

Aston wins sheriff's race

Voters take Reagan, Gramm

Record numbers of voters went to the polls Tuesday to re-elect President Ronald Reagan in a popular and electoral landslide.

Cooke County voters gave the president an even bigger margin than the rest of the nation. With 11,630 casting ballots, the margin was 8,265 for Reagan and 3,278 for his opponent, former vice-president Walter Mondale.

The 71 percent edge was even higher than the 63 percent of the vote Reagan earned in 1980 when he won his first term over incumbent Democrat Jimmy Carter.

As expected, Muenster's vote went to the president in a big way — he got 89 percent of the votes cast in boxes 17 and 18.

Voters answered an even bigger question Tuesday when they elected Phil Gramm to the Senate after a long and bitter race between the former A&M professor and Austin state senator Lloyd Doggett.

Gramm garnered 7,592 votes in Cooke County — 65 percent of the total — to 3,794 for Doggett. Muenster gave Gramm 86 percent of its votes.

Chief deputy John Aston won the only contested local race as he easily outdistanced Republican challenger Kenneth Mac Fitts for sheriff. Aston got 7,054 votes county-wide to Fitts' 4,240, defying a Republican trend that gave the G.O.P. at least nine new seats in the U.S. House.

although seven races remained too close to call at presstime

In just one of several Republican wins throughout the state, North Texas State University professor Dick Army defeated Democratic incumbent Tom Vandergriff for the 26th congressional district seat in a close race. That district comes into the south part of Cooke County.

Cooke County went along with the rest of the state in approving all but two of the eight proposed constitutional amendments. Losing were proposals to allow political subdivisions to purchase insurance from mutual companies and a bid to boost the per diem salaries paid to state legislators.

Muenster voters were tougher on the amendments, rejecting all but two — the proposal to give state banks the same powers as national banks and the proposal to abolish the offices of county treasurer in Bexar and Collin counties.

City considers tax for paving program

The city of Muenster is considering a sales tax proposal to provide funds for construction and maintenance of streets.

The tax, which would have to be voted on by the people, would add seven-eighths of a cent to the current 5.125-cent sales tax, rounding it off to an even six cents. Councilmen discussing the proposal at Monday night's meeting said it could generate an additional $100,000 a year in revenue, which would go into a dedicated fund for street improvements.

"We've got to get some kind of program going, some kind of revenue generated, or we're going to need a bond issue," mayor Ronnie Felderhoff told the council. He suggested a sales tax would be the most equitable way of making users pay for the streets.

A paving program this past summer cost $282,000, street commissioner John Pagel reported. The city absorbed $137,900 of that cost paying for base application, intersections, storm sewers, grade work and other items not assessed to property owners.

"We could do that much every year for 10 years and not get everything done," Pagel said.

"That one year of street work absorbed six or seven years of reserve, though. As it stands now, we can't do anything next year."

Felderhoff pointed out that the sales tax increase would make the tax on a $100 purchase $6 even instead of $5.13.

"It has to be voted on by the people," he said. "We just want to let it be known. Personally, I feel like the sales tax would be the fairest, most equal way to raise the funds. The property owners are being taxed to the hilt as it is."

Even if the sales tax was instituted as quickly as possible, Felderhoff noted, it would still probably not generate enough revenue by next year to make another paving program the size of last summer's possible. But, he added, there would be an extra-large fund available the following year for street paving.

"No paving can really be done next year with the budget we have," he said. Pagel added, "This has to be sold to the public — it's their decision. But as a practical matter, we don't have $100,000 a year to do street work.

The most pleasing election news of many years was that of Tuesday night when judgment and conscience prevailed nationwide returning President Reagan back into office for four more years of great leadership.

It's not just that he won, but how. In the process he overcame a group of minorities whose combined strength was regarded as enough to become a majority. Opponents were listed as blacks, Hispanics, labor unions, pro-abortionists, gays, economic liberals, the left leaning foreign policy people, the underserving welfare recipients and various others. They were liberals who envisioned themselves as recipients of abundant goodies if the Democrats regained control of the government.

However, Reagan's support proved to be stronger than expected in several importance respects. People liked his record of progress in four years, and his common sense policy of less spending and less tax, also his opposition to the morally bankrupt policies on abortion and homosexuality, and the president's restoration of confidence and pride in America. It made a difference, too, that many of the taken-for-granted minorities chose to vote as they pleased rather than like their leaders ordered. Considering all, the election was a gratifying indicator of America's trend toward political, ethical and economic principles of its forefathers.

This fact is good news not only because it seems to present a more positive mandate than Election 80, but also because public support appears to be more positive. For instance, chances appear to be better that the president will be less inclined to compromise with certain liberal policies and liberal personal holdovers from both political parties. We are confident that he will lean more toward his personal conservative convictions than he did before.

In addition we are confident that he will insist on a return to respect for human life. He knows as the rest of the nation does that opponents of abortion were very influential in his decisive victory. Those people are entitled to positive and prompt action, not only because the administration owes them, but also because the record shows that they represent a great portion of American thinking. Another worth while thought is that Reagan himself favors eliminating the moral outrage, and his backing now is stronger than ever.

These are comforting thoughts on election day. We the people have a wonderful assurance that America has the incentive to carry on in its sacred traditions of patriotism with moral and fiscal sanity. We are further encouraged in that respect by the thought that conservatism in government seems to be gaining and the younger generation is more conservative than ever. We see signs of more meaning in "for God and country."

Oak Creek Homes to expand

Cooke County commissioners Monday approved the issuance of $1.89 million in bonds to finance construction of a new 80,000 square foot manufacturing plant for Oak Creek Homes, Inc.

The industrial revenue bonds were approved by the Cooke County Development Authority, represented at Monday's meeting by board member Bob Schaff and attorneys Greg Underwood and Jack Gray. The county's resolution authorizing the bonds comes under the Development Corporation Act of 1979 and does not obligate the county.

The sale of the bonds — already placed by verbal agreement with InterFirst Bank of Dallas — will provide long-term financing for Oak Creek Homes' proposed expansion. The company plans to build a new facility on a 22-acre site owned by the City of Gainesville at the industrial park near the airport, at west Highway 82 and FM 1201. InterFirst of Dallas will also provide interim financing for the project.

Oak Creek Homes, a builder of mobile and modular housing, currently employs about 150 people at their plant near the airport. The expansion would create 55 new manufacturing jobs and five new management jobs, increasing the company's annual payroll to nearly $4 million.

The Cooke County Development Authority, created by the county after the 1979 law was passed, has helped provide finan-

Retired Ranger cherishes memories

RETIRED TEXAS RANGER Lewis Rigler of Gainesville has scrapbooks full of memories from his years in that service. Photo by Bob Buckel

Gainesville man is author, storyteller deluxe

by Diane Hill
"Anybody can write a book," Gainesville author Lewis C. Rigler remarked. "After you get it written, you can even get it published if you've got the money. They make good insulation in the walls if they don't sell."

The 70-year-old retired Texas Ranger uses the remark about insulation to gain his audience's attention when he speaks in public. Actually, he knows very little about books that don't sell — one of his first attempts, entitled In the Line of Duty and describing his 30 years as a private in Texas Ranger Company B, is already in its second printing. Only one book in 60 makes it that far.

He wrote the book, with the help of his daughter-in-law Judyth Wagner Rigler, because he wanted his children and grandchildren to know more about his life and what he stood for than he knew about his father's life. John William Rigler died of typhoid fever when Lewis was six years old.

The longtime Gainesville lawman had no trouble gathering material for the book.

"I never throw anything away," he confessed. Both Rigler's comfortable north Gainesville home and his downtown office confirm his description of himself as a "collector of things."

Numerous western prints, family pictures and treasured memorabilia adorn the walls at Rigler's office. One poster bears a menacing face and reads, "Blanton for Sheriff...or else." It was created by a fellow officer when G.W. "Woody" Blanton, a close friend of Rigler's, was running for sheriff of Grayson County in 1964.

Rigler also collects guns, and he is the proud owner of an antique fire hose with its own spoke-wheeled roller. The contraption belonged to the Gainesville State School before Rigler bought it in an auction — the fact that "the grand-kids like to play with it" is a good enough reason to keep it in the back yard.

It sits beside an old baggage carrier from the Santa Fe railroad station — another antique he couldn't resist.

Information for Rigler's book came from copies of Ranger weekly, letter and case reports he had collected over a 30-year period and from his scrapbooks full of newspaper clippings, letters of commendation, certificates of appreciation and photographs.

He believes "In the Line of Duty" would have made the Best-Seller lists if there had been more copies printed during the first

Post-election ponderings

In the wake of the big election win by President Reagan and Phil Gramm, it was nice to hear those conciliatory post-election speeches from both sides.

Mondale, before getting into the usual hoopla about how "the fight has just begun" — designed mainly to keep the young volunteer workers on the hook — said some very good things about the country and the president. He pledged his support and said, "We are all Americans."

His voice, strident and tiresome as it has been during the campaign, sounded much more likeable in defeat. Whether it was the tired, comforting tone he took with his followers, or his words of reconciliation that appealed to me I don't know — but I liked him better in defeat than I've ever liked him before.

Doggett, too, in telling his supporters their cause was lost, sounded tired and whipped. He, too, said the proper noble words that a loser in this country's electoral process is supposed to say. He even showed some flashes of humor — something his campaign could have used more of.

The fact that the losers can stand up gracefully in defeat and pledge themselves to support their conquerors says a lot about this country. After an especially bitter race this year, the words sounded better to me than they ever have, although they've been said in the wake of every election, I suppose, since the whole madness started.

In the final analysis, of course, there are no enemies in politics, only people with differing ideas about how the government ought to be run. When we tread, as this campaign did, into the private lives and beliefs of the candidates, we don't help the process of selection — we hinder it. The information given out in political commercials this year was far overshadowed by the disinformation; attacks on opposing candidates were much more visible this year than positive commercials.

Television's role in selecting presidential and, increasingly, other candidates, seems to grow every election year. They say Reagan is the consummate television president, the master of the media, the Great Communicator. They say Mondale came across too drab and colorless to "sell" to a television audience.

Humbly, If television does anything, it rips the mask off a person and shows him for what he really is. Reagan does well on TV because he is a genuine communicator — his smile isn't the frozen, toothy grin of a Miss America candidate, it's the real thing. He's America's grampa.

After running commercials featuring flashing red lights, high-tech computer equipment, missiles zipping off into space and the faces of fearful children, the Democrats can hardly claim Reagan manipulated his way to the win by using the media. They used every device within television's power to try and win votes by appealing to people's emotions.

Most of Reagan's commercials highlighted his best asset — himself. The best ones were simply the man himself, sitting at his desk, talking.

And he didn't mention his opponent, by name or by inference.

I hope future political candidates will take note that the best technique is genuine communication of sound ideas. With all its persuasive powers, television can't outshine the people who use it.

