LUXEMBOURG (AP) — A Soviet airliner skidded off a runway at Luxembourg's airport, sideswiped a water tower and exploded into flames, and the government said today that five people were killed and 72 injured.

air. Sietzen, speaking for the Luxembourg government, said all five dead in Wednesday's crash at Findel Airport were Luxembourg nationals. He said the injuries to the other 72 people "vary considerably."

He said the Aeroflot Ilyushin-62 airliner — enroute to Lima, Peru from Moscow with 66 passengers and a crew of 11 — skidded off the runway after it made a normal approach at the Luxembourg airport. "Immediately after the landing the aircraft drifted toward the right of the landing strip and came to a standstill in a small woods," he said.

The aircraft, which had sideswiped a water tower, burst into flames but most of the passengers and the entire crew escaped, he said.

Neither Sietzen nor any other government official would speculate on what made the plane shoot off the runway or comment on police reports that one of the engines malfunctioned.

'Candy Man' to die on Halloween

HOUSTON (AP) — A Death Row inmate known as the "Candy Man" will be ordered to die by injection on Halloween, exactly eight years after he poisoned his 8-year-old son with an arsenic-laced treat, a judge says.

"I thought that would be very appropriate for him," said State District Judge Michael T. McSpadden. "He's ruined Halloween for everybody."

Ronald Clark O'Bryan was convicted in the Oct. 31, 1974, poisoning death of his son, Timothy. He was accused of killing the boy to collect the $30,000 insurance money.

McSpadden said Halloween would be 31 days from today, the sentencing date for O'Bryan. State law requires the court to schedule executions at least 30 days from the sentencing.

But O'Bryan's attorney, Stanley Schneider, said he had a "little surprise" for the judge.

On Wednesday, Schneider and defense attorney Will Gray filed a motion for a stay of execution in the court of U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals. The lawyers argued prospective jurors were improperly excluded for expressing reservations about the death penalty.

Seals, however, took no action Wednesday. Testimony showed O'Bryan had promised his children they could eat one piece of Halloween candy after he took them trick-or-treating. His son complained the last bit of his candy didn't taste good, so O'Bryan gave him Kool-Aid to wash it down.

O'Bryan's 6-year-old daughter did not eat her candy. The boy collapsed, lapsed into a coma and died within an hour after arriving at a hospital.

"If there was ever a case that deserves the death penalty, this is the one," McSpadden said. "He's been sentenced something like four or five times. He's had something like seven years of appeals."

The judge said he is worried a federal court would pick up the case and decide to review it again.

"He's had every opportunity," McSpadden said.

REC announces increase in rate

Effective Nov. 1 members of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative will have their electric bills computed under a new rate schedule according to Greg Black, REC Area Development Manager.

"The new rate will consist of a 42 percent average increase over the previous rate," Black said. "This does not indicate all rates have increased 42 percent, but rather an average of all services combined on our system will increase about that amount based on 1981 usage."

"In these days of steadily rising costs, Deaf Smith REC is fortunate to wait this long before implementing a rate increase," REC board member Donald Wright of Dimmitt added. Black said the REC wholesale power contract by which their power suppliers have been governed for the past 10 years, expires in October.

"In addition to increases in the wholesale power, normal operating expenses have continued to increase due to inflation," Black explained. "These two items are responsible for the proposed rate adjustment."

Black reiterated that Deaf Smith REC has postponed the rate increase "as long as possible."

Registering To Vote

Carolyn Garcia, foreground, and Barbara Lucero were among the Hereford High students registering to vote today. The Key Club conducted a short meeting and provided registration cards for students who will be eligible to vote in the November election. Tim Martin, president, said the club will be contacting students individually as they turn 18 to encourage voting rights.

Police probing two burglaries

Hereford police added two burglaries to its investigations Wednesday and answered miscellaneous calls ranging from dog bites to suspicious persons reports.

A front door was yanked loose in a burglary reported at 300 Austin Road. A gold wristwatch was the only item reported missing.

In the 300 block of Avenue C a house had three windows broken and some screens torn off for entry in a burglary. Missing at that scene is a piggy bank with an undetermined amount of loose change. Fingerprints were taken for the investigation.

The owner of a dog that bit a man on U.S. 60 was contacted and warned to keep the dog, which was properly inoculated, chained or penned.

A person believed to be a man dressed as a woman was reported by a midnight shift convenience store clerk early today. The clerk told the police she thought the person was a man wearing a wig, makeup and women's clothing. The subject caused no disturbance, however, and made a small purchase.

An individual called police around noon Wednesday to report that a girl who was test driving a car may have stolen it. About five hours later she returned with the car and thanked the owner for the drive.

A Utah woman, Belinda Cuellar, was arrested Wednesday on shoplifting charges. When police arrived at Boynton's grocery, a clerk jumped in the squad car and told officers to follow the suspects car. A chase ensued and when police stopped the subject and searched the car, the items were unfound. However, a resident on that street came up to the investigating officers and gave them the missing items which he had found in the street. Ms. Cuellar was then arrested.

Lone Star Gas accepts hike request settlement

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lone Star Gas Co. has agreed to accept less than half of what it had sought from its natural gas customers, with one company officer saying the firm did not want to get tied up in a long hearing.

Lone Star filed a request with the Railroad Commission for an additional $90 million in gas revenue, but cut that figure to $42.9 million after negotiations with customer representatives.

The company serves 536 cities and has more than 1.1 million bill-paying customers.

"Lone Star and the cities recognize the importance of time and want to avoid long regulatory processes," company vice president Douglas Williams said Wednesday.

The proposed settlement — signed by representatives of Lone Star, Dallas and the Texas Municipal League — would increase Lone Star's total revenue by 8.63 percent.

The settlement still must be approved by the commission, which will act on the advice of hearing examiner Michael George, who took testimony Wednesday.

George said his concern was whether the proposed settlement "is in the public interest."

The settlement would raise residential customers' monthly charges by 6.6 percent, and Williams said this was substantially less than the inflation rate since Lone Star's last rate increase nearly three years ago. Commercial customers' bills would increase by 7.1 percent.

Company figures showed a residential customer using 6,000 cubic feet of gas a month would pay $1.92 more a month, and a commercial for state jobless benefits for the week ending Sept. 18 — as reported by the Labor Department — seemed to indicate that things weren't improving much in September.

