County youth exhibit livestock

The Hansford County Junior Livestock Show started at noon on Friday, March 15, and by the time it ended with a livestock auction at 6 p.m. on Saturday, over 100 kids had exhibited over 200 hundred animals.

The steers started the show on Friday. The big winners showing steers were Clint Williams, Grand Champion Steer; and Marty McCloy, Grand Champion Commercial Steer. The Showmanship winners were Clancy Vanderburg (junior) and Kevin Williams (senior).

The lamb judging followed the steers on Friday afternoon. The big winner there was Kenny Slough, Grand Champion. The Showmanship winners were Leah Mackie (junior) and Kevin Williams (senior).

Saturday morning opened with the swine show. The overall winner there was Tek Ferguson, who exhibited the Grand Champion swine. The Showmanship winners were Jimbo Tucker (junior) and Sharlet Slough (senior).

New to the livestock show this year was the rabbit show. The judging on them followed the swine Saturday afternoon. There were eight rabbits entered this year. The Grand Champion rabbit was exhibited by Bob Shields. There was no Showmanship division

Starting at 6 p.m. Saturday, the auction was held. The animals judged on Friday and Saturday are sold to the highest bidder and the money is given to the young people who exhibited the animal.

This year's auction raised $127,935 according to Norma Jean Mackie, assistant treasurer. Mackie said this amount is $7,000 more than last vear's total.

Besides the money raised at the auction, the Gruver Chamber of Commerce sold "goat shares" for $10 each. According to A.J. Ratliff, chamber secretary, a total of $4,870 has been raised so far by this endeavor. The money raised will go to the young people who showed animals that did not make the sale. The Gruver chamber will still be selling shares for the next 30 days. If you would like to by one stop by the Gruver City Hall or mail your check to the Gruver Chamber Of Com-merce, P.O. Box 309, Gruver, Texas 79040

The following is a list of all young people, the animals they exhibited and how they placed.

Home health agency, hospice approved

A home health agency and a hospice program for Hansford County, along with a physical therapy department for Hansford Hospital, were authorized by the Hansford County Hospital District Board of Directors at its March 14 meeting.

The board noted that home health and a hospice program were among five projects recommended by the district's Long Range Planning Committee, and community support for both projects was demonstrated in the recently completed survey of county residents.

Judith Beckbill, R.N., representing Amarillo Hospital Home Care Inc. told the board that her organization would provide assistance in establishing a home health agency in Al LaRochelle, Hansford Hospital administrator, said that Carol Hergert has agreed to serve as director of the home health agency in Hansford County. The board voted to authorize the hiring of personnel and the use of two hospital rooms for office space for the agency.

A hospice program will be established in Hansford County with the assistance of Dumas Memorial Hospital. A letter was received from the administrator of the Dumas hospital, Jim Wurts, in which he expressed his willingness to assist in conducting training for volunteers, ensuring compliance with Medicare Conditions for Participation, sharing paperwork, and staff training.

In approving the hospice program, the Hansford County board voted for an expenditure of $5,000 for assistance from Dumas. It was noted Carol Hergert will also be heading up the hospital staff portion of the pro-

The board approved the new department and authorized hiring Carol Dunnihoo, P.T., for the new department. Approval was also given to hiring a physical therapy technician, to purchasing the necessary equipment, and to converting unused surgery and obstetrical areas to a physical therapy center. Some of the findings of the community survey conducted by the district were outlined by LaRochelle. He told the board that 74 percent of those who answered the survey would support a tax increase if it was needed to keep the hospital open. Support for a general obligation bond issue for nursing home expansion and hospital renovation received a positive response from 53 percent of those answering the survey.

LaRochelle said the survey reveal-ed that quite a large number of people are misinformed about financing of nursing home care by Medicare and private insurance. Another important finding, he said, was the surwho had been hospitalized in other

An amended contract for construction of an office facility at the Palo Duro Dam site was approved by the Palo Duro River Authority Board of Directors at its March 12 meeting.

Board members approved an amendment to the contract with Freese & Nichols Inc. which will provide for building offices near the water intake system.

