Hansford Manor Maintains High Record

Hansford County Hospital District is pleased to announce that the annual State Nursing Home inspection was completed June 11-13, 1996. Once again, Hansford Manor was found to have no deficiencies in complying with state and federal nursing home requirements. Hansford Manor has one of the best quality-of-care and facility ratings in the United States, judged by its five-year inspection history, with four perfect health code inspections out of five years.

The state inspections are conducted annually for all nursing facilities. Four state inspectors arrive with no prior notice to the facility and immediately begin their inspection, which includes everything from the fire alarm system to the residents' skin condition. They observe and question facility staff throughout the three-day inspection to assess their knowledge of resident care, their skills, and the quality of their interactions and communications with the residents. They check to ensure that the facility has an effective quality assessment and improvement program, good infection control procedures, and carries out an individualized plan of care for each resident, among many other things. The state inspectors also meet with

He attended college at Amarillo College School of Vocational Arts, McMurry University, Clarendon College, Amarillo College and West Texas A&M University, where he received a B. A. in psychology. He earned his Master of Divinity degree at Asbury Theological Seminary. Rev. Moore has served as pastor at Mobeetie UMC, Groom UMC, and Miami UMC. He has taught and lead numerous youth camps and has been active in evangelism in the United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Moore was born and raised in Follett, Texas. She has been active in the medical field in Medical Records Technology. She earned her BBA in accounting at West Texas A & M. She worked at the Chandler Medical Center at the University of Kentucky in Lexington as a Health Data Analysis and Classification Supervisor. She helped organize and managed the office of rural health clinics in Miami and McLean.

The Moore's oldest daughter, Tomara, will be a senior at Gruver High School. Daughter, Jessica, will be in the eighth grade and Sarah will be in the seventh grade.

Said Rev. Moore, "Tisha and I have always been blessed in that, number one we were raised in the Panhandle, number two, we were called into the ministry. We have been appointed in the Panhandle area the last few years. Even though we could have been as far south as Big Spring, we have always served in the Pampa District. The good thing about that is we know the people, their concerns and their struggles with farming, ranching, and in the oil industry. Therefore, we don't have to learn about what people are concerned for, because we are concerned for the same things."

My father's name was Jerry Smith. He sold insurance and real estate. I guess that is why he called his company, Jerry Smith Insurance and Realty. Before Dad died, he gave me a list of statements that folks made on insurance claims. I am going to share a few of them with you.

THE FOLLOWING ARE ACTUAL STATEMENTS FOUND ON INSURANCE FORMS WHERE CAR DRIVERS ATTEMPTED TO SUMMARIZE THE DETAILS OF AN ACCIDENT IN THE FEWEST POSSIBLE WORDS. THE INSTANCES OF FAULTY WRITING SERVE TO CONFIRM THAT EVEN INCOMPETENT WRITING CAN BE HIGHLY ENTERTAINING.

*Coming home I drove into the wrong house and collided with a tree I don't have.

*The other car collided with mine without giving warning of its intention.

*I thought my window was down, but I found it was up when I put my head through it.

*I collided with a stationary truck coming the other way.

*A truck backed through my windshield into my wife's face.

*The guy was all over the road. I had to swerve a number of times before I hit him.

*I pulled away from the side of the road, glanced at my mother-in-law and headed over the embankment.

*In an attempt to kill a fly I drove into a telephone pole.

*I had been shopping for plants all day and was on my way home. As I reached an intersection a hedge sprang up, obscuring my vision and I did not see the other car.

*I had been driving for forty years when I fell asleep at the wheel and had an accident.

*I was on the way to the doctor with rear end trouble when my universal joint gave out causing me to have an accident.

Well, I hope all of you have a good week, without accident and without rear end trouble.

Until the next time,
May God Bless

Focus On The Family

In Spearman ...

In Gruver ...

QUESTION: What solution would you offer for the problem of underachievers?

DR. DOBSON: I have dealt with more than 500 underachievers, and have come to the conclusion that there are only two functional solutions to this syndrome.

The first is clearly no panacea: parents can become so involved in schoolwork that the child has no choice but to do the job. To make this possible, the school must expend additional effort to communicate assignments and progress to the parents—Junior is certainly not going to carry the message! Adolescents, particularly, will confound the communication between school and home as much as possible.