Commerce's report also said a separate measure of current conditions indicated the economy hit the lowest point of the recession last month.

Officials had said last week the leading indicators index probably had dipped in August, so today's news was not a shock. But it still was bound to be read as a discouraging economic sign.

The index is designed to forecast future trends in the economy.

Today's report said five of the 10 leading indicators showed worse performance in August than in July.

They included a decline in the average workweek, an increase in initial claims for unemployment benefits, a drop in factory orders for consumer goods, a big decline in building permits for future construction and a drop in prices for sensitive crude materials.

Budget amendment heads to House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to balance the U.S. budget is headed toward a House vote after a recruitment blitz by Vice President George Bush helped win the support needed to yank it from a hostile committee.

Backers of the proposed ban on deficit spending, which passed the Senate 69-31 in August but was stalled in the House Judiciary Committee, employed a rarely used parliamentary tactic to force the House showdown.

They lined up the needed 218 signatures — a majority of the 435 members of the House — on a so-called "discharge petition" to remove the measure from the committee's jurisdiction.

Five indicators rose, but not enough to balance the big drops in the five that fell.

Those rising included delivery performance and increases in orders for new plants and equipment, stock prices, total liquid assets and the money supply.

Today's Labor Department report on initial unemployment claims showed that that important component of the leading indicators index had continued deteriorating in September. Initial claims had averaged 597,000 in August.

Labor officials said the Sept. 18 figure was the highest since they began keeping track of the numbers in the present seasonally adjusted form in 1967.

The Commerce report also included the Index of Coincident Indicators — a current-conditions gauge that showed the economy was still declining in August, 13 months into the recession.

The coincident indicators dropped 0.6 percent in August to 132 percent of the 1967 base of 100, dipping below the July level of 132.8, which had been the recession's low point. The leading indicators index fell to 128.6 percent of the base but remained above the 125.1 percent March low point.

Stoppag spending bill delayed until Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the midnight start of a new fiscal year, passage of a stopgap spending bill necessary to keep the government running will have to wait until Friday, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said today.

O'Neill, D-Mass., told reporters that negotiators for the House and Senate would not finish work on a compromise version of the measure until the early hours of Friday.

O'Neill said the House would not stay in session tonight to await the final measure.

"We'll pass that tomorrow, so I don't think there'll be too much effect" on the operations of the government, O'Neill said.

Edwin L. Dale Jr., a spokesman for the White House Office of Management and Budget, said this morning he had not yet been informed of the decision and would have to check to see what the impact would be on government operations.

Congress has been racing the midnight start of the new fiscal year in an attempt to finish work on the spending bill.

Before O'Neill's announcement, legislators in both chambers had said they expected to pass a compromise measure and send it to President Reagan for his signature tonight.

Lawmakers are anxious to recess so they can campaign for the November elections.

The Senate passed its version of the omnibus money bill on a 72-26 vote Wednesday night, needing about 12 hours and the threat of having to stay in session next week to cut through a thicket of dozens of amendments that had stood in the way of a final vote.

During Senate action, Democrats failed in bids to increase unemployment benefits for the jobless and create about 200,000 temporary public service jobs.

In addition, a bipartisan attempt to scrap the $3.6 billion prototype Clinch River breeder reactor in Tennessee was rejected on a 49-48 vote.

Youth charged with involuntary manslaughter

Abelardo Tijerina, 17, was charged with involuntary manslaughter Wednesday for the death of an 11-year-old pedestrian killed in an accident in which Tijerina was driving, according to the district attorney's office.

Tijerina, 514 Knight, remains free on $500 bond posted for the driving while intoxicated charge he was jailed for immediately after the accident.

Refugia Enriquez Jr. died Monday in Northwest Texas Hospital, Amarillo, from injuries he received when he and three other pedestrians were hit by Tijerina's car Sunday night in the 100 block of Avenue G.

Tijerina will face the grand jury Oct. 6.

The 39 entries will leave the high school parking lot, reel west on Union, north on Avenue F to Park Avenue and through downtown on Main Street to Second and Schley.

Starring the homecoming queen and her court, the cast also includes local school bands, class and club floats, fire trucks and the victory bell, all escorted by police.

Economic index declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's main gauge of future economic health turned down in August, and initial claims for unemployment benefits soared to a record level in mid-September, officials reported today in a new batch of bad economic news.

The decline of 0.9 percent in the Commerce Department's Index of Leading Economic Indicators followed four monthly gains, which had built hopes of recovery from the lingering recession.

The 703,000 initial claims for state jobless benefits for the week ending Sept. 18 — as reported by the Labor Department — seemed to indicate that things weren't improving much in September.

City approves rail mass transit system

HOUSTON (AP) — City officials have given the green light for construction of a $1.8 billion, 18.2-mile rail system to ease traffic on two congested freeways.

Metropolitan Transit Authority directors Wednesday unanimously approved the project and construction could begin in a year, said General Manager Alan Kiepper.

Thirteen miles could be finished by 1987, and the entire system completed two years later, Kiepper said.

Officials are unsure how the ambitious project will be financed, but they said a bond issue and vendor financing will be considered.

Board Chairman Dan Arnold said the city is still hoping to obtain federal financing, but the Reagan administration's budget-cutting has made that uncertain the past year.

Plans call for the rail system to parallel U.S. Highway 59 from downtown Houston to the far southwest corner of the city. It also will run along Interstate 45 from downtown to north Houston.

Derailed train cars still burning

LIVINGSTON, La. (AP) — Workers wearing air masks and protective suits have found toxic chemicals in soil and streams near derailed tanker cars that were burning today for the third straight day, authorities said.

The town of Livingston remained empty, although about 500 to 600 of the 3,300 residents evacuated after the railroad accident Tuesday were allowed to return Wednesday night to their homes in "a rural area of a rural area" outside the danger zone, said Sgt. Stephen Campbell, a Louisiana State Police spokesman.

Early Tuesday, 43 cars of a 101-car Illinois Central-Gulf train derailed on the eastern edge of the town, triggering fires and three major explosions over two days, and forcing evacuation of residents within a five-mile radius.

Even state police and emergency personnel were ordered to stay two miles away from the tank cars, many containing vinyl chloride and other toxic chemicals.