An election is a catharsis of the American spirit, a true purging of our collective emotions after a buildup that lasts for years.

The most important thing may not even be the hiring of public officials for the next term — it may be the letting off of steam that, if allowed to build further, might explode into the violence we see in so many other nations.

While gangs in India rage through the streets in the wake of a political assassination, Americans are content to do their raging in letters to the editor, political speeches and an occasional heckling of an opponent's rally. No one was killed in our elective process this year. That's a statement many countries cannot make.

So, while some strive to be gracious winners and others lick their wounds and wonder what went wrong, most of us can just be glad the bickering is over. We've got a president for another four years, if God is willing, and we can all get back to the business of this country — working, raising our families, trying to help others.

It's good that the leaders have to answer to the people on a regular basis. It's good to hear the conciliatory words now that the sniping is over.

But mostly, it's just good to have some quiet.

Aiding the enemy

THOUGH THE summer Olympics are now well behind us, it is hard to blot from one's memory the one truly tragic story that emerged from the games: the effort by Soviet moles to turn the event into a hate-fest.

While it didn't have the dramatic impact of Mary Decker's spill at Zola Budd's heels, this was international gutter politics at its worst — something at which the Soviets are best.

Using classic Kremlin disinformation techniques, which scholars Roy Godson and Richard H. Shultz in their new book, Dezinformatsia: Active Measures in Soviet Strategy, trace back to the earliest days of the Soviet state, Kremlin operatives sent forged hate letters to African and Asian athletes, calling them names and threatening them with bodily harm. The letters were made to appear as if they were sent by members of the Ku Klux Klan, and were intended to generate support for the Kremlin's Olympic boycott.

The forged-letters campaign wasn't carried out in Moscow. It was carried out by Soviet agents-of-influence here in our own backyard. Which has some cautious people wondering why the United States seems to go out of its way to make life as easy as possible for the Soviets.

That's a question being asked again these days as the final marble touches are being put on the new Soviet Embassy, built on Mount Alto, the highest point in the Nation's Capital. Everyone in a position to know realizes the new embassy will be an electronic espionage fortress — a cancer in the heart of Washington and the Free World.

How did it come to pass that the Soviets were allowed to build this new spy den in such a commanding locale?

The answer is that this is the price the U.S. had to pay to get permission from the Soviets to build a new U.S. Embassy in Moscow. In order to win approval from the Kremlin, our "tough-minded" State Department, in conjunction with other government agencies, gave the Soviets the one piece of real estate in the Nation's Capital that would most help the Kremlin's electronic eavesdropping. (The new U.S. Embassy, by the way, is being built in a swamp.)

A number of questions reasonably arise, among them: 1) Why did State Department bureaucrats feel it was necessary to potentially compromise U.S. security in order to get improved facilities for U.S. foreign service employees in Moscow? 2) Once they realized the importance of the Mount Alto property that was being leased to the Soviets for 85 years, why didn't they pull the plug on the deal? After all, they had plenty of time to do so; negotiations with the Soviets began in the mid 1960s. 3) How did the State Department careerists manage to pull off the deal without the White House putting the kibosh on the whole thing? Three successive administrations — Nixon, Ford and Carter — had an opportunity to veto the plan; yet they didn't.

Part of the answer lies in the inordinate influence the foreign service establishment has over foreign policy. Although foreign service careerists undoubtedly believe they are acting in the best interests of the United States, presidents of both parties have learned the hard way that the foreign service doesn't always follow the president.

According to a recent study by John Krizay, a former foreign service officer, this is due, in part, to the organizational structure of the State Department. Policy recommendations must pass through a "maddening clearance process," he says, and the policies that eventually emerge are so compromised that they are "useless, if not completely incomprehensible."

President Kennedy once described the State Department as a gigantic pillow. You can punch it, squeeze it and shove it into different shapes — for a short period of time. But, it always returns to its original form — and it always remains a pillow.

Krizay and other foreign service exiles have proposed a number of concrete steps for transforming State into a competent agency to carry out White House foreign policy, instead of the independent and often contrary organization it has been for decades.

Though the reforms are sure to be resisted by the establishment, something needs to be done to make sure our foreign service doesn't barter away another Mount Alto.

State Capitol Highlights ...

AUSTIN—While the Texas Secretary of State checks preliminary totals of the massive voter turnout in Tuesday's general election, political party leaders are sorting the ballot returns to dissect the largest voter registration war this state has witnessed.

A month ago, party chiefs and others knew the election result would hinge on how the more than one million new registrants would vote.

The Democrats targeted precincts that traditionally vote 65 percent Democrat or better, figuring that statistically they would pick up almost seven out of every 10 new voters.

The Republicans weren't sitting idly, either—they concentrated on their key precincts and on college campuses, trying to take advantage of the wave of conservatism there.

In the final days before the election, each side claimed victory in the voter registration war, but privately most political observers felt that no one could say just who gained where. It will be a favorite subject of political reporting for weeks to come.

No Son of '82

This business of registering new voters was what Democrats were heavily banking on to overcome the point spreads that pollsters everywhere were shaking out of their computers. Until the last weekend, virtually every poll made public indicated the Republicans—Ronald Reagan and Phil Gramm—were leading the Democrats in Texas, anywhere from 10 to 20 points.

But the same polling results in '82 had Republicans overconfident that Gov. Bill Clements would defeat his challenger Mark White, the Democrat. And while the GOP basked in the security of summer poll results, the Democrats were changing the rules of the game: they were out registering new voters that the pollsters didn't even know about yet.

When the '82 returns came in, the Democrats knew that their registration drive, coupled with an energetic and modernized "Get-Out-The-Vote" effort, had done the impossible.

They tried to work that same plan again this year, but the Republicans had caught on, at least enough to neutralize the Democratic hopes of swelling the black and Hispanic percentages.

Breakdown

Some estimates of the '84 voter pool ranged at about 76 percent Anglo, 13 percent Hispanic and 11 percent black.

Voter registration increased in the following counties: Bexar, 7.3 percent; Dallas, 16.9 percent; El Paso, 26.9 percent; Harris, 24 percent; Hidalgo, 30 percent; Jefferson, 14.7 percent; Lubbock, 13.2 percent; Nueces, 14.3 percent; Tarrant, 26 percent; and Travis, 31.9 percent.

The Hispanic registration was a one point gain over the percentage signed up in '82, but Democrats counted heavily on Hispanics turning out in record numbers to vote for Walter Mondale and Lloyd Doggett.

Meanwhile, absentee balloting in rural counties across the Lone Star State indicated that the real key voter was the Independent Anglo, still the majority here.

More Polarization?

In the election aftermath, it may never be determined which party actually profited from the massive number of voter-citizens participating at the ballot box, aside from the bottom line indicator of who won and who lost.

Two years ago, the Democrats swept the entire ballot and promptly installed a bevy of liberals in the party headquarters, alienating or angering the conservatives of the party. The bitter primary battle featuring personal attacks from liberal Lloyd Doggett against his two conservative rivals, Kent Hance and Bob Krueger, further divided the party. It was symptomatic of the thinking of some liberal Democrats that they could win without the conservatives once and for all because of the new minority voters.

But whatever the final, official outcome, the Republicans have bounced back from their shattering defeat only 24 months ago: Texas is again, and probably for all-time, a two-party state. All signals indicate that more polarization is likely to occur.

Or Reconciliation?

However ignored or overlooked the moderate voter was in this election, they could find themselves the target of persuasion from both parties in the coming months.

Conceivably, conservative Democrats could find themselves more at home in the GOP because of fiscal philosophy and liberal Republicans could feel more comfortable in the Democratic Party because of social issues.

Perhaps the most obvious factor will be how the liberal party leadership treats conservative Democrat Kent Hance, an all-but-announced candidate for some statewide office in '86. Whether they embrace his candidacy as good for party unity or whether they urge his final ousting on grounds of party purity will make a big difference on future elections.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir: I appreciate the wonderful stand you take in your paper on many issues.

In your Oct. 26th paper, I especially like the article under Confetti.

I too am fed up with Mondale snipping and lying about the president. He criticizes the president, but not one solution does he offer to improve anything.

For we poor people that have to borrow money, will remember Mondale-Carter 21% interest rate. I also appreciate the article on page two — "Abortion - from the Victim's Vantage Point."

It is terrible that the majority of our so called Christian nation favor murdering thousands of babies each year.

We condemn and rightfully so Hitler, for killing six million Jews yet look what we are doing in our country.

Again thanks for the stand your paper takes.

Sincerely,
Mrs. J.C. Durham

City gets $14,672 in sales tax

The City of Muenster has received a check for $14,672.36 as a rebate for city sales and use tax remitted to the state comptroller through the period ending October 26. The amount boosts the year's total rebate to $100,371.39, a gain of 8.51 percent over the corresponding date of 1983.

The payment was one of 985 sent to Texas cities in a total amount of $99.5 million. The current state total is 13 percent more than last year at this time. And further increase is expected next month when the rebate will reflect collections on new items and services that became taxable on October 2.

Rebates to other area cities along with their amounts to date and percentage of change since last year were reported as follows.

- Gainesville $120,512, to date $834,649, up 10.8%.
- Lindsay $5,301, to date $45,742, down 4.06%.
- Valley View $1,005, to date $7,466, up 4.56%.

Paving funds

It's just not there."

Details of the tax and dates for a possible election will be forthcoming from the council. They voted unanimously to pursue the matter.

Possible landfill site

Felderhoff told the council a possible new site for the city's new landfill had been found just a quarter-mile from the present dumpsite in northwest Cooke County.

The site, Felderhoff said, has gullies which would provide space for landfill dumping for many years. It is accessible and the landowner is willing to lease it to the city, he added.

The city is currently dumping on property owned by Art Bayer, but their lease on that land expires in March. They have an option for another year at that site, but they have already begun the process of securing a new site in the same general area.

Landowners adjacent to the proposed new dumpsite have pledged to use "every legal means" to prevent the city from opening a landfill there. The new site, just across the road from the old landfill, would likely run into few, if any, objections from neighboring landowners.

After some discussion, the council agreed to go ahead with their application on the previously proposed site, but to also apply for a landfill permit on the new site. When the permit is granted by the Texas Department of Health, negotiations on a lease would begin with the landowner.

At the end of Monday's meeting, the council went into an unscheduled executive session to discuss the matter further.

Other action

The council voted to buy a new 1985 Ford pickup from Endres Motor Co. after opening bids from three local dealers. The pickup was the lowest-priced of those in stock at the dealers, and exceeded specifications. Bids were also received from Wilde Chevrolet and Hoedebeck GMC.

A single bid on gasoline for city vehicles was opened and accepted. Walterscheid Oil Co., which already supplies the city, offered to sell gas at 96 cents a gallon, with the price subject to change according to the refinery price to the wholesaler.

