Yes, Virginia There Is A Santa Claus

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the most famous editorials ever written was printed in the Sept. 21, 1897, issue of The New York Sun. Francis P. Church wrote the editorial in answer to a letter from a small girl. That letter and the answer are printed in full below.

Is There A Santa Claus?

"We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of The Sun:

"Dear Editor — I am 8 years old.
"Some of my little friends say there is no SANTA CLAUS.
"Papa says, 'If you see it in The Sun it's So.'
"Please tell me the truth, is there a SANTA CLAUS?
"Virginia O'Hanlon,
"115 West Ninety-fifth Street."

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a SANTA CLAUS. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no SANTA CLAUS! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

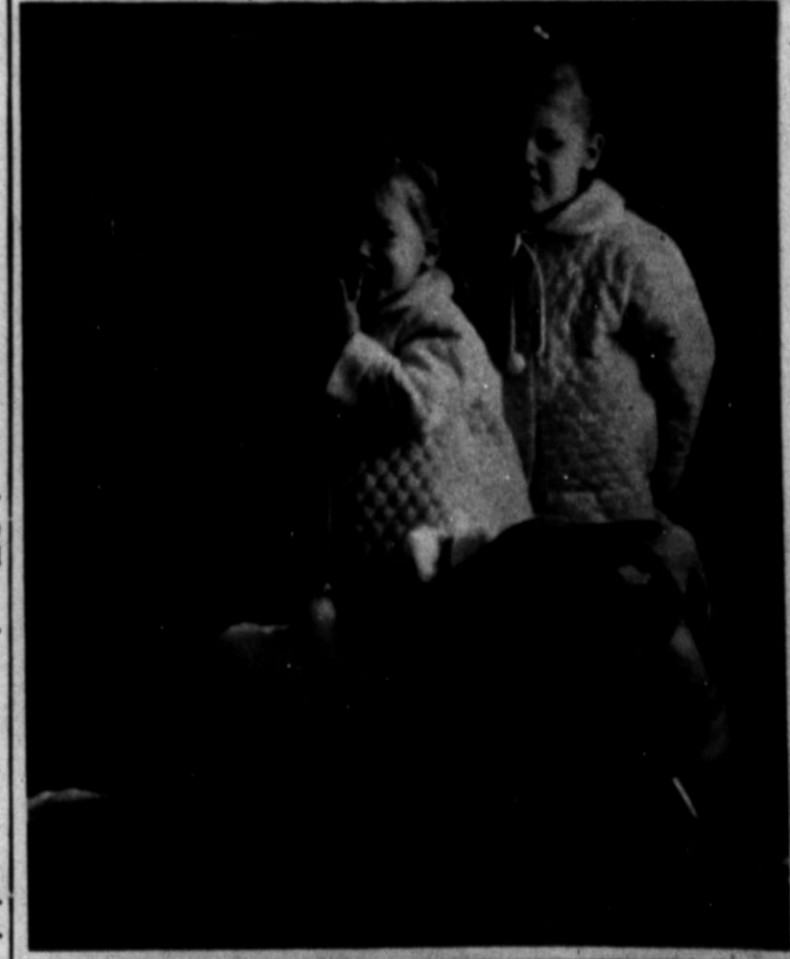

Not believe in SANTA CLAUS! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch SANTA CLAUS, but even if they did not see SANTA CLAUS coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees SANTA CLAUS, but that is no sign that there is no SANTA CLAUS. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No SANTA CLAUS! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

SANTA GETS CAUGHT — All tired out from his yearly trip over the country, old Santa Claus paused briefly to partake of the milk and cookies left by Kimberly and Vanessa Sims, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sims of 108 Aspen. The milk must have made him sleepy, because Santa dozed off. Kimberly, 3, and Vanessa, 1, took advantage of the situation for a close look at the old gent.

City, County, Other Offices Closed Monday

County Judge H. C. Williams announced Wednesday that all county offices will be closed from Friday afternoon until Tuesday morning for Christmas and from Friday afternoon, Dec. 29 until Tuesday, Jan. 2 for the New Year. Closing on Monday also will be the U. S. Post Office, which will only have special delivery service available on both Christmas and New Year's Day.

Both the First National and Hereford State Banks will close on Monday for Christmas. They will be closed on New Year's Day. City offices are also scheduled to remain closed on Christmas and New Year's Day, according to Dudley Bayne, city manager.

Holidays Revise Gatherings Of Two Civic Clubs

During the Christmas holiday week, only two of the four Hereford service clubs will hold their regular noon luncheons. The Optimist Club and the Kiwanis Club, which meet on Thursdays, will gather at the usual time. The Optimists meet at Jones Restaurant and Kiwanis at the Odd Fellows Temple. The Lions Club, which holds its gatherings at the Jim Hill Hotel, will not meet Wednesday and the Board of Directors of the organization also will not meet. Rotary meetings, which are held each Monday, will not be held for the next two weeks.

Amarillo AFB Gives To Camp

Food enough to fill numerous Christmas baskets for families at Hereford Labor Camp was brought by a truck from the Amarillo Air Force Base Friday afternoon, and unloaded at Casa de Amigos by men of the 23rd School Squadron, whose gift it was.

Airmen in the squadron chipped in cash to the amount of $287 when they decided to give something to help poor families at Christmas, explained M-S Edgar Peters, first sergeant of the outfit.

Although their pay amounts to only about $60 a month, almost all the 600 men in the squadron gave something to the fund which they decided to invest in staple food items. Captain Lemuel Boyles, an Amarillo AFB chaplain, accompanied the truck to Hereford.

County Buys Many Items For County Bull Barn

Deaf Smith County Commissioners, in a meeting Friday, voted to accept the bid $2,315.68 for place settings to be used at the Bull Barn.

The bid, from Jones Restaurant Supply in Lubbock, included 33 dozen plain white stacking cups, and 81 dozen complete settings which will include knives, dinner forks, salad forks, tea spoons, ice tea spoons. The commissioners had previously purchased some stacking cups.

Members of the Hereford Lions Club had voted recently during a meeting to furnish the money for the settings. At that time, Lions also agreed to purchase a dishwasher worth approximately $1,750, and a disposal worth about $450.

In other action Friday, commissioners appointed Bobby Veigel to the Child Welfare board. Veigel replaced Ed Skypala on the board.

Commissioners had been scheduled to meet Monday.

Applications On Crop Transfers Are To Be Filed By January 2

Farm operators in Deaf Smith County were reminded today that applications for the transfer of cotton allotments for the 1968 crop should be filed no later than Jan. 2, 1968.

Frank J. Bezner, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, explains that notices of the cotton allotment and the projected yield for individual farms have already been mailed to county farmers, so farm operators now are in position to make their production plans for next season.

In Deaf Smith County, growers, voting in a special referendum earlier this year approved transfer of acreage allotments by sale or lease — out of the county, so the transfer of allotments locally may be made from one farm to another within the State. In no case may allotment be transferred to another farm outside the State.

Transfer of allotments from one farm to another within the county and the transfer of allotments between farms (within the State) which are owned or controlled by the same owner are both authorized by law and not subject to approval in a referendum. However, it is necessary that such transfers of allotments be filed with the ASCS county office before the January deadline.

The January 2, 1968 deadline, therefore, applies to all transfers of 1968 cotton allotments for Deaf Smith County farms — whether by sale, lease, or the owner.

Concerning Veterans

Veterans holding GI insurance policies will receive $223 million in dividends during 1968, Jack Coker, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco said today.

Dividends will be paid on the anniversary dates of the policies with dividend payments beginning January 1.

For approximately four million World War II veterans, their National Service Life Insurance dividend will total $208 million. The average payment will be $52. The 1967 dividend totaled $196 million. Individual payments averaged $46.

The dividend for some 190,000 World War I veterans with United States Government Life Insurance will total $15 million, with payments averaging $79. The 1967 dividend also totaled $15 million but averaged $3 less. While dividends will vary ac-ording to plan, age and amount of insurance coverage, Coker pointed out that veterans who converted their GI insurance to permanent plans will get higher dividends in 1968 because of increased interest earnings on reserves. Modified life insurance policies will not share in next year's dividend since premium rates for 212,000 veterans holding these policies are so near actual costs that no surplus has accumulated.

World War II NSLI policies are "permanent plan," Coker said. By contrast, all but 2,500 of the USGLI policies held by 190,000 World War I veterans are permanent plans.

The 1968 dividend will make the 19th straight year in which an annual dividend has been paid on NSLI policies. It will also bring to approximately $7.2 billion the amount of dividends paid on NSLI policies since 1950.

Greetings

As you enjoy the wonderful experience of making others happy at Christmastime, may you also find a little extra bit of happiness for yourself. The wonderful traditions of the Yuletide are rich in blessings and it is our hope that you will receive the fullest measure at this glad season.

For your fine patronage... for your warm friendships... for your thoughtful consideration... we say thanks. It has been good to know and serve you in the past and we look forward to many more years of association.

Christmas In Malaysian Airport Is Memorable

By SUE GOLEMAN
Women's Editor

Nothing like a white Christmas, but the downpour of tropical rain which kept planes grounded at Kuala Lumpur airport last Dec. 25 made a good accompaniment to the carols she helped sing on her most unusual Christmas, says Mrs. Tom Doyle, 213 Ave. B.

A CROWD GATHERED around the six American women who were singing in the airport dining room-bar while their plane, scheduled to take off at noon, was delayed by the Malaysian rain. Many nationalities were represented at the Asiatic airways crossroads and to some of them Christmas meant nothing.

The pretty Hereford matron, then unmarried and teaching in a school for dependents of U.S. Navy personnel in Japan, was making a tour of Far Eastern cities with five fellow-teachers during their 18-day Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Doyle and her husband, a lab trainee at the Holly Sugar plant, have lived here only a few weeks.

THEY WERE MARRIED last March and Doyle, who had been in the Navy and stationed with his ship at Sasebo, Japan, returned to the United States first and waited for his bride to complete her term of teaching and come back in June.

They met in Sasebo when she went there to teach. The year before, she decided she was becoming bored with her work on the faculty of St. Louis schools, and applied for an overseas job with the government.

She was at college for a summer session of graduate study when a telephone call from her mother informed her the job in Japan was hers.

Her year in the Orient was an exciting experience in many ways for the young American teacher, and she took advantage of opportunities to see farther than the city where she worked.

A NATIVE OF Iowa, she grew up in Missouri, where her parents still live. She was a 4-H Club girl and took part in the usual school activities, was graduated from high school in Verona, Mo., studied in Harding College in Searcy, Ark. and received her degree from South-west Missouri State at Springfield.

Her decision to make her work as a teacher as interesting as possible, was characteristic of Jan Doyle's attitude toward life and her interest in the unusual.

That attitude is apparently shared by her husband; when he wanted a temporary job last summer until his work with Holly began, instead of becoming a service station attendant of some such prosaic worker, he applied for and got a job as temporary ranger in Yellowstone Park during the vacation season, so he and his bride spent an enjoyable summer there.

THEY HAD BEEN married in a civil ceremony at the U.S. Consol's office in Sasebo, and wanted a church wedding, which was solemnized in Mrs. Doyle's hometown. Then they had a Mexican honeymoon while Doyle took a short course in Spanish.

While she was in Japan, Mrs. Doyle collected numerous home accessories, even pieces of furniture, which now give a distinctive air to their home. There is a Japanese bedmats which are laid on the floor and the fluffy quilted futon which is used as a coverlid.

A habachi, on which the Japanese cook, is made into a coffee table; two tonsu chests have been refinished and an antique flower stand waits refishing; prints, scrolls and rubbings in ink on rice paper from temple decorations, make wall hangings; vases, lamps, and dishes are in the same motif.

BLACK AND NATURAL woods contrast, and are set off by soft shades of orange and coral in the living room rug and cushions which are stacked on the floor or placed on chairs. A couple of half-grown Siamese kittens are pets which could be a part of the decor. Their names are Megi and Hidari, Japanese for right and left.

As for Mrs. Doyle's 1966 Christmas tour, the group of teachers decided on the trip by plane which took them to Taiwan, the Philippines, Bangkok, Kuala Lumpur, Singapore and Hong Kong.

The evening before they left she enjoyed a Christmas party with friends and opened gift packages from the U.S.

STOPPING FIRST in Taipei, they shivered in heavy clothing, then they landed in Manila and were too warm in summer dress. The remainder of the trip was in tropical climate.

They flew into Kuala Lumpur on Christmas Eve and after walking about and seeing the mixture of Indian, Chinese, Malay and British residents, they had a Chinese dinner at their hotel and exchanged gifts, then went to midnight mass at a large church of the city.

Elegant dress of the British, saris, Chinese and Malayan costumes made an impressive spectacle of the worshippers, Jan says, and she found the service memorable for several reasons, one a version of the Ave Maria sung by a woman with an especially fine voice.

CHRISTMAS MORNING was spent in an unusual manner, touring a rubber plantation and a pewter factory, and shopping madly for pewter. The rainy afternoon at the airport followed.

New Year was also celebrated in exotic fashion. The six American women "hit Hong Kong on New Years Eve with all the saving we had hoarded since school began", says Jan, "and it was surprising how much we bought before the day was over!"

They were among 1,500 persons who had dinner at the Hong Kong Hilton, where the evening was climaxed with the losing of hundreds of balloons at midnight, and the new year was greeted with a concert by — bachelors!

A ride on the city's famous Star Ferry ended the night, and the group flew back to Sasebo and their jobs on New Years Day.

John T. Clements, a left-handed catcher, caught 105 games in 1991 for the Phillies in the National League.

Xmas Lights Need Special Attention

Thinking electrical safety could be your brightest idea in keeping your home aglow with Christmas lighting this holiday season.

In a Christmas safety advisory, Aetna Life & Casualty reminds homeowners that the special home electrical demands of the season require special caution. You must be alert to electrical fire dangers not only of Christmas lighting, but of your home's entire electrical system. It bears an extra burden in December.

To help keep your home free of a holiday holocaust, Aetna offers these suggestions:

1. Check lighting sets before using, examining for frayed wires, loose connections, and broken sockets. Don't use your favorite old fixtures so long that they become a hazard.

2. If you decorate with lights outside, use specially-reinforced rubber wiring and rubber gaskets that give bulbs a water-proof fit.

3. Follow manufacturer's instructions in lighting an artificial tree. Most will warn against stringing it with lights. Synthetic needles can be melted even by the heat of a 3-watt Christmas bulb. Worse yet, a frayed wire can turn an aluminum tree into a spark-spitting horror. An alternative is to direct a floodlight beam on the tree perhaps with a revolving color wheel to heighten the effect.

4. Use only fixtures bearing the familiar "UL" seal of Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. It's an important guarantee that wiring and bulbs meet safety standards.

5. Turn off all holiday lighting before retiring or leaving the house.

6. If a fuse blows, quickly determine the cause. A circuit might be overloaded by the extra lights and a redistributed lighting arrangement could correct the problem. If not, call an electrician; the situation could be more serious. Have extra fuses on hand at all times.

When you take the Christmas lights down, keep your guard up. Make alertness to electrical safety a year-round habit. You may be shocked if you don't.

Theft, Casualties Are Tax Deductible

COLLEGE STATION — Taxpayers who suffered losses from theft or casualties, such as hurricane, flood, storm, fire, automobile accident, shipwreck, lightning, airplane crash and freezing, may be able to claim their losses as an income tax deduction, reports James Mallett, Extension farm management specialist at Texas A&M University.

The amount of the tax deduction is the loss in property value, but is limited to its cost or basis, and must be reduced by the amount of insurance or other compensation received or expected to be received, he says.

Proof of loss should be documented soon after the casualty occurs, says Mallett. You should be prepared to show:

1. Values before and after casualty (pictures, appraisals, and signed statements by persons familiar with the circumstances, before and after are pertinent evidence);
2. Nature of the casualty and when it occurred;
3. The loss was the direct result of the casualty;
4. The cost or other adjusted basis of the property, evidenced by purchase contracts, deed, etc. (improvements to the property should be supported by checks, receipts, etc.);
5. Depreciation allowed or allowable, if any;
6. The amount of insurance or other compensation received; and
7. You were the owner of the property.