Hurricane Paul hits Northwest Mexico

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Paul slammed into northwest Mexico early today, packing 112 mph gusts and heavy rains that damaged homes and cut telephone service along the coast of the Gulf of California.

The national weather service in Mexico City said the vanguard of the hurricane passed over the Baja California peninsula late Wednesday and smashed into the mainland in the early morning hours.

The Red Cross in La Paz, state capital of South Baja California, said the winds were felt since noon Wednesday. A spokesman, who did not give his name, said about 85 homes were damaged by the winds and heavy rains.

He also said late Wednesday that telephone communications to San Jose del Cabo, about 70 miles south of here on the peninsula's tip, had been interrupted. He did not know if roads were still passable.

The airport in La Paz, 2,674 miles northwest of Mexico City by road, was closed.

USC student credited with aid in evacuation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A University of Southern California student praised as a hero in an apartment fire says he just did what anyone would do in that situation.

But campus police said Wednesday that Michael "Mick" Lynch, 18, was the only person who had the courage and concern to go into a darkened burning building to help evacuate the 40 people living there last Friday.

Lynch, a sophomore from Dell City, Texas, was treated for minor injuries sustained in the rescue effort.

"I just think anybody who saw what was happening would need to do it. I just did what had to be done," Lynch said.

Two campus security officers on patrol early Friday reportedly noticed smoke pouring from a second-floor unit in the two-story apartment building adjacent to the campus a few miles south of downtown Los Angeles.

The officers asked Lynch, who was passing by, to help evacuate the building.

"He went down the hallways, knocking door to door, to help evacuate the residents," said Jim Gates, manager of USC's Housing Protection and Safety Office.

"The fire had knocked out the building's electricity, so he did it all in the dark," Gates added.

What we used to do for ourselves

"Voluntarism" is a new word for "what we used to do for ourselves."

Three generations of politicians taught us to "look to Washington" for help that we used to provide for ourselves.

Now, overwhelmed by the bills for all those "free" services, government is trying to wean us away from that back toward self-help, back toward "voluntarism."

And with significant success.

In Davenport, Washington, 25 streets were chronically potholed—until citizen volunteers mobilized themselves. They got their city to supply 151 tons of asphalt and the local folks spread it around themselves.

Kansas City's 168 parks were pinched by cutbacks in government funding—so hundreds of Kansas Citizens signed up to perform maintenance work.

A Wichita oilman and some friends have established an emergency fund to lend money to businesses and individuals who need immediate help and can't qualify for government aid and can't afford today's high interest rates.

Their not-for-profit organization called SECOND CHANCE has offered a helping hand-up for hundreds already.

President Reagan, during a recent trip to Utah, refamiliarized himself with the self-help system of the Mormon Church and recommended it for others.

The LDS Church maintains farms, ranches, processing plants, thrift stores, storehouses and employment centers. The essence of their "welfare system" is for each of the church's 5 million members to lay aside enough during good years to create a reserve for lean years.

Church members fast for two meals each month and donate the money thus saved.

If all Americans were to tithe 10 percent to their churches, all welfare could be administered as it once was—more efficiently, at less cost and with less chicanery.

Government never has been able to care for needy people as effectively as churches and private charities once did. Government giveaways tended to discourage voluntarism. President Reagan is hoping to revive it.

And with measurable success. Last year Americans nationally volunteered a record $64 billion worth of services to needy people; this year's generosity will top that.

Passenger lands helicopter

HOUSTON (AP) — A helicopter pilot who suffered a fatal heart attack while flying home refused to stop for help in Arkansas because he wanted "to die in Texas," says a passenger who took over the controls and safely landed the craft.

K.W. Musgrove, who lives in the suburb of Deer Park, said he managed to land the helicopter Wednesday at two different farm houses in rural East Texas to summon medical help, but no one was home.

Musgrove, a student pilot with 15 hours experience, said he then taxied the helicopter to a brickyard about two miles north of Garrison. But by the time an ambulance was called Jolly R.

Wheeler Jr., 39, also of Deer Park, had died, said Peace Justice Harold Bogue.

"I tried to get him to stop and get to a hospital, but he jokingly said, 'I want to die in Texas.' I said, 'Oh no, don't say that,'" Musgrove said.

"We finally stopped at a small airport about 20 miles from where he died and a lady there gave him some medicine. He said he would be all right," he said.

The two men were returning from a trip to Illinois, where Musgrove had purchased the helicopter, he said.

They spent Tuesday night in Bentley, Ark., where Wheeler complained of feeling ill and went to a hospital. Wheeler was told he probably had indigestion.

"He said they ran a test on his heart but found nothing wrong," Musgrove said.

As they were flying back to the Southeast Texas community of LaPorte on Wednesday afternoon, Wheeler complained of severe chest pains and asked him to take the controls, Musgrove said.

"He pulled a bottle of medicine out of his pocket. I told him we weren't too far from a hospital and asked him to let me call an ambulance. He said he was all right, that he could make it," Musgrove said.

About 15 minutes later, Wheeler told him to land immediately because was going to faint, Musgrove said.

agencies and programs when the new fiscal year begins Friday.

Congressional sources said that despite the differences between the House and Senate bills, neither appeared to contain any provisions that might bring a veto from the president.

"There is no veto on the horizon," said a GOP congressional source who asked not to be quoted by name.

A veto fight between Congress and the president last November forced a partial one-day shutdown of the government.

Congress must pass the so-called continuing resolution because none of the 13 annual appropriations bills that provide money for government operation have been signed into law. Without the stopgap measure, the government technically will be without money at midnight.

The House measure carries an expiration date of Dec. 15 while the Senate bill would expire Dec. 22. Congressional leaders have said the House and Senate will return Nov. 29 for a post-election session to work on the regular money bills.

The main sticking point in the conference is the level of defense funding.

customer using 37,000 cubic feet of gas would pay an extra $12 a month.

Austin lawyer Don Butler, representing the Municipal League, said the cities' major concession was to drop its opposition to Lone Star's request to pass on to customers 100 percent of its gas cost increases. Lone Star now passes on 95 percent of those costs.

W.F. Weidler, director of gas purchases and sales, told George the pass-through "has nothing to do with the price of gas. We have to pay what the competition is willing to pay."