Another local dealer, at whose suggestion the city asked for bids, did not submit a bid. The city is considering discontinuing the bid process since the price of gasoline is so unstable.

The council also discussed some minor street projects with city manager Joe Fenton, including the correction of a drainage problem at 9th and Mesquite and the opening of 9th Street to Mesquite.

They granted permission for Tony Luke to build a utility building just one foot from a property line, approving a decision by the Zoning Board. Luke requested the exception to the normal five-foot setback limit to keep from having to cut down a pecan tree on his property.

Finally, the council discussed with city attorney Chuck Bartush a possible payment schedule for Glenn Hess, who had refused to pay for cub work done on his property as part of the city's paving project last year. Bartush said he and the bank were trying to work something out with Hess to avoid the city's having to file a lawsuit.

County approves development bonds cing for several projects such as the Holiday Inn and the water supply project at Lake Kiowa.

Under the program, the Development Authority approves the bonds after a series of public hearings and open meetings, and they are issued with the county's approval as an inducement to the industry to acquire land, construct facilities and install equipment — all with an eye toward increasing employment opportunities and encouraging economic growth.

The liability for paying off the bonds rests solely with the industry involved. The county and other political subdivisions are protected by law from any responsibility for payment.

The commissioners unanimously approved the issuance of the bonds. Gray said the paperwork would be processed quickly to get in under a January 1 law change which would limit the amount of such bonds in the future.

Holiday Inn bonds sold

The commissioners also authorized the sale of bonds to set up long-term financing for the newly-completed Holiday Inn on I-35 in Gainesville.

The original amount of those bonds was $3.2 million, but it was hiked to $3.8 million and finally to $4.2 million after the project was completed. They will also be sold to InterFirst Bank of Dallas, which provided interim financing for the project.

The Holiday Inn bonds are issued on behalf of a group called Gainesville Associates, which will bear liability for payment. The project itself is collateral for the bonds, Gray said, and InterFirst will have a lien against the motel and the four partners who make up Gainesville Associates.

All the loose ends are tied up on the project, Gray noted, except the city's part. The city of Gainesville owns the land on which the motel sits, and there have been some questions as to their ability to lease the land for such a use.

"We'll have to go back before the city council," Gray said. "But we've taken all the steps required by the state regarding public hearings and all that. The project is completed and all the bills are in."

Members reappointed

In a related matter, the commissioners reappointed four members to the board of the Development Authority — W.R. Patterson, Henry J. Weinzapfel, Robert L. Claxton and Bill Cypert. It was noted that the terms of everyone on the seven-member board had expired over the last three years without anyone being formally reappointed by the commissioners. The members have continued to serve, but the lack of formal action led to a request that the commissioners ratify all previous actions of the Development Authority in case of possible problems with the Internal Revenue Service."

"You're dealing with a lot of money," Underwood explained. "You just don't want to have any snags. The whole purpose of the program is to sell bonds to produce revenue — the IRS is the party that's on the other side of the table from us at all times."

After some hesitation, the commissioners agreed to the request and ratified all the board's previous action. Underwood pointed out that they had already ratified it as it came up through the years — Monday's action was just a formality to avoid problems with the IRS.

Master plan approved

The only other action at Monday morning's meeting was approval of the master plan for the county's sesquicentennial celebration, to be held in 1986 to celebrate the 150th birthday of Texas as a state.

The "master plan" was developed by a committee under the chairmanship of Ed Alexander, with members appointed from throughout the county.

"Angel" program set

Various charitable organizations in Cooke County will join together this Christmas season to sponsor the "Littlest Angel" program to help provide toys and clothing for under-privileged youngsters.

Seven Christmas trees will be placed throughout the county during the first week of December, decorated with paper "little angels" bearing the names, clothing and shoe sizes, and ages of children who have been admitted to the program.

Those who wish to help may choose an angel from the tree and buy a gift for the child it represents, attaching the angel to the gift for identification.

Christmas trees will be located at the First State Bank, Gainesville National Bank, North Texas Bank & Trust and McDonald's restaurant in Gainesville, as well as Muenster State Bank, Valley View National Bank and Lake Kiowa Lodge.

Gifts should be wrapped and taken to the Boys Club or Camp Fire, Inc. in Gainesville. Cash donations may also be made at the banks, or toys may be given in addition to clothing. Toys should not be wrapped.

Organizations involved in the program include AARP, Barnabas House, the 4-H clubs, Kiowa Women's Group, Salvation Army, Optimist Club and the Department of Human Resources. Other organizations are welcome to join the effort, which is being coordinated by the Cooke County Volunteer Action Center.

Donations should be made by December 18 so that volunteers will have time to make deliveries the week before Christmas.

Families in need of assistance are also being sought at this time. Anyone who might qualify for such a program, or anyone knowing of a family in need of assistance during the Christmas season, should fill out a form and return it to the Cooke County Volunteer Action Center, P.O. Box 607, Gainesville, 76240. All information will be kept confidential.

A NEW MINI-VAN was used to transport residents of St. Richard's Villa to the polls Tuesday to cast their ballots. Here Anna Herr, activity coordinator, pauses with Lucy McKinzie, Buck Ware and Agnes Seyler enroute to the polls. The van is also used for trips to the doctor's office, field trips and shopping.

Chorale program enjoyable

A review by Diane Hill

Participants at Saturday night's concert in Gainesville presented by the music department of Cooke County College, seemed to have as much fun performing as their audience had listening.

The 28-member Cooke County Chorale, under the direction of Glen Wilson, sang such upbeat songs as "A Jubilant Song" and "Seeds Grow to Plants."

During a humorous rendition of "No One's Perfect" the group was required to sing off-key. These talented people, accepting the musical challenge, made even the bad notes sound good and, in the end, finally did get it perfect.

Horn quartet members Michael Cruz, Randy McKee, Jan Harmon and John McAllister performed one number and, along with pianist Trish Harris and flutist Gala Mikkelson, accompanied the singers.

The Cooke County College Pop Singers, a group of six specially selected students, demonstrated their musical skills by performing old favorites including "Bridge Over Troubled Waters," "What a Difference A Day Makes" and a medley from the "Golden Age of Broadway."

Their interpretation of Larry Gatlin's "Alleluia", sung a cappella, met with enthusiastic audience approval.

DeAnn Wilson, Susan Earle and Sena Ann Stovall, member of the Pop Singers, provided a special treat by singing a selection they recently performed at the Texas Junior College Choral Festival in Temple entitled "Seksucht" by Brahms.

The Chorale, a group drawing members from the entire county, and the College's Pop Singers will be singing again on Dec. 8. If their Christmas concert is as well-performed as their November concert was, those attending can expect an evening of enjoyable musical entertainment.

Ross-Point Harvest Supper set

The Annual Harvest Supper hosted by the Ross-Point Community Improvement Club will be held on Saturday, Nov. 10. Rigler enjoys reminiscing about Texas Ranger days

...but doesn't blame his publisher for being conservative. The publisher had no way of knowing whether the novice author's book would sell and "he didn't need insulation for his balls," Rigler joked.

A born storyteller, Rigler enjoys discussing his book and reminiscing about the way things really were.

He talks about his youth... Before the depression, "we made $2.50 for a 10-hour day of picking cotton," he said. "In 1930, we made 75 cents for the same 10-hour day."

He remembers the time as a Texas Ranger when he was most afraid...

Rigler was investigating a late-night burglary at the old Levine Department Store in Gainesville in 1952 and had just opened a door on the building's unlit second floor. He stepped into the room, his .45 automatic ready, and flashed his flashlight into the darkness. He saw three figures against one wall.

"I froze," he said. "I've never been so scared in all my life." Rigler realized seconds later that the figures were only manikins. "I was frightened of a dummy," he laughed.

And he recalls President Kennedy's November 22, 1963 trip to Dallas...

"If you are a Ranger, you are going to have to protect the President," Rigler said. "And I was on duty with every president from 1936 to 1977."

According to the retired Ranger, Presidents Eisenhower and Truman were easy to protect while Presidents Johnson and Nixon were almost impossible. "They liked to wade into the crowd," Rigler explained.

In 1963, there seemed to be an "aura of fear about Kennedy coming to Texas." The general feeling among the men who had to guard him was, "If Kennedy comes to Texas I hope he doesn't get killed. If he gets killed I hope it doesn't happen where I am."

Rigler, assigned to the third floor of Market Hall, was to assist in protecting the President during the scheduled luncheon. But Kennedy never made it to Market Hall.

Like most Americans, Rigler heard over the radio that President Kennedy had been shot. Moments later he saw the car carrying the fatally wounded President as it rushed towards Parkland Hospital. He remembers everything moving in slow motion and thinking, "I can't believe this. This can't be happening."

Later Rigler went up to the third floor of the Dallas Police Department where Lee Harvey Oswald was being held. He recalls people milling around and seeing Jack Ruby carrying sandwiches to officers.

He was back home in Gainesville when Ruby shot Oswald.

The veteran lawman believes Oswald acted alone when he shot President Kennedy.

"I was there," he said. "I studied it. Those people who came up with theories (about a conspiracy to kill the president) were trying to sell books. They got the right man."

Rigler retired from the Texas Rangers in 1977, but his involvement with the corps continues. Law enforcement officials, respecting his years of experience and excellent memory, still pick his brain for information on various cases.

Recently Ranger Captain G.W. Burks of Dallas called Rigler and asked what he knew about Lawrence "Edward" and Alice Byrom, the modern-day Bonnie and Clyde team that allegedly robbed the Valley View Bank of $36,000 on June 10, 1983.

The retired Gainesville Ranger arrested Edward Byrom for two armed robberies in 1948 and remembered that Byrom had arthritis in both ankles.

He also recalled telling the young man to "do your time, get out and make something of yourself."

Byrom served 16 years in prison but he apparently did not follow Rigler's advice when he got out. And Rigler's information concerning the arthritis helped put him in jail a second time.

If someone were to ask Lewis C. Rigler why he chose a career in the field of law enforcement, he would answer, "Nothing is more important than the truth. There is no greater honor than the performance of duty and no greater privilege than being a decent, law-abiding citizen of the United States."

That is how he lives his life, and that is why he spent 30 years as a Texas Ranger.

VFW to observe V-Day

The Muenster VFW and Auxiliary will hold their annual memorial service at the Muenster Cemetery on Sunday, to celebrate Veteran's Day.

The service will begin just after the 7 a.m. mass, around 8 a.m., and will consist of prayers and readings. The public is invited to attend.

