Duff wheels through town

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

Bill Duff, wheelchair racer who is rolling across America to raise money to find a cure for paralysis, got a friendly reception from local citizens Thursday morning and a strong tail wind to boot.

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office along with Hereford police and a fire truck escorted the 26-year-old paraplegic through Hereford at 10:30 a.m. where he met a reception of about 50 persons at the courthouse.

Duff is traveling 5,000 miles across the United States as part of the Miami Project's campaign to establish an endowment to cure paralysis.

The campaign, Wheels Across America, started in Los Angeles Jan. 17 and will end in New York City in July.

"I'm riding across America to raise awareness of disabilities whether it be paralysis or someone with Parkinson's Disease, stroke or head injury," said Duff. "We need to look past the person with the disability and see the person inside."

Jamie Andrews, a 9-year-old with cerebral palsy who also is strapped to a wheelchair, received a special handshake from the wheelchair athlete.

"I'd like to road race like he does some day," said Andrews.

Duff sailed into Hereford almost 15 minutes earlier than the estimated arrival time because of strong winds, but Duff said the racing has been anything but easy the first half of his trip from Los Angeles.

"At first I had some really tough head winds and I knew it was going to be a long, tough road. Going up the Snake River Canyon in California was probably the hardest," said Duff.

John Whispell, donations manager for Wheels Across America, said the project has raked in $145,000 since January and netted $426 from the Hereford crowd.

Bill and Barbara Allen, whose son who was crippled by a car accident, donated $250 to the cause.

Monetary support is paramount to keeping the campaign going, said Duff, but the moral support has been essential for his persistence.

"I've been holding up well physically, but the people are what keep me going. They come by and wave or honk and it really gives me a good feeling knowing I have their support," Duff said.

Duff is traveling with an eight-member crew mostly from Texas and Florida, but a sports photographer from Connecticut is journeying with the athlete and plans to have Duff's picture in "Life" and "Sports Illustrated."

The crew is staying at Canyon until Saturday when Duff will wheel into Amarillo.

"Wherever we finish up, that's where we start," said Whispell. "Even if we travel 45 miles up the road to stay the night, we have to travel back to the place we ended up the day before because we promised 5,000 miles and that's what (Duff) is giving them."

A common denominator

Bill Duff (right), wheelchair athlete who is racing across America to raise funds to help cure paralysis, stretches a comforting hand to 9-year-old Jaime Andrews who suffers from cerebral palsy. The Hereford reception raised $426 for the Miami Project's Wheels Across America. Duff is traveling 5,000 miles across the United States.

Armor found non-negligent in 1988 fire

1988 fire scene

Hereford firemen and police sift through the ashes of a house fire in February 1988 in which a young girl died. A civil trial concerning the fire was held this week in 222nd District Court.

By ANDREA HOOTEN
Staff Writer

A jury of six men and six women were holed up four hours Thursday night in 222nd District Court, deciding if the burning death of 4-year-old Monique Black on Feb. 8, 1988, was caused by negligence from the property owner.

Mark Armor, the property owner, walked away relieved because the jury found that he was not negligent nor was the plaintiff.

In fact, the only reparations the plaintiffs received was $2,500 in damages for Dennis Adams, the girl's uncle and rent payer who also was sleeping in the house at 107 Cooper St. the morning the fire erupted.

John Stagner, a jury member, said that the jury awarded Dennis Adams the damages since he usually paid the rent and incurred the most material loss.

"The negligence issue really took a while," said Stagner. "We really talked about awarding (Monique's mother) some damages, but when there was no proof of negligence, we didn't feel we could give damages."

Monique's mother, Cynthia Black, Dennis and Alice Adams (Monique's uncle and aunt) and Mary Jones (aunt) testified that the flames were bursting from the living room wall heater around 2:30 a.m., but they were not alerted by the smoke alarm.

Monique, they said, was sleeping in a bedroom with two adults and rushed into the living room where the fire was.

She was found dead, facing away from the living room sofa near the furnace while five other adults and Cynthia's other two children escaped from bedroom windows.

The plaintiffs' attorneys, Bob Balch and Charles Perry, claimed that Armor was negligent not only because he did not have a permit to install the tubing to the wall heater, but he also had the wrong kind and length of tubing and installed an inefficient type of batteries in the smoke alarm, they said.