"In the last six months we've seen a softening of the market. It's more of a buyer's market," Weidler said. By comparison, he said the previous year or two had been a "regular dog fight" to obtain gas.

Williams said the company had agreed in the proposed settlement to a 15.45 percent return on equity. Its original request this year was for 18 percent, and the Municipal League had recommended 16 percent.

"We have reached an equitable, responsible and reasonable settlement," Williams said.

glitch," he added.

In a speech Wednesday, he said the pattern leading to recovery was firmly established although "there may be an occasional blip."

While they haven't dismissed it is a mere "glitch," economists inside and outside the government agree that one month's change of direction in the leading indicators should not be read as a trend.

The economy seemed to revive a bit in July, but then apparently declined again last month, leading many private economists to sum things up with the same phrase: that the economy was "bumping along the bottom" of the recession, neither falling rapidly nor recovering.

For example, industrial production was down for the 11th month in the past 13 after rising in July; retail sales followed a 1.2 percent July increase with a 0.9 percent August decline despite hopes that the mid-summer tax-rate cut would encourage spending; housing starts were down 16 per cent after rising nearly twice that much in July, and unemployment stayed at 9.8 percent, the highest level in 41 years.

Inflation and interest rates are down from last year, as the president and other officials frequently note. But those declines have accompanied the decline in the economy rather than stopping it.

"We still have a long way to go," Reagan also said Tuesday night, a statement that would receive wider agreement than his talk of an indicators glitch.

Still, he said, "We're heading toward a good recovery."

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan took much the same tack on Wednesday when he told reporters that he expected the national economy to grow at an annual rate of 3 percent to 4 percent in the October-December quarter, after adjusting for inflation.

That would probably be an improvement over the still-unfinished third quarter. But it would also be only about half the 7 percent to 8 percent annual growth rate that has typically followed past recessions.

before, fixed expenses account for the largest portion of our total cost of service," he said. "For example, wholesale power cost, depreciation, interest, and taxes alone amount to 89 percent of the total cost of our electric service. These are expenses that are completely beyond the control of cooperating management and the board of directors."

Speaking on behalf of the board, Wright explains, "we realize people of this area share the concern over the rising cost of production, which includes the cost of electricity, and trust they understand our plight and efforts to minimize these inevitable rate increases."

Stovall status revised

Darlene Stovall, the young Hereford woman who is to undergo a bone marrow transplant at Houston, will be placed in the intensive care unit on Monday, it was reported today by family members.

Tentative word had been received Wednesday that Miss Stovall was already in the isolation ward. Friends report that cards can be sent to Darlene at M.D. Anderson Hospital, 6723 Bertner, Houston, Tx. 77030).

Funds to help defray the family's medical expenses have been started at both Hereford banks. Miss Stovall is a 1982 graduate of Hereford High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Stovall.

tower, shot into the woods and caught fire, forcing passengers and crew to flee for their lives as explosions shattered the flaming, blackened fuselage.

Initial reports put the death toll at 53. That was revised to 12 and later a police spokesman said the number was no higher than 10. He said the pilot and co-pilot were slightly injured.

Many suffered severe burns and were taken to a burn center in Metz, France, 37 miles south. Others were taken to five hospitals in the city.

A group of survivors, including some crew members, took refuge in a nearby farmhouse, witnesses said. Rescue workers brought powerful lights to the scene and called out for survivors in several different languages, including Russian.

About 15 people were to have disembarked during the stopover, officials said. An Aeroflot spokesman in Lima said the other scheduled stops were Shannon, Ireland; Havana, Cuba; and Kingston, Jamaica.

After hitting the water tower, the plane shot over a small pond and plunged into some woods, felling trees for about 100 yards before it halted at the end of a small valley, television reports said.

Air traffic controllers said the pilot had approached from the west and landed without instruments because weather conditions were good.

RTL television said it was the first major air disaster in the history of this tiny grand duchy of about 360,000, which is surrounded by Belgium, West Germany and France.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor
Senator Bob Dole says his Senate Finance Committee will soon hold hearings on "Flat Rate Tax". As a 71 year old man, I am worried plenty at the prospect. It might be OK to cut Social Security benefits of the elderly as a way of saving that program for future retirees but taxing the elderly wouldn't accomplish that. The tax revenue wouldn't go to the SS fund - and shouldn't, incidentally.
Flat Rate Tax is just what the name implies. The income tax rate of the near-rich, the rich and the super-rich would be drastically cut and rate of the poor and nearly all the elderly would be increased to make up for loss of revenue. Some Congressmen are thinking of a federal sales tax on everything we buy as a means to lower the income tax rate of the affluent.

We are given all kinds of excuses for wanting this radical change, none of these excuses holding water. For example, "cheating" could be eliminated just as easily without shifting the tax burden from the rich to the poor. Loopholes could be closed, too, without passing the burden to the elderly.

Our Congressmen should be reminded that more people are learning all the time that his plan would cause much hardship for those who can stand it least and is only for those who need it least.

Sincerely,
Loyd Burks

Texas too lax on dogfighting

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas is becoming the "dogfighting capital" of the nation because its law is too lax, one legislator said before his committee voted to make dogfighting a felony and dogfight-watching illegal as well.

The House Committee on State Affairs unanimously decided Wednesday to ask the Legislature to enact the tougher law when it convenes in January.

"We're becoming the dogfighting capital because other states are cracking down," said Rep. Milton Fox, R-Houston. "This is not just some local good ol' boys fighting dogs. This is a national activity designed to make money and some other very unsavory activities go along with it."

San Antonio Rep. Paul Elizondo said at his subcommittee's hearings this summer, law enforcement officials testified they had better luck prosecuting dogfighters under gambling laws than under the state's anti-dogfighting statute.

"We love to go to the mountains and like trout fishing," comments Betty Martin, a 35-year resident of Hereford. "We've really enjoyed Don's retirement and being able to travel when we want to."

The couple moved here from Dalhart, where Don was a football coach. He came here to become the principal of Hereford High School. Before his retirement from the school system four years ago, he had "served in practically every capacity," notes Betty, from principal at Stanton Junior High to his most recent counseling position.

Don was raised at Stanford and Betty at Matador, "so we both consider ourselves West Texans," she says.

Betty had done substitute teaching during the years Don was working for the school system, but quit when he retired so that they would be free to travel and do things together.

