Routine items and dissemination of information brought very little excitement to Monday's City Council meeting. #### MEDIA: GIVE EQUAL TIME TO ALL THE BAD GUYS

By Edwin Feulner

I'm getting tired of South Africa. We all know that the government of South Africa is not a paradigm of virtue, and that something must be done to end apartheid. But from the way the news media cover the subject, one would think South Africa is the only place left on earth with a repressive government, and it's not by a long shot.

Here, for example, are some stories that are being given short shrift in the media's mad rush to have the last word on apartheid.

AFGHANISTAN—If you thought the Soviets pulled out when we refused to send our athletes to the Moscow Olympics, you're wrong. Even with the Head Red's decision to recall 5,000 soldiers, there are still about 150,000 Soviet troops in the war-ravaged country. And what are the Soviets up to? You can bet they're not sitting on their hands or plucking chickens. Instead, they've been having fun with gas warfare, attack helicopters, and bombs that look like toys (designed to explode when Afghan kids pick them up).

ETHIOPIA—If you think a lot of blacks are dying in South Africa, you ain't seen nothin' yet. Take a look at the North African Soviet client state of Ethiopia. The regime of that country's mass murderer Mengistu Haile Mariam has managed to starve hundreds of thousands of its people—while food from international relief agencies rots on the docks (starving rebellious citizens is cheaper than shooting them). But maybe that's all right in the eyes of the media, in Ethiopia, you see, blacks are doing the killing, not whites.

IRAN—Once one of the more enlightened countries in the Arab world, Iran is currently involved in a bitter war with its neighbor, Iraq. And in a brilliant flash of military strategy, Iran's ayatollahs have perfected the use of children as mine detectors and tank buffers.

CAMBODIA—Rumor has it that Cambodian despot Pol Pot has given up his mass murder. Small wonder. After killing untold millions (some say as much as half the population), there aren't very many people left up his mass murder. Small wonder. After killing untold millions (some say as much as half the population), there aren't very many people left in Cambodia to butcher in Cambodia to butcher.

NICARAGUA—Ronald Reagan has been right all along. There IS a Communist on our doorstep. And after meeting with his spiritual leaders in Moscow, Cuba and Libya, Daniel Ortega has moved into the big time. He's sent troops to visit his neighbors, shut down the only opposition newspaper left in the country, persecuted churchmen, and redistributed the wealth so well that no one has anything.

THE SOVIET UNION—Yes, it's true: The Soviets don't have discriminatory apartheid laws. In the new Soviet Worker's State, virtually EVERYBODY gets persecuted and EVERYBODY likes it (or else). It's more fair that way. Well, ALMOST everyone likes it. You can't count the 17 million or more who died in the Gulags between 1930 and 1953, and the millions who are on permanent vacations in Siberia.

THE EASTERN BLOC COUNTRIES—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, East Germany. No violations of human rights here. Just

THE EASTERN BLOC COUNTRIES—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, East Germany. No violations of human rights here. Just ask the Ministers of Propaganda. Okay, so maybe they did kill a couple of priests, and jail a few thousand dissidents, and stifle free speech, and shut down a labor union or two. But it's nothing the Nazis didn't do.

AND A HOST OF OTHERS—Libya, North Korea, Red China, Vietnam, Laos, Syria, Mozambique, Angola, Liberia, and Cuba.

So why aren't these countries also in the news? Why don't our newspapers write pious editorials denouncing these brutal regimes? Why aren't the protesters calling for sanctions and disinvestment? The answer is simple: the more it invites criticism.

It is one of the supreme ironies of our time that the countries that most deserve to be vilified are the ones that get the least press attention. Countries with relatively free and open societies on the other hand, become victims of the media juggernaut precisely because their flaws are there in full view. Reporters who feel the need to write on South Africa, simply take the next flight to Johannesburg. Writing a story on Afghanistan, on the other hand, is a risky business that involves crossing hundreds of miles of mountains, making it across a closed border, and evading Soviet troops who have orders to stop precisely the kind of thing we are talking about.

No. South Africa is not the only repressive state in the world. It's No, South Africa is not the only repressive state in the world. It's not even the worst. But it's a convenient target; and that seems to be good enough these days.

State Senator John Sharp (D-Victoria) and Rep. ### YOU CAN STILL SEE OUR TEXAS PIONEERING SPIRIT AT WORK

STAYING AT THE LEADING EDGE OF ENERGY TECHNOLOGY.

