Tax Bill Wins House Approval

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A "tax relief" bill described in terms of both Robin Hood and the Prodigal Son has won preliminary House approval.

House members gave up lunch Thursday and worked to mid-afternoon to advance the bill, which will come up again on Monday for final passage. That would send it to the Senate.

The measure HB1060 enacts all the optional provisions of the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment and provides more than $430 million in state tax dollars to offset property tax cuts school districts must grant.

The Tax Relief Amendment automatically exempted $5,000 of the market value of owner-occupied homes from school property taxes. It left implementation of its other features to the Legislature.

Key provisions of the bill approved Thursday would:

-Grant the disabled and those 65 and over a $10,000 homestead exemption, in addition to the mandated $5,000 exemption; and freeze school taxes of the elderly at their present levels.

-Exempt two cars or light trucks per family from property taxes.

-Limit increases in state spending to the percentage of growth of Texans' total personal income.

-Exempt intangible property such as stocks, bonds and bank accounts from taxation, except for the handful of intangibles already taxed - chiefly bank stock.

-Tax farm, ranch and timber land - both family-owned and corporately-owned - according to its crop-producing capacity, not its market value. Taxable value would be estimated net income divided by either 10 percent or the Houston Federal Land Bank's interest rate plus 2 1/2 percent, whichever was greater. If the "capitalization rate" was 10 percent, an acre that could produce a $30 average annual profit would be valued at $300 for taxation.

-Omit intangible property from the measurement of school district wealth that is used to determine how much state aid each district would receive - a step considered essential to avoid ruinous cuts in aid to big city schools.

-Use state tax money to reimburse school districts for revenue losses resulting from property tax cuts mandated by the Tax Relief Amendment and the implementing bill.

Automobile tax losses, minus each district's collection costs, would be reimbursed only for the first year and are estimated at $17 million.

Junior college district revenue losses caused by the change from market value to agricultural value also would be reimbursed, although nobody knows the amount.

School districts whose level of property appraisals for taxation fell below the state average would receive 90 percent of their losses. Some 300 districts that are above the state average could receive more than they actually lost if enough money is available to pay them more than dollar for dollar.

Estimated cost of school district reimbursement is $415 million for the next two years.

Reimbursement was the most controversial issue and received the closest count in Thursday's article-by-article vote on the bill, 81-48.

A largely rural and small town group of lawmakers tried several times Wednesday and Thursday to eliminate the reward-and-punishment aspect of reimbursement.

Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman, attempted to put reimbursement on a strict dollar-for-dollar basis, but lost, 74-57.

"Have you ever heard of Robin Hood, who took from the rich to give to the poor?" asked Rep. Buck Florence, D-Hughes Springs.

"I read it five times when I was a child," Bush said.

"Well, isn't this like Robin Hood in reverse, where you rob from the poor school districts and give to the rich?" Florence asked.

"It seems like they are doing that to your school district, Mr. Florence," Bush said.

In Bush's home county, the Sherman school district would receive almost $43,000 less than it would lose from homestead exemptions because its appraisals are below the state average ratio to true market value - 58 percent compared with the statewide average of 68 percent. But Denison Independent

Patman, Price Say Bill Hurts Farmers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Which is a worse risk - low interest rates that could dry up the loan money market or high rates that might make consumer borrowing difficult?

Senators opted for second possible scenario Thursday in approving legislation that would raise the interest rate limit from 10 percent to 18 percent on non-mortgage loans of $175,000 or more.

"I'm deeply concerned about the plight of the small businessmen and farmers and ranchers in this state," said Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado. "We're just going to authorize them (banks) to hang these folks."

The bill by Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, advanced to the House on a 21-8 Senate vote.

Debate was a replay of Wednesday's session when Harris agreed to raise the loan floor from $100,000 to $175,000 after Patman threatened to filibuster.

Patman said families will be hurt by Harris' bill and separate legislation to raise mortgage loan interest charges from 10 percent to 12 percent.

Harris said lenders cannot acquire funds on the national market with Texas current 10 percent usury limit.

The 18 percent interest ceiling now applies only to loans of $500,000 or more.

Sen. E.L. Short, D-Tahoka, disputed Patman's claim that lower interest rates would help rural Texans.

"Well, regardless of the interest charged, we'd like to have a way for these people (Texas residents) to buy land," said Short, a West Texas rancher.

"The provision here is a good one to permit some money to flow through the market place," he continued.

"Just let the farmers and ranchers get exposed to high interest rates, let them suffer losses and suffer a depression," Patman answered. "Then they'll be forced to mortgage off their farms and ranches."

Another West Texas senator sided with Patman.

"I've got calls from farming and ranch folks this morning who told me, 'We're afraid if you raise these interest rates the little guy's going to get cut out of the market,'" said Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa.

If banks can charge 18 percent on loans of $175,000 and above, they will be

Gerald McCathern of Hereford, wagonmaster for the tractorcade, claims Ag Secretary Bob Bergland and other Washington officials are "just trying to make the farmers look bad." He noted that first damage estimates were around $2.5 million and are now down to about $500,000.

Referring to Bergland's appeal for farmers to contribute money for repairs, and the secretary's "generous" donation of $25, McCathern had this to say: "I could take Bergland's $25 for diesel fuel."

Q-Why is Southwestern Public Service Co. allowed to borrow my and your money to buy their gas and not pay us any interest on our money borrowed? We get no interest or stock. This doesn't seem fair to me.

A-Frank Lee, public relations director for SPS, said that, first of all, the electric company borrows no money from its customers. The fuel cost adjustment simply reflects what it costs for SPS to make electricity and is a method approved by all regulatory agencies of the company, he said.

Lee said that more than half of the cost of making electricity is for fuel-gas and coal. If an electric bill shows $60 in charges for providing electrical service and $100 for cost of fuel, Lee said it should be viewed as simply a $160 bill. Until 1976, the law did not require the two costs to be shown separately.

Chinese Remain? Reports Differ

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - Chairman Hua Guofeng says the last Chinese troops have withdrawn from Vietnam, but the Vietnamese government reported today that Chinese forces were still shelling and looting inside Vietnam and Laos reported Chinese troops crossed its border last week.

Hua, China's premier and Communist Party leader, announced the end of the invasion China began Feb. 17 in a meeting in Peking Thursday with the governor of Tokyo, Ryokichi Minobe. Japan's Kyodo news agency reported. But Hua did not say if Chinese troops had pulled out of areas in which Vietnam claimed the Chinese put up new boundary markers.

Despite the reported withdrawal, Hanoi Radio said fierce fighting was still going on in Cao Bang and that several hundred Chinese troops were killed in the Ta Hu Xin area of the province.

Both China and Vietnam have called for negotiations but analysts say problems may arise if Peking's troops don't pull out of areas claimed by Vietnam. Hanoi reiterated Thursday it was ready to hold negotiations one week after the total pullout of Chinese troops.

Laos, meanwhile, accused China of sending two battalions more than a mile into Laotian territory on March 7 and said three days later other Chinese troops "nibbled" along a six-mile front and penetrated some two miles inside Laos.

The official Voice of Vientiane charged that Chinese troops encroached on the village of Boa on March 7 and at the village of Muang on March 10. Both are in the rugged northern province of Nam Tha, which borders China's Yunnan province.

