VOLUME II NO. 51

14 PAGES

NOVEMBER 8, 1985

A recent article by Edwin Feulner of the Heritage Foundation presents an idea that deserves consideration with that well-known American document known as the Bill of Rights. He refers to it as the Bill of Responsibilities which is based on the policy that an individual's rights from society are no more binding than his duties to society.

The writer calls attention to the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) which has made a career of insulting our country and violating justice through twisted interpretations of rights. He mentions "Hanoi Jane" Fonda and her treasonable peddling of Communist propaganda during the Vietnam War. Her vicious and false programs not only caused good people to lose confidence in their government, but also influenced many neutrals to accept the radical and traitorous view that the enemy was right and their country wrong.

ACLU was notoriously a traitor during the war. Besides supporting the enemy, it went all out to damage loyalties at home and on the fighting front. That's the public record. Offenses like defying official regulations and orders were twisted by ACLU and other traitors to seem like matters of personal rights.

The same twisting is still going on. Frequently a charge is factual but contains technical mistakes like a misspelled word or name, or some other detail which has no bearing on guilt or innocence.

But the case is made to imply that the right of the accused is violated. As a result, a mistrial may be declared. A guilty person may go free. The victim of the crime may find himself deprived of a just verdict, and society may have found again that rights are no guarantee of justice when right is twisted by criminals and their defendants.

The situation brings up a statement that has been repeated many times. It is the concept, accepted by reasonable people from the beginning of civilization, that rights are matched by corresponding responsibilities. It is reasonable, for instance, to take it for granted that if we have rights to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness we also have the duty to acknowledge those rights in others. It is a bill of responsibilities, without which a Bill of Rights has no meaning. Though it has not been spelled out in so many words, we are all well aware that society has accepted it back to the ancient time when civilized people lived by the rule of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. People knew about responsibility whether or not it was mentioned in law.

In fact, our founding fathers themselves took the concept for granted. They did not think it was necessary to specify duty or responsibility along with a corresponding right. It just was not possible to acknowledge rights without living up to responsibility.

Perhaps that can be regarded as an unfortunate oversight. For more than two hundred years, our nation has accepted the Bill of Rights in our legal system. During that time, the legislatures and courts have made many adjustments in their interpretations, with special emphasis on the increasing trends toward liberalism. Changing interpretations reflected a growing tolerance toward godlessness and Marxism as well as a softness toward communism

Chamber outlines plan for lighting contest

Planning is under way by the Muenster Chamber of Commerce for its second annual Christmasfest lighting contest offering cash prizes to individuals and organizations plus plaques to businesses. The event also has enlarged its list of entry categories.

Those several categories and the awards in each, as well as classification of entries, are listed as follows.

FOR INDIVIDUALS: a prize of $25 each is offered in the following four categories.

- Best animated scene
- Most extensive/creative use of lighting
- Most unique
- Most creative

FOR ORGANIZATIONS: a prize of $25 each is offered in the following three categories.

- Community service award
- Most creative
- Best animated scene

FOR BUSINESSES: a plaque is offered in each of the following three categories.

- Best animated scene
- Most creative
- Most eye-catching

The judging schedule is set up as follows. For businesses on Thursday, December 5. For individuals and organizations on Saturday, December 7, evening. Entry forms must be in the Chamber of Commerce office no later than Tuesday, Dec. 3, 4 p.m. Information on what judges will look for in each prize category is available from the Chamber or sponsoring merchants.

Judging categories as follows

Best Animated Scene -- New addition to award categories. Judges will be looking for animated characters, moving scenes, displays with moving objects, or any concept which includes animation. Applications can be inside residences or businesses, or exterior setups, but the display must be able to be viewed throughout the Christmas season.

Most Extensive/Creative Use of Lighting -- Judges looking for extensive lighting use, but done creatively and/or in good taste.

Most Unique -- Just that! Looking for a new twist, a funny twist, or a new way of looking at Christmas, or decorations made from something we just wouldn't expect.

Most Creative -- Judges looking for that special touch. Individuals or organizations which enjoy Christmas can take advantage of this award. Does not have to be anything new or elaborate, but should reflect a creativeness in either design or location of the display, or both.