Johnnie Lee, PDRA general manger, said other business for the board included revision of the contract with Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Lee explained that the parks and wildlife department has a 25-year lease contract for land in the dam area, and the contract was revised to include roads also. Freese & Nichols was also authorized by the board to proceed with drawing plans for shop buildings, to be located at the site. The board will take bids at a later date, said Lee. Robert Novak of Spearman was sworn in as a PDRA board member at the March 12 meeting. He could not be present in January, when other board members were sworn in, said Lee. The board's slate of officers was reorganized, with Novak named president; J.C. Harris of Gruver, vice president; and Kenneth E. Evans of Spearman, treasurer.

Alice Peddy, chief appraiser for Hansford Appraisal District, reported to the board on the appraisal district's audit and presented a check for surplus money.

Approval was given to a land acquisition agreement with Steve Mathews. The agreement was for the purchase of land at the upper end of the lake and dam site area.

In a general discussion of the project, board members talked about future projects such as picnic areas, and development of the land surroun-ding the lake.

Regular business for the PDRA board included approving minutes of its last meeting, receiving the treasurer's report, and approving payment of claims.

At the movies ...

"Home Alone" offers up a simple premise involving an accidentally abandoned 8-year-old against a frenzied backdrop of crowded airports, worried parents and a pair of ineptly baleful burglars.

Macaulay Culkin stars as Kevin, the recalcitrant child who is left behind at home as his family makes a mad dash for the airport three days before Christmas to begin their Parisian holiday. Initially believing he has made his family disappear, Kevin realizes the beneficial short-term applications of his wish, turning his home into a proving ground for indoor tobogganing, new recipe ideas and the opportunity to rifle through his big brother's forbidden cache of magazines and money. When Kevin's idyllic surroundings are threatened by the selfproclaimed "wet bandits," whose calling card is leaving the water run-

While American troops have been fighting a war in the Persian Gulf, Texas school districts have been fighting a war in the Texas Legislature. More is at stake than a few "rich" districts having to give some of their money to "poor" districts. If legislation now being considered by the House and Senate is passed, there will be the greatest tax increase on property that this state has ever seen. Even more devastating will be the effect it will have on many school children in the state.

In the past, school districts were paid for by a plan that called for the sharing of expenses between the state and local governments. The state's share was much larger because its constitution gave it the primary responsibility of providing for schools. Up until the last decade, the state's share was more than 80 percent. The local districts' share was determined by their ability to pay, some paying more than others. Those districts with a lot of tax base were asked to pay more of their own bill than those districts who had little property to tax.

Two events happened that caused this plan to fail. First, the legislatures and governors began to enact expensive reform measures that school districts had to put in place. Second, they did not provide enough additional money at the state level to pay for the reform measures. Under a policy of "No New Taxes," local school districts were left on their own to find money for paying for the expensive reform measures. Their sole source of revenue was the property tax. Districts with a lot of property to tax could raise their taxes a small amount and take care of the expense, but districts with little property to tax had to raise their taxes a great deal. Even then, some could not meet standards of quality. These districts went to the courts claiming that such a system was not fair and the courts agreed.

The courts ordered the legislature to come up with a plan that would equally fund all school districts. Instead of the legislature raising state taxes to bring the poorer districts up to an equitable level, they have devised a plan whereby local taxes in "rich" districts are raided to be delivered to "poorer" districts.

Under this plan, rich districts can only keep that portion of their taxes that is equal to every other district in the state, even though one penny of tax in their district will raise much more than a penny of tax in a poorer district. The rest of the tax money is pooled and given to districts that are less fortunate. The amount of money allowed to each district is determined by the number of students in the district.

The effects of such a plan are devastating to two classes of school districts - rich districts and small districts. In order for rich districts to maintain the quality programs they have, they must increase their local tax rates enormously.

Because money allowed to each district is based on the number of students, small districts cannot qualify for enough money to run their schools. It costs the same amount of money to provide a second grade class with 10 students as with 22. The per student allotment ($4,000 - $5,000) being discussed will not cover the basic cost of a small school operation. Many of these small schools are located in remote areas of West Texas making consolidation an extreme hardship on students who have to be bused long distances. The Panhandle has over half of its districts in this category.

