Sheriff's Reserve to host recording artist

National recording artist Ken Fowler will bring his ALL NEW country show to the High School Auditorium Thursday, July 17. The show, sponsored by the Cooke County Sheriff's Reserve, will begin at 8 p.m. Country favorites, including fiddle and banjo tunes, will be featured. More old-time gospel songs have been added and Fowler will sing his newest release, "You're A Heartache To Follow," which was produced by Tommy Overstreet. Fowler's record reached the Billboard Country Hot 100 on Feb. 8, 1986. Two new members have been added to the six-piece Hurricane River Band. They are Mark Walker on fiddle, banjo and harmonica and Bruce Carr on bass. Show chairman, Terry Gilbert, has announced that advance ticket sales had begun May 27 and ticket information can be obtained by calling 668-8382 after 5 p.m.

Riders, residents share hospitality

Praise and compliments were heaped on the community by personnel of the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train last Thursday evening and Friday morning, in sincere appreciation for the red carpet treatment they received. Muenster enjoyed the event including us in the celebration of Texas' 150th and they enjoyed the response from this community, whose ethnic food and genuine German friendliness and hospitality indicate a way of small-town life.

Many former residents returned for the two days, especially to attend a "once in a lifetime experience."

Riders of the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train were given a special breakfast treat Friday morning before 7:30 a.m. when 1200 homemade sweet rolls were distributed before the train rolled toward its next stop in Gainesville. Sponsored by members of the VFW Auxiliary, the rolls were made and served warm and fresh by Nellie Martin, Hilda Sicking, Juanita Knabe, Hildegard Swirczynski and Julie Cunningham.

Charlotte Dangelmayr and her son Shawn and granddaughter, Amy Pangel; Virgilla Herr and her grandson Derek Haverkamp; Patsy Walterscheid; Mary Lee Hennigan; Ryan Hess; Kelly, Debra and Glen Dangelmayr were all together for an exciting conclusion to the Thursday-Friday festivities of the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train's visit to Muenster.

Early Friday morning they rode the stagecoach as it left Muenster enroute to the Fair Grounds in Gainesville, after receiving an invitation from the driver during the German supper Thursday evening.

The only stagecoach in the huge contingent of wagons, the vehicle was provided by Triland International, Inc. and was driven by Rudy Nelson of Flagstaff, Arizona from the first day when the spectacular event began in Sulphur Springs. It provided seating space for nine passengers, and Shawn Dangelmayr and Ryan Hess rode up in the driver's seat.

The group enjoyed Nelson's stories about the trip as they rode along. He also related that he will be married in Irving after the wagon train is disbanded, and that his bride will ride in this stagecoach to the wedding, in a special bridal gown being customized for her in the period and style of 150 years ago.

The driver also mentioned that his usual team of two or four or six mules will be enlarged to eight mules when the stagecoach is brought into Billy Bob's in Fort Worth.

ROBERT BAKER, for the past five and a half years Rural Route 2 mail carrier in Muenster, retired Friday, June 20, at age 59 after 41 years with the postal service. He is a Gainesville resident, worked in the Gainesville office mostly, and was officer in charge of the Lindsay office in 1972 and 1973. Tom Swirczynski will be the substitute carrier. Postmaster Virgil Henscheid congratulates Baker on his retirement.

Request for business and industrial sites in Muenster

The Texoma Regional Planning Commission is preparing a list of properties and buildings which are potential sites in our area for industrial or commercial development. Local input from owners is requested to formulate the list.

At this time all commercial buildings in Muenster are occupied, and as a result we will be providing Texoma Regional with a list of properties and raw land which is for sale. This includes owners who will lease long-term. If you own or will lease, please make every effort to get your property listed as soon as possible. Small towns generally do not have funds to do expensive marketing campaigns, nor do properties listed with real estate firms from the city receive the attention TRPC can provide through their listing service.

TRPC will provide this information to major utilities, banks and various development agencies. It will be used by the Muenster Industrial Board to provide to prospects who request land information. The primary information needed regards size and location. The most important information will regard the "Financial Terms," which must indicate a realistic price, minimum purchases, lease terms, and if the owner will finance. The terms and pricing will not be binding, and owners are asked to keep the asking price as realistic as possible.

The information deadline is July 15. The list will be mailed to Texoma Regional on July 16. Please call the Chamber office if you need further information, or contact Industrial Board members Charles Bayer, Jerry Fleitman, Gary Fisher, Church Bartush, Ron Felderhoff or Joe Fenton.

CCC reports increase in enrollment

GAINESVILLE - Cooke County College officials this week reported a whopping 33 percent increase in enrollment for the first summer session over the corresponding term last year.

Official total for this year's first summer session is 491, according to Dr. Eddie Hadlock, dean of student services and registrar. That represents an increase of 123 in headcount over the first summer session of 1985.

Only once in the past five years has beginning summer enrollment at CCC risen higher, but Dr. Hadlock pointed out that the 557 total recorded for 1984 included a large number of spring semester students not previously counted, as well as numerous students enrolled in "flexible entry" and other types of special courses that, in a technical sense, are not normally considered a part of regular summer enrollment.

"The 491 figure for this year's first summer session includes none of this," Dr. Hadlock explained. "It is purely and simply a total of the students who registered a couple of weeks ago for regular summer classes here on campus."

Not counted either was quite a large number of students enrolled in extension classes at various off-campus sites this summer.

"Viewed from this perspective," Dr. Hadlock observed, "the increase becomes even more noteworthy. In fact, all things considered, it may be the second or third highest first summer headcount of the past 10 years."

The highest, he reported, was recorded back in the late seventies when CCC still had a very large proportion of foreign students who attended summer classes.

"We're obviously very pleased and encouraged," said Dr. Bud Joyner, CCC president, "especially in view of the fact that no other nearby colleges have reported enrollment increases comparable to ours."

He added, in fact, that many of the state's colleges are reporting declines rather than increases in summer enrollment figures.

"Considering all the gloomy news out of Austin about reduced state funding to schools like ours because of declining oil revenues and other factors," Dr. Joyner said, "this enrollment increase is a real morale booster.