The defense, however, argued that Monique was not sleeping in a neighboring bedroom but rather on the living room couch where her bedding obstructed the furnace which started the blaze.

"There is nothing, nothing whatsoever to show that the defendant was negligent," said Thomas Farris, Armor's attorney. "They (plaintiff) say that because (Armor) had no permit, there was a fire. They say because the tubing was 4 feet, not 2 feet, there was a fire. There is no evidence of this."

"They also criticize (Armor), saying the smoke alarm did not have good batteries. We know the smoke alarm was installed and tested according to regulations and we know it worked because Alice Adams testified that she set off the smoke alarm by smoking cigarettes.

"The smoke alarm gives a beep when the battery is low and Texas law says that once a smoke alarm is tested, the tenant is responsible for replacing the battery. There were four smokers in that house and it's my bet that they took the batteries out because it was a nuisance."

Ray Reynolds, a fire investigator, testified Thursday afternoon that he didn't think the fire was caused by a leak in the heater connection as the plaintiffs alleged.

"There might have been an object in front of the heater to start the fire... We found pieces of cloth, wood, and paper around the bottom edge of the wall furnace," said Reynolds. "I originally thought it was a malfunction or defect in the control valve, but after evaluating the engineer's (Robert Wynne) report, I said the fire probably came from the bedding of the young lady on the sofa."

Reynolds added that it was virtually impossible for the girl to have been asleep in the bedroom and to have run into the living room because the superheated gases would have prevented her from even reaching the couch.

When the defense questioned Reynolds about the smoke alarm found on the floor, Reynolds said there was soot found on the female and male connectors where a battery should have been.

Armor said he tested the smoke alarms three months before the fire and installed the heater three years before.

Tower debate heats up; vote not scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate debate over John Tower's troubled nomination as defense secretary is producing its share of partisan sparks after only one day, with one key senator holding out the possibility of airing sensitive information in a closed-door session.

"I don't suggest it and I want to avoid it, (but) it may be necessary to have a closed session," Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam

Nunn said Thursday in the midst of a flare-up over material damaging to Tower that has been leaked from an FBI report.

Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., said Tower had been "trashed" by material that was leaked, and said those responsible never mentioned exculpatory material that also appeared in the FBI report. "A closed session of the Senate would not repair the damage that's been done," he said.

Several senators called for releasing some of the FBI material in sanitized form to give the public a better idea of what it contains. But when Nunn, D-Ga., raised the possibility of making the transcripts of closed committee sessions public, no Republican followed up.

Despite GOP expressions of outrage over the leaks, Tower's chances of confirmation dimmed further as three additional Democrats joined the opposition and the White House conceded that President Bush has failed to persuade any Democrat to support the nomination.

With a second day of debate set for today, an Associated Press survey of senators showed 44 Democrats and Republican Larry Pressler of South Dakota either solidly against the nomination or leaning against, and 40 Republicans either solidly committed or leaning toward confirmation. The Democrats hold a 55-45 majority in the Senate.

Republicans said they hoped to use the debate to marshal public support and the White House insisted it would fight to the end.

But one senior GOP senator, speaking on condition of anonymity, said he wouldn't rule out the possibility of a withdrawal before a vote.

BABBLING BROOKS By John Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

I am an expert on eating habits. With a body like mine, it's a bad habit, but I have worse habits.

Some eating habits are easier to follow than others.

Like President Reagan's. Not only did he fancy fancy foods, but he kept a jar of jelly beans on his office desk.

George Bush doesn't have a jar of jelly beans sitting on his office desk. He's got a package of pork rinds.

The pork rind bonanza began last year when he told the world about his favorite snack.

A lot of people who've never been south of Cape Cod didn't know what the heck a pork rind was.

The easy way was to explain that pork rind is just like orange rind, but most of these folks had never seen a pig.

I've never cooked up any pork rinds (you may better know them as cracklings, er, pardon me, cracklins, as in cracklin corn bread), but I've never had the necessary ingredients.

A pork rind is a piece of pigskin cooked in lard until it looks like a pellet. You take it out for a month, just leave it laying around, then fry it again in oil until it explodes into one of the crunchy puffs.

I've had my share of pork rinds, and I find that they always seem to go well when consumed in conjunction with various frothy, amber-colored liquids exported from Colorado or St. Louis.