Community Service Award -- For service organizations, this award is for them. Any idea which lends itself to helping beautify public areas, or places which would not otherwise be decorated for the season. Should be in a place which is visible to the public or visible if the public can visit.

No malice, no charge, must pay

A mutually satisfactory solution has ended a recent damage incident at the pavilion of the city park. The two young men involved will make restitution to the Chamber of Commerce for a reward paid to apprehend the accused, and the boys will personally repair the damage. In return they have assurance that charges will not be filed.

The case dates back to September 13 where the damage was done after a football game. The Chamber of Commerce reacted by paying a reward of $250 for apprehension and conviction of persons responsible.

Seeking the best settlement, the boys met with Police Chief Tompkins and representatives of the Chamber on Monday November 4. It was agreed then that the young men were there to get out of the rain and their activity should be classed as an accident rather than vandalism. The Chamber agreed to drop its charge if the accused pay the costs.

Rosston gets new fire truck

Fire protection is a must for any town, but the residents of Rosston can rest a little easier now with the new truck they will soon receive. A portion of the funds for purchasing the truck was received on November 2 at 11:00 a.m.

Persons in charge of the Rosston project are Herbert Richardson, Herbert Sicking and Jim Penton.

The Texas Forest Service is sharing the cost of the truck, up to $2240, under the Rural Community Fire Protection Program. Cost sharing is just one of the ways the Texas Forest Service has aided over 800 communities in Texas.

Under this program, Communities from all over the state can apply to the Texas Forest Service for assistance up to $4000. The department can locate the truck it wishes to purchase in its local area. This means the department has the opportunity to pick something it prefers, and Rosston's purchase was made from Endres Motor CO. It was a 1977 Chevrolet pickup.

To obtain the cost share grant from the Texas Forest Service, the truck must be no more than 5 years old and in good working condition. Once the truck is purchased and a copy of the invoice sent to the Texas Forest Service, the funds are delivered.

Most of the trucks purchased under this program are small one ton pickups used as booster and brush trucks. Many communities have also cost shared a Water Expansion Pump System to go with their truck. These too are cost shared through the Texas Forest Service.

The Water Expansion Pump System allows extended operating time at the scene of a fire and uses 60 percent less water. Returning for water is a problem that haunts rural fire companies since there is usually no fire hydrant available.

The only string attached to these funds is a signed agreement. This states the department would assist the Texas Forest Service in the event help is needed on a large ground cover fire in the area.

This fire truck, an addition to the Rosston Fire Department, has just been received in a cost sharing arrangement with the Texas Forest Service. Pictured with the Chevrolet 1 ton pickup are Billy J. Terry of the Forest Service, Jim Penton, Smokey the Bear, Herbert Richardson and Herbert Sicking. Dave Fette Photo

Training for the volunteer fire department is furnished in ground cover by the Texas Forest Service trainers. Courses in Ground Cover Tactics, Fire Ground Organization and Water Expansion

Pump System operations are offered to departments at no expense. These courses are accredited by the Texas Firemen's and Fire Marshalls' Association. The supply of equipment and training meets a real need for added protection in Rosston. For more information, contact the Texas Forest Service, P.O. Box 310, Lufkin, Texas 75902-0310 or phone 409-639-8100.

Non-aid for schools

It is always vastly more pleasant to report on matters of a positive nature rather than those which are negative. One such item concerns the inherent general kindness, charity and altruism of the American people. Their humanitarianism seemingly knows no bounds.

For example, last year the citizens of this one great country gave 74.2 billion dollars in charitable contributions, of which $61.6 billion came from individuals. This is more than the gross national product of most countries and is truly astounding. We're all familiar with old-fashioned barn raisings in rural America where farm neighbors help each other. Then in recent years we have witnessed the development of movements such as the "Gleaners" where surplus foods are made available to the poor.

In this same spirit, a relatively new organization was founded in 1977 and has been brought to our attention. We think its worthy objective and beneficial nature should be made known far and wide.

It is called the National Association for the Exchange of Industrial Resources. It exists solely to distribute free merchandise to schools all over the country.

Nearly every school district is having budget problems. The need for funds exceeds what the taxpayers are willing to provide. By joining the Association, schools can obtain supplies and equipment which their budgets won't cover. Her's how this unique program works.

