the tradition with them is that the sticker price bears some resemblance to the actual selling price of the car.

But as every car-buyer knows, that's not the case with Ford, GM and Chrysler. Buying a car from an American auto dealer is not a civilized activity; it's a process directly descended from buying a horse in the Wild West. It is an eyeball-to-eyeball test of guile, bargaining skill and macho.

On the frontier, though, the horse buyer usually knew something about horses and how to judge their value. The modern car buyer suffers through the process once every five or six years and — unaware of the tricks of the trade — almost always comes out feeling humiliated, suspecting that he or she has been cheated or at least has made far less good of a deal than was possible.

Millions of people take the easy alternative of moving down the street to buy a foreign car, as I did once before I learned the secret of how to buy an American car painlessly. I will tell the secret in a minute. First, I want to tell why my wife drives a Datsun station wagon.

I intended to buy a Plymouth or a Dodge and help save the Chrysler Corp. We test-drove the cars and like them. We said to the Plymouth salesman: "We're going to shop around a little, but tell us, to save time, how much is this car going to cost. We know the sticker doesn't mean anything."

The salesman said: "You make an offer and I'll try to meet your price."

In these circumstances, you feel utterly at a loss. Do you bid $500 under the sticker price? $1,000? If you've done some research, you can guess at the probable dealer markup, but is a fair offer $100 over cost or $200? And if you figure this out, you still haven't hassled over your trade-in or gotten taken on the cost of options.

"Look," I told the salesman, "tell me what you're selling this car for, within the ballpark. If I find it's close to the best I can do, I'll be back. I want to buy an American car."

Instead of responding with the price, he sneered: "Well, hoist the flag."

Unfreeze Alaskan oil

THOUGH UNUSUALLY bitter weather has had much of America in a deep freeze since Thanksgiving, heating fuel continues to be plentiful. It's not as inexpensive as we would like; but it never will be again. That's wishful thinking. The best we can hope for is price stability and plenty, both of which seem assured for the immediate future.

That doesn't mean the U.S. should become complacent. At their most recent meeting, the OPEC oil ministers elected again not to raise prices. But that's not because they're less greedy than a few years ago; it's because there's a lot of excess oil in the world marketplace.

And if the U.S. is smart, it will add to OPEC's problems by putting Alaskan crude oil back on the energy market, lessening the world's dependence on Persian Gulf oil even further.

But this is not easily done. Federal legislation has been blocking the free commercial export of Alaskan oil and natural gas for the past decade.

Blocking the overseas sale of Alaskan crude oil has resulted in an oil glut in that state. Because of that, half of

I decided I wasn't going to buy a car from this guy no matter what the deal was. I felt like reporting him to Lee Iacocca. We went to a Dodge dealer and asked a salesman how much that station wagon would cost. "Make me an offer," he said.

We played the game this time. We haggled, we guessed and we felt like fools, but we made an offer and — joy of joys — it was accepted.

The next day, however, we got a call from the dealer. "Sorry, there's been a mistake," said the salesman. "To get cloth seats you have to buy the wood applique option. That will be $400 more."

Instead, without haggling or hassling, we bought the Datsun, with cloth seats, without phony wood-colored applique and for $400 less than the Dodge. Nearly 50,000 miles later, it runs flawlessly.

But I'm proud and happy to say I've just bought an American car to replace my dying '69 VW, and I did so without the pain and without testing my manhood and feeling that I'd lost.

How? In Washington — unfortunately, though, only in Washington — there is a man named Al Jacobs, who runs a firm called Auto Search Inc. For $190, Jacobs will figure out with you what kind of car is best for your needs and budget, scour the area for the best deal, set up the test-drive, close the deal and intervene with the dealer if something goes wrong later.

The service is worth far more than $190. First, Jacobs is a professional car buyer who spends all his time studying the qualities and costs of various models. His idea of a weekend of fun is to test-drive cars, in fact. He knows how much dealers are getting on markups, which cars are selling slowly and can be had for lower prices and what the true cost of various options is. He figures he saves the average buyer $300 and I believe him.

He saves more yet in psychological wear and tear on the buyer. He takes the same fee whether you're buying a Jaguar or a Chevette, so he has no incentive to put you into a bigger car than you need. He takes no money from dealers, but dealers want to be on his good side because he does a lot of auto business every year.

Every town in America ought to have an Al Jacobs and I wonder why they don't. His business is the perfect free enterprise answer to the traumas of American car-buying. But since every town doesn't have one, the auto industry should help save itself by convincing franchisees to take sales out of the Wild West and into the 20th century.

The Constitution's role

WE ARE privileged to live in a republic which uses the democratic process to select those individuals who will govern us. It should be obvious then, that in order to be able to make these selections rationally, the voting public should have a broad understanding of the principles, composition and function of the nation's fundamental law.

Unfortunately, this is not the case. A representative of the American Bar Association stated before a congressional committee that "studies...have documented that the public has really...at best, an imperfect understanding of the Constitution's living role in a democratic society."

This is a very polite, un-stated way of saying that the voting public in general, is abysmally ignorant of the Constitution. This is largely responsible for the erosion and perversion of the original intent of the Founders and the actual principles of the Constitution.

America's students become her citizens and leaders. We can gauge what these future voters know about our government, by examinations administered in the schools. We can be relatively certain, these individuals will reflect a similar point of view when they become voters. After all, preparing youth to participate fully in society, including their government, is one of the major functions of education.

In hearing before the Constitutional Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1981, professor emeritus Richard B. Morris of Columbia University, testified:

"Granted the Constitution's central place in American political life, it is hardly disputable that the public's understanding of the Constitution is at a low ebb, and that young people completing high school take with them an abysmal sum of ignorance about the constitutional system of this Nation."

"In the two national assessments of performance on citizenship, made first in 1969, and the second as recently as 1976, it was disturbing to find that test scores declined. More disturbing was the revelation that scores on citizenship and social studies declined more than those in reading, writing, and science."

"Half the students...thought that the President could appoint Members of Congress. Only a little more than half of the 17-year olds...knew that each State has two Senators. Less than half of the 17-year olds...knew that appointments to the Supreme Court must be confirmed by the Senate while a big majority of the 17-year olds felt that a two-thirds vote by the Justices of the Supreme Court was necessary to declare a law unconstitutional."

The classic "text", since 1922, for assisting American citizens in gaining a knowledge of the Constitution has been The Constitution of the United States: Its Sources and Its Applications by Thomas James Norton, one of the country's outstanding constitutional lawyers.

In the 1950's, Mr. Norton wrote a follow-up book, Undermining the Constitution: A History of Lawless Government. It was necessary to do so, he said, "to make known to the American people the manner in which the Constitution...is surely being demolished by clever, irresponsible men in every branch of the Federal Government."

Do you intend to remain a part of the problem — or to become a part of the solution? Your future freedom depends upon your answer!

another step in Soviet world conquest.

America's mission in the Middle East is to calm down the Arabs and defuse the bomb which threatens to plunge the area into confusion, thereby enabling the Soviets to move in and take over.

As regards keeping our forces in Lebanon, the issue really needs to be considered from the eventual viewpoint. Does US, as the one side maintains, propose to stop our peacekeeping effort and allow the Red plan of conquest to proceed? Or does it agree with Reagan that his policy offers the best chance for the success of peace?

The question is a tough one, and nobody in the country can be faulted for how he answers it. As we look at it now the issue involves a gamble of lives or abandonment of our resolve to resist the Red menace.

Alaska's oil is being shipped to the East and Gulf coasts at considerable cost (ultimately paid by us, the consumers) The East and Gulf coasts can purchase oil more economically, however, from other sources. Moreover, the glut has discouraged additional domestic oil exploration.

A recent study by energy experts Milton Copulos and S. Fred Singer shows that by lifting the restrictions on the export of Alaskan oil and gas, Congress could slice $1.5 billion from the budget deficit, improve America's balance of trade with Japan — which would be a prime market — and make it unnecessary to build the proposed $2-billion pipeline from Alaskan oil fields to the Midwest.

By putting more oil and gas on the world market, the analysts say, Alaskan exports "would reduce the need for OPEC oil, and apply downward pressure on the world oil price — to the benefit of the industrialized countries and oil-importing developing nations alike."

Noting that Alaskan oil and gas reserve estimates have grown over the past several years, Singer and Copulos say those who oppose the export of Alaskan gas and oil are at worst bull-headed and at best inconsistent. For example, there are no such prohibitions on the export of refined oil products, such as gasoline and fuel oil. "It seems strange, therefore, that there should be a prohibition against exporting crude oil."

In the event of an oil embargo, even an embargo coupled with production cutbacks, "the market could take over and adjust the available supply...to the demand," they say. A production cutback would result in higher prices for all oil. "This redistribution of oil would be entirely automatic, acting in response to the normal market forces, not government policies," Singer and Copulos say.