"Frankly, we don't expect the state funding situation to get much better at this point; however, we don't have to sit idly by and remain totally at the mercy of the economic situation. We can do much to help ourselves, and that's precisely what we're trying to do."

Enrollment increases are a key element in that "self-help" strategy, the chief CCC administrator explained, but he stressed that the good feeling he has about the summer enrollment goes beyond just the numbers.

"For one thing, we're encouraged that some of the strategies for stimulating enrollment we've been working so hard on in recent months seems to be bearing fruit," he said. "Most of these are measures aimed at boosting enrollment not just for the next semester but for years to come."

"The fact that some of these long-term strategies for sustained, meaningful growth are already beginning to have some impact is what we're most excited about."

operational costs, will continue to be a problem in the coming years not only for CCC but also for most other state-supported community colleges in Texas.

He quickly added, however, that the rise in summer enrollment is a very promising sign and that the college staff and governing board plan an all-out effort aimed at keeping up the forward momentum.

All the positive developments at Cooke County College in recent months, he said, are results of a "team effort all the way" - a cooperative effort involving every employee of the college, all board members and even a large number of the students themselves.

"We have one overriding collective goal, which we know is shared by all the residents of Cooke County, especially those who support us with their tax dollars," Dr. Joyner concluded, "and that is to make this college the very best it possibly can be - for both the students and this whole community."

"We still have a long way to go, of course, but with this significant increase in summer enrollment we've made a great beginning."

Good News!

All who are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God. You did not receive a spirit of slavery leading you back into fear, but a spirit of adoption through which we cry out, "Abba!" (that is, "Father!"). The Spirit himself gives witness with our spirit that we are children of God.

Weather

Muenster residents heaved a sigh of relief as the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train came and went without a trace of rain to mar the festivities. The area farmers were also relieved as they were able to work in their fields until Tuesday afternoon when a heavy thunderstorm soaked the saturated fields. The weekly temperatures and rainfall are recorded by Steve Mosier as follows.

June 19.....	78 and 72

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

As we celebrate the 210th anniversary of the birth of our great nation, it is easy to recall those whose names are recorded in the annals of history. However, there are many unsung heroes deserving our recognition and thanks who have namelessly contributed to the strength of the United States of America.

From the days of the first permanent settlement in Jamestown, through the American Revolution, the War of 1812, the American Civil War, both World Wars and most recently, Vietnam, men have borne arms to fight the common foe when occasion demanded.

During peace and during war, committed men have maintained the military strength so vital to the strength of the nation. Today, we are blessed with peace and are fortunate to celebrate more than 13 years of draft-free existence. However, we must be prepared to bolster the all-volunteer armed forces in the event of a national emergency.

Since Selective Service registration was reinstated in 1980, more than 16 million men have added their names to the list of those eligible to serve their country in a time of need.

As we take time to celebrate this national day of pride and rejoice in the unveiling of the refurbished Statue of Liberty, let us also take the time to celebrate the commitment of the 18-year-old men who take five minutes of their time to register with Selective Service and thereby continue our efforts to keep America the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

Sincerely,
Wilfred L. Ebel
Acting Director

Patent Pent-Up

by Richard A. Viguerie

WASHINGTON, VA. - Early in the 19th century, the head of the Patent Office advised that the office should be closed because everything that could possibly be invented, had been. There would be nothing new under the sun, he counseled. Joseph Wesley Newman of Route 1, Lucedale, Mississippi, must think the same guy is in charge of the Patent Office in 1986.

The Patent Office, you see, refuses to give Newman a patent on a remarkable motor he invented - a device that (he claims) could make energy cheaper and more abundant than ever before. The bureaucrats' basis for rejecting Newman's application is that the machine can't work, even though it does. Huh?

To understand what has happened to Mr. Newman, consider the history of scientific advancement. Every so often, somebody comes along with an idea that runs counter to expert opinion. The radical theorist is ridiculed, turned into a laughingstock, but mostly ignored...until the evidence proves him right.

That's what happened to the fellows who first postulated that the earth goes around the sun, that disease is caused by invisible little "germs," and that some stars become "black holes" that are virtually invisible. Today, nearly every scientist accepts those ideas as indisputed facts.

That's also what happened to the theorists who came up with the ideas that the dinosaurs were killed off by comets, that viruses come from outer space, and that petroleum is the result of geological processes rather than the decay of vegetation. Today, those ideas are taken seriously by some of the world's leading scientists. Perhaps one or more of them will turn out to be correct.

And maybe, just maybe, the Newman motor will turn out to be one of the greatest inventions of the 20th century. Joseph Newman, a largely self-educated inventor from the piney woods of southern Mississippi, describes the largest prototype of his machine as a 5,000-pound tub, four feet tall and four feet in diameter. Inside are rotating magnets, powered by a row of batteries, that enable the motor to generate a tremendous amount of electricity.

When energy goes into the machine, it is somehow multiplied by magnetic forces beyond the understanding of mainstream physics; more energy comes out of the machine than goes in. At least, that's what Newman asserts, to the chagrin of most scientists. After all, the First Law of Thermodynamics holds that energy can never be created, only transferred from one place to another.

The Patent Office refuses to grant Mr. Newman the rights to his invention under the patent law because, it says, the motor is a "perpetual motion machine." (Once started, it could run forever without additional energy, which the Office claims is impossible.) And the Patent Office handbook clearly states that "alleged inventions of perpetual motion machines are refused patents" regardless of whether they work. A patent official once told Newman, "I don't think I will ever be able to give you a patent no matter what evidence you present to me."

A few scientists support Newman, though. Dr. Roger Hastings of Sperry-UNIVAC believes that "The future of the human race may be drastically uplifted by the large-scale development of this invention." Former Patent Office commissioner William Schuyler, appointed by a federal judge to examine the device, concluded that there was "overwhelming evidence" that the machine worked. Nevertheless, two Mississippi State University professors found that it operated well below the level of efficiency claimed by its inventor.

A word of caution: Sometimes scientists are the worst-possible judges of the validity of claimed inventions. In Boston's Museum of Science a bicycle wheel spins endlessly, as if it were a perpetual motion machine, and there is a $1,000 prize for anyone who can guess how it works. Its creator, David Jones of New Scientist magazine, admits that it's a magic trick, just like three other false perpetual motion machines he's invented, but so far no one has figured it out. "Scientists are very gullible," said Jones. "They don't know how to react to someone being dishonest."

