The intelligent readers of the Evening News, taking interest in the politics and economics of our government, must watch with concern, the man of all others, the most picturesque, in the country. We copy today, an article from the Pilgrim, published at Battle Creek, Mich. and edited by Willis J. Abbott, the former secretary of the National democratic committee, and the man appointed last year by that committee to discuss the campaign issues in the Kansas City Star with Murat Halstead, in reference to this remarkable man, who is no other than Tom L. Johnson, Mayor-elect of Cleveland, Ohio. Tom L. Johnson is unquestionably an exceptional man and Politician, and the eyes of the world—it is not too much to say—is turned upon. A multi-millionaire, obtaining his fortune by monopoly and special privileges given him by law, now averting his determination to spend it all, with all his time and talents in abolishing the special privilege of law, and to substitute the democratic principle of equal rights—justice to every citizen—is something astonishing and unheard of in this country. He tersely explains "how and why" in the article from the Pilgrim that will evoke the prayer of "God bless him" from the thousands of desponding souls.

Our late N. Y. guests were a nice set of fellows and interesting talkers too, and we were all mighty glad to have them come to see us, and returning home they are telling their folks about the rich country and pretty women we have down here; and that makes us feel good. They say they can lend us money at smaller interest, too, than we are now paying, provided we will make 'em dead sure to get it. And that is a regular business proposition that ought to work both ways with all of us who have a string to pull. The only trouble about it is, we knew before they came how rich our natural advantages, how pretty were our women. But when it comes to borrowing money, there are too few of us able to put up the collateral, however cheap the interest should be. Of course their purpose is to develop the state—the rich into richer, and the poor into poorer classes. So far as the masses are concerned, all such development should be spelled h-u-m-b-u-g-r-y.

Dr. Pierson attended the State Medical Association at Galveston, and from there went to San Antonio and witnessed President McKinley's reception and heard his address. Says he is a short man, not taller than himself, but heavier in every particular.

Having, now, a 'phone, both at the News office and residence, the citizens of the town should communicate to us any news they may have to impart. Sickness, comings and goings of selves or friends, public gatherings—and all other things which would be of interest to print in our little evening paper, should be sent in. Do not wait to be asked, but knowing anything, do not hesitate to communicate to us. Office phone, No. 127; Residence, No. 91.

The Coontown 400 exhibited here Saturday, and the reporter, always with an eye to business, and knowing the use of a confederate, telephoned to his good friend, N. Connally; "Say, Connally, I have a scheme to work the show fellows. It is this, you just come over, we'll go together, and you pay for both of us—and I think they will let us in."

C.—"That's good, but I'm too busy, now to take any chances. Try Joe Isaacs, he's got nothing to do today."

The accomplished and companionable Miss Bessie Wolflin, delighted her wide circle of relatives and friends by her arrival from the city of Mexico, where she has been engaged in teaching for several years. It has been some two years since has paid us a visit, and she thinks that she will remain with us only two or three weeks.

THE FAMOUS

Smith Boarding House

For First-Class Board and Lodging.

Two blocks east of postoffice. Good sidewalk. MRS. J. G. SMITH, Proprietress.

J. E. Morrison from Minco, Chickasaw Nation, is here with his family and worldly effects, prospecting for a small ranch. He says he saw no chance for a home in the coming opening, short of about one in a hundred; that thousands of land-hungry people are now camping on the borders, with forlorn hopes and little to subsist on. He has been living in the nations nineteen years, is now required to move on. He does not know where he will stop.

A. L. Medlock, from Fisher county and T. J. Burgess, from Jones county, with their wagons, small stock and families, passed through the city Monday, on their way to Sherman county, where each has secured four sections. Lucky fellows!

J. M. Neely, a Quanah subscriber of the News, moved up with his family to his ranche in this county, was in the city yesterday in company with A. C. Curtis.

Judge Wallace, from his Oldham ranch, was in the city yesterday. The judge also has a ranch in Hartley, where he keeps his cattle in the summer, in order to save his other range for winter.

W. J. Weathery, wife, grown daughter, and little son, from Grapevine, are at the Amarillo. Mr. W. is prospecting for a ranch.