Let's hope Congress learned something when President Reagan lifted oil price controls: that without government interference the energy market works more efficiently and benefits American consumers more than when government bureaucrats try to manage the world's energy supplies from their grey-hole office in Washington. If they did, they will give OPEC another well-deserved nudge by lifting the lid on Alaskan oil.

Casualty, Theft Losses Now Subject To New Limitation

Due to changes brought about by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982, a new limitation has been placed on deductions for casualty and theft losses for tax years beginning after December 31, 1982, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Taxpayers who suffered nonbusiness losses during 1983 will only be able to deduct that portion of the loss that is more than ten percent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income for that year. However, the loss must first be reduced by a separate $100 limitation. Taxpayers who suffer more than one loss during the year will, after reducing each loss by $100, add the balances together and then reduce that total by ten percent of their adjusted gross income.

Loss of personal property due to theft or casualty—defined as the complete or partial destruction or loss of property due to an identifiable event that is sudden, unexpected, or unusual in nature and that is damaging to personal property—is deductible, subject to the above noted limitations, if it exceeds insurance or other reimbursement received.

Taxpayers who claim these deductions on their federal income tax returns may be called on to substantiate the amount of the loss. Receipts and photographs, especially of valuable items, can be extremely helpful in establishing and substantiating the allowable deductions.

To determine the amount of loss for each item claimed, you should know the adjusted basis of the item, and its fair market value just before and after the loss. If the item is lost or completely destroyed, the loss is usually the basis or fair market value just before the loss, whichever is less. If the item is damaged, the loss may be measured by the cost of repairing the item.

For example, say you bought a new upholstered chair four years ago for $200. In April a fire completely destroyed the chair, and you estimate that replacing it will cost $250. If there had been no fire and you had tried to sell the old chair, you estimate that you could have sold it for only $50 because it was four years old and used. Therefore, your loss is limited to $50, the decrease in value of the old chair, and not $250, the replacement value. Also bear in mind that after all the losses from the fire were totalled, you would subtract the $100 limitation to arrive at your deduction for that loss. Total losses for the year that are more than 10 percent of your adjusted gross income can then be deducted on your federal tax return. As previously mentioned, you must reduce your casualty loss by the amount of insurance or other type of reimbursement you receive.

If improvements have been made to property, such as an addition to a house, or if it is business or rental property and depreciation is allowed, the basis of the property must be adjusted to reflect these amounts.

Relatives attend double funeral in Hereford

Martin Becker, Werner Becker, Jr., Herbie Knabe and Gilbert Hess recently attended funeral services in Hereford for Philip D. Carnahan, 28 and Larry R. Lomas, 29, two Hereford brothers-in-law. They were fatally injured when a tractor-trailer rig overturned about two miles from Hereford as they were returning from Dumas. Both victims were Hereford farmers and truck drivers.

Information was sent to The Enterprise by Mrs. Frank Knabe, grandmother of Carnahan's widow, Jeanette.

Survivors of Philip Carnahan include his wife and five children; and his parents, a brother and two sisters. Survivors of Larry Lomas include his wife Jeanne and three children; his parents, grandparents and a brother.

Stolen 18-wheeler recovered

Three persons suspected of the theft of a Peterbilt 18-wheel tractor and trailer rig in Muenster on Jan. 15 were apprehended in Ardmore Monday, according to information received Tuesday from Chief of Police Helen Tompkins. The rig, owned by Bob Lee, was taken from its customary parking location at the Fina Station.

Officer Tompkins said that recovery of the truck and trailer can be credited to the long hours of hard work by John Aston of the Cooke

County Sheriff's Department, along with the cooperation of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation and the Carter County Sheriff's Department.

Tompkins said the three suspects are in custody at Ardmore awaiting charges, adding that the full extent of charges remains to be determined. She said that charges may be filed in Carter County for possession of a stolen vehicle and also in Cooke County for theft of the vehicle.

Retirees Should Review Tax Status of Pensions, Annuities

Retirees receiving pensions or annuities should carefully review the tax status of that income in order to decide whether to permit tax withholding on these payments, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Federal income tax is now generally withheld from pension and annuity payments. However, this withholding is not compulsory; any person can apply for exemption. The payer of the pension or annuity payments will tell the retiree how to file for the exemption.

To determine whether to have tax withheld, taxpayers should review the rules that cover pensions and annuities. A pension to which an employee contributed nothing during his or her employment, for example, is fully taxable in much the same way salaries and wages are during working years. The full amount must be reported as income on the line designated for fully taxable pensions and annuities on Form 1040. The 1040A and 1040EZ forms cannot be used to report pension income, the IRS said.

On the other hand, a pension to which both the employer and employee contributed, while not fully taxable, is partially taxable and is subject to special tax reporting.

If a retiree will recover his or her total contributions within 36 months after the first payment is received, then the annuity payments are not taxed until the contributions are recovered. This is because the contributions were taxed while the person was employed.

Those who will not recover their contributions within a 36-month period are entitled to exclude from taxable income a certain percentage of their pensions each year. Normally, the issuer of the pension will compute the exclusion percentage—the figure that determines how much of a pension can be excluded from income. The exclusion percentage, once computed, does not change, the IRS added. If the issuer of the pension does not compute this percentage, instructions can be found in the free IRS Publication 575, Pension and Annuity Income.

This publication will have the answers to most questions on the tax treatment of pensions and annuities, and can be ordered by using the handy order form found in each tax package.

In addition, for persons 60 years of age and over, free tax counseling is available through local IRS-coordinated Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) programs. Through these programs, specially trained volunteers provide tax assistance on such matters as tax credit for the elderly, special treatment of the gain on the sale of a home by those age 55 and over, the proper method of reporting certain pension income and paying tax on it when necessary, and other subjects of special interest and concern to older persons. The volunteers also help fill out the tax returns, the IRS said.

Those who are eligible, and need the assistance of this program, should call the IRS for information.

Sharon Sicking, Darrell Swirczynski united in Sacred Heart nuptial

Sharon Sicking became the bride of Darrell Swirczynski on Jan. 21, in a Saturday morning nuptial Mass at 10:00 in Sacred Heart Church. Father Victor Gillespie officiated for the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Sicking of Muenster and the groom is the son of Roy Swirczynski of Valley View and the late Marilyn Stofels. Both are graduates of Sacred Heart High School. She is employed by Fuhrmann's Jewelry and he is employed by Glenn's Paint and Body Shop.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a formal white wedding gown of Chantilly lace. It was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline adorned with tiny bridal pearls and beads, and a stand-up lace collar. Sleeves of lace were long and tapered. The fitted lace bodice was attached to a full tiered skirt which swept into an aisle-wide chapel train. To complete her attire, the bride selected a headpiece of Venise lace adorned with pearls and beads, and an attached veil, sprinkled with Venise lace motifs. The double tiered veil extended to the length of the train.

She carried a cascade of white silk roses, tiny red rosebuds and white baby's breath with long white ribbons.

Attendants

Rose Sicking of Arlington was her sister's maid of honor and Carla Walterscheid, a close friend was bridesmaid. They wore formal red gowns and carried white fans with red roses and long white ribbon streamers.

Keith Hess, uncle of the groom was best man and Glenn Hess, a friend was groomsman.

Chris and Robert Sicking, brothers of the bride and Brad Henscheid and Donnie Lutkenhaus, friends of the groom were ushers.

meal in the Sacred Heart Community Center.

Dolores Stark and Ann Sicking, sisters of the bride, secured guest signatures. The registration table held a decoupage invitation in a heart shaped frame.

Two floral arrangements in Lotus bowls were placed on the bride's table. All decorations were made by Mrs. Arnold Knabe including a simulated window with drapery, hearts and flowers.

The three tiered white wedding cake, placed over a lighted fountain, was decorated with tiny red rosebuds by Betty Rose Walterscheid. Amy Henscheid and Kelly Hennigan assisted in serving the cake.

From the reception, the couple departed for a wedding trip to Colorado. Since their return they are at home in Muenster.

The rehearsal dinner hosted by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Bob Swirczynski, was held at The Center on Sunday, Jan. 15.

Sue and Art Endres return from Arizona

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Endres returned Saturday evening from a five week stay in sunny Arizona, except for the first week when the area experienced an unseasonable rainy spell.

They headquartered in Tucson, enjoyed visiting friends met during other vacations there and made short side trips in the area. Among friends visited were Mr. and Mrs. Pat McCallion and family. Mrs. McCallion is a daughter of the late Leo Rohmers, and a former Muenster resident.

One of the unusual and very delightful treats was being able to sit in the lodge near window-walls, and watch area wildlife come close to feast on bits of food scattered to entice them.