The legislature proposes to create regional and county wide districts to distribute the money evenly. This moves the control of schools out of the local community and creates another level of bureaucracy

What is the solution? Here are some ideas:

1. Decide the components of a quality school program for each district (numbers of teachers, types of programs, etc.). Involve both state and local people. Then determine each district's cost

2. Allow districts to spend the amount of money it takes to provide the quality program as agreed to in item 1.

3. Those districts with high proper-ty value are to bear the cost of their programs.

4. Districts that need state help are to be given state aid so that they do not have to tax themselves at any greater level than the richer districts. (A state maximum rate could be established that a district would have to tax before state aid would be given.)

5. To finance the state's share of the cost, a statewide tax great enough to cover the cost (sales tax, income tax, etc.) would be levied. This should be a broad based tax so that everyone would share in paying the cost.

If the people of Texas want quality education for their young people. they must be willing to pay the cost. This program will identify what Texans believe a quality program to be and allow them to pay for it in an efficient manner.

Survey starts soon

The Spearman Independent School the results and review and develop District's special committee on long-stratagies for the future, Mitchell District's special committee on longterm strategic planning for curriculum is taking a survey beginning Monday, March 25.

Students in grades six through 12 will take a one-page survey on the strengths and weaknesses of their language arts, math, science and social studies courses at school. Parents and other local Spearman residents are also being asked to fill out a similar survey regarding the school curriculum.

Parent surveys will be sent home on special colored paper with students and must be returned to the schools by Tuesday, April 2.

Other surveys will be available Monday at the following locations: the Spearman Chamber of Com-merce, the Hansford County Library, First State Bank of Spearman, First National Bank of Spearman, In-terstate Savings and Loan, Jack and Jill and Thriftway.

Surveys can be returned to the pick-up site, where they will be collected daily by committee members, or they can be mailed to the address printed on the survey itself. All surveys are completely confidential.

The curriculum committee's Dwayne Mitchell emphasizes that an individual does not have to have a student currently in the school system to fill out a survey. The views of former students and parents and grandparents of former students are also of great value to the long-term planning team working on curriculum, he said.

All surveys must be turned in by Tuesday, April 2 to give the curriculum committee time to tabulate

PRECAUTIONS FOR HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

A stroke is a serious problem. However, preventive steps can be taken to reduce the possibility of a stroke. One big step is to have your blood pressure checked and control it if it is high. High blood pressure increases your chance of having a stroke.

Following these steps can help reduce the risk of a stroke:

· Get your blood pressure checked egularly

· Watch your diet, eat less salt and drink less alcohol.

 Exercise. · Lose weight if you are overweight.

 Stay on your medication. If you find out that you have high blood pressure, follow your doctor's advice. Go for checkups. Eating right, exercising, and losing weight can lessen your need for blood pressure pills. If your doctor prescribes pills, be sure to take them. If you are bothered by side effects, tell your doctor. A different pill may be better for you. Overweight people are nearly three times as likely to have high blood pressure as people of desirable weight. If you are overweight, plan to lose those extra pounds by eating fewer calories and exercising more. Eat smaller portions. Your food will seem more filling if you eat slowly. Choose foods with less fat. Fill up on high-fiber foods such as fresh fruits and vegetables. Drink more water. If you exercise, you'll lose weight faster.

Avoid foods that have a lot of salt. These include many breads, cereals, fast or prepared processed food, most canned food, and salty snacks such as potato chips. Keep the salt shaker off the table and don't use salt or spice salts in cooking. Check food labels and buy foods that have only small amounts of salt (sodium). Cut down on alcohol, including beer.  may call for legal services. Unless you have a lawyer whose services you use regularly, how will you select one? Lawyers' fees are often a big consideration. A little extra effort in the selection process will help prevent unexpected large bills later. Follow these tips:

• Comparison shop. Comparison shop for lawyers' services just like you do for other products and services. Call to get prices on specific, comparable services.