I don't know that George consumes amber-colored liquids with his pork rinds, but it would be natural. He hunts, fishes, and talks about a thousand points of light, so there's a good chance he enjoys amber-colored liquid with his pork rinds.

This could make for some interesting cabinet meetings, with the boys and Liz Dole sittin' around the Cabinet table, enjoying an Original Draft and some pork rinds.

Maybe we'll have to change that to past tense, if John Tower does two things that seem highly unlikely: get voted in by the Senate, and stay on the wagon. Neither is likely to happen, and cabinet meetings might become a little more productive in the future.

Detention center drawing gripes from neighbors

SAN BENITO, Texas (AP) - Retirees spending the winter at the Snowbird Court trailer park here were not expecting to be neighbors of hundreds of Central American immigrants facing deportation.

A government plan to convert a nearby warehouse into an immigration detention facility is drawing complaints at the quiet, rural park, where the primarily Canadian and Midwestern residents often leave their trailers and RVs unlocked.

"You save all summer to come down here and relax and have a good time, and they pull this kind of number on you," said Hilda Lee, a Snowbird resident from East Dubuque, Ill. "We're being robbed of our vacation."

The Justice Department's Community Relations Service is arranging to use the 31,000-square-foot, windowless metal building because space is running out at a Brownsville shelter on the border 20 miles to the south, officials said.

Residents of the park said they were concerned that the often destitute Central Americans might bring an increase in thefts, and don't relish the prospect of Third World strife intruding on their winter vacation grounds.

"You know as well as I know if people are hungry they may go ahead and take something that's not theirs," said Tom Wright, from Ontario, Canada.

The Red Cross sheltered 762 people Wednesday night at its Brownsville center with a capacity of 800, said Patty Garner, a Red Cross spokeswoman. The organization is caring for the immigrants under an arrangement with the Justice Department.

"If we reach capacity here (Brownsville), we will be able to begin housing people there also," Ms. Garner said.

The San Benito building resembling a large airplane hangar will be equipped to house up to 600 people, she said.

Jeffrey Weiss, associate director for immigration and refugee affairs with the Justice Department's Community Relations Service, said the government would have to satisfy county health authorities before moving into the San Benito building.

But portable toilets have been placed outside the structure and operators of a flea market inside have been told to leave.

Increased Border Patrol activity and the new asylum adjudication policy have put the INS in a bind for space recently.

The INS on Feb. 21 started detaining political asylum applicants whose cases are denied in a new one-day adjudication procedure. It also has stopped releasing those apprehended by the Border Patrol on their own recognizance.

The Brownsville shelter and the new one being prepared at San Benito are for family groups who are not locked up, but must report for daily roll calls.

The INS' minimum-security Port Isabel Service Processing Center for single males and females near Bayview, 20 miles northeast of Brownsville filled up all dorm space Tuesday night and officials have started housing the overflow in tents.

Pat Thompson, owner of Snowbird Court, said she fears the new neighbors will scare business away.

"This (Lower Rio Grande) Valley's crawling with parks," Ms. Thompson said. "They don't have to stay here."

Many, she said, are afraid to leave their unoccupied trailers tied down here with valuable possessions inside when they return home.

Alvin Groff of Joliet, Ill., added, "It's going to hurt the park, because nobody's going to be coming in here with that right next door."

Eastern offer might avoid strike

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal mediators say a new Eastern Airlines offer to its machinists union brings hope of avoiding a national strike that union leaders describe as "100 percent" likely unless President Bush stops it by midnight.

Eastern pilots, rejecting an unusual videotaped offer by airline owner Frank Lorenzo in separate contract negotiations, said Thursday they would refuse to work behind machinist picket lines.

Other unions also pledged support in a plan to block work at other airlines, railways and sea transport companies if a strike is called. A federal judge in Minnesota ordered against any sympathy strike at Northwest Airlines, but the union was seeking orders in another federal court here to allow such action.

Talks between financially troubled Eastern and its 8,500-member International Association of Machinists affiliate were expected to continue today "right up to the deadline" if no settlement is reached in the 17-month-old dispute, said David Bushnell, spokesman for the National Mediation Board.

The White House said Bush would decide before the federally imposed midnight end of a cooling-off period whether to follow a mediation board recommendation and form a special panel. Presidential action would delay either a strike or proposed Eastern salary cuts by 60 days.

