The ledger contained the names of at least eight of the 25 victims, with dates next to them, and witnesses testified handwriting was Corona's.

Superior Court Judge Richard Patton set sentencing for Oct. 21, at which time he said he would consider a defense request for a new trial. Ex cotton picker runs for governor ATHENS, Texas (AP) - Gordon F. "Pop" Wills has been a cotton picker, a truck farmer, a streetcar operator and a soldier in two world wars. Now, he's a write-in candidate for governor, going up against the likes of incumbent Bill Clements.

And Wills, 86, says he is realistic. He knows that a writein candidate doesn't stand much chance, and he isn't getting any younger. But he isn't forlorn.

"Why should I be discouraged?" said Wills, sitting in the lobby of the old Athens Hotel, his home. "I'm a freeborn American citizen. If I want to run for something and spend my money on it, that's my business."

He lives on a military pension, has spent more than $1,000 on dozens of advertisements in six East Texas newspapers.

The messages on the ads vary, but they all end the same: "Please cancel the names of my opponents and write my name in. I am opposed to alcohol and dope." Wills says he is no newcomer to politics. He ran twice without success for Henderson County sheriff. And this is his second campaign for governor.

"The life of all of us is bound up in politics," he said, "If we don't pay attention to it, we're going to lose this country quicker than we think."

Wills said he is running because today's generation of politicians, including his two opponents, are too weakwilled to speak out on the most important issues of the day - homosexuality, for instance.

"It's just as much a sin today as it was when God destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah," he said.

He said that he got his nickname during his first gubernatorial race, in 1972. Another candidate in the race, Frances Farenthold, was nicknamed "Sissy" and was doing well in the campaign so Wills decided to dub himself "Pop." Wills has old-fashioned ideas. But some voters can't

Clements defends campaign tactics

White calls move 'sleazy'

HOUSTON (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says his staff was justified in mentioning his opponent's drunken driving arrest 19 years ago and his secretary of state acted correctly in releasing a list of "possible convicted felons."

Clements, who held a news conference Thursday after addressing Texas Southern University's fall convocation, said Texas Attorney General Mark White's 1963 arrest for drunken driving is a part of his background.

HE said "the public has a right to know" about the incident in Athens, when White was a 23-year-old Baylor University law student. The Clements campaign newsletter, the Texas Spectator, chronicled the episode under the headline, "He Showed His Talent Early.'

"If the heat in the kitchen is too hot, you ought not to be in there cooking," Clements woman jury took 14 minutes White denounced the attack to decide Fagan was innocent as "the sleaziest campaign tactic I have ever seen." Municipal court records show White paid a $50 fine to a reduced charge of public intoxication.

Clements also defended Secretary of State David Dean, who last week prompted threats of a libel lawsuit by releasing a list of 28,000 "possible convicted felons" on the state voter registration

"This list came out of the Department of Public Safety computer," said Clements, who said he would expect information from that source to be accurate.

But Col. Jim Adams, DPS director, said the computer tape supplied to Dean's office also listed people convicted of certain types of misdemeanors.

Jerry Angerman, a Democratic candidate for an Austin state representative seat whose name was includsome black voters," he retorted when asked to explain why. Clements said three polls show him leading by margins of 7 percent to 13 percent, but declined to say who ran two of the surveys. He said one was his own.

He denied that there had been friction between him and Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas, who earlier released figures showing Clements trailing White. Clements said he never requested a reason "for whatever purposes that he did it and for whatever purposes that his poll was so poor."

Clements spoke to about 1,750 students and faculty members at the mostly black school in an auditorium decorated with posters by a local Clements campaign organization. "Most of all, we need leadership that cares for Texas and works for Texas not some career politician who's spent his lifetime wasting taxpayers' money to further his own ambitions."

said Clements, who did not mention White by name during the speech.

Under the current administration, Clements told the group, the Texas Southern two-year budget is 47 percent larger than ever

The scientists sprayed each hive with a chemical derived from bee stings, which stirred aggressive behavior, struck the side of the hive to vibrate it and then rolled targets to the entrance.

Palace intruder's acquittal 'bonkers'

LONDON (AP) - The acquittal of the lovelorn drifter who perched on the queen's bed and drank the prince's wine means it's "open house" at Buckingham Palace, newspapers charged today in a flurry of fuming editorials.

The verdict Thursday in favor of Michael Fagan was "bonkers," declared the sensational Sun tabloid, describing it as "the craziest case since the trial of the Knave of. Hearts in 'Alice in Wonderland."