Gun safety class starts Nov. 15

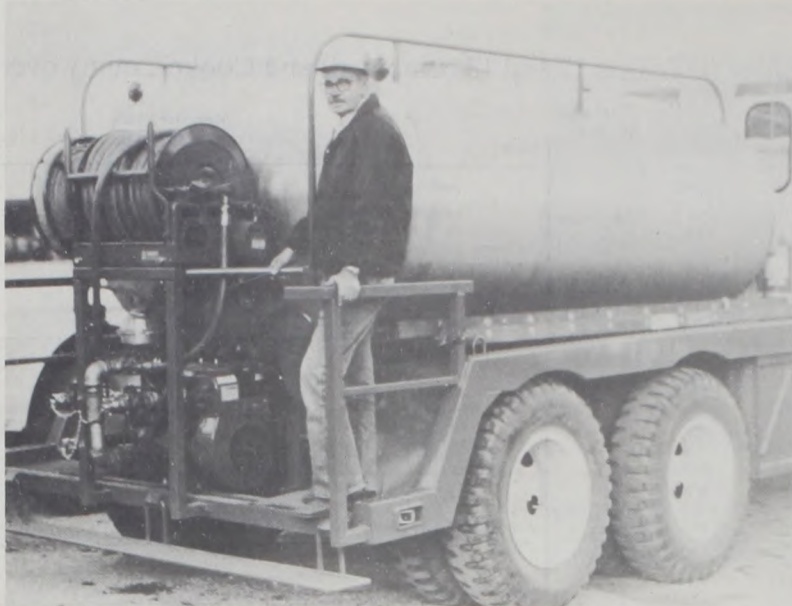

Cooke County 4-H'ers and other interested persons are invited to the first session of a gun safety course sponsored by the 4-H clubs.

The meeting will be held Thursday night, November 15 at 7 o'clock at the Cooke County Electric Cooperative building on highway 82 east of Muenster. Everyone is invited.

Instructor for the course will be James Dennison of Lindsay, a certified instructor. The first class will deal with gun safety.

Those desiring more information may call Barbara Bayer at 759-2574 or John Bourquin at 665-4931.

Date for the second meeting, which will deal with gun care and handling, will be announced at the November 15 meeting.

Turkey walkers take to track

Heart Association event set Saturday in Gainesville

Saturday is the day for the Cooke County American Heart Association "Turkey Walk" at the high school track in Gainesville.

Registration for the three-mile walk begins at 9:30 a.m., with walkers soliciting pledges for each mile. All funds raised will go to the American Heart Association.

Pledge sheets are still available at various locations throughout the county, including banks, schools, Dairy Queens, the Dairy Inn, the Hut and the Charm Shop. Those who plan to walk should get sponsors to pledge money for each mile they walk.

Saturday, walkers will have their pledge sheets verified as they complete each mile, and will be given envelopes at the end of their three-mile trek to allow them to collect on the pledges.

A host of prizes are to be presented to those bringing in the most money.

Cooke County EMS personnel will be on the scene to run blood pressure checks on all those taking part. Everyone bringing in $125 or more in pledges will receive a turkey.

Rep. Finnell to speak to Nocona Rotary Club

State Rep. Charles Finnell, a Democrat from Holliday, will speak to the noon luncheon of the Nocona Rotary Club on Tuesday, November 13.

Finnell, who represents the 80th District including Archer, Baylor, Clay, Foard, Hardeman, Jack, Montague, Wilbarger and part of Wichita counties, will address the club on issues facing the 69th legislature which convenes January 15 in Austin, as well as on the impact of the recent special session.

After the meeting, Finnell will tour local schools in conjunction with American Education Week, which runs November 12-16.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

City reminds residents to observe leash law

Muenster residents are reminded to observe the city's leash law and keep dogs either tied or penned at all times.

Police chief Helen Tompkins said this week that several complaints had been received about dogs running loose and overturning garbage bags or harassing senior citizens. She said the law will be enforced and dogs will be picked up and impounded if complaints are received.

The city dog pound holds animals for 48 hours while attempting to contact their owners. If they cannot be identified after that time, they are destroyed.

Owners who allow their dogs to roam free may be fined up to $200 a day under the city statute.

Correction

The Enterprise regrets an error last week in listing survivors in the funeral story of Helen Lutkenhaus. It should have named two sons Raymond and David of Gainesville, and she was preceded in death by one son, Anthony.

4-H Food Show set Saturday in G'ville

Local 4-H members will have an opportunity to display their foods and nutrition know-how when the Cooke County 4-H Food Show gets underway this Saturday, November 10 at Whaley United Methodist Church in Gainesville.

4-H members will choose to prepare a dish in one of the four areas of Main Dishes, Fruits and Vegetables, Nutritious Snacks and Desserts, and Breads and Cereals.

This year's theme is "Celebrate With Style." Youth from the third grade through 13 will compete in the Junior Division while youth ages 14-19 will compete in the Senior Division.

Judging of entries is scheduled to begin at 1:00 p.m. Immediately following the judging, a public display of exhibits and a tasting bee will be directly after the judging to allow those who attend the opportunity to sample the foods that have been prepared by the 4-H'ers.

An awards program will culminate the activities. A winner and runner-up will be named in each of the four entry classes in junior and senior divisions.

Although the ability to prepare food is an important part of the 4-H foods and nutrition program, each 4-H member should realize how important nutrition is and is required as a 4-H contestant to demonstrate their knowledge of nutrition, meal planning, and meal service.

Muenster PTO hears college admissions talk

Muenster Public School P.T.O. met for its regular monthly meeting Oct. 22 in the home economics room. Jerry Bynum, vice-president, presided over the business meeting and introduced the speaker.

Tom Fluker, school counselor, gave the program dealing with college admissions, including testing, unit requirements, and financial aid available for students. He concluded his talk by giving the advantages and disadvantages in choosing either a junior college or a senior college for a student's education.

The next P.T.O. meeting is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. A "Bread Bake" is scheduled for the program and each member is asked to bring $1.25 to cover the cost.

All parents and teachers are reminded to pay their dues and are encouraged to come and participate in the P.T.O. programs this year.

Celebration held at Lindsay Lutkenhauses honored on 40th

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lutkenhaus of Muenster were honored on their 40th wedding anniversary Saturday Nov. 3 at a party hosted by their children and spouses in Lindsay.

They are Walter and Kathy Lutkenhaus, Leo and Peggy Lutkenhaus, all of Lindsay; Dennis and Carolyn Lutkenhaus of Callisburg; Norma and John Kubicek of Valley View; Doris and Chris Muller of Muenster and Charles Lutkenhaus of Gilbert, Arizona. All were present, including 15 grandchildren.

Children, spouses and grandchildren prepared and served the dinner. The anniversary cake was baked and decorated by Carolyn Lutkenhaus and served by granddaughters. Decorations in the hall emphasized red tablecloths and crocheted candles made by Armella Lutkenhaus.

Following the dinner a brief family history was given by Walter Lutkenhaus; and Donna Lutkenhaus told about each grandchild. The honored couple has lived south of Muenster on their farm all of their married life. Gus is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Lutkenhaus and Armella is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Flusche, all Muenster pioneers.

Guests played Progressive 42, visited and reminisced during the evening.

Attendants at the wedding 40 years ago, Mrs. Henry Sandmann (Lorene) of Valley View, sister of the groom and Rufus Henscheid of Muenster, nephew of the bride were present to join the anniversary celebration.

Other guests attending were an uncle of Gus Lutkenhaus and cousins from Conroe, Texas and relatives, friends and neighbors from Cooke County.

Donations sought for parish picnic

Committee heads of Sacred Heart Parish's Thanksgiving Picnic are repeating their request this week for donations to their project.

Topping the list is the dinner committee asking especially for turkeys plus eggs, onions, bread and other makings for the meal. The items may be purchased and left for pickup at Fischer's, Hofbauer's and H and W.

Another project is the children's booth directed by Elaine Schilling. It has need of kiddies' interest items such as Golden Books, color books, crayons, hotwheels, games, pistols, candy etc. Those and more will be appreciated because they reduce the expense of stocking the booth. The items may be bought and left for pickup at Ben Franklin's.

The Country Store and crafts booth, jointly operated by Monica and Rhonda Hartman, likewise is asking for donations, especially home made goods and crafts. Donors can notify Monica at 759-4225 or Rhonda at 759-4972 or deliver the items to their homes.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE ENGAGEMENT of their daughter, Carolyn Ann, of Arlington, to Michael T. Powell of Dallas, is being made by Bill and Eileen Luke. The prospective groom is the son of Beryl and Dean Powell of Arlington. Their wedding will be an event of December 22 in the Most Blessed Sacrament Church of Arlington. Carolyn is a student at North Texas State University, Denton, and is a sales representative and designer for Marlborough and Lord Associates of Dallas. Powell is a graduate of the University of Texas at Arlington with a BBA degree in accounting. He is employed by Mobil Oil Corporation in Dallas.

Kimberley Nix notes second birthday here

Kimberly Nix, two years old on Nov. 2, celebrated her birthday on Sunday, Nov. 4 at a party hosted by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kim Nix.

The party theme was "Sesame Street Gang", with a Big Bird birthday cake.

Helping Kimberly celebrate were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wimmer and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nix. Also Terry, Cindy, Harvey, Jason, and Terri Sue Wimmer; Louie, Molly, Andrea and Staci Gieb; Barbie Felderhoff; Kellye, Donnie, Brandon and Kristin Grewing; and Valana Nix.

The honoree also received cards and gifts from several relatives and friends unable to attend.

Refreshments for the party included hot dogs, soft drinks and the decorated birthday cake, which was made by her mother.

SWCD to sponsor essay writing contest

Clyde Hale, Chairman of the Board of Directors, announced today the Upper Elm-Red SWCD will again sponsor an Annual Essay Writing Contest, the 25th, open to students residing in the district.

The subject is "Soil and Water Conservation" including, but not limited to, the concept that soil and water resources of this nation are vital for providing the necessities of food, clothing, and shelter.

Entries of 300 words or less should be sent to Upper Elm-Red SWCD, Federal Building Room 204, Gainesville, Texas 76240, no later than January 15, 1985. Contestants must be students, not having graduated from high school, and not more than 18 years of age. Essays will be judged locally for consideration of cash awards of $35.00, first place, $25.00 second place and $20.00 for third place.

Vocational Agriculture and English Teachers and 4-H Leaders are urged to encourage students to participate.

YHT group hears talk on parenting

A talk on "Parenting" by Dr. David Johnson, a pediatrician of First Texas Medical Center, Denton, is the headliner of a meeting of the Muenster chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas next Monday night, Nov. 12. It will be in the homemaking department of Muenster High School starting at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be followed by refreshments and everyone is invited.

Green holds sessions on fire prevention

For Frontier Manor employees

April Green, training coordinator at Frontier Manor, has conducted an in-service session on fire prevention for nurses and aides along with kitchen, maintenance and office personnel of the manor. The program included a film telling what to do and how, also duties to be delegated and places to look if the fire alarm sounds.

A continuing education program on the subject is held each month at the regular staff meeting. A luncheon was included with this month's meeting.