The broadcast also charged that Peking continued to send an increasing number of spies and agents into Laos to overthrow the Vientiane government.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has decided to let farmers who participate in the 1979 acreage set-aside program graze cattle on part of their wheat and still qualify for federal subsidies.

Virtually the same plan was in effect last year and some farm groups and members of Congress have been pressuring Bergland to restore it for 1979.

The program also lets qualified wheat farmers cut part of their crop and use it as hay for livestock.

"We are taking this action to encourage the production of more beef later on this year," Bergland said Thursday.

"Calves now on wheat pasture ordinarily would have to come off and be sold about March 15 to permit the wheat to mature for harvest, while the action we are taking today would permit them to remain an additional 60 days or so."

Bergland said this will allow the animals to gain more weight and "therefore more beef later on this year."

Wheat farmers, to be eligible for price supports on their 1979 crop, must take from production one acre of cropland for every five acres of grain they have for harvest.

The grazing plan will allow farmers to let livestock graze - or make into hay - a maximum of 40 percent of their total "intended plantings of wheat, feed grains and upland cotton" or a maximum

U.S. Delegation Meets With Arab Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) - A high-level U.S. delegation is heading for the Mideast in an attempt to persuade Arab leaders to change their minds and support a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel.

The four-man U.S. delegation will meet with leaders of two moderate Arab states, Saudi Arabia and Jordan, sources confirmed Thursday night. The sources, who asked not to be identified, indicated the team would leave today.

The delegation consists of National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and President Carter's son Chip, the sources said.

The administration hopes the men can convince Saudi Arabia and Jordan not to participate in a proposed Arab economic boycott of Egypt as a result of its decision to sign a treaty with Israel.

The U.S. delegation won't attempt to use threats, the sources said, but "will make it clear how important we see this in terms of our interest and theirs."

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said earlier Thursday that an Egyptian-Israeli treaty probably won't be signed "for the next week or so." The treaty, which has been approved by the Egyptian cabinet, still must be voted on by the Israeli Knesset, or parliament.

In anticipation of the long-sought treaty, other talks were to begin in Washington today on how much aid the United States will give the two countries. Members of Congress have said President Carter reported to them it might be in the range of $4 billion to $5 billion in additional American aid to the

Should States Finance Public Schools?

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Who should pay the bill for public education?

The question stirring new debate more than a decade after a California man challenged the traditional system of financing schools by local property taxes - a system which critics say leaves poor districts at a disadvantage.

The challenge was successful and it has led to change. On a nationwide basis, a survey by the National Education Association shows that this year, for the first time, state governments are picking up a bigger share of the school bill than municipalities.

According to the NEA, the states are paying 47.4 percent of the bill for the 1978-79 academic year, while local governments provide 43.8 percent. The remaining 8.8 percent of the money comes from the federal government.

A decade ago, the NEA reports, the states provided only 39.9 percent of the money, while local governments paid 52.7 percent, with the remaining 7.4 percent coming from Washington.

A Denver judge ruled earlier this week that low-income areas of Colorado faced "substandard facilities, substandard equipment and substandard educational programs" because local property taxes provided most of the money for public schools.

The ruling, which is being appealed, said the state's school financing system was unconstitutional because it violated a student's right to equal educational opportunities.

There have been similar rulings in over a dozen states, say educational experts, but the situation remains unsettled in many areas because of appeals and disagreements over details. The decisions have varied - some have been based on state constitutions, others on education laws and still others on the U.S. Constitution.

According to the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, which was active in the Colorado case, major challenges to property tax financing systems are pending in Arkansas, Georgia, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Authorities say several questions are involved. Among them:

-What responsibility does the state have to insure that pupils receive a minimum level of education?

-Is it fair to tie spending to property value, penalizing poor areas? Is it fair to make rich districts subsidize poor ones? -And finally, does equal spending guarantee equal education?

Bob Gruenberg of the NEA said that the "courts are not telling the legislatures what they should do, where they can turn for relief."

David Long of the lawyers committee said the states have responded to the challenges with "a remarkable amount of diversity." Some have increased the amount of money that goes to education from statewide levies like income or sales taxes; others have set up formulas providing additional aid for poorer districts.

Many areas have taken legislative steps to revise school financing systems. The NEA says that since the early 1970s, more than 20 states have set up what are "equalization" programs to balance spending in rich and poor districts.

Long said property taxes are likely to continue to provide a major source of money for school budgets. "But the property tax will not be the source of inequity as it has been in the past," he said. "The states will equalize for different property tax capacities."

John Augenblick of the Education Commission of the States in Denver said, "The reform movement has been characterized by increased state (See EDUCATION, Page 2)

Khomeini Halts Court Proceedings

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today ordered the Islamic revolutionary court trying former Prime Minister Amir Abbas Hoveida to halt its proceedings until new regulations can be drawn up for revolutionary tribunals.

There was no immediate explanation for the decision, but the move appeared to represent a victory for Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan who has threatened to resign if such "inhuman and irreligious" proceedings continued.

Khomeini's revolutionary committee opened Hoveida's trial Thursday to an invited audience after the executions of at least 62 men convicted in secret.

Selected Iranian reporters were invited along with some 200 relatives of demonstrators killed by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's police. The reporters said the trial began about 2 a.m. in a makeshift courtroom in Tehran's Qasr Prison.

Energy Council Says Rationing To Hurt

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Energy Advisory Council says the state will be on the losing end if the Carter administration's standby gas rationing plan is adopted.

Milton Holloway, the council's executive director, said Thursday that Texans would have to spend $116.4 million a month to purchase sufficient gas coupons from states that have extra ones.

The estimate was made by the U.S. Department of Energy, he said.

The council adopted a resolution Thursday opposing the proposed rationing plan, which is based on a national average.

It said any rationing plan should take state-by-state driving patterns into account.

The resolution said under the administration plan certain groups would "bear a disproportionate share of the burden of shortages."

The plan "would result in massive income transfers from the lower income, more rural areas of the South including Texas to the high income areas of the Northeast and the West Coast."

The council stressed the "production oriented" energy policy favored by top Texas officials should be adopted before the federal government puts any gas rationing plan into effect.

Bold Bandits Rob South Texas Bank

LOS FRESNO, Tex. (AP) - South Texas law enforcement officials are still searching for a pair of "brazen" bandits who immobilized the four-man police force here and got away with more than $50,000 from a local bank.

Los Fresnos police dispatcher Hector Gonzalez said he and Officer Ruben Garcia were sitting in the small dispatcher's room in the rear of an office building here Thursday morning when they heard a knock on the door.

"A guy walked in and he had a gun," Gonzalez said. "He told Garcia to get up and put his gun on the desk very slowly and carefully. Then he told Garcia to handcuff me to the chair."

The gunman - wearing a motorcycle helmet and mask - then handcuffed Garcia to a chair, Gonzalez said.

"He told us to crawl over by the wall. We heard a shot but we had tape on our eyes and mouths. Ruben thought he shot Ruben," the dispatcher recalled.

"But the gunman said, 'I didn't shoot anybody,'" he recalled.

After a secretary from a nearby office freed the two men they noticed that the gunman had put a single shot through the police teletype equipment in the office. Garcia's gun was also gone.

Fed Waste Fraud Said Everywhere

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's No. 2 law-enforcement officer says it's not hard to find waste and fraud in the handling of government money; just look anywhere.