Non-credit mini-courses offered at CCC for senior citizens

"It's never too late to experience the fun of learning," says Dr. Eddie Hadlock of Cooke County College in announcing a special program of non-credit courses to be offered free to local and area senior citizens beginning in February.

Dr. Hadlock, dean of Continuing Education at CCC, says that senior citizens will be able to choose from among five different "mini-courses" with enrollment restricted exclusively to older students.

"The term 'senior citizen' is sometimes confusing," says Dr. Hadlock, "so we're opening these special classes to anyone who is retired, regardless of age."

"We also want to emphasize that there will be no enrollment fee, although students in some classes may be required to furnish their own materials or supplies."

All classes will meet once a week for 10 consecutive weeks, with each class lasting for from two to three hours depending on the subject matter.

Classes to be offered include:

— Oil Painting, to meet from 9 to 11:30 a.m. with students given a choice to either Wednesdays or Fridays. Instructor for the classes will be Mary Lou Underwood, and instruction will be given for both beginners and more advanced students. Both Wednesday and Friday classes will be limited to no more than 15 students.

— Beginning Drawing, to meet from 1 to 3:30 p.m. on Tuesdays. Debbie Sullivan will be the instructor, and although the class is aimed principally at beginners, more advanced students will be welcome also.

— Photography, with students given the option of meeting either on Mondays or Wednesdays from 12:15 to 2:55 p.m. Instructor John Boykin will cover basic photographic technique with attention given to composition and lighting, and students also will be introduced to fundamental darkroom procedures.

— Woodworking, to be taught by Jess Walla and offered from 1 to 4 p.m. on Thursdays. Students in this class may learn or enhance woodworking skills or work on furniture refinishing techniques in CCC's fully equipped woodshop.

— Spanish Heritage and Language Principles, to meet from 1 to 3 p.m. on Tuesdays. Instructor Eduardo Scheel of the CCC foreign language faculty says that students will gain a fundamental knowledge of Spanish, including basic grammar and vocabulary, with special emphasis placed on the cultural, historical and social foundations of the language.

Beginning date for classes meeting on Mondays is February 13; Tuesday classes will begin February 14; Wednesday classes will begin on February 15; classes meeting on Thursdays will begin February 16; and February 17 is the first day for Friday classes.

It's very important that everybody is aware that these classes are limited in the number of students we can enroll," Dr. Hadlock points out. "For that reason, we encourage interested persons to call our office as soon as possible, and not later than February 10, to reserve a space in the class of their choice."

The number to call is (817) 668-7731, Ext. 220. Oil painting and drawing classes will be held at the Arts Activities center at the corner of Denton and Main streets in downtown Gainesville, with all other classes being held on the CCC campus.

A minimum enrollment of 10 students will be required for each class.

Daughter of former resident marries at Jacksonville, Fla.

The wedding of Mary Alice Pappas and George Francis Grawe, Jr. was held in St. John The Divine Greek Orthodox Church in Jacksonville, Florida on Jan. 28. Father Paul Costopoulos and Father Demetrius Cochell officiated for the candlelight services at 6:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Pappas of Jacksonville. She is also the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trubenbach of Muenster. Mrs. John Pappas is the former Florentine Trubenbach.

For her wedding attendants, the bride chose her sister, Pamela Toundas as matron of honor and another sister, Tina Pappas as maid of honor.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Francis Grawe, Sr. of Vero Beach, Florida. Serving as best men were his brother-in-law, William M. Toundas of Jacksonville and a friend, Joe Saunders of Miami.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown. It was designed of white bridal satin with complete overlay of white net and lace appliques. Each lace applique was outlined with bridal beads. The skirt, with two back pleats, swept into a cathedral length train.

Fresh flowers in the bride's wreath held her mother's illusion double-tiered veil.

Heather, sent from a family friend in England, centered the bridal bouquet. It was surrounded with pastel mixed flowers. A six-pence was another gift from England.

MRS. GEORGE FRANCIS GRAWE, JR.

The matron and maid of honor both wore palest Nile green satin waltz-length dresses, with slippers dyed to match. Their flowers were similar to the bride's.

Muted organ music was presented during the church service. All Greek music entertained during the reception and dance in the Jacksonville Hilton. Three hundred guests attended the seated dinner.

The groom's 93 year old grandmother was a special guest. Among other guests attending were Mrs. Alice Hellman, aunt of the bride, of Muenster and Dr. and Mrs. Monte Hellman, cousins of the bride, of Dallas. Other relatives included Mr. and Mrs. George Proctor of Atlanta, Ga. and Fred Sparks of Fort Benning, Ga.

The bride is a Cum Laude graduate of the University of Florida and Stichting Nijenrode International School of Finance in The Netherlands. She is employed at Allstate International Architecture in Tampa, Florida.

The groom was graduated from the University of Florida and is attending Stetson University College of Law in Gulfport, Fla. and will receive his law degree in May.

Following a skiing trip to the North Carolina Mountains, the couple will reside in Tampa.

Growing Child

P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902 (317) 423-2624

This article is the first in a series of three articles about sibling fighting from Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Settling Sibling Disputes

One of the major obstacles to harmonious relationships among siblings is the constant arguing, bickering, and fighting that goes on between them.

You probably won't be able to eliminate all such interaction, but you can help your children learn to settle their disputes in constructive ways. This will help them understand and feel better about each other so they'll be less apt to fight when they disagree (perhaps even when you are not around as well!).

Following are some guidelines from Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, to help you help your children settle their disputes more amicably and with respect for each other.

* When your children argue or fight over something, try to get the whole story of what caused the problem before jumping to conclusions and blaming or punishing anyone. Even in a situation where a child seems to hurt a younger sibling who can't tell his side of the story, give the child a chance to tell hers.

For example, say to her, "You must really have been mad at the baby to hit him," and then let her explain. Let her know her angry feelings are acceptable but that you can't let her hit him.

* In an argument between two children who can both talk, give each a chance to tell her point of view. You can help this process by describing the situation rather than judging it: "It looks like you two can't agree on which television program to watch. You both seem pretty upset. Want to tell me about it? Laurie, you go first. Then Joey, I want to hear your side of the story." This kind of approach will save a lot of hurt feelings and resentment between your children, and it will help them learn to settle disputes themselves without fighting.

* After each child has had a chance to tell her or his point of view in a dispute, help each also see the other's side of the situation. If you try to convince a child (or an adult) that the other person is right, she will resist you because you're saying at the same time that she is wrong. On the other hand, if you can show each child that you understand and accept her side, then she'll be more willing to also listen to the other's side.

At this point, with your continuing help in translating each child's feelings to the other as needed, they should be able to work out some sort of compromise. You've helped them over this particular conflict and shown them a model they can learn to use to settle differences in the future, both with each other... and with others.

Next: "Avoid taking sides in sibling disputes."

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information and a free sample newsletter, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Avoid Taking Sides in Sibling Disputes

Who says parents must be referees in their children's fights?

Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, suggests encouraging your children to settle their own differences and disputes when they can. You should resist becoming a referee in their fights and squabbles, especially when they ask you to assess blame, settle the argument, and punish one of them.

You can help them learn how to do this by instituting "thinking chairs" or "talk-it-over chairs" in your home. Whenever an argument erupts, the participants have to go to their chairs and either think it over or talk it over until the situation calms down. In any dispute, both people contribute in some way, and they both need to compromise in order to resolve the situation. Once they've begun to learn how to do this with your help, encourage them to begin doing it on their own: "Dana, I'm sorry Doug hurt your feelings. Why don't you try to find out why he got so mad and try to let him know how you feel?" Be sure to praise and compliment them when they resolve conflicts in this and other constructive ways.

Don't force your children to "make-up" and lie about their feelings following a dispute. For example, don't direct a child to "Go tell Baby you love him," or "Go say you're sorry." Probably she doesn't feel either loving or sorry at the moment and she'll feel even less so after you make her say she does when she doesn't. She'll feel misunderstood by you and angry and resentful of her sibling, even if she did something to him she doesn't feel good about.

When you take sides in a dispute between your children and you force them to mend their fences before they're ready to do so, you increase the chances of further hostility between them later, particularly when you're not near. Once each child has had her "day in court" and feels someone understands her viewpoint, she's much more likely to apologize or make-up on her own. And each time a dispute is settled by bringing out honest feelings on both sides, the hostility is lessened, thus decreasing the chances of similar disputes in the future.

Sewing Tips

from Joy's Fabrics

How to sew on buttons so they stay sewn on: Use a double strand of thread, and for extra strength run the thread through beeswax. Beeswax is an inexpensive handy sewing aid that can be purchased at most Fabric Shops.

If you desire a "fashion" button on fragile fabric or areas that take a lot of stress use a small flat button with the same number of holes for a reinforcement. Place the flat button inside the garment and sew through both buttons at the same time.