The Church of Jesus Christ Academy performed for Frontier Manor residents last Friday. Their program included sign language along with their song, a special consideration to many residents who are hard of hearing and enjoy the interpretation of singing through sign language. These young folks go from nursing home to nursing home visiting one in Gainesville every three weeks.

Arts & crafts sale scheduled

At Gainesville Community Center

The Fourth Annual Arts and Crafts Sell-O-Rama is scheduled for November 16 and 17. The Sale, which is being sponsored by the Cooke County Extension Homemakers Council, will open on Friday the 16th at 10 a.m. and remain open until 9 p.m. On Saturday the 17th, exhibits open at 10 a.m. and remain open until 6 p.m.

The Sell-O-Rama will be held at the Gainesville Community Center located on West California Street.

Over 65 tables will be filled with arts of all types with the entire building being filled. The crafts tables have been reserved by individuals, as well as numerous club groups.

Items to be sold by area artisans include: needlework, ceramics, woodcarving, pottery, stained glass, original paintings, pillows, quilts, woodworks, plastic creations, and many other types of homemade items. The Sell-O-Rama will offer an excellent way for people to Christmas shop or buy those homemade items which they don't have time to make themselves or don't have the talent to make.

Door prizes will be provided by each exhibitor. These will be awarded hourly.

The Extension Homemakers Council will also have a Bake Sale of homemade items and will have a Concession Stand. The Bake Sale is to benefit the 4-H Scholarship Fund. The Cooke County Council annually presents scholarships to graduating seniors.

For any questions concerning the sale, call Mrs. Evelyn Yeatts, County Extension Agent, at 817-665-4931 or 665-1966.

New Arrivals

Kevin and Kathy Cottle of Jasper, Texas announce a daughter, Rebecca Lynn, born on Nov. 3, 1984, making Mrs. Rita Cottle of Carrollton grandmother again and Joe Hoening of Muenster great-grandfather for the 11th time.

Mrs. Jennie Schilling of St. Richard's Villa is the baby's great-grandmother. Mrs. Joe Hoedebeck is the former Shellie Walterscheid.

Rae Ann Walterscheid honored on birthday

Rae Ann Walterscheid was the honoree at a barbecue chicken dinner party along with gifts, birthday cake and ice cream on her eighth birthday, November 2 in the home of her grandmother, Mildred Walterscheid.

Enjoying the event with her were her dad and mom, Joe and Roberta Walterscheid and brothers, Mark and Jacob; also Damian and Margie Walterscheid and Toby, Tim and Tina; and Sara Walterscheid. Ruth and Cal Wells and Audra of Bowie were unable to attend.

October was busy

For St. Richard's Villa residents

October was a busy month at St. Richard's Villa. Routine activities include movies, daily rosary, bingo, Bible study, and exercise sessions.

Volunteers from First Baptist Church and Sacred Heart Church conduct services and Bible school.

Piano music is furnished by Rita Richey. Every Monday, Beth and Jimmy Hutcherson, associate pastor of Muenster First Baptist Church, lead the group with singing and Bible study.

Halloween gave the nursing home opportunity to decorate and host several parties. Lucille Hess and Millie Voth shared home made cookies with the residents. 4-H members visited and furnished refreshments. Sue Oakley brought a special luncheon cake on Oct. 28.

Residents made trick-or-treat goodies for the children from Young Children's Learning Center and the Tender Loving Care Day Care Center. The children visited with residents in the front lobby and with residents in each room. They also presented special programs.

They are always a pleasure. Residents and staff enjoy all of the children's visits, but on Halloween they took particular delight in the Halloween costumes. The 7th grade CCD class presented residents with wonderful Halloween decorations.

Residents and staff expressed gratitude to visitors and volunteers whose help made fall festivities more enjoyable for everyone at St. Richard's Villa.

LET'S TALK ABOUT MONEY

... and how to keep it working for us at home

Money is beautiful stuff to look at . . . not so much for the artistic design, but because the sight of it reminds us of the many pleasing things it can do for us.

Yet, if we're not careful how we handle it, we may thoughtlessly cheat ourselves out of some of the finer things our money can bring us. Our schools, churches, our homes and our jobs depend on dollars spent in our own community.

When we shop at home we get everything our money pays for in goods and services plus a lot more. We also share the benefits of better business, better jobs and better living with our friends.

NCCW holds convention in Ft. Worth

The seventh biennial convention of the Fort Worth diocesan council of the National Council of Catholic Women was held at Our Lady of Victory Convent in Fort Worth on Oct. 25. Central-East deanery hosted the event.

Bishop Joseph Delaney was the principal celebrant and homilist of the Mass in the Convent chapel at noon. However, the business meeting preceded the Mass, and was conducted by Barbara Abel, president. Rev. Richard Judge, moderator of Central-East deanery led the invocation.

Mrs. Cecina Koeijmans of Dallas, Texas provincial director of NCCW was the keynote speaker. She explained NCCW from its inception to the present time. NCCW is a federation of all Catholic women's organizations to bring women together on the parish, deanery, and diocesan levels. It is a resource from which parishes can draw materials.

Election of officers followed Mrs. Koeijmans' program. Mrs. Mary Kay Manning was elected president and Mrs. Kathleen Thompson will be president-elect. Mrs. Ann Long, is the new secretary. All are of Fort Worth. Mrs. Paulette Fenoglio of Montague is the treasurer. Presidents of the deaneries are the vice presidents. Mrs. Paul Fisher of Muenster is the new community affairs chairman for the diocese.

During the Mass offered by Bishop Joseph A. Delaney, new officers were installed at the Offertory by Rev. James A. Boyle, diocesan moderator.

Lunch followed in the convent cafeteria, with Rev. S. Blank, moderator of northwest deanery leading the prayer before the meal. The meeting convened again after lunch. Bishop Delaney spoke briefly before leaving to attend another function. Resolutions were presented by Mrs. Pat Calvin and accepted.

Mrs. Barbara Abel of Wichita Falls, out-going president gave a report on the province meeting she attended in Salt Lake City. Rev. James A. Boyle brought a message as diocesan moderator. The new NCCW president then introduced her committee chairman and the meeting adjourned.

Scouts collect items for Goodwill Industries

Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts of Muenster and Gainesville were highly successful Sunday in their annual Goodwill good-turn collection of clothing and other items for Goodwill Industries of Northeast Texas.

Kitty Early of the Sherman Goodwill office said 96 Scouts and adults participated in the project. They were from Boy Scout troops 664 of Muenster and 659 of Gainesville, also Cub Scouts 663 of Muenster and 652, 653 and 663 of Gainesville. The collection includes clothing and household items which are repaired and cleaned by more than 100 persons in plants at Sherman, Gainesville, Denison, Paris, Sulphur Springs, Bonham, Greenville and McKinney, and then sold at bargain prices. Income from this operation is used to help the workers, who are generally jobless and handicapped. The area served by Goodwill of NE Texas includes 15 counties in Texas and Bryan County, Okla.

Forestburg News

by Myrt Denham

For some reason or the other, two items in my column last week got terribly mixed up! So shall make another stab at it this week. First of all: the Annual Forestburg Community Supper will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday Nov. 15 at the Community Center. Everyone is invited — bring a salad or vegetable and a dessert.

Second, the Forestburg United Methodist Church Bazaar will be held Saturday, Nov. 17 at the Forestburg Community Center. Features are a bake sale, arts and crafts sale and a White Elephant Sale with a traditional Thanksgiving meal to be served at 12 noon for $3.00 a person.

It is a great-grandson for Mrs. Ouida Beavers of Bowie and Casey Jones of Forestburg. The young "bundle of joy" is the son of Jeff and Robbie McCommas of Edmond, Okla. and he made his appearance on Oct. 26 weighing in at 6 lbs. 10 oz. and was named Kyler Lynn. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCommas of Chandler, Okla. Mrs. Beavers was in Ponca City, Okla. visiting with the Mr. and Mrs. Warren Crump and had made it to Chandler, Okla. to visit with the Bob McCommas family when they got word about the new arrival. While in Chandler Mrs. Beavers also attended the grand opening of Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCommas' new Western Wear Store, which was a big success. Mrs. Bob McCommas and Mrs. Warren Crump are the daughters of Mrs. Beavers and Casey Jones.

Cleo Lanier made her annual visit to Fort Worth and Grand Prairie last week. She visited her granddaughter Phyllis Teakell and Rickey, in Fort Worth, and went to Grand Prairie to help Phyllis with her Halloween Carnival at the Community Center.

About 100 people came to the carnival. Mr. and Mrs. Aston Buck, former residents of Saint Jo, came by to visit with Cleo.

She also enjoyed meeting and working with some of the same workers, who worked at the carnival last year.

"It was an unusual and rewarding experience working with people of many different races, and nationalities, much different from our native Forestburgers," says Cleo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Milburn of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Echols of Watuga and Hazel Greenwood were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. D.D. Echols of Mallard.

Veda and Barney Brogdon along with Ova and Starr Mann made a trip to Arkansas last week. They went mainly to view the fall foliage but did stop in Lincoln to visit with Carl Umberson — brother to Ern Umberson.

Visitors in the S.T. Warford home in Slidell Tues. night Oct. 30 were the Ray Jacksons of Forestburg. Then on Wed. the 31st Mr. Warford and Mr. Jackson made a trip to Denton and then on to Lake Dallas to get in some fishing.

Bud and Ella Jane Griffin drove down Fri. Nov. 2 to have lunch with Mrs. Griffin's mother, Mrs. Vera Mae McGee. That afternoon they all attended funeral services for John Smith at the First United Methodist Church in Saint Jo. Afterward the Griffins drove on to Fort Worth to spend a few days with Bud's sisters and one brother.

Cleo Lanier of the Burg also attended the funeral services for John Smith.

Mrs. Sheree Vannoy, Mrs. Bobbie Wylie and Jim Landers attended funeral services Fri. Nov. 2 in Mobeetie for Jim's sister Mrs. Mary Farmer. Mrs. Farmer was also a sister of the late Ida Wylie, Dora Cook and Bill Landers. They were all the children of the late Dutch and Lula Landers.

Mrs. Decie Ellzey and daughter Mrs. Caronell Wright of Temple made up to the Burg Fri. the 2nd and returned to Temple on Sunday a.m. the 4th. Many of Decie's friends here visited her while she was here.

Joe Taylor, uncle of Mrs. Effie Echols of Mallard, fell and broke his hip thus underwent hip surgery on Mon. Oct. 29. Mr. Taylor resides in Comanche, Oklahoma.

Cecil and Dorothy Foster of Denton spent the past weekend at their Forestburg home, doing some repair work on it while here. Dorothy has retired from her duties at NTSU in Denton and Cecil is due to retire sometime in the spring. They will then return to live in their home here.