The Association solicits in-kind donations from U.S. manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors that have on hand surplus or slow-moving merchandise. All products must be new. Those businesses donating receive an above-cost tax deduction under Section 170 (e) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Schools pay annual membership dues of $350. Each quarter they receive a catalog listing millions of dollars worth of free merchandise available to them, including maintenance supplies, laboratory equipment, tools, office supplies, classroom materials of all kinds and a great deal more.

Membership has grown to 4,200 institutions and for very good reasons: for their $350 dues, members receive an average of $5,000 each in new, free merchandise. Members pay only shipping and handling costs.

This is such a good deal for schools, NAEIR President Norbert C. Smith promises: "If after one year, the value of the material received as a NAEIR member was not worth at least twice the cost of the annual dues, we will either give you a second year's membership at no cost or refund your dues."

Here's a truly positive program for helping our schools. Founder Smith and his associates are certainly to be commended for developing a method for aiding education within the American spirit of volunteerism.

Those interested in more information, a membership application or a complete listing of NAEIR members, may write: NAEIR members, may write: NAEIR, 540 Frontage Road, P.O. Box 8076, Northfield, Illinois 60093.

Aid to Africa's bureaucracies

Despite the large amounts of aid that the U.S. and rest of the Free World have poured into Africa, the situation doesn't seem to be getting any better. Hunger and human suffering continue to spread, and the once (at least marginally) productive economies of most African nations are in shambles.

Yet, strangely enough, the State Department agency which administers U.S. developmental aid programs - the U.S. agency for International Development (AID) - continues to claim that progress is being made.

AID's former chief economist, Alan R. Waters, disagrees. It is mysterious, indeed, Professor Waters said recently, how AID reports show African countries moving up on the scale of progress, while all the visible evidence shows that things are worse than ever. While Waters was careful to distinguish between long-term developmental aid and disaster relief, which he recognizes as a valid U.S. government function, he concluded that U.S. foreign aid has probably helped perpetuate Africa's deterioration, rather than solve its problems.

Indeed, Africa is like an alcoholic. And America is like the good friend who can't stand to see his buddy suffer, so he pours him another drink to help him drown the pain. But all it does is make him a bit drunker - and delay the inevitable day of reckoning when he is going to have to take the cure.

There are no magic cures for Africa. But this doesn't mean we are helpless. What we need to do is radically alter our aid programs, Waters says. He suggests that we try end-running government bureaucracies and begin "contracting out." Under such a plan, private interests - businesses, entrepreneurs, you name it - would be selected for aid projects. And in order to keep their contracts, they would have to produce results. This would mean, almost by definition, that many African governments would be forced to reform their economic policies: to go on the wagon.

For the most part, Africa's financial, technical, and intellectual resources have been wasted, going to help support and sustain domestic economic policies which are the root of Africa's problems.

Even worse, U.S. foreign aid has fed and sustained the process and Washington refuses to admit it.

Before any real progress can be made, African rulers must accept the fact that only they can change the policies which have turned bad into worse.

In most cases, those countries which have received foreign aid for the longest period of time have regressed the furthest. It's a tragic irony.

If nothing else, the U.S. needs to start telling the truth about its foreign aid programs. Anything less is deceiving to both the African aid recipients and the American taxpayer who pays the tab.

Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

the steady barrage of GOP criticism.

Truce Cracking

White defends his programs, but not himself, and that's his strategy for now against Bill Clements, Kent Hance and Tom Loeffler. If he fights back now, they are encouraged to keep their guns trained on him and not on each other.

After all, Clements, Hance and Loeffler have an informal truce to speak no ill of a fellow Republican, but in the high-stakes governor's race, who believes that will continue for long?

The crux for the eventual GOP nominee is that he will have to win a run-off, and that means keeping the odd man's good will long enough to win an endorsement.

Signs show the truce is cracking, particularly as Clements and Hance jab at each other on the speaker's podium at their various co-appearances.

Hance is a master of the podium jab, and insiders say Hance wants to rope-a-dope Clements into appearing in the trucebreaker. Clements is used to delivering KO punches, not avoiding them, and both he and Loeffler belittle Hance's GOP credentials.