To make a shank button from a sew-through button, mark the button location with a small stitch through the fabric; place a toothpick or round match on top of button; sew through holes of button, sewing over the toothpick. Remove toothpick and wrap thread tightly around the thread under button, creating a shank. Anchor thread with a few little stitches under button.

Hearty Stews Chase Winter Chills

In Winter Barley Stew, barley's wholesome wholegrain flavor and pleasantly chewy texture complement a quartet of favorite stew ingredients. Select the style of barley which best suits the recipe you plan to prepare. Longer cooking Scotch Brand Pearled Barley is used in Winter Barley Stew because the barley and beef cubes require about the same amount of cooking time. Scotch Brand Quick Pearled Barley can be prepared in just 10 minutes, making it the perfect choice for soups and side dishes as well as quick-to-prepare one-dish meals.

Winter Barley Stew

|---|---|
| 2 tablespoons vegetable oil                 | 1 cup water                                 |
| 2 lb. beef stew meat, cut into 1-inch cubes | 1/2 cup Quaker Scotch Brand Pearled Barley* |
| 1 cup chopped onion                         | 1 teaspoon salt                             |
| 2 cups carrot slices                        | 1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed          |
| 1 can (16 oz.) whole tomatoes               | 1 bay leaf                                  |
| 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce                  | 1 clove garlic, crushed                     |
- In 4-qt. saucepan or Dutch oven, heat oil. Add stew meat and onion; brown meat on all sides. Add carrot; cook just until tender (5 to 10 min.). Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Cover; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer, covered, about 1 to 1-1/2 hours or until meat and barley are tender, stirring occasionally. Makes 6 to 8 servings.
*NOTE: Substitute 3/4 cup Quaker Scotch Brand Quick Pearled Barley, if desired. Add barley after stew has simmered 40 minutes. Continue simmering about 20 minutes or until meat and barley are tender.

On a chilly evening, there's nothing quite as welcoming as a steaming bowl of stew. Hearty, satisfying and flavorful, stews can be the starting point for a bounty of budget-stretching winter meals.

Like most one-dish meals, stews give the cook many advantages. They can be prepared in advance and refrigerated or frozen. Many stews actually benefit from reheating because the flavors have a chance to mingle. Stews are easy to prepare, and last minute preparation is minimal when stew is on the menu. A salad and bread may be the only accompaniments you'll need.

Stews are versatile, too. Most stews can move easily from family dinner table to party buffet by simply doubling the recipe ingredients. Variety is no problem either. Since every country has one or more traditional recipes, there's a stew to fit every cook's taste and budget.

Budget-stretching stewing chickens and less tender cuts of meat are perfect for the stew pot. Beef chuck, pork and lamb shoulder, beef short ribs and lamb shanks are less expensive than their more tender counterparts. And, they benefit from the long, slow cooking process. For additional savings, stock-up on meat and poultry specials. Buy as much as you can use, date and freeze in moisture-vaporproof wrap. Cutting up whole chickens and cubing meat before freezing saves preparation time later and hastens thawing.

Meat alone does not a stew make, however. Seasonal vegetables and a cereal grain, such as barley, are the other essential ingredients. Both impart important nutrients as well as satisfying flavor for mere pennies a serving.

Twenty Years of Service, Spirit, Pride...

MUENSTER MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

"To Your Good Health"

Few topics fire such fierce debate as the future of small town and rural community health programs. We've been besieged recently by endless rhetoric painting a bleak picture of middle America's medical service woes. Strangely enough, amid all this bantering back and forth, a number of community hospitals and rural health care programs continue not only to operate professionally and efficiently, but to excel.

Such is obviously the case here in Muenster. The history of the hospital is an exceptional one, as recounted in an accompanying feature in this special issue. And, the facilities and programs that have resulted from all the trials, tears, hard work and vision are also exceptional: if you don't think that health care in Muenster is something above the ordinary, just take some time and look around.

It is rare to find a community of this size that can boast of such a fine facility as Muenster Memorial Hospital. It is also rare to find both staff and support personnel with such broad professional backgrounds and medical expertise.

It is essential for any rural community to attract and maintain good medical professionals if it wishes to provide quality health care for its citizens. Obviously, the community must first provide attractive, efficient facilities if it wishes to lure top professionals. Secondly, the community must make itself attractive.

An "attractive community" can, of course, be a matter of personal taste. Yet in most cases, a few basic rules hold forth.

Those in the medical profession differ little from other walks of life in demanding good schools for their children, the opportunity for religious expression, a viable marketplace, and a serene and safe living environment.

Yet the very nature of the medical profession also demands from its support community an exceptional spirit; a fairsightedness, an ability to realize the future and to work together to achieve that future. Negativity doesn't build hospitals, staff them properly, grow and change with the constantly evolving technology and unique demands of a science that must remain two steps ahead of itself simply for survival's sake.

We have seen community leaders fail at providing modern health care for their citizens simply because they could not realize the tremendous effort involved in doing so. On the other hand, communities like Muenster have found leadership that believed in providing the best possible health care, and have sacrificed to make their dreams reality. The difference seems to be that community spirit we've been talking about, something intangible that no one can quite put their finger on. Yet it can only come about when people believe in themselves, in their community, and in the possibilities of the future.

The people of Muenster are naturally proud of their hospital and the men and women who make it excel. We think this feeling is shared on both sides. But providing health care is like running on a treadmill. The demands and the changes, the needs and the opportunities, just go on and on.

So work always remains to be done. New leaders will shoulder responsibility, new dialogues will be established between the medical community and those they serve. It's the responsibility we shoulder for the well-being of those we love.

One Very Big Reason ...

Muenster must cite many factors responsible for our prosperity. One very big reason is the fine hospital and its staff which serves this area.

Local auxiliary notable asset to hospital

The life of Muenster Memorial Hospital is closely matched by that of the Hospital Auxiliary, which has been a notable asset of the hospital over the years. Organized for the sole purpose of supporting and advancing the aims of the hospital, the auxiliary has fully met that commitment.

A primary function of the auxiliary has been to raise funds for the purchase of equipment and other needs of the hospital. The members proved themselves in that respect through such projects as ice cream suppers, plays and musical reviews, sale of various items and other undertakings.

Their first major purchase was a much needed, defibrillator and cardiac monitor. Others were an anesthesia ventilator, a fully equipped X-Ray reading room, examining and intensive care beds and an assortment of lesser items.

Another prime effort of the auxiliary has been and remains support of the Red Cross blood drive conducted twice each year. With the first visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in 1968 the Auxiliary has handled the registration and canteen functions of each drive.

In addition to on-going support of the hospital, the auxiliary has made significant contributions to the cultural development of the community by enlisting its members and others to participate in plays and musical presentations.

Tragedy claimed surgeon

Muenster lost a friend and area health care suffered a tragedy in May, 1967, when Dr. Bohan Hejduk, 68, outstanding physician and surgeon, was killed by carbon monoxide asphyxiation while visiting in the home of friends in Gainesville.

Hejduk was born in Czechoslovakia in 1899. He received his medical degree at the University of Brno in 1924, specialized in surgery, and taught and practiced surgery there until the Nazi takeover in 1940.

Hejduk served in France and England as surgeon general of the Czech freedom fighters, then was attached to the American medical corps until the end of World War II.

The surgeon then returned to his homeland, where he taught surgery until his escape from communism in 1950. Hejduk practiced medicine in Germany, London and Ethiopia before coming to America in 1959.

Hejduk practiced in Los Angeles and Dallas before coming to Muenster in August, 1964. He became an American citizen on December 1, 1965.

Reagan issues proclamation

President Ronald Reagan issued a proclamation designating February as American Heart Month and urged the American people to join with him in reaffirming a commitment to the search for new ways to prevent, detect, and control cardiovascular disease in all of its forms.

"Diseases of the heart and blood vessels are among the Nation's most important health problems. This year one and one-half million Americans will suffer a heart attack, and nearly one million people will die from diseases of the heart."

"It is gratifying to note that mortality rates for heart disease and stroke are declining. Deaths from coronary heart disease have declined by more than 25 percent since 1972, while those from stroke have decreased by more than 40 percent. In large part, this favorable trend is the result of more Americans being aware of the personal risk factors for heart disease, and adopting healthier lifestyles by changing their habits in such critical areas as smoking, cholesterol intake, exercise, and in controlling high blood pressure," the president added.

Business acumen combined with devotion to a demanding job are obvious assets in the medical Records Department at Muenster Memorial. Holding down duties in that office are Delores Lippe, ART department administrator, Alma Wolf, and Flora Mae Knabe.

Hospital's growth reflects character of community

Muenster Memorial Hospital, an outstanding asset which would do credit to a much larger community, has just completed twenty years of service to the city and surrounding area.