From the beginning, we've been a leader when new, better, and more efficient ways of providing electrical energy have been developed.

As early as 1926, we opened the first power plant in Texas to use lignite for fuel. Even in the 1940's, when Texas natural gas was abundant and inexpensive, we were planning for the future by acquiring major supplies of East Texas lignite.

In 1971, at Fairfield, we completed the first lignite generating unit - others followed, and have saved our customers more than $3.5 billion in the last 10 years. And right now we're nearing of the first nuclear power plant in Texas. We're still planning for the future in wide-ranging energy research that includes everything from conservation and load management to fusion, solar and wind power. We're using additional energy sources such as cogeneration and combustion turbines. All of these have one aim – to continue to deliver adequate electricity to our customers at a reasonable cost.

The pioneering spirit isn't a list of past deeds or an outline of plans for the future. It's an attitude, a commitment to looking for, finding and developing better ways to do our job. Providing energy today and planning for your energy future.

LINDSAY CELEBRATES Texas Sesquicentennial und Oktoberfest

Rain didn't dampen Lindsay residents' spirits as they celebrated Texas' Sesquicentennial last Sunday. The parade - following "The Past, The Present, The Future" theme - ushered in Lindsay's annual Oktoberfest celebration.

Starting at Lindsay School, the procession of 27 entries moved east down Main Street. Mary Larsson Gwyn from KGAF Radio was emcee. Tim Wimmer sang the Star Spangled Banner and Karen Bartlett played parade music. Judges were Monica Hess, Clyde Yeatts, and Jack Clark.

Winning the grand prize was the "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" float, put together by the families of Bob and Kathy Bowman, Alice and C.J. Hellman, Toot and Peanuts Sandman, Linda and Don Sandman, Debbie and Robert Sandman, and Judy and John Hoberer. First place went to the Lindsay Young Homemakers. Jerome Fuhrmann's 1935 Ford pickup came in second and the Lindsay St. Anne's Society placed third. The Troy Ford family from Rosston received an honorable mention.

Part of the grand prize will be given to Sister Roberta Hesse.

Van Alstyne Panthers prey on ailing Hornets, 34-6

In their last non-district encounter of the season, the Muenster Hornets saw their record fall to 2-3 as the Van Alstyne Panthers rolled over the Hornets 34-6. Outgaining Muenster 394 yards to 143 yards, the Panthers took a 20-0 halftime advantage and never looked back. Muenster averted the shutout when Shane Wimmer hit Mark Hennigan for 49 yards to the Panther one and Drue Bynum plunged for the score with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

The injury-riddled Hornet squad will still be short-handed as they open district play at Prosper this Friday night. Freshman Donnie Boydstun's return is doubtful for the upcoming game, leaving Muenster with only 16 healthy players. A pre-season top ten team, the Hor-nets will be looking to make the playoffs in a six-team league featuring three 5-0 teams - Valley View, Era and Lindsay.

Turnovers were the key to the first half hole that Muenster dug for itself. The first interception put the Panthers at the Hornet 26-yard line where Carey Pitts lofted a pass to Jerry Cooper for the first score their record to 4-1 for the season.

Jr. Hi Hornets lose close one

After trailing 6-0, the JH Hornet football team came back for an 8-6 lead, only to run out of steam and suffer their first loss of the season 12-8 at Van Alstyne. The Panthers welcomed a costly second half turnover to rally for the winning score with 2:20 left in the third quarter.

Van Alstyne won the toss and elected to kickoff. It turned out to be a good choice when Muenster was forced to punt for the first time in three games. The Panthers took possession, following the kick on the Hornet 45-yard line. In workman-like fashion, they moved the ball in for the score in 10 plays.

Muenster finally got the offense rolling on their third and final possession of the half. Behind tackle Paul Black and Darrin Russell, and guard Scott Hudspeth, the Hornet backfield of Troy Pagel and Spencer McAden controlled the ball for five minutes and 65 yards. McAden followed Pagel over the goal line for a one-yard touchdown run with only 19 seconds left in the first half. Pagel then hit a diving Bryan Reiter in the right corner of the end zone for the two-point conversion and the momentum.

Texas bowhunters are reminded of several changes in regulations governing archery equipment.

One of the changes involves a definition of arrow point types used for various species of game. Broadhead-equipped arrows with at least two cutting edges and 7/8-inch minimum broadhead width are required for hunting turkeys and all game animals other than squirrels.