Mrs. Millie Reynolds and Wanda Perryman were in Bowie Sat. the 3rd and stopped in to see Mrs. Joe Denham at the Bellmire Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Parsons and children of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn and sons of Gainesville were Saturday Nov. 3 visitors with the Buford Greenwoods.

Bert and Eula Faye Galmor made it up to Wichita Falls Sat. Nov. 3 to visit Bert's brother Forest and his wife Edna in the Heritage Manor Nursing Home there.

Mrs. Louise Shults made it to Lewisville Saturday the 3rd to visit her son Bill and wife Ginny.

Bill Jackson of Decatur was in the Burg Sat. the 3rd visiting his parents the Ray Jacksons.

Mrs. Lecia Lynch of Arlington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Lynch of Forestburg was honored with a wedding shower Sat. night the 3rd in the Annex of the Forestburg United Methodist Church. It was a lovely affair with many relatives and friends attending.

Caton Orrell of Denton and Jennifer Scott spent Sat. night the 3rd with their grandparents Veda and Barney Brogdon.

Marion and Howard Sockwell attended a shower for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ray Kenas in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Yates of Sanger on Sunday Nov. 4. The Walter Kenas' home burned to the ground recently when it was hit by lightning during a storm. Walter Kenas is the oldest brother of Bill Kenas — and Bill is the Sockwell's son-in-law.

Amy Hatcher spent the past weekend in Euless with her mother Mrs. Susan Hatcher, Megan and Morgan.

Peggy Holland and Brent made it to Denton Sat. the 2nd and while Brent attended a movie with Osama Rashid Peggy and daughter Christy drove on the Arlington to do some shopping. On Sunday the fourth Osama Rashid had lunch with the Kenneth Hollands and spent the afternoon with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hays had an early birthday get-together for daughter Leann in their home Sun. afternoon the 4th. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Dill and Vatori and Mr. and Mrs. Don Farrell and children. Leann's birthday was Wed. Nov. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Cantrell of Duncan, Okla. visited on Sun. Nov. 4 with her uncle and wife, Bert and Eula Faye Galmor. The Cantrells also visited with Mrs. Billie Poyner. Mrs. Cantrell is the former Ila Galmor, daughter of the late Monroe Galmore who used to live where the L.D. Sirmans now live.

Millie and W.T. Reynolds and Mrs. Wanda Perryman drifted across the Red River Sun. p.m. the 4th to dine on fish at the Peach-Orchard Restaurant.

Cleo Lanier visited in the Yester-Year Home in Saint Jo Mon. the 5th.

Henry Berry and sons of Nocona visited his parents the Dude Berrys Sunday the 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dill and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore and children and Mrs. Nora Gartrell were Sun. night the 4th dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. White.

Mrs. Margie Long of Denton was up in the Burg Monday the 5th to help her mother Veda Brogdon with some "fix-up-chores" on Veda's log cabin.

Perryman Denham was over in Bowie Mon. the 5th running some errands and to visit with his mother Mrs. Joe Denham.

DOUGLAS EDWARDS ...wins swine, Lone Star awards...

CHARLES EDWARDS ...receives teachers' honor...

FFA youths, teacher honored at area meet

The Area V FFA awards banquet was held in the Round-Up Inn in Fort Worth, Tuesday with over 1100 FFA members and guests present. A highlight of the meeting was an address by State FFA President Coby Shorter of Rice Consolidated High School. Receiving the Star Lone Star Farmer award was Douglas Edwards of the Forestburg Chapter. Area members receiving proficiency awards were: Larry Downe, Era, Dairy Production; Nancy Davidson, Gainesville Diversified Livestock Farming, and Douglas Edwards, Forestburg Swine Production.

Recognized as Superior Chapters were: Alvord, Bowie, Callisburg, Chico, Decatur, Era, Forestburg, Gainesville, Gold-Burg, Lindsay, Muenster, Prairie Valley, Saint Jo, Slidell, Valley View and Whitesboro.

First place judging teams honored were Callisburg's Range and Pasture Judging team; Forestburg's Land Team and Forestburg for Sweetstakes winner.

Charles Edwards, vocational agriculture teacher at Forestburg High School, received the State Environmental Conservation Education award at the meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Christian and Lois Bewley called on Bula Mae Berry Saturday afternoon the 3rd.

Ellen Wellstood formerly of New York City and lately of Gainesville is now a Dewey resident. She resides in a Mobile Home on the W.T. Reynold's place.

Linda Huckabay and Lance visited with her mother Mrs. Lavona Cannon of Ft. Worth Sun. the 4th.

Called Clea Reynolds Mon. a.m. and caught her outside on a ladder painting on the house. Asked her where her better-half J.J. was and she said, "Oh, he is outside holding the ladder steady for me while I paint". Those guys who know J.J. — know he is doing everything and all he can to help Clea.

Mrs. Evelyn Brown of Leo made it to the Burg Fri. Nov. 2 to call on Mrs. Emma Steadham.

As it seems to happen ever so often some people are once again using the little park out close to the Perryman cemetery for a dumping ground. Thus its little caretaker is hopping mad and no one can blame her for it either as she has no help from anyone to keep it clean. This park is NOT A DUMPING GROUND for local people's trash and garbage. There is no pickup or cleanup there by any road crews, county or state. The barrel was put there strictly for travelers who stop there to rest and picnic.

The following article on Discipleship was written by Nathan C. Schaeffer and appeared in Radio Bible Class Literature and I quote:

At the close of life, the question will not be, "How much have you gotten?" but "How much have you given?" Not "How much have you won?" but "How much have you done?" not "How much have you saved?" but "How much have you sacrificed?". It will be, "How much have you loved and served," not "How much were you honored?"

Playoff berth on the line

Hornets, Eagles to face off

The battle lines are drawn for Friday night's showdown between the Muenster Hornets and the Valley View Eagles.

Both teams are 7-2 on the season and 3-1 in district. Both have lost to Lindsay, and both will be fighting for a chance to play Paradise, the top-ranked class A team in the state and the winner of district 4-A's south zone.

One will advance as north zone runner-up — the other will stay home.

Valley View was upset last week by Lindsay, 34-28, while Muenster did as expected in rolling over Saint Jo 48-0. The Hornets played their varsity squad for only part of the first half before bringing on the second teamers and junior varsity.

"We played the varsity until there were definitely enough points on the board," Muenster coach Leonard Peters said. "We wanted them to get some playing time and to keep up their execution and rhythm. We pulled them just before the half and they didn't play anymore."

By halftime, Muenster's lead was a comfortable 41-0, mostly due to the efforts of Shawn and Neal Flusche and Ronnie Fisher. Fisher rushed for 123 yards on just eight carries before sitting down. Shawn, a sophomore, carried the ball just four times for 82 yards.

Both Flusche and Fisher notched two touchdowns apiece, while senior Neal Flusche carried the ball eight times for 51 yards and another touchdown.

Shawn put Muenster on the board with a 75-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Fisher followed with a 12-yarder a few minutes later, and Shawn got another score on a one-yard dive before the quarter ended.

Fisher started the scoring in the second frame with a 75-yard gallop of his own. Neal got in the act with a 29-yard burst through the line, and reserve wingback Mark Hennigan showed some spark on a 64-yard run for the squad's final touchdown of the half.

Also in the second period, defensive end Andy Burnette got into the scoring act when he tackled the Saint Jo quarterback for a safety. Burnette, returning after sitting out most of the season with a broken hand, also caught a pass in his tight end spot.

"Andy didn't look too bad," Peters said. "Defensively, you could tell he'd been out a lot, but he looked alright. He'll play a lot this week."

The scoring ended in the fourth quarter when reserve quarterback Drue Bynum broke a keeper for a 32-yard touchdown. Bynum moved up to the number-one reserve spot after junior Johnny Eldred went down with a broken hand against Collinsville and sophomore Ryan Klement took over the starting job.

Eldred's loss hasn't been noticed that much at quarterback so far, but he will be missed in the defensive secondary — especially against Valley View's dynamic offense.

Offense, defense to face off

"Valley View has got an outstanding football team," Peters said. "Offensively, they're very powerful — every time they touch the ball they can score. We'll have to play a super defensive game to hold them down."

The Eagles rely chiefly on running backs Ray Sappington and Gary Ward, but quarterback Mike Montgomery runs and throws the ball well, and receivers Mike Alexander and Steve Sparkman have both proven themselves to be offensive weapons.

Peters gives Sappington the highest marks.

"He's as good as they come," he said. "Both their running backs are super-good for our classification, but Sappington is the better of the two. He's got extremely quick feet, and for about the first 20 or 30 yards, he's as fast as anyone in the district."

Muenster will try and mount a ball-control offense against a Valley View defense that puts most of its muscle up front. While Lindsay relied on big plays to beat the Eagles last week, Peters says the Hornets will try and grind out the yardage as they have all season.

"They try to manhandle everybody on the line and use their linebackers," he said. "The secondary just tries to keep you from breaking the big ones — they put the emphasis up front."

Peters said that despite the outcome of their game last week, Valley View will be "the best

Hornettes fall in volleyball playoff

The volleyball season ended last Thursday for Muenster Hornettes as they lost a tough three-game match to Paradise.

The match, played in Chico, was the Hornettes' first game competition since October 9, and the layoff hurt the Muenster ladies according to coach Eddie Green. They lost the first game 15-8, then came back to win the second game 16-14 after leading by as much as 10-3 at one time.

The final game went to Paradise by a 15-10 score, although the Muenster girls fought back from an 11-2 deficit to make a contest out of it. "The lack of playing time really showed up in the first game," Green said. "We just weren't warm and we weren't ready to play."

Green commended Judy Biffle and Dolle Pagel for some crucial points at the serving line to help Muenster put up a fight. Starter Tammy Reiter did not play due to an injured arm.

The loss end the Hornettes' season at 4-5, while Paradise took a 15-6 record into the second round of playoff action.

A roundup of area sports happenings

It's anybody's district...

Going into the final Friday night for district 4-A play, three teams are still very much in the running for a playoff spot after Lindsay's upset win over Valley View last week.

The Knights have the only sure thing, with a 4-0 record going into their contest with Era. Action begins at 7:30 on Era's home field.

Meanwhile, in Muenster, the Hornets and the Eagles will take identical district and season records into battle — Muenster is 3-1 with a loss to Lindsay, and Valley View is 3-1, also with a loss to Lindsay.

The winner will be the North Zone runner-up and get a shot at Paradise, the sure favorite in the south Zone. Gametime is 7:30 in Muenster.

Saint Jo will try to break their seven-game losing streak against Collinsville. That game begins at 7:30 in Saint Jo.

Callisburg will wind up their season at home against Coppell in a 7:30 ball game. The Wildcats are 1-3-2 in district.

Sacred Heart's Tigers will be on the road for the first of their two district games as they travel to play Wichita Falls Notre Dame at 8 p.m. The Tigers are 3-5 as they begin the TCIL district 3-3A schedule.