The anniversary date was Friday, commemorating the formal opening on February 3, 1964, under direction of Sister Mildred Felderhoff, O.S.B. as the administrator and a medical staff of eleven, including Dr. L.O. Laughlin of Muenster and others of Gainesville, Denton and Wichita Falls.

Establishing the hospital was a major achievement based on early efforts that date back to the forties and began shaping up in 1958 under the dedicated leadership of J.M. Weinzapfel. The project was organized as the Muenster Hospital Authority, a subsidiary of the city, with a fund of $200,000 from local collections assisted by a $300,000 Hill-Burton grant and a $300,000 bond issue. Construction started August 15, 1962, and the job was completed just before the opening date.

The difficulty of getting the hospital built was matched by difficulties of early operation. Dr. Laughlin, the only local staff member quit his practice here and the hospital depended for medical service on Doctors Atchison, Cole and Thomas of Gainesville and Willis of Saint Jo.

However, the next development was a godsend. Dr. B.F. Hejduk, a surgical genius, native of Czechoslovakia and refugee from communism, came here from Dallas in August 1964, filling an urgent need. The situation was further improved when Dr. Martin Kralicke came to the staff in December 1964. The combination of a fine hospital with these two on the staff was a very pleasing situation but it came to a tragic end on May 29, 1967 when Dr. Hejduk and three friends died of gas asphyxiation. His death was a major loss to the Muenster and Gainesville hospitals.

Also among the early problems was a difficulty of meeting bonded indebtedness as a hospital authority. As a remedy, directors proceeded to change to a hospital district with a tax base rather than a revenue base. Community approval supported the change which became effective in September 1965. Bonds were then sold by the district which took over remaining obligations of the authority.

According to schedule the debt was to be retired in 1991, but district directors chose to increase the tax and pay installments early to save interest. They set the rate at 70 cents per $100 of value, including a 5 cent provision for indigent accounts. After three years and an adequate amount in the indigent fund the rate was reduced to 65 and continued at that level for six more years. Then, with the bond obligation dwindling, the rate was further decreased to 40, 20, 30 and 30 cents the next four years. The last bond payment was made in May 1978, thirteen years ahead of schedule with substantial savings in interest.

One factor in the rate reduction was an expansion of the district in 1975. Originally the district included the Muenster school district and the portion of Saint Jo's district located in Cooke County. Areas added were Myra, Hood, Era and Rosston.

Additions to the medical staff after Hejduk and Kralicke were Dr. Alfredo Antonetti in March 1968, Dr. Gerald Graham in April 1969, Dr. Marvin Knight in January 1972, Dr. Enrique Juarez in March, 1976 and Dr. Bernard Luke in August 1979 along with specialists and consultants of North Texas. All except Hejduk are still on the staff. Doctors Antonetti and Juarez, like Dr. Hejduk have special distinction as refugees from Communism. They came from Cuba.

Muenster Memorial Hospital is a 32-bed institution with modern equipment and furnishings continually updated to maintain a high level of professional care in friendly, attractive surroundings. For instance, during the 20 years X-Ray and lab have been replaced by later model equipment, and new developments in medical equipment have been added, also carpets, drapes, wall paint and patient room furnishings have all been replaced. In addition, annexes have been added to the building for administration and accounting.

Besides rating high in pleasant and expert care of the sick, and keeping pace with modern medical progress, the hospital is the equivalent of an important community industry. It has 58 employees, 37 full time and 21 part time, with a payroll of $719,062 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1983. The first year's payroll was $98,565.

Employees are headed by David Bright, who succeeded Sister Mildred as administrator in Oct 1967. Seven of the charter employees are still at the hospital. They are J.D. and Miriam Caplinger, Cecilia (Micky) Haverkamp, Emma Lou Hess, Joan Walterscheid, Lorena Taylor and Thomas Hesse.

The board of directors includes nine persons. Al Trubenbach, president, has held the office since the district was established, and Al Felderhoff, vice president, started as a member of the hospital authority board. Others are Dan Luke, secretary, Rufus Henscheid, Albert Dangelmayr, Paul Fetsch, C. Wm. Hermes, George Berry and Dr. Marvin Knight.

The serenity of the hospital chapel allows patients, visitors and staff an opportunity for meditation and prayer. The carved wooden figures, done by artist Ludwig Kieninger, add special elegance.

We are proud to be

Glenda Russell, Miriam Caplinger and Kim Walterscheid keep the hospital business office running.

Experts eye salt woes

Today's consumers are more concerned — but not necessarily more informed — about salt in their diets than they were a few years ago, according to nutritionists at Texas A&M.

A 1983 A.C. Nielsen survey conducted for the grocery industry shows that of the 75 percent of consumers reading ingredient lists on food products, 40 percent of them do so to avoid salt or sodium. This compares with 14 percent who read labels to avoid salt in 1978.

While more people are trying to avoid salt and sodium, many are confused about the relation between them. Only 29 percent of those polled in the survey were aware that salt and sodium are different.

Sodium is a mineral that is essential to life because it helps maintain a balance in body fluids. Sodium occurs naturally in nearly all plants and animals we use as food. In addition, some medicines and water contain sodium, explains the nutritionists.

Table salt is one form of sodium — sodium chloride to be exact. A teaspoon of salt is about 40 percent sodium and 60 percent chloride.

A large majority — 87 percent — of the shoppers surveyed favored sodium labeling. But 52 percent indicated the labeling would be more useful if they understood it better.

The biggest problem for most consumers, is they may not understand milligrams per serving or how it relates to their own daily needs.

To really watch your salt intake, you need to know that the recommended intake of sodium for adults ranges from 1,100 to 3,300 milligrams per day. One level teaspoon of salt contains about 2,300 of sodium.

One recent study of U.S. eating habits found that men in the 25-35 age group are consuming about 600 milligrams more, and men in the 36-49 age group about 100 milligrams more, than the recommended amount of sodium. Women and other age groups were within the recommended range.

Since there are sodium containing compounds in many of today's processed foods, reading labels for sodium content is probably a good idea for everyone.

But for a majority of people extra sodium is not a serious problem, because only about 15-20 percent of the population are sodium sensitive and cannot get rid of large amounts of the mineral. It stays in their body tissues and hold extra water which leads to the development of high blood pressure.

Hospital staff receiving 20 year service awards during recent ceremonies included (front) Joan Walterscheid, Miriam Caplinger, Lorena Taylor, (back) Tom Hesse, Mickey Haverkamp, Lulu Hess, J.D. Caplinger.

AVERAGE BILLING GIVES YOU RELIEF FROM THE UNCOMMON COLD.

We all know it's been unseasonably cold this winter. And we've all used record amounts of electricity to stay safe and warm. But it stands to reason that with higher usage comes a higher electric bill.

Now of course, bills you've already received are still due. But Texas Power and Light offers relief from higher bills that may result from additional cold weather ahead.

It's called the Average Billing Plan, and now may be the perfect time to consider it. With Average Billing, you pay about the same amount every month — an average of your bills for the past twelve months. You still pay for all the electricity you use, but at least your bills are more predictable.

For some, it may take even more relief. Especially those who simply can't afford to heat their homes. That's where the Energy Aid Program can help. Your local TP&L office can tell you which charitable agency in your area handles this program and how you can take part.

So remember, even though your next electric bill is likely to be a little higher than what's common for this time of year, Texas Power and Light has no intention of leaving you out in the cold. And that's something we thought you'd like to know.

Hospital celebrates "Twenty Good Years"

"Twenty Good Years" was the happy reflection of the 20th anniversary observed by Muenster Memorial Hospital Saturday evening in the KC Hall.

Employees of Muenster Memorial Hospital, the medical staff, the courtesy staff, including several doctors and consultants from Wichita Falls, Denton and Gainesville, the hospital board of directors, four retired employees and several guests attended.

An informal program followed dinner. J.M. Weinzapfel, board president of the original Hospital Authority spoke briefly and David Bright, hospital administrator, commented on "twenty good years." Joan Walterscheid, director of nurses, recalled the first day and first patient, and the first year. She recalled that a picture on the first anniversary showed a group of 41 mothers and 41 babies born in the hospital the first year. Miriam Caplinger, head of the office staff added memories of that time.

Awards were given to 20, 10 and 5 year employees. Al Trubenbach, board president, and David Bright, administrator, presented 20-year awards to Joan Walterscheid, Mickey Haverkamp, Lorena Taylor, Miriam Caplinger and Emma Lou Hess, who each received a bracelet with engraved charm, and to Tom Hesse and J.D. Caplinger, who received engraved pocket watches.

Dan Luke and Rufus Henscheid, board members, presented a 10-year award to Gertie Sims and a 5-year award to Alma Wolf.