· Ask for recommendations. Get personal recommendations from friends, relatives and co-workers. Ask whether they felt costs were reasonable · Check referral services. Some legal aid offices will offer low-cost legal advice and referral. For real estate dealings, a title company or real estate broker may be willing to refer you to the lawyer with whom they work.

• Talk with your attorney. Schedule a meeting before the project begins to ask how fees are charged for routine services such as notarizing, photocopying, etc.

• Get it in writing. You can ask for a fee agreement at the beginning of the project which outlines in writing the retainer, estimated hours and cost per hour, projected expenses and timetable for completion of the project. You can have your lawyer bill you on a monthly basis and question any fees which seem unreasonable.

· Investigate alternatives. For routine legal tasks, such as real estate transfers and wills, prepackaged kits or computer software is available. You should, however, confirm the legality of the alternative with a lawyer or legal aid office. · Recognize your choice. Realize that higher cost does not imply better service. The legal field is very competitive and legal fees vary widely for comparable expertise.

Among the Neighbors by Helen Fisher

As the end nears for all of life's triumphs and tribulations, each person may wonder if his life will leave any lasting imprint on the life of any other.

There can be no doubt that all the lives touched and influenced by Garland Head cannot be known. All of the youth whom he taught and coached, associates in his civic activities, his church, his duties as a county commissioner, his military service in World War II in the famed 101st Airborne, and definitely, his influence on his son and daughter - all will have had an impact.

And so to Virginia, his helpmate of all the years and to his children, be comforted in the knowledge that his influence lives on.

Mozelle Sparks was shocked last Thursday when she was notified that her son, Ted, had suffered a heart attack at his work in Lubbock

She and her other son Gene, of Amarillo, drove down and remained several days. Ted's condition had stabilized and they felt encouraged when they left on Sunday. He is still in the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock and additional tests will be necessary before the extent of the damage and the required treatments will be known Mozelle plans to return soon.

Pat and Mike Cudd returned last week from a fascinating 13 day trip to Australia

Mike had won the trip in a promotion by the John Deere Company. The flight to Australia lasted 18 hours. The first week they spent in Sydney with the other members of the group. In addition to the business sessions, they were well entertained. Included was a cruise on the river Hawksberry and some side trips. The trip to the outback reminded them of the Texas Panhandle, except for the numerous kangaroos. Most of the scenery was spectacular.

One site captured their imagination and stayed in their memories that called "Rocks," an old English convict colony which has been left intact. It is now a tourist attraction with some shops.

At the Great Barrier Reef, Mike did some scuba diving. They spent three days at the City of Cairnes - an unusual place.

On the return trip they stopped over in Hawaii for a day. At their hotel on the beach, they were puzzled when the sounds of enthusiastic shouting, honking, and bands caught their attention. It was the welcome home for the many troops returning from Desert Storm to the base. It was very impressive and touching.

Now the Cudds are relaxing and reliving their trip, but feel they should warn any motorists in their area of Golden Circle to be on the alert for flying boomerangs. They brought them home to their children and now they can appear from any angle. (The boomerangs, not the children).

Newell and Dickie Allen spent five days last week in Las Vegas where they hosted a dinner for his sister, Maxine, and Dick Vernon. The Vernons were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. They live at Spr-ingerville, Calif. Others joining them in the observance were Norma Jo Pearigan of Visalia and LaNelle Mc-Clellan Hood of Amarillo.

Maxine and Dick were married at the Allen home south of Spearman March 8, 1941. They have one son, Max Vernon, who also lives in California and was a guest at the din-

On The Go With Gou by Joy Henderson

Help! Help! I'm going to pieces. Literally going to pieces. Perhaps as you are reading this, I am on my way home from Dallas where I spent several days with my kids and grandkids in Duncanville. If everything has gone as planned, we attended the Great "Piece" Festival better known as the Quilt Expo, and took time out for some arts and crafts shows up North of Dallas where my brother Stan Cox lives. My niece Vickie Cathey is also a crafter and keeps track of all that is going on

Then since Spring Break is scheduled for the middle of March, my big kids will take a week of their vacation and we will visit at their Time Shares resort area which is over toward "Annie's Attic," crochet place with gift shop, a Bed and Breakfast. We will be there overnight and probably will do some fishing if weather permits.

