A jot of folks seem to think our country started its Bicentennial celebration far too early. But things should really get geared up with July 4th coming up tomorrow and just one year remaining for the big birthday event.

Friday will not be as extensive as some other communities, but it should prove informative and patriotic. Details of the events and the brief program will be found in the news columns.

While governmental offices and some businesses will close for the holiday, others will remain open. The Brand staff will be at work on events of the day and preparing for the Sunday edition, so we'll take off Monday.

John Aikin, attorney for the Plains -Irrigation Gas Users Association, reported Saturday that General Motors Corporation had recommended that farmers be granted a No. 2 priority for irrigation gas. That must have been good news for the local GM dealers, who were catching some unfair "flak" when it was reported that GM was testifying against the priority. Local dealers, of course, were 100 per cent in support of irrigation farmers, but were trapped in between due to GM's previous stand and the ire of the farmer. The stirring memory of the eloquence of Thomas Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence, the proud leadership of George Washington at Valley Forge, and the bitter fighting at Bunker Hill will be prominent in the minds of Hereford residents who celebrate the indepen-dence of our nation this July 4, initiating the bicentennial era.

Local residents are asked to wear red, white, and blue during July 4 activities, and to join in the simultaneous ringing of bells at 1 p.m. July 4.

Plans have been made for bells to peal the sound of freedom all across the nation at that time. This will commemorate the Liberty Bell ringing forth approval of the Declaration of Independence 199 years Independence Day activities in Hereford will focus on a thirty-minute program to be held on the courthouse steps beginning at 10:30 a.m. July 4. Highlight of the program will be a brief patriotic talk by Bob Ware.

John Aiken, a local attorney, will act as master of ceremonies. Reverend C.W. Allen will deliver the invocation. The American Legion will present the colors, and the Boy Scouts and Campfire Girls will recite the American creed and the pledge to the flag.

Sam Morgan will welcome those attending the program, and will explain the meaning of the bicentennial flag. The Bill Devers Quartet will present a vocal

Many activities have been planned for the upcoming year centered on the bicentennial theme. For example, many patriotic programs will be presented to local civic clubs and organizations during the upcoming year.

Johnson said he hopes this year's

The purpose of this year's celebration and the entire bicentennial program is to 'create interest in the American flag and America as a whole," said Johnson.

Economy Continues Strong

Construction Reaches Monthly High in June

By BOBBY TEMPLETON

The economic prosperity enjoyed by Hereford last month is apparently continuing even stronger into the summer as indicated by the high amount of construction in June.

Different factors such as the building of the new garment manfacturing plant here and the strong gains of the Hereford Industrial Foundation in nearing its fund drive goal of $50,000, combined with June construction valued at $490,820, reflect dramatic reversals in the local economy toward better times. While economic experts have said a recession has existed for sometime, a national trend away from the recession exists as the stock market gains in total tradevolume and stocks increase their values.

BUILDING PERMITS, kept by the city, show that June experienced the highest monthly amount of construction so far during 1975. The previous high was April when building permits totaled $377,195. May construction totaled $330,001 with other totals as follows: January. $140,450; February, $76,350; and March, $186,750.

June construction represents almost a third of the total building this year of $1,601,466. This is slightly below the building at this time last year when amounted to $1,638,100.

But the June total is higher than June of last year when construction was $427,250. That was the highest monthly total during 1974 and the same could hold true for this year.

The main reasons for the increased building activity are new residential structures and the $100,000 Smith and Son Funeral Home under construction. The groundbreaking for it was held last

Construction starts on six new single family residences were recorded last month according to the June building permits. Most of these are being built by Tilecraft Inc. of Amarillo for the following

From the opening number, "People Gotta Be Free," to a finale of patriotic songs, the 1975 Miss Texas Pageant will fittingly salute our nation's 200th birthday celebration.

The formula for an exciting evening is simple: take 59 of the state's most Seautiful and talented women; add the current Miss Texas, Phyllis Barger, Miss America of 1973, Terry Meeuwsen, and the reigning Miss America, Shirley Cothran; blend with the talent of "Harmony and Understanding" from Tyler Junior College and the Texas Girls Choir to produce "The Magic of Miss Texas."

The Pageant is four nights of fun, beauty and music culminating in the crowning of one young woman to serve as the representative of Texas in the annual Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City. NJ. Three nights of preliminary competition beginning at 8 p.m., Wednesday, July 9, and running through Friday, July 11, will preclude the final evening of competition which starts at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, July 12.

All performances will be held in the Tarrant County Convention Center Theatre, with the final night being televised on a state-wide network beginning at 10:30 p.m. KTVT-TV, Channel 11, will carry the final evening's performance in the Dallas/Fort Worth

Sheriff Urges Careful Driving Over Holiday

Deaf Smith Sheriff Travis McPherson strongly urged motorists to drive cautiously in a recent statement.

"I encourage everybody to drive defensively, and abide by the speed limits," he said. "This will help to avoid accidents. People should slow down and live a little."

He said the entire force would be on the job during the upcoming July 4 holiday. "Speed limits will definitely be enforced rigidly during the holiday," he

"THERE'S NOTHING to getting a kite up. You just yank on the string, and she's up," Holbert said. A wind of five to seven miles per hour is necessary to get a kite up, he said. Although Holbert already qualifies as KITES CAN BE FLOWN from almost anyplace, he said. "I sometimes fly kites from our front yard, and bring them down in a nearby field," he said.

The young entrepreneur hopes that some kite contests will be established soon in Lubbock. He said there's been some talk of doing this. He is not aware of any kite contests in the immediate Hereford area.

A kite flying 500 feet high will fly all day, he said. His uncle, who has flown kites at an altitude of 5,000 feet, eventually hopes to get a kite up to 10,000

Holbert believes that the mylar kites he sells are safe. "Mylar isn't a good conductor of electricity, and these kites will break away from high line wires easily, if they should happen to come in contact with a high line," he said.

"The irrigated wheat is turning out well, with test weights of 62 and 63. It's all No. 1 wheat. We'll be through here late this week," King commented.

BILL CORNETT of Dawn Co-Op expects wheat harvesting in that community to end today (Thursday), with most farmers reporting good yields from their irrigated wheat.

"Most of the yield reports have been real good, in the 50 bushel range, and the farmers are fairly pleased with their crops. About the only fields that didn't have good yields were those damaged in recent hail," said Cornett.

The conclusion of the irrigated wheat harvest comes just a few days after farmers wrapped up harvesting opera-tions in the dryland wheat fields. Both dryland and irrigated wheat have yielded well overall, and with the dryland crop better than many local farmers had expected, the 1975 harvest will go on record as a good one.