Fagan, 30, penetrated royal security twice over the summer, vaulting over the palace walls, clamboring up drainpipes and creeping through hallways. He was acquitted in Old

Bailey Central Criminal Court on a charge of stealing a half-bottle of Prince Charles' California wine on June 7 in the first break-in. On July 9, he sneaked into

DALLAS (AP) - A midmorning blaze that forced about 200 employees from a 17-story downtown building and caused an estimated $500,000 in damage was described by investigators as "arson for sure."

The second fire in three days at the office tower prompted some occupants to seek safety via elevators instead of stairs Thursday. A 48-year-old woman was treated for smoke inhalation at Baylor University Medical Center and released.

Teachers suspended after tying children

HOUSTON (AP) - A church school has suspended two teachers pending hearings on reports they tied a group of misbehaving second-graders to chairs last week, an official says.

The Rev. Stanley Lockhart said the board of trustees of the Westbury Christian School met Thursday night and decided to suspend both teachers until complaints from parents could be investigated. He said school officials had apologized to the parents of the nine or 10 children involved.

Lockhart said he knew few details of the incident, but said the teachers were "having some discipline problems, and in order to try and keep some of the children in their seats they had some string or cord or something and tied their feet to the

The school, affiliated with the Westbury Church of Christ, teaches classes through the 11th grade and has about 600 students.

Prairie View A&M Considering test

PRAIRIE VIEW, Texas (AP) -Prairie View A&M University may require its students to pass a test measuring their literacy and ability to perform arithmetic problems, its acting president says.

Dr. Ivory Nelson said the exam would measure "fundamentals like reading, writing and arithmetic." Students at the chiefly black school would take it after finishing all courses required for graduation but before receiving their degrees.

But Nelson said the tests would not be instituted for at least four years.

"When we graduate a youngster, he must perform according to a certain standard," Nelson said. "That does not defy equal education in my book."

Nelson's predecessor, Dr. A.I. Thomas, was known for trying to help poor students get into Prairie View and graduate at all costs. Thomas stepped down in March.

War mementos bring $91,613 at auction

LONDON (AP) - An array of mementos from Britain's Falkland Islands fight with Argentina - including Prince Andrew's scruffy flying gloves and the ousted Argentine military governor's ceremonial top hat - brought the equivalent of $91,613 at a London auction.

The money raised at Thursday's "Great Falklands Auction" will be donated to the 1,800 residents of the South Atlantic archipelago and relatives of the 254 British servicemen who died retaking the islands from an Argentine invasion force after a 74-day conflict that ended three months ago.

Prince Andrews gloves, marked with "Andrew, Falkland Islands 1982," went for $875 to 26-year-old real estage agent Trevor Spiro, who said he might wear them at his wedding later this year.

The prince, second son of Queen Elizabeth II, wore the gloves as copilot of a helicopter that flew decoy missions over the British fleet to distract incoming Argentine missiles.

Ted Needham, chairman of the British-owned Falkland Islands trading company, bought the black top hat with two white feathers that Argentine Gen. Mario Menendez wore during his tenure as military governor of the islands.

Needham paid $8,750 for the hat left behind by Menendez after he surrendered his garrison June 14. Needham called the hat a "symbol of Argentine oppression" to the Falklanders.

Against PennState Saturday

Cornhuskers favored

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

The last time the Nebraska Cornhuskers played three consecutive road games during the regular season was in 1971. Coincidently, that also was the last time Nebraska won college football's national championship. On Saturday, the Cornhuskers begin a journey that takes them to Penn State, Auburn and Colorado, and if they come home uscathed ... who knows.

'We'll find out a lot about ourselves in the next two or three weeks," says Coach Tom Osborne. "We'll play some great football teams in Penn State and Auburn, and Colorado might be pretty good, too."

Thus far, Nebraska has played - and played with -Iowa 42-7 and New Mexico State. 68-0. The second-ranked Huskers are a 4½-point favorite over No. 8 Penn State, which wasn't severely tested in beating Temple, Maryland and Rutgers, although Maryland gave the Nittany Lions a battle. "We're 3-0, and that's pretty good," says Coach Joe Paterno. "We're getting better. There's more cohesion. We are more comfortable with the new offense, particularly with the passing game."