Once we return to Dallas, I plan on having a shopping spree at "Wallywood" and some of the craft stores. You know, I am cut from the same mold as all those other quilters and once we get hooked, we seem to buy way too much fabric for way too many quilts we plan to make. Since I began sewing in 1952, I bought extra fabric when planning on making a dress so that when I get old enough to retire I will have things ready for quilting. I have watched Georgia Bonesteel and Kay Wood video series four or five times and subscribed to magazines, books and attended six workshops. All of this training and knowledge qualifies me to begin my teaching career and I plan on being nominated as the 1991 "New Teacher of the Year" award and I also will make plans for my own video series. I enjoy watching Doreen, Kay, Nancy and Judy and so I may branch out into designing my own fabrics, write my own books, be an international traveler as I become more in demand for speaking engagements.

Well, all this sounds exciting but one thing keeps knawing away at my plans. You see, I have never even quilted and the lack of experience may slow me up. So after my Dallas trip, some friends and I will begin working on some "probono" quilts. We started two months ago and so far we have six blocks finished. But first, back to the beginning of the story. I bragged about being able to teach quilting and then guess what? I told M.F. to sew these triangles together on the long edge but when I compared them to the basic square, they didn't match in size. After about 10 of these had been done, I decided to go check the pattern book and sure enough someone had made a mistake. Oh well! You know the old saying which is "As you sew, so shall you rip!"

After a couple of meetings in which we had to overhaul our sewing machines, etc M.F., M.O.F.2, and I finally got all of the triangles into squares and attached to the other squares, (we were actually looking forward to the quilting) - but I wisely remarked that we should measure all blocks to see that they were "perfect." Well - that was three weeks ago. M.F. developed a bad case of the flu and had an abcess tooth. M.O.F.2 had a real bad case of flu and sinus infection and I had a bad case of the flu, an abcessed tooth, a sinus infection and a nervous breakdown.

So, after my Dallas trip, our Quilt Guild will probably disband (my friends are secretly hoping that I don't return to teaching or will learn some new fast methods while I'm gone)

Plans are well underway for the Museum of the Plains' Antique Sale and Flea Market, set for March 23-24 at the Expo Center.

According to curator Jennifer Mc-Clung, 14 booths have already been secured, representing a variety of goods that include crafts, jewelry, antiques, collectibles, crystals, mobiles and novelties.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company ("Southwestern Bell") submitted an application on January 4, 1991 to the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") requesting that the central office-based PBX/type service market be declared subject to significant competition pursuant to the Commission's Substantive Rule §23.27. If this proposal is approved, Southwestern Bell intends to provide service to this market segment via its PLEXAR-Custom service, which provides for contractual rates and charges to be based on an individual customerspecific basis.

PLEXAR-Custom is a central office-based service which provides switched voice and/or data communications similar to a customer-premises PBX. PLEXAR-Custom service is currently being provided on an individual customer-specific basis via Southwestern Bell's Customer Specific Pricing Plan Tariff for central office-based telecommunications systems of 200 stations or more. If Southwestern Bell's application is approved, the PLEXAR-Custom service tariff will be revised to also include central office-based telecommunications systems which require between 75 and 200 stations.

Centrex and Plexar-II services are currently priced according to a standard tariff regardless of the customer's geographic location in the state. If this application is approved, customers needing 75 to 200 stations will be able to obtain this service priced on an individual customerspecific basis rather than under a standard tariffed rate.

Southwestern Bell's application proposes that the service market for PBX/type systems of 75 stations up to 200 stations be declared subject to significant competition statewide in all of the exchange areas served by Southwestern Bell and in which the central office capability to provide the service exists and/or can readily be made available.

Persons who wish to intervene, protest, or comment on this application should notify the Public Utility Commission of Texas by June 21, 1991 at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. You may also call the Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf. Please refer to this matter in all correspondence as Docket No. 9960.

Townsen sisters try for state ranking

Tamri Townsen qualified to gain a state ranking in tennis by winning the 18 and under ladies singles event at the Amarillo Zone Advancement tournament in Amarillo on Saturday and Sunday, March 16 and 17.