Burglaries Cleared With Two Arrests Monday

Hereford police cleared up a number of local burglaries with the arrests of a 17-year-old Hereford man and a 16-year-old juvenile here Monday

Arrested about 4:30 Monday on two counts of auto theft and nine counts of auto burglary were Pete Dela Cruz, 17, o 305 Austin Road, and the juvenile.

Six of the auto burglary incidents took place over the weekend while the others occurred at an earlier date, according to police reports.

Officers made the arrests following an investigation of the weekend burglaries here and the burglary of a liquor store in Umbarger Friday night. According to police, questioning of several juveniles indicated that the suspects had participated in the burglaries, in addition to some which dated back to December of 1974. Reports indicated that a quantity of items taken in the various burglaries were recovered, including household items and cases of beer taken in the liquor store robbery.

Dela Cruz remained in Deaf Smith County jail at presstime in lieu of $5,000 bond on the local offenses and an additional $1,500 bond, set in Canyon in connection with the liquor store burglary. The juvenile was released in the custody of his parents.

Bernard Nash ents. However, since the rebate was enacted as a one-time-only measure, next April will see many older taxpayers again paying far more than they're supposed to. and not having any part of their overpayment returned-unless Congress acts promptly to rectify the systematic shortcomings that lead to this situation. The basic problem is that, rior to retirement, most taxpayers' incomes are derived primarily from wages. After retirement, the emphasis shifts to pensions, dividends, Social Security and other benefits which are reported differently and taxed on a different basis than wages. Suddenly, it's a whole new ballgame with new rules for claiming tax credits and deductions, plus new forms and procedures often so complicated that only an experienced accountant can readily comprehend them.

Jacques Joseph Reinstein, a had overlooked-and almost 1040X. failed to claim-a $180 tax deunderstood the rules. Mr. Reinstein explained them to him, and he received a tax refund.

"If someone who is an economist, a university graduate, and a former assistant secretary of the Treasury had difficulty knowing his rights because of the complexity of this form," wonders Mr. Reinstein, "how can one expect the average person to do

Obviously, one can't-which is why so many taxpayers of all ages depend upon tax "experts" when income tax time rolls around each year. Unfortunately, most of the older people, who regularly overpay their taxes without knowing it, simply can't afford such commercial assistance and instead struggle futilely with the frustrating intricacies of tax return forms.

For them, assistance is available through a free program called Tax Aides-in which older Americans help their fellow retirees prepare their own returns. During the recent tax season, 3,500 Tax Aides, includmore than 200,000 older people in 750 cities. Sen. WASHINGTON, D.C .- How good is Jimmy Connors? He's obviously the best-singles player in the world at the moment. But how does he rate with the greats of the past-such as Tilden, Budge, Riggs, Kramer, Gonzales, Hoad, Rosewald, Laver, Newcombe, etc.

An Australian recently remarked that Connors was surely very good but that he would have liked to see him play Laver, or Hoad, or Newcombe when they were in their prime.

It's an interesting pointpart of being that the Aussies for the first time in many years have no new star to dominate the tennis world. And Newcombe, though still good, is not at his peak. Laver is far past his.

Thus it may be a year or two before the world will know how good poor-mannered Jimmy Connors is. Those who find his personality repulsive are reluctant to admit he's the world's best.

Farming's Productivity - A Story of Success

The chronicles of agricultural productivity — fewer and fewer farmers producing greater amounts of food for more and more people — is a success story unparalleled in U.S. history.

From 100 percent of the original settlers working the land for their own survival to the present total of less than 5 percent of the U.S. population engaged in farming to feed the remainder of the country and a sizable part of the world, it's a story of amazing agricultural exceptions.

By 1820, the percentage of farmers had dropped to some 83 percent and about 60 man-hours of labor were needed to produce an acre of wheat.

Gradually, the number of Americans in agriculture con-tinued to slip until by 1870 farmers were no longer in a majority in the U.S. By then, only 47 percent of the country's population could be classified in agriculture.

In the 1950's, the farming population dipped to less than 15 percent and continuing de-clines reduced that percentage to less than 5 presently.

AUSTIN - Gov. Dolph Briscoe's veto of 136 college building projects (which he estimated would cost more than $1 billion) may be the bject of a court case. University of Texas Board of Regents Chairman Allan Shivers said UT regents will defy the veto and go ahead with at least two of

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has indicated he will approve none of the UT building project vouchers in controversy without an attorney general's opinion. It has been hinted regents may seek a declaratory judgement in court to uphold their position.

Many years ago, a farmer in Amherst County, Va., had this to say about one practice he followed in growing hay "Clover and plaster, like man and wife, ought never to be divorced."

This picturesque discrip-actually referred to the I recognized practice of lim-acidic soil to improve yield grasses and other forages.

Centuries later today, lim-ing is still recognized as a basic need in any good forage production program.

In fact, liming is listed as one of the top agricultural practices needed in farming today by Sperry New Holland, a leading manufacturer of haying and other forage equipment.

As that early Virginia planter intimated in his reference to plaster, few, if any, investments provide a greater per dollar return than sweet-ening acidic soil with lime-

But the growing of better grasses to improve hay yields is only part of the story of more efficient haying, which has been an integral part of the history of U.S. agricultural since its Colonial beginnings. The other major improvement has been the building of better handling equipment, which has made haying a one-man farming operation. one-man farming operation

If that Virginia farmer were still growing hay today, he might further paraphrase his original saying:

American housewives, today accustomed to obtaining most of their cooking needs from a well-stocked supermarket, would have been dire straits in the Revolutionary period. Today's foods are pre-cooked, convenienced packed and almost ready to serve. A far cry from what the colonial housewife faced when mealtime rolled around. rolled around.

Her menu was serious limited to what was availab limited to what was available locally and this fact is one that has lead to the variety of localized specialties placed on the table in various parts of the nation. Sausage and scrapple were Pennsylvania specials; seafood along the Chesapeake Bay; ham in Virginia and lobster stew in New England.

To prepare food was usually an experience in innovation. There were few cookbooks in the colonies. Women who came up with a good recipe carefully kept it recorded and exchanged with other women those which brought them the most compliments from family and friends.

When collections of recipes began to appear in books there were also tips on preserving and salvaging food. Modern housewives, with abundant supplies of low cost food over the years, would find it easier to dispose of food than do what some colonial wives did to save food. A tip in one old cookbook listed this method of saving tainted venison:

Those who found sugar an expensive item on the shopping list recently were at least able to find it. It was a scarce item in colonial America. Molasses, too, was expensive and the honey business had not yet developed here. As a result, early Americans were not used to sweet foods as we know them today.

Chopped apples, berries, pulp from near the useds in squash and pumpkin provided sweetness and a special taste to colonial cakes.