Who knows? Maybe the Newman motor is another such trick, but in this country a person is presumed innocent until proven guilty. Unless someone can prove Mr. Newman is a fraud, he should be treated as a legitimate inventor.

If I were planning to put money into the Newman motor, I would first want it examined by someone like the Amazing Randi, a magician who specializes in exposing hoaxes. I would take responsibility for determining the validity of Newman's claims, and I wouldn't depend on the government to make my investment decision for me. It is not a proper role for government to protect people from their own folly. Given all the publicity surrounding Mr. Newman and his invention - including an appearance on "The Tonight Show" - potential investors have been adequately forewarned, and the rule should apply: Let the buyer beware.

Why not give him his patent? If Newman is a con-man trying to put one over on all of us, we'll find out when he gets his patent and can start selling his machine. His customers will let us know soon enough. If, on the other hand, he is on the level, the Patent Office is doing a grave disservice both to Newman and to the country by refusing to protect his invention.

Perhaps, as Newman says, one day Americans will laugh at the Patent Office's opposition to his patent. After all, he points out, the same office once refused to grant a patent to the outrageous, unbelievable, radical invention of two brothers named Wright.

Services held for Mildred Biffle

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church in Gainesville for Mrs. Mildred Biffle with Rev. Harry Roark, Rev. Bennie Slack and Father Cletus Post officiating. Burial followed in Fairview Cemetery, conducted by Vernie Keel Funeral Home.

Mrs. Biffle, formerly of Muenster and most recently a Lindsay resident, was the widow of Jack Biffle. She is survived by three sons, Jimmy Jack Biffle and David "Herby" Biffle, both of Muenster, and Sam Biffle of Greensboro, North Carolina; seven grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Also two brothers, Doyle Selby of Era and Charles Selby of Fort Worth; and two sisters, Lucille Parkhill of Waco and Edith Gregory of Fort Worth.

Mildred Biffle was born on July 13, 1917, the daughter of Henry N. and Beulah (Dillon) Selby, and married Jack Biffle two days before Christmas in 1936 in Marietta. He died in Muenster on Nov. 10, 1972. The family lived in Muenster a number of years and the children attended Muenster Public Schools.

Mrs. Biffle was Myra's Postmistress before transferring to the Lindsay Post Office in June, 1973. She built a home in Lindsay. She retired from the postal service on Oct. 1, 1982.

Her family requested memorials be sent to First Baptist Church Building Fund or St. Peter's Church in Lindsay.

Pallbearers were Kenneth Selby, Doug Selby, Wayne Selby, Billy Biffle, Jimbo Selby, Bill Aston, Bernie Hugh Aston and John Aston.

Last week, while plans were shaping to have complimentary copies of The Enterprise observing the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train's visit, this column got the idea that the time was ripe to brag about Muenster.

Accordingly, it claimed that the level of local sales and service equaled or exceeded that in many towns three times as large. And the column ended with a listing of businesses and other community interests supporting that opinion.

About half of the column's space was used in the listing, which concluded as follows: "With all of these businesses and service possibilities, Muenster easily rates as a small town with big town ways, and easily surpasses average cities of its size."

As usual, when memory is relied upon and it seems to have run out of items, it revives later and comes up with thoughts that should have been included. Every idea apparently led to a new one and the hometown image kept getting bigger and bigger.

Under the circumstances, the column decided that the thing to do is give Muenster a fair deal by adding ideas that were overlooked before. Even so, more omissions will be recalled later, and readers will have the pleasure of remembering on their own, and telling me.

Well, here are assets additional to those listed last week: three attorneys; five insurance agencies; two oil and gas wholesalers; two propane dealers; two cosmetics dealers; two electricians, service and supply; one plumbing service and supply; one cement contractor; one sand and gravel yard; one funeral home; one flower shop; one community garden; one pipe and steel company.

Also, two floor covering stores; one retirement home; two pre-fab structure shops; one cable TV service; three real estate firms; one school of dance; two drapery supply stores; one S.N.A.P. center; one ethnic bakery; one geological service; one structural design, planning and manufacture service; two electric motor repair shops; one child care center; one diesel service center; one garden center; one landscaping service; and still more: a vast rural area of farms, ranches, dairies, cattle raising and oil production.

Dear Mr. Fette:

On behalf of The Morrison Milling Company, I would like to thank you and the citizens of Muenster for the reception you gave the Morrison wagon when the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train came through town recently.

Your gracious hospitality brightened the long journey for Fred, Deb, David and Teresa Shivers and their daughters, and you have helped The Morrison Milling Company celebrate the mill's centennial and our family's 50 years of association with it in grand style.

Please convey our thanks to your readers.

Sincerely,
E.W. (Sonny) Morrison III
President

Williamson appointed to committee

On June 10, Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, Gibson D. Lewis, advised State Representative Ric Williamson of Parker County that he has been appointed to the Energy Committee of the Southern Legislative Conference. The Southern Legislative Conference is an organization of state legislators from states throughout the south that concentrates on studying policy issues that affect the southern states at the federal level as well as state level.

The first-term state legislator who represents Parker, Wise and Cooke Counties was quoted as saying, "I am honored that Speaker Lewis would place this responsibility with me at such an early point in my participation of the legislative process. It is an honor to be placed on a national committee with less than two years of active service to the Texas Legislature. The Southern Legislative Conference is an active organization that regularly influences federal policy concerning a wide range of issues."

RIDERS

The past weekend were the Don Bayers of Waco, Nelda Bayer and three friends from Dallas, the Dale Bayer family of Gainesville, the Tom Bayer family, Dave Bayer family and Bill Bayer family, all of Muenster.

They all attended the Wagon Train festivities, and saw their father and grandfather ride in the lead wagon from Saint Jo to Muenster Thursday afternoon. They also watched Martin Bayer drive the lead team and wagon to Gainesville Friday morning. Also riding to Gainesville were Don and Barbara, Nelda, Lisa and Joel Bayer.