"Our experience generally is that wherever we look deeply with focused investigations, significant fraud and abuse will be detected," Deputy Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti told the Senate Budget Committee Thursday.

As an example, Civiletti cited a federal task force aimed at rooting out fraud and abuse in the department of Housing and Urban Development in 23 cities. That effort resulted in indictments of 1,129 persons and brought 854 convictions.

Similar projects are focusing on food stamps, unemployment insurance and Medicare and Medicaid, Civiletti added.

Civiletti joined Elmer B. Staats, who heads the General Accounting Office, and Inspector General Thomas D. Morris of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in bringing the committee up to date on efforts to "root out misuse of federal money."

They agreed that waste, abuse, fraud and mismanagement "are extensive but impossible to put a dollar amount on."

Civiletti offered a previous guess - and he identified it as such - that between 1 percent and 10 percent of every federal dollar is stolen or wasted.

Feedyard Sale Discussed

Okla., two members of the new Southwest group; Bill Gentry of Hereford and Ed Wieck of Umberger, Ada directors; Charles Hoover, president of Southwest Feed Yards, and Spencer Murchison of Houston, president of Ada.

At Hereford Meeting

Multi-Million Sale Of Feedyard Outlined

The upcoming sale of Southwest Feed Yard was explained when Ada Resources president Spencer Murchison and local directors held a joint meeting with a private group of cattle feeders here Thursday night at Hereford Country Club.

Murchison outlined Ada's plans to expand operations in the energy field, using the proceeds from the feedyard sale as working capital and for oil and gas drilling expenses. While emphasizing that Southwest had been one of the company's best profit maker, Murchison said the decision to expand energy acquisitions required more working capital.

The agreement to sell the feedyard to a private group of cattle feeders is to become effective April 2. Murchison said Ada expects to realize approximately $5.5 million in cash from the sale. Net gain is expected to be 31 cents a share, or approximately $1.7 million.

Bill Gentry of Hereford, an Ada director, presided at the meeting here Thursday night and introduced Randy Best of Houston, largest stockholder in the private group which is buying the feed yard. Best emphasized that no changes in management would be made at Southwest.

"Southwest is rated as one of the best feedyard operations in the country. The only change is that we will have no other interests except cattle feeding, and the management has a new enthusiasm to do even a better job," said Best.

Best announced that there are 10 stockholders in the group which is buying Southwest. They include Charles Hoover, president of Southwest; Ken McLain, feed yard manager; Biff Bevis, comptroller; Shirley Garrison of Hereford, Harvey Garrison of Dumas, Ken White of Clovis, Steve Adams of Tulsa, Okla., and Jim Speer and James Stuckey of Houston.

Other local Ada Resources directors at the meeting were Ed Reinauer Jr. of Hereford and Ed Wieck of Umberger. Murchison pointed out that Ada board meetings are held here each year because about 25 percent of the stock is held in this area.

K.S. (Bud) Adams, chairman of Ada Resources, had previously announced that the company plans to acquire several related coal companies operating in eastern Kentucky. At the meeting here, Murchison said Ada has recently begun shipping washed coal to the Tennessee Valley Authority under a long-term sales contract.

Cuba Payments Sought

NEW YORK (AP) - The settlement of $196 million in claims against China for less than 41 cents on the dollar can hardly bring cheer to those whose property was seized by Fidel Castro.

They try to remain confident that the U.S. Government will do better by them because, among other things, their $2 billion in losses are thoroughly documented. But they worry and often they get angry.

As one corporate claimant put it, "If we were reimbursed we'd invest it in plants and machinery to make jobs for Americans. When Castro doesn't pay us it means he can pay his big debts to the Russians."

Trying to be optimistic, David Wallace, chairman of Bangor

Punta Corp., which has a U.S.-certified $53 million claim against Cuba, said the China settlement "puts a floor under our negotiations."

But Bangor and other companies have been waiting a long time too, since 1959 and 1960, and not a penny has been paid. Their only relief, they say, has been relatively minor - through income tax deductions.

Meanwhile, the debt rises. Unilaterally, the U.S. Foreign Claims Settlement Commission says claimants are entitled to 6 percent interest a year. But even that isn't likely to cover replacement costs.

Said Wallace "Even if we got 100 percent and interest it wouldn't equal replacement," which he set at $250 billion. "We lost fields - sugar, refineries, a railroad and the most modern wharf in Cuba."

While some, such as Bangor Punta, may have been approached separately by Cuban officials, they choose to put their faith in Washington.

As for the other costs which government officials have placed on the demonstration, McCathern said farmers have done some estimating on work they accomplished during the blizzard which covered Washington. "At their prices, we figure we did about $1.5 million worth of work in using our equipment and manpower during the storm," stated McCathern.

That conservative estimate could have been much more, if only farmers have been allowed to move their tractors and McCathern has submitted a guest editorial on the subject which will be published in The Sunday Brand.

aid... There's been a reduction in disparity."

The reform generally stem from a suit filed in 1968 by John Serrano of East Los Angeles who was told by his son's principal that the boy was mentally gifted, but would get a better education in a wealthier district. Serrano moved, but he also challenged the system.

The state Supreme Court ruled that California's use of local property taxes as the primary source of school funds was unconstitutional and the U.S. Supreme Court refused in 1977 to hear an appeal of the decision.

Because of implementation of the court ruling and because of last year's passage of Proposition 13, cutting property taxes and limiting local funds for education and other services, the state share of the California school bill reached 64.9 percent this year, the NEA says. Last year, the state contributed only 38.8 percent of school budgets.

An NEA report shows that the state pays more than half the education bill in 27 states. The 10 states contributing the most, in percentage terms, are: Hawaii, Kentucky, New Mexico, North Carolina, Alabama, Delaware, Alaska, California, Washington and West Virginia. The 10 states contributing the least are New Hampshire, Nebraska, Wyoming, Connecticut, Oregon, Nevada, Wisconsin and Massachusetts.

For purposes of making payments to farmers, USDA will consider the grazed or hayed land as if the wheat on it had been allowed to mature and be harvested for grain, using a farm's "established" yield as a basis.

The payments will be the same as the 1979 "deficiency" payments - if any are due - on the wheat left for harvest as grain.

Last year, for example, the deficiency payments were 52 cents a bushel, the difference between the average market price for five months beginning with June and the 1978 target of $3.40 a bushel.

The 1979 target also is $3.40 a bushel - a bookkeeping figure used to compute payments - but the deficiency rate will not be known until after November when the five-month average market price is available.

Tax Relief

School District would receive an $18,000 "bonus" because its appraisals are 71 percent of market value.

"For half this House, this bill is gigantic tax relief. For the rest of this House, it is a tax increase," Bush said.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, attempted to justify giving districts with accurate, up-to-date appraisals more than they lost while penalizing those with below-average appraisals.

He compared school districts with a farmer's two sons, each of whom received 90 cents to buy lunch. One spent 60 cents even before it became time to go to the store to eat. The other had his full 90 cents.

"The farmer says, 'I'm going to give you another 60 cents so you can go down to the store and eat.' But to be fair, he said he was going to give the other son 60 cents, too," Peveto said.

Likewise, he said, the tax payers want the Tax Relief Amendment's exemptions to mean the same from district to district - whether appraisals are 30 percent of market value or 90 percent.