While hunting squirrels and all game birds other than turkeys, arrows may be equipped with any type of hunting points except those commonly known as target or field points.

commonly known as target of richic points.

Chester Burdett, law enforcement director for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said the intent of the regulation is to prohibit the use of the type of arrow points made for target practice, since they are generally ineffective for hunting.

"Although target points are illegal, there is a variety of other arrow point styles, both commercial and homemade, which are acceptable for hunting species for which broadheads are not required," Burdett said. "The basic consideration is that an arrow must be designed to either cause must be designed to either cause animal."

Burdett added that field and target points can be modified in several different ways to make them legal for small game, including attachment of a washer or similar device which creates the shock factor. Broadheads may be used for any game animal or bird during the open season.

Another regulation which might during the open season.

Another regulation which might have caused confusion concerns mechanical releases. Devices which lock the bow at full or partial draw are illegal, but handheld release mechanisms are permitted.

Another change in regulations requires bows used for hunting turkey and all game animals other than squirrels to have a minimum peak draw weight of 40 pounds. In prior years the minimum strength was based on the distance a bow could propel an arrow.

As in the past, the arrow may not be poisoned, drugged, or explosive, and the arrow must bear the name and address of the user in a nonwater soluble medium.

Valley View did almost all their damage in the first half, scoring 39 of their 45 points.
Second string sophomore quarterback Darrell Dangelmayr filled the shoes of Scott Taylor, who was injured last week, most of the game. However, Dangelmayr was injured with a little under 6:00 remaining in the second quarter.
Freshman quarterback Steve quarterback

Koelzer then saw action. Koelzer held his ground, completing 1 of 3 passes for 15 yards passing. Dangelmayr's injury was not severe, therefore he came back before the half ended.

During the halftime activies, Sacred Heart senior Sharon Henscheid was crowned Homecoming Queen. Tigerette of the Week was Sally Stoffels.

In the second half, the Tiger defense rose to the occasion, keeping Valley View out of the end zone. With the exception of Kerry Kyle's 65-yard breakaway in the last 3:47 of the game, which resulted in ascore.

Kerry Kyle led all rushers with 203 yards on 16 carries. Wayne Darrell Dangelmayr threw 24 passes, completing 6 for 47 yards passing. Mike Adair was his leading receiver, catching 3 for 34 yards. Craig Voth also added 19 yards on 2 catches.

Steve Knabe led the Tigers' defensive charge with 4 tackles and 7 assists. Wayne Becker had 4 tackles and 6 assists. Adair had 4 tackles and 2 assists. Casey Houtchens and Craig Voth both had 3 tackles and 5 assists. Donny Knabe, Houtchens and Adair all had one fumble recovery. Deano Bayer's defensive playing was also valued by the Tigers.

Valley View also had the passing, completing 4 of 8 with no interceptions for 73 yards passing. The Tigers went 7 of 27 with 2 interceptions for 62 yards passing.

Adair's punting game overcame the muddy field and bad weather conditions for an impressive average of 39 yards on 8 punts. Penalties were no factor with both teams only giving up 25 yards

This will put the Tigers at 1-4 for the season. The Tigers will travel to Dallas this Saturday, Oct. 11. They will meet up with Dallas Lakehill.

Lakehill features sturdy offense

The Dallas Lakehill squad posted a 0-9 record last season.
They will be powered by a sturdy offensive backfield. Fullback Fred Gardner and quarterback Dray Sterling, both weighing 200 pounds, lend size to the offense.

Tailback Steve Sasser and runningback Gilbert Platt will also be valued. Breaty (6'0", 245 lbs.) and Dixon Wiles (5'8", 210 lbs.) will be the backbone of the offensive line. Tigers will have a good chance to even up their district record which is now 0-1.

Another good deer hunting season predicted

AUSTIN - Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials predict the upcoming deer hunting season will be excellent in most areas of the state.

Horace Gore, white-tailed deer program leader, said deer populations remain high in most areas, and body and antler condition are generally above average.

However, excellent range conditions through the summer may work against the hunter, as deer may move around less during the hunting season.

The statewide whitetail season is Nov. 8-Jan. 4. The mule deer season in the Panhandle is Nov. 22-30, and in the Trans-Pecos it is Nov. 29-Dec. 7. The statewide archery deer season is Oct. 4-Nov. 2. To determine information on the seasons and bag limits, hunters should obtain the department's 1986-87 Texas Hunting Guide, available at department offices and hunting license outlets across the state.

hunting license outlets across the state.