Bicentennial Coins Planned

The hand flips a coin. Heads I win. Tails you win.

The eyes light on the head of a colonial drummer. Did you win or lose the loss?

You won!

That head is really tail.
You can take the word of Mary Brooks. Director of the U.S. Mint. She's our nation's coinmaker and says the colonial drummer was chosen in a national design competition to appear on the back of the new Bicentennial quarter. George Washington, she insists, still heads the coin over a new date—1776-1976—and it was all done to celebrate our country's 200th birthdays.

"I know big decisions, like whether or not to walk the dog in the rain, rest on the flip of a coin," Mrs. Brooks says, "and I want to warn the nation's big decision makers about the coming big change in their small change."

In all, the Mint is changing the designs on the backs of three coins in honor of the Bicentennial. Along with Washington on the quarter, those famous faces of Kennedy and Eisenhower, with the new twin date, still head the half dollar and dollar. Again, it's the backs that carry the new Bicentennial designs. Independence Hall won its place on the back of the half dollar. And the moon and Liberty Bell was chosen for the dollar reverse.

By July 7, 1975, your friendly neighborhood bank should begin receiving the first of the circulating Bicentennial coins to be released—the Kennedy-Independence Hall half dollar. Before the end of the year, the Federal Reserve System will have had the time to supply the nation's commercial banks with the newly redesigned quarter and dollar.

"To me, these coins—like all our coins—are symbols of our nation's 200 years of freedom," Mrs. Brooks says. "They are small links with our historical and cultural heritage that will touch the hands of every man, woman and child in America."

"Liberty!" was the rallying cry of the American Revolution—and 'Liberty' has been proclaimed and inscribed on eath and every coin since the creation of the U.S. Mint in Launching a national coinage was a big step in the formation of our young nation. "Now," Mrs. Brooks says, "we are launching the most significant coinage change in the history of the Mint,"

The new coin designs are expressions of the patriotic sentiments of grassroots America. Under the sponsorship of the Treasury Department, they were selected in a national $5,000 award competition and each of the new designs bears the winner's initials.

The winning design on the back of the quarter is the work of Jack L. Ahr of Arlington Heights, Ill. Seth G. Huntington of Minneapolis, Minn., executed the reverse of the half dollar. And Dennis R. Williams, a sculpture student of the Columbus College of Art and Design, Columbus, Ohio, designed the dollar reverse.

Special 40 per cent silver Reasonover, for specimens of the Bicentennial coins are also available. For details, write to the Bureau of the Mint, 55 Mint Street, San System, says. Francisco, California 94175.

Our Obligations By BOB WEAR

Our Worth

The sense of "our worth" is one of the principal factors involved in the way we respond to the problems and difficulties which demand our attention. In

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME

By Robert L. Haney, Science Writer The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Space-Age Cameras Study Human Body Without X-Ray

A "twilight zone-type" camera apparatus has been used for the past 8 years to peer inside astro-nauts and observe muscle, heart and nutritional changes after space flights.

The technique is called stereometric measurement of body volume, and it is so accurate scientists are hoping the process can be used in healthrelated areas on the local level. Expense is a main blocking agent.

Actually, there is nothing mystical about the new method. It's a real process invented by real engineers that can help determine if you are receiving proper nutrition or if your internal body makeup is forming correctly, no matter what your age. Besides giving an accurate picture of the interior body, stereometrics is faster than the conventional method of measuring the circumference of limbs, the head, skin folds, etc. and then trying to tally body volume. The new process is more sensitive to nutritional changes than presently used techniques and can accurately, easily and quickly detect certain malformations such as curvature of the spine.

If the stereometric process reaches a local physician level, you would stand between two cameras which would produce a 3-dimensional front and rear view called stereopairs. Before, a 3-d observation couldn't be

These stereopairs would then be fed into a computer which would draw an outline of your body. The outline would contain a map showing growth of muscles, bone structure and other interior makeup of body because they are not associated with "our worth"

The accurate "sense of our worth" is the very best and most helpful self-image, because it includes both the prevailing and the possible "worth"; plus the strongest defense against everything that is designed to make us feel

Our willingness to do what needs to be done, and much of the strength for the doing must come from a very carefully and wisely developed "sense of our worth". -Bob Wear

Using this map as a guide, your doctor, along with a biochemist, could observe and treat your interior medical problems as easily as the obvious external ones.

Dr. R. E. Herron of the biostereometrics laboratory at the Baylor Col-lege of Medicine in Houston has been principal investigator in studies using the body volume measurement technique. He is working along with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researchers at the recently established Human Nutrition Center on the Texas A&M University campus in College Station.

A coworker and biochemist, Dr. Roscoe Lewis of A&M, is in charge of the biochemical analysis of nutritional intake after the stereometric process is used. Herron and he are applying their techniques to a research project involving 100 pre-teen girls in the Bryan-College Station area. These girls are rep-resentative of the racial distribution and income levels within that area.

In the 5-year study, Lewis and Herron will determine exact nutrition needs of pre-adolescent children.

"By using the stereometric process, we can find out exactly how nutrition is affecting internal growth," Lewis related. "The camera process also gives us a permanent record that we can always refer to.

Why is the wording in insurance policies so difficult to understand? Why not use plain talk?

All policy forms must be approved by the Department of Insurance for each state in which the policy is to be sold. Therefore, to comply with various state regulations, an insurance jargon was developed, eliminating the necessity of 50 different policy forms. Insurance companies would like to see plain talk policies since most companies maintain Policy Holder Service Departments which write to policy holders re-explaining the terms of the policy in layman's language. Companies would prefer to eliminate this additional expense and pass on the savings in premium payment reductions. Progress has been made in the last five years to simplify the language and better illustrate the benefits.

Fireworks Misuse Can Be Dangerous

Having the 4th of July on a Friday this year gives Texans an extended holiday, but young and old alike may "blow" more than a three-day weekend if they get careless with fireworks.

The misuse of fireworks causes injuries ranging from minor burns to fatalities every year, and Texas Safety Association is deeply concerned with this unfortunate statistic.

Although some municipalities have ordinances banning individual use of fireworks, most varieties are still sold in Texas. Legislation is not a solution, because it is usually aimed at so-called "dangerous" fire-

Many people fail to realize that any variety of fireworks—

Fireworks have set houses and buildings ablaze after landing on roofs, and can burn off entire fields of crops. Using fireworks anywhere near com-

The best fireworks display is a supervised one, put on by a civic group etc. and run in a safe manner by professionals. It will be a quality program far better than what an individual could concoct or afford.

But if the only display you attend is the one your family puts on, designate a responsible adult as supervisor. Don't allow a child to maim or blind himself for life because of a moment's carelessness lighting a fuse.