Business or farm property damaged or lost is deductible as a business loss. Each item of real or tangible property damaged by casualty or lost by theft is considered separately in determining the deductible business loss. No deduction is allowed for the loss of crops, livestock or produce raised for sale. Costs of producing these items and the cost of livestock, crops or produce purchased for resale

Whitefaces Win Over Brownfield

Hereford's Whitefaces added another win to their season mark, now standing 4-7, by defeating Brownfield 60-51 in a home game Thursday.

Bobby Burwick, again was high point man for the Herd, scoring 23 points.

Hereford defeated Brownfield earlier this season at Brownfield.

Hereford's next games will be played in the Berger Tournament, Dec. 28, 29, 30, followed by two "Open" dates.

Income Tax Facts

For 1965, 11.1 million individual income tax returns were filed with incomes $10,000 or more — 15 percent of the total returns filed.

By contrast, for the first time under the current tax code, individuals with income under $5,000 filed less than half of all returns, according to the Internal Revenue Service publication — STATISTICS OF INCOME — 1965, INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAX RETURNS.

The IRS book is available now for $2 from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

You may not deduct the first $100 loss to property held for personal use. Improvements to personal real property such as your residence, trees, shrubs and ornamentals are considered as an integral part of the property. A single loss is calculated by comparing the fair market value of the property as a whole before the casualty with its fair market value following the casualty, even if several items of personal real property are damaged. Damage to tangible personal property like autos, clothes, furniture and household equipment is evaluated separately from personal real property, explains the specialist.

Deductible casualty losses do not include, (1) expenses incident to a casualty such as temporary housing, travel, or moving expenses, (2) expenses incurred by reason of injury to yourself or others, (3) loss through misplacement of cash or other property, and (4) damages by rust or erosion. Costs of cleanup, repair, replacement and restoration are not deductible. However, these costs may be used to measure the amount of damage suffered if (1) they are necessary to restore the property to its pre-casualty condition, (2) the amount spent is not excessive, (3) they do not more than take care of the damage suffered, and (4) the value of the property after repair is no more than its value before the casualty. You are not required to repair or replace the property to qualify for the tax deduction. Get the proof and supporting evidence of your loss, says Mallett; your tax practitioner, accountant, attorney or the Internal Revenue Service can assist you in claiming the deduction when you file your tax report.

LIONS SPEAKER — James Wheeler, an official at the Cripple Childrens Camp in Kerrville, was speaker at the noon meeting of the Lions Club Wednesday. HemisFair 1968 Will Hire 1,500

SAN ANTONIO — The fun and excitement of employment at a World's Fair is available to more than 1,500 young Texans.

B. F. Agee, manager of personnel for HemisFair 1968, has announced that a statewide recruiting program has started to hire at least that many young persons for employment from March 15 to October 6, 1968.

Agee is working with Texas Employment Commission offices throughout the state to find accountants, ticket sellers, ticket takers, hostesses, security guards, maintenance personnel, secretaries, general clerical help writers, guides, ushers and parking lot attendants.

Another 1,500 employees are being sought by restaurants, concession stands and exhibition halls on the 92.6-acre site of the international exposition.

Texas Employment Commission offices in all parts of the state will accept applications for HemisFair work, and forward them to Agee. TEC applicants also will be available for consideration by exhibitors, concessionaires and restaurateurs who are hiring their own help.

"Since the goal of HemisFair is to be the best international exhibition ever held," Agee said, "we will need people who are young in heart and spirit, energetic, not afraid of hard work and who enjoy being of service."

The need now is for workers who can work from March 15 to October 6, 1968. The program has not yet been worked out for college students seeking employment for only the summer months, Agee said.

Applicants seeking employment from March 15 to October 6 should apply at their Texas Employment Commission now. They should be 18 years of age, bondable, have a high school education or equivalent experience, be neat, have a pleasant personality, be of good character and be physically fit.

The exception is for work as HemisFair's official hostesses and guides. These must be between 20 and 30 years of age and be bilingual and must have had previous experience in dealing with the public.

Agee said there will be at least two shifts of workers, since the exhibition halls open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and the fair grounds are open from 9 a.m. to midnight.

Camp Fire Honor Medals Will Be Given At Dinner

Presentation of Wobelo Medallions, highest honor to be won by Camp Fire Girls, will be made to three Hereford girls at a dinner with the Camp Fire Board as hosts, Wednesday evening.

The three medal winners and their parents will be honor guests at the dinner to be served at 7 p.m. in the Cason House. Mrs. Wayne Thomas is in charge of arrangements.

Medallions will be given to Jean Roberson and Charlotte Hill, both are at home for Christmas vacation from college, and Mrs. Keith Henderson, who was Cynthia Knox before her recent marriage.

Many deep-fat fried foods need fat heated to 370 degrees. If you have no deep-fat thermometer, remember that if a 1-inch cube of bread browns in 1 minute, the fat is about 370 degrees.

UNTO US A SON IS GIVEN

The above words are inspired through the lips of Isaiah, the prophet, many hundreds of years before the birth of Christ. (Is. 9:6) Yet, God was speaking to all those, before and after this event, who were looking for good news. "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day . . . a Saviour." Those were the words of the Angel bringing the news of Christ's birth to the shepherds. (Lu. 2:10-11)

Notice the words, "Unto you"; this means that the Saviour (one who can deliver) has come for you and I, personally. Then the words, "to all people"; meaning all can partake of the benefits of Christ. None are excluded from the blessings that flow from this one. In this season most of us are caught up in merry making, tree trimming, gift exchanging, and all that is traditional at this time of year. BUT have we really partaken of the true benefits of this one, who sent "unto us"?

After Christ had finished his work on earth; dying on the cross of Calvary for you and I; God raised him from the dead and set him at his own right hand, at the place of authority. (Eph. 1:20-21) God made Christ the guarantee and mediator of the New Covenant, which includes the wonderful promises of God written in the scriptures. (Heb. 7:22, 8:6) Christ is the one mediator between God and man, and can deliver completely those who come to God by him, because he stands in the presence of God for them. (Heb. 7:25) He is no longer a babe in a manger; he is no longer a man hanging on a cross; but is a risen, glorified deliverer to those who will believe and come to him.

"Unto you", said the Angel, is this saviour given. Jesus Christ is God's personal gift to you and I. Should we not receive him? He can cause our sins to be forgiven, with the assurance that it is so. (Ro. 8:16) He can be our burden bearer, and actually work out problems of this life for our good. (Ps. 55:22) He can give us assurance and peace in the hardships of this life. (Phil. 5:6-7) He can be our physical strength and healer. (Ps. 27:1, Ja. 5:14-15) Because of him we can have a personal fellowship with God; and can know God's will for our lives, and receive spiritual ability to do it. (Act. 1:8)

"Unto us a Son is given"; all of his power, his help, and his life are ours for the taking. Shall we be satisfied with the outward observances of Christianity, or shall we partake of this infinite source of reality by giving ourselves to the one who was given to us?

Tangerines Are Now On Markets

COLLEGE STATION — Just in time for the holidays, juicy sweet tangerines now are arriving in the markets. The plump, crescent shaped sections packaged in nature's own "zipper" skin are a treat for holiday menu planners looking for a seasonal, tempting and nutritious item.

Picked at their peak of perfection, these members of the citrus clan are rich in vitamin C, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist. They provide a ready-made dessert for the lunch box — they unwrap easily and form bite-sized pieces.

Nestle a few into the toes of Christmas stockings and stock the fruit bowl.

When buying tangerines, select those that are heavy for their size and have a deep orange or almost red color, suggests the Texas A&M University specialist. They keep longer when stored in the refrigerator until serving time.

Different topping: Orange sections and ripe olives make a delightful garnish for a chicken salad made with chicken, celery and mayonnaise or French dressing.

Concerning Veterans

Veterans seeking home loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration are advised by the VA to be cautious about getting involved in "side deals" or "tie-in-sales" as a condition to purchasing a home.

There have been cases in which veterans have been requested or even required to purchase items of furniture or other merchandise. These are paid for in cash and not from the proceeds of the loan guaranteed or insured by the VA. In some cases the items have been so overpriced as to constitute additional consideration for the purchase of a home.

Sometimes these offers are legitimate and benefit the veteran, and the VA has no objection to such purchases so long as they are not paid for with the proceeds of the loan. In any case where the seller and purchaser have entered into a "side arrangement" or "tie-in-sale" involving personal property to evade the GI statutory requirement that the purchase price of the home not be in excess of the reasonable value established by the VA appraisal, the VA is required to investigate the matter thoroughly.

In cases where a "side deal" or "tie-in-sale" appears to be involved, details must be revealed to the VA, which reserves the right to inspect and appraise the items involved before approving a loan.

When cookie dough is rich, always roll a small amount at one time and use a prepared pastry cloth and a cloth-covered rolling pin.

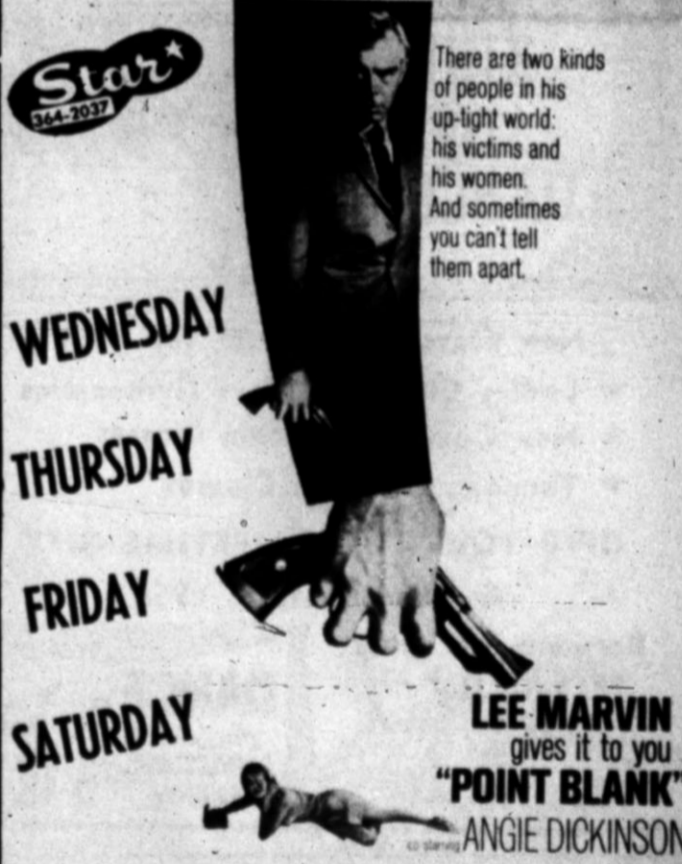

The world's population reached 3,356,000,000 in mid-1966, and will double by the year 2005 if the present 1.9 per cent annual rate of increase continues, the United Nations Demographic Yearbook says.

Shower-Party In Casual Mood Given Bride-Elect

Miss Becky Duncan, whose plans for a Jan. 26 wedding to Wayland Wampler of Lubbock were recently announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Duncan, was complimented with a lingerie shower Thursday afternoon in the Roy Botkin home.

Hostesses were Misses Myrna Botkin, Jo Ann Ferguson and Linda Liston, who invited two dozen of Miss Duncan's school-day friends for the party. The bride-to-be came up from Lubbock, where she is on the nursing staff of a clinic.

The afternoon was spent in informal conversation and refreshments continued the casual note. They were served from a table set in blue and white, colors chosen for the wedding.

The hostesses made huge blue paper flowers for an arrangement centering the white linen cloth. Blue tapers were lighted in silver candelabra.

The Duncan-Wampler marriage is planned in an evening ceremony at Avenue Baptist Church here and the couple will live in Lubbock.

LUNCHEON FOR CLUB — Members of Farm and Ranch Club came to the city for their annual Christmas luncheon this week, and were entertained in the home of Mrs. Glenn Burrus, 1106 Grand. There was a gaily decorated tree in the background as the covered dish luncheon was served, with a heap of beautifully wrapped packages for a gift exchange. The camera caught groups of the guests enjoying lunch. Mrs. Burrus is standing in the center photo.

Printing Typewriter Ribbons THE INK SPOT

Texas Produced Numerous National Champs In 1967

By HAROLD V. RATLIF Associated Press Sports Writer

The expanding sports scene in Texas produced a plethora of national champions in 1967.

Randy Matson, the Aggie giant, set a world's record in the shot put that made all weightmen everywhere gasp. It measured 71 feet 5 1/2 inches and Randy then went on a weiner roast while the telephone rang and the sports writers fumed. He also flung the discus 213 feet 9 1/2 inches, which wasn't a world's record although close to it, and Randy dismissed the "failure" with "I don't think the discus works in very well with the shot — they have different techniques."

Don January and Don Mass-gal made it an all-Texas National PGA. January won it by two shots. It was one of the big prizes of golf.

Gay Brewer won another — the Masters.

University of Houston was N CAA golf champion again. It has become an attractive habit.

Lou Dill of Deer Park won the national women's amateur golf championship.

Curtis Cokes, the Dallas wel- t rweight fighter, made it con- clusive that he was world's champion without question when he not only defended his title against Francois Pavilla of France but whipped Charley Shipos of Oakland, who had claimed the California version of the world title.

Texas schoolboy football again was tops in the nation. Its stars walloped Pennsylvania in the Big 33 and Oklahoma in the Oil Bowl.

Jim Hines of Texas Southern ran 100 yards in 9.1, 100 meters in 10.0, and the 220 and 200 meters in 20.3. That made him the world's fastest human for the nonce.

Mickey Wright led women's golf in scoring with a 72.65 average. Sandra Haynie was first in the Amarillo and Mickey Wright tournaments and was second leading money-winner. Miss Wright won four tournaments.

A. J. Foyt of Houston won the big race for automobiles. He took the Indianapolis 500 again. Foyt also teamed with Dan Gurney to win the 24-hour endurance LeMans.

Bob Beamon of University of Texas at El Paso was national AAU indoor champion of the broad jump.

University of Houston be- came a national power in basket- ball, winning third place in the NCAA.

The Astrodome continued to be the best arena for championship prize fights. Cassius Clay de- fending his heavyweight title (later taken away in a draft controversy) against Ernie Ter- rell, drew a record 37,321 at- tendance.

There also were two fights in the national heavyweight elim- ination in Houston's eighth won- der of the world. They drew well, too.

The year saw professional basketball come to Texas. Dal- las and Houston had entries in the American Basketball Assoc- iation and that's trying to outdo the old and established National Basketball Association.

Attendance was good consid- ering the fact that it tried to op- erate in the big middle of foot- ball.

Ice hockey also was added at Dallas and Fort Worth to play in the Central Hockey League. Houston already was a member.

Butch Baird, Dudley Wysong, Bert Weaver, Miller Barber and Gay Brewer made a big splash on the PGA tour. Marty Fleck- man won the first tournament he entered where he was eligi- ble for the money. That was the Cajun Classic.

It was a good and rewarding year for Texas sports.

When there's pineapple syrup leftover, after using the cann'd fruit, it makes an excellent addi- tion to mayonnaise or mayonnaise-type salad dressing. Add a little prepared yellow mustard, too, and use the dressing for fruit salads.

To use slices of leftover roast beef, spread them with prepared mustard and coat with fine dry bread crumbs. Fry the breaded slices in hot butter, browning on both sides. Serve with horse- radish.

Portugal discovered Mauriti- us, Holland named it and France gave it the official language. Inia, China and Africa nations populated the island in the In- dian Ocean and Britain rules it. Now Mauritians want to rule themselves.

Girls Members Of Bell Group At Plainview

Nancy Axe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and Becky Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Long, all of Hereford have been made members of the Handbell Ringers at Wayland College in Plainview.

The Handbell Ringers, directed by Earl Miller, assistant professor of music at the college, produce high quality music with bells similar to those school teachers used to ring to sum- mon pupils to classes.

Miss Axe, a sophomore and Miss Long, a freshman, and six other students with Miller compose the group which is in demand frequently for appear- ances both on campus and off.