"If you give the prodigal son 60 cents, you should give the other son at least 40 or 50 cents or he'll get his feelings hurt," Peveto said.

The House's other big controversy Thursday was over a new attempt to cut timber corporations out of the agricultural value tax break that families with timber land would receive.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, said a provision requiring timber corporations to pay at least as much in taxes as they did in 1978 under a market value system of taxation probably was unconstitutional.

He predicted timber company lawyers would contest the tax floor in court as soon as the bill passed.

Bryant also said if timber corporations get a tax break, homeowners in districts surrounded by timber lands would have to pay higher taxes to make up the difference.

His amendment failed, 58-19.

Rep. Bob Simpson, D-Amarillo, later added an amendment, without objection, that would nullify the entire timber tax break section if the 1978 floor is held unconstitutional.

Camp Fire Birthday Week Starts Tomorrow

Hereford Council of Camp Fire Girls will be observing Camp Fire Birthday Week here March 17-23 through a number of special activities and programs.

Birthday Week was officially declared for observance March 11-17, but due to the conflict with spring break, the local Council moved observance here to next week.

The local Council will join thousands of Camp Fire members throughout the state in observing Founder's Day on Saturday March 17. All registered members here with birthdays on March 17 will be honored, as will any babies born at Deaf Smith General Hospital that day.

The 18th will be Camp Fire Sunday, with all groups attending the church of their choice in official Camp Fire attire. On the evening of the 19th, the Camp Fire Board of Directors will convene at the Camp Fire Lodge.

March 20th will be Sponsor Day in Hereford and Leaders Day will follow on Wednesday with a salad luncheon for leaders and assistants. The 22nd will be cited as Community Day and Friday, the 23rd, will be Volunteers' Day.

The first Camp Fire group in Hereford was chartered in 1928 under the name Weconcantewaste. Three of the original 20 members of that group still reside in Hereford—Mrs. Charles Holt, Mrs. Charlie Hays and Mrs. Dick Barnard.

According to the Governor's proclamation: "Camp Fire Girls, Inc. is a youth agency whose purpose is to provide through a program of informal education, opportunities for youth to realize their potential and to function effectively as caring, self-directed individuals responsible to themselves and others; and, as an organization to seek to improve those conditions in society which affect youth."

Camp Fire Girls was organized in 1910 and offers membership to girls and boys from first grade through the age of 21. There are presently 39 Camp Fire Councils in Texas representing several hundred cities.

The Governor stated in his proclamation: "The Camp Fire program strives to instill a sincere and special appreciation of our cultural heritage, Indian lore and symbolism and the out-of-doors. The Camp Fire program service is delivered to the younger membership through the dedicated service of valuable adult volunteers."

Camp Fire members participate in a number of community service projects, including "No Greater Love," in which the youth make Valentines for hospitalized veterans.

Camp Fire is open to all without regard to race, creed, sex, economic status or national origin.

Declaring Birthday Week

Governor W.P. Clements Jr. is shown here signing a proclamation which designates March 11-17 as Camp Fire Girls Birthday Week in the State of Texas. Among those witnessing the proclamation were young Trini Gamez (second girl from right) who is granddaughter of a local resident, Genevieve Miller. Due to the fact that many residents are out-of-town this week for spring break, Birthday Week will be observed in Hereford March 17-23.

Ann Landers

A Child At 29

DEAR ANN: I'm 29, and have been married to a wonderful man for five years. We own our home and have a beautiful life together. So what is my problem? My mother.

We fought 24 hours a day. When I turned 19 I moved out to keep my sanity. Mother never forgave me for "deserting," her and embarrassing her in front of her friends. If they only knew the beatings she gave me, the screaming and grief I left behind. No one would believe it. I've tried so hard to get my mother to like me. Last Mother's Day I sent her flowers. She threw them in the trash can in my presence.

Why is it that this late in life I miss not having a mother? Last week, I went to the zoo alone. While watching the gorillas (they're fascinating), the maternal instincts were so touching, I cried. I've been depressed ever since.

Why can't my mother forgive me for leaving home, even though I'm willing to forget those 19 years of grief? Why do I keep trying to get her to like me? My father and I have a wonderful relationship. Please help. Am I -- A "Child" at 29?

DEAR 29: One who has not been adequately loved by the principal person in his or her life carries the scars forever. But understanding why the love was not forthcoming will free you from your prison of sadness.

Please get counseling. It will help you see that the cause of your mother's inability to love you is not due to a deficiency in you -- but in her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the "Dying Person's Bill of Rights." While it has great merit, may I suggest a couple of alterations?

(1) "I have the right to die in peace and dignity."

Because there is often little "dignity" in the terminal period of one's life, "in a humanitarian manner" would be more appropriate, since it implies that the patient deserves to be as comfortable as possible during that period.

(2) "I have the right to expect that the sanctity of the human body will be respected after death."

Respect for "the sanctity of the human body after death" may be interpreted by some to mean that the body must be buried intact. This would reduce the availability of organs such as corneas and kidneys, which would enable the blind to see or the person with kidney failure to be free of a cumbersome dialysis unit.

Furthermore, this statement implies an objection to an autopsy, which can be an invaluable contribution by the deceased. An autopsy can provide knowledge to confirm a diagnosis or lead to the discovery of unrecognized conditions which could be a boon to medical science and promote better care for future patients.

I believe the patient should have options such as the one expressed in the following statement:

"I have the right to expect that the sanctity of the human body will be respected after death, but this does not preclude the post-mortem examination or the donation of any bodily organs which may benefit others." -- M.D., Rochester, Minn.

DEAR M.D.: Both suggestions are excellent. Thank you for writing.

Mrs. Covington Cited By Westway Chapter

Westway Extension Homemakers Club nominated one of their members, Grace Covington, for the Distinguished Service Award being offered by West Texas State University Thursday morning during a business meeting in the home of Virginia Wheeler, 708 S. Main St.

In other business, members were reminded of the furniture refinishing workshop to be held free to the public from 2-4 p.m. Tuesday at the Community Center. Also, it was announced that the club's upcoming meeting will be April 19 in REC Medallion Room. This will be a joint meeting with Progressive EH Club. Guest speaker will be Ann Brown of Canyon discussing family communication.

As an introduction to the program, members answered roll call to "What Food I Need to Stay Away from and Why." County Extension Agent Joyce Shipp presented an informative program on weight control.

Hazel Rayburn, a former Hereford resident who now lives at Paris, Tex., was a guest of Mrs. Covington.

Members present, other than those already named, were Wilma Bryan, Terri Johnson, Terri Parker, Diane Perkins and Dixie Williamson.

Celebrating the Green in Ireland

NEW YORK (AP) - They're celebrating the green in Ireland this year, as they always do, but it's the green you put in the wallet rather than the kind that's worn on the lapel. Industry brings money like farming couldn't, and so, in time for St. Patrick's day, the government disclosed that from 1981 to 1990 all manufacturers would be free of taxes, and then pay a maximum of only 1 percent "for the rest of this century."

In fact, it is unlikely that many companies at all will pay a pound of taxes in the Emerald Isle before the turn of the century because of the unique tax policy - and export sales relief, depreciation and the like. Farmers, meanwhile, are being asked to pay income taxes from which they once were exempt, and no sympathy is being wasted on them, since farm income has been rising close to 30 percent a year since 1973.