July 4th

On the Fourth of July of every year the people of this country take note of the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, which ranks as one of the most important documents of history.

In it, Thomas Jefferson, the author, set forth the inalienable rights of man and the theory that governments are in-stituted by men, not set up by God, and, therefore, derive their powers from the consent of the governed.

The historic Fourth has become identified as a day of leisure, marked by deaths, accidents, games and amuse-ment, but there are occasional programs which point out the significance of the Declaration and the principles that it expresses, too often forgotten.

CowBelles Give Girlstown Beef

When you're just a little girl and already you've been neglected or abused and frightened and you know what it's like to live in poverty, you're grateful for any kindness that comes your way.

And if you've gone as much as four full months without any beef to eat, you're likely to consider it a real act of kindness if somebody changes the menu.

That's how it was for the girls of Girlstown U.S.A. when the Texas CowBelles discovered their plight and established a Girlstown Beef Fund a little ore than a year ago.

'We've never run out of beef even ce since the CowBelles adopted us, and ur girls eat about one beef a week," stown Executive Director Marshall oper said at a meeting of the Girlstown poard at the Hereford Country Club Saturday.

Then Tri-State Chemical Company, ocal distributor of agricultural chemicals, ractically assured another year's supply y giving a check for $6,100 to Mrs. rne Tyler state chairman for the CowBelles' Beef for Girlstown drive at a uncheon Saturday for the board o-hosted by Tri-State and Dow Chemical

With Tri-State's contribution, Mrs. Tyler said, the CowBelles have raised over $7,000 for Girlstown beef in the last year and, in addition, received 38 beeves, two cows, three calves, two heifers, 15 lambs and 19 hogs.

Bradford Trucking of Hereford and Paul Jackson of Vega transported the livestock gifts free of charge, she added, and slaughter, dressing, and packaging was contributed by Glover Packing Co. and the Texas State Technical Institute, narillo, and Crow Meat Co. of Friona

"With this gift from Tri-State," Mrs. Tyler added, "we ought to be able to keep the girls eating well for sometime to

That will be good news for the 126 girls living on Girlstown's three campuses, 66 at the headquarters campus located on a 1425-acre farm near Whiteface; 22 at a campus at Borger; and 38 more at an Austin Campus.

Many of them still remember the time in 1973 when beef prices were high and Girlstown, facing budget problems, was forced to make do on chicken entrees for "You don't really know how much you appreciate beef until you try doing without," said Cooper.

"We had a bunch of hens we used to keep meat on the tables. But after four months eating chicken every day, you'd trade a week's supply for just one good hamburger!"

Girlstown provides a home for girls who have been referred by schools and/or courts because they are neglected, come from broken homes where no supervision is available, or come from homes where extreme poverty makes proper care impossible. "We have to turn down 15 to 20 applications every week." Cooper said, "because the home's 64-person staff is inadequate to care for more. "Some of them need help" so badly it breaks your heart to turn them away," he added.

Founded in 1949, Girlstown claims to be the nations's first publicly-supported, non-sectarian home for girls. It depends on public contributions for approximately 80 per cent of its $350,000 yearly budget and, said Cooper, "Support like that we've gotten from the CowBelles and their backers-like Tri-State-really

Tri-State Chemical won the $6,100 it gave to the CowBelle fund in a unique community-oriented Dow Chemical marketing program, said Tri-State Sales representative Harry Bryant, who ented the check.

The program permitted distributors, dealers, and applicators of Dow agricultural products to name charitable organizations of their choice to receive awards they qualified for by increasing sales of agricultural chemicals in 1974.
"In reality," Bryant said, "we're presenting this check on behalf of the farm stores and applicators who bought Dow phenoxy herbicides from us and made it possible for us to win in the first

Since the ultimate users of weed and brush control chemicals Tri-State distributes for Dow are farmers and ranchers heavily involved in the beef industry, Bryant said, "We felt they'd agree that the CowBelles fund was an excellent place for the Dow money. The money will be used to buy beef-and the beef will be put to good use by 166 girls who've already had more hard knocks than many of us face in a lifetime and deserve all the support we can give them.

Generous Gift

Joan Toney, Girlstown resident, enjoys the result of a generous gift of $6100 given by Harry Bryant on behalf of Tri-State Chemical to Marn Tyler, Cowbelles Beef for Girlstown representative.

Fireworks Dangerous, state 4-H and youth leader for Blindness Society Warns

As the Independence Day holidays approach, the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness has issued its annual warning...All fireworks are dangerous, even the smallest firecracker and the seemingly harmless sparkler.

"We do not want to spoil the traditional patriotic fun of the Fourth", says L.M. Flanary, M.D. of the sight conservation organization, "but we strongly urge that use of all fireworks be confined to licensed public displays".

'Every year, the Society receives far too many reports of eves injured from the use of fireworks, even in states where they have been outlawed. Many of the injured are children. Because all pyrotechnic devices are dangerous, there is truly no safe way to use them." The Society makes a special plea to parents to see that their children are not permitted to use fireworks of any kind, and to keep their children away from anyone who does. Frequently, the innocent bystander gets il hurt. It is hard for children to recognize the danger in 1 anything they see as "fun", so it's up to adults to take the responsibility. Celebrate the Fourth, the Society says, but celebrate it safely. Vision is priceless..don't take needless chances with it.

But aside from being pests which attach themselves to the skin of their victims, often lucing infections, ticks can be the carriers of Rocky Spotted fever is known by many names, such as "mountain fever", "bull fever", "black fever" or "blue

But however designated, the only known natural transmission of this endemic, potentially severe, febrile disease is through the infective tick. This may be accomplished by contamination with crushed tissues or feces of the tick or, perhaps more commonly, by the actual biting attachment of this disease-carrying pest.

At least two deaths in Texas this year have been credited to Rocky Mountain spotted fever. One victim was a 41-year-old

Tyler man, who apparently picked up ticks in Van Zandt County while working with

A case was clinically diagnosed in a 17-year-old woman who lived in a rural Cass County setting. Other suspected cases have been investigated.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever got its name because of early experiments with ticks in the Rocky Mountain area at the turn

This has led to the misconception that it is found only in this region, but most cases have been reported from the eastern United States. Virginia and North Carolina had cases in 1974, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

Investigations have shown that the three main culprits in Texas are the American dog tick (Dermancentor variabilis), the lone star tick (Amblyomma americanum) and the brown dog tick (Rhipcephalus sanguineus).

Although the brown dog tick seldom attaches to man, it is thought that this tick may transmit the disease to canines, and then on to man by other

Ticks must pass through several stages of development. The basic life cycle includes: eggs, larvae, nymphs and adults. They feed only on blood, and most species must find new hosts (or reattach to the same host) several times during their without feeding, says Fournier. It has long been known that the rickettsial pathogens of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever may be passed along from one generation to another through infected eggs. Therefore, any stage of an infected tick can transfer the disease to man.