"He is not completely retired, however," says Betty. "He has an office at Property Enterprises and sells crop-hail insurance and deals in real estate."

Betty and Don enjoy spending time with their children and four grandchildren. Their son, Fred, and his family live in Bastrop and their daughter, Nancy, and family live in Denver, Colo. Each couple has a son and a daughter.

"We just returned from a trip to Colorado," says Betty. "We usually go in the fall because the scenery is so beautiful. This year the weather wasn't so nice, though. It rained quite a bit."

The Martins are members of the First United Methodist Church, where Betty has taught Sunday School in the past.

Betty is president of the King's Manor Auxiliary, a volunteer organization formed to help residents of Westgate and King's Manor and plan various activities for them. "I think it is a very worthwhile organization and I enjoy being involved in it," notes Betty.

She is also a member of a sewing club. "Everyone brings whatever they want to work on and we enjoy visiting while we sew or do other handwork," comments Betty. She mostly does needlepoint.

"I play bridge and enjoy tile painting, and I do some oil painting," she adds. "I've taken a few classes at the Texas Gallery, and enjoy going when different artists come and teach classes."

Betty also enjoys refinishing furniture and arranging both dried and fresh flowers. She likes to work in her yard and grows many of her own flowers.

Betty says that although she still cooks every day, she doesn't do nearly as much cooking and baking as she did when her children were still at home.

"The main time I cook is before Christmas, getting ready for the family being together," she says. "I like to bake ahead and put things in the deep freeze so I can enjoy the children and grandchildren while they are here."

Betty shares several recipes which are quick and easy to make and are enjoyed by the whole family. The Caramel Corn is a favorite which she makes in large quantities. "It freezes well too," she comments.

Calligraphy program presented to Valeda Study Club members

Valeda Study Club met in the home of Marcella McLain Monday night. After the meeting was called to order by President Donna Lindeman, it was noted that two Community concert tickets were purchased for the school student program.

Members answered roll call with "What letter is unique in my handwriting."

Kay Tindall presented a program on calligraphy or "beautiful handwriting." She demonstrated how all letters of the alphabet can be made from just a few basic strokes.

Each member attempted to make their own monogram using italic calligraphy. Mrs. Tindall showed several illustrations of the use of calligraphy for announcements, scripture and verse.

Members were reminded that the next meeting will be guest night at the Flame Room.

Those present were Marcella Brady, Marjorie Lasiter, Ms. Lindeman, Norma Martin, Ms. McLain, Joyce Ritter, Jean Ruther, Norma Walden, Margaret Zinser, Teddie Poindexter, Patricia Weldon, and a guest, Snooks Fan.

The first moving picture theater was the Electric Theater on South Main Street in Los Angeles, which opened in 1902 with an hour-long presentation. Admission was two cents.

Herd hoping to regain winning form

Cumpton: "The key against Caprock will be to control the football"

BY LES GILES
Sports Editor

When Hereford takes on Caprock Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Whiteface Stadium, the Herd will be in a unique position. "It's the first time in a long while that we've played a game after losing the previous week," noted head coach Don Cumpton. "It'll be kinda interesting to see how we react."

Last season's only loss came in the Class 5A semifinals, and Hereford didn't play the next week.

The last time Hereford had to play the next week following a loss was midway through the 1981 campaign.

"I know one thing," Cumpton added, "the kids didn't like losing last week (to Monterey by a 6-0 margin). "It was a new experience for them."

"While they were disappointed, they weren't distraught. They knew the game could have gone either way."

And, while the Herd rates as 25-point favorites against the Longhorns (2-2 overall this season and 1-2 in district warfare) for Friday's Homecoming encounter, Cumpton isn't counting his chickens, just yet.

"Defensively, Caprock has been a pretty good football team," he noted.

"Teams haven't beaten them to death."

"Defensively, Caprock plays very good technique.

They're capable of slowing you down.

"The key for us will be to control the football against them. They haven't given up the big play that much this season."

While Caprock ranks third in the district in total defense (allowing 183 yards a game), it is next-to-last (eighth) in total offense, averaging 170 yards an outing.

The Longhorns have scored only 21 points in four games, while giving up 53.

Hereford remained the No. 1 team in the league offensively, following last week's game against Monterey. The Herd has averaged 362 yards a game, while scoring 26.8 per contest.

The Whitefaces also moved into the top spot defensively following the Monterey contest. They've allowed seven points and 162 yards a game.

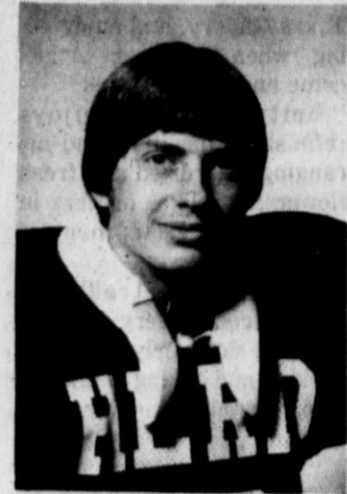

Offensively, the Longhorns are paced by tailback Colin Duniavan. He's rushed for 308 yards on 64 carries, ranking third in the league.

"He's not a real fast back," Cumpton said, "but he's a good slashing-type runner."

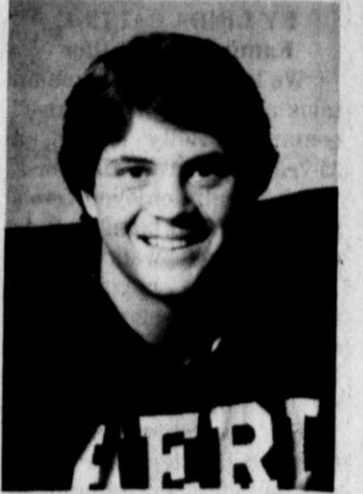

Hereford wingback Glenn-Phibbs is a questionable starter for Friday's game, according to Cumpton.

"Glenn hurt his ankle last week, and has missed a couple of workouts this week. If he's not able to go Friday, Mickey Stengel will take his place.