Bush would meet with top advisers before making a decision, said spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

The airline wants Bush to stay out of it, saying it is losing $1 million a day and can't afford the delay. Eastern, owned by Texas Air Corp., has pledged to keep operating if the machinists strike.

The AFL-CIO and 33 senators led by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., have asked Bush to act.

AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkwood said other union members should honor the Eastern pickets wherever they are legally set up.

Kirkland accused Lorenzo, who bought Texas Air in 1986, of "finding it worth his while to purchase a good company and strip its assets, rather than operate it fairly and decently." The union accuses Lorenzo of planning to sell off Eastern assets or transfer them to non-union Continental Airlines, also owned by Texas Air.

Kirkland, asked after the Eastern offer what the chances of a strike would be if Bush did not act, said, "about a 100 percent chance."

Kirkland and other union leaders, at a news conference, said they doubted there would be any settlement because they believe Lorenzo wants to dismantle the airline, which they said is worth about $500 million.

The senators' letter, signed by 31 Democrats and GOP Sens. Alfonse D'Amato of New York and Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania, said 60 U.S. cities in 27 states depend on Eastern for passenger and freight service.

Other airlines contend their workers would be violating no-strike clauses in their contracts if they honored picket lines set up by Eastern strikers.

Carol Perkins, spokeswoman for the Association of American Railroads, said the group was calling on Congress to outlaw such secondary picketing.

W. Graham Claytor Jr., president of Amtrak, said the commuter railroad would continue limited operations in the event of a sympathy walkout in the face of Eastern picketing, but only for "a day or two." If there is no picketing and Eastern air service stops, the railroad would add trains, he said.

Eastern's machinists said the new company offer was an improvement but still called for pay cuts rather than pay increases.

Eastern originally wanted to cut salaries and get other concessions from the union totalling $150 million. The union wanted $50 million in raises.

"The company is still looking for major concessions, but it's not $150 million," said union official Wally Haber in Miami after the new offer.

Insurance board recruitment may be tough after chairman's resignation

AUSTIN (AP) - Circumstances surrounding the resignation of Chairman Edwin J. "Jack" Smith Jr. from the State Board of Insurance may make it more difficult to recruit potential new board members, the governor says.

But Gov. Bill Clements - who now has three appointments to make to the three-member board - said he still hopes to name "good people as quick as possible." He added that he hopes to announce one appointment next week.

Smith announced his resignation Thursday, clearing the way for Clements to appoint an all-new oversight panel for the beleaguered state agency. Board member David Thornberry earlier this week announced his resignation from the board, and member James Nelson's term has expired.

In a statement making public his decision, Smith, 60, said, "I would not walk away from a fight if the rules were fair, but I feel that my confirmation hearing would turn out not to be a fight but rather an ambush."

Smith, of Dallas, has been enmeshed in a controversy surrounding the board's management of the agency. Several lawmakers have called for his resignation, and Smith said he asked Clements to remove his name as a candidate for Senate confirmation.

He said he would remain on the board "for a reasonable time" to allow a replacement to be selected.

"There are certain people over there in the Senate who can grab a headline by making things uncomfortable for someone like Jack Smith, which is unfortunate because Jack is a person of absolute integrity and a high-quality individual," Clements said.

"Most people know Jack Smith for the person of integrity that I do. And they think well, you know, if he can't get along with those people over there in the Senate, why should I think I can?" Clements said. He said a number of people whom he might like to appoint to the board "have manifested no interest."

Clements said he tried to talk Smith out of leaving the post, which pays about $64,000 a year. Smith earlier had agreed to step down as chairman but remain on the board, which leads an agency of 1,300 employees that regulates the $25 billion per year insurance industry in Texas.

Smith was appointed to the Insurance Board in September 1987 for a term to end Jan. 31, 1993. He was insurance director for 15 years for SEDCO Inc., the oil-drilling contracting firm founded by Clements. He worked for the company for 28 years.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Each week, it seems a new microwave product comes out, designed for preparation in the disposable type tray. As I use each one at home I wash the tray and store it for later use.

We have a microwave at work in the lunch room. When I take leftovers for lunch I pack them in various trays, seal them with plastic wrap and heat them as is on my lunch break. Afterwards, I just throw them away and there is no clean-up or toting dirty dishes home to be washed. — Diane French, Ft. Madison, Iowa

Dear Heloise: When I make a batch of my family's favorite chocolate-chip cookies, I usually make about 25 dozen. In most cases this would take a long time, but I found a way that has proved to be time-saving.