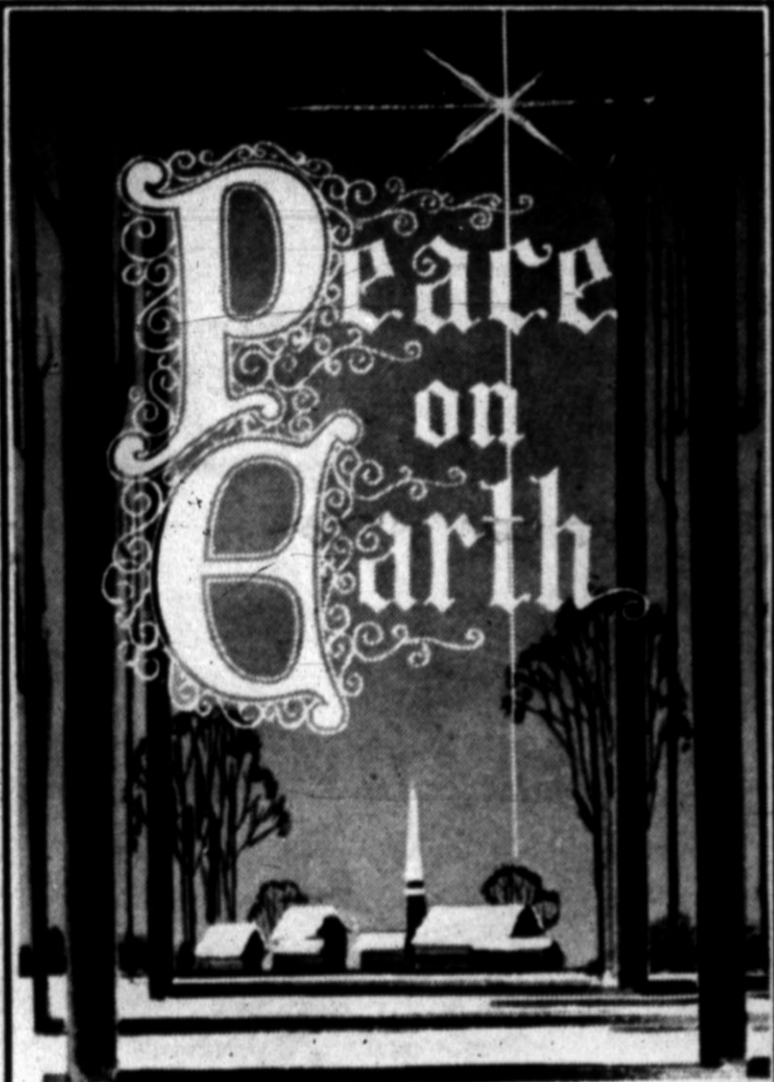

The 25 bells the ringers use have a two-octave range. The smaller bells have higher tone ranges than the larger ones.

Susan, alone of the five Dismukes children, was found to have been infected with the TB germ, and is presently taking medicine to prevent disease. Medical Exams Urged For Pets

December 15, 1967
Austin, Texas

Each year at Christmas, birthdays or other special occasions, thousands of pets are given as special gifts. Many of these pets, unfortunately, will die because of improper care or disease because the new owner is unaware of the need for an immediate examination of his pet by a veterinarian.

The Texas Veterinary Medical Association says that early examination of a puppy, kitten, bird or other pet provides the opportunity to determine the exact health status and physical condition of the pet and to make suggestions to the owner concerning proper diet, vaccinations against infectious diseases and general care. The first trip to a veterinarian will help assure optimal health at minimal expense, TVMA spokesmen say, and this early health precaution may avoid the heart-break of loss of a new pet.

Income Tax Facts

File a Schedule B with your Form 1040 if you had retirement income in 1967. This was the advice given today to Northern Texas taxpayers by IRS District Director Ellis Campbell, Jr.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that instructions you need to file Schedule B are on the schedule itself. Schedule B is also used to report income from rents, royalties, partnerships, estates and trusts.

Taxpayers should not count on receiving all the federal tax forms they need in the mailing they received in January. It is impossible for IRS to know in advance which forms and schedules a taxpayer may need.

If you find you need a form you do not have, check with your local bank, post office, or nearest IRS office.

Individuals paid a record $49.5 billion in income taxes for 1965 — an average of $732 for the $7.6 million tax returns filed — according to the Internal Revenue Service publication, Statistics of Income — 1965, Individual Income Tax Returns.

The IRS book is available now for $2 from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

How does a draft board consider a man's case when it comes before the board? The members sit around a table, and the file containing the man's papers is placed before them. The board asks the following questions, and when information in the file indicates an affirmative answer to one, the board votes to classify him as indicated in parentheses.

Is he on active duty in the military service? (I-C.) Is he a conscientious objector working in an approved civilian job? (I-W.) Is he too old for service under the law? (V-A.) Has he completed sufficient service under the law? Is he a "sole surviving son" under the law? (IV-A.) Fort Worth Mayor Outlines Problems Of Today's Cities

By MIKE COCHRAN
FORT WORTH — In this day of metropolitan miseries, cities face few problems as critical as the eternal skirmish for the tax dollar, says Mayor DeWitt McKinley.
"We have cities at the bottom of the totem pole in the great competition for the tax dollar in a great inflationary period," he said.
"First Uncle Sam has the privilege of reaching in and taking all the tax money the national economy can stand through payroll and corporate taxes and other federal levies.
"Then come the state taxes, and actually the school and water districts have preference over city taxes. And so we are in a bad situation insofar as being able to do all the increased services that this fast changing urbanization call for the city tax to do."
Such were the comments from

McKinley, interviewed about cities' problems and goals and the demands on modern mayors.
Race, housing, traffic, pollution, taxes, crime, water all pose problems which cities around the country are coming to grips with, some successfully, others less so.
"There's a lot of publicity about water and air pollution nationwide," said McKinley. "But mostly these are area wide problems and should be worked out on an area basis."
This city has been free of racial violence, its traffic and crime problems are not yet critical. But, said McKinley, "We do have a housing shortage."
He attributed this essentially to "100 per cent employment" and the fact that "we're importing people in here."
Federally financed "skyrise" apartments with "rent subsidies in one form or another" are not the answer to housing problems here or anywhere, he said.
"This will create far greater ghettos than we've ever seen. If it will be possible to police these high skyrise ghettos at all, it will be more expensive than any policing we've ever done in other areas."

He added, "So we have to do a lot of thinking and planning before we move these people out of what we call ghettos now and into other ghettos."
"My one solution to that is that we ask the federal government for a small percentage of the income tax monies be reverted to local government with no strings attached."
"That way we are not dependent upon pork barrel-type legislation to grant monies to different towns and areas according to politics."
To cope with such problems, McKinley said, the modern mayor needs "experience and a level head," plus the ability to communicate with one and all.
"With the conditions we have to work under now — riots and that sort of thing, loud voices from minorities—a mayor must be a man with experience, who can deal with people from all walks of life," he said.
The mayor's office is more powerful here today than before, he said, not necessarily because of the tasks he performs, but because the mayor is elected by the people. Until 1964, the City Council selected the mayor.
McKinley scored a stunning upset last spring in defeating the incumbent mayor, Willard Barr, who was endorsed by the city's recognized power structure.
"This is not a victory for me," he said at the time. "It is a victory for a cross-section of the people of Fort Worth."
In a subsequent interview, he said the mayor's role is "more definitely a job for the people than I realized. I feel the importance of it."
Among his foremost goal she said, is to achieve a stable economy for the city by attracting "diversified industry." A by-product would be a reduced tax load on homeowners.

"I think it is my responsibility to look at these things," he said.
McKinley's tenure has been a stormy one, due in part to a majority of councilmen, called the "solid six," who oppose him frequently.

McKinley also had been criticized for his role in Dallas-Fort Worth negotiations to build a regional airport to serve North Texas.

Some council members have accused him of attempting to muscle his way onto the airport board. McKinley has denied this but has said of the airport project, "We can't afford to make any mistakes in planning."

Casa de Amigos

By KEITH SCHROYER

During this week most houses have the scene of increased visitors, joy and excitement. This has also been true for the Casa de Amigos. The reason for all of this is, of course Christmas.

The center of the activity is the Christmas tree. This year, as in past years, the Optimist Club provided the Casa with a tree. The decorations were made by the preschool students and the Girl's Club.

A general appeal for toys was made several weeks ago to the churches, clubs and the other groups which support the work at the Casa. The response was gratifying. Through their contributions a sufficient number of toys and gifts were received. The activities began at the Casa Sunday afternoon with a party for the Cub Scouts. The high point of the party was the handing out of the uniforms which the boys had worked to earn six weeks before. Each of the boys also participated in games, ate their fill of cookies, and received a Christmas gift.

One group that was very involved in Christmas activities was the Girl's Club. About six weeks ago, VISTAS Mary Shinnick and Fran Gallardo started the club in place of girl's recreation classes. Since its formation, the club has been very active. Last Sunday evening, 13 of the girls went caroling at King's Manor. They took with them some cookies they had baked. Other cookies made by the girls are being used as decorations for the tree. Tuesday, the girls had a Christmas party at the Casa. Again games, gifts and refreshments were part of the activities.

Monday, Mrs. Vance Crume, who works with the Campfire Girls at the Casa, conducted a party for the Campfire group. Mrs. Crume supplied the presents and refreshments or the party. Earlier, the girls had made gifts for their parents which are to be given Christmas Day.

Mrs. Nicki Dameron and the Horizon Club she directs, gave a party for the first and second grade English Class. This is a group of 25 children who are taught reading, writing, and speaking of English for four hours a week after school by VISTA David Rader.

There were 22 of the children at the party along with 14 brothers and sisters. Stockings full of candy were provided for the children by the Horizon Club and toys were provided by the Casa. Refreshments were ser-

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Not worn out yet, no matter how much they are being used, those two words express wishes for good health, family affection, friendship and a sense of the real reason for celebrating Christmas, which combine to make this a blessed season. May each of us realize their full significance in this still-unsatisfactory world.

NO MATTER WHAT'S the matter with the world, most of us have so many things to be happy about that we are downright ungrateful if we fail to make this Christmas a merry one — for ourselves and others. At least those of us who are old enough to tell grandchildren tales of Christmases in the unprosperous days of the 1930's, can remember when we had ved and the children took part in songs, games and breaking a Pinata.

The center of most of the Christmas activity is the preschool. For the past two weeks, the preschoolers have been working on gifts for their Mothers and decorations for their homes and the Casa. Thursday morning the Casa was the scene of the preschool party. Each of the boys received a cap and the girls received tights. Cartoons were also shown at this time. A special Christmas program was presented by the preschoolers for their parents Thursday night. Several of the children took part in a nativity scene while the others sang Silent Night, O Santissimo, Jingle Bells and We Wish You a Merry Christmas. Mrs. Bill Thompson provided the accompaniment for the singing, followed by the appearance of Mr. W.W. Buck as Santa. At this time each of the children were given a toy from the Casa.

VISTA David Rader has been busy working with St. Joseph's Church concerning the distribution of toys given for camp use by the nearby Air Force Bases. The Amarillo and Clovis Air Forces Bases each sent a truck load of toys to be distributed to needy children.

We would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to all of those who helped to make this a happy time for the children at the Camp, and to wish each of you a Happy Holiday Season.

less to be merry about even though we found ways to enjoy the season without so many material things.

West Texans with longer memories have seen still bleaker Christmases, when early settlers lived in scattered homes, miles from a town, and sometimes were prevented by bad weather from even getting to the nearest store to buy a red apple and a few sticks of candy to go in the children's stockings for Christmas morning.

One who can remember those times is Mrs. G. W. Brumley, a gracious lady who has seen so many happier Christmases since she was a young wife and mother living in primitive homes in the sparsely-settled west, that she says she had rather just not talk about it now.

Her way is best after all; ignore the harder times of the past and make the best of today.

FAMILY VISITS are the best part of Christmas for many Hereford people, who are "back home" for the holiday or have visitors here.

Among the latter is Kathlee Palmer, whose son, Glenn W. Toomey, a Seattle attorney, is here to share her Christmas. They plan to spend Christmas Day with the John D. Pitman family.

NOT SATISFIED with our small sample of snow last week, the Bill Damerons took off as soon as school dismissed for a stop at the Dameron ranch near Saguache, Colo., enroute to Aspen and deep snow for skiing. With high hopes of no broken bones, Nicki adds.

She took time to phone before she left with a piece of Camp Fire Girl news — her pet enthusiasm. Seems the Camp Fire Council here has decided to send three Hereford girls to the Biennial Conference of the national CFG, to be held next summer at Estes Park, with hikes, horseback trips or boat trips as a bonus.

NOTE TO MRS. Keith Jorde: Thank you so much for the original Christmas greeting booklet the best idea I've seen for carrying family greetings to relatives and friends whom you don't see too often.

It's an attractive booklet with pictures of each of the six good-looking Jorde children, their good-looking parents, plus their new home that they moved into just in time for celebrating Christmas. Notes about each one are included to bring everybody up to date on the progress of each member of the family.

'Oven Lore'
For Christmas

By Mrs. Argen Droper

A wedge o'pie, a cup o' warmth, a piece o'cake, and an open door — all wonderful yuletide tradition.

EXPLORING OVEN LORE is especially gratifying during the holiday season because it contributes so much to the "Christmas spirit". As family, friends, and guests are served yuletide pastries and cakes, all will enjoy tales of national traditions or family traditions associated with the special holiday foods.

Mince pies or tarts are popular English treats. Mincemeat has changed some during the years in that green tomato mincemeat is preserved at home; packaged or mixed mincemeat is on the market and the traditional mincemeat pie is still a favorite.

MINCE PIES
2 C. sifted enriched flour
1 t. salt
Mincemeat filling
4 — 8 T. cold water

two thirds C. shortening
Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening until pieces are size of small peas. Sprinkle with water, a little at a time, mixing lightly, until dough begins to stick together.

Turn out onto lightly floured surface and press together. Divide in half. Then, divide each half into thirds. Roll one portion to one-eighth inch thick circle; fit gently into 6-inch pie pan. Trim. Fill with one-third of Mincemeat Filling.

Roll out a second portion; prick or slash to allow steam to escape. Moisten edge of pastry. Arrange over top of filling. Seal edge; flute. Sprinkle top lightly with colored sugar.

Repeat steps for next two pies. Bake in preheated 425 degree oven, 35 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 36-inch pies or 1 9-inch pie.

MINCEMEAT FILLING
3 C. prepared mincemeat and
1 C. chopped apples

Mincemeat is good in pastry, but also makes a good addition to fruit cake in both flavor and texture.

This is a popular recipe that will be good long after the yuletide has past.

This is recommended to busy homemakers as it can be mixed in nine and a half minutes; with schedules as busy as they are and with little chance of people having more time, it may have a great deal of appeal.

HOLIDAY FRUITCAKE
2 1/2 C. sifted flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 and one third C. sweetened condensed milk
2 C. mixed candied fruit
1 t. baking soda
1 2-oz jar mincemeat
1 C. walnuts, coarsely chopped

Butter 9 inch tube pan; line with waxed paper; butter again. Sift flour and baking soda. Combine eggs, mincemeat, milk fruit and nuts. Fold in dry ingredients. Pour into pan. Bake 300 degrees for 2 hours or until center springs back and top is golden. Cool. Turn out; remove paper. Decorate, if desired.

PLUM PUDDING IS an old-time national favorite and the ancient superstition that who ever eats a plum pudding and makes a wish with his first mouthful on any of the twelve days of Christmas will be blessed with luck during the coming year.

Serve plum pudding with a tasty sauce of your own recipe or use the one here. To be very festive, place the flaming pudding (without sauce) on the table. The flame is made by pouring lemon extract over the pudding and lighting with match just before serving and placing on table.

CHRISTMAS PLUM PUDDING
10 to 12 servings
2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup enriched dry bread crumbs
3/4 cup finely chopped suet
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup golden raisins
1 cup chopped blanched almonds
3/4 cup chopped candied orange peel
1/2 cup chopped candied citron

soda and salt. Beat eggs until frothy. Gradually beat in sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in bread crumbs and suet. Stir in almond and vanilla extracts.