Action in the gym...

The Sacred Heart girls will host Gunter in a scrimmage at 6 p.m. Tuesday as they continue to prepare for the opening of basketball season November 20 at Saint Jo. The Tigerettes are looking for their fifth straight trip to the TCIL state tournament after winning state two years ago and finishing as runners-up last year.

Lindsay upsets Valley View

Knights grab district championship with 34-28 win

In a scant two hours Friday night, the Lindsay Knights transformed themselves from a formed possible playoff contender to the outright zone champion, as they fashioned a stunning 34-28 win over state-ranked Valley View.

The upset came on big plays — including touchdown runs of 48 and 64 yards by Kenneth Fuhrmann and a 45-yard scoring pass from quarterback Wayne Fleitman to Fuhrmann — and a tough defense that held Valley View to its lowest offensive output since their season-opening loss at Paradise.

"We felt we had a good offensive game plan and a good defensive game plan," Lindsay coach Grady Roller said. "I felt like if we could hold them to four touchdowns we had a chance — that would be better than most folks have been doing against them."

"I knew we had to get on the field and execute in a way we had not been doing," he added. "For some reason, everything came together. Our receivers made some good catches, the line did a good job protecting the passer and blocking for the run. We broke a couple of big plays and beat them."

Fuhrmann, a 160-lb. senior, galloped for 204 yards against Valley View's defense, notching three touchdowns running and catching a pass for another one. His performance — by far the best of the year — was the key to Lindsay's jabbing at the Eagles' defense.

"I knew we had to get the ball to Kenneth Fuhrmann and get him past the line of scrimmage," Roller said. "Once you get him past the line, he's the kind of runner who can do some damage."

Valley View coach John Kassen, whose team falls to 7-2 on the season, offered no excuses after the loss.

"Lindsay's pretty tough," he said. "They deserved to win the ball game. They got two quick touchdowns on us in the first quarter and kind of stunned us. Then when we were coming back in the third quarter, they completed that long pass. We had our opportunities in the fourth quarter and we just missed them."

Kassen's troops got the better of the scoreboard in the second half, but Lindsay put 19 points on the board in the first quarter on Fuhrmann's 48-yard scamper, a returned blocked punt by Frank Fangman and a one-yard touchdown dive by Fuhrmann.

A second-quarter touchdown came on a 64-yard run by Fuhrmann, and the 45-yard pass play came in the third period.

Valley View got on the board with a 15-yard keeper by quarterback Mike Montgomery to cut the margin to 13-8 midway through the first frame. He hit wide receiver Steve Sparkman just before halftime for a 35-yard scoring pass, but again his team was coming from behind, cutting the margin to 27-15.

The Eagles' second-half touchdowns came on two one-yard quarterback sneaks.

"We just didn't play defense," Kassen said. "Our secondary might as well have stayed home. We missed tackles all night long. You can't do that against a good ball club, and Lindsay is a good ball club. They played the way they had to play to beat us."

Fullback Ray Sappington rushed for 156 yards on 23 carries for the Eagles, while Gary Ward picked up 84 and Montgomery added 29.

playoff berth. Lindsay will head to Era to face the upset-minded Hornets there.

"This (the Valley View loss) may be the best thing that could happen for all three teams (Valley View, Lindsay and Muenster)," Kassen said. "If we had beaten Lindsay and then lost to Muenster, it would have put it into a three-way tie and then it would have been decided on a coin flip. At least this way it'll be decided on the field."

Kassen said Muenster could have "the toughest defense we'll face this year."

"They present a lot of problems to us," he said. "Offensively, they

Pirates rob Era, 16-15

Collinsville wins on last-second field goal

The Era Hornets fell to 1-3 in district play on a last-second field goal by Collinsville Friday night.

The loss was not an easy one to swallow for the Hornets, who have now lost three straight after winning their first six games of the season. It sets up a finale against powerful Lindsay Friday night in which the Hornets will be playing for pride only.

"The loss was rough," coach Mike Allison said. "We drove down to their 28 yard line with just over three minutes left and they held us on downs. They took over and drove it down and kicked a field goal with one second left on the clock."

Collinsville had scored first on a 10-yard pass from quarterback James Ragsdale to running back Kerry Kyle. Ragsdale kicked the extra point and it was 7-0 in the first quarter. They added another touchdown on a five-yard run by Ragsdale in the second quarter before Era's offense came out of its shell.

Hornet quarterback Mark Knabe broke the drought with a one-yard run late in the half for Era's first touchdown. Knabe ran the extra points in himself as well, to make it 13-8 at halftime.

The Hornets went ahead in the third quarter on a 33-yard scamper by Chris Sikes. Knabe kicked the point-after and it was 15-13 until Ragsdale's game-winning 17-yard field goal.

"They moved the ball real well," Allison said. "We had a hard time stopping them, but we got stout around the goalline."

The key play in Collinsville's final drive, Allison said, was a tricky "guard-around" play that netted about 30 yards on a third-and-long situation.

Kyle rushed for 112 yards to lead Collinsville's offense, while Sikes had 78 for the Hornets.

Allison said his team will pull out all the stops against Lindsay in an effort to upset the playoff-bound Knights and avenge the defeats of previous years. The Hornets, hoping to end on a win, have nothing to lose.

"We're hoping they won't be that high coming off the big win over Valley View," Allison said. "We'll probably throw a lot, use a lot of sprint-out passes and just try to have a good time and see what happens. We will go into the game with the intention of upsetting them."

While Allison is coaching his first year at Era, his players will remember very well how Lindsay has manhandled them in the past.

"They've pounded on us pretty good in previous years," he said. "We'd like to turn that around, of course."

"They're tough, though," he added. "They've got good speed and good people — they do a lot of different things and they do it all well. They've got the ability to play well in big games."

year by a long ways." "Lindsay just had their night," he said. "Things went the way they needed them to go and they did what they had to do — but Valley View, overall, is a better football team."

Defensively, Muenster will rely on technique and personnel to stop the Eagle rushing attack. The game puts the league's best offense against its stingiest defense, and both coaches will be trying to create opportunities for mistakes on the other side.

"We'll try to have our kids in the proper position and know what we're supposed to do at all times," Peters said. "We want to make them have to block us to beat us. I think they'll run the inside and outside veer and the option, and maybe put the ball in the air more than they have been."

Offensively, "the key is controlling the football," Peters said. "We'll take every big play we can get, but we've got to keep the ball away from them."

"They are going to come up here and try to prove they can tackle," he noted. "I'm sure they will make adjustments to improve on the areas Lindsay took advantage of last week. Those weaknesses probably won't be there anymore — we'll have to look for new ones."

Muenster will still be without the services of Eldred, but running back and secondary man Leslye Wells should be on the field despite an injured hand against Saint Jo. Valley View will be at full strength.

Game time in Muenster is 7:30 p.m., and a large turnout is expected for the crucial matchup.

look good to me — they've got tough runners and they throw the ball real well."

Lindsay, with the zone championship in the bag, will be fighting off the tendency to let down against an opportunistic Era club that has nothing to lose. Roller said his team will be wary of the Hornets, who are 1-3 in district.

"Era has a good ball club," he said. "We have a lot of respect for them. They run the wishbone and their quarterback does a good job — he's made a lot of folks look real silly this year. If we don't play good defense, there's no reason for him not to have another good game."

Roller said he has reminded his team this week of last year's season-ending loss to Bells after they had a playoff berth sewed up.

"We feel like we've only had one easy game all year, and those were unique circumstances," he said. "We started with tough opponents and we're going to end with a tough one — I guess that's the way it should be."

Kassen's squad will be up for the road game in Muenster, as they enter the contest with their fate in their own hands.

"I think the loss (to Lindsay) has waked them up," he said. "The attitude's been good this week in practice — I think they'll be ready. It ought to be a good ball game."

Kickoff at Muenster is at 7:30 p.m. for the Hornet-Eagle matchup, while Lindsay and Era will also kick off at 7:30 at Era.

Knightettes begin basketball

Take wins over Callisburg Monday

Lindsay High basketball began on Monday, Nov. 5 with the varsity and Jr. varsity girls taking on the Callisburg Wildcatettes in a scrimmage.

In the jayvee game Lindsay led the entire game. Scores by quarter were 11-2, 11-3, 25-5 and the final 29-7.

Scoring for the Knightettes were Jolanda Wimmer 14, Julie Dankesreiter 6, Gayle Hermes 2, Connie Hermes 2, Shelly Fleitman 2, Tammy Huchton 2, and Kim Smelces 1. Jacque Sandman also saw playing time.

In the varsity game it was more of the same as again Lindsay led the entire game. Callisburg was playing without services of most of the varsity players who are still playing volleyball.

Scores by quarter were 19-3, 44-14, 50-20 and the final 61-26. Brenda Haverkamp led the Knightettes with 16 points. Also in double figures were Deanna Norntman with 12 and Minnie Hundt with 10. Other scorers were Julie Myrick with 8, Gina Arendt 6, Christy Hellman 4, Julie Dankesreiter 3 and Sherry Anderle sank 2 points. Michelle Miller is also a member of the varsity squad.

The next action will be a scrimmage at Decatur on Tuesday, beginning at 6 p.m.

Kindergarten class visits fire station

The students of the Lindsay kindergarten class enjoyed a recent visit to the Gainesville Fire Station. The visit was in conjunction with Fire Prevention week which was October 7th through 13th.

The children were taken on a tour of the fire house and were allowed to view an actual fire truck and the equipment used by the firemen.

Along with their teacher, Mrs. Denise Schumacher, other parents touring with the students were Mr. and Mrs. Mark Krebs, Mrs. Claudia Zimmerer, Mrs. Jenni Smith and Mrs. Karen Hoberer.

During the month of October the kindergarten class also enjoyed a Halloween party during their break time. Cookies, punch and treats were served by both room-mothers, Patty Eberhart and Claudia Zimmerer and their teacher Mrs. Schumacher. Games were played and songs sung.

RRR offers equipment rentals, sales, service

If you need it, but don't have it and don't want to buy it — don't worry. Chances are you can rent it at Red River Rental in Gainesville.

Red River Rental, located on Highway 82 East, has a dazzling array of small and large equipment for almost every need. New owners John and Louise Atkins have lots of experience dealing with small engines, and are committed to bringing the best to their customers in Gainesville.

The Atkins, who run the shop along with their oldest son Randy, have been in Gainesville just over a month. John ran a sales and service business in El Reno, Oklahoma, dealing in tillers, mowers, edgers and chain saws. He has rebuilt, repaired and serviced small engines for more than 20 years — he even taught college classes in it at a vocational-technical school in El Reno.

The Atkins bought Red River Rental from Larry Strain, and are judiciously adding to the inventory of equipment according to the needs of Gainesville area customers. They also rent Ryder trucks and accessories for one-way or local hauling.