Career Changes

Both Hance and Clements were present last week when Hurst state Rep. Charles Evans announced his switch to the Republican party. Evans, a 13-year legislator and powerful close friend of Speaker Gib Lewis, said he wasn't recruited by the GOP, but switched out of personal conviction. Seguin state Sen. John Traeger announced his retirement and threw his support to Laredo state Rep. Billy Hall, a fellow Democrat. Traeger preferred Hall, who is more conservative than state party vice chairman Dr. Judith Zaffirini, also of Laredo.

Former state Rep. Clay Smothers pleaded guilty last week to a reduced charge of assault on a child in a plea bargain pact. Smothers, who was fined $1,000 and sentenced to three days in jail, was associated with a now-defunct youth training school.

Former state Rep. Roy English of Mansfield also switched to the GOP last week, and said he has talked with local Republican officials about running for Tarrant County judge.

Two Appointments

Governor White appointed former state Democratic Party chairman Calvin Guest to the Public Safety Commission after Sen. Peyton McKnight became mired by two racial jokes he told at his own charity roast fundraiser.

McKnight insisted his use of a racial slur was made in the context of the roast, but a local letterwriting campaign axed his nomination.

White also named Jo Campbell to the controversial Public Utility Commission vacancy last week. The press has frequently jibed White for appointing former Baylor classmates, particularly old roommates, to state posts.

In humorous one upmanship, White told reporters at the announcement that while she did graduate from Baylor, Campbell had never been one of his roommates.

Short Takes

- State Board of Insurance Chairman Lyndon L. Olson Jr. will be a participating faculty member in the United Nations seminar on reinsurance supervision November 11-15 in Manila.
- Senator Phil Gramm announced plans to open an El Paso office. He presently has offices in Houston, Harlingen and Dallas.
- Common Cause of Texas has named Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, its 1985 Legislator of the Year.
- United Parcel Service moved closer to intrastate service last week when the Texas Railroad Commission approved, 2-1, a new rule to allow UPS to operate between points within Texas.

and the tendency to find fault with the USA while praising the USSR. Likewise there has been decreasing concern for the rights of crime victims but increasing concern for the rights of criminals. This legal trend is why the system is so anxious that the accused must have all his rights protected while standing trial, even to the extent of nullifying vital evidence. The end result of such over-solicitude is that justice is often cheated.

There can and should be a positive understanding either plainly stated or clearly understood in relation to rights, that all have responsibilities. As it is now, rights alone are inadequate to assure justice. The legal process is not really complete if duties too are not known. This would include a responsibility of all, prosecution and defense, to live up to their responsibilities.

Parish prepares for Thanksgiving

The Sacred Heart Parish will observe the Thanksgiving Holiday with its traditional annual community dinner, bazaar and picnic on Thursday, Nov. 28.

Sponsors have announced the sumptuous menu to be served, beginning at 11:30 a.m. It includes turkey, dressing, gravy, German sausage, mashed potatoes, green beans, German Sauerkraut, cranberry sauce, hot rolls, butter, coffee, tea and homemade pies.

Dinner co-chairmen are Nellie Martin and Hilda Sicking.

They are appealing for volunteers who are willing and able to bake one or more turkeys in their homes to assist the cafeteria staff. Persons who wish to contribute turkeys may reserve them at H & W Meat Co., Hofbauers' Food and Locker, or Fischer's Market and Grocery. For information call either Mrs. Martin or Mrs. Sicking. They have also requested homemade bread, cornbread, onions, eggs, etc., all ingredients for making dressing.

Also needed are homemade pies for the dinner. Mrs. Hildegard Swirczynski is in charge. Cakes are needed for the cakewalk.

Chairmen of the children's booths, fish pond and duck pond request prizes suitable for youngsters. A basket has been placed at Ben Franklin Store for the convenience of those wishing to deposit gifts.

Country Store and Crafts co-chairmen Mrs. Buddy Yosten (Dorothy Mae) and Mrs. J.D. Caplinger (Miriam) will accept items for that booth. Handmade items are always in demand by customers. There is always a special need in the Country Store for baked foods, homemade candy, plants, household items and crafts. Some items may be brought early Thanksgiving morning, but the co-chairmen will appreciate some things brought to them on Wednesday afternoon, giving them a better opportunity to price and display everything.