On exhibit was a large scrapbook, "Facts, Figures and Events of Twenty Years" compiled by Joan Walterscheid, using pictures, newspaper clippings, mementos, comparison of prices then and now, first staff members, current members, etc. Particularly treasured was a picture of Dr. Hejduk and a memorial booklet. Mrs. David Bright showed an album of photos made on the 10th anniversary.

Retirees honored Saturday evening included Ann Walterscheid, Agatha Wolf, Florence Fisher and Gen Pels.

Dinner was catered by the Schneiders and bar was tended by the Millers. Guests danced later to music by Mike Orts Disco.

Decorations were created by Aileen Knabe who used burgundy, pink and white, with emphasis toward spring.

Hurricane lamps and candles were placed in wreaths of flowers on guest tables, with white wicker baskets of mixed flowers. White lattice with climbing flowers decorated two walls. Two floor baskets of mixed flowers were at the bandstand and an oval wall decoration of burgundy velvet in a picture frame with a flower basket was at the stairway.

Muenster Memorial's outstanding surgical staff includes Peggy Gobble, OR supervisor; Herman Carroll, CRNA; and J.D. Caplinger, scrub technician.

Flu season here

With cold, wet weather here, many Texans are becoming more conscious of "cold" and "flu". Some rely on home remedies to cure their diseases, while others take unreasonable steps to avoid them — such as becoming virtual hermits or wearing garlic around the neck.

It has been estimated that at least 227 million acute coldlike illnesses occur each year in America. This number only accounts for those people who seek medical treatment or who restrict their work or school activity for at least one day.

The major factor in determining who will catch a cold is the variety and amount of antibodies within the body. A person who has had colds in the past will have more antibodies — this is why adults seem to have fewer colds than children. Children have not had the chance to develop resistance to many types of viruses and may have 10-12 colds per year. Also, children may not have the antibodies to fight the virus and their colds may seem worse than an adult's.

Common ways to transmit cold viruses are through hand-to-hand contact or through inhalation. There is little chance of preventing the inhalation of viruses — even wearing gauze masks is not beneficial. Transmitting of virus by hand-to-hand contact may be lessened if the person with the cold washes his/her hands frequently and avoids touching the nose or nasal secretion.

The incidence of colds seems to increase in winter and rainy weather. However, this is due more to our behavior than to the environment — on wet cold days, people gather indoors where the virus can easily be spread.

Anne Felderhoff claims a loose ball in Sacred Heart's game with Alamo in the TCIL district tournament. Other Tigerettes are Sondra Hess 32 and Lisa Haverkamp 21.

Tigerettes head for TCIL state playoff

Another great basketball season for the Sacred Heart Tigerettes reached the glory stage last weekend when the girls qualified for the TCIL state playoff and claimed the district title by sweeping the district tournament.

The teams will go to the Hemisfair arena of San Antonio with a season record of 21-1. The trip will be Sacred Heart's fourth to the state playoff, and it has high hopes of repeating last year's achievement of winning the top honor in class 3.

A major problem faces the team, however. Susan Walterscheid, the top performer, sustained an ankle injury a month ago and has been wearing a cast since. The question now is whether she will be able to return to the lineup for the playoff and, if so, what will be the extent of her remaining handicap.

The Tigerettes started last week's playoff by annihilating St. John's of Ennis 85-22. The scorers were Anne Felderhoff 23, Marilyn Hartman 22, Sandra Walterscheid 15, Lisa Haverkamp 10, Sondra Hess 8, Rose Felderhoff 3, Lydia Walterscheid 2, Sharon Henscheid 2.

The next game was more of a contest as Sacred Heart beat Alamo of Amarillo 48-37. After a 19-15 first period lead they dropped back to a 29-26 half time deficit then commanded the second half by outscoring the visitors 22 to 8. Point makers were Anne Felderhoff 20, Marilyn Hartman 14, Sandra Walterscheid 8, Sondra Hess 6.

The Tigerettes will go to San Antonio on Thursday, the 16th and play their first game Friday, 10 a.m. The opponent has not been named at this time.

In the boys division of the tournament the district will be represented by Gorman High of Tyler, winner of the district title.

The Tigers faced Gorman in the district tournament here last week and lost by a count of 57-40. To begin Sacred Heart jumped out to a 14-6 lead and kept going for a 22-16 half time advantage. But things changed in the second half as Gorman took over and outscored Sacred Heart 31 to 18. Tiger scorers were Neil Hesse 18, Duane Haverkamp 11, Ken Hesse 6, John Nasche 2, Steve Becker 2.

Hornettes stay in contention for district runner-up

MHS Hornets were eliminated from the District 31-A tournament Tuesday in an exciting 49-46 loss to Forestburg. It was their first encounter in the tourney to decide the No. 2 team of the loop. The first place was claimed by Slidell with a 9-1 record in the district schedule.

The game Tuesday was a thriller, judged by Coach Gustine as one of the season's best and a gratifying end to a disappointing season. Muenster trailed 14-10 the first period, led 24-21 the second, trailed again 36-34 at the third and alternated the lead in the fourth. With seconds to go the Hornets apparently knotted the score with a 2 pointer but it was nullified by a penalty for charging. Forestburg made good on a foul shot and ended at the big end of 49-46.

Hornet scorers were Cory Klement 14, Kevin Owen 9, Ronnie Fisher 8, Jay Mollenkopf 5, Ryan Klement 2. Tops for Forestburg were Doug Edwards 21, Brent Shults 14, Scotty Duncan 13.

Muenster Hornettes continue in the final tournament after an easy 54-39 decision over Era. Their next action will be with Alvord on the MHS and if they win they move into the finals with Forestburg next Monday.

Playing Era Rita Walterscheid was sensational with 35 points and 22 rebounds. Also Sharon Russell scored 9, Amy Davidson 4, Paula Russell 2, Melanie Richey 2, Jill Wimmer 1, Judy Biffle 1.

Final standings in the girls division of 31-A are Lindsay 10-0, Forestburg 8-2, Muenster 6-4, Alvord 3-7, Slidell 2-8, Era 1-9.

The boys district standings are Slidell 9-1, Lindsay 7-3, Alvord 7-3, Forestburg 6-4, Muenster 2-8, Era 0-10.

MHS wins 2 and loses 1 at Era

Teams of MHS closed out their basketball season with a pair of wins over Era varsity and a loss to Era JV girls.

First action and the best of the evening was the JV encounter in which Muenster started with an 8-0 lead and ran neck and neck for the next three quarters. Era led 12-11 at the half and 16-15 at the third and tied 19-19 at the end of regular time, and ruled the overtime for a 25-21 win.

Staci Walterscheid and Rhonda Trubenbach scored 6 each for MHS, LeAnn Sicking added 5, Kelly Henningan 2 and Amy Davidson 2.

The varsity girls game was one sided favoring Muenster 46-27. Rita Walterscheid had a great night for 25 points, Kim Eldred made 10, Dana Dankesreiter 7, Judy Biffle 3, Jill Wimmer 1.

Muenster boys, too, held a comfortable lead all the way by scores of 15-6, 29-22, 41-27 and 56-23 as Jay Mollenkopf made 13, Kevin Wolf 12, Ryan Klement 11, Cory Klement 9, Kevin Owen 8, Rodney Hess 2, Bob Youngblood 1.

Junior teams divide 4 in tournament

Both of Muenster's junior teams won their first games but were eliminated by Forestburg at the district tournament last week in Slidell.

The girls started with a 32-4 runaway over a disabled Lindsay team. Muenster's scorers were Penny Russell 10, Meredith McDaniel 6, Staci Walterscheid 6, Melody Klement 4, Charlene Switze 4, Darla Bindel 2.

In the next game Forestburg led 6-3 and 13-7 the first two quarters and cooled off as Muenster tied at 17-17 the third period. Then Muenster got ice cold as Forestburg made the necessary few for a 21-18 win. Staci Walterscheid scored 8 for Muenster, Penny Russell hit 4, Meredith McDaniel 3, Michelle Monday 2, Melody Klement 1.

Junior boys in their opener with Era took a 14-9 half time lead and fell behind 19-18 at the third then recovered in the fourth period for a 25-23 win. Brian Hess scored 12, Kevin Anderle 7, Scott McAden 4, Stuart Hess 2.

The game with Forestburg was another thriller as Muenster held slim leads of 10-9 and 18-15 in the first two periods. The final two quarters were near scoreless as Muenster led 18-17 at the third and Forestburg won at 23-22. Muenster scorers were Brian Hess 8, Stuart Hess 6, Scott McAden 4, Kevin Anderle 2, Dale Reiter 2.

Season records for the juniors are 12-6 for the girls and 11-7 for the boys.