The equipment list at Red River Rentals is a do-it-yourselfer's dream. They have floor maintenance equipment such as vacuums, buffers and carpet cleaners; plumbing aids such as snakes and pumps; lawn and garden equipment including lawn mowers, edgers, brush and hedge trimmers and tillers; moving equipment like piano and appliance dollies and hand-trucks; and concrete finishing equipment including mixers, smoothers and hand tools.

The list includes jacks, jackhammers, air hammers and house jacks; contractors' equipment such as trenchers, ground compactors (both vibrator and pounder types), earth-augers and concrete cutters (both electric and gasoline-powered). They also have a Kubota front-end loader and box blade, a bush-hog and a tractor-mounted tiller.

For the mechanic needing a piece of equipment, there are engine hoists, air compressors, generators, pumps, gear and bearing pullers and all sorts of special shop tools and hand tools. A commercial airless paint sprayer is also a popular item both with contractors and do-it-yourselfers.

Red River Rental also has equipment for sale in most of the above categories, including Snapper mowers, tillers and tractors, Stihl chain saws, Robin trimmers and, soon, Honda lawn mowers, tillers and other small-engine equipment.

Best of all, they have a complete shop to service, repair and supply parts for everything they sell.

"The service is especially valuable on chain saws," John says. "There are a lot of chain saws in this part of the country and not many people who know how to work on them. A chain saw is a piece of equipment that has to be maintained or it can be extremely dangerous."

John specializes in servicing chain saws, and invites everyone to bring their saws in for a checkup.

The Atkins' are originally from the Dallas area and have lots of kinfolks in north Texas — one of the reasons they sold their business in El Reno and moved to Gainesville. Their oldest daughter, Selena, is married, has one daughter and lives in Kaufman. Randy, 20 is the oldest son. Two other children, Kevin, 17, and Ruth, 15, are also living at home.

Before you buy a tool or piece of equipment you may only need once, check with Red River Rental on their daily rates. Renting can be better than buying, and having the right tool is certainly better than doing without.

And for any and all small-engine problems, check with the expert. Oklahoma's loss is Cooke County's gain.

IN THANKS FOR SALE FOR SALE FOR SALE AUTO FOR SALE SERVICE BUILDING MATERIALS

I would like to thank my family and friends who spent time with me, helped me, and encouraged me with hope, good spirits and God's love during my surgery and hospital stay in Dallas. I thank everyone for cards, gifts, flowers, phone calls and especially your prayers. Damian and I are very grateful to you and we shall remember you in our prayers, asking God to love you and keep you.

Sincerely,
Margie Walterscheid

I wish to thank all my relatives, friends and neighbors for their concern during my surgical stay in Gainesville Memorial Hospital and for the visits, cards, flowers and prayers that meant so much. I wish to commend the doctors, staff and facilities. My daily visitor was Fr. Nicholas Fuhrmann and I looked forward to his visits with pleasure. It is my intention to thank all who remembered me in any way.

DISTRICT COURT OF COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS

NOTICE OF HEARING
You are hereby notified that on the 8 day of January, 1985, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., at the Courthouse in Cooke County, Texas, the undersigned special commissioners appointed by the Judge in the 235th Judicial District Court of Cooke County, Texas, to assess the damages occasioned by the Condemnation by The City of Gainesville, Texas, of real estate in said county, the ownership of which said land is as set out above, all of which more fully appears in a certain written Plaintiff's Statement for Condemnation filed by the said City of Gainesville, Texas, with the Judge on the 29 day of October 1984, to which reference is here made, shall proceed to hear said parties and said statement and to act thereon in the manner directed by law. You are further notified that the Plaintiff's Statement alleges:
A. That the City of Gainesville is empowered by the laws of the State of Texas to exercise the right of eminent domain for the purpose of acquiring land for the construction, maintenance and operation of parks within its boundaries;
B. That Plaintiff, acting through its City Council, has found it necessary to acquire fee simple title in the above described land;
C. That the interest in the land referred to in paragraph B above will be used for a purpose for which Plaintiff possesses the power of eminent domain, namely, a park.
D. That Plaintiff is unable to determine the exact ownership of the property referred to above.
E. That Plaintiff and the owners have been unable to agree upon the value of the land for the reason that Plaintiff is unable to determine the true owners of the property.
F. In this action, Plaintiff prays for the appointment of three disinterested freeholders in Cooke County, Texas, to be appointed as special commissioners to assess damages and that Plaintiff be granted such other and further relief to which it may be justly entitled.
HEREIN, FAIL NOT, but make appearance before the Commissioners on the date, time and at the place above set forth.
WITNESS our hands this 31 day of October, 1984.

FARM & RANCH

Workshop on tap

At ranch north of Gainesville

During the past several years we have seen an increase in the amount of stocker steers and heifers being put out on small grain pastures. Grain pastures offer producers an extension of income by using excess forage for cattle weight gains.

A Stocker Calf Workshop will be held at the Hilton-Burford Ranch north of Gainesville on Tuesday, November 13, 1984, beginning at 5:00 p.m. Turn north at the Dairy Queen on East highway 82 and go approximately four miles north to the ranch sign.

Industry representatives will give demonstrations and programs on growth implants. Other topics covered will include health programs for receiving calves and small grain pasture management.

The Cooke County Beef Association will assist in providing a cookout following the meeting at 6:30 p.m. Livestock producers are invited to attend. It's free and open to the public.

Farm, ranch tax sessions set

Sponsored by IRS, Extension Service

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is cooperating with the Internal Revenue Service in offering 38 Tax Practitioner Workshops across the state. The nearest workshop to our area is at Dallas on November 28 and 29 and Fort Worth on December 12 and 13. These two-day workshops are specifically designed for tax practitioners who work extensively with farmers and ranchers.

Topics to be covered in the general workshops are: What's New; Alternative Minimum Tax; Capital Gains; Net Operating Losses; Self-Employment Tax and Social Security Planning; Subchapter S Corporation; Financial Distress — Tax Considerations; Retirement Plan Problems — IRAs, HR-10s.

This year 13 advanced programs will be offered in major cities. The closest one to us is at Dallas on December 19 and 20. Topics to be discussed in the Advanced Workshops are: What's New; The Tax Reform Act of 1984; A Special Look at Corporations; and Introduction to Oil and Gas Taxation. The Tax Practitioner educational program has been highly successful. Last year about 3,300 people participated in this state-wide series. These practitioners reported filing more than 680,000 tax returns. For additional information, please contact the County Extension Office for a brochure explaining more about the program and registration information.

Crop survey underway by Reporting Service

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will start in late November contacting farmers and ranchers for final 1984 crop acreage, yield and production totals and end-of-year livestock and poultry inventories.

Producers depend on this information for an accurate picture of the 1984 agricultural situation. To reduce survey costs, the TCLRS is urging farmers and ranchers to return the mailed questionnaires as soon as possible.

Key provisions of programs explained

Key provisions of the 1985 wheat, feed grain and cotton programs were explained in a newsletter this week from Tim O. Gilbert, county executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

For wheat and cotton: — there is a 10 percent (of farm base) paid diversion with projected deficiency payments on the planted acres not to exceed permitted acres for the crop. Planted acres can never exceed 70 percent of the farm's base for the crop.

— the required ACR acreage is 10 percent of the farm's base plus 28.57 percent of the planted. — advance payments equal to 50 percent of the paid diversion and projected deficiency, if requested.

For feed grains such as corn/grain sorghum and oats/barley: — there is no paid diversion, but there is a projected deficiency payment on the planted acres not to exceed the permitted acres for the crop. Planted acres can never exceed 90 percent of the farm's combined bases for the crops.

— the required ACR acreage is 11.11 percent of the planted acres if less than permitted is planted.

— advance payments equal to 50 percent of the projected deficiency rate, if requested. The signup period for 1985 programs in these crops is from October 15 through March 1 of next year. Farmers are reminded to be sure they are going to remain in the program before requesting advance payments.

Those who are paid and do not comply later will be required to refund the advance with interest.

County Agent's Report

All soils tend to be low in nitrogen. Nitrogen is one element that we need for adequate growth of grass type crops. We in Cooke County are fortunate to have many available sources of nitrogen fertilizer. Two limiting factors to our decision on which to use are in the cost per unit of nitrogen and the proper timing or use of the different nitrogen products.

Sources available include the following:

1. NH₃ (Ammonia) 82%
2. NH₄NO₃ (Ammonium Nitrate) 34%
3. (NH₄)₂SO₄ (Ammonium Sulfate) 21%
4. NH₄NO₃ & Urea (N Solutions) 32%

5. CO-(NH₂)₂ (Urea) 45% Anhydrous Ammonia is a gas. Material should be injected into moist soil. The ideal application time is when moisture is below field capacity. Once sealed into a soil, loss will occur only when standing water covers soil for 48-72 hours. Cold-Flo application (releases NH₃ as a liquid below surface) reduces loss. Anaerobic bacteria will extract N. The NH₃ source of N will cost approximately 16 cents per unit of N.

Ammonia Nitrate is a by-product of NH₃ and Nitric Acid (HNO₃). Half the "N" is NH₄ and NO₃. NH₄NO₃ is an excellent top dress material. It has excellent handling qualities for bulk blending and is absorbed readily by plants and clay particles. Cost per unit of N is approximately 25 cents.

Ammonium Sulfate is produced by reacting spent Sulfuric Acid (H₂SO₄) and NH₃. It is a good source of N(21%) and Sulfur (24%). If you need Sulfur, then Ammonium Sulfate is a good buy even though the N cost per unit is usually higher than other sources. Ammonium Sulfate is an excellent material for low analysis blends in the 15-15-15 range.

N solutions can be handled without high pressure tanks and equipment. Application can be made accurately with pump and precision spray tips. These are excellent carriers for insecticides, herbicides and fungicides. The cost per unit of N is very competitive to Ammonium Nitrate. A disadvantage is that 32% solution will salt out at 29 degrees F. Also, volatilization can occur when surface applied to hot, dry, cloddy soils or coastal sod in hot summer.

Urea is not an ammonium fertilizer in its marketed form. But it hydrolyzes to Ammonium Carbamate very quickly when added to the soil. Urea, (45%), is an excellent N source, but should be used cautiously because:

1. Urea hydrolyzes rapidly. Good quantities of NH₃ may be lost to volatilization when applied to warm, bare or sod surfaces. Incorporate immediately or apply to wet or sod when wet or cold to prevent loss.

2. Rapid hydrolysis could cause injury to seedlings when large quantities are placed too close to the seed.

3. Fertilizer grade Urea may contain compounds known as Biuret, which is toxic, causing foliar burn. Urea has an excellent cost per unit of N at approximately 22 cents. Urea is also useful in producing high analysis blends, such as, 19-19-19.