"But aren't you giving the country away?" an official of the Irish Industrial Authority was asked. "Not when we have the fastest growing economy in Western Europe," he replied. The top national priority, said Michael Killeen, who heads the IDA, is employment; and industry, most of it from the United States, much of it electronics and pharmaceuticals, provides it.

Between 1950 and 1970, Killeen points out, U.S. concerns invested $500 million in Irish manufacturing plants, a fair amount considering the population of only 3.25 million people. Then the amounts soared.

Since 1970, IDA figures show, American concerns have pumped $2.5 billion of investment capital into the Irish economy. Atop that, Japanese, German and other countries added about 50 percent more.

In 1973, Killeen relates, per capita income was 858 pounds. Last year the figure was 1,970 pounds, or roughly $4,000. Per capita output, was close to Britain's, and soon is expected to surpass it.

The importance of industry is reflected also by the job numbers. About 220,000 Irish work in manufacturing, and one-third of them are employed by American companies. The bulk of those American-made jobs have been created since 1970.

Nevertheless, unemployment remains a big problem. Last year it stood at 9 percent compared to a recent U.S. reading of 5.7 percent, but that doesn't tell the extent of the challenge.

What makes job-creation imperative is the changing sociology of the country. Emigration has nearly ceased. And the birth rate, once barely sufficient to maintain population, is contributing to growth.

The age of the population also suggests the challenge, as well as its strength. Fifty percent of the people are under 25 years of age; about one-third are under age 15. They want jobs: good jobs.

Old Age Follows Middle Age In Panel Study

WASHINGTON (AP) - A congressional panel has solemnly declared old age to be "a direct outgrowth" of middle age. While this condition has existed for some time, the government is only now beginning to consider what to do about it.

Given the option, most middle-aged Americans would just as soon let nature take its course and make them older Americans.

House subcommittees on aging and retirement have set about studying the problems of middle-aged women, with the suggestion that there ought to be government programs to help them over midlife hurdles.

"They are now being 'discovered' much as the elderly and their problems were 'discovered during the 1960s,'" said Dr. Robert N. Butler, director of the National Institute on Aging. "A general pattern may be found in this country where a particular group is perceived as a 'problem.'"

Butler said his institute has not had the money or the personnel to conduct major studies of the middle years, but "middle age will certainly become a priority area as resources become available within the next several years."

Stafford has been charged only with one count of first-degree murder, in the death of one of the steakhouse workers. Prosecutors said before his arrest Tuesday night in Chicago that they would file eight additional murder courts after the suspect was questioned.

Stafford has also been implicated by his estranged wife in at least 13 other slayings across the country, police have said.

Stafford Gives Detailed Accounts Of Nine Oklahoma Murders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Roger Dale Stafford has given police "detailed statements" concerning nine Oklahoma slayings authorities believe he committed last summer, investigators said Thursday.

"Mr. Stafford apparently wanted to talk to us, and we sat down with him and just allowed him to talk," said Police Chief Tom Heggy. "We are still working with him to gain additional information as part of our investigation."

The chief said the 27-year-old Alabama drifter has voluntarily provided information to detectives concerning the deaths of six Oklahoma City steakhouse workers and the killings of three members of a Texas family near Purcell last summer.

Heggy said Stafford is expected to undergo mental observation at Central State Hospital in Norman.

Stafford has also been implicated by his estranged wife in at least 13 other slayings across the country, police have said.

Stafford was returned to Oklahoma City from Chicago in a private plane Wednesday afternoon, as cordons of police provided protection.

Police believe Stafford's brother, Harold Ray Stafford, 29, was also a participant in the nine Oklahoma slayings. Harold Stafford died in a motorcycle accident in Tulsa six days after the steakhouse killings.

Kennedy said officers are not looking for any other persons in connection with the slayings.

Nixon Hears Report

NEW YORK (AP) - Former President Richard Nixon says he was briefed from Air Force One on the terms of the Middle East peace treaty and believes the pact will bring peace "for the whole area."

The agreement may be costly, but the price of war between Egypt and Israel would be much higher, the former president told reporters Wednesday at New York Hospital, after his daughter, Tricia, gave birth to his first grandson, Christopher Nixon Cox.

He called the peace terms worked out in talks with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "a very significant movement forward, not only for those countries but for the rest of the area."

Nixon said the next step was peace "for the whole area," and added that he was "very happy to see that President Carter is working toward that goal."

The former president said his assessment of the agreement was based on a briefing by Carter's foreign affairs adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski from aboard the presidential airplane.

The former president, looking tanned and fit, flew to New York from San Clemente, Calif. He said he and Mrs. Nixon would spend two or three days here before returning to the West Coast.

Actually, Congress got into the act five years ago when it created the National Institute on Aging in a bill that also declared "recent research efforts point the way toward alleviation of the problems of old age by extending the healthy middle years of life."

Butler said his institute has not had the money or the personnel to conduct major studies of the middle years, but "middle age will certainly become a priority area as resources become available within the next several years."

Stafford has also been implicated by his estranged wife in at least 13 other slayings across the country, police have said.

Churches Concur on Salt Talks

NEW YORK (AP) - For the first time, representatives of churches from the world's "superpowers" - the United States and the Soviet Union - meet this month to produce a joint statement on the moral imperatives for arms reduction.

Although church leaders of the two countries have met frequently before on inter-church matters, the March 27-29 meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, marks the first time they have met to formulate a common position on a moral issue.

The U.S. delegation represents the 32 denominations in the National Council of Churches, and is being led by the council president, the Rev. M. William Howard, an American Baptist.

The meeting comes against a backdrop of Salt II negotiations between the U.S. and Soviet governments for limiting arms production.

A professor at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary says anxiety is one of the major problems faced by ministers these days, and that they must first deal with their own anxiety so as to help others deal with theirs.

The Rev. P. Dan Poling told a seminary audience that anxiety, "a generalized state of apprehension, accompanied by restlessness and tension," hinders the ability to trust God, as well as obstructing a minister's relationship between his congregation and God.

Poling said it is "clear why Jesus said in the gospel of Mark, 'Stop being anxious.'"

Is your child also your friend? Do you treat your child with the same respect that you do your best friend?

Suppose you and your best friend went to dinner. How would you respond to: "Sit up straight!" "Did you wash your hands?" "Don't spill your milk!" "For Pete's sake, don't chew with your mouth full!"? After a few such remarks, you would doubtless have lost a dinner companion, if not a friend.

Your child has feelings and needs to be treated as a being with worth.

Before dealing with your child, why not first ask yourself

"How would my best friend respond if I treated him like this?"

WASHINGTON (AP) - Roman Catholicism last week issued its new teaching guide for use in the United States, a National Catechetical Directory, called "Sharing the Light of Faith."

It was five years in the making, including an extensive process of revision by U.S. bishops, and was published March 6 after being approved by the Vatican.

Unlike the century-old, now rarely used Baltimore Catechism, which dealt only with basic concepts of faith, the new directory deals not only with beliefs, but methods of teaching, the learning process, responsibilities and roles of various groups and the modern cultural milieu.

Herd Faces Caprock In 2nd Round Of C of C Tourney

Whitefaces Shoot Down Eagles, 15-8

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Writer

Sending 14 batters to the plate in the first inning, the Hereford Whitefaces secured its fourth win of the season against the Canyon Eagles, 15-8, in a first round game of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Baseball Tournament yesterday.