Wild-card games may be eliminated

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

While both sides in the National Football League players strike continue to snipe at each other for failing to make progress in negotiations, league officials are contemplating ways to recoup the season once the walkout ends.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Wednesday that the

In Harris poll

Herd falls to 43rd

Hereford, which began the season ranked 56th, but which had moved as high as 29th, tumbled 11 notches in this week's Harris Rating System Poll after its 6-0 loss to Monterey last week.

The Herd, 3-1 on the season and 1-1 in District 3-5A play, is ranked 43rd in this week's poll. Monterey moved up only three places (from 40th to 37th) following its win over Hereford.

Plainview, ranked ninth in this week's United Press International schoolboy poll, is elimination of wild-card playoff games might be the most painless way to salvage a weekend of regular-season games.

The wild-card round, with one game in each conference between teams that did not win their divisions, is scheduled for Jan. 2. If the decision is made to drop that round, Rozelle said, the league would move the slate of the highest-ranked 3-5A team in the Harris poll (21st).

Port Arthur Jefferson remained atop the Class 5A list, while Permian moved up from fourth to second.

Hereford is a 25-point favorite this week against Caprock, ranked 189th (among 245 Class 5A schools). Monterey is favored by 32 points over Lubbock High, while Plainview is a 14-point pick against Amarillo High. Coronado is favored by six points against Tascosa.

of games from one of the weekends lost to the strike to that date.

Each NFL team has already missed one game and Rozelle has said that if the strike is not settled by today, a second round of regular-season games would be wiped out.

No one is predicting that today's negotiations in Washington will bring the end of the 10-day strike.

"We will have no new counter-proposals," Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, said of today's scheduled resumption of talks, which last were held Sunday in Hempstead, N.Y. "We have 10 items on the table and not only haven't they agreed to one single item, they are trying to get takebacks for disabled players."

"This works two ways," responded Jim Miller, public relations director for the NFL Management Council, the owners' negotiating unit. "They (the union representatives) haven't accepted anything we have put on the table. Their idea of collective bargaining is to reject everything we suggest. We will have nothing new. We are still awaiting a response for our offer of last Sunday to guarantee the $1.6 billion."

At the time, Garvey termed the offer "a false guarantee." Tex Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys and chairman of the NFL's competition committee, said Wednesday the league would not necessarily have to make up the games lost to the strike.

"We are not ready to abandon the current schedule," said Schramm, "but I think people will accept a 12-to 14-game schedule without further hindrance. We were playing 12 games as recently as 1960."

Schramm said that a number of factors would come into play before the league decides what to do with the lost games.

"We have to look at the situation on a week-to-week basis," Schramm said.

Rozelle said the league has not determined how many games would have to be lost before it would become pointless to resume the season.

The commissioner said any plan for finishing the season would also have to be approved by the players because elimination of games "eliminates money for players as well as television and gate receipts for the owners."

With no talks held Wednesday, Garvey met with Teamsters President Roy Williams.

The NFLPA issued no official statement on the meeting, but Duke Zeller, a Teamsters spokesman, said the two men talked about Teamster support if the NFL owners try to schedule games without the striking players.

Rice quarterback Phillip Money faced moment of truth and decided to stay

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
 AP Sports Writer
 HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University quarterback Phillip Money had a moment of truth last season as a sophomore when he discussed with roommate Richard Gray the possibility of transferring to another school.

Money, an all-everything athlete at Edinburg High School, came to Rice for a chance to play early in his college career and because he liked the open, friendly atmosphere on the small, ivy-covered Rice campus.

Instead he found that sitting on the bench while junior college transfer Michael Calhoun held the spotlight was lonely and unfriendly.

Money eventually decided to remain at Rice and today he's glad — Coach Ray Alborn has decided to start Money at quarterback for Saturday's Southwest Conference opener against the 15th-ranked University of Texas Longhorns.

"It was hard for me," Money said, discussing his first two seasons of non-playing for the Owls. "Your hopes are so high when you first come in. I was frustrated at times. If you've been successful in high school, you expect to go to college and nothing will change."

Money started to have doubts when Calhoun, a highly touted junior college player, transferred to Rice before last season.

"I thought 'This guy is coming in and it might be my senior year before I get to play,'" Money said. "I guess

I decided to stay because of the school and my friends here. Richard told me to look at all aspects of it and make the best decision for me."

While Money was discovering the cold realities of college football last season, Calhoun threw 21 touchdown passes to tie a SWC record and ran for another touchdown to account for all of Rice's 1981 touchdowns.

But when the Owls got off to an 0-3 start this season, Alborn decided he had to make a change.

"Mike's a good athlete, but he's been making mental errors," Money said. "I'd like to be able to just eliminate those mistakes at the position and try to push the team down the field and get us on the scoreboard."

Money will provide a contrast at quarterback compared to Calhoun, a talented runner and scrambler. Money is slower and more of a dropback type passer.

"I've always thrown the ball a lot, but I don't look at this as being all on my shoulders," Money said. "I feel everyone here has a role to perform."

Calhoun, although bitterly disappointed by his demotion,

Walton ready for comeback

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Bill Walton, whose brilliant career in professional basketball was interrupted by foot problems in 1979, is getting ready to return to the San Diego Clippers for some games at least in 1982-83.

"Bill is going to play," said Ted Podleski, general manager of the National Basketball Association club. "We'll determine later how much and how often."

After undergoing a physical and X-rays, the 6-foot-11 center who led the Portland Trail Blazers to the NBA title in 1977, flew back to his law studies at Stanford University. He said he would go to the Clippers' training camp on Friday.

Walton played in several pick-up games this summer, apparently testing his foot to his own satisfaction.

In business world
Golf opens many doors

By WILL GIMSLEY AP
 Special Correspondent

Hey, kids, if you want to be a swinger, travel the world and make a lot of dough while you're young, pick up that tennis racket and go out and practice six hours a day the way Ivan Lendl does. But if long-range dividends and security are your bag, you'd be better off to grab a set of golf clubs.

In a national survey of the Fortune 500 chief executives, it has been found that 81 percent of the corporate titans play golf. Of those who do, 71 percent use the game as a means of conducting business.

"More big deals are transacted on the tees and in the locker room than in the board rooms," says David Branon, vice president of the sporting goods firm, Dunlop, which conducted the probe. Dunlop is as deeply involved in making tennis rackets — McEnroe's name is on one of their weapons — as golf equipment, and so there was no cause to weigh the results. The company said it did it for its own guidance.