Completely avoiding ticks would appear to be the ideal way to ward off infestation, but this is too impractical. Farmers, sanchers, foresters, nature lovers-virtually anyone who ventures into the out-of-doorscan expect to run into ticks at one time or another.

There are some precautions which can be taken, says Fournier. One of the easiest is to use commercial repellants, which also are effective against chiggers and mosquitoes.

Since there is a connection between the length of tick attachment and severity of the disease, it would be well to remove all ticks just as soon as possible after returning from the outdoors. While there is no one recommended manner in removing ticks, use of treezers

Existence of The Cowboy Nas Limited

The cowboy of the Old West really only existed for about 40 or 50 years, from the end of the Civil War to the beginning of the 20th Century.

Longhorns, or "critters" as they were called by their owners and handlers, had the ability to stay alive on lands that would leave their English cousins, the Herefords and Angus, bawling for supper.

Angus, bawling for supper.

At first, no one owned these animals, so the man who branded them was the man who drove them to market and sold them. Many a Texas mogul got his start "moon-shining" cattle. It took a tough breed of man to catch the wily Longhorns and lay a branding iron on them at night. And cowboys' were tough.

ed for the 12-to-15-year-olds who were employed to drive the cattle to market after they were herded out of the mesquite. Young boys were used because they worked cheap, often for as little as food plus St a month. The gaunt Long-horns, virtually worthless as meat animals, were valued more for their hides, horns, hooves and tallow. Few cattlemen could afford to pay grown men $25 to $30 a month to drive cattle to mar-

Eventually, as the cattle industry matured, so did the cowboys. Not by much, some-times, because the cowboy business was a young man's game. Life on the open range had its elements of adventure and danger, and the young men who signed on with an outfit very often developed strong friendships that blossomed into a strong esprit de corps. Loyal to the outfit de corps. Loyal to the they worked for, the cowboys they worked for, the contempt for voiced their contempt for sheepmen and homesteaders. men were out to ruin the range, they figured, and the clod-hopping homesteaders were bent on fencing it off.

The cowboy usually furnished his own saddle, bridle and bedroll, while his employer furnished everything else, including horses. "Night hawks" earned $20 or $25 a. month with top hands com-manding $50 or $60. While eeding hardworking cowboys may have been quite an ex-pense for some employers, no mattleman ever went broke cattleman ever went broke meeting his employees' de-mands for soap. ### Acteens Attend National Convention

Impressed by Christian testimonies heard at the National Acteen Convention this weekend at Memphis, Tenn., a delegation of Hereford members returned home Monday.

Thirteen girls from First Baptist Church, ten from Avenue Baptist Church and six adult sponsors represented Hereford at the five-day assembly which drew more than 11,000 girls from across the country. Texas had the highest attendance with about 1,300 Acteens present; 99 represented the Panhandle area.

A sister organization of the Women's Missionary Union, Acteen members heard addresses from 20 missionaries, in addition to several keynote speakers. They included the reigning Miss America, Shirley Cothran of Denton; Andrew Culverwell, noted singer from Somerset, England; Beverly Sutton, national Acteen consultant; Marge Caldwell of Houston, author, former model and owner of an established charm school; and Forbes. Woods of Phoenix, Arix, who led NAC music.

Serving as ushers from here were Annetta Noyes, Bonnie Day, Sandee Finley and Cindy Parten.

Mmes. Sid Shaw, Ray Leasure and Troy Sublett accompanied the First Baptist Church group, who included Ronda Clark, Lisa Blakely, Staci Payne, Denise Smith, Sandee Finley, Cindy Parten, Becky Oglesby, Teresa Rhoton, Lynette Rhoton, Delores Abalos, Martha Nash, Kay Suttle and Rochelle Davis.

Mmes, Gaylon Bryan, Bill West and Dick Mason chaperoned the Avenue Baptist Acteens, who were Regina Bryan, Carla West, Kim Compton, Starla Tindal, Annetta Noyes, Bonnie Day, Carla Day, Robbin Coleman, Derenda Boggs and Carylon Holems.

Involving Baptist girls in junior and senior high schools, the Acteen organization was established in 1970, stemming from Girls Auxiliary (GA) which is the largest Christian organization for girls in the world. The Baptist youth program was pioneered in 1818 when youngsters and their mothers saved their "egg money" to assist American Baptist missionaries. This blossomed in 1888 when the WMU was founded, with the Young Women's Auxiliary starting 19 years later. GA's mushroomed in 1913.

Day, Sandee Finley and Clindy Parten. Mmes. Sid Shaw, Ray Leasure and Troy Sublett Can Mean Pleasure

Parents can help make vacation travel with young children a pleasure rather than a hassle, Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist, said this week.

"Whether the vacation involves a trip to the lake, Gulf coast, or a visit with relatives, chances are part of the traveling will be by automobile," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System, noted.

She suggested some ways for making travel with young children more enjoyable for everyone.

"Tell the children in advance about trip plans. Let them know where they will be going and what the family will be doing. If possible, involve the children in planning some of the activities for the trip."

Plan with the children for travel time. Consider which of their favorite toys can be safely used in the car, what activities would they like to do.

"Young children will be excited about plans for a trip. They may also become upset sooner and tire more easily. A good travel schedule should include plenty of short rest stops so children will not become too restless.

"Plan to stop for meals as close to your family's regular mealtime schedule as possible. Stop early enough to get the children clean and relaxed before supper and then into bed at about their normal bedtime," the specialist advised.

To complete vacation plans, include a first aid kit, thermos jug of water, nutritious snack foods and a dampened wash-cloth for clean-up, she advised.

To Renew WSI Skill

Deaf Smith County's chapter of the American Red Cross has issued a reminder to Water Safety Instructors that an update course will be conducted at Hereford City Pool from 7-10 p.m. July 7-11.

Included in the 15-hour class will be films, new teaching methods and an important advanced life saving review. Persons eligible for this instruction are WSI's who have kept their licenses current by teaching a volunteer swimming class for the Red Cross during the past two years, or WSI's who have taken a WSI review course during the year after their license expired.

Water safety chairman Mrs. Richard Zinser said, "The Red Cross urges WSI's to update their skills by participating in this free course. Also, we would be pleased if Water Safety Instructors would like to help us with the summer swimming program which is scheduled to begin the next session July 14."

Anyone interested in taking the WSI update program should contact Mrs. Zinser.

She suggested buying ground beef a day or two before the holiday unless it can be frozen for a longer time. Shop in a store that displays meat and poultry in a clean refrigerated area. Avoid packages that have been broken or have punctured wrappers, she said.