Collecting eight runs on six hits in the initial frame, the Herd took an 8-1 lead and never trailed from that point. Gaining his first win in as many tries, senior James Dudding allowed all of the Eagle's eight runs, but only two were earned. Lee Schultz collected his second save of the young season as he preserved Dudding's victory when he took the mound in the fourth inning.

Leading the Whiteface attack with four hits and three RBI's, Ernie Suarez, banged out a triple and a double in four trips to the plate. Other offensive heroes for the Herd had Dudding collecting three runs batted in and John Wagner, Kevin Bunch, Don Weemes and Edward Dominquez driving home two runs for the 'Faces.

Defensively, leftfielder Dominquez had an exceptional day according to Coach David Ashby.

"Edward played very well, making two catches at crucial times in the contest and also threw a runner out at third," Ashby said. "Except for the mental errors that the infield had after we had run up the score the whole team played real good. Offensively, our run production speaks for itself."

Whiteface errors were the main source of Eagle runs, as twice, fielding miscues and a throwing mistake gave Canyon the opportunity to score five of its eight runs. The other unearned run came on a base on balls by Dudding in the first inning.

In other games in the tourney, Caprock buried Borger in the tournament opener, 10-0. Caprock will face Hereford today in the game to be played at 4 p.m. In the final game of opening day, Levelland used the strong pitching of David Bulls to whallop the Pampa Harvesters, 13-2. Bulls only allowed two hits during the game while the Lobos banged out 13.

Levelland will face the Dumas Demons today in the 1:15 contest, while the Harvesters received a bye to the consolation finals to be played Saturday at 10:15. The consolation bracket contest will have Borger facing Canyon today at 10:15.

For the Whitefaces, either Suarez or Bunch will be the starting hurler, according to Coach Ashby. Bunch, 2-0 and Suarez, 0-1 are the only Herd pitchers with varsity experience.

Tapie Leads Doral Golf

MIAMI (AP) - It was at the Doral-Eastern Open golf tournament a year ago that Alan Tapie made a decision.

"It was a change in attitude," said Tapie. "I decided I just had to start believing in myself more, not get down on myself."

"I decided that if I was gonna hit it in the water, well, I'd hit it in the water, but I'd do it with authority."

"It's a mental thing out here on the tour. It's easy to get down on myself. And if you do, instead of going from shot to shot, you go from crisis to crisis. Who can you turn to? You have to keep reaching down within yourself. And that's tough to do day after day."

But the change in attitude, a more positive approach, resulted in a position on the pro-tour's top 60 money-winners last season and Tapie's first exemption from qualifying. And Tapie celebrated the return to the site of his change Thursday with a 6-under-par 66 that staked him to the first-round lead in the $250,000 tournament.

"It's been a slow road for me," said the 29-year-old Tapie, who has yet to win in five years of tour activity. He didn't take up golf seriously until late in his college career at Southern California, then played the mini-tours for a couple of seasons before joining the PGA circuit.

"I was in a break-even situation until last year," he said. "That was a good year. I'm happy with the improvement I've made. And I'm going to improve more."

His major area of improvement in this event was his putting. He one-putted his first six holes, once saving par from off the green, and finished the day with only 25 putts.

He had a 2-shot lead until scoring his only bogey of the day on the final hole, missing the green and failing to get it up and down.

That left him a single shot in front of Rod Curl, Bill Kratzert, rookie Mark McCumber, Gibby Gilbert and Jack Renner, tied at 67.

The group at 68 included Wayne Levi, Ron Streck, Cal Peete, Jim Dent and Larry Webb.

Jack Nicklaus continued to have his problems. He three-putted three times on the way to a 73, one over par. It was the seventh consecutive round in which he'd failed to break par.

"I'm hitting the ball better," he said. "It's just a matter of time until my putting comes around and I start putting some numbers on the board. I just want to start doing it instead of talking about it, instead of sitting here and explaining why I'm not doing it."

Tom Weiskopf, the defending champion, who once withdrew from this tournament and then re-entered, struggled to a 78 that left him in danger of missing the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 scorers at the end of today's second round.

Tapie, who said he concentrated on "not trying to make anything happen, just let it happen" hit two drivers to the fringe of the first hole and dropped a 20-foot eagle putt that put him off and running. He scored four birdies with putts in the 6-8 foot range and hit a short iron to within 18 inches for the other one.

Ali To Fight Alzado In Exhibition Bout

DENVER (AP) - Heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali will meet a "local heavyweight" in an exhibition bout here and that fighter will be a man named Lyle.

However, that man will not be onetime contender Ron Lyle, but another heavyweight - Lyle Alzado of the Denver Broncos. "I figure the most important thing I've got to remember is that I don't want to die," Alzado said Thursday. "I just have to hope I duck the right way when he swings at me. A man could get hurt doing that kind of thing. But I think it will be exciting as long as I don't embarrass myself."

Alzado, who will begin his ninth season with the National Football League Broncos this fall, he is no stranger to the boxing ring.

The 6-foot-3, 250-pound defensive end has been in 45 amateur bouts, starting as a collegian at Yankton, S.D. He is a former Golden Gloves heavyweight champion for the Omaha, Neb., region and once had 27 consecutive amateur boxing victories.

Ali and Alzado will fight a four-round exhibition bout in late April or early May in Denver's McNichols Arena. Ali reportedly will receive $750,000, but Alzado's earnings have not been announced.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio, has been expanded to the point where it has 51,000 square feet of floor space.

Baseball Hall of Famer Eddie Roush was christened with two D's in his name.

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Nayoko Yoshikawa is playing her final Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament in the United States this year before going home to her native Japan.

Vivian Brownlee is complaining about lack of sleep.

But both are shooting solid golf at the $150,000 Rancho Bernardo Classic.

Both women carded 4-under-par 68s Thursday to share the first-round lead in the LPGA event on the 6,212-yard, par-72 Rancho Bernardo Country Club layout.

Brownlee, of Dunedin, Fla., was in the first group off the tee and her 68 stood up until Yoshikawa of Kyoto, Japan, matched her.

Stabler Exonerated In Drug Case

HONOLULU (AP) - Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler was exonerated by National Football League owners of any implications in a controversial drug case in his hometown; but also was the reason for a new playing rule voted in at the annual NFL meeting.

The owners today go into further issues of player safety and looking at the experiment of using television instant replays to aid officials.

It had been implied that Stabler was involved in an incident in which Sacramento Bee reporter Bob Padecky was arrested, then almost immediately released, in what authorities said was a drug frame-up.

Padecky said he was summoned to Stabler's hometown of Gulf Shores, Ala., by the Raider quarterback for an interview.

Padecky said he met with Stabler a couple of times in Gulf Shores without getting an interview, and later Padecky was arrested when authorities, acting on a telephone tip, found a substance believed to be cocaine in a magnetic key case under the fender of the reporter's rented car.

Local authorities in Gulf Shores said it was an attempt to frame Padecky but that Stabler was not involved.

Stabler did admit fumbling forward in the final seconds of an Oakland regular-season game which the Raiders won when Dave Casper recovered the loose ball in the San Diego Chargers' end zone as time expired.

Errol Mann then kicked the extra point for a 21-20 Oakland victory.