Suprisingly, the Penn State defense may be suspect. And the rumblings from Nebraska say this may be the best Husker team since '71, the school's last national championship. For all those reasons ... Nebraska, 28-21. Last week's score was 40 right, 11 wrong and one tie for a percentage of .784, leaving the count for the seaon at 100-26-1 -. 794. Against the spread, the score was 15-11-0 it every week as long as the strike lasts," Goodson said, with play-by-play on Houston Oilers games also provided whenever they don't conflict with Cowboys games.

The plan is similar to one used in the early 1950s by Gordon McLendon, a colorful Dallas broadcast personality, who recreated major league baseball games on the nowdefunct Liberty Broadcasting System by reading a Western Union wire in his studio.

McLendon, who once owned KNET, added his own crowd noise and drama and few listeners suspected he was several hundred miles from the stadium.

The computer program that produced the play-byplay printout for the Cowboys-Vikings game is the brainchild of Dale Phillips, a software engineer with Decision Data Systems of Jacksonville, Texas, the firm that provides the software for KNET's computerized payroll.

That's the most creative thing I've ever heard. Goodness gracious alive. I knew they had the program, but I didn't know what they were doing with it," said Bill Waller, owner of the software company.

Herd JV edges Tascosa, 21-18

AMARILLO -- Sammy from 5 yards out for the final Suarez' 5-yard scoring strike to Gary Ruckman with just over three minutes left to play capped a second-half comeback as Hereford edged Tascosa 21-18, Thursday in a junior varsity game.

Tascosa jumped out to a 12-0 first period lead, and led by a 18-7 margin at the half. However, the second half scoring belonged to the Herd JV, which evened its season record at 2-2. After Dennis Chandler recovered a fumble early in the third quarter, Hereford marched 55 yards to get back in the game.

A 35-yard pass from Suarez to Chet Bunch gave the Herd a first down at Tascosa's 5. A couple of plays later Mandio Mendiola slammed over from 2 yards out, and his conversion kick made it 18-14.

Hereford's final scoring drive began following a Tascosa punt midway through the fourth period.

Again, it was the passing combination of Suarez to Bunch which provided the big "Suarez hit Bunch with a pass that moved the ball from our 35 to the Tascosa 10 (55 yards)," said JV coach David

"Then, a couple of plays later, Suarez hit Ruckman

"Tascosa got the ball back, but our defense held, forcing them to punt. We got the ball back with a minute or so to play, and ran out the clock," Ashby added. Tascosa jumped to an early lead when James Galloway hauled in a pass from Scott Cottrell and galloped 70 yards on the third play of the game. John Alexander's 2-yard run later in the period gave the hosts a 12-0 cushion.

Ruckman, who was Hereford's top ball carrier according to Ashby, got the Herd on scoreboard in the second quarter. "He broke a 50-yard run on wingback trap play,' Ashby noted. Then, Tascosa went up 18-6 when Cottrell and Galloway hooked up on a 75-yard scoring play before halftime.

"The passing of Suarez to Bunch provided us with a great deal of our offense." Ashby added. "And, Ruckman ran very well. "They had a chance to really put the game out of reach in the fourth period. They moved to our 1-yard line, and came up with a fourth down

"But, Vernon Carroll stopped their fourth down play, and we took over. If they had scored there I'm not sure we would have been able to come back.

"Defensively, our takles (Dennis Chandler and Jeff Shelton) played very well."

Strike remains on fans' mind

By Les Giles SPORTS EDITOR

The question on most sports fans' minds these days seems to be, When will the pro football strike be settled? It's certainly a good question, but one which seems hard to answer at this point.

Both sides - players vs. owners - seem far apart on the basic issue, and that's money. Neither group appears ready to yield to the other's demands at the current time. And, if that goes on the strike could last for quite some time.

I noticed the other day where the NFL teams will receive full payment from the three TV networks (and that amounts to at least $30 million) for two weeks, regardless whether any games are played, or not.

That might be the key, as this writer sees it. My guess, and it's strictly that, is that the strike will last as long as the teams receive their TV money.

Maybe, just maybe, when that money no longer comes in the two sides will sit down and quickly come to terms, and resume the season.

If that does happen, the season likely would be reduced to a 12-game season.

And, while the NFl strike continues how about the recent court rulings concerning the televising of college

First, a district court judge from New Mexico rules in favor of the universities of Oklahoma and Georgia in their suit to gain the right to negotiate their own TV contracts.

Then, earlier this week in Denver a three-judge panel granted the NCAA a stay on its request, which simply meant those universities could not sell the rights to their games, just yet.

Boy, things move fast.

Strikes, court rulings, first one decision, then another. Sure makes it hard to keep up with everything.