Blend flour mixture into egg mixture alternately with milk and lemon juice, beginning and ending with flour. Stir in raisins, almonds, orange peel and citron. Turn into well-greased 1 1/2-quart fluted mold. If mold does not have self-cover, use a double thickness of wax paper or aluminum foil to cover, seal securely. Place on rack in deep kettle.

Steam about 3 hours, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. (Keep water level even with top of rack.) Remove mold from kettle, unwrap and allow pudding to cool for 10 minutes.

Quickly dip mold into cold water and turn out onto serving dish. Serve warm with Tangy Pudding Sauce and whipped cream.

TANGY PUDDING SAUCE:
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 egg yolk, beaten
1 tablespoon white vinegar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons water
Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Stir in sugar, egg yolk, vinegar, lemon juice and water. Heat thoroughly, stirring constantly. Do not boil.

PHEASANT IN SOUR CREAM
1/2 C. flour
1/2 t. salt
1/4 t. pepper
4 T. fat

3 T. finely chopped mushrooms
3 T. finely chopped onions
Cut up pheasant for frying. (Chicken, turkey, steak or pork chops can be prepared the same way) Coat pheasant with flour, salt and pepper. Brown in fat in skillet.

Drain on absorbent paper while mushrooms and onions are sauted in fat. Put pheasant back in skillet.

Cover with sauce made from:
2 C. sour cream
1/2 t. parsley flakes
1 T. fat
1/4 t. salt
Cover pheasant with sauce and finish cooking in skillet or can be baked in oven 350 degree for 25 — 30 minutes

She is a sophomore at Tech, a major in foods and nutrition who plans to go into foods research as a career. She was graduated from Hereford High School in 1966, was a member of the Future Homemakers and also was active in 4-H Club work in this county, winning awards including a blue ribbon in the state 4-H Favorite Foods Show.

To qualify for membership in Alpha Lambda Delta, a student must become eligible in her freshman year with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.5. She is initiated to active membership as a sophomore, and after that year is an inactive member.

Miss Beene has made the Dean's Honor List at Tech the past two semesters.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PRODUCTION — Students of St. Anthony's school presented their annual plays and skits Wednesday evening at St. Anthony's auditorium. A capacity crowd viewed the performance, which the students present every year just before Christmas.

"Semi-retired" Man Is Busy Restoring Old Buildings

FREDERICKSBURG — Milton M. Moseley moved to this Hill Country town, not far from where President Lyndon B. Johnson was born, to enjoy semi-retirement. Instead, he's busier than ever as he helps restore beautiful old buildings. Moseley lived in Fort Worth for 30 years before moving here. He is a native Texas, having spent his childhood in Coleman County.

He had been in Fredericksburg about a year when he launched his first restoration. This was the old Christian Crenwelg home made of logs, flat wood and some stone.

Then a Dallas couple, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McDermott, saw and fell in love with the old Gillespie County Courthouse. They decided the structure was worth restoring and authorized the work. It reportedly cost around $150,000. It became a library.

Moseley's own home originally was a jewelry store and then a barber shop.

Until he moved to Fredericksburg, restoration was just a word to Moseley.

His mother was of German extraction, but he says that did not play a part in his decision to help in restoration of Fredericksburg's better buildings.

"I think anything that's old and good should be kept up as long as it's practical for anything," he says.

He has his eye now on an old Catholic church — St. Mary's. But lack of money has held up work on it.

"This town is peculiar," Moseley said. "Some people get jealous when we did the old courthouse. They're interested in the old Catholic church and we are, too, but so far we haven't been able to find any money for it.

"This town is full of old families. They feel like if they don't have a hand in it then it's just not worthwhile."

He said another thing that has made restoration difficult is lack of workers with the special skills and interest needed for restoration work.

But he also finds that attitudes have changed because of the fine restoration of the courthouse.

Another restoration that needs to be done, he says, is the Nimitz Museum, formerly the long-operated Nimitz Hotel. It was built by the grandfather of Fredericksburg native Adm. Chester W. Nimitz of World War II fame.

The only thing holding back the work, museum officials say, "is just plain old money."

He also wants to restore at least one of the Sunday houses.

The Sunday houses were a German tradition in pioneer days. Families living in the country also built themselves a "Sunday house." The farmers came to town on Saturday for their shopping, spent the night in their Sunday houses, attended Sunday church services and returned to their farms.

Moseley would like to restore one particular Sunday house which has a fallen roof, but he says the price is too high. Some people in Fredericksburg believe that with money of old German-Texas architecture and with Moseley's help the town might become a museum.

Christmas Seals Began In 1904

Instead of a White Christmas, millions of people not so long ago had the White Plague. The White Plague was TB.

To combat this devastating illness, the National Tuberculosis Association was formed in this country at the turn of the century. In the same year — 1904 — the first Christmas Seal was created by a Danish postal clerk. Why not, he thought, urge people to buy a special stamp while their holiday spirit was soaring? The Danish postmaster liked the idea, and the King of Denmark asked his people to the stamps on their Christmas cards and packages. The generous Danes responded with tremendous enthusiasm. Soon there use the stamps on their Christmas cards and packages. The generous Danes responded with tremendous enthusiasm. Soon there was enough money to construct a children's tuberculosis hospital.

That was the beginning. The Seals came across the sea to people in America. The American Red Cross sponsored the first campaigns, and the Christmas Seal sported a single red cross. In 1910 the NTA joined forces with the Red Cross. A decade later, the TB Association had grown so that it could carry on the crusade alone. The Seal became a bright red double barred cross. Soon it was a familiar part of the Christmas scene as well as an honored American tradition.

Today, a half-century later, the crusade goes on. The work of Christmas Seals through the years has helped to reduce TB drastically. But the crusade is not over. About 30 million Americans are infected with TB germs, and nearly 100,000 persons have known, active TB. Christmas Seals still play a part in the struggle. But today they support more than the campaign against the White Plague. Contributions help sponsor the struggle against respiratory disease and the special noxious effects of air pollution and smoking. The National Tuberculosis Association slogan sums up the struggle: "It's a Matter of Life and Breath."

We who participated in "Project Christmas Card" take this means of extending our greetings to each and everyone in this area. The amount we usually spend in this way has been contributed toward a more lasting tribute in our community and we feel it is in keeping with the true meaning of Christmas.

Chamber Represents All Interests In Promoting Deaf Smith County

By PAT SPURGEON

The primary aim of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is to represent the business, professional and agricultural interests in the community in developing the overall economy.

To achieve this end, various committees are put to work, each committee member doing individual research as well as research as a group, discussing possible plans of action, investigating the feasibility of these suggestions, then making recommendations which are presented to the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors for final decisions and action.

Board of Director members who take the action and set Chamber policy upon the recommendations of the individual committees are Neil Cooper, president; Johnny Pool, vice president; Dub Hair, treasurer; and Raymond White immediate past president, who comprise the executive committee. Other directors are Frank Ford Jr., Morris Easley, Pete Caviness, Jerry Detwiler, Earnest Langley, Dale Young Melvin Young Clete Corlis and Ed Line. Earnest Langley is the incoming president for 1968, named recently.

Since the county's economy is primarily based upon agriculture, all work of the local Chamber is to this end — to build up business and industries related directly or indirectly to agriculture and to bring more business into the area which in the long run do much to aid the farmer. Of course, a business which aids the farmers in turn aids the community as a whole. Everything the Chamber does has a relationship to this purpose.

One of the prime committees of the Chamber is its industrial committee which seeks out and encourages new businesses groups to settle in Hereford, bringing in new people and more payrolls.

have fun. Is your Reindeers doing O.K.

Love,
Cristi and Steven
P.S. Rabbit Hunt and Twister and bicycle.

Another important committee is that on Government Affairs, whose members study in detail government on all levels, particularly those which directly affect the economy of the area.

The Agriculture committee equally important, helps area farmers find new and better markets for their products. The Livestock Committee joins the agriculture group in that end.

A committee whose work touches every member of the community is that on education, which assists and works closely with the schools in the development of educational programs which educate adults and students to be a valuable part of the area's economy.

Included also are committees which study aviation; one which assists the retailers through trade area research, promotion and development; transportation and communications, which seeks to improve or find answers to problems in transportation of all kinds within the county and those in communication. This committee's work is aimed at solutions which will better serve the needs of the community.

Others are organized for water research, devoted to the development and conservation of water resources; tourist and conventions, beautification; human relations; fine arts; membership; and solicitation control, a committee whose job it is to carefully screen applicants who wish to canvass the town for donations, etc., and insure the fact that all solicitations are for legitimate causes.

But there are other functions of the Chamber of Commerce which don't show, and this is one of the greatest parts of Chamber service. The regular day to day service of the office is overlooked by most people unless they, themselves, need some information.

For instance, what would you do if you were called by a person wanting to know how far it is to Atlanta, Georgia, and the best route to take, or if you received a letter in which the writer asked for full information on the town, or the housing or employment situation, the industries, recreational possibilities?

Or, what would you do if a stranger came into your store and asked for literature of a city map? Or if the phone rang numerous times and throughout the day questions flew thick and fast, such as, "How far is it to...?" or "Who has charge of...?" or "Where can I find...?"

Neither an individual nor a single business is equipped to handle this information at a moment's notice. The Chamber is. It answers phone call, each letter and personal call. The Chamber of Commerce answers the community's phone and waits on the community's customers.

Keeping its finger on the community's pulse, the Chamber acts as a go-between for out of town inquiries. It correlates information into booklets, literature, city maps, etc., and has them ready at a phone call's notice, with a single goal in mind — promote Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Doing this day by day job is Bill Thompson, Chamber of Commerce manager who keeps the office functioning efficiently, keeps records and minutes for the various committees, plus sending out meeting reminders, as well as his other varied duties.

Assisting Thompson is Mrs. W. A. (Thelma) Lamm, who Thompson calls his "right hand" who is chamber secretary. Also there is a senior Hereford High School Distributive Education student, Miss Joyce Curtsinger, whose duties include filing, typing, etc.

Recalling past correspondence from out of state requesting information on the community, Thompson said a letter had arrived recently from a person formation. The chart in the center of the photo is a new member orientation chart with flip pages, which helps new members understand the function of the Chamber of Commerce and how it works.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODF ISHMAEL

The Rev. Homer Gail Crisman has advice on how to become an expert on South America. He says, "Stay 70 years." For the 92-year-old minister himself has spent 70 years in Ecuador and Colombia for the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

In 1897, Mr. Crisman arrived in Ecuador as one of the first Alliance missionaries to that country after its citizens had been given freedom of religion. But even though the missionaries were accepted by the government there was much opposition and at times even physical threat. In those days, Mr. Crisman traveled constantly for hundreds of miles either on foot or by horseback, visiting remote villages, setting up churches and schools and working with the Indians.

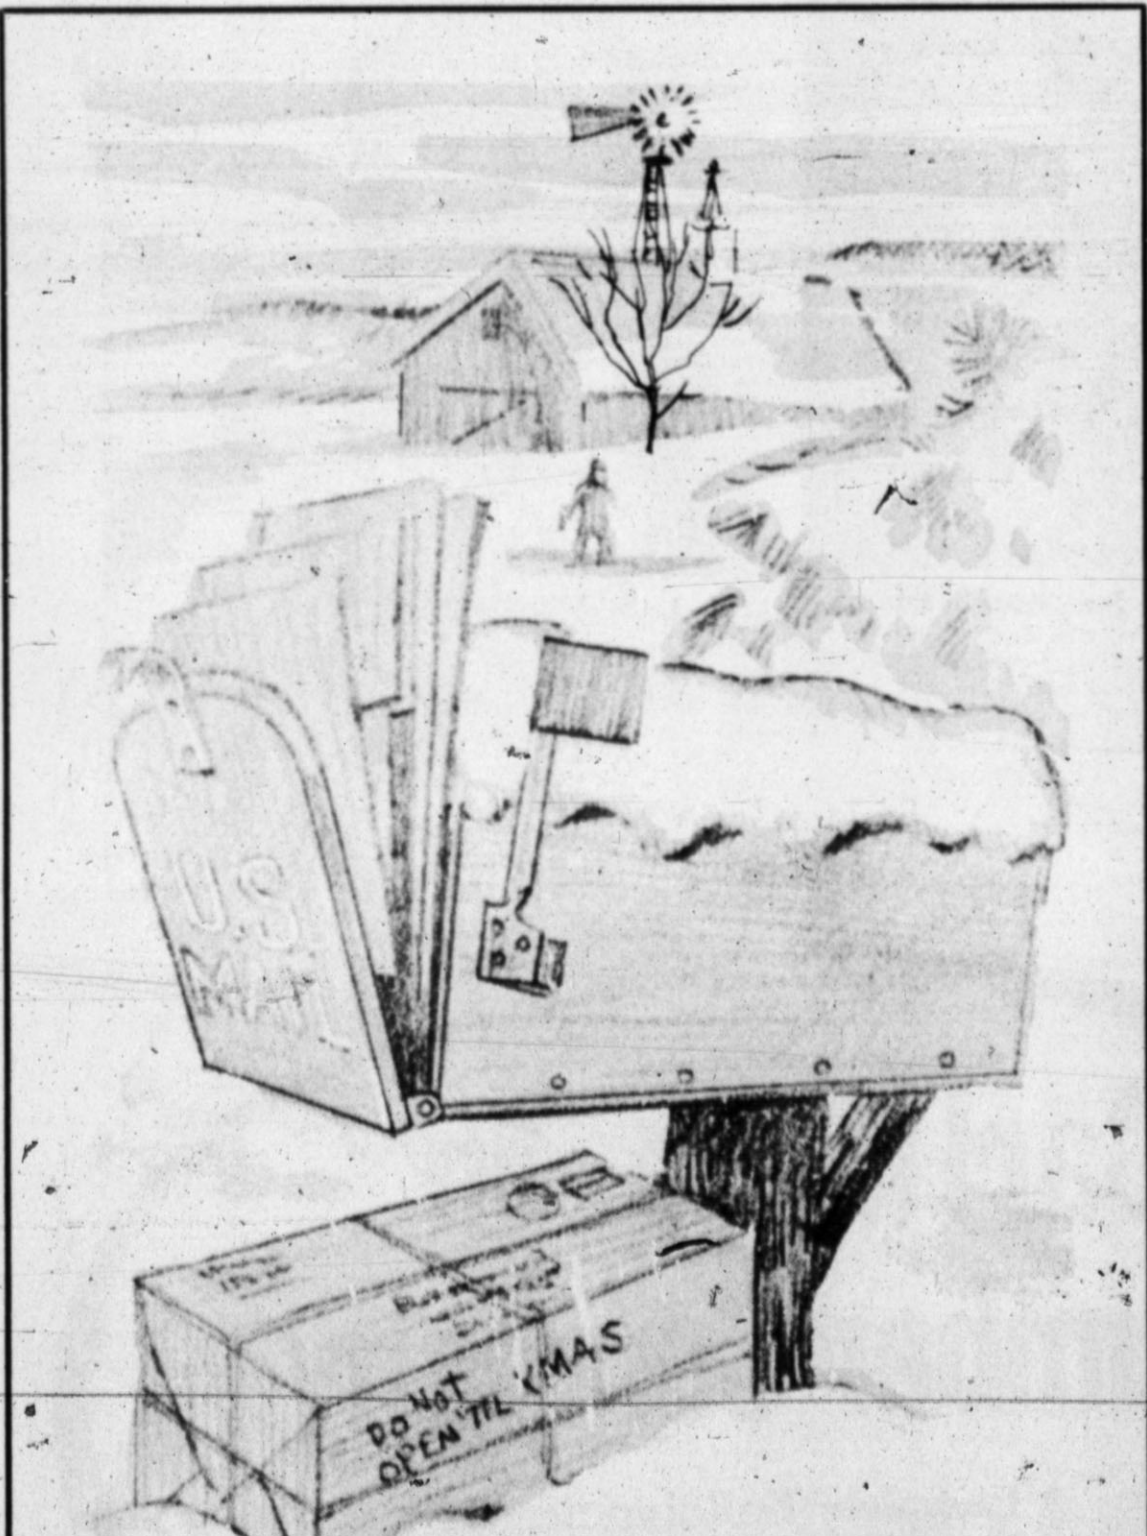

Mr. Crisman no longer makes the long hard trips but is still active in aiding the Spanish literature ministry and the book store and in Bible distribution operated by the Alliance mission there. Mr. Crisman says, "After 70 years of serving Him in South America, I only wish I had another life to lay at His feet."

in North Dakota, asking for the complete story of cotton. Thompson turned this letter over to a local ginner, who furnished the complete information.