"Thaw frozen meat in the refrigerator to prevent bacterial growth. Don't allow this meat to stand out unrefrigerated for more than an hour at the most.

"And be sure to cook hamburgers and hot dogs in batches small enough to be used quickly so they don't stand, allowing bacteria to grow." Also, cleanliness in preparing food is always important—but especially with hamburgers.

Always wash hands thoroughly with soap and hot water before and after handling raw meat. Baked beans is another dish that shouldn't be kept at room temperature for more than two "Bacteria grow well in eggs at room temperature. Leave boiled eggs out of potato salas unless it is refrigerated until serving time. Make potato salad with eggs the same day it is to be served," she said.

Turning to exact directions for avoiding food-borne illness, she said, "Keep perishable foods cold, at or below 40 degrees F. Foods in this category are cream pies, seafood and dishes made with eggs, fish, meat and poultry.

"Or keep the perishable foods, such as seafood, poultry and cooked meats, hot-about 140 degrees F. Bacteria grow best in lukewarm foods so never let these foods stand at room temperature for more than two Often foodborne illness is mistaken for a simple "bug" or virus. The cause may be that the food wasn't properly handled, prepared or served. This can be prevented by serving hot foods hot and cold foods cold, she reminded.

Self-Help Clothes Good For Children

Young children's clothes can be fun and functional—and at he same time help children develop social and physical skills, Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist, said this week.

"Clothing that's easy to get on and off helps a child develop self-confidence and encourages dependence in dressing.

"Learning to dress is not an easy task for a child, and he may become impatient if dressing takes too long, or if he must ask for help," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

A self-help garment is one which the child can put on and take off with little or no help

She explained that these features include easy to reach front openings; simple styles which are easy to manage; large buttons, fasteners or zippers with big rings or decorative pull tabs which are easy to manipulate and conveniently

"They should have adequate armholes, sleeves and necks which are large enough to get into easily; stretch fabrics; elastic waistbands and wrist-bands; and distinct front and back openings or openings which have the front and back marked as with contrasting thread on the inside.

"Also left and right marks as in shoes and gloves; attached belts and sashes (avoid separate belts which often get twisted and are hard to handle, as well as sashes which tie in the back) and shoes which do not have to be tied, such as those without laces or with elastic laces that stretch when putting shoes on."

The specialist pointed out that self-help features also make clothes adaptable for frequent

The curved lines of the yoke of the unlined jacket illustrated provide a little softriess to the otherwise tailored construction. The jacket may be worn tucked into the waistband of the pants, draped, or - as shown - the ends casually tied over a gauzy topper.

Curved seams must be fashioned so that they lie flat and professional. There's a technique that does just this.

Visualize the curve at the lower edge of the yoke as an inward curve. It curves INTO the yoke section. The curve of the bodice section is an outward curve. It curves

Staystitch the inward curve by running a line of machine stitching half an inch from the cut edge. Use approximately 15 stitches per inch. With the points of a pair of sharp scissors, clip into the seam allowance almost to the stitching line. Clip at regular intervals, approximately one-half inch apart. The distance between clips depends upon the depth of the curve. Remember, staystitch first;

clip afterward. Staystitching and clipping a curve accomplishes two things. The staystitching stabilizes the curved edge, keeping it for stretching and distortion. The clipping permits the seam allowance to spread so that it will conform to the shape of the outside curve to which it will be

Pin yoke and bodice together at seamline, matching ends and construction notches. Don't stint on pins. Place the pins with points inward. Baste or sew with pins in the seam allowance, but remember to remove each one just ahead of needle, when stitching.

With clipped side uppermost and seam allowance to right of needle, stitch on seamline. The number of stitches per inch will depend upon your fabric. The clipped seam allowance of the inside curve will spread sufficiently to conform to outside curve. It will not be necessary to "ease" or stretch as you stitch.

As always, it is important to press as you see To press a curved seam, where inside and outside curves have been joined, place the seam over a tailor's ham and press seam open with tip of iron, As a finishing touch to make the curve perfectly flat, snip small notches from the seam allowance of the outward curve, Before cutting the notches, observe where ripples appear in the seam allowance. You are eliminating the ripples by cutting out small wedges, not simply snipping into the fabric. The notches will probably appear between the snips of the opposite seam allowance

Press both seam allowances toward the yoke, Topstitch, using approximately six to eight stitches per

To insure an evenly curved seam, when matching stitching the two sections together, use a seam guide attachment. Set seam guide slantwise with the five-eighths inch guideline opposite the needle. Gently maneuver seam edge so that it touches the seam guide as you stitch around the curve.

To topstitch evenly around a curve, measure carefully, mark and baste just beyond the stitching line; or, use a

Energy shortage or no, obeying Texans' friendly injunction, "Y'all come back."

They came back last spring, and 72 per cent of the auto visitors were repeat customers. They thronged Texas Tourist Bureaus in record numbers, drove more miles in the state. stayed longer, and spent more money in Texas than ever

The latest quarterly visitor industry report issued by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation shows that auto visitors during March, April and May 1975 stayed an average of 9.6 days in Texas and drove more than 1,400 miles while in the state.

During the winter quarter, visitors stayed 8.8 days and drove 1,359 miles in Texas, while the averages for 1974 were 6.9 days and 1,153 miles driven.

The average spring visitor party spent $483.46 while in Texas, compared to $369.19 during the winter months and $368.09 in 1974. The increase in party spending is due primarily to the longer stay in the spring. The spending per person per day was $20.81, 81 cents per day more than in 1974.

Most of the visitors came on combination business-vacation trip (7 per cent). Some 32 per cent came solely for businessreasons and another 7 per cent came for a convention. Moving to Texas accounted for 3 per cent of the visitors, while 2 per cent came to visit friends or relatives.

While 20 per cent of the visitors camped in Texas, the largest number, 49 per cent, stayed in hotels or motels. Another 13 per cent were trailer travelers, while three per cent stayed in private homes.

An interesting facet of the Texas visitor industry, which brought into the state more than $2.8 billion in 1974, is that most visitors are repeaters. Seventythree per cent of last year's visitors had been to Texas before, and during the spring quarter of 1975, another 72 per cent were repeaters.

This indicates that visitors like what they find in Texas. Comments on questionnaires returned by out-of-staters are overwhelmingly favorable. Most often praised are "friendly Texans." Texas in general, Texas Tourist Bureau person-nel, and Texas highways.

What's in store for cattlemen as far as prices are concerned for the remainder of 1975? "Although there's optimism in some circles due to current stronger market prices and an increase in cattle feeding, it's a little early for cattlemen to begin cheering," contends Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "In fact, producers may be in for another drop in market prices as the year moves along."