The 1986-87 season will have to be a good one to beat last year's, when an all-time record harvest of some 383,000 was recorded, including 129,400 antlerless deer.

Gore said vegetation is lush in many areas, but acorn crops are spotty. "This could make for some outstanding late-season hunting, spotty. "This could make for some outstanding late-season hunting, because the acorns and other forage may fade at more or less the same time and cause more deer movement," Gore said.

movement," Gore said.
Prospects appear especially bright in the two most popular deer hunting areas, South Texas and the Edwards Plateau. Biologist Ernie Davis of Cotulla said there will be many good quality bucks in South Texas this year, with a few outstanding trophies among them. Biologist Fielding Harwell of Kerryille said the buck situation in the Edwards Plateau also is improved, because bucks that were part of an outstanding fawn crop in 1982 now outstanding fawn crop in 1982 now are four years old and sporting

While the 1985 antlerless harvest

While the 1985 antlerless harvest was a record, Gore said deer populations remain too high in many areas. "We urge hunters to take all the antlerless deer they are permitted," he said.

The Cross Timbers and Prairies and Rolling Plains ecological region is located roughly between Fort Worth and Abilene in West Texas. Hunters harvested a record 47,700 deer there in 1985, and biologist Larry Holland of Brownwood said deer populations are about the same in 1986. However, the abundance of forbs and weeds for deer food may hold this year's harvest figures down somewhat. "We have the best range conditions in years right now," Holland said. "The deer are fat and healthy, but antler development may be sub-par because the rains came late." He added that 1985 was an outstanding year for antler development. Biologist Bill Del Monte said the Permian Basin area surrounding San Angelo looks extremely good, with increased deer populations and excellent body condtion and antler development.

The Post Oak Savannah is a long, narrow region bounded on the east by the Pineywoods and the west by the Blackland Prairie. Biologist John Wallace of Tyler said his region is similar to that of the Pineywoods, with fairly good range conditions and strong deer populations in most areas. Leon County, which traditionally has the highest deer harvest in the state's eastern half, promises good hunting again this season, Wallace said. "Much depends on the acor rcrop, and right now it looks like the upland species of oaks are not going to produce many acorns," he said. "That may help hunters at some point in the season."

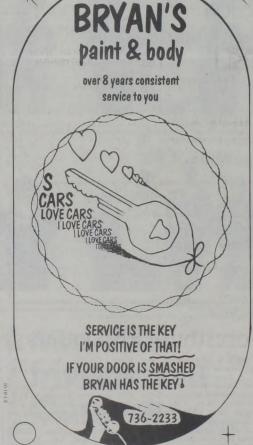

THIS WILD RUSSIAN HOG was shot by Officer Bob Stovall Wednesday afternoon on a local area ranch; he used a .264 Winchester Magnum. The animal had been seen several times, raiding distant cattle feeders. There was also evidence that the hog had killed baby calves and had torn up some of the feeders. Wednesday afternoon Stovall was phoned by the rancher who requested help after sighting the animal. Stovall judged the animal to weigh about 200 lbs. and be about two years old. Its hair was tough and wiry, and the row of bristles on its back was about five inches high. Police Chief Helen Tompkins said the animal can be vicious and will attack if cornered. However, it usually avoids humans. Compared to a javelina, the Wild Russian Hog weighs about four times as much, both said.

Stiles farm computer operation going strong

ture that began some three years ago to focus on computers and farming is bearing fruit.

The Year 2000 Computerized

The Year 2000 Computerized Farm Project at the Stiles Farm in Williamson County has brought together microcomputers, sof-tware packages, and farmers and ranchers in a unique learning environment that has put increased emphasis on management and decision-making, crucial factors for economic survival in today's agricultural industry. It also has involved the establishment of a management information system for an actual farming operation.

This blend of computers, programs, expertise and a desire to learn became a reality because of efforts of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas onment that has put increased em Agricultural Experiment Station and support from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, Stiles Farm Foundation, Texas Instruments Inc., John Deere Corp. and numerous software vendors.

The 3,300-acre Stiles Farm, a non-profit, self-financing operation, is located on U.S. 79 one mile east of Thrall and seven miles east of Taylor.

"The need for expanding economics and financial management education for farmers, ranchers, educators and management education for farmers, ranchers, educators and agribusiness to cope in the current economic environment has been clearly recognized, and we hope the computerized farm project can lead the way in this effort," says Dr. James McGrann, economist with the Extension Service and Experiment Station.