Communications of this sort can be classified into five categories, Thompson said. One category is from school students in other cities who have assignments to collect information, and who ask for all kinds of information, including a history of the area, climate, products, industries, and some even request soil samples. "We try to answer them all within 24 hours," Thompson said, "and send soil samples, too, when they are requested."

A second category of letters concern prospective tourists of the area, requesting information on vacation and recreational facilities. Realizing that tourists bring business possibilities and businesses and recreational facilities bring tourists, much work has been done for this purpose by the Chamber the last several years.

Third and fourth categories are inquiries from potential new businesses and residents. Communications from potential new businesses are mostly handled by the industrial committee.

A fifth category included business inquiries. These are mostly from groups in other cities who write the local chamber requesting information, or groups of names, etc. The local policy, also national Chamber policy for communications of this type is to answer the letters, urging the group to work through the Chamber office in that city, and if this is done, the office furnished lists of names, etc. without charge. If the group is not working with its Chamber/office, the local office either charges a fee of ten cents per name or discourages the inquiry depending upon its type.

But the best letter was that one received about five or six years ago at the office, addressed to "Deaf Smith, Hereford, Texas" which was actually an advertisement form a hearing aid company. That communication, too, was answered by the Chamber, which said that Deaf Smith was beyond the point where a hearing aid would do any good. (Referring, of course, to the man who was the county's namesake.)

At a January 11 banquet new directors will be installed, closing out an old year and ushering in a new. With Earnest Langley at its head, the Chamber will continue to promote the interests of the community as its primary aim.

Kerri Womble
THE GREATEST GIFT

By Kerri Womble

"You won't be able to see too well at first, but you will improve," said the doctor.

But Beth didn't hear. She knew this was her day or reckoning. If this operation hadn't worked then nothing would. All her prayers, hopes, and dreams were about to burst in full bloom or die a pitiful death. She felt the bandages slowly being taken off her head by the nurse. There were so many things she wanted to see all at once. She wanted to see the strong house that had always sheltered her, the gentle dog that had always led her, and the patient family she loves so much. She wanted to see the sun rise in the morning and the stars come out at night. But most of all she wanted to see "color". Her patient brothers and sisters had often tried to explain it but she never could quite understand it. She knew all the names, but she still couldn't imagine what they looked like.

The bandages were almost of now. The last strip was being unwrapped. Then she opened her eyes. The most wonderful thing happened! Things began taking form and there were movements to the forms. Nothing was clearly seen, but of one thing Beth was sure. She could see!

"Well, young lady," the doctor began, "it looks as if you'll be leaving us soon."

"When can I go home?" Beth asked, anxiously.

"Well, today is the fifteenth of December. If you're a good girl and follow instructions, you may get to go home in two weeks," replied the doctor kindly but firmly.

"But that means I won't get to go home for Christmas!" Beth exclaimed.

"You don't mean you want to leave us. We would be terribly lonely without our little Beth," consoled her red-haired nurse, Sue. "Anyway if you're especially good and follow instructions and make good progress maybe you can go home earlier."

"All right. I'll try," Beth said, trying to swallow the lump in her throat.

"Well, I've got to get back to work," explained Beth's father.

"And I have to get back to the little ones," said her mother one by one they left until only Sue and Beth were left.

"Can I get you anything before I leave Sue asked.

"No, thank you," answered Beth, trying to smile but failing at it completely. It was the first time she had really felt lonesome since she had come to the hospital in November. "A hospital is one of the loneliest places in the world, especially at Christmas time," thought Beth. She tried to check the tears, but still they came. After a while Beth thought, "Beth, get a hold of yourself, this won't be so bad and if I do improve a lot I'm sure I'll get to go home for Christmas."

The days passed quickly. Every day Beth's cheeks grew rosier and she gained back her normal amount of weight. There was so much to learn. Her doctor even gave her a kind of game. It consisted of all kinds of shapes, colors, and sizes of cardboard. She spent hours sorting them into three separate piles. Also whenever the nurses had time they would read or talk to her.

It had been nine days since the day her bandages were removed and today was Christmas Eve. Beth was in bed when Sue walked in and said, "Wake up, Lazy Bones, you're going home today."

"Really?" Beth asked sitting up in bed, "I can really go home today?"

"Yes, really," her nurse continued. "Hurry up and get dressed. Your parents will be here in a moment to pick you up."

In a few minutes Beth was sitting in the waiting room. Soon she was being led to a car, then whizzing through traffic, and finally walking through the door to her home. When she arrived there was a large welcoming committee. There were her five brothers and sisters and her seeing-eye dog. "Come and see, come and see!" they were all saying. They led her into the living room.

"Oh," Beth gasped, "the Christmas tree!"

"We left it undecorated so you could help!" exclaimed her younger sister, Laurie.

Latter as they all sat around the beautiful tree, Beth exclaimed, "This is the greatest gift I have ever received!" Then Laurie burst out, "But we haven't even opened the gifts yet!" Whereas everyone laughed. Then there followed much happy commotion in the household as they distributed their gifts.

When you are buying half of a fully cooked ham, you may want to have a slice removed for separate cooking. Have the slice a couple of inches thick and bake it on a rack in a shallow pan in a slow oven (325 degrees) for about 40 minutes.

Cottage cheese makes a good addition to the relish platter. Use cream style cottage cheese and add, if you like, minced scallions (green onions) and chopped pimiento-stuffed olives.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Hush Money

Two policemen, armed with a search warrant, discovered a cache of narcotics in Eddie's basement. Eddie forced a smile.

"Tell you what," he said blithely. "I'll give you guys $500 each if you'll get rid of this stuff for me and forget the whole thing."

Result: Eddie was arrested not only for a narcotics violation but also for offering a bribe.

At the trial, he protested: "I was only joking about the money. I never expected these policemen to take me seriously."

Nevertheless, he was found guilty as charged. The court said that, behind his jocular manner, the criminal purpose was all too evident.

No particular words or acts are necessary to constitute the crime of bribery, so long as the message is clear.

Nor is it even necessary that the bribe take the form of money. What matters is that, whatever its form, the bribe have sufficient value to the recipient to influence his conduct.

Thus, in one case, the bribe consisted of an extra discount on a new car, allowed by a car dealer to a city official. In another case, the bribe consisted of a young woman's amorous favors. In both cases the bribe was considered the equivalent, in the law's eyes, of a simple payoff in cash.

Traditionally the crime of bribery has involved only public officials. The law's historical purpose has been to safeguard the processes of government from corruption.

But in recent years, most states have enacted statutes extending this principle to the field of sports.

Under one such statute, a man was accused of trying to bribe a college football player. In court, the defendant argued that bribery, by its very nature, can apply only to public officials.

However, the court found him guilty. The judge said the same moral standard could be demanded of athletes too, because their "duty to perform with honesty and integrity is analogous to the duty imposed upon persons holding public office."

When I awoke, I was not surprised to find myself in the hospital, it was also day.

After everyone told me what had happened, the doctor, Merdlyn Gruffydd, informed me that Christmas was ready; this puzzled me.

The four persons present in the hospital room led me, in a wheel chair, to a brightly decorated room. What a surprise it was to see twenty-four relatives and two trees with presents heaped under them.

It was surely the most exciting Christmas I had ever had.

Pioneer Resident Recalls Experiences With Horses

Corinne Jewell Neely
 There is bound to be some Texas who will ask for a horse for his Christmas stocking this year. It may be a saddle pony, a race horse or just a pet for the children.

Others besides Texans are interested in horses for various reasons. Did you know that horse statistics show that the state of New Jersey has more horses than Texas.

Even Californians are horse conscious and many are now using stickers on their car bumpers, "Fight Smog, Buy a Horse." And the French who are NOT our friends just now are no friends of the horse either — they eat him, not ride him. Imagine that!

Since I was born in the "horse and buggy days" of this area, I have memories on the subject of horses. And in spite of the fact that I might have lost my life because of them, I love them.

The story told me by my mother since I was too young to remember is one which concerns a team of horses and a buggy. Mother was driving the horses which became frightened and ran away. I was a babe in arms and she was considering dropping me overboard so that she might better handle the team when I fell to the bottom of the buggy. Then she saw the reins to slow them down and brought them to the home hate where they stopped. The greatest danger in a runaway team was that they might run through barbed wire fences or turn the vehicle over.

Although my father was considered a good judge of cattle, moher could out-judge him on horse-flesh. He might have been chagrined by this fact but outwardly he always seemed proud of her ability.

Once he gave her a fine horse for Christmas named Roxie. And the horse later played a part in a hold-up with an unusual angle. My father and some men were over in the brakes on the Texas-New Mexico line searching for some kind of mine which they hoped to find there. Three men came by and at gun point took Roxie and the other horses. This left the would be miners afoot and a long way from home, or any place for that matter. They had to "hoof it" in high heel boots and since no cowboy or cattleman ever liked walking for exercise — they were in a foul mood.

But luck was with them. A local sheriff by the name of Ross was looking for the men near Clovis. There must have been some gun play as in later years I was told by Jasper Cockrell (long time courthouse custodian) that he had once owned the saddle belonging to Ross. And it had a bullet hole in it, as a result of that affray he said. Roxie was recovered.

In an old copy of the Hereford Brand of the early 1900's I once read an editorial chastising some unnamed young couples of that day. Young people of today should enjoy this one. The editor was berating them for racing with their teams and buggies. The race was against a train headed toward Hereford.

Back in 1921 when I was teaching my first school about 30 miles west of Hereford in the Garcia Lake area I learned to ride pretty well. At that time there were only a few ranches and still some real cowboys. Only the ranchers owned cars so when I dated, we rode horseback. If we had visitors — usually from town — there was a shortage of saddles so some of the boys and I rode like Indians — bareback. This was no hardship, and necessary if we wanted to go some place, or just for a ride.

One of the funniest stories in our family-tales is one that only mother would tell. It involved

STUNT NIGHT — Several skits were entered in the annual stunt night at Hereford High School on Monday night. photo at left was made of the annual Winning first place was a Thespian act entitled, "Sob, Sob", and second place her and our father before they were married. She was driving his horse which was hitched to a training cart. While he was wooing her with the harmonica she drove across the prairies. Whether it was intentional or or not we never knew, she drove across a low place — called a buffalo-wallow in those days. In so doing she drove right from under him and left him sitting on the edge of the depression.

As far as we listeners were concerned that was the end of the story which always left mother laughing but not dad. And I think this is a good way to end this one.

Letter To The Editor

December 12th, 1967
 Dear people of Hereford,
 Since this morning, nature has taken a white coat. Within the night, the out-look of the town has been transformed. The roofs, which had become dirty-coloured, owing to various fumes, are now brightly white. The leaf-naked trees seem to know some extraordinary sort of new life. Better than this: children who yesterday were going to school sad-looking, their head in their greatcoat, their hands deep in their pockets, scream with joy today, run to and fro, look around with a glance that expresses best their happiness.

Watching them from my window, I came to realize that the year is coming to its end, that a long period of festivities is about to begin.

Meditating on this, my thoughts turned to you: my friends of Hereford. Do not let yourself believe that it is as a routine job, as an annual task I am expressing my wishes for happiness. A Chinese proverb says: "A treasure is not always a friend, but a real friend is always a treasure". As I think over this saying, I can honestly wish you a merry Christmas and a very happy year 1968.

Some of you might be surprised not to have received directly at their homes these wishes that everyone sends to everyone. Please, do pardon me. If I chose this easy solution, it is for a simple reason: lack of time. Presently, my life is shared between the army duties and the preparation of a great journey. Yes, maybe you know it already: next January, in the very first days of the month, I shall be back in Hereford. Soon after, I shall go study at WTSU, Canyon.

Assuredly, this decision will raise many a controversy! Come what may! This decision is mine, and do believe it did not germinate nor develop overnight.

Hoping to see you very soon, please let me re-say all my good thoughts and wishes.

Sincerely yours,
 Rene Batard

Talk of Texas

Christmas Gift 8 — Stanley Marcus, the Dallas merchant who is noted for the unique and expensive gift suggestions that he advertises in his store's annual Christmas catalog, was the recipient of an unusual present himself.

Marcus used to keep a painting by Saul Scharly on the landing of the stairway in his home. It was a nude figure seen from the back.

One Christmas Eve, after a tree-trimming party in the living room below, Marcus started up the stairs to bed. Suddenly he stopped and stared at the painting. The girl had turned around and was facing him!

John William Rogers, the late novelist, revealed the hoax. Friends of Marcus, knowing how much he liked the painting, had arranged with the artist for another portrait of the same model. They slipped it into the house during the party and substituted it for the original!

Highball To Heaven —By all odds, the Bartlett & Western Railroad was the most unusual ever operated in Texas.

It may have been the only public railroad anywhere whose owner also served as the locomotive engineer. He was Tim Cronin, a consecrated Christian, who named the four stations along the 30-mile line after the authors of the four Gospels.

The line began at Bartlett and meandered 30 miles to Schwertner, wholly within Williamson County. And at the depots in Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, passengers could read framed copies of the Gospel written by the particular namesake of that station.

If that wasn't enough to make the Gospel Railroad unique, it ended its service in 1935 with a lady president — the founder's daughter.

With Spurs That Jingle — The Cowboy's Christmas Ball, glamorized in the poem by Larry Chittenden, the cowboy poet, still is one of the state's best-known observances of the Yuletide.

When it is held each December in Anson, there is no rock-and-roll music. Instead, old-time fiddlers play the traditional square dances and hoedowns that were characterized in the Christmas socials in the Texas of long ago.

Getting Out on Bail

"He's in prison now, being punished," said the Queen to Alice in Through the Looking Glass, "and the trial doesn't even begin till next Wednesday."

It is to prevent such punishment, before guilt has been established, that our system of bail is designed. The accused is given his temporary freedom, after putting up a certain sum of money to guarantee his appearance in court.

Is every accused person entitled to get out on bail?

Almost. Traditionally, the main exception has been in the case of a capital crime when there is strong evidence of guilt. The theory is that anyone facing a possible death penalty would be sorely tempted to jump bail and go into hiding.

But the vast majority of defendants do in fact go free on bail. Those who remain in prison usually do so not because they are not entitled to this privilege but because they cannot afford it.

How high should bail be set? The Eighth Amendment to the Constitution requires that it shall not be "excessive." Various factors may determine, in a particular case, how much bail is excessive. For example:

Bail, even though high, was held not excessive in one case, because the accused had already jumped bail three times. Obviously, he could logically be expected to do it again.

But high bail was held excessive in another case, because the accused was charged with just a simple misdemeanor.

What if the man is indigent? Even low bail may be beyond his reach, forcing him to languish in

Price Urges Probe In Stopping Of Mail Service By Trains

An investigation of the decline in railway passenger service and the discontinuance of railway mail service was called for Friday by Congressman Bob Price.

The resolution would authorize the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee to make a study of the effect of Post Office discontinuances of rail mail service have had on railroads and the overall transportation system in the United States.

"Railroads serving the Panhandle have either discontinued or served notice of discontinuance in many cases of the last passenger train serving large areas and communities with no other transportation facilities except bus service," Price said.

Price said he knew there were circumstances under which both the Post Office Department and the railroads found these actions necessary but that the wholesale discontinuance nationwide of practically all remaining railway post office service "left him wondering if the Postmaster General had any real concern for the public interest."

"The investigation will be aimed at determining what effects will result from the rash of train abandonments across the country as well as the overall effects on postal transportation and mail service.

"The committee would also be charged," Price said, "with determining the advisability of the Secretary of Transportation coordinating such actions in the interest of a balanced transportation system for both passengers and mail."

For the First Trans-Sahara Sand and Land Yacht Rally, an old caravan route with a prevailing northeast wind was chosen.