Werner Yosten, 67, dies in Muenster

Werner John Yosten, 67, a Muenster native, died in Muenster Memorial Hospital early Tuesday morning.

Yosten was born on May 26, 1919, to Nick and Rosa (Hesse) Yosten. He married Frances Bengfort in Lindsay on Sept. 16, 1946. They are the parents of nine sons, Kenneth of Plano, Daniel, Jerome, Steven, Chris, Ronnie, Mark, James and Joseph Yosten, all of Muenster.

Survivors include his wife; nine sons; two sisters, Armella Cler of Muenster and Pauline Spires of Gainesville; three brothers, Herbert and Meinrad Yosten of Muenster and Gilbert Nick Yosten of Hereford; and eight grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Jerry, Kenny, Chris, Ronnie, Mark and Joe Yosten.

Honorary bearers will be Frances and Werner's godchildren: Charles Cler, Mike Bengfort, David Bengfort, James Hale, Gary Yosten and Lonnie Woods.

Werner Yosten, a retired truck driver, retired from employment by the City of Muenster two years ago. Before that, he was employed by North Texas Producers Association for 20 years, and earlier by the Highway Department. He started as a youth working with his father, the late Nick Yosten, in the sand and gravel business, driving a team and wagon when loading was done by hand.

Stenholm's H.R. 472 to change 55 year old law

WASHINGTON - A nationwide poll shows a sizeable majority of Americans support major changes to a 55-year-old federal law which sets wages for public construction projects.

The changes would require the government to accurately reflect marketplace wages and reduce paperwork requirements. These are the same revisions contained in legislation introduced by Congressman Charles W. Stenholm (D-Stamford) and co-sponsored by 120 members of Congress.

The 1931 law, known as the Davis-Bacon Act, is vaguely worded. It generally requires the government to pay wages that far exceed local market rates for federally-funded construction, repair work and renovation projects. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that Davis-Bacon adds about $1 billion a year to federal construction costs. The law also requires contractors to submit to the government complete, weekly payroll records to prove compliance with Davis-Bacon. Davis-Bacon applies to all projects costing more than $2,000, a threshold set in 1934.

By a 64 to 36 margin, those who expressed an opinion wanted the law changed to reflect local wage rates and to apply to contracts of more than $1 million.

"The economy and construction industry have changed drastically since Davis-Bacon was first enacted," Stenholm said. "Davis-Bacon preceded the minimum wage and almost all other laws that protect workers' rights today. This poll clearly shows the public understands that the current law results in higher federal deficits and fewer schools, roads and jobs."

Stenholm's bill, H.R. 472, is supported by a diverse coalition of business and civic organizations, which commissioned through the Virginia polling firm of Decision/Making/Information. The survey sample was 1,050 adults contacted by phone and has a sampling error of plus-or-minus three percent.

PUC reports lower utility rates in Texas

Almost 90 percent of all Texas residential ratepayers of the eleven major electric utilities regulated by the Public Utility Commission of Texas are paying lower rates than they did three years ago.

"This means that almost four million Texas households paid lower electric rates last month than they did in May 1983," the three-member PUC reported recently. The average decrease over the three-year period was 6.2 percent.

The experience of two municipally-owned utilities whose rates are not set by the PUC was not as favorable. The residential bill for 1000 kilowatt hours in San Antonio rose 5.7 percent. In Austin, rates declined 1.8 percent.

"For many of the taxpayers for whom we set rates, the decline in their bills represent major reductions," the PUC said. "For example, Lower Colorado River Authority customers have seen their bills drop by over 19 percent; Houston Lighting & Power customers, by almost 16 percent; Southwestern Public Service customers, by more than 7 percent; and El Paso Electric customers, by over 6 percent."

The report noted that over the past year, declines have been "even more striking."

"Nine of the 11 major electric utilities in Texas have seen their rates for 1000 kilowatt hours decrease since May 1985, while rates for the other two have remained virtually unchanged. Gulf State Utilities customers saw the largest decrease since May 1985, a 22.2 percent reduction, and a settlement just arrived at last week will roll back GSU's rates about 35 percent this summer. HL&P's rates dropped 13.1 percent the past 12 months, and LCRA's, 11.9 percent."

Brazos files suit against Texas Utilities

Brazos Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. has filed suit against Texas Utilities, contending that the company has failed to complete the Comanche Peak nuclear project in a timely fashion at a reasonable cost.

The goal of the suit, which was filed in state District Court in Austin, is to have Brazos' Comanche Peak ownership agreement with Texas Utilities rescinded and to recover costs and damages.

Richard McCaskill, executive vice president and general manager, said Brazos has concluded that its consumers should not bear the estimated 19 percent rate increase Comanche Peak will cause if it goes into operation within the next few years. Brazos serves 227,000 consumers through 20 rural electric cooperatives and seven cities in 66 counties in Texas.

McCaskill said he had hoped to negotiate a settlement to the dispute with Texas Utilities, but the company filed suit on May 29, 1986, bringing present negotiations to an impasse.

"We feel very confident that we will prevail," McCaskill said.

On Friday, Brazos also filed a response to the suit that Texas Utilities filed against the three minority owners in the state District Court in Dallas County. The response includes a request to have the proceedings shifted to the state District Court in McLennan County, a claim that Texas Utilities does not have a basis to sue Brazos and a countersuit similar to the one Brazos filed in Austin.

Brazos was mistakenly associated with a suit filed June 18 by the other minority owners in the Comanche Peak project, Tex-La Electric Cooperative and Texas Municipal Power Agency. Brazos anticipates that these suits will be consolidated. The cooperative intends to work with Tex-La and

Jobs in Alaska?

Read this

Beware of bogus advertisements offering high paying jobs or Alaska job information for sale.

Alaska's unemployment rate reached 11.3 percent during January 1985 and averaged 9.5 percent for the year. This compares to the national average of 7.2 percent for 1985. Some Alaskan communities experience unemployment as high as 23 percent in any given month.

Alaska's employment base is limited and seasonal, and many unemployed individuals are unable to find or afford housing. The cost of living in Alaska is high.