Business class visits downtown

Students of the Muenster High General Business Class are grateful to a number of persons in the community who have contributed to their learning experiences this year. Their gratitude is directed to business people who shared knowledge with them on a recent tour of the town.

Lupe Evans, owner of The Hut, talked about business ownership, in particular sale proprietorship. She gave examples from her personal experience about business decisions, keeping records, buying merchandise, and customer relations, and advised starting with a study of business in high school or college. The greatest satisfaction as a business owner, she said is being able to provide customer needs and wants and to know that customers are pleased with their purchases.

At Cooke County Electric Co-op Gene Davenport gave a slide presentation and literature on home energy efficiency. He told students that the best time to get advice on home energy conservation is when a new home is being planned, and added that the Electric Co-op is glad to assist on problems of energy use in either new or existing homes.

At Muenster State Bank the tour was joined by John Meurer, Sue Trachta, Carla Cunningham and Betty Ann Trubenbach. They explained and demonstrated several units of equipment such as computer, check sorter, check storage and microfilm. Additionally Mr. Meurer explained the process of opening an account and followed the route of a check from the time it is drawn until it is returned with a bank statement. He also guided the students in completing a checking account simulation provided by the bank.

The class also extends thanks to persons who granted interviews on occupation during a preliminary study of careers. The class presently is beginning a study on the wise use of credit.

Learning Center enrolls

The Young Children's Learning Center of Sacred Heart School is now accepting children for enrollment in the '84-'85 school year.

The Learning Center is a Montessori school of primary level for children 3, 4 & 5 years of age. This school provides students with the materials to learn naturally and effortlessly through their senses with only a minimum of guidance from the adult world. The Child's naturally inquisitive spirit is tapped and the learning environment allows freedom of movement and choice of materials.

The most important lesson of all learned in the primary class is respect; respect for the others, their work, their bodies and their personal goods. The goal of the school is to guide the child to become aware and to discipline himself, thus allowing him to grow to a happy, healthy student in elementary years.

Applications are available at the office of the Learning Center at 602 N. Maple or call 759-4918. Visitors and parents of prospective students may call for observation hours 759-4918.

Dear Resident:

Yearly Renewable Term is the least expensive Life Insurance you can own. It does nothing fancy - it simply pays your designated beneficiary the face amount of insurance in the event of your death.

It provides a level amount of protection with a gradually increasing premium based on your age.

If you use it to cover the mortgage on your home, it will move with you should you purchase another home.

The chart below shows the first year's monthly cost for $100,000 of protection using a bank draft to pay the premium.

City Council holds meeting February 6

The Lindsay City Council met Monday, Feb. 6, at 7:00 p.m. The meeting was called to order and both the minutes of the previous meeting plus the minutes of the Jan. 11th special meeting were read and approved.

The first order of business was to set a date for city elections. That date had been set for April 7. Alberta Schroeder was hired as the election judge. Mayor, Norbert Mages, Mayor Pro Tem, Steve Zimmerman and Alderman Sonny Block will be up for re-election. Members then discussed the new wastewater treatment fee. There is a $500.00 wastewater treatment fee per year assessed to the city of Lindsay, set by the Texas Legislature last session. It is assessed to our city according to the amount of sewage passed through our city sewage system.

Next on the agenda was the consideration of a heating system for the fire station. Members voted to purchase a gas heating system. It was also decided to purchase a portable, electrical generator for city emergencies, from Army Surplus.

Other business for the evening included an agreement by Becky Bezner to serve on the county sesquicentennial committee as a representative of Lindsay. The sesquicentennial is the 150th birthday of the state of Texas to be celebrated in 1986.

The meeting was then adjourned.

PTA hears report on scoliosis clinic

The Lindsay PTA met Wednesday evening January 25 at 7:30 p.m. The president Robert Walterscheid presided. He opened the meeting by reading "thank you" notes from the high school and kindergarten teachers for money given to them by the PTA.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer report followed.

Superintendent, Glenn Hellman, gave a report on a Scoliosis Clinic which took place on the 27th of January. The purpose of the clinic was to check for any possible cases of scoliosis among the student body.

Mr. Hellman also announced that there would be no school on February 20. This will be an inservice day for the teachers.

Also reported was that March 8 has been the date set for open house at the school.

Hellman also mentioned to the parents that there were some State Board changes that would be coming up.

It was also added that the girls won first place in their district in basketball and the boys second. However, the attendance at the games was low. Perhaps we need to make a greater effort to support our students.

Finally Mr. Hellman distributed some literature on teenage drinking. Next, the principal, Mr. Schroeder, reported on the promotion and failure of the students. The fund-raising committee added that they were planning a domino tournament for Saturday evening, February 18.

Members of the PTA discussed their annual play. All who were interested remained after the meeting.

Larry Schumacher, head of the purchasing committee gave a report. A motion was made and was passed by the group as to how much money the purchasing committee would be allowed to spend.

It was also reported that the election of both vice president and treasurer will be held at the next meeting.

Robert Walterscheid gave a report on an asthma program given by the American Lung Association. They would try to give this program at school to both the family as a group and the individual students at school who suffer from asthma.

The meeting was then adjourned. The next meeting of the PTA will be held April 25th.

Lindsay ends regular season with two wins over Forestburg

Lindsay teams ended their basketball season Friday night with a double win over Forestburg, by a 1-point squeaker for the Knights and a comfortable 36-24 margin for the Knightettes. The game completes a perfect 10-0 district 31-A record and a 23-3 full season for the girls and qualifies them for a bi-district game with Krum, the champs of 32-A.

In their game with Forestburg the Knightettes were in control all the way, the periods ending with scores of 12-8, 18-14, 30-18 and 36-24.

Leading point makers were Gina Hellman and Beverly Hermes with 12 each for Lindsay and Christi Reed with 10 for Forestburg.

The boys game gave the fans their money's worth, and then some, as it lead changed at the quarters and in between. Knights led the first period 9-8 and the Longhorns headed the second and third by scores of 21-18 and 32-30. The up and down final period was won — or lost — by a fraction of a second. Forestburg's shot at the buzzer hit its mark, but officials ruled that it was late by an instant and the score remained 41-40 in the Knights' favor.

Leading scorers were Doug Anderle 14, Aaron Hoenig 12, Jeff Hellman 7; also Brent Shults 12 and Scotty Duncan 10.

The game completes a 15-9 season for the Knights along with a 7-3 record in 31-A competition. They will play Forestburg Friday night and the winner of that contest will play Alvord next Tuesday for second place in the district.

Getting set for their bi-district game with Krum on the 17th, Lindsay girls will have a pair of practice games with other potent teams of the area. Saturday Feb. 11 at 6:30 they will meet Sam Raburn High at Slidell. That will be followed by a meeting of Slidell boys, champs of 31-A, with the boys of Sam Raburn High.

The second practice for Lindsay girls will be with Van Alstyne on Monday the 13th, 7 p.m.

The bi-district showdown is scheduled Friday the 17th, 7 p.m. at Northwest, the opponent being Krum, runner up of 32-A.

Another practice game for the Knightettes was with Savory on Feb. 7 at Lindsay. Savory has a 9-1 record in District 33-A. Lindsay dominated all periods of the game by scores of 13-11, 31-17, 49-27 and 62-36, and improved its over-all record to 24-3. Leading scorers were Shannon Fleitman 18, Beverly Hermes 17, Beverly Neu 14.

MICROWAVE BASICS

Browning Microwaved Foods

Foods prepared in the microwave, because of shorter cooking times, often do not have the browned appearance of conventionally cooked foods. If you find this to be a disadvantage, there are several things you can do to enhance their appearance. Baked goods, such as cakes and quick breads, can be sprinkled before baking with nuts, toasted coconut or raisins. Meats and poultry can be brushed with bottled browning sauce, catsup or Worcestershire sauce.

An alternative method to the above suggestions is to use frozen prepared convenience products in the microwave that only need reheating.

Try the recipe below created by the Banquet Foods Test Kitchens with both eye and appetite appeal in mind.

Italian Open-Faced Beef Sandwiches

1 package (32 oz.) BANQUET American Favorites Gravy & Sliced Beef Buffet Supper Main Dish	1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste	1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
1/2 cup chopped green pepper	1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
	1 loaf Italian bread, halved and toasted
	1/2 cup (2 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese

Remove gravy and sliced beef from foil tray and place in 2-quart oblong glass baking dish. Heat, covered, on HIGH 7 to 9 minutes or until thawed. Stir in tomato paste, green pepper, Worcestershire sauce, Italian seasoning and garlic powder. Re-cover. Heat on HIGH 7 to 9 minutes or until hot, stirring occasionally. Place bread on microwave-safe plate; spoon beef mixture on top. Sprinkle cheese on top. Heat on HIGH 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese melts. Makes 5 servings.