"You have a lot of opportunity for persuasion when you sit in a golf cart with a client for four hours," Branon concluded. "Tennis, while a fine sociable game, offers no such relaxed, personal contact."

Branon said the survey disclosed that more than half the golfing chief executives, 54 percent, set aside a few hours to play a round of golf during the workday. They encouraged their employees to do the same.

Eighty-three percent expressed a preference for playing golf with executives of their own firm. It's been a key to the executive restrooms for many a bright, young prospect.

While 59 percent of the executives said they played tennis — 41 percent playing golf as well — only 26 percent said they played tennis on workdays, and only half of these found it suitable to bringing up business matters.

The survey produced other interesting items:

Two-thirds of the corporate wheels — 64 percent — carry their golf clubs on business trips. This compares with 71 percent of the tennis buffs who pack a racket, which is easier to handle.

Asked what golf star they would most like to play with, the executives chose Tom Watson over Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer. "I think it's Watson's conservative image and those investment commercials he makes," Branon said.

The tennis player they most coveted as a partner was Bjorn Borg — "a conservative, control image" — with Chris Evert Lloyd, second, and Jimmy Connors, third. John McEnroe failed to make the top 10.

The mean handicap of the executives was 19, with only 12 percent recording 10 or less.

A local success story

DENVER (NEA) — Volunteer organizations committed to aiding the elderly, handicapped and impoverished members of their communities abound throughout the country, but none is quite like Brothers Redevelopment, Inc. here.

"We don't fit any stereotype," says BRI Vice President Sharon Beyer. "It's extremely difficult to duplicate this model," adds Don Schierling, one of four men who founded BRI in 1973 and now an officer of a local bank.

In an organizational effort matched in few other cities, BRI has inspired many of the Denver area's banks, businesses, foundations, churches and thousands of local citizens to participate in a long-term campaign to improve housing for the city's low- and moderate-income residents.

The fact that BRI is still thriving and remains committed to its original goals more than a decade after it was founded is a notable accomplishment because community organizations in this country are notorious for their short life spans.

BRI not only has survived, it has successfully undertaken more than 1,500 home repair and renovation projects on Denver's Westside and in other deteriorating urban neighborhoods. Savings average $2,000 per household or more than $3 million citywide.

One of the organization's most visible efforts is its annual "Paint-a-Thon," which this year attracted 1,200 volunteers who painted 100 homes in the city and four surrounding counties.

The First National Bank of Denver joined BRI as the principal co-sponsor of the event, with volunteers and supplies provided by Allstate Insurance, Amoco Oil, Atlantic Richfield, Superior Oil, Rockwell International and other corporations.

Additional assistance came from local supermarkets, beer breweries, paint companies, radio and television stations, church groups, restaurants and utility companies.

In contrast with that intensive one-day effort, BRI operates a year-round rehabilitation and renovation program which last year channeled 22,000 hours of volunteer labor into 375 projects involving both occupied and vacant dilapidated homes.

In the city's heavily Hispanic Baker neighborhood, BRI undertook a two-year campaign to upgrade 144 housing units in an 18-block target area of low- and moderate-income families.

Beginning with a $640,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, BRI developed a financial plan that produced a $3.7 million investment in the neighborhood, including $180,000 worth of volunteer services.

During the past summer, BRI hired and trained 17 low-income young people to rehabilitate an abandoned house. "They got it done faster than we expected so they went on to another one," says BRI President Joe Giron.

Another BRI operation, which provides home counseling services, placed 180 families in their first homes during the last two years and currently is assisting hundreds of homeowners in default on their mortgage payments in an effort to prevent those delinquencies from becoming foreclosures.

In recent years, BRI has become increasingly involved in the design, financing, rehabilitation and construction of multi-family housing units. During the next six months, for example, it will assume responsibility for $1 million worth of construction involving 56 units at six different sites.

Virtually all of the funding will come from local financial institutions and individual investors familiar with BRI's record of professionalism. "We've never allowed public dollars to dominate this program," says Schierling.

BRI now has an annual budget of almost $2 million and its secret of success, he suggests, "is our ability to walk the fine line between being successful and staying in touch with the grass roots."

In addition, the organization relies heavily upon the concept of mutual self-help which encourages neighbors to pool their skills, time and resources to keep their homes in good repair.

Most important, however, is what Schierling describes as "an extraordinarily high level of honesty and integrity, combined with unwavering devotion and dedication to the organization's goal of improving the city's living conditions."

"Good breeding consists in concealing how much we think of ourselves, and how little we think of the other person." Mark Twain

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You get into a good many things that most columnists wouldn't touch with a 20-foot pole. I hope you have the courage to print this. It's from the editorial page of the Danbury, (Conn.) News-Times.

"While the federal government is cutting millions of dollars from child health programs, including the highly successful immunization program, it is continuing to spend millions of dollars to subsidize the care of pets owned by Army and Air Force personnel. A Wisconsin congressman estimated that the Army and Air Force spent $12.6 million in fiscal 1981 for the care of personal pets. It strikes us that a government that can afford to subsidize dog and cat immunization programs to the tune of $12 million-plus should be able to afford an equivalent sum for this nation's children."

What do you think, Ann Landers?—Hot Under The Collar

DEAR HOT COLLAR: I predict that funding for the children's immunization program will miraculously appear.

Richard Schweiker, U.S. secretary of health and human services, is a very able and caring man. He is not going to let millions of our kids go unprotected from polio, measles and whopping cough to save a few dollars.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back you printed a letter from a reader who was highly critical of people who sprinkle their conservation with "you know." You agreed that such repetition was tiresome and the mark of a poor speaker. Well, I just read that David Crystal, no less the head of the linguistic sciences department at Reading University—says the phrases "you know," "I mean," and "as a matter of fact" are subtle linguistic features that perform a vital job.

They allow the speaker a moment to think. Also they can inject strong dollops of meaning. In a Royal Society of Arts lecture, reported in the Guardian, Mr. Crystal took special notice of "you know." He noted that the phrase softens an otherwise abrupt announcement. Example: "It's time we went home." How much smoother when the person says, "You know—it's time we went home."