A gypsy who bought a house in New Jersey ran a large pole from floor to ceiling in the center of the living room. He wanted to give the room the look of a tent.

Does the man have a job? Does he have close family ties? Is he a long-time local resident? With such roots in the community, he is less likely to run away.

If the accused can indeed be turned loose with reasonable safety, society is thereby relieved of the cost of keeping him. More important, society is also relieved of the necessity of confining a person, even temporarily, while he is still entitled to the presumption of innocence.

Great Portion Of Fatal Wrecks Involve Drinking, Study Shows

AUSTIN — If the drinking habits of some San Antonio drivers and pedestrians hold true for the rest of the state, almost half of the drivers and pedestrians killed in Texas traffic accidents may have been highly intoxicated, the Texas Safety Association said today.

A 10-year blood alcohol study conducted by the Bexar County Medical Examiner's Office, San Antonio, showed that 48 percent of the persons killed in traffic accidents, and exaimed for alcohol, had .15 percent or more alcohol present in their blood. Theoretically — each victim had consumed more than three highballs or more than six beers in his final hour.

A driver with a blood alcohol content of .10 percent is considered by most experts to be "too high" to drive safely and the new federal safety regulations call for states to pass laws making it unlawful for a person to drive a car when his blood alcohol concentration equals or exceeds that amount.

The intoxicated victims in the Bexar County study accounted for 68 percent of the drivers killed in one-car accidents and 43 percent of the drivers killed in multiple-car accidents. Fifty-eight percent of the pedestrians killed had blood alcohol levels of .10 or above.

Of the 318 traffic victims studied, 205, or 61 percent, had been drinking to some extent. Seventy-six percent of the driv-

Accidents Increase During Holidays

COLLEGE STATION — A home accident can dampen Christmas spirit quickly. The death toll in home accident rates second only to highway deaths and usually goes up during the holiday season.

For holiday safety, Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University, suggests using a sturdy ladder for placing decorations. A small ladder may be your wisest investment for the holiday.

make up half of the home accidents and burns and fires cause many others.

Many fires occur during the Christmas season and the major cause is the tree.

Be cautious with Christmas trees, keeping them away from heat sources such as fireplaces, television sets and heating units. Use a fire screen to contain flying sparks, advises Miss Arrington.

To prevent drying, keep the tree in water. Dry needles and branches ignite easily. When the tree becomes dry, discard it.

To insure tree safety, keep the lighting system in good order, free of fraying insulation, broken sockets and loose connections. Keep the base of the tree free from combustibles and remove Christmas wrappings as soon as possible, but don't burn them in the fireplace. Flames flare easily into the room.

Unplug the lights before leaving the house or going to bed.

Use only extension cords which carry an Underwriters Laboratory seal, distinguished by UL symbol on the tag, advises Miss Arrington.

Nine out of ten home accidents are preventable.

ers had been drinking in one-car accidents and 57 percent had been drinking in multiple-car accidents. A total of 80 percent of the pedestrians had been drinking.

Dr. Robert Hausman, Bexar County Medical Examiner and director of the study, says he feels sure that tests of traffic victims in other areas of Texas would reveal similar drinking habits of drivers and pedestrian.

Studies previously reported by the Texas Safety Association on the drinking motorist and his involvement in traffic accidents disclosed that in Wisconsin, 82 percent of the drivers had been drinking heavily prior to their fatal accident. The six-month tabulations also showed that most of the drivers killed were under 25, with 18-year-olds outnumbering all others.

"The apparent commonness of drinking drivers on Texas streets and highways clearly calls for defensive action to be taken by motorist and pedestrians," Robert F. Miller, Vice President for Traffic Safety, TSA, said.

The Safety Association advised pedestrians to stay alert for the unexpected actions of drivers. They should not rely on all drivers being sober and obeying all traffic safety rules. Before stepping from the curb — even when the "WALK" light is on — pedestrians should make certain all approaching cars will stop and yield the right-of-way. Extra caution should be exercised where there are no trafrers see them and realize that they are planning to cross before stepping into the street.

Drivers should watch for pedestrians walking along roadways, stepping suddenly from between parked cars and off curbs. They should consider that a pedestrian, as well as a fellow driver, may be drinking. Watch for the drinking pedestrian who may lose his sense of balance and direction and stagger into the path of oncoming traffic. Drivers should slow down in areas where there is heavy pedestrian traffic and always keep in mind that all pedestrians do not obey their safety rules by crossing streets at intersections only.

The Texas Safety Association noted that the drinking driver is not necessarily a speeder — more often, he is not. He can be spotted by his irregular driving speed, his reaction to traffic situations, and his weaving across lane and medium stripes and onto the shoulder of the road.

Although angel hair will not burn it will cause tiny cuts and should be kept away from children, Miss Arrington warns.

Home accidents account for two-thirds of all accidental deaths among children and for about half those of people 65 years of age or more. Falls heavy pedestrian traffic and always keep in mind that all pedestrians do not obey their safety rules by crossing streets at intersections only.

The Texas Safety Association noted that the drinking driver is not necessarily a speeder — more often, he is not. He can be spotted by his irregular driving speed, his reaction to traffic situations, and his weaving across lane and medium stripes and onto the shoulder of the road.

Washington Report
 From Congress
BOB PRICE 10TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
 1223 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. • 205-3704

I have joined in an attempt to counteract the effect of the recent Supreme Court decision on the employment of Communists in defense facilities. I introduced a Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relating to employment of subversives in defense facilities. The Amendment would authorize Congress to "establish conditions of employment in any facility which Congress determines is essential to the national defense. In view of the recent decision by the Supreme Court in the case involving an admitted number of the Communist Party, I believe it is urgent that Congress adopt new legislation to take the place of that which the Court struck down. And while it may be possible later to draw up legislation which would stand up under court tests, I am afraid that any watered-down version of the present law could also be thrown out by the Supreme Court. And while I realize that amending the Constitution is a long and complicated process, I feel that this is the only sure way to prevent a recurrence of the decision which struck down the portion of the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950 dealing with employment of members of Communist-action groups in defense facilities. We now have more than 500,000 men of our armed services engaged in a shooting war with North Vietnam Communists supported openly by the Soviet Union and Red China. We read and hear daily of Communist boasts to drive all U. S. troops from Asia. We read that Communist China now has nuclear missile capability for long range submarines. Off of our Florida coast we have Castro who openly declares his intention to export revolution to all of Latin America. We have the recently returned Mr. Carmichael running at large after visiting Cuba, North Vietnam and other Communist countries, and urging U. S. defeat in Vietnam. We have others who have visited Communist countries and are bitter critics of U. S. resistance to the Communist aggressors who now plan massive crusades for more disobedience to law and order. They plan to disrupt our cities and impede the conduct of our government as well as the pursuits of law-abiding citizens. We have enough problems at home without the added threat of sabotage in our defense plants. We have the Vietnik extremists who stormed the Pentagon and exercise their arrogance in burning book stores, kidnapping Navy recruiters and storming draft centers with bottles of blood. They perform these and other criminal acts in the name of constitutional rights. What will keep these Communist inspired peaceniks from disrupting our defense plants from the inside as they, in fact, have already attempted to do from the outside? Panhandle citizens have wired and written that they are outraged at this Supreme Court decision, as I am. The following is from the Amarillo Daily News: "Outrage seems to be the dominant response here to the Supreme Court ruling that Communists may not be denied the right to work in U. S. defense plants." "Why bother to put a guard around the factories, or even lock them?" demanded W. C. Roberts, the Amarillo lumberman. "The Saboteurs can get in just by asking for jobs." George Pratt, the retired Gulf land man here, who files the

Flag at his home every day, says he is now going to display it upside down. "That's a distress signal," he explained. "And if ever this country was in distress, it is now." AND THERE WAS MORE. As Wes Izzard says, they all want to do something and so do I. The resolution I have introduced is at least the first step and will, I hope, be acted upon promptly by the Congress. THIS WILL BE MY LAST WEEKLY NEWSLETTER until the next Congress convenes. Let me thank the newspapers and all others who have made use of these weekly reports — and extend to everyone my very best wishes for a very MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR! THE BOOTLEG — Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his hindwood farm has suddenly found out it's Christmas time, his letter reveals.

Dear editor:

I saw a man carrying a turkey the other day and I stopped him and said, "Well, getting ready for Thanksgiving, eh?" and he said, Thanksgiving? Thanksgiving was last month. This is for Christmas."

It can't be, I thought, too early for Christmas, hasn't been long since the last one, but I came on home and tore off August, September, October and November from my calendar — by doing this job every four months instead of every month you cut your work by a third; some people don't know what automation is, why take twelve times to do what you can do in three? — and checked the date against the date on a newspaper I found in my favorite ditch out here and sure enough, Christmas is right upon us.

Since I saw I couldn't do anything about it I picked up that newspaper and right off ran into an article saying Christmas has become too commercialized, all this gift-buying has gotten out of hand, we ought to return to the old-fashion type Christmas.

Then I got to thinking. Gift-giving at Christmas time has a fairly respectable history, if you go back to the original presents of myrrh and frankincense.

When people talk about going back to the old-fashion type Christmas, they mean the Christmas of 50 to 75 years ago, but you try giving a boy a string of popcorn and a roasted apple instead of a bicycle and see how far you get. Try riding over the hill to grandpaw's farm in a sleigh and you'll tie up traffic for miles back of you. Try singing carols outside somebody's house and you'll find he's getting a better quality of singing on his record player or T.V.

Times change, but I have a notion that underneath all the frenzied shopping and gift-wrapping the spirit of Christmas generally comes through still intact.

If you haven't figured out yet what to get me, you still have time. The Hereford stores are still open. Yours faithfully, J. A.

SLEDDING seemed to be the most logical recreation for Sunday fun as this family romped merrily in Hereford's first big snow. Even the family dog likes to get in on the fun. City police have urged residents not to pull sleds with a moving vehicle, however, as it constitutes a traffic hazard and quickly leads to injury.

90 Motorists Will Die In Holidays

Santa's sleigh may be the safest vehicle around this holiday season from all indications. The Texas Department of Public Safety predicts that 55 motorists will lose their lives on Texas highways during the Christmas holidays which will begin at 6 p. m. on Friday, and end at 11 p. m. on Monday. Another 45 are predicted to lose their lives during the New Year holidays which begin at 6 p. m. on Friday, Dec. 29, and end at 11:59 p. m. on Monday, Jan. 1, 1968.

The following tips from Southwestern Insurance Information Service, Inc., of Austin can help make this holiday season happier for your friends and loved ones and at the same time, help cut down on this tragic loss of lives.

First of all, make sure your car is safe. No driver can consider himself a safe driver if the car he drives is not safe. Mechanical failures and human errors are the two major causes of highway accidents.

Next, obey all traffic laws. Between 90 and 95 percent of all traffic accidents occur because someone thought they could get away with breaking some well-established and recognized safety rule. This year saw Texas take a giant step forward by passing new and needed traffic laws, but what good are laws if motorists don't abide by them.

Leave your bottle at home over the holidays. If you do drink, sober up before getting behind the wheel. Sure, the holidays are a time for fun and relaxation. For many, this included the use of alcoholic beverages. Don't forget that in order to enjoy this festive season, there is one vital ingredient — life! Over 50 percent of all traffic deaths occur because someone mixed alcohol with an already deadly weapon — the automobile.

If you're planning an out-of-state trip, be sure and check on

Concerning Veterans

Veterans of the Viet-Nam era, who served after August 4, 1964, are being discharged from active duty at the rate of 67,000 a month, according to the Veterans Administration.

Veterans on the VA pension rolls who are so seriously disabled that they need regular aid and attendance are eligible to receive $100 a month in addition to their pension, according to the Veterans Administration.

Three quarters of a million veterans receive hospital treatment each year in the 166 Veterans Administration Hospitals.

Widows on the VA pension rolls who are so seriously disabled that they need regular aid and attendance may receive $50 a month in addition to their pension, according to the Veterans Administration.

Widows of deceased veterans now qualify for pensions from the Veterans Administration if their marriage had a duration of one year, or if a child was born to the couple, the Veterans Administration announces.

There was a record 26 million veterans in civil life in the United States at the end of 1967, the Veterans Administration announced.

Veterans and their survivors received a total of $4.4 billion in compensation and pension checks during 1967, the Veterans Administration estimates.

The Veterans Administration plans to provide intensive care units for critically ill patients in more VA hospitals. This includes special facilities in private rooms for cardiac patients.

During 1967 veterans made an estimated 6,435,000 visits to VA clinics and to private physicians on an approved fee basis for outpatient medical care, according to the Veterans Administration. This was a record number of treatments for a single year.

During 1967 Servicemen's Group Life Insurance administered by commercial insurance companies supplied $36 billion worth of life insurance protection to 3.6 million servicemen at minimal cost, according to the Veterans Administration. The U.S. Government paid the cost of the extra hazardous risk.

The 166 Veterans Administration hospitals are affiliated with 76 of the nation's 88 medical schools in a partnership that provides better medical care for veterans and helps to train half the nation's new doctors in 20 fields of medicine.

During the past fiscal year an average 113,000 volunteers served 8.8 million hours each month in the 166 VA hospitals from coast to coast, according to the Veterans Administration Voluntary Service Director.

World War II veterans who have not already used their eligibility for G.I. loans and whose individual eligibility has not expired are reminded that the final cutoff date for their participation in the G.I. loan program has been extended until June 25, 1970.

Area Agronomist Placed In Amarillo

COLLEGE STATION — Dr. Frank C. Petr (pronounced Peter), on January 1, 1968 will become area agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with headquarters in Amarillo. The area includes Extension District 1, which encompasses Deaf Smith County.

In making the announcement, Extension Director John E. Hutchison, said because of the increasing demands for assistance on the area staff at Lubbock, much of it from the Panhandle section, the new position was created to place a capable agronomist within the district.