C. H. Pierce, from Denver, interested with Mr. Pool in the water, light and ice plant project for the city, came in Sunday night.

Paul E. Brewster, a veterinarian from Wyoming, is in town.

C. Slayton, of Ennis, is here looking up a location for a stock ranch.

Mr. Kimbrough, having sold his drug store, thinks he will move away.

Miss Nettie Callaway has now a camera, and has taken several large nice photos of cars, groups, etc. She has one taken of the head collided locomotive at Miami, wrecked a few days ago. It looks like a great fish with its mouth wide open.

Mr. R. W. Williams from Hillsboro, a representative of the N. Y. Life Assurance, was in the city yesterday. He speaks highly of the Panhandle country.

THE COMING MAN.

From The Pilgrim.

Hon. Tom Lofton Johnson, the newly elected mayor of the city of Cleveland Ohio, who is talked of as eligible for the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1904, is one of the most picturesque characters in American public life today.

The boldness and frankness with which Cleveland's mayor avows his principles, charm those who are careless of the principles themselves. In the heat of his Columbus railroad fight he said with characteristic freedom:—

"I am in this fight with a purely selfish motive. I want something. I want a three-cent-car-fare and my street railroad plan, because I want municipal ownership and operation of street railroads, and I think my proposal will make a short-cut to it. I want municipal ownership, because I believe that will clear away one of the most important forms of privilege, which, so long as they exist, will fight against the abolition of that supreme form of privilege, the monopolization of land. Therefore, I want municipal ownership and operation of street railroads, as of all other law-made monopolies, because I believe that that will lead to the single tax—the abolition of all taxes but one falling upon land values, irrespective and exclusive of improvements, and I include in land values public franchise values so long as they are in private hands. I want the single tax because I believe that that will bring a large measure of justice—justice, the only solution of the great social problems of the world."

Nor is this boldness of principle or plainness of speech new to Cleveland's chief executive. A number of years ago I heard Mr. Johnson address a New York audience on the subject of social problems. After the lecture proper, opportunity was given for questions, when a man in the audience arose and said: "Mr. Johnson: You have just advocated the abolition of land monopoly, of the tariff monopolies, of the patent monopolies, and of the street railroad monopolies. Is it not a fact that you have been, and are now, a shining beneficiary of all these iniquities? And if you are, how do you reconcile your actions with your professions?"

He made characteristic reply: "I advocate now and have advocated the abolition of all these forms of monopoly, and yet I am and have been a beneficiary of them all. If there is any inconsistency in that it is not my fault. I preach what I sincerely believe to be the true and just social condition,—the condition of equal rights, of real freedom. Yet I must live under such laws and usages as the majority of the people decree. They say that these monopolies shall exist; that bread-winning shall be a scramble; that there shall be many poor among us and comparatively few rich. I do not believe that this is right, and I am raising my voice wherever possible against it. But the people will not yet listen. They have different views from mine, and and they hold to them. Now being compelled to live in this state of things where life is a scramble which the people will not stop, I am bound to do the best I can for myself. And so I rush in and grab all the monopolies I can get my hands on, firm in the purpose, however, to use the wealth so obtained to teach the people now misguided they are to permit themselves to be robbed in this way."

But with the money I make out of monopolies, I am doing all that I can to destroy monopoly, root and branch. For I should prefer to die poor and know that my son and daughter would live in a community where they can surely find easy subsistence than to leave them fortunes, the loss of which might expose them to the scramble that now is the fate of the great mass of the people.

A party from Greer co., O. T., among them, Messrs. W. B. & G. B. Parmer, are in the city looking for 20 sections of ranch land to locate upon.

DIED.—At Marlin, Texas, May 11th, Mrs. Ida Leona, wife of S. P. Tolleson, of this city. Mrs. Tolleson had been distressingly ill for several months, and was finally taken to the hot wells at Marlin, as the only hope. She found no relief, but gradually sank until death came to her relief.

The loss of a good wife, mother, neighbor, and Christian has thrown the city in mourning. The remains were laid away in the Amarillo cemetery yesterday at 2 o'clock p. m.