Arrests interrupt quiet Halloween

In an otherwise uneventful Halloween Muenster's calm was interrupted by a suspicious person who identified himself as Darrell Wayne Holloway of Saint Jo and was confined in Cooke County jail charged with unlawful possession of a firearm and unlawful possession of a controlled substance.

He has since been released on $1000 bond on each charge and awaits action of the county grand jury.

The incident began when a local person reported that a driver said he was looking for John Holloway with intention to kill him, also that a gun was on the seat beside him.

A short time later Police Chief, Helen Tompkins received a call from a local lady saying she had been followed on Maple Street by an unknown person. The police chief investigated and found a suspicious person on the 1000 block of Maple at about 6 p.m. She arrested him and turned him over to the sheriff's department which jailed him for unauthorized possession of a gun and a controlled substance.

Another disturbance occurred at 12:30, November 1 on the parking lot beside Fisher's store. In a fight involving several out of town persons two had been stabbed. Roy Paul Hobbs was taken to Muenster Memorial Hospital with abdominal wounds which required surgery and Jerry Hamilton was also hospitalized, his wounds being on back and shoulder and requiring only stitches. Hamilton was dismissed after emergency treatment, Hobbs was dismissed Monday. It is believed that the stabbing was done by one person who is the subject of a present investigation by the Muenster Police Department and the Sheriff's Office. They have two suspects at this time.

City gets $748 rebate on mixed drink tax

The City of Muenster has received a check of $748 from State Comptroller Bob Bullock as its 12.5 percent share of taxes collected here on liquor by the drink during the past quarter.

At the same time Gainesville and Lindsay received rebates of $2,194.93 and $2,548.57 respectively on taxes remitted by them during the period. Total tax of the quarter in those locations were $5,984.01 in Muenster, $17,559.42 in Gainesville, and $20,388.54 in Lindsay.

At the same time Cooke County received a rebate of $5,931.52 on $47,452.13 for liquor by the drink tax remitted in its area.

Total rebates made by the state in this payment were $11.8 million to 221 counties and 422 cities.

The state's total revenue from the liquor by the drink tax was $49.4 million on a rate of 12 percent. This tops the 1984 total of $40.4 million when the rate was 10 percent. The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and the city-county rebates are sent out quarterly by the Comptroller.

Another beneficiary of the tax is the state of Texas. Of the $49.4 million collected the counties received $6.1 million as their rebates and the cities received $6 million. The remaining $37.3 million was assigned to the state treasury. When the 10 percent rate applied in the third quarter of 1984 the state's share was $28.7 million.

Lindsay 4-H views hives

Forty members of the Lindsay Jr. 4-H club attended the meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 20, 3:30 to 5:15 p.m.

Providing transportation for a field trip to see bees and hives at the Jim English farm were adult 4-H leaders, Judy Hoberer, Dee Eberhart, Debra Brozovick, Pat Zimmerer, and Randall Brown.

The group left from the Lindsay Parish Hall, drove five miles Southeast of Gainesville and saw the program by Mr. English, who left them look inside, and later taste the honey. As a special treat Mr. English gave each child a half pint of honey with comb. The club and leaders returned to the parish hall about 5:15 p.m. Keith Zimmerer is the 4-H Club reporter.

Memorial service set

A Veterans Day Memorial Service will be held by the Auxiliary to the VFW at Sacred Heart Cemetery on Monday, Nov. 11, following the 8 a.m. Mass. The public is invited to attend.

Service academies seek applications

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm is currently seeking applications from young people in the 17th District interested in attending any of the U.S. Service Academies. Young men and women between the ages of 17 and 21 who are interested in the academies must have their applications completed by December 1, 1985.

The U.S. academies offer young people an excellent education, while also developing skills in leadership and self-discipline. It is a one-of-a-kind opportunity to earn a bachelor's degree and earn a salary for doing so. An education at an academy also guarantees a career upon graduation as an officer in the U.S. Armed Forces. Congressman Stenholm may nominate young residents from the 17th District to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland; the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colorado; the Military Academy at West Point, New York and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York.

Any interested persons should contact Congressman Stenholm's Washington, D.C. office immediately, in order to have their files completed by the December 1st deadline. No late applications will be accepted. Write to Congressman Stenholm at 1232 Longworth H.O.B., Washington, D.C., 20515 or call 202-225-6605.