So Uvacek advises cattlemen to market or contract calves early and cull old cows as soon

Uvacek's gloomy outlook?

First of all, the supply of grain-fed beef should increase during the second half of the year. Fed cattle marketings are expected to be about 9 per cent larger during the last six months of 1975 than during the first half of the year.

Increased cow liq will also boost the total beef supply. Uvacek expects cow slaughter to increase 42 per cent during the last half of 1975 compared to the first six months of the year. More beef will also result from large kills of non-fed steers and heifers and calves, Slaughter of non-fed steers and heifers is expected to be up 62 per cent during the last half of the year while calf slaughter should be up almost 70 per cent, according to the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Beef Recipes, Spice Guide In Cookbook

AUSTIN-Twelve new cipes and a spice guide appear in "Texas Beef Recipes," a cookbook published by the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA).

The booklet concentrates on less expensive cuts of beef and includes a section on comparing baby, grass-fed and grain-fed beef.

There are recipes for casseroles, chili, stew, outdoor beef cookery, marinades and barbecue sauce. Each has been tested by TDA home economists.

Sugar Shortages Could Remain, Says Bunker

Without production increases, ronic sugar shortages and consequent volatility of price may be with us for some time, President John B. Bunker told Sugar Corporation's annual meeting recently.

"Idoubt that the price of sugar can fall much below its current level and still provide the income needed to support current production," Bunker

He said that while declining ugar prices are a joy for the er, they are giving some of Holly's growers anxious

"After all, a healthy domestic industry is an appropriate insurance policy against exporting cartels—as we have noted among the oil producing nations," the fourth-generation sugar man explained.

He said that a sugar program would "assure adequate sup-plies at prices that are both reasonable to the consumer and attractive to investment of the capital needed to maintain this very necessary and valuable Burker was commenting on the impact of operating without a Sugar Act which for 40 years had regulated the im-portation, production and marketing of sugar in this country. Congress chose last June not to renew the legislation

He said that in the past year, was apparent that some the world supply-demand

"While prices have come down from last fall's peak, the generally accepted outlook is for continued tight supplies for the next year or so," Bunker explained.

He said that the old Sugar Act probably would not be suited to deal with current circumstances in sugar.

"I believe American conumers and the domestic in-management system to deal with periods of shortage and high prices. Others in the industry and among the large industrial users of sugar hold somewhat similar views,'

Bunker said. He pointed out that the Council on Wage and Price stability is monitoring prices of sugar-containing products to see if sugar price decreases are being reflected in the retail price of these products.

"Early indications are that they are not, because even at these prices, apparently sugar is not the significant cost fac-tor," Bunker explained.

Directors reelected were John B. Bunker, Marlin C. Chenburg and Russell T. Tutt of Colorado Springs; John J.

metro than in metro counties m 1970 to 1973, reflecting a shift of people from cities to smaller communities, according to a report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The report, "The Economic and Social Condition of Nonmetropolitan America in the 1970's," was prepared by the Department's Economic Research Service and published by the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

The study also reported that nonmetro employment increased twice as fast as metro 1973, explaining in part the change in population trends toward nonmetro areas.

While per capita personal income in the United States creased at an annual average rate of more than 8 per cent in both metro and nonmetro areas from 1965 to 1972, the amount increase in metro counties ($1,807) was greater than in nonmetro counties ($1,474).

Per capita personal income in metro areas in 1972 was $4,825, compared with $3,586 in tro areas.

Health care was better in metro than nonmetro areas, but educational attainment levels were about equal. The number of substandard housing units declined faster in nonmetro than metro areas, and new construction was accelerating in both areas in the early 1970's

Law Enforcement Fights Crime

By Lloyd Bentsen United States Senator

According to a recent survey most Americans fear that crime in their own neighborhoods in

This includes residents of inner-city Houston, middleclass suburbanites from the Dallas-Ft. Worth area, and the people living in middle-sized and smaller cities and towns across our State.

Texans are worried. They are afraid to walk the streets at night, afraid to leave their mes unguarded, afraid when their children go out or walk home from an evening job.

Their fears, unfortunately, are more and more well-fou-

Last year alone, crime throughout the country jumped seventeen per cent over the year before. Violent crimes are up eleven per cent. And even as these and other categories of crime are climbing, statistics from the Federal Bureau of fashion a system of law investigation show that over half of the defendants charged with major crimes are either acquitted at the trial, or released before the trial with all charges dropped. The trend is unmistakable. More crimes are being committed, a smaller percentage of criminals is being apprehended, and the rate of conviction and sentencing for those crimes which are solved is far too low.

This has got to change. Certainly the very least Texans and other Americans should expect from their government is that they can walk the streets of their own neighborhoods in safety. Certainly the very least they should expect is protection from chronic crime and chronic

LAW ENFORCEMENT MUST SYSTEM DISCOURAGE CRI-MINALS

We can start meeting these use of judges and attorneys. expectations by taking steps to We must begin shaping a truly enforcement that discourages people from committing crimes.

First, we must deal more severely with chronic criminals. There should be mandatory ices for repeat offenders and the sentences should become harsher with each offense. In short, those who choose crime as a career should pay the full penalities

Federal laws should also be changed to impose mandatory criminal penalties for possession of a hand-gun by anyone who used a hand-gun in an earlier crime. I'm not talking about gun control here, but crime control. And this should be a part of larger reforms severely punishing all criminals who use guns to commit crimes.

Beyond stiffer penalities for chronic criminals, we must also work to better train and better equip our police forces. We st aim for a more effective

Although these are all primarily functions of state wernments, and should remain so, the Federal govern-ment can help. Seven hundred and seventy million dollars is now funneled to police agencies in Texas and other states by the Federal government for law

To date, much of this money has gone for newfangled hardware and gadgetry and this js something that should change. More of these funds should be redirected into such things as police training and programs involving the police more deeply in community

REFORM OF CRIMINAL LAWS, COURT PROCEDURES

Many states could also use help in strengthening other links in their criminal justice system. Afterall, it does little good for a criminal to be captured quickly when the jail he is kept in is too crowded to hold him, and the trial he's waiting for will be delayed for months because of an equally crowded court docket.

Reforming some of the in Federal cases, and so can the streamlining of present court

If this sounds like a massive and wide-reaching undertaking, it is because that is exactly what is needed to reduce crime in our country. That is exactly what must happen before Americans receive the type of protection they are entitled to as law-abiding, tax-paying citi-

The President has demon-strated his concern by offering a set of proposals intended to deal with the threat of rising crime. I plan to work carefully on his suggestions, and to come up with others, until we have dealt firmly and effectively with this crisis in rising crime.