Anycoment, Miss Know-It-All?—Lamar, Mo., Reader

DEAR LAMAR: I never claimed to know it all, but I do know there is a vast difference between Mr. Crystal's sample sentence, and... "You know, it's time we went home, you know, because if we stay much longer we might miss the last bus, you know." Get it?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am worried sick and can't talk to anyone about this. I went to visit my sister in another state. She has two lovely children, a boy 5 and a girl, 8. She was divorced three years ago.

The little boy asks his mother to put rouge and lipstick on him and loves to walk around in her high heels with her purse. When he plays house with his sister, he wants to be the mommy. He's a beautiful child and looks more like a girl than a boy. Is there any change that he is already homosexual?—Worried in San Diego

DEAR S.D.: My Menninger consultants tell me that most sexual preference patterns are set by the age of 3. But it's too early to be sure about your nephew. Your sister should see that he plays with boys. She should also discourage the heels, purse and lipstick. However, if he is already programmed, he'll go in that direction no matter what.

Delegates give reports at council meeting

The Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers council met in the Community Center Monday afternoon following the Tasting Bee and heard reports by delegates to the State TEHA meeting held recently in El Paso.

Delegates reporting were Anna Messer, Mary Carter, Bertha Dettmann, Cindy Norvell, and Kate Bradley. The theme of the reports entered around an effort by speakers at the convention to encourage homemakers to upgrade their status from "cold gravy and chicken wings."

Terri Johnson, vice-chairman, presided over the business session. Ten clubs were represented, with seven having 100 percent attendance. Roll call was answered with an evaluation of the Tasting Bee.

Louise Walker, County Extension Agent, read "Just for Today" as the opening exercise. She also stated in her report that publicity about Glenna West, local 4-H member, was carried in the current issue of "The Messenger."

Dawn was welcomed as a new club and dates were given for several upcoming meetings, including one at Rix Funeral Home at 10 a.m. Friday; a program given by Ms. Walker at the library on Oct. 7 during the noon hour; and two programs sponsored by Southwestern Public Service on Oct. 18 in the Reddy Room, at 2 p.m. and again at 7 p.m.

Rural Homemakers Day in Amarillo will be Thursday, Oct. 21. Club presidents and Council delegates are to attend. Substitutions may be made by clubs if necessary.

A list of 4-H members placing in events at the Tri-State Fair was read. Jewel Hargrave gave the treasurer's report and asked for suggestions on how to handle sales of cookbooks on hand. The TEHA report was given by Kate Bradley.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1982. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 30, 1946, an international military tribunal in Nuremberg, Germany, found 22 top German Nazi leaders guilty of war crimes, and 11 were sentenced to death.

On this date:
— In 1787, the sailing ship "Columbia" left Boston on the first voyage around the world by an American ship.

— In 1846, Boston dentist William Morton made the first use of ether as an anesthetic.

— In 1949, Pakistan and Yemen were admitted to the United Nations.

— In 1966, Nazi war criminals Baldur von Schirach and Albert Speer were released from West Berlin's Spandau Prison, leaving Rudolf Hess as the only prisoner at Spandau.

Ten years ago: U.S. fighter bombers destroyed 14 planes in heavy strikes against four air bases in North Vietnam.

Five years ago: The United States and Soviet Union pledged to use their utmost efforts toward bringing about a Mideast peace.

One year ago: The U.S. Postal Service announced it would raise the price of first-class domestic stamps by two cents — to 20 cents.

Today's birthdays: Actress Deborah Kerr is 61 years old. Singer Johnny Mathis is 47. And Jody Powell, President Carter's news secretary, is 39.

Thought For Today: Advice is like snow. The softer it falls, the deeper it sinks into the mind. — Samuel Coleridge, English writer (1772-1834).

Tiger birds of South America can imitate a tiger's voice.

HEALTH
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Itching from liver disease

DEAR DR. LAMB - A year ago when I was in the VA hospital I was told I had cirrhosis of the liver. I'm 64 and had been a steady drinker of beer for some time. I don't drink any form of alcohol now, and I don't intend to. I got the word, no alcohol or else. I had an accumulation of fluid in the abdomen which went down in two or three days after taking pills. I did not vomit blood but in the last 10 months I had two black stools. I feel good now, eat the foods they outlined for me and my mental function is good. I have this prolonged generalized itching. I used Atarax but that didn't do any good. A skin doctor gave me some pills that help, but if I stop them I itch. Am I stuck with this itch for the rest of my life?

DEAR READER - I am glad you have quit alcohol. It is the cause of about 60 percent of all cases of cirrhosis. And cirrhosis of the liver is the eighth most common cause of death in the United States. It is actually the fourth most common cause of death in men between ages 35 and 54 and sixth in women of the same age group. And just to think 60 percent of these deaths could be prevented.

Itching is a complication of liver and gallbladder disease. It can be very annoying. If your liver function returns to near normal, possibly you will stop having the problem.

That large accumulation of fluid in the abdomen is a sign of poor liver function. The pill you took probably was a diuretic to help wash out sodium and fluid from your body. In advanced cases of liver disease the fluid retention can become a major complication. Surgery to improve circulation to the liver and abdomen may become necessary.

Bleeding is common in patients with liver disease, including infectious hepatitis. The liver's role in forming prothrombin, a substance essential to clotting, is disturbed. Then large varicose veins of the esophagus may develop and bleed.

I'm sending you The Health Letter 7-8, Living With Your Liver, to give you more information on its function. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am concerned after reading your column that raw egg whites destroy biotin. The only way I can get my 14-year-old daughter to eat a balanced breakfast is by including a milk shake that contains a raw egg. If the egg white in the milk shake is causing her a deficiency I will eliminate the milk shake. Please advise.

DEAR READER - It takes a lot of avidin, the substance in raw egg whites, to induce a biotin deficiency. There is biotin in the egg yolk so the net effect of one raw egg is not likely to cause a biotin deficiency.

Biotin is an important vitamin but it is widespread in our food and unless one uses LOTS of raw egg whites an adult or a teen-ager is not likely to have a biotin deficiency. A deficiency may cause digestive complaints and dry scaly skin. Both of these are commonly caused by something else other than a biotin deficiency.

But I'm not enthusiastic about raw eggs in the diet. A cooked egg may be better or leave it out of the shake. Raw eggs can be a source of bacteria that cause food poisoning.

"Always be ready to speak your mind and a base man will avoid you."