Alois Hesse honored on his 86th birthday

The 86th birthday of Al Hesse was the inspiration for a party held Sunday, Nov. 3, hosted by his nieces and nephews in the cafeteria of the Community Center.

Attending also were Hesse's sisters, Dora Henscheid and Theresa Hesse, and a sister-in-law, Ida Hesse, and more than 70 nieces and nephews.

The main table held a decorated cake made by a great-grand-niece, Margie (Hesse) Devers. It was inscribed with "Happy Birthday" in German lettering. Decorations featured a model of the two-story, old Hesse farm home, tiny sheep grazing in a pasture, a small car leading up the lane to the house. Two arrangements of bronze and gold mums, brought by Regina Pels also graced the table. Guest tables also held bronze and gold mums.

Holiday dinner at Myra dated Dec. 8

A holiday dinner sponsored by the Myra Improvement Club as a benefit for its remodeling project at the former school building has been set for Sunday, December 8, 11:30 to 2 o'clock.

Planning for it was completed at the organization's regular monthly meeting.

The menu will offer turkey or sausage with trimmings drinks and dessert at $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. And as a kiddies' special Santa will visit after the meal.

The meeting's program was a film entitled "Adult Abuse" emphasizing problems encountered by the aged. It was presented by Barbrae Tanco of the Adult Protective Service, an affiliate of the Texas Department of Human Resources. In the discussion which followed Tanco stressed that the aged often abuse themselves, especially after the loss of a loved one, by failing to take nourishment or medication, that they have just quit caring. Whoever knows of such a person is urged to refer him or her to the Adult Protective Service of the Texas Department of Human Resources, she said.

Looking at your family, you know it was time well spent.
But now it's time to party and celebrate, this time comes only once and you've had a half-century to wait, I bet you're wondering who it is and you're guessing of course.

Sr Amora honored

Sister Amora Felderhoff OSB of Holy Angels Convent in Jonesboro, Ark. accompanied by her niece, Sister Georgia Felderhoff of West Memphis, Ark. came to Muenster during the past weekend to attend the wedding of her great-niece, Monica Hartman to Jon Le Brasseur, and to attend a family reunion honoring her 90th birthday.

The reunion began with attendance at Mass in Sacred Heart Church, with Father Victor Gillespie as celebrant. Ruth Felderhoff was organist and Christy Felderhoff was song leader. A special song was "Edelweiss".

At noon a covered dish meal was served in the Sacred Heart Cafeteria, with 200 relatives present.

A lovely birthday cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Della Voth, was used as centerpiece. Its decorations included designs of a rosary, prayer book, hospital bed with thermometer, and teacher's book with pencils, indicating Sister Amora's professional duties, throughout her fruitful life. At age 90, she still visits patients in St. Bernard's Hospital daily.

Sister Amora, her twin, the late Sister Lutgardis and their youngest sister Sr. Mildred, were daughters of Henry and Christina Felderhoff who entered the Benedictine Convent at Jonesboro, all becoming registered nurses.

Of the eleven children in the family only Sister Amora and her brother Tony Felderhoff survive.

The family gathering also observed the birthday of Sister Georgia Felderhoff, November 2, with a decorated cake, many good wishes and the "Happy Birthday" song.

The two nuns returned to Arkansas Monday morning.

Church vocation awareness observed by Lindsay CCD

The CCD classes of Lindsay celebrated Church Vocation Awareness week Oct. 13-19. All classes in the elementary grades participated in various activities to increase an understanding of the functions of priests, brothers, sisters and deacons.

The week was concluded with a special liturgy. Posters for this liturgy were an outgrowth of the week of study. Father Cletus Post celebrated the Mass, which was preceded by the entrance procession, led by first graders carrying symbols of themselves. In their study first graders wrote about a service they would like to perform for others.

Second graders carried a small banner "I AM SPECIAL", which underlined the thought that ALL are special and that God calls ALL of us to do a special work to follow Jesus.

During the reading of the general intercessions, students from the other grades presented posters depicting activities of priests, sisters, deacons and brothers.

One special poster presented during the Offertory procession was the result of work during religion class study. This poster showed how to follow Christ through sharing, caring, healing, praying, serving, teaching.

In addition to these activities, the sixth, seventh and eighth grade students solved special puzzles showing that "God Calls in Many Ways."