Joining her on the road to state rankings was her sister Kimbre, who took second in the 16 and under division

According to the girls' father, Don Townsen, a junior player needs to do well enough in the zone advancement tournaments to earn 64 points and qualify to play in tournaments where the junior player can earn a state ranking. All his students and ex-students wish him the best of luck and many thanks for all his efforts on their behalf through the years.

Probably the busiest people in Spearman over the weekend were

John and Wanda Brown. John's sisters, Ada Bunch and Sue and Tommy White of Alva, Texas spent the weekend with them as they were here for services of Garland Head.

The Coachman Camping Club, of which John and Wanda are members, were here for a long planned weekend hosted by the Browns. There were 20 couples of them, and the time was spent in fellowship, cards and eating which was done in the Brown home. They all toured the Palo Duro Dam, and the men attend-ed some of the Hansford County Fat Stock show. Several of the grand-children of the Browns were exhibiting stock.

This group have been friends and traveling companions for 20 years and have shared many fishing trips and look forward to many more.

Nothing could equal the joy felt by James and Marilyn Scroggs and Idela Randall last week when Shannon Scroggs came home. Shannon, an Army Bradley tank driver, had been undergoing some last minute training at Grasenwohr, Germany,

They regretted they couldn't con-tact more of their friends during the weekend but he developed pneumonia and had to be taken to the emergency room at the hospital, and the Pattersons took them to Tulia on Sunday.

Aubrey and Iva Baker spent the weekend here in the home of their son, Buford and Mary Baker. The drawing card was to watch granddaughter, Melissa, exhibit her fine pig at the junior livestock show. The Bakers live in Turpin.

Carol Ann Pack and Vickie Gibbs were in Nashville last week as delegates of the First Baptist Church to the Hymnal Premiere Praising II.

They went a couple days early and attended one performance of the Grand Ole Opry and also enjoyed a river cruise.

It was an interesting and beneficial remire, and the night sessions were held in the new Grand Ole Opry auditorium at Opry Land. They returned on Friday.

Enjoying a weekend of skiing and fun at Red River, returning in time to resume their various duties Monday morning were the Misters and Missus - Don Hergert, Sammie Pierson, Mike Cudd, Tindle Ramon, Verlin Winegarner, Larry Scroggs, Jeff Rowland and Stephenie Crossland.

Shannon, in the Army Reserves, had been in college when he was called up and plans to resume his education at Frank Phillips College.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Kitchens over the weekend were Jan and David Nuckles, former pastor of the Assembly of God Church. They flew into Amarillo on Friday, where Mr. Kitchens met them. They were here for him to perform the wedding service for the Vanlandingham -Stephenson wedding at the Assembly

Goes to state level ... Poole wins geography bee

Spearman Junior High eighth grader Kristina Poole has been selected as one of 100 students statewide to compete in National Texas State Geographic's Geography Bee.

Kristina won the Spearman schools' geography bee in early February and then took a written examination to compete against school winners from all over Texas. Last week she was notified that her score was among the top 100 scores in the state, enabling her to compete in the state finals in Dallas on April 5.

"I just started screaming, and I couldn't even read the rest of the letter," the delighted junior high student reported when asked about her reaction to the good news, which came by mail. "I really didn't expect to win because the test was very hard and I had to do a lot of guessing. I

National Geographic's Geography Bee covers topics such as current events, physical geography and world cultures and industries. At the local level, the bee is part oral and part written. The second level of competition features a written examination with multiple choice answers. At the state level, the 100 competitors will be divided into five groups of 20 students for their geography bee questions.

Spearman has competed in the national contest for three years. Two years ago, the school winner, Chris Pearson, also advanced to the state finals competition.