The ancient Greeks awarded crowns made of laurel leaves to victorious athletes. The ancient Romans decorated their war heroes with crowns of oak leaves.

James Baker in complete command

WITH THE departure of William Clark (to become interior secretary) and Ed Meese (to become attorney general), there will be no strong conservative among the President's top advisers.

For the first time, Chief of Staff James Baker will be in complete command of the White House. Baker, you will remember, rose to prominence as director of the moderate/liberal forces marshalled to deny Ronald Reagan the GOP nomination for president. He was Gerald Ford's chief strategist in 1976 and George Bush's campaign manager in 1980.

The lack of a single conservative in the White House inner circle is distressing to those of us who remember the high hopes of election night, 1980.

At that time, as columnist David Broder wrote, "Many of (Reagan's) enthusiasts believed he would transform the Republican Party on his way to transforming the country, by installing men and women who, like himself, were unencumbered by links to...clubby Republican administrations of the past."

The result, some commentators went so far as to predict, would be a fundamental realignment of American politics. Southerners, blue-collar workers, Catholics, and other groups would break away from their traditional relationship with the Democratic party;

they would join with small business people and other Main Street Republicans to replace the New Deal coalition as the principal force in American politics. The Reagan Revolution, it was called.

But then Reagan chose to staff his administration with the sort of country-club Republicans who considered him a right-wing nut. Most of the conservatives named to important positions (people like Richard Allen, Lyn Nofziger, Paul Craig Roberts, James Watt, and Morton Blackwell) eventually left, and almost every new appointee was more liberal than the person he or she replaced.

Reaganites he brought with him into the Administration rejected the very premises on which the Reagan coalition of 1980 was built. Look at how they robbed the Republican Party of the tax issue in the 1982 campaign.

Candidate Reagan's position on taxes was clear: Ultra-high tax rates were strangling the economy, dragging the U.S. slowly but surely toward a depression. On no issue was Ronald Reagan more clearly identified with the popular position than on tax reduction. But by 1982, Baker was trying to convince the President to support the largest tax increase in history. According to the Wall Street Journal, Baker in the Spring of 1982 "set about fashioning a consensus for the need for higher taxes."

It was apparent to anyone who cared to notice that Baker was following his own agenda. Said The Washingtonian (October 1982), "(T)here is evidence that within the White House — and on occasion on Capitol Hill — Baker is a strong advocate for positions that are not yet the President's." Not yet?

Time magazine reported late (December 13, 1982): "At one point (Baker) so nettled Reagan by pressing for excise taxes and defense cuts that the President took off his glasses, glared at his aide, and asked, 'If that's what you believe, then what in the hell are you doing here?'"

What, indeed? But it was Baker who eventually prevailed. In the closing days of the '82 campaign, the President appeared on national television, smiling and shaking hands with 'Tip' O'Neill in the Rose Garden as the two old pals celebrated their victory on the tax increase. Republican candidates, robbed of the one issue they thought they could count on, paid the price on election day.

Now, with Baker given a free hand, it will become even more difficult to get the President to address the concerns of the average voter.

To be reelected, the President must earn the support of Americans who really care about forced busing, tuition tax credits, drugs, pornography, school prayer, declining academic standards, affirmative action, and the epidemic of crime that results from unelected judges rewriting the nation's criminal law.

Those are not the usual topics of conversation on country club terraces or in corporate executive suites, but Ed Meese worked to keep the President out front on those issues. I am confident that he will make a fine attorney general, but his voice of conscience at the White House will be sorely missed.

While turning through a small magazine I came across a saying of Abraham Lincoln's, which is much food for thought when so many people today want something for nothing or want all sorts of "handouts". This great man said, and I quote, "If this country is ever demoralized, it will come from trying to live without work." I think about it.

The Dewey area has some new residents as of a week or two ago. They have moved into the home of the late Bess and Loyd Orrell. From all I can find out, their last name is Sims and they have two children in school.

CARD OF THANKS

Thanksgiving Novena to St. Jude, Our Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr great in virtue and rich in miracles. Near kinsman of Jesus Christ. Faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need. I have recourse to you from the depth of my heart and humbly beg you to whom God has given such great power, to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys and Glorias. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen.

I am very proud of the cards, flowers and visits that cheered me while I was a patient in Gainesville Memorial Hospital; and I am even more grateful for the many prayers that were surely a factor in my recovery. My gratitude is expressed to the staffs of Muenster and Gainesville Hospitals, and to my family, relatives, friends and neighbors. Every favor is a treasure I'll always remember. God love you all.

Catherine Walterscheid and family

Many thanks to Fathers Denis and Victor, and Dr. Juarez, nurses and staff, everyone who said a prayer, sent cards, flowers and gifts, and visits while I was a patient at Muenster Memorial Hospital. I especially want to thank my wife Violet, who stayed at my bedside. May God bless all of you.

Charlie Stelzer

We wish to thank the nursing staff of Muenster Memorial Hospital and Dr. Juarez for their many hours of dedicated care and concern. Also Fathers Victor and Denis, our family, relatives, friends and neighbors for many favors and prayers. Karry also wishes to thank Dr. Graham for his care. We are very grateful to all of you, and will remember every kindness. My wife and children join us in saying "Thank You."

August and Karry Fleitman

Farmer's market

Anyone interested in a weekly farmers market in Gainesville should plan to attend a meeting set for February 16, seven p.m., at the Gainesville area Chamber of Commerce office.

Organizers are searching for interested farmers, gardeners and produce sellers for the program. Additional information on Gainesville farmer's market is available from Craig Rosenbaum, county Courthouse, Gainesville 665-1966; or Libby Barker, director of community development, P.O. Drawer J, Gainesville 665-4323.

Craig Rosenbaum

County Agent's Report

The warmer weather is telling the fate of our oats throughout the county. Producers should check oat fields it you haven't already. This past weekend we checked oat variety plots we planted in November. Results were poor. Varieties and death loss include: Chilocco - 80 percent, H-522 90 percent to 95 percent, H-833 - 90 percent to 95 percent, Bob - 95 percent, Nora - 95 percent.

The small amount of green that was left in many plants is dwindling. A few fields over the county have survived. Many factors contributed to oat survival. A few of these were snow cover, fertility, variety, growth of plant, and then some fields you just can't figure out why they survived.

It appears that a large percentage of the oat crop is lost. Soil conditions are excellent for replanting in dead stands. The freezing has caused the ground to fluff and soil moisture is adequate in most instances.

We received recent marketing and policy information from the economists at A&M and we are going to pass that on to you here.

January 1, 1984
Cattle Inventory

The USDA has just released the latest cattle inventory statistics. In general, the data points toward just a slight liquidation in the beef breeding herd and a small increase in the dairy herd. None of the statistics were very alarming and only minor changes occurred in any particular category. The final estimate for the 1983 calf crop was put at 44.1 million head, down one percent from the 1982 level. That means no oversupply of feeders are expected during 1984, and together with the better fed cattle prices which we are currently experiencing, should easily yield a much improved feeder cattle and calf price year. Ed Uvack

Feed Grain Situation

Total feed grain carryover by September is projected to be 24.8 MMT down 73 percent from the same time last year. The market, however, has turned its attention to 1984. The 1984 feed grain program with a 10 percent acreage reduction component is expected to have little impact on production, assuming average weather. The market reflects a gradual decline through June with a fall to 1984 loan levels as the harvest progresses. Current tight supplies, however, could offer producers the chance to contract their 1984 crop should we run into bad weather during the planting or early growing season. Ed Smith

Wheat Situation

USDA's supply/demand report for January indicates a slight increase in wheat production for 1983. However, the production increase was more than offset by an increase in expected feeding use and total ending stocks were lowered to 1.4 billion bushels, down 10 percent from 1982. The carryover is still substantial and wheat prices should continue at or below the local loan rate. The futures market is not offering much incentive to forward price the 1984 crop. Producers should analyze carefully the 1984 wheat program. USDA has decided that the wheat PIK in 1984 would be counted against the $50,000 payment limitation. Ed Smith

Two nights of 4-wheel drive truck, super stock and hot rod tractor pulls will be featured Friday and Saturday at 7:00 p.m. in the 10,600 seat center arena.

Entrance to the Farm and Ranch Exposition is free. Tickets for the pulls can be purchased at Ticketron outlets throughout the Metroplex or by writing: Box 5243, Arlington, TX 76011, phone: 817/265-0789.

Special activities include: "New World of Agriculture Forum" on Friday, with Congressman Phil Gramm featured luncheon speaker; "Garden to Gourmet" food demonstrations every day from 1:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m.;

Future Farmers of American tractor mechanics contest set for Friday;

Murfin pointed out that there would be valuable attendance prizes awarded at many of the exhibit booths during the Exposition.