I use a large melon ball maker to scoop the cookie dough onto the cookie sheets. All the cookies come out the same size and are just right for grandchildren, weddings and parties. — Mrs. Ruth Peace, Hillsville, Pa. © 1989 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Levelland, 'Naz' eye state titles

AUSTIN (AP) - Levelland and Nazareth both will have the opportunity to extend their impressive string of state titles after securing wins in the first round of the 39th annual Girls' State Basketball Tournament.

In Class 4A, Levelland will try for its fourth straight championship and fifth in six years, while legendary Nazareth looks to ring up title No. 10 in the past 12 years.

Only West Orange-Stark stands in the way of Levelland taking home another Class 4A crown as the two teams meet Saturday in the finals.

The Loboettes received a scare Thursday however, from first-timer Paris, 54-51, while West Orange-Stark, 27-6 and making only its second stop at the state tourney, got past Calallen 42-36.

The 51 points scored by Paris against Levelland represents the most allowed by the Loboettes all season. Coming in, they had only allowed more than 40 twice.

Levelland's only loss of the year is to Class 3A finalist Canyon.

Paris, 20-9, led the entire first half and the Loboettes, 33-1, did not go ahead until the first shot of the third quarter.

The lead changed hands eight times in the first 6:10 of the quarter until Levelland grabbed the lead for good 41-40 on a Twy Lana Harrison jumper from eight feet.

Harrison, a sophomore, scored the next eight points to give the Loboettes their biggest lead of the evening, 49-42.

Paris pulled to within two three times, but could get no closer.

Carol Bailey, who had 16 points in the second and third quarters, led Levelland with 18 followed by Harrison's 17.

Rosie Holt paced Paris with 25 and was complimented by Sha Ronda Reynolds' 20 points and 15 rebounds.

Led by 6-1 junior forward Travesa Gant's 27 points, the Lady Mustangs outscored Callallen 12-6 in the final quarter to pull out the win in the first Class 4A semifinal.

Gant accounted for seven points during that stretch.

The game was tied 20-20 at the half and 30-30 after three quarters.

After an early 2-0 lead, Calallen, 32-6, led again 24-20 early in the third quarter on a couple of field goals by guards Shelly Brown and Stacy Sherman.

Sparked by Gant, the Lady Mustangs grabbed a 30-26 lead, but Calallen tied it at 30-30 as the third quarter came to an end.

Brown led Callallen with 12 points. Callallen has been to the state tournament 12 times without a championship.

In West Orange-Stark's only other trip to the final four, it lost to Calallen in the semis in 1987.

Canyon has won six previous state championships and will try for its seventh and first since 1981 when they face Hardin-Jefferson in the Class 3A final.

Canyon, 35-1 and making its 12th trip to state, breezed to an 80-34 win over Devine Thursday, while Hardin-Jefferson had to fight off a furious rally by Canton 72-71 in the first semifinal contest.

There was never any doubt in Canyon's win as it built comfortable leads of 35-17 at intermission and 59-27 after three periods of play. The Lady Eagles led by as many as 36 in the final period.

Devine last won a state title 27 years ago and had more turnovers, 39, than points. The Arabians end their season at 25-8.

Misty Patterson and Missy Kraai led Canyon with 18 points apiece.

Holly Graham, a 6-1 senior post, paced Devine with 17.

Yatisha Basha fired in 34 points, pulled down 14 rebounds and executed a crucial three-point play in the final seconds to lead Hardin-Jefferson into the championship game.

Basha, who is a two-time all-tournament selection, hit on a follow shot with less than a minute left and then sank a free throw to hand the Lady Hawks a 70-69 lead and enough momentum to hold on for the victory.

Hardin-Jefferson, 33-1, looked as if they were going to run away and hide early, staking themselves to a 13-point advantage at halftime.

Canton, 31-5, doubled Hardin-Jefferson's output in the fourth quarter 22-11, mainly on the strength of two three-pointers. Tina Manry's long range jumper tied the game at 67-67.

On the afternoon, Canton hit on 7-of-14 three-pointers, five from Christi Cox, who led the Eaglettes with 23 points. Kellie Fitzgerald followed with 22.

The Eaglettes took their only lead of the game 69-67 on a Kathy Medley field goal before Basha had the three-point play.