The owners put in a new rule stating that if an offensive player fumbles anywhere on the field during a fourth down play or gny down during the last two minutes of either half, only the fumbling player is permitted to recover and advance the ball.

Recovery by any other offensive player returns to the ball to the point of the fumble. Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the owners want to broaden interpretations of unnecessary roughness. That would include further protection for quarterbacks who have been battered in the past.

Final action may come today on a proposal calling for officials to blow the whistle more quickly when the quarterback is in the grasp of a defensive player.

"It's not necessary to crucify the quarterback, and this rule will also eliminate the second hit with causes injuries," said the Commissioner.

The Competitions Committee has made several recommendations, some of which were accepted by the owners Thursday and others expected to be acted upon today.

Bird's Exhibition Awes Oklahoma

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

In a word, it was the Bird. Larry Bird, Indiana State's high-flying All-American, carried the soaring Sycamores into the championship game of the NCAA Midwest Regional tournament Thursday night at Cincinnati.

Bird, college basketball's Player of the Year, wowed a record Ohio crowd of 17,252 at Riverfront Coliseum with his magnificent all-around skills, leading the unbeaten and top-ranked Sycamores to their 31st victory of the season, a 93-72 rout of No. 16 Oklahoma.

"He is one heck of a player," marveled Oklahoma Coach Dave Bliss. "You can't judge him unless you play against him or see him in person."

Bliss came, he saw and he was convinced.

The birdman of Indiana State destroyed the Sooners with a characteristic performance - 29 points, 15 rebounds and five assists.

Semifinal games will be played tonight in the other two regions.

In the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., No. 8 Syracuse, 26-3, faces No. 14 Penn, 23-5, and 17th-ranked St. John's 20-10, meets 18th-rated Rutgers, 23-8.

And in the Midwest Regional at Indianapolis, it will be No. 19 Toledo, 22-7, against fourth-ranked Notre Dame, 23-5, and seventh-rated Louisiana State, 23-5, vs. No. 3 Michigan State, 22-6.

The regional winners will advance to the National semifinals at Salt Lake City next weekend.

"They (Indiana State) are a good basketball team, but he (Bird) makes them a very good basketball team," said Bliss after watching helplessly as the omnipresent Bird swooped all over and around the defenseless Sooners.

Bird's six points keyed a 13-4 burst near the end of the first half that put Indiana State in command 45-37 at intermission.

Despite his impressive show, Bird underscored Indiana State's team approach.

"I just try to play a team game," he emphasized.

Carl Nicks added 20 points for Indiana State, while Ray Whitley topped Oklahoma, 21-10, with 24 points.

All-American Sidney Moncrief guided Arkansas to its 14th consecutive victory and 25th triumph in 29 games this season. Moncrief collected 27 points, including seven when the Razorbacks broke open the game with an 11-2 burst in a three-minute span of the second half for a 66-58 lead.

Just prior to that surge, the onrushing Cardinals appeared to have the momentum. They had overcome a 51-34 deficit and forged ahead 56-55.

"Those six or seven minutes in the second half seemed like an eternity to me," said a relieved Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "All of a sudden they got momentum and played like champions."

But then Moncrief and his teammates regained their poise, and it was they who played like champions - and made Louisville, 24-8, "exchampions."

U.S. Reed added 18 points for Arkansas, while freshman center Scooter McCray was high for Louisville with 14.

Guards Ray Hamilton and Brad Holland triggered UCLA's high-scoring second half that carried the racehorse Bruins past San Francisco.

UCLA trailed 51-45 before outscoring the Dons 15-1 and surging comfortably in front 60-52. Hamilton finished with a career-high 36 points and Holland scored 22. All-American David Greenwood added 19 points for the determined Bruins, 25-4, who are trying to win their first NCAA title since legendary Coach John Wooden retired after the 1974-75 season.

Gary Cunningham, UCLA's current coach, said the second half "was probably our best of the season. Our defense was excellent, especially in the second half."

All-American Bill Cartwright's 34 points paced San Francisco, 22-7.

DePaul, 24-5, rallied from a 48-40 second-half deficit and overtook Marquette, 22-7, on Curtis Watkins' field goal and seven clutch free throws in the final 1 1/2 minutes.

Watkins' basket, on a long jump shot, put the Blue Demons ahead for good 55-54, then Marquette started fouling in desperation and DePaul converted its opportunities from the free throw line.

Ray Meyer, DePaul's coach for the past 37 years, said he would be satisfied with just one more victory.

"It would be the biggest thrill of my life to get into the final four (the national semifinals)," he said.

Watkins and freshman Mark Aguirre scored 19 points apiece for DePaul. Bernard Toone led Marquette with 26.

Messing Signs Pact

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - The Rochester Lancers of the North American Soccer League have announced the signing of former Cosmos goaltender Shep Messing to a one-year contract.

Charles Schiano, board chairman of the Lancers, declined to reveal Messing's salary, but said it would make the former Harvard star the highest-paid American player in the NASL.

The Rochester Democrat & Chronicle reported in its Thursday editions that Messing would receive $125,000 annually, a car, an apartment and other fringe benefits to be paid jointly by the Lancers and the New York Arrows of the Major Indoor Soccer League.

Schiano would not comment on the MISL team's share in Messing, who won notoriety five years ago by posting nude for a women's magazine.

Messing will play the 1979 summer season with the Lancers, and perform for the Arrows in the winter, the newspaper said.

Messing became a free agent after spending the 1978 season with the Oakland Stompers, who obtained him from the Cosmos. He also played with the Boston Minutemen in 1975 and 1976.

The birdman of Indiana State destroyed the Sooners with a characteristic performance - 29 points, 15 rebounds and five assists.

The Sycamores will go for victory No. 32 Saturday against fifth-ranked Arkansas in the Midwest Regional championship game.

The Razorbacks beat 13th-rated Louisville 73-62 in the opening semifinal game of the Midwest Regional at Cincinnati.

The West Regional semifinals also were completed Thursday night as second-ranked UCLA and No. 6 DePaul advanced to Saturday's final at Provo, Utah.

UCLA used a devastating 58-point second-half in crushing No. 12 San Francisco 99-81 and DePaul defeated No. 10 Marquette 62-56.

Trading Deadline Passes

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Apparently there was nothing wrong with the New York Yankees that a little controversy couldn't cure.

Things had been entirely too peaceful in the spring training camp of baseball's world champions and the lethargic Yankees had dropped their first seven exhibition games against major league opposition.

But buoyed by published comments from ex-teammate

Sparky Lyle's forthcoming book "The Bronx Zoo," the Yankees turned on the Atlanta Braves Thursday night and blanked them 4-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Ed Figueroa, Dick Tidrow and Paul Mirabella.

Actually, the players didn't seem overly concerned about Lyle's tone, but owner George Steinbrenner reacted by calling his one-time relief ace "stupid" and classified some of his charges as "garbage."

Meanwhile, the interleague trading deadline passed almost without fanfare. The Boston Red Sox sent first baseman-outfielder Mike Easler to the Pittsburgh Pirates for two minor leaguers and cash and then acquired Jim Dwyer, also an outfielder-first baseman, from the San Francisco Giants for a player to be named later.

In other developments, American League President Lee MacPhail was to meet today with the head of the Major League Umpires Association in an effort to resolve the dispute that has kept the regular ump's away from the exhibition games. And the Detroit Tigers announced that sore-armed Mark Fidrych would pitch one inning against the Texas Rangers Sunday.