Hornets and Eagles clash for zone title

The titles of champ and runner-up in the North Zone of District 4-A will be decided at Valley View Friday night in a showdown between Hornets and Eagles in the final game of the regular season.

However both teams are headed for post season in playoffs for the district title. At this time the Hornets and Eagles share the top spot, and Friday's showdown will determine which is No. 1 and which is No. 2 in the north zone.

The same situation applies in the south zone in which the top two are Paradise and Perrin. They will meet the north zone leaders to decide 4-A district titles.

The Hornet-Eagle contest has the making of a classic with both having a perfect 3-0 zone record and Muenster having a 7-1 season standing and Valley View a 6-2 standing. As seen by Coach Dewey Sims of the Hornets, the odds seem about even and the outcome depends very much on the breaks, especially turnovers and penalties. In other respects, he added, the Eagles are rated stronger in the backfield and the Hornets in the line.

He further stated that Valley View has a big break-away potential in size and speed. Its runners will be hard to stop when they get loose, so the mission of Muenster defense is to keep them from getting started. On the other hand Muenster's offensive hope is to get the benefit of strength and quickness in the line.

Regarding physical conditions, Sims said that Dan Klement is still nursing an injury but all others are read in body and spirit. Their workouts in last week's open week and again this week have been sharp. At the same time their attitude is positive. They are determined and confident while aware that the opponent is a power house. The decision will be made on the Eagle field starting at 7:30.

Meanwhile Lindsay and Era will be in contention for third place. Both have a record of a win over Collinsville and losses to Muenster and Valley View.

Jr. hi beats Bryson

Muenster youngsters broke even in a pair of games Friday night. The junior high boys opened the double header by edging Bryson 7-6 and the junior varsity lost 18-0 to Howe's JV.

Junior high had a thriller. Muenster got its only score on first possession by taking the opening kickoff downfield and completing the steady drive with Boydston's 1 yard blast at the line. And the win came on the next play as Boydston added the PAT kick.

The visitors snapped back in a hurry by returning the ensuing kickoff all the way. Trailing 7-6 Bryson tried a 2 point PAT and failed, so the 1 point lead continued for Muenster.

That's how it was for the balance of the game and it was the eventual final counts.

But not without a contest. A later drive overcame Hornet defense to a first and goal situation at the 10, but there is where the goal line stand stood pat. Defense supported the 1 point lead and the Muenster kids had their second win of the season over Bryson. The first one was 28-16.

The JV game was different. Coach Sims was proud of his Hornets for holding a hot outfit from Howe to an 18-0 win. A few factors in the visitors' favor were a 31-13 advantage in counts of rosters, along with size and experience.

In spite of odds the JV Hornets held their own in the first half for a 0-0 tie at intermission.

That changed abruptly in the second half which Howe started with an 80 yard kickoff return to the end zone. A miss on the PAT

More points came at the end of the third when a 35 yard gain reached the 35 and short gains went to the 1 yard line where another try went to pay dirt.

A big play in the fourth period produced the third and last touchdown. It covered 55 yards and for the third time a try for extra points failed.

Howe had 18 but MHS was still scoreless. Hornets' problems throughout can be summarized as failure to keep going. Overall they moved the ball well but stopped themselves too often with penalties and busted plays.

The junior season will end this week when the elementary boys meet Valley View Thursday night on the Hornet field.

The game will be played at Sacred Heart starting at 7:30 p.m.

Tigers open league play

Sacred Heart Tigers have a big job on their hands Friday night when they take on the Knights of Wichita Falls Notre Dame in their opener of the TCIL season.

As seen by Coach Jon LeBrasseur, the Knights are big and speedy and aggressive, with emphasis on a potent back field. One of the runners is a 180 pounder with 940 yards to date. Besides, there is another 180 pounder and a 6'6", 230 pounder...

der...all behind a husky line.

As regards the season's record, Sacred Heart is slightly better with a 5-3 standing whereas ND has 4-6. Included in the Knights' record is a loss in district to Tyler-Gorman by a score of 21-18.

Though odds are slightly tilted in favor of the visitors, the Tiger coach is confident. He says the boys are well and eager, and have the benefit of good practice sessions during their open week.