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK, State Comptroller

AUSTIN-Some people are getting on my back because I've set up a tax information office in the Comptroller's Department.

But that may turn out to be one of the best investments I've made.

I believe most Texans speak plainly and want their government to speak plainly, too, so that all of their business together can be done with mutual understanding.

Before I took this office, do you know what the Comptroller's Office would give you if you asked for information about state

A copy of the tax laws.

Now, the tax laws were written by tax lawyers to be read by other tax lawyers. And if you were starting up a business on a shoestring, and trying to comply with the law, you would probably not feel safe unless you hired a tax lawyer to explain to you a what the Comptroller's Office in had handed you.

I want to change that. That's why I hired newsmen. 3 Journalists are trained to talk is to lawyers and bureaucrats if and technicians of all sorts d and reduce what they say to simple English and out it in the newspaper for the people f to read.

I have put those newsmen to work translating the tax laws into plain English. They are writing pamphlets that will make it clear to anybody what steps they need to take to meet state law in starting up a business, filing reports, and making tax payments.

This will make your dealings with my office simpler. What's more; it will save some of your tax dollars.

Let me tell you why. This office spends a lot of man-hours having to correct simple errors in sales tax reports. This involves getting another report and sometimes makes a taxpayer delinquent, and that's a headache for everybody.

But the mistakes aren't all the public's fault. One of the most common errors, for example, is due to the failure of the taxpayer to understand the term "gross receipts".
And that has been the Comptroller's fault, a failure to communicate plainly.

We can reduce errors like that by providing information that is easy to understand. By doing that we save time and money.

Do high radio and television towers have a tendency to draw lightning and thereby lessen the danger to lower structures and trees nearby? Yes, high metal towers will often draw electrical discharges from clouds passing overhead. So will especially tall buildings. Since the electrical charges of clouds are attracted by the nearness of high grounds, like transmission towers. these towers often pull the lightning that would otherwise discharge later, else-

If you live in the vicinity of very tall buildings or high metal towers-these structures will act as the old lightning rods were supposed to-draw the lightning and ground it harmlessly.

The tendency of these tall towers to attract lightning is recognized to an extent that builders install special lightning devices to carry off the frequent bolts that strike them.

WASHINGTON-Irresponsible meddling by Congress in foreign affairs could cost the United States the support of a vital ally, with drastic consequences for the entire Free World.

A foreign policy calamity potentially more severe than the catastrophe in Southeast Asia is brewing along the "soft underbelly" of Western Europe. All along the sunny Mediterranean Southern Flank of NATO, the strategic position of the Western Alliance is crumbling. If present trends are not soon reversed, our Sixth Fleet will be left "flapping in the breeze" without a Mediterranean port in which it would be welcome.

The most publicized blow to NATO has come from Portugal, where the Communists are slowly but surely consolidating their power. American bases in the Portuguese-owned Azores are an important part of our antisubmarine defense network, and made possible the resupply of Israel during the Yom Kippur War. Events in Portugal are being closely watched in Spain.

where the death or resignation of General Franco could spark a similar political upheaval. France already has withdrawn from the command structure of NATO.

Italy is going through yet another of its innumerable governmental and fiscal crises. Greece has thrown the Sixth Fleet from its home port in Athens, and withdrawn from NATO because of our refusal to take their side in the explosive Cyprus situation. And now Congress, by precipitously and discriminatorily cutting off military aid, may succeed in driving from NATO the other disputant in the Cyprus conflict and our most loyal and valuable ally in the Mediterranean—Turkey. The Turks fought side by side with us in Korea, and have remained steadfast friends ever since. Their friendship has been extremely valuable, for Turkey's strategic position is without parallel. Turkey borders on the Soviet Union. It borders on Syria. It borders on Iraq. The Turks control the vital straits of the Dardanelles, the narrow sea passage through which Soviet warships must pass to reach the Mediterranean. But Congress seems prepared to discard this valuable friend, to drive Turkey into the camp of the radical Moslems, to in effect mortgage the security of the Free World for the sake of placating some ethnic emotions in the U.S. Congress has dabbled too much in the formation and implementaion of foreign policy, which is properly the province of the Executive Branch. This meddling must

On Renting Cars

For years a few major car renting firms have enjoyed a good thing. The government claims three of them attempted to monopolize the market at airports. Others feel they have been guilty of overcharging the public for a long time. Support for this later thesis is found in the recent events in Canada, where rental firms, with less new, less expensive cars. have chased the longentrenched firms out of business in many areas-with lower, fairer prices.

The latest thing in car rentals is a car for so many dollars a day-the renter enjoying the privilege of unlimited mileage. Many carcian before embarking on an AUSTIN-With the approach of the swimming and exercise program or new diet. Both your physician and your sunning season, many persons common sense will likely tell trying on last year's bathing you that you should increase suits are unhappy about their your activity slowly and gradually. This is especially true if an Health spas and companies you are dieting along with an 1" selling weight reduction aids exercise program.

But our attorneys also caudesire to get back into shape tion consumers to be careful if for summer. Advertisements are appearing in many publicathey intend to sign up with a health spa for an exercise protions for special devices or gram, or if they plan to try products or exercise programs some of the advertised diet that will help you "shed inches and pounds in time for your The main thing to rememvacation." But our Attorney General's ber, say our attorneys, is that no exercise or diet is going to work without some effort on your part. Many persons hope to find some "secret formula that will kill their appetites and allow them to lose weight without hunger pangs. Or they search for a health spa that promises to trim off inches and tighten muscles "with absolutely no effort by you.

Consumers who look for such miracles could fall for the false, misleading, or deceptive sales practices used by some businesses. For example, our Consumer Protection attorneys recently obtained a permanent court injunction against a weight reduction firm. The six-week program the firm was recommending to consumers involved daily inections of human chorionic gonadotropin, a hormone derived from the urine of pregnant women. Persons who signed up for the program also were put on a 500 calorie per day diet, a very strict diet that if followed would cause most persons to lose weight without injections of any kind. Under the court order, the firm must stop representing that the hormone injections can reduce weight or that they prevent hunger pangs or other discomfort while on the diet.

Consumers should also check carefully before signing up for "special summer rates" being offered at some health spas. Sometimes the low price is just bait to get you to the spa, where you will be urged to sign a higher-priced long-term contract. In some cases, the "special rate" is 'the same as the usual rate.

Keep these things in mind when considering a health spa contract: You should find out exactly what you will get, how much it will cost, and how long the program will last Check facilities and equipment, and find out if they are available for use at all times. Talk with others who have signed contracts there. Be sure not to sign a contract with a firm that hasn't opened yet. If possible, enroll for a trial period to see if you like the program and personnel. And find out in advance if you can cancel if you move, become ill. or just change your mind.