In one of the high schools where I served, for example, students had a 20-minute "homeroom" session each day. This time was used for the flag salute, council meetings, announcements, and related matters. Very little opportunity for studying occurred there, yet each day, hundreds of parents were told that all homework was finished during that session. The naive parents were led to believe that the homeroom period was a two-hour block of concentrated effort.

Parents must know what goes on in school if they want to reinforce their child's academic responsibilities. They should provide support in areas where self-discipline is needed. The evening study period should be highly structured with routine hours and a minimum of interferences. To do this, parents must know what was assigned and how the finished product should look. Finally, negative attitudes should be withheld from the learning situation. Berating and criticizing an underachiever will not make him work harder.

I must hasten to say that this procedure is not an easy solution. It rarely works for more than a week or two, since many parents also lack the required self-discipline to continue the program. And when they quit, so does Junior! There must be a better way, and I believe there is.

An underachiever often thrives under a system of immediate reinforcement. If he is not challenged by personal satisfaction and motivators usually generated in the classroom, he must be fed some artificial incentives in the form of rewards applied to small units of behavior.

Instead of gifts or other desirable objectives being offered to the child for earning an A in English at the end of the semester, he should be given 10 cents for each properly diagrammed sentence.

The use of immediate reinforcement serves the same function as a starter on a car! You can't drive very far without it, but it gets the engine going much easier than pushing.

For the idealist who objects to the use of extrinsic motivation (which is often inaccurately called a bribe), I would ask this question: "What alternative do we have, other than to let a child grow out of his problem?"

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Brent Hughes returned last Saturday from a week in football camp for boys, aged 10 to 18. It was held at Commerce, near Dallas, and sponsored by East Texas State University.

13 year old Brent had his first plane ride when he flew down from Amarillo. He enjoyed the camp and felt that he learned a great deal. The highlight for him was meeting some members of the Dallas Cowboys Football team, including Troy Aikman, Darrel Johnston and Jason Garrett.

His parents, Jan and Gary Ellsworth, went down for him and all spent some time at Six Flags before returning.

Although there were boys from many different states at the camp, Brent and two other boys were all that attended from the Panhandle.

Joyce Harper, now of Gruver, returned the first part of the week from Las Vegas, Nevada. She had gone down Friday to be with her seriously ill mother, who passed away Saturday, the next morning. Joyce was somewhat comforted to know that her mother recognized her when she arrived.

Her mother, Mrs. Halene Hoy, 91, had been well and living alone in Salem, Illinois, but her health failed recently. She had been in Las Vegas with another daughter for three weeks.

Services were held in Carmi, Illinois on Thursday.

In addition to the two daughters, she is survived by a son in Decatur, Illinois. Mrs. Hoy had visited the Harpers several times in the years they lived in Spearman, but had not since Joyce moved to Gruver.

Sympathy is extended to Joyce and other family members on her passing.

Julia and Luke Pittman had three extra playmates for their children the past week-end. The children of Melissa and Kip Pittman of Booker stayed here while their parents were out of town.

All are so happy that their youngest, little two year old Chloe, is fully recovered from a near tragedy of several weeks ago.

Melissa and the children, Luke and Julie and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Erlis Pittman were spending the night at a motel in Enid. Chloe somehow fell into a hot tub, just for a minute or two, before she was pulled out, unconscious. Luke worked frantically until he revived her. However some seizures resulted which is not considered unusually in cases of severe trauma.

She was taken to Oklahoma City for a few weeks where she was treated. Now she shows no signs of the accident.

Five friends who were close all through grade school and high school here spent last week together in Texas City. They were Mary Dixon and Diana Maxwell of Spearman, Patty Hamilton of Lubbock and Kay Dean Smith of Floydada and the hostess, Jan Wilmeth Viglini of Texas City.

One day spent on the beach, and the other days were filled with talking, shopping, talking, sight-seeing, talking, eating and talking. All had a marvelous time, long to be remembered.

Nathan Steger of Graham is spending a month here with his grandparents, John and Virginia Trindle, and cousins. He is also visiting other cousins in Borger.

Father's day was a delight for Rosemary and Jim Brown and their four sons and families as they gathered at the Vega County Club for the day.

Coming from Spearman were Aaron and Beth Brown; from Guymon, Erin and Becky Brown and four boys; from Boys Ranch, Kenneth and Lisa Brown and two children; and from Amarillo, Kory and Michelle Brown.