Alaska's labor unions all report members waiting for openings in both skilled and semi-skilled jobs. Much construction work is unionized. There is currently a significant down-turn in construction and oil industry-related employment as a result of the decline in the price of oil.

We urge job seekers not to go to Alaska unless they have a firm offer of employment to avoid the traumatic disappointments facing many newcomers there now.

For further information, write Alaska Department of Labor, P.O. Box 1149, Juneau, AK 99811.

Her bridal bouquet of mauve and rosette colored roses, stephanotis, forget-me-nots and white roses, long streamers and greenery was entwined with a crystal rosary.

cousins, and Terry Felderhoff, the groom's cousin, were Mass servers. Sherry Opal of Tulsa participated in the wedding liturgy, and wedding music was presented by Ruth Felderhoff, organist, and Christy Felderhoff, soloist. Selections included "Panis Angelicus," "Let It Be Me," "Edelweiss" and "Color My World."

Ivory and rosette silk flowers and lighted candles in candelabra adorned the altar.

The wedding cakes, by Betty Rose Walterscheid, were served by April Truebenbach, Vickie Truebenbach, Rhonda Stewart, Kim Stewart, Dana Fleitman, Stacey Fleitman and Dyan Fisher.

When the couple returns from their wedding trip, they will be at home in Fort Worth.

CPSC issues complaint seeking recall of toys

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has announced that its staff has issued a complaint against Johnson & Johnson Baby Products Co., Inc. seeking a recall of over 1.6 million crib toys because of alleged strangulation hazards to infants. The Commission authorized issuance of the Complaint by a 3-1 vote with Acting Chairman Graham and Commissioners Scanlon and Armstrong voting for the complaint and Commissioner Dawson voting against it. Commissioner Stalter refused himself from participating in this matter.

The complaint alleges two young children have strangled on the toys. A 10-month-old boy died in Temple Hills, Maryland in October 1984, when he became entangled in the strings tying a Soft Triplet toy across his crib. A seven-month-old girl died in Coronado, California in December 1985, when she was caught by the neck on top of a Triplet stretched across her crib.

The Soft Triplet, Piglet Crib Gym and Triplets Marching Band toys can be hung across cribs and playpens and used as crib gyms.

Consumers use their own strings or cords to tie the Soft Triplets and Marching Band toys. Once children can raise their heads over the strings or over the toy, they can get caught and strangle.

Over 1.6 million Soft Triplets were sold by mail order from 1979 to March of 1986 through magazines such as Parents, American Baby and Baby Talk. About 62,000 Piglets and 3,000 Marching Band toys were sold through retail outlets nationwide, the Piglets from 1982 to 1984 and the Marching Band from 1985 to March of 1986.

The toys consist of three soft doll-like figures held together with elastic and with plastic rings at each end and are advertised for use from birth to 24 months.

The staff believes these toys are dangerous and should be removed from cribs and playpens immediately. While Johnson & Johnson is conducting a warning campaign against hanging the toys in cribs or playpens, the staff believes the toys should be recalled and removed from children's environments completely to prevent deaths and injuries.

The staff urges persons who are aware of strangulations or other incidents involving these toys to call the CPSC Toll-Free Hotline number 800-638-CPSC as soon as possible. A teletypewriter number for the hearing impaired is 800-638-8270. Further information can also be obtained by calling the above numbers.

Vacation Bible School was "Glad Days"

A full week of programs, learning situations, fun activities, worship services and songs of praise, Bible study and crafts filled the days of the 1986 Vacation Bible School. A special program and Eucharistic celebration marked the closing on June 20. Theme for the week for classes for four-year-olds through the sixth grade was "Glad Days."

With an average daily attendance of 220 students, the 17 teachers, 40 aides and craft helpers, opened each morning with a worship service led by Emily Klement and Ruth Felderhoff. The morning service began with a procession of Flags and the Holy Bible.

Mrs. Klement led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag, the Papal Flag, the Bible; followed by songs of praise. Upon leaving, all made contributions to this year's mission project: the collection of monies for hospital funds for Bridgette Klement and twins Laura and Adam Taylor.

Children then returned to individual where they heard Bible stories, completed work sheets, and worked in crafts about Christian living, songs and skits on how Christians can follow Jesus in daily lives.

Snacks and refreshments were served in mid-morning by Kathy Berres and a number of assistants.

During the week, students were visited by Father Denis and Father Victor.

Friday's closing liturgy was planned by Father Victor and Mmes. Emily Klement and Pam Fette. In the entrance procession were directors, Margie Klement and Michelle Knauf carrying Bibles, Brian Knabe and Cody Truebenbach carrying the U.S. and Papal Flags, followed by the celebrant Father Victor and Mass servers Neil Berres, Rodney Vogel, Maurus Hacker and Cody Klement.

Da Lana Walterscheid gave the Readings; Cindy Reiter, Melissa Miller, Tammy Sicking, Julia Felderhoff, Julia Fleitman and Shelley Klement presented prayers of the faithful. Mrs. Kathy Berres narrated the Offertory introduction. Ushers were Bruno Fleitman and Ross Felderhoff.

In the Offertory procession, David Hesse carried a child's Bible; Kelly Felderhoff a workbook; Jarrod Klement a craft. Andrea Klement and Nicholas Taylor, sister and brother of the honored children, carried Mission boxes with names of Laura, Bridgette and Adam, representing the mission project.

Dyan Fisher carried a statue of "Jesus with the Little Children;" Jason Sicking brought the water and the wine; Laurie Fisher the bread and the chalice; and Darren Hennigan presented the Offertory collections.

The Offertory song was "People Are Precious." The Communion song was "We Shall Overcome," and "I Remember You Are With Me" by the third, fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

The Meditation song was "God Is Love" with hand signs by the four-year-olds, kindergarten, first and second graders. The opening and closing song was "Keep God As A Friend."

Eucharistic ministers were Karen Endres and Pam Fette.

Following the meditation, Tanya Knauf and Trisha Klement presented Father Victor with a scroll of appreciation and a box of candy in thanksgiving for his help. Michelle Knauf presented a floral bud vase to Peggy Grewing who was in charge of the nursery. Mrs. Linda Knabe presented ivy baskets to directors Margie Klement and Michelle Knauf from the teachers. Father Victor presented the Mission boxes to mothers of the honored children, Mmes. Christi Klement and Doreen Taylor.