The Tigers didn't need Fidrych Thursday. They jumped on 40-year-old Jim Kaat for five runs in the first inning and cruised to an 8-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies

Yankees Indifferent To Lyle's Accusations

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - Toughened by their share of past controversies, the New York Yankees today shrugged off ex-teammate Sparky Lyle's literary attack with a collective "So what?"

But owner George Steinbrenner, seemingly more angered by Lyle's offensive than any of his players, called the pitcher "stupid" and classified some of his charges as "garbage."

In his new book, "The Bronx Zoo," Lyle wrote that Steinbrenner's close scrutiny of his ballclub bordered on meddling and was bad for the team.

The pitcher also said that third baseman Graig Nettles once committed an intentional error in an exhibition game against the New York Mets, hoping to prevent the contest from going into extra innings.

The ploy backfired, Lyle said, when the Mets were unable to score even with Nettles' error.

"I don't mind what he said about me," snapped Steinbrenner. "I've been attacked by better than him. But I was especially disturbed about what he wrote about Graig Nettles.

I'm not one of his (Nettles') favorite people and he's not one of mine. That's no secret. But what Lyle said about Nettles is garbage. Nettles always gives 110 percent. If he had to pick a player to attack that way, he picked the wrong guy.

"That shows Sparky's intelligence level," Steinbrenner continued. "Everybody says he's a buffoon. He's not a buffoon. He's one of the least intelligent athletes I ever met."

Lyle said published accounts of the Nettles' incident were unfair and taken out of context.

"It was like giving the punch line but not the joke," the ex-Yankee pitcher said at the Pompano Beach training base of his new team, the Texas Rangers. Lyle, however, defended and confirmed other passages from the book that attacked Steinbrenner and other Yankees.

Nettles denied the deliberate error story, but said the book should not change his relationship with Lyle.

"He knows ... everybody knows I wouldn't do that," said the slick-fielding third baseman. "I never made an error on purpose in my life. I talked to Sparky about it. He's my friend. I think what he wrote was not malicious, but it did not come out right in the paper. Knowing Sparky, he was joking and it came out wrong. Now I'll make him pay for dinner tonight."

Reggie Jackson, another Lyle target in the book, also shrugged off the matter.

"The only time I get concerned about somebody popping off like that is if he pays my checks," the slugger said. "If Standard Brands manufacturers of the Reggie candy bar, George Steinbrenner or ABC television executive Roone Arledge says, 'You're a jerk,' I'd be concerned. But Sparky? Nah."

Team Effort Gets Jazz Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - "It was a total team effort," said New Orleans Coach Elgin Baylor after the Jazz edged the San Antonio Spurs 124-122 in an NBA game.

Rich Kelley hit a 15-foot jumper with one second remaining to give the Jazz the victory and snap a six-game losing streak.

"We have had a problem of getting behind early, making a run, and then fizzling out," said Baylor. "But tonight we keep coming. We beat a good club."

The Jazz trailed 98-80 at the end of the third period, but revived in the fourth quarter Thursday night.

Wednesday night, gave the Jazz a 22-49 mark - the worst in the NBA.

Bass coached the Spurs as Head Coach Doug Moe finished in San Antonio with a toothache.

Then Jackson offered a poem. "Smaller minds have nothing else to do. I don't care what they say. Do you?"

HEALTH Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Garlic won't help

Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, to give you more information on what affects it and how it affects you. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You'll need a medical examination to find out what causes your complaint about your head. It may simply be tight muscles. Remember, your scalp, back of your head and neck all have muscles in that area that can get tight and tense, particularly if you are tight and tense.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Will garlic correct high blood pressure? What are the symptoms of high blood pressure? What can cause the top of your head to feel as though there were a weight on top of it and as if it were tight?

DEAR READER - No, garlic will not correct high blood pressure. I'm continually amazed at all of the fantasy around garlic. As a matter of fact, one of our early health food promoters, Adolphus Hohensee, urged the use of garlic to treat low blood pressure. He also urged people to put a piece of garlic in their rectum each night.

Don't expect any health benefits from garlic other than its ability to keep people away from you, when you have garlic on your breath. That might help protect you from contagious diseases you might get from oversocializing at close proximity.

High blood pressure may not cause any symptoms at all. That's why it's necessary for people to have regular blood pressure checks to find problems of this sort. I am sending you The Health they, too, were normal. The doctor just said to hang loose. Anyway, I've heard that some lumps are normal in that area. Is that correct? Otherwise, I am a healthy 58-year-old woman. Please give me your opinion of the lumps.

DEAR READER - You've done the most important thing by seeing a doctor to let him examine the lumps. The only way anyone can really determine whether a lump is important or not is to examine it. Those that are suspicious or larger sometimes need to be removed and examined under a microscope to be certain.

You can develop lumps under the arms that don't have any medical importance. Doing a blood test was helpful to your doctor in deciding that the lumps weren't a serious problem.

The lymph glands sometimes cause such lumps. They are literally a barrier against infection to the rest of your body. If you get an infection in your finger, the lymph glands filter the lymph that comes from your arm and traps the bacteria so that they don't invade the rest of your bloodstream and infect your whole body. In the process of trapping infectious organisms, the glands get swollen and sometimes tender.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 64 years old and I have arthritis and high cholesterol. I have read that cod liver oil has been beneficial in treating arthritis. I would like to try it. Is cod liver oil of any value in treating arthritis?

DEAR READER - No, it won't help at all. About 30 percent of people feel better when they receive any treatment, regardless of whether the treatment is of any value or not. I don't mean that the illness is in their mind. I am talking about actual diseases, such as arthritis. That's why it's so hard to judge whether a new medicine really is helping people or whether they are merely helped by their faith in the medicine and their doctor.

Some types of arthritis have remissions which would occur naturally anyway, whether the doctor pro-feeling of suspicion. This is bad enough, but it is not all. The inclination toward condemnation, as a general practice, will increase. We will be condemning, even when there is no justification for doing so; because of the damage hostility does to our thought patterns.

WHEN HOSTILITY BECOMES inward-directed, the real trouble begins. It involves self-hate and self-dislike, and many include strong inclinations toward self-destruction. The self-image will always be damaged to a degree that causes very troublesome personal problems. We must "avoid hostility", because its influence poisons the personality with all kinds of perverse qualities. In addition, the feedback will add to the

IN THE FAMILY, and in all other spheres of human associations, hostility is one of the most active sources of trouble. It can destroy love, friendships, and even life and property; and express itself by all other undesirable human thought and behavior.

FAITH LED ST. PATRICK ON HIS MISSION TO IRELAND

Like so many of our special events, St. Patrick's Day has come down to us as a far cry from its religious origin, where a Catholic bishop journeyed to Ireland in 432 A.D. to introduce Christianity, an act for which he became their patron saint. Today, Irish descendants celebrate the occasion with parades, parties and green apparel. But they maintain the Shamrock as the symbol of the deeper meaning of the day, pride in their faith and their beliefs. For what St. Patrick and others did throughout the centuries was exactly what all of us should do, to the best of our ability, set the example and thereby encourage those around us to attend the Church of their choice, where they will learn that we are all the children of God, no matter where we live on this earth.

Island of Saints, still constant, still allied To the great truths opposed to human pride