What with all the uproar concerning the pro football strike and NCAA TV rulings, the current major league baseball races have gone virtually unnoticed, except to

However, the season's winding down. The playoffs start

Oct. 5 and the World Series Oct. 12 Just who'll be in the World Series is anyone's guess at this point.

The division races have began taking a definite shape. Suddenly, the Dodgers appear on the verge of putting Atlanta away in the National League West, while in the East St. Louis has pulled away from Philadelphia, Montreal and Pittsburgh.

In the American League West, California took a crucial three-game series from Kansas City earlier this week, and opened a three-game lead.

The Al East, though is still far from settled.

Milwaukee, which enjoyed a 212 game lead as of Thursday, still must play seven games against Balitmore, its chief rival. The Orioles invade Milwaukee to begin a three-game set tonight, then host the Brewers the final four games of the season (Oct. 1-2-3).

It's been an interesting season, yet an almost quiet one. Few major controversies. Players have just gone out and done their jobs. Guess last year's strike was enough for

Even the Yankees have been relatively quiet this season, despite the fact they've been mired in the second division most of the way and have gone through a couple

The biggest story of the year, from an individual standpoint, was Oakland outfielder Ricky Henderson's assault on the single-season stolen base record. . He achieved that a few weeks, ago, and has played little Barring any real slumps down the stretch, Kansas City's Willie Wilson and Montreal's Al Oliver will win batting titles.

Bob Lohr at Brandon & Clark here in town passed on a copy of the El Paso Times pre-season football tab. His sonin-law John Laird is the Sports Editor there.

A story, written by staff writer Mark Leibson, had the following comment about last year's Hereford team. Quoting Bel Air head coach Bob Savage, "Last year, we got beat 22-0 by Hereford. The score doesn't indicate that we dropped a couple of TD passes and gave them a score. Hereford barely lost to Lake Highlands, the team that went on to win state. I sincerely feel that Hereford was the best team in the state last year."

Favored to make the playoffs from El Paso this year were Coronado and Irvin in District 1-5A, and Bel Air and Eastwood in 2-5A.

LaPlata 8th bows to Clovis

CLOVIS - LaPlata'a eighth grade jumped out to an early first quarter lead, only to see it go by the boards as Clovis Gattis came from behind to register a 22-14 win Thursday afternoon.

Chris Urbanczyk scored both LaPlata touchdowns, on runs of 40 and 10 yards, according to coach Kelly Adams.

"We got out in front of them pretty quick," Adams noted, "but after that didn't do very much.

"One player scored all their points. He just kinda got us down mentally as the game went along. He ran through us, and around us.

"In fact, he ran back the second half kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown, which put them up 16-14. Then, he scored again in the final quarter.

"We did drive to their 25 in the final period, but got a pass intercepted to kill that threat. after that, we never did seriously threaten again. "Overall, I was pleased with the play of offensive tackle Jerry Rodriquez and tight end Bobby Baker. Plus, Urbanczyk ran well for us." The LaPlata ninth grade settled for a 12-12 tie against Gattis in a game which followed the eighth grade

Next week, Clovis Marshall visits Hereford for games at 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Now, it may be a trifle late for it to happen again, but ... Frank Robinson's Giants

In other NL games Thursday, Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis, 5-3 in 11 innings, while Philadelphia topped Montreal, 2-0 in 11 innings, enabling the Phillies to move to within 412 games of pacesetting St. Louis in the NL East. Also, New York nipped CBS and ABC, meanwhile, are planning to fill the pro football void on television with college football.

The league announced Thursday that it had officially called off Sunday's 12 games, though no decision has been made on Monday night's Cleveland-Cincinnati contest. Later in the day, Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, and Jack Donlan, head of the NFL Management Council the league's bargaining arm exchanged communications Thursday about resuming negotiations.

No negotiations have been held since last Friday but Garvey sent a message to Donlan saying that the union is prepared to enter roundthe-clock negotiations. Donlan's reply said, "We are and have been ready to bargain for momins. We are prepared to meet with you at a mutually agreeable loca-

With the loss, the Angels' lead in the West was cut to 21/2 games over idle Kansas City.

Texas, which had scored four runs in the first inning on an RBI single by John Grubb, a two-run triple by Jim Sundberg and a balk, got the winning run with one out in the ninth off reliever Mike Witt, 8-6. Joe Ferguson hit a solo homer in the third to start California's short-lived comeback.