Special guests for the liturgy were Mmes. Klement and Taylor and Laura, Adam and Nicholas; Andrea Klement and grandmothers, Mrs. Regina Pels, Mrs. Ed Klement and an aunt, Gretchen Kostyniak.

Secular Franciscans meet in Flusche home

Secular Franciscans of St. Peter's parish in Lindsay met in the home of Bill and Elvira Flusche on June 10 at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Tony Hermes, president, led opening prayers and conducted the meeting. Mrs. Mary Stoffels read from Scriptures, Phillipians Chapter 2: Verses 1-4: "Be united in your convictions and in your love." A short form of the Consecration of the Lay Franciscans to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, was prayed.

Minutes and financial report were given. Mrs. Veronica Klement read a passage from the Franciscan Herald by Father Albert Nimeth, OFM, "The Spirit We Need."

The Pen Pal Network was discussed - but to date no one in the local fraternity has joined.

In a letter from Bishop Peter Chenoparampil of India, he disclosed his intentions of again coming to the United States in 1986, probably in July.

Members of this fraternity hope to have a garage sale in the late summer, to benefit the fraternity. Also Mrs. Hermes reminded members that the canceled stamp project needs more stamps constantly.

On July 15, following the 7:45 Mass in St. Peter's, the Secular Franciscans will receive a new member making the Profession and new candidates will be enrolled at the same time, thereby becoming postulants of the order.

A letter was read from the staff of the Secular Franciscan Resource Center in Lombard, Illinois, explaining the progress at the Center, and asking for prayers and financial support. The meeting was closed with prayers from the Ritual.

Following adjournment, the hostess, Mrs. Elvira Flusche, served refreshments of cake, ice cream, lemonade and coffee.

Forestburg News

by Myrt Denham

There will be a very important TOWN MEETING at 8 p.m. Thursday night, July 10, in the new Community Center. Everyone is urged to attend as some matters of vital importance will be taken up. For more information, call Mrs. Larry Scott.

All you rodeo fans are reminded of the July 4 and 5 rodeo in Forestburg with a dance to follow.

Last Thursday night, June 19, was the regular monthly meeting of the WBAP Community Service Club at 8 p.m. in the Community Center. There was a very "SAD" showing of "bodies" at this meeting. Only eight people showed up and this does not speak very well of the organization. Not much business could be taken care of - but those present did the best they could. Now don't say you didn't know there was a meeting, for if you are a member, you know there is a meeting every third Thursday of each month. If you can't remember, you might try marking your calendar. Next meeting is Thursday, July 17!

The next Ladies Monthly Luncheon will be at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 10, in the old Community Center. Do make plans to attend and bring a friend. Just try it - you might like it.

The sixth annual Forestburg Watermelon Festival will take place on Saturday, Aug. 23. Anyone interested in having a booth to sell handicrafts, arts, clothing, etc. is welcome, but must contact Mrs. Larry (Becky) Scott beforehand to make arrangements. Everyone in Forestburg is asked to "talk-up" this Festival to friends and neighbors near and far. As always, there will be a meal served at the new Community Center from 11:30 a.m. till the food runs out. Charges for the meal are $4.00 per adult and $2.00 per children under 12 years of age.

FORESTBURG WATERMELON FESTIVAL FLAG CONTEST

The Forestburg WBAP Community Service Club will sponsor a Watermelon Flag Contest for the sixth annual festival. Forestburg-area residents are eligible to participate. Design a flag on paper. Complete the drawing with dimensions and colors. All entries will be judged by a panel of judges. The winning flag will be on display at the festival. Deadline for entries is July 15. Mail entries to Beth Dill, P.O. Box 222, Forestburg, TX 76239.

The Forestburg United Methodist Church had its Vacation Bible School last week from June 16 through June 20. The average daily attendance was 55 - the children, teachers and "workers" really enjoyed it all. On Friday morning at 10:30, a program for parents, relatives and friends was presented by the children, after which everyone enjoyed refreshments of cookies and punch. A special praise goes to Jewell Dill who was the director - she did a marvelous job of getting it all together.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bailey of Lubbock arrived at the home of his mother, Juanita Bailey, Sunday to visit till Friday. Then they went on to Fort Worth to visit their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bailey and son.

Thelma Mass entered Wilford Hall Medical Center at Lackland AFB in San Antonio on Tuesday. At this writing, she is still a patient there.

Miss Jo Ellen Gardner of San Leandro, Calif. recently arrived at the W.T. Reynolds' home in the Dewey area. Jo Ellen is the daughter of the late Herbert and Willie (Perryman) Gardner and a niece of Millie Reynolds. She will spend most of her summer vacation with W.T. and Millie. Jo Ellen is a grade school teacher in San Leandro.

Mrs. Irene Harry accompanied her daughter, Maxine Peers, home to Krum on Thursday. On Saturday, Mrs. Harry, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Peers and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hudspeth all motored to Denton to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Nivens for supper. There they were all joined by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Moore of New Roads, La. Mrs. Peers, Mrs. Hudspeth, Mrs. Nivens and Mrs. Moore are sisters - all Irene Harry's daughters. Then on Sunday, the Clifford Hudspeths and their grandchildren, Chad and Leah Hudspeth, drove over to Whitesboro to "eyeball" the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train, but they'd already settled in their camp for the night, so the Hudspeths just visited around amongst them for awhile.

Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Iund of El Paso called on their dear friend, Mrs. Vera Mae McGee, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holland and son Kendall attended the family reunion of descendants of the late John and Sarah Green on Saturday in the Nocona Community Center. Mrs. Holland says there were 75 or so folks present.

On Wednesday night, the Hollands and Kendall drove down to Denton to visit daughter Christy and had supper with her.

Mrs. Holland says son Brent is on an extended visit with his sister Christy in Denton and is seeking employment. Enjoying supper with the Hollands on Monday night were Mrs. Eva Crayton of Montague and her grandson, Robert Byford of Las Vegas, Nevada, and Mitch Holland of Gainesville.