FARM & RANCH

Fopod and fiber come from solar energy thru leaf growth

"How Plants Grow" is the title of a new fact sheet published by the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

Ray Svacina, district conservationist for SCS at Gainesville, said the publication describes the miracle of leaf growth using solar energy that produces most of the food and fiber used in the world today. The SCS staff at Gainesville gives technical assistance to livestock producers through the local conservation district.

"Leaf growth with solar energy is one of the great miracles of nature," Svacina said. "Grain, lumber, cotton, and vegetables are grown directly by leaf growth while beef, pork, mutton, mohair, wool, eggs, milk, and even fish are produced indirectly by leaf growth."

"Yet most people assume plants produce food in their roots. While it is true that plants pull water and minerals from the soil, the food factory is above ground in the leaves."

Svacina said perennial grass plants store food in the roots after they have made the season's main growth. They use the reserves to live on while dormant, to make the first growth next season, and to start new growth after the green leaves and stems are closely grazed or cut.

"The ability of perennial grasses, legumes, and forbs to recover quickly after mowing or grazing makes these plants extremely valuable for forage production and soil protection," Svacina continued. "This same ability can deceive us into thinking we can remove any amount of leaves without stunting the food factory and reducing production."

Svacina said single copies of "How Plants Grow" are available free at his office at Gainesville.

Stockmen maximize grazing efficiency

Livestock producers in Texas are using planned grazing systems on about 15 million acres.

Ray Svacina, District conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service at Gainesville, said that the efficiency of forage production is dependent on the health of the plants on rangeland.

"Plants capture solar energy in their leaves and use this energy to manufacture their own food," Svacina said. If these leaves are continuously grazed short, the plant will use all its stored food reserves, reduce forage production, and die."

Livestock are highly selective in what plant species they graze. They graze the best first and the worst last. They also like to come back to the same plant and graze it again because of the young tender regrowth.

Svacina said this is why the better plants have been killed off our rangeland, reducing forage production on much of it by up to 75 percent.

The loss of these better plants that the livestock prefer can be stopped and the process reversed if the rancher desires to maximize grazing efficiency.

To maximize grazing efficiency, the better plants must be made as healthy as possible. To accomplish this, they need a chance to grow without continually being grazed. Animal numbers need to be balanced to forage produced.

A planned grazing system, tailored to meet the needs of the plants, the livestock, and the rancher is the best way to maximize grazing efficiency, Svacina stressed. "You can't tell a cow what to eat, but you can limit the length of time and when she eats, using a tailor-made planned grazing system," said State Range Conservationist Rhett Johnson of the Soil Conservation Service. Planned grazing systems can be applied using a rotation between as few as two pastures."

If you are interested in maximizing grazing efficiency and improving your grassland, contact your local Soil Conservation Service personnel. They give technical assistance to landowners and operators through soil and water conservation districts and can help you design a system to meet your needs.

Spring is the best time to start a planned grazing system, so now is the time to start planning.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

If you have a houseplant that just isn't growing like it should, then a brief diagnosis could shed some light on the problem. Houseplants often suffer from foliar and root diseases, restricted root growth, improper watering, and poor light and fertility management.

Yellowing or dead lower leaves can mean nitrogen deficiency or a "pot bound" condition in older plants. Woody plants such as rubber plants, dieffenbachia and dracena are especially susceptible. Applying nitrogen fertilizer and repotting can solve this problem.

Leaves yellowing all over the plant might be the result of root rot or too much soil moisture. Root rots often develop due to overwatering. Prune rotted portions of the root, dust the root system with a fungicide, such as benomyl or captan, and repot the plant. To prevent excess soil moisture, adequate drainage is necessary.

A sudden loss of leaves is caused by rapid changes in temperature, dry air, cold drafts or exposure to gas or furnace fumes. Moving a plant from a sunny to a dark place can also cause leaf drop.

Browning of leaf tips results from hot, dry air and a buildup of salts in the soil due to frequent light waterings. This problem can be solved by flushing the plant with excess water several times in a well-drained place.

Fungi, bacteria and direct sunlight may cause brown spots on leaves. Round, target-shaped spots are caused by fungi while bacteria causes spots with a water soaked appearance. Allow adequate air circulation and avoid wetting the plant's leaves during watering to reduce foliage diseases.

Good maintenance practices are often the key to healthy house plants.