Synapses hold clue

HOUSTON-Understanding how changes occur in the brain-and learand mental illness in millions of people throughout the world.

and the amount of money spent annually on such diseases of the mind as schizophrenia, depression, alcoholism and drug abuse is phenomenal," said Dr. James Patrick, head of the Division of Neuroscience at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston Brain researcher Patrick and his colleagues are studying synapses, the spaces where signals are transmitted from one nerve cell to another. Synapses may be the clue to developing drugs to treat mental illness as well as to an improved understanding of drug dependency. "Synapse may not be a familiar word to most people but, because Congress has declared this the 'Decade of the Brain,' it is a good time for people to begin to learn more about it," Patrick said.

"Understanding synaptic structure

The Hansford Coun-Reporter-Statesman has announced that "inside information" is now available to its readers.

All the newspaper's information and entertainment can now be found at indoor locations rather than at outdoor racks.

Hulett, Mike publisher, explained, "We have made the move indoors for our readers' convenience. 'Some readers had experienced mechanical problems when purchasing newspapers from the outdoor racks. And, because the racks were situated outside, our readers were sometimes windblown and often suffered discomfort when buying newspapers in bad weather.

"In addition, the racks themselves often sustained damage," he said. Hulett continued, "From now on, our readers will find greater convenience and comfort when they buy a copy of the Reporter-Statesman because we will no longer be using the racks."

He added that readers in Spearman and in Gruver can obtain the Reporter-Statesman all across town.

and function is important for understanding how cells send signals to each other," Patrick said.

"It is complex," he said. "There may be 100,000 synapses on a single neuron cell, all of them functioning at different times. And different synapses throughout the brain may use hundreds of different signalreceiving molecules and dozens of different transmitter molecules.'

Scientists know that synapses change as they are used.

For example, drugs, whether legal or illegal, can modify the transmission of signals from one cell to another in some part of the brain. The biochemical effect can be longterm changes resulting in dependen-

"It is clear now that mental illnesses really have a physical, organic basis and that they might occur as a result of some molecular problem in the nervous system," Patrick said.

"For example, various mental il-Inesses could result from the mismanagement of the nerve machinery involved in sending signals from one cell to another."

If scientists can learn how that machinery works normally, Patrick said, perhaps drugs can be developed that will restore proper synaptic function.

"That is the bottom line for neuroscience for the next decade," Patrick said. "The payoff for society could be millions of lives and billions of dollars hospitals such as in Borger, Guymon and Perryton. He told the board that Hansford Hospital and Manor received very high quality ratings in the survey. Further analysis of the survey will be given at the next board meeting. LaRochelle informed the board that Hansford Hospital was one of only 176 hospitals out of 1,700 applying for reconsideration of the Area Wage Index used by Medicare to calculate the reimbursement rates for inpatients. Medicare had been paying a lower rate for rural hospitals than for urban hospitals.

Under the guidance of Russell Altmiller, the district's auditor, Hansford Hospital was able to demonstrate that its wage rates are within 85 percent of those paid in metropolitan Amarillo. This will mean an increase in Medicare payments of about $49,000 annualiy, beginning in the next fiscal year.

Alice Peddy presented the audit report for the Hansford Appraisal District, showing a balance due from the Hospital District of $809.

A quality assurance program was recently developed to monitor potential problems in all areas of the hospital and manor, and to ensure that any problems are remedied and followup performed. The board adopted quality assurance programs for both the hospital and manor.

A new Admission Agreement and Operational Policy for Hansford Manor was approved. It was noted changes in Medicare regulations made the new policy necessary.

Regular business for the board in-cluded approving minutes of the previous meeting, and approval of financial reports and accounts payable.

Board members attending included Alton Ellsworth, president; Les Barkley, vice president; Rosa Lee Butt, secretary-treasurer; Jerry Hunt; and Pete Fisher. Representing Hansford Hospital and Manor were Al LaRochelle, administrator; Kaye McFarlin, director of nursing; Miles Mauny, Manor director of nursing; and Anne Snow, business manager.

Also attending were Laurence Behney, M.D.; Alice Peddy from Hansford Appraisal District; Judith Beckbill of Amarillo Hospital Home Care Inc.; and Carol Hergert.

the Hansford Appraisal District, attended the meeting and presented a refund check from the appraisal district. She reviewed the district's property tax situation for the board, and Harris noted property values would probably be down in the industrial section again.