Ann Landers

Go ahead and marry

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a career woman who has been going with a wonderful man for three years. We are both in our late 20s. We want to be married but my parents, who were born in another country, have told me I cannot marry until my older sister does. They feel it would ruin her chances if her younger sister married first.

"Joan" is 32 years old and hasn't gone with a man in at least seven years. I am well aware that she is a lesbian (several of my friends know this, too) but, of course, I cannot tell my parents.

Please tell me how to deal this delicate problem.--Dilemma In Savannah

DEAR DIL: Go ahead with your plans for marriage. Tell your parents this is a different culture and a different age and leave your sister out

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Once you said you could deal with any subject. It was just a matter of finding the proper words. I hope you can find the words for this one because a lot of young people need the information.

It is NOT true that pregnancy cannot occur unless the male ejaculates inside the female. Many people who rely on the withdrawal method find themselves in trouble because they are not aware that the male can lose some of his most potent sperm before he ejaculates.

I was a nursing student and not aware of this. Please, Ann, warn others. They will listen to you.-Forever Guilty

In Roseville, Calif. DEAR ROSIE: I am sure your letter will prevent some unwanted pregnancies and abortions. You've performed a valuable service today. Thanks for spelling it out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a beautiful (in every way) daughter who is 14. When she was 12 she put on 20 pounds. Last year, she added another 20. At 5 feet, 5 inches she weighs a whopping 140. If you put a bag over her head you would say her body is that of a middle-aged woman. I have begged her to diet and tried to bribe her with new clothes. I know she resents it when I talk to her about her weight, but I am terribly disturbed by what she is doing to herself. This is a Catch-22: Should I let her continue to gain 20 pounds every year and hope she gets sick of herself and goes on a diet? Or should I keep trying to talk sense to her?

It is heartbreaking to see such a lovely girl throw away her looks. I am also sure she unhappy herself.-Melville, L.I. DEAR MEL: You must be a new reader, or your paper isn't printing the entire column. In the last year I ran two letters about fat teenage daughters who are mother-

I'll repeat the advice: The girl should be seen by a doctor and rule out a medical problem. The doctor should give her a diet and insist that she check back with him.

You, mother should vow never to utter another word about her weight-not even to compliment her if she loses. No mother ever nagged an ounce off a daughter. If the girl is hostile, your plea that she eat more sensibly may cause her to do the opposite. (P.S. According to the weight charts, 140 is not outrageously obese.)

CONFIDENTIAL to Sick and Tired of Guys on the Make: If you don't like what vou've been catching, maybe you ought to consider changing the bait.

Camouflaging carpet burns DEAR POLLY - How can one remove burn marks from a carpet? These are from cigarettes dropping to the floor.

The carpet is a short, dense texture. - M.R. DEAR M.R. — The procedure to use depends on how deep the burn goes. If it is a surface burn and the entire length of each fiber is not damaged, you may be able to trim off the burned area by rubbing it lightly with a piece steel wool. However, if the burn goes much deeper, you'll probably have to cut it out and replace the area with new carpeting either a tuft if it is a small area or a larger patch. If you don't have matching carpet for the patch, ask at your local carpet dealer. They should be able to provide you with something that matches. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I buy several bars of my favorite deodorant soap when it's on sale. Then I unwrap each bar and store them all in the bedroom closets. This keeps the closets fresh smelling without being overly sweet. Good for dresser drawers, too.

When mixing powdered whipped topping, a one-pound cof-fee can is excellent. It's deep enough to keep the mixture from spattering while whipping.

Plastic jugs like those bleach or milk come in make good clothespin holders. Cut off the top leaving the handle. Then cut about one-half to one inch out at the base of the handle. This gives you a hook (the remaining handle) to hang on the clothesline. - BECKY

DEAR POLLY — A shoestring with the ends tied together makes a good bookmark. Just slip the open book through the loop, then close the book. Can't slip out as easily as a simple piece of paper. — MEG

DEAR MEG — What a clever, cute idea for a bookmark. I'm going to get one of those shoestrings that has little hearts or something on it. And you're going to get the Pointer of the Week Award: an autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Long-

DEAR POLLY - I have an old fountain pen. The ink seems to have dried up in it and clogged it. How should I

DEAR L.T. - First try flushing it out with warm water. Fill the pen with water and empty it several times. If this doesn't do the job, repeat, using ammonia, then flush it with the warm water. Should do the trick and have you writing

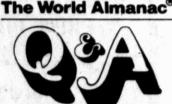

elegantly in no time. - POLLY