The men played golf, the children swam in the pool and played in the grass and the ladies played cards.

Unfortunately, the Brown's daughter, Qynnmarie Lopez and two children of Lubbock were unable to come, as was Anthony Brown of Amarillo.

Debbie Wolfe and two sons left Tuesday to return to their home in Diamond Bar, Los Angeles County, California after spending two weeks with friends, Beverly and Ron Antalok.

Debbie's husband, Mike Wolfe, was pastor of the First Christian Church in Spearman from 1987 thru 1989. Debbie and Darrell, now 16, and Devin, now 13, have enjoyed seeing old friends again. The boys have fond memories of living in Spearman and would gladly return.

Their many friends would welcome their return as they have been missed.

Kim and Velma Copeland, with Kit, of Austin have been here several days with his parents, Joe and E.F. Copeland. Joe underwent foot surgery in Amarillo last week and they came to be with her. Velma, an R.N., assisted her in her recovery, but they have since returned home. Of course the best medicine for Joe was having little Kit here.

The eighth day Intercollegiate National Rodeo, held at the Montana State University, in Bozeman, Montana was concluded on Sunday. The reports have been sketchy, but the only winner known to Hansford County was Trevor Brazil, formerly of Gruver. He is the son of Jimmy and Glenda Brazil and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Light.

Trevor, a sophomore at Vernon Junior College, was third in the Miens Rookie All-Around. The only result available listed him as third in the second go-round.

Apparently the ACLU has "caught its britches on its own pitchfork". They have been adamant in opposition to the slightest indication that the government offer any assistance to any church. Clinton's stated plan to offer financial assistance to the congregations of the burned black churches puts them in a dilemma. The ACLU is faced with a choice of being in open opposition to Clinton, their idol, and in an election year, and also of opposing the needs of a minority (whose backing they have always depended on) or they must ignore public government assistance to a Christian organization.

As for their response- one newspaper account quotes one of the ACLU spokesperson, as saying that in the investigations as to responsibility, the pastors and ministers of the fundamentalists churches must be investigated. Another ACLU spokesperson is quoted on T.A. as saying that these churches must moderate their opposition to some current controversial subjects (namely-abortion, same sex marriages, etc) as it arouses their congregations to a fanatical degree. With their usual fuzzy logic, their insinuation is not exactly clear.

Shea Crawford is spending part of her vacation here in the home of Johnny and Diane Crawford. She has been living in Amarillo where she is attending school part time and working part time at the "Back Porch."

Virginia Head spent last week in Carlsbad visiting her son Ronnie and family. She was proud that with her arrival a heavy rain also arrived. It was the first moisture they had received since last September.

She returned home Sunday. On Monday Jay and May Head arrived to be with her several days. They live at Aurora, Colorado and have been here numerous times.

Gwen Bryant, with daughters Haley and Shay visited her parents in Hobbs, New Mexico last week. She drove out with Virginia Head, then Tim Bryant met her in Tucumcari. They spent the week-end there with his parents.

Some of the report of the rain last Thursday in the area of the water shed for the Palo Duro Dam at J.B. Buchmans - 2 inches; John Trindle - 1.6; Virginia Head - 2.30; Palo Duro Feeders - 2.6; Tom Jarvis - 1.5; Ken Harris - 3.

Out At The Lake

by Jim Derington

Lake Level - 21 ft. 3 in.
The pictures show a variety of fish caught, Sunday, June 9. Claudine Laxton, and her helper (husband) Charles, caught catfish. The largest one weighed 5-6 pounds. Darrel Harvey, one of our regular R.V. campers, found a hungry Largemouth, and two crappie.

This week brought some much needed rain. Tuesday night, it rained 1.30 inches, at the office. Wednesday night's rain made both creeks flow, and the lake rose 6 and 1/2 inches. This was the first rise in the lake since last October. Hopefully, more rain will fall, as we lose 3 inches per week to evaporation.

Tent campers and fisherman have dominated this week. Remember, we have 26 R.V. spaces with electrical and water connections.

The Church of Christ had a nice gathering at the covered shelter, Saturday evening. Please call the office for your reservation.