The Forestburg United Methodist Church folks are very proud of one of their members, Charles Dill. Charles has chosen to serve God as a lay speaker and this past Sunday, he conducted his first service at the Vashti United Methodist Church. Charles has been doing some lay work in his church here at Forestburg. Keep up the good work, Charles, we are all proud of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Dill, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Dill and Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dill, Keith, Kody and Keisha attended an auction sale at the Bowie Sale Barn Sunday afternoon.

Billie Anderson is playing "Mama Bird" to three little baby wrens. The real mama abandoned them recently when the nest was disturbed by people working on the log cabin for the Sesquicentennial Celebration here. Since Billie is such a great lover of birds and animals, she decided to take on the chore of raising these young birds. She reports that they are doing just fine on the formula she mixed up for them - says she has to feed them every 15 minutes. Now that is devotion - plus staying at home, too.

AG BRIEFS...

AG LENDERS CONSIDERING REPAYMENT ABILITY - Agricultural lenders are putting increased emphasis on the repayment ability of farmers and ranchers, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Collateral based lending has several weaknesses: it considers only the lender's protection and does not address whether or not the loan will benefit the borrower; it also focuses on the expected value of the collateral at the note's due date or next scheduled payment date and thus encourages borrowers to borrow excessively when values are appreciating. With lending based on repayment ability, collateral is viewed in its proper role as providing insurance and control, not as justification for borrowing or lending.

SECOND CRP SIGN-UP FIGURES - Almost 280,000 acres of erodible Texas cropland were accepted into the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) during the second sign-up period in May. Thus more than 300,000 acres involving some 1,200 farms are now enrolled in this government program aimed at conserving soil and improving water quality and wildlife habitats. Accepted bids on land entered into the program averaged just over $41 per acre in Texas for the second round of the sign-up compared to about $39 for the first round. Individuals whose land was accepted enter into a 10-year contract to keep the land out of production. The land must be planted to permanent cover (grass or trees) on a cost-share basis, and certain conservation practices must be carried out, says a soils specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Another sign-up period for the CRP, which is a five-year effort, will likely come in late summer or early fall.

HOME EC BRIEFS...

CLOTHING COSTS AND THE FAMILY BUDGET - While clothing costs are going up, they may have less of an impact on family budgets than in the past, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist. According to clothing specialist Becky Saunders, 1985 apparel and upkeep prices, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, rose 4.4 percent over 1984. This is the first time since 1969 that clothing prices increased at a higher rate than prices for the "all items" category, she says. Women's suits and women's separates and sportswear and girls' footwear and men's coats and jackets declined during the year. "In spite of the increasing prices, families are actually spending a lower percentage of their budgets on clothing," Saunders reports. "In current dollars, consumers spend an average of 5.5 percent of their total expenditures on clothing and related purchases, compared to 7.7 percent in 1972-73."

Glenn Hess wins third at AATUA

Glenn Hess finished in third place at the AATUA Grand National held in Boyd, Texas last Saturday.

Leading the race for seven laps, Hess came within five laps of having the distinction of being the first person from Texas to ever win a Grand National on a three-wheeler.

Edging him out of the win were two Kawasaki Factory Riders, Greg Baker of Oklahoma City and Steve Mendenhall of California, with Factory Rider Tim Helter of North Carolina finishing fourth.

Taking wins in heat races earlier were Greg Baker, Glenn Hess and Tim Helter.

Glenn won a cash award for his effort and also earned national recognition for Muenster, as many national magazines and sports channels had representatives and reporters present for the event, the largest national race ever held in the United States, with 700 entries in competition.

Big mako shark sets new state record

AUSTIN - A 664-pound mako shark caught off Port Isabel on May 4 has been certified as a new state record.

The shark, caught by Donald Ewing of Richardson, was 128 inches long and 64 inches in girth. The fish was landed with 125-pound-test line after being hooked in the tail, Ewing said.

The previous record mako weighed 388 pounds and was caught out of Port Aransas in 1977.

3 Wheeling Magazine in Muenster

After covering the Grand National Race in Boyd, Phil Beckman and Bruce Simurda of Costa Mesa, California visited Muenster enroute to doing a feature story on the Red River Riding Trails in Bulcher.

Beckman is the technical editor and Simurda is the editor of Three Wheeling Magazine, a national publication that covers all-terrain vehicles.

Mike Kidd and son Randy of Mike Kidd Promotions, and Glenn Hess accompanied the duo for the tour of the riding trails. They spent several hours of trail riding and picture taking on Monday before flying back to California Monday evening.

They rated Red River Riding Trails as excellent. They enjoyed Muenster hospitality, they said, but admitted they were ready to leave "Texas summer heat."

The Kidds and Glenn Hess urge readers to watch for race coverage and pictures, as well as the promised article on the Red River Riding Trails, in the September or October issues of Three Wheeling Magazine, appearing in about a month.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

In most cases, the rain has been beneficial for this year's grain sorghum. The only low that we might experience from the heavy rains will be the lack of root system should the weather turn off dry. However, grain sorghum has made excellent growth and is beginning to head over the county.

Producers should be checking their fields in the next several weeks for the presence of our old problem insect, the headworm. Headworms are actually corn earworms and each year cause many producers in the county excessive damage. As a rule, we usually find headworms more prevalent in tight headed grain sorghum. The tight heads offer protection for the worms and a good feeding area. Early headworm infestations show up as ragged leaf damage. The earworm is down in the whorl of the plant and feeds on the leaf in the early stages. In later infestations, the larvae attack the developing sorghum heads.

Begin to check your heads during flowering until the soft dough stage is reached. Once the sorghum grain begins to harden, we will lose the headworm populations. Many times we are asked what is the cycle of the headworm and there is really none. We find headworms in grain sorghum of all sizes. So, producers need to check and use chemical control if populations become excessive. An insecticide application is usually needed when there is an average of two or more worms per head.

An easy way to check for headworms would be using a gallon milk jug. Cut the top out leaving the handle and then bend the heads over and shake them in the jug.

As in all insects, fields will be different and insect populations will vary greatly. So, individual field scouting is a must.