The sale tally for the past week at the Muenster Livestock Auction was 1174 cattle and 18 hogs. Cows and bulls were steady to $1.00 lower; stocker calves and yearlings were steady and strong; feeders were $.50 to $1.00 lower; and hogs remained teady.

plications are taught through a series of three-day short courses. These short courses provide hands-on training in such areas as farm and ranch accounting, beef cattle performance records, stocker cat-tle budgeting, electronic spreadsheets, crop production and financial management, cotton and grain marketing strategies, and farm and ranch financial planning

Computer short courses are held almost every month at the center and have attracted a sizeable num-ber of farm and ranch operators, ber of farm and ranch operators, who have rated the training exceptionally high, notes McGrann. During the 1984-85 program year, more than 1,500 farmers, ranchers, agribusinessmen and Extension Service and Experiment Station staff viewed the computer operations or participated in training activities.

Individuals interested in taking part in the computer training can

Technology Demonstrated

Technology Demonstrated
The center allows for the demonstration of technology in an ongoing commercial farm environment, an "education through demonstration" concept that has proven so effective in other Extension Service programs over the years, McGrann points out.

A key part of the training facility is a microcomputer software library. "One of the real difficulties faced by farmers and ranchers in developing computerized chers in developing computerized information is software selection," emphasizes the economist. "Through the center, alternative distributors are brought together to facilitate software review and increase the awareness level of Extension Service staff. During the past two years more than $70,000 worth of agricultural software has been supplied by vendors."

A spinoff of recent training sessions at the center has been the formation of a computer application user group. This group is composed mainly of commercial agricultural producers, agribusinessmen and lenders who agricultural producers, agribusinessmen and lenders who are interested in learning about ac-tual computer applications at the Stiles Farm as well as understanding information needs and the decision-making process.

Computerizing a Diversified Farm Since the farm is a highly diversified operation, it puts the development of a management information system to the ultimate test, McGrann points out. The farm has some 2,200 acres of cropland and 1,100 acres of pasture, waterways and ponds. Enterprises on the blacklands farm include cotton, corn, sorghum, wheat, oats, garden vegetables,
hay, pasture, cow-calf, hay, pasture, cow-calf, replacement heifers, farrow-to-finish swine and catfish.

In addition, a 47-acre plot is being used by Extension staff in crop and livestock demonstrations and evaluations.

and evaluations.

Currently the farm's management information system has three major components: farm accounting, budgeting and problem-specific decision aids. These three areas are supported by specific data generating and processing activities at the production enterprise level. Some private sector software has been used in the system, and software has been fish record-keeping.

Integrating Software

"One of our main problems regarding such a diversified operation is trying to integrate software packages into one overall management system," explains McGrann. "While truly integrated information systems for farms of this complexity are potentially feasible, more must be known about information needs and the decision-making process before the additional cost can be justified."

Collecting data and transferring that data into a computer remains largely a human effort that is costly, points out the economist. At Stiles Farm, several applications of electronic technology for this activity are being developed and tested: an electronic weather station that stores data and automatically transfers the information to a computer every 24 hours, a data logger that replaces handwritten data collection in automatically transfers the information to a computer every 24 hours, a data logger that replaces handwritten data collection, infrared data transmitters for the swine record system, electronic collection of pest counts, and a computer-monitored tractor.

In the final analysis, the computer system at Stiles Farm is an educational endeavor as well as a practical management system educational endeavor as well as a practical management system aimed at improving the decision-making process. Having access to more and better information should lead to more profitable decisions relating to cost control, production management and choice of enterprise combination, says McGrann.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

Each year gardeners plan to save seed from some of their favorite plants. If you want to save seed for next year's planting, be sure to allow the seed to become air dry. Then you should place seeds in some type of airtight container and store them in your refrigerator. Label your container so that you will know the proper variety and plant. Remember that seeds from hybrid plants will seldom resemble the parent plant.

Your garden's soil fertility and physical condition can be greatly improved by the incorporation of organic matter, too.

Fall is an excellent time to collect unused vegetable parts from the garden to return to the soil. This includes lawn clippings, leaf rakings, and other plant matter that is free of disease and nematodes as it will all aid in building up the organic matter contained in blackened plant remains and other organic wastes.

To obtain complete decomposition, add about two pounds of a complete fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed area as the bacteria and other organism must have nitrogen to do a good job of decomposing the organic matter.