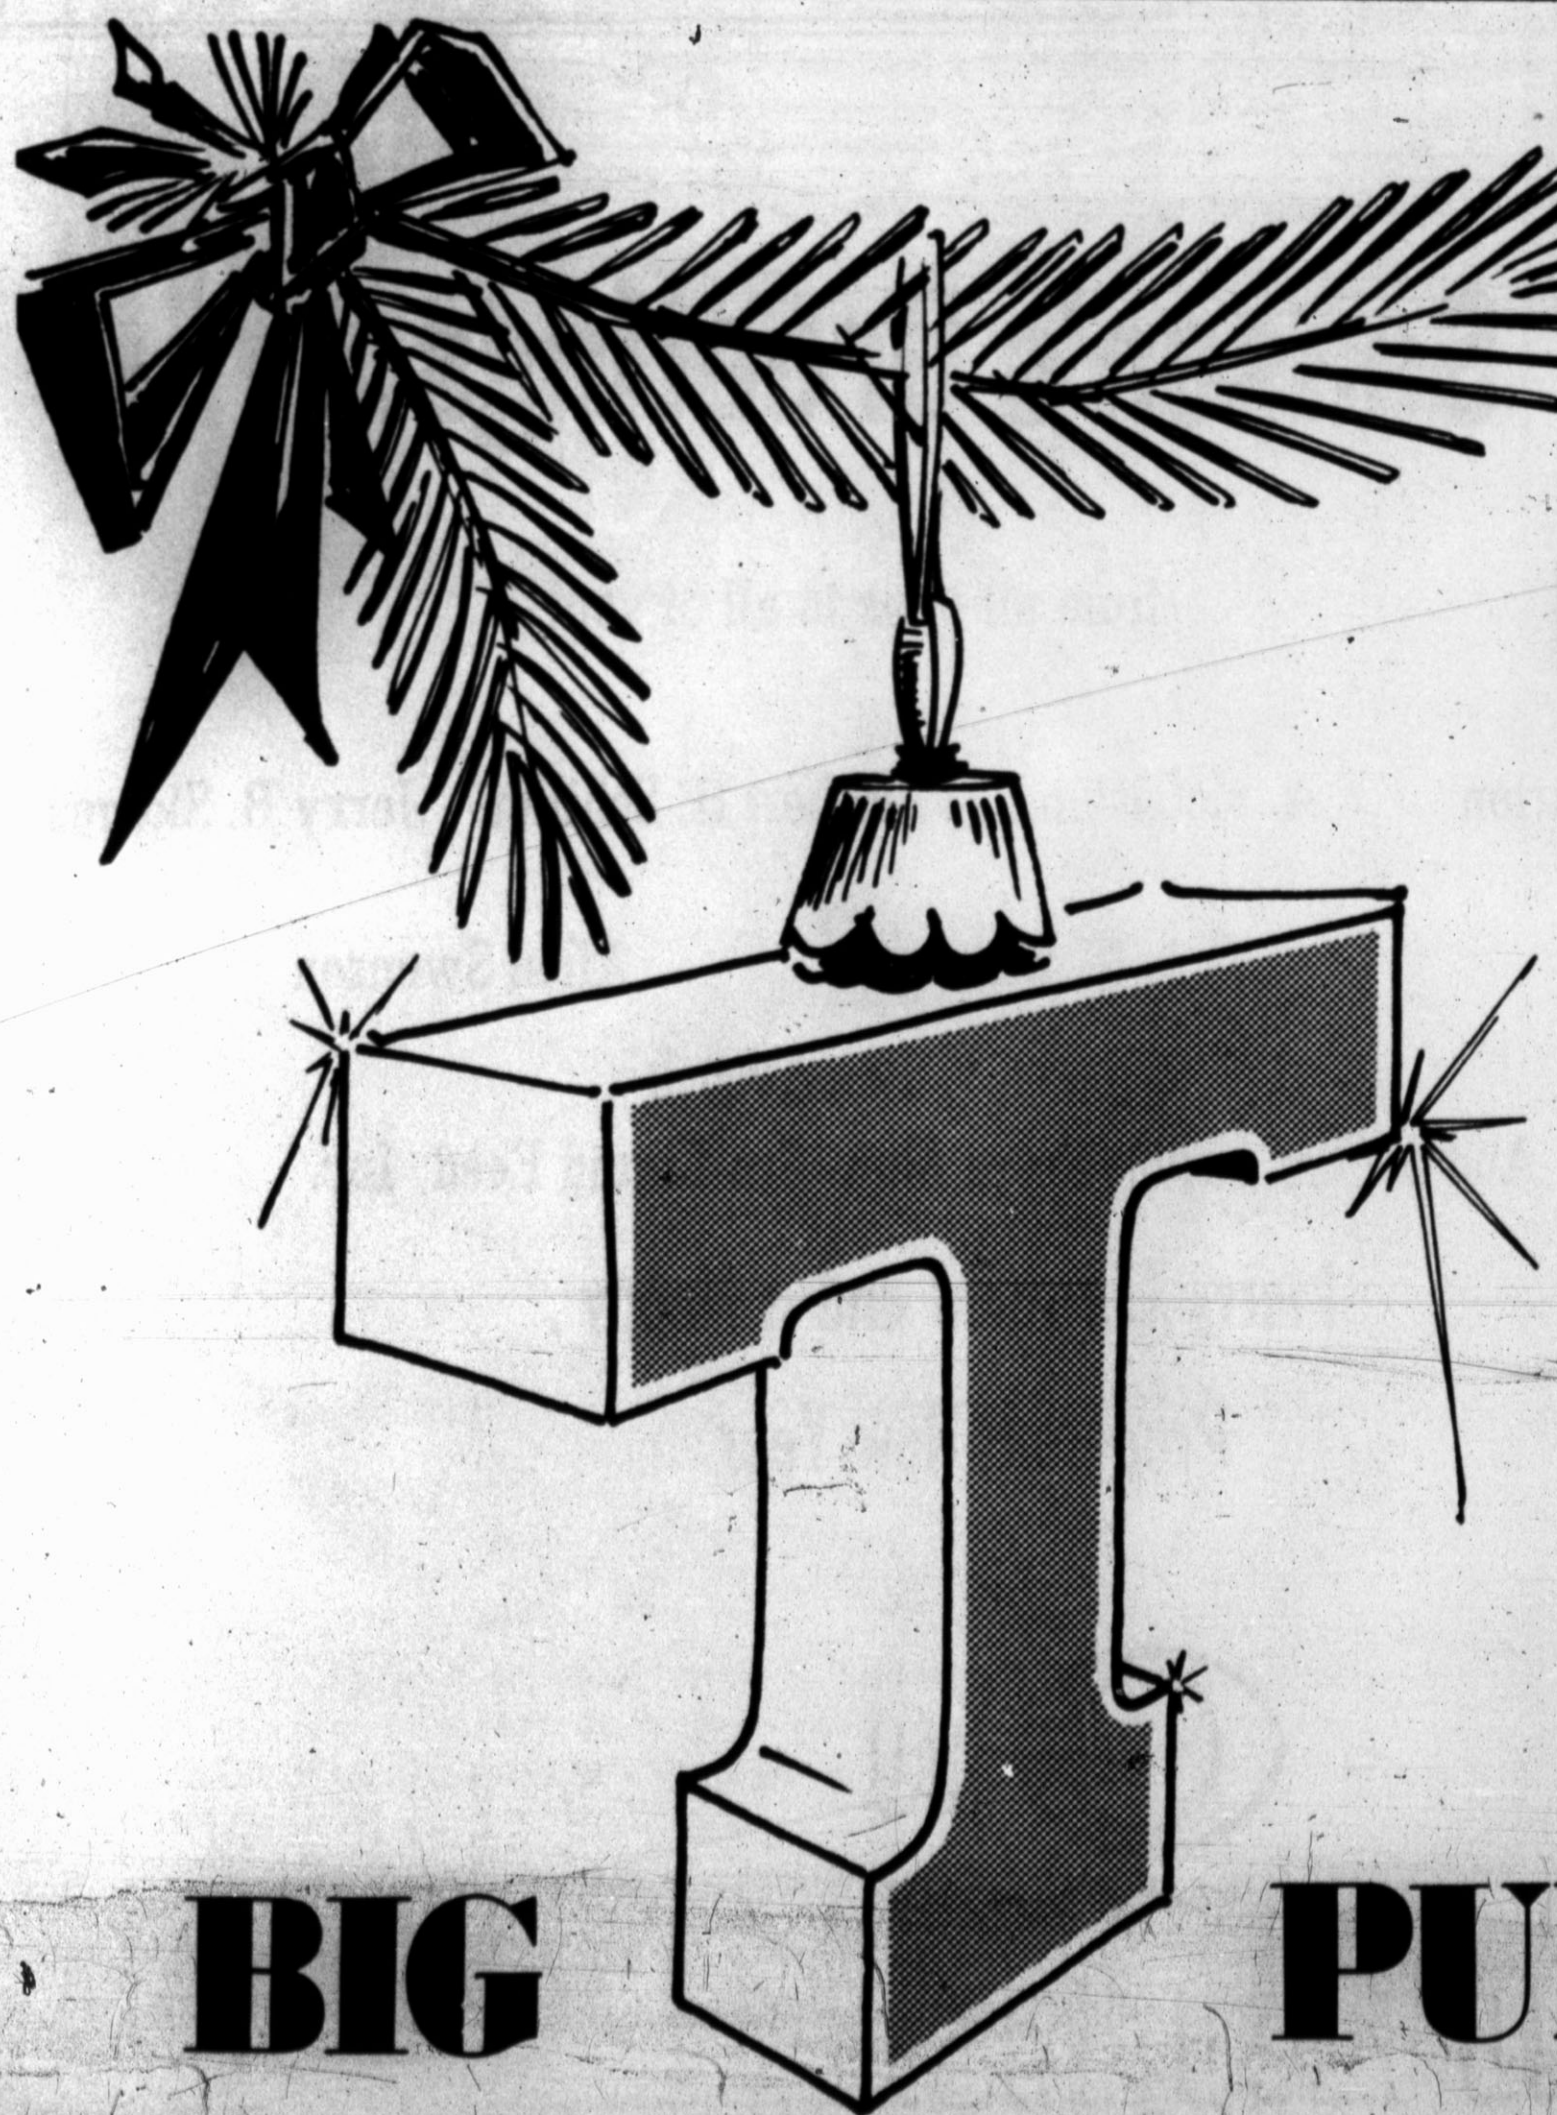

Hutchison said Petr will work closely with the county agents of the district on educational programs dealing with the important agronomic crops of the area and will be responsible for providing the training needed to keep them up to date on subject matter. He will also assist the agents with their result demonstration programs and other area specialists and research personnel with current and planned programs.

The new specialist is a native of Montana and grew up on a dryland wheat farm. He was an outstanding FFA member during his youth and was awarded the State Farmer degree. He holds both B.S. and M.S. degrees from Montana State University in agronomy and the Ph. D. degree from Iowa State University with a major in crop breeding and minors in genetics and plant pathology.

He served in the U. S. Army during World War II with two years of service in Europe. He and Mrs. Petr are the parents of three children and he is a member of the American Society of Agronomy and Sigma Xi.

Petr served as an instructor in the Agronomy Department at MSU for four years, and since 1953 has been a research agronomist in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service, Field Crops Branch at Aberdeen, Idaho. His primary work was with small grains.

Guarantees On Manufactured Products May Be Restricted

Washington, D. C. — Government paternalism will advance several more notches in 1968 if two key Senators succeed in gaining passage of new legislation imposing stringent restrictions covering guarantees and warranties on manufactured products.

Senator Warren G. Magnuson (D., Wash.) has been on a consumer kick for several years and introduced six consumer bills in 1967. Last of them is the proposed Guarantee Disclosure and Product Servicing Act of 1968. This bill has been referred to the Senate Commerce Committee, which Magnuson heads, so a friendly hearing is assured.

The guarantee bill is co-sponsored by another well-placed Senate veteran, Senator Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.). The 90-year-old dean of the Senate is Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which will be called upon to provide the $2 million authorized by the Magnuson-Hayden bill.

Senator Magnuson said there is "angry and profound consumer dissatisfaction" with "incomplete, misleading, or confusing disclosure of the terms and conditions of guarantees, and the inadequate servicing of manufactured products, both under guarantee agreements and under customary service contracts."

His bill of indictment against makers of such items as automobiles and household appliances is that products are often defective and the manufacturer refuses to repair or replace them, that defects are not remedied despite frequent trips to repair shops, that prices for minor repairs are exorbitant, that guarantees do not cover "significant parts of a product's mechanism", and that the manufacturer always wins in any dispute over coverage of a guarantee.

Stiff Penalties Provided
The Magnuson-Hayden Bill spells out all the terms and conditions that would be required on tags on guaranteed products, directs the Federal Trade Commission to develop a set of abbreviated descriptions of different types of guarantees, and requires manufacturers who advertise guarantees to use such descriptions in advertising.

Enforcement terms are extremely tough. FTC would be empowered to obtain a court injunction to stop any alleged violation, even before the accused had been found guilty by FTC or a court. Penalties would range up to a fine of $10,000 for each violation. If a retailer removed a guarantee tag from any product, he could be fined $5,000 or sent to jail for six months, or both.

Title II of the bill would establish an Advisory Council on Guarantees, Warranties, and Servicing. This would be a five-member group appointed by the President, with broad powers to investigate "the adequacy of performance" of guarantees, the methods of resolving disputes over them, and "the extent of the difficulty in securing competent servicing of mechanical and electrical products".

The Council would make a two-year, $2 million study, submit its recommendations to Congress, then go out of business. Among the collateral issues to be covered by the Council are the manufacturer's payments to its dealers for performing warranty work and the difficulty in attracting skilled and competent mechanics and repairmen.

Package Includes 3 Bills
Two other bills are included in the package, both introduced by Senator Hayden with Senator Magnuson as co-sponsor. One sets Federal standards for automobile warranties and car dealer franchisees. The other is similar but applies to household appliances, such as TV sets, refrigerators and stoves. Both would make warranties mandatory and establish the terms by government fiat.

The Secretary of Commerce would be directed to make a comprehensive investigation of each auto factory at least once a year, to determine quality control measures, and with authority to order corrective measures. The appliance bill does not call for factory inspections, but is otherwise similar.

These bills are hardly calculated to win praise from the Automobile Manufacturers Association or the National Electrical Manufacturers Association. When the government tells a producer he must guarantee

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

It is a local draft board's responsibility, under law and regulations, to decide, subject to appeal, the case in which each man registered with it shall be placed.

Each man is considered as available for military service until his eligibility for deferment or exemption from military service is clearly established to the satisfaction of the local board.

The board is obligated to receive all pertinent information on classification presented to it, says Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state draft director.

Mailing or giving a classification questionnaire to a man is notice to him by his local board that he will be classified in I-A, unless information is furnished within the time specified for return of the questionnaire which will justify his deferment or exemption.

Unless the local board gives him added time, the man must return the questionnaire filled out within 10 days from date it was mailed or handed to him. The state draft director points to this paragraph in the Selective Service regulations which the board must always keep in mind:

"In classifying a registrant there shall be no discrimination for or against him because of his race, creed, or color, or because of his membership or activity in any labor, political, religious, or other organization. Each such registrant shall receive equal justice."

Editor's note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 200 W. Ninth Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q — My son writes that his local board has refused to permit him to appeal to the President. Why is this?

A — An appeal to the President is not permitted in any case. If the decision of a state appeal board is unanimous, the individual does not have a right of appeal to the President. The state director of Selective Service for the state in which the man's local board is located, the state director of Selective Service for the state in which the appeal board is located, or the national director of Selective Service are authorized to make further appeal in such cases if they consider it appropriate. The local board does not have authority to take such action.

Comings and Goings at King's Manor

By ANNA BLAKE

Manor Hostess
December has always been a happy, gala month on the Kings Manor complex. Early this month the Hereford Garden Club, assisted by the Junior Club, decorated the halls and made pretty candle arrangements for tables in the dining area.

As is their custom, they gave the Manor residents a regular party when the decorating was completed.

THE AFTERNOON of Dec 3 some 15 or 20 members of Forrest Heights Methodist Church of Lubbock came a-visiting. They visited friends and former members of that church. They brought sack snacks for supper, and drinks were served to them by staff members under supervision of Mrs. Manson Waits. That evening the visitors presented a short program climaxed by a devotional period. Mr. Lee was a splendid M.C.

Some of the residents in the cottages entertained with a tea before going on vacations for the month of December.

WESTGATE, THE nursing unit, was decorated this year by Ralph and James Waits. From the results, we conclude it was not their first try at "decking the halls" and the Christmas tree.

Many Hereford residents are remembering the Manor with carols, treats and wonderful programs befitting the season.

RESIDENTS AND STAFF

Kings Manor held their annual Christmas party Dec. 15. The program revealed hidden talents, and Mrs. Don Davidson was an able master of ceremonies.

Mary Helen Fisher, activities director, proved that her voice was certainly not scarce as she and her swinging sextet brought the house down. Mrs. Joseph B. Williams will probably be hearing from major band leaders when word gets out that we have musical talent to spare.

Our department of drama was introduced under the capable direction of the Rev. Dor Davidson, who played the lead in a one-act production "Crossing The Railroad". Mrs. Ola Davis co-starred as the wife. Clara Fry, Jane Hughes and Orlando Wilder as the children. We were so sorry the talent scouts were absent because of inclement weather.

The Manson Waits family did a rendition of "You Can't Roller Skate in a Buffalo Herd" which might cause the Four Seasons to take notice.

Christmas gifts were distributed by James and Ralph Waits and refreshments were served by Mmes. Fisher, Waits, Bethany Williams and Byrdie Fellers.

GIRL SCOUTS from Bovine brought an interesting program lately, with pretty table arrangements and refreshments to make a part of it.

Red Cross Youth of LaPlata Junior High under direction of Mrs. O. Wertemberger, art teacher, made decorations for the residents' rooms at Westgate. Several residents from the complex enjoyed the Christmas play, "The Star in the Window" directed by Mrs. Joel Hodge when it was presented the afternoon of Dec. 13 in LaPlata auditorium.

A group from Casa de Amigos visited and sang Christmas carols at Westgate recently.

THE CUB SCOUTS sponsored by the Lions Club presented a flag to Westgate in a recent ceremony, and sang carols.