Area pork producers urged to participate in nat'l. election

Area pork producers have the opportunity to participate in a U.S. Department of Agriculture sponsored statewide election, July 7-11, to help select individuals for appointment to an industry-wide body that will administer a promotion, research and consumer information order for pork.

All pork producers in Texas are encouraged to vote in the elections. Candidates receiving the highest number of votes in each state will be eligible for appointment by the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture to the State's allotted positions on the National Pork Producers Delegate Body.

The Delegate Body, consisting of approximately 165 producers, including two or more members representing each of the 50 states and four importers, will be responsible for administering all aspects of the pork order.

Voting in Cooke County will take place at the County Extension Office, Courthouse Basement, Gainesville. The office will be open for voting each day from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Pork producers can vote in any county in their home state after signing a voter registration list certifying that they are pork producers in the state.

Pork producers are urged to vote in person at the County Extension Office. If that is not possible, an absentee voting packet containing a ballot and registration form may be obtained from Jim Epstein, National Pork Producers Election, P.O. Box 23762, Washington, D.C. 20026-3762; telephone (202) 475-5407. Absentee ballots must be postmarked by July 11, and received at the above address no later than July 18.

Votes will be tallied at 9 a.m. on July 15 at the local County Office of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. The public is invited to be present at this official counting, and the results will be forwarded to the Secretary for consideration.

Microwave programs to be given in Gainesville

By Evelyn Yeatts, County Extension Agent

The microwave continues to be one of the most popular of the major home appliances. Cooking in the microwave is one method of cooking without adding heat to the kitchen which is especially nice on hot summer days.

Two microwave programs are scheduled for June. The first program sponsored by the Extension Service Home Economics Committee will be held on Monday night, June 23, at 7 p.m. The same program will be repeated Tuesday morning, June 24, at 10 a.m. Both will be held at the Texas Power and Light Company meeting room in Gainesville.

Working together to present the demonstrations will be Mrs. Evelyn Yeatts, County Extension Agent, and Mrs. Kaye Glaeser, Home Economist in Homemaking. Seating space is limited so advance reservations are necessary. They may be made by calling Mrs. Yeatts at the County Extension Office at 668-5412.

There will be a $2.00 charge to pay for demonstration supplies.

The program is designed for new microwave owners and for those who currently do not use their microwave for cooking besides reheating. Homemakers who are considering purchasing a microwave in the near future are also invited to attend.

The microwave is a different type of cooking process than with the conventional oven so there is much to learn in order to take full advantage of the microwave. Included in the two-hour program will be: How the microwave operates, types of cooking utensils to use, advantages and disadvantages of microwave cooking, care and cleaning, converting recipes, how to microwave a variety of foods, and other microwave hints.

The microwave program, like all educational programs of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is open to anyone regardless of socioeconomic levels, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

Avoid slippage, improve performance...

Tractor-mounted computers aid farmers

MOLINE, ILL. - Farmers are using tractor-mounted computers and radar sensing units and displays to measure how fast tractors move, and that improves both tractor performance and the efficiency of field operations. This space-age technology helps tractors cope with the conditions in which they operate.

Automobiles travel on solid surfaces, like paved highways, so their tires don't slip. But tractors operate in fields, on loose soils, where there is less traction. The wheels spin, or slip.

In an automobile, the speedometer counts the revolutions of the axle. Because there is little tire slippage, the speedometer can convert axle rotation to miles per hour with almost perfect accuracy.

But the same device is far from perfect on a tractor, because of slippage. Some slippage is acceptable on a tractor, then farmers add weights to make their tractors heavier and reduce slippage. But it takes more fuel to move the extra weight.

On the other hand, removing weight to lighten the load means there is less pressure between the tire and the loose soil. That means less traction, more slippage, and an even greater waste of fuel as it is "spun" away by the spinning tires.

The compromise, say agricultural engineers, is approximately 12 percent slippage for most efficient tractor operation, depending on field conditions.

But what does that mean to the accuracy of a tractor speedometer which, like the one on the automobile, measures speed by counting axle rotations? Obviously, the tractor's speedometer is off - by the 12 percent or even more.

Enter the space-age electronics. John Deere's new line of tractor Performance Trak monitors utilizes a radar unit mounted on the underside of the tractor frame. It works like the radar highway patrolman use. The major difference is that the highway patrolman is sitting still and the radar measures the speed of the approaching car. On the tractor, the radar unit is moving along with the tractor, and it reads the speed at which the field passes below.

This accurate speed measurement is critically important in such farm operations as applying agricultural chemicals. The amount applied to a given area is a function of the amount of chemical going through the sprayer nozzles and the speed of the tractor. If the amount of chemical sprayed through the nozzle remains constant but the tractor is moving too slow, too much chemical will be applied; wasting expensive chemicals and perhaps hurting yield. If the amount remains constant and the tractor is moving too fast, inadequate amounts will be applied and control of weeds or insects may suffer.

The new John Deere Performance Trak monitors can also be programmed by inputting the width of the implement or sprayer boom. They will then tell the operator how much area he has worked and can convert this to area worked per hour.

It will also measure and report wheel slip, telling the operator to add or reduce weight ("ballast") to achieve the best efficiency, from the standpoint of the fuel consumed per acre of work.

Election of two FmHA county committee members

Election of two Farmers Home Administration county committee members will take place on June 30, 1986, County Supervisor James B. Murdock announced recently. "This is a historic occasion," Murdock said. "It is the first time that FmHA county committee members have been elected. Until now, they have been designated by the agency. The 1985 Farm Bill calls for two elected and one designated member on the committee."

The FmHA county committee assists the county office in determining the eligibility of applicants for certain types of FmHA loans.

Farmers who live in Cooke and Montague counties, have their principal farming operation within the county or area for which the election is being held, and derive the principal part of their income from farming are eligible to vote.

Nominees for the Cooke and Montague FmHA county committee are: T.H. Dick and George Bond.

"This time, we will elect two committee members," Murdock said. "One will serve for one year and the other will serve two years. In the future, all three members will serve three-year terms on a staggered basis, with one position to be filled each year."

Voting ballots are available from the FmHA county office at the Federal Building, Room 211 in Gainesville. Marked ballots must be received at the FmHA office by June 30, 1986.