Amateur Radio Field Day, sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, will be held Saturday June 22, at 7:00 AM through Sunday, June 23 until 10:00 AM. When disaster strikes, Amateur radio provides emergency communication. The best way to be prepared, is to practice. The Field Day is designed to make this practice a little more fun. A worldwide contest is held, and those making the most radio contacts in the allotted time period will be winners. The scoring is too complicated for me to understand. Don Smith is the local coordinator. Call 659-3130 for more information. The radio operators will be on the south side of the lake, under the covered picnic shelters. This will be an excellent opportunity to view amateur radio at work. Don and others will be on hand to answer any questions, and explain how it all works.

Sam's Corner

by Sharon Moore

Before mothers had cartoons on TV, or in fact before television was even thought of, mothers allowed their babies to carry their bottles as pacifiers until the babies weaned themselves.

At the risk and rate of being considered "retarded" - I can relate "very vividly" and remember a very amusing tale about my own experience during the so-called "weaning" process (this was also the reason I never let my two children have pacifiers!!).

I must have been all of 2 1/2 or 3 years of age to remember this occasion so vividly. I had two aunts and my beloved part Indian grandmother whom I called "Nannie" - they mostly raised me basically because Moma had to help Daddy out in the fields and on the ranch.

My aunts reasoned that if a baby gets too big for the bottle - it is high time to get a bottle too big for the baby; and they decided to do something about it. They gave me a bottle so big I had to drag the darn thing around, a sport I found utterly fascinating since our Tabby cat enjoyed the contents with me! It was so much fun to press this big red nipple (I'm sure it must have been a big calf nipple used for baby calves) on the bottle and squirt milk into Tabby's mouth; and she enjoyed the game as much as I - maybe even more so! That method of weaning - for very obvious reasons, was very soon abandoned; and I was allowed only the big red nipple to carry around as my pacifier.

My family always made all of their own stuff - from lye soap to sausage making; and just about everything else. My aunts and Nannie were grinding away making home-made sausage, and I became deeply engrossed in the process - and when Nannie's back was turned just for a moment, I very hurriedly stuck the nipple which was the exact color of the sausage, into the grinder, not anticipating the result of its being ground into sausage! I must have meant to retrieve it - but the pull of the grinder took it on through and it was ground into the sausage without my aunts and Nannie having suspected.

It so happened the next Sunday that two very distinguished gentlemen were invited for Sunday dinner. They may have been Baptist ministers, "Who" they were was of no importance to me; but I remember my aunts were very eager to impress them; consequently after the meal there was much speculation as to "why" one of the guests suddenly gagged and exhibited a very peculiar expression as he attempted to masticate the sausage patty; finally pushing the remaining portion to the side of his plate. In fact, he ate very little else - and this was a most unusual occurrence; for almost everyone who came to dinner or supper at the Beaty's or Hillman's house always cleaned their plates and asked for seconds or even thirds - for all of the girls were gourmet cooks. After the company left, the aunts began a very thorough examination of the plate - and mixed in the spicy remaining sausage was a big piece of red rubber - hardly distinguishable from the sausage!

The curiosity and embarrassment of my aunts and Nannie finally led to further inquiry which resulted in the "solution" of the case: for I very casually and "without remorse," confessed I had put the nipple into the grinding machine for the sausage. That experience "broke" me completely of the bottle habit - and I might add it could have been a very contributing factor in the fact to this day I have never liked anything out of a bottle!!

Several years later - when I was a senior and teenager and was fixing to graduate from high school (class of '66) - we had then what was called class nites - all parents and town came. Our class will was read and our history and what we'd be doing 30 years from then - and was also a time when amusing stories were told about each of us seniors and about to graduate young adults. When my name was called (I might add the huge old Auditorium was packed wall to wall with people) they said, "Who got their nipple caught in the sausage grinder at age of 3?!" As I was halfway down to the floor in my seat, of course everyone very quickly guessed who the "who" was! The laughter that filled that huge old auditorium brought deep red to my cheeks and completely jarred my dignity - to say nothing of my self-esteem!

Soo - you see, what you sow you are sure to reap and I was reaping that long ago day some of the humiliation my dear aunts and grandmother must have felt back a long time ago! Aren't memories wonderful things!

Soo - for now I leave you once again in Sam's Corner. I hope everyone has a fun filled and safe summer and if I dare, may I say: If you drink don't drive; and if you drive, don't drink. Be safe and careful.