Last Monday night the Antonion Circle from St. Anthony's Catholic Church sponsored a play, "Heaven Was Never Like This", by pupils of seventh and eighth grades in St. Anthony's school. Some 45 youngsters under the direction of Sister Aquinas gave us an entertainment that will leave pleasant memories for a long time.

A wide band of the scalloped lace bordered the A-line skirt and the spreading chapel train. A Brussels lace mantilla was held by a white velvet bow above her forehead, and fell to the floor in the back, rounding over the very full folds of the train. She carried a bouquet of white spider mums.

Miss Patricia Lane of San Benito was maid of honor and Miss Karolyn Pluger of Pflugerville the bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaids were the bridegroom's cousin, Miss Cecilia Reinauer of Hereford, and Miss Susan Strandmann of Austin.

They were attired in identically styled gowns of moss green crepe, of elegantly simple cut with scoop-neckline, short sleeves banded with Venise lace and back interest in the mock train, also bordered with the lace, which fell from the waistline.

Bridemaids' bouquets were cascades of deep pink carnations and holly.

Ushers were Ensign Jerry Powell, Lt. J-g Clint Coneway, Midshipman P. L. Beeler and the bridegroom's cousin, Eddy Reinauer Jr.

Price Ends First Year In Congress, Now Is More Effective, Has "Savy"

By KENNETH SCHEIBEL
 WASHINGTON — Back in Pampa, Tex., Bob Price determined to do something about this nation's perplexing problems. But when he arrived in Congress as the newly elected Republican from the 18th District, he found that it's a lot tougher job than he imagined. Price has learned a lot on the job in his first year in Congress. Uppermost is the fact that it takes time and patience to get action on Capitol Hill. What Price says in so many words is that many newly elected lawmakers conclude after a tough year on the job — that things seem simpler viewed from afar. Price chatted in his office about his first year in Washington: "You just can't get things done overnight," he said. "There is so much that goes in to making laws — even to Bob Price change things one little bit." The 18th District lawmaker obviously has matured under fire during the first half of his term. He was asked what impresses him most about his service in Congress. He said candidly, "the enormous problems of this country — how complex, vast and interwoven they are." The 46 year-old-Texas rancher-turned-lawmaker has concluded that no matter how hard Congress works to be fair to all Americans, some inequities do exist. "What helps one person may hurt another," he said. Like his colleagues in the House of Representatives, Price is overwhelmed with material to study on the problems confronting Congress. He often puts in a 16-hour day on the job, but even that is not enough to keep up with everything. "I have to rely on my staff. They have been invaluable, and I couldn't have done much without them," he said.

Price's greatest pleasure so far has been in mixing with other members of Congress. Each has a different background. "They have all come here under different circumstances. It affects their outlook." His biggest disappointment is "the length of time it takes to get legislation through Congress." Another is the fact that he can't spend more time with his family. For a freshman lawmaker, Price hasn't done badly with legislation. He resisted the urge to toss a flock of bills in the hopper which probably would have gone to a dusty pigeon-hole. Instead, he selected certain problem areas to concentrate on. He won approval of two amendments in a meat inspection bill to discourage meat imports. One of these was later defeated after meat importers became alarmed. Several bills Price introduced to cosponsored have been passed by the House. These include a ban on Egyptian cotton imports, one to allow advance loan payments to wheat producers and an anti-riot bill. His name is also on several anti-crime bills sponsored by the Republican Task Force on Crime to which he was appointed. He has testified in hearings, introduced a bill and made several floor speeches on oil imports which he wants limited and has defended the industry's he made his point. After a year in Congress, Bob Price of Pampa, Tex., has picked up lots of political "savvy." He's more knowledgeable, articulate and effective than when he arrived a scant 12 months ago. And knowing he can't do everything all at once, he's more realistic, too.

Buff Cagers To Be Idle Until Jan. 4

CANYON — West Texas State's basketball team, now enjoying a respite from action and waiting for star Simmie Hill's tonsilectomy operation to heal, is showing scoring punch statistically but a lack of defense.

Coach Dennis Walling's Buffs return to the hardwood Jan. 4 when they play host to the University of Albuquerque Dons in the WT Fieldhouse. Tipoff is set for 8 p.m.

The Buffs' 6-4 All-America candidate, Hill, was to have undergone an operation Dec. 22 and have his tonsils removed. But instead, he had them removed Monday morning at 11:30. His tonsils have kept him ailing through the first three games.

This serves as bad news for Buff opposition. For as sick as the slick operating 210-pounder was, he still has managed to sack up a 28.3 scoring average through the three games, playing only portions of most of them.

Hill, who was a junior college All-American at Cameron State and whose reputation is growing by leaps and bounds, has hit 85 points in three games, averaged 11 rebounds per game and is getting better than 52 per cent from the field and 79 per cent from the line.

His field percentage is amazing considering he has had as many as four defensive players sagging on his at times. There never has been less than two defenders on him.

Mike Mitchell is second in scoring for the Buffs with 19.5 in two of the three games. He is getting near 54 per cent of his field shots from a guard position.

Two other Buffaloes are scoring in doubles, Maurice (Mo) Savage at 10.3 and Lonnie Speck at 10 even. Gail Rhine, the fifth starter, is but fractional points away with a 9.3 mean. Savage is second in the rebounding department with 9.3.

WT has hit .467 per cent of its field attempts while the opposition has been clipping away at a .527 mark. The Buffs have been outscored but five goals, but lag in the charity department by 17, 76-59. And both WT

Pioneer Natural Gas Awards Large Construction Contracts

Contracts totaling approximately $4 million dollars for three major pipeline construction projects were awarded Thursday by Pioneer Natural Gas Company. Work on all three jobs will start immediately. Successful bidder on all three contracts was The Great Plains Construction Company of Lubbock.

Scheduled for completion by March 1 of next year is 15 miles of 12-3/4 inch pipe connecting with the high pressure main line at New Deal and extending west to Shallowater to provide additional gas supplies for the towns northwest of Lubbock.

Second of the three projects involved is a loop-line around Lubbock extending from 82nd Street and Quirt Avenue east and north to a point near New Deal. This line, scheduled for completion about March 15, will tie into the 15 mile line mentioned above.

The line around Lubbock will be 21 miles of 20-inch pipe, and it will replace a similar amount of 10-inch line. The new 20-inch line will have more than five and one-half times the capacity of the line it replaces.

The advent of these two new lines in the Lubbock area will permit Pioneer to take advantage of newly acquired gas reserves in the Delaware Basin to insure an increased volume of gas to take care of added industrial, residential and irrigation customers in these areas.

Pioneer has purchased a six-acre site for a new compressor station four miles north of the Lubbock Municipal Airport. While this isn't part of the current contract letting, construction of compressor installations is planned for 1969.

The third portion of the three-part contract awarded today involves 77 miles of 12-3/4 inch pipe being built to serve the Elexor Chemical Corporation's Suphur Recovery Plant in Culberson County. This line will originate just north of Mobil Oil Company's Waha Plant in Ward County and extend west through Reeves County to a point northeast of Van Horn, Texas, in Culberson County. Pioneer's engineers estimate that this project will be completed July 1, 1968.

We're sending you a bouquet of good wishes and cheer for the holiday season. May your Christmas be bright.

and the opposition has been whistled down 71 times which means the Buffs are missing out the one-and-one situations. The Buffs lead the foes in rebounding, 129-113 or an average of 43 to 37.7 per game. The Buffs were to have played Abilene Christian last Saturday but bad weather forced postponement. The two schools have not set a rematch date.

Concerning Veterans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I am attending school on a half-time basis under the new G. I. Bill. My wife and I are expecting our first child in approximately two months. What should I do to obtain increased training allowance from the date of the child's birth?

A — You should notify VA immediately when the child is born. Benefits will be payable from that date, if you submit a copy of the child's birth certificate within one year.

Q — I was married in 1963. My husband was a veteran of World War II. Approximately two years later he died. Shortly thereafter I made application for widow's pension. However, the VA disallowed the claim because we had not been married for five years and had no children. Has there been any change in the law? If there has been a change, is it too late to file a new claim?

A — The Veterans Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act of 1967, which became effective Oct. 1, 1967, has reduced the five-year requirement to one year. You should apply again for widow's pension. It is not too late.

Q — I presently receive educational assistance from the VA under a program known as the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. My father was killed in military service. I am to be married soon. Will this terminate my entitlement to this benefit?

A — No. Marriage does not affect your entitlement to educational assistance as the child of a man killed or permanently disabled as a result of his service in the armed forces.

Miss Bernard Married To Michael Thurber

Miss Katherine Nell Barnard, member of a family associated with the early history of Hereford, exchanged marriage vows Friday evening with Michael George Thurber of New Orleans, in the sanctuary of First Methodist Church.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barnard, 212 Avenue B, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jesse Stanford, 507 West Fourth. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. George A. Thurber of New Orleans.

The Rev. Clifford Trotter, pastor of the church, read the double ring marriage service for the couple, both students in Texas Tech University. Her father gave the bride in marriage.

Flanked by three spiral candelabra with sunbursts of emerald foliage, the altar was centered with white gladiolas and mums.

Mrs. Jim Defoyd of Houston was her cousin's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sally Bartew of Houston, Mrs. Steve Gilbert of Amarillo, Mrs. James Zuris of Dallas, Mrs. Wylie James of Long Beach, Calif. and Miss Anita Pratt of Fort Worth. Little Miss Katherine Defoyd of Houston was the flower girl.

Attending the bridegroom were his father as best man, John Chatelaine of New Orleans, Donald C. Smith of Fort Worth, Gary Loden of Dallas, Mike Bivin of Lubbock and the bride's brother, Charles Barnard, as groomsmen.

Serving as ushers were Steve Coneway, Terry Caviness, Jim Kassahn, David Block, Allen Williams of Dallas and Mike Campbell of Amarillo.

Wedding music held a touch of sentiment in the solo, Oh Fair, O Sweet, O Holy, Sung by Mrs. R.C. Godwin with Mrs. Bill Stanford of Plainview, aunt of the bride, as organ accompanist.

It was a song heard at the wedding of the bride's grandparents on Dec. 30, 1913, when Miss Nellie Black married W. Jesse Stanford at the same church, although not the same building, in the same location.

Mrs. Godwin also sang Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee (Gounod) and Mrs. Stanford played an organ prelude and the traditional marches.

Designed and fashioned by her mother, the bride's gown was of snowflake peau de soie with shaped back hemline, fitted waist, a yoke and elbow sleeves of Alencan lace. A chapel train attached at the back was edged with lace scallops re-embroidered with seed pearls.

Over her blonde hair was a lace mantilla loaned by a cousin who bought it in Brussels and wore it in her own wedding. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses and stephanotis. As "something old" she wore a ring which belonged to the bridegroom's grandmother.

Her attendants were dressed in pink chiffon over crepe, floor length, with fitted bodice and trimmed with a single bow matching a hair bow. They carried nosegays of pink carnations. The flower girl's frock was of crisp white faille and she wore a bow with streamers in her hair.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnard were hosts at a reception after the ceremony, at Hereford Country Club. Mrs. Stanford served the wedding cake and Misses Paullette Gavin of Vernon, Jeanene Edwards of Lubbock, Lynn Steigerwald of Dallas and Barbara Baugh of Fort Worth were in the houseparty.

Two semi-circular tables were placed end-to-end with a tall column between them, holding a silver candelabra, white mums and snapdragons. Smilax garlands circled the tables and wind about the column and the pink nosegays at the edge of the tables.

The wedding cake, four tiered, topped with spun-sugar bells and surrounded at the base by pink sugar roses, was placed on one table and the silver punch bowl on the other.

Leaving on a wedding trip, Mrs. Thurber was wearing a rose knit dress and matching coat accessorized in black patent. Her corsage was of roses from her wedding bouquet. After January 1 the couple will be at home at 4405-20th, Lubbock.

The bride is to receive her degree in home economics education from Tech in January. She is a graduate of Hereford High School, and her sorority is Chi Omega. Thurber, a graduate of St. Mark's Episcopal School in New Orleans, will continue studies at Tech next semester.

Out-of-city guests of the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Black of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Bartew of Houston, Misses Rahna McKey, Diane Dunn and Janette Cunningham of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Crew and Mrs.

Party Series Precedes Wedding Of The Weekend

A prelude to the Friday evening wedding of Miss Kaki Barnard and Mike Thurber, several parties including wedding party members and out-of-town guests as honorees, ended a series of courtesies for the couple since the engagement was announced early last month.

The bridesmaids luncheon at Hereford Country Club had the bride's mother, Mrs. Richard Barnard, and her grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Stanford, as hostesses. Tables were decorated in pink and white, the wedding colors.

In addition to the bridesmaids, guests were the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. George Thurber of New Orleans, and Mrs. Bill Stanford of Plainview, the bride's aunt.

The George Thurbers were hosts for the rehearsal dinner in the Country Club Thursday evening, when the couple presented mementoes to their respective attendants.

Music was by Ben Gollehon's combo. Dinner was served at quartet tables, each centered with a bouquet of white mums and white dove figurines.

Mr. and Mrs. George Warner, assisted by Mrs. Sue James, entertained the wedding party, the reception house-party and other guests from out of town at a buffet supper Wednesday evening in the Warner home.

Tiny squares of cream cheese may be added to scrambled eggs just before the eggs have finished cooking. The cheese gives delicate and delicious flavor.

Thin French pancakes (crepes) may be made and stored in the freezer. The pancakes may be used, stuffed with a creamy

Voters Can Use Registration Form

Only 1855 Deaf Smith County residents had registered by Thursday for voting in the 1968 elections, according to the county tax office.

Mrs. Nell Miller, county tax assessor-collector, states that the deadline for registration is Jan. 31, but urges all residents to register as soon as possible.

Mrs. Miller has provided the Brand with a copy of the voters registration certification so that those unable to make the trip to the office may register to vote.

Instructions are to fill in each necessary detail on the printed form, cut it out of the paper and mail it to the address in the lower left hand corner of the certificate.

Anyone over 60 years of age wishing to vote in the upcoming elections must register. Since the poll tax has been abolished, there is no fee for registration.

Registration in person must be made by the applicant himself, his father, mother, wife (or husband), son or daughter.

Museum Open Only By Appointment

This Saturday and Sunday the Deaf Smith County Museum will be open only by appointment, officials have announced.

Appointments may be arranged by calling Bill Hacker at 364-3228.

C of C Tickets Selling Slowly

Only 27 tickets have been sold so far to the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Banquet which is set for the evening of January 18th, said to Bill Thompson, Chamber Manager, in a report to the Brand Thursday morning.

A total of 800 tickets were printed for the event, which will feature Miss Marilyn Van Derbur as guest speaker. Tickets were placed on sale Dec. 11, and Thompson urges that they be bought as soon as possible in anticipation of a sell-out event.

Rev Eugene Naugle, a retired Methodist minister residing at King's Manor, bought the first ticket sold, which was number 11, and has the distinction of having been the first person to buy a ticket of the last five years. He has also bought the same numbered ticket for each year.

FOUL-WATER FISHING

How often have you decided against going fishing because of reports of muddy water? It's a natural reaction, especially this time of year when rains whisk silt down the rivers and into lakes. For many, fishing comes to a standstill.

However, muddy water should be no real deterrent, says the fishing experts at Mercury outboards. It simply calls for a change in tactics, switching to a style of fishing that is particularly suited to cloudy water conditions.

Remember, fish use senses other than sight when feeding, so, like fishing at night, work on the idea that you should offer a bass something he can hear, smell and taste when you fish the murky waters.

Natural baits such as minnows, crawfish or a gob of worms will attract feeding fish, regardless of conditions. To make it even more noticeable, attach a cork carved into a concave shape about two feet up from the hook. When this cork and bait are cast, a loud "plop" reverberates through the water. This rig can be either cast or jigged up and down briskly with a long cane pole, and with surprising results.

To locate fish, try to cover as much water as possible by cruising slowly, but steadily, along the shoreline. Carefully work around stumps and rocks where fish are almost certain to be, and look for spots where the muddy water is just starting to clear. Give this a try; it's a method that might become your favorite.