It'll be a rematch of last year's final game in Class A as Nazareth and LaRue LaPoyner will meet for the championship.

Nazareth, 32-2, cruised to an easy 44-27 win over Moulton, while LaPoyner registered a come-from-behind 55-49 win over Jayton-Girard in semifinal action.

Nazareth defeated LaPoyner 64-28 in last year's title game.

Top-ranked Arizona triumphs; Boston College tops Syracuse

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Jud Heathcote lost a pair of Michigan high school stars and paid for it on the court for nearly four years. Finally, he has gotten back at Roy Marble and B.J. Armstrong.

Heathcote, whose Michigan State team had lost to Iowa five straight times, might be a Big Ten power if Marble, of Flint, Mich., and Armstrong, from Detroit, had stayed in-state and become Spartans. Instead, Armstrong became the all-time assist leader at Iowa and Marble is the Hawkeyes' career scoring leader.

Neither did much leading Thursday night as the 11th-ranked Hawkeyes fell to Michigan State 83-81.

"I'm just so happy to finally beat what I call the 'Michigan Connection,'" Heathcote said.

In other Top 20 games, No. 1 Arizona clinched the Pacific-10 crown with a 74-48 romp past Washington State, No. 6 Syracuse was stunned by Boston College 90-87, No. 8 Illinois took Minnesota 63-58, No. 13 Stanford beat Southern California 74-65, 18th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas outlasted Pacific 81-71 and No. 20 North Carolina State stopped Maryland 93-77.

According to the NFL, Super Bowls have constituted eight of the 10 most-watched programs in television history.

The 1988 Pro Bowl Game in Honolulu was estimated to have had an economic impact of about $33 million on the Hawaiian economy.

Kirk Manns scored 22 points, making five 3-point shots, and Steve Smith had 21 points for Michigan State.

Smith's two free throws with 1:45 to play gave the Spartans an 81-80 lead. Armstrong, an 82-percent free throw shooter, had a chance to tie the game at 81, but he missed the front end of a one-and-one. Mark Montgomery converted two foul shots with 33 seconds to play to give Michigan State an 83-80 lead.

Armstrong finished with 10 points, nearly half his average.

No. 1 Arizona 74, Washington St. 48

The Wildcats were snowed in at Seattle on Wednesday and didn't get to Pullman, Wash., until Thursday afternoon, forcing a one-hour delay in the start of the game. It didn't help Washington State once Arizona woke up in the second half after not scoring in the final three minutes of the first.

Anthony Cook's 28 points, nine rebounds and three blocked shots paced the conference-clinching victory.

Boston College 90, No. 6 Syracuse 87

The tailenders in the Big East had a big surprise for the Orangemen. Dana Barros scored 31 points, including two free throws with 1:41 left that gave Boston College the lead for good. Barros' foul shots came during a 10-0 spurt.

Doug Able had a career-high 22 points for BC, 11-15 overall and 3-12 in the conference. Syracuse slipped to 24-6 and 9-6.

No. 8 Illinois 63, Minnesota 58

Minnesota controlled the ball and the tempo. It wasn't enough as Illinois hit its last eight points from the foul line and got 19 points from Nick Anderson.

Illinois, 24-4 overall, 11-4 in the Big Ten, avenged an earlier loss to the Gophers, 14-11, 6-9.

No. 13 Stanford 74, Southern Cal 65

The Cardinal capped its first perfect homecourt record in 27 years as Todd Lichti scored 28 points and Howard Wright added 19 and 10 rebounds. Stanford outrebounded USC 46-24.

Stanford finished 13-0 at home, clinching the latest victory by holding the Trojans scoreless for nearly 10 minutes during a 22-0 run.

No. 18 Nevada-Las Vegas 81, Pacific 71

The Rebels went with their subs for most of the game and got 21 points from Anderson Hunt and 13 rebounds from Moses Scurry.

UNLV scored the first nine points of the game and led by as many as 21 points in the first half. But Pacific put together a 40-20 run and moved ahead 67-65 with 5:13 remaining. UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian then inserted starters David Butler and Stacey Augmon and the Rebels quickly regained the lead on a 10-0 run.

No. 20 N. Carolina St. 94, Maryland 77

Atlantic Coast Conference leader N.C. State, 19-7 overall and 9-4 in the league, was led by Chucky Brown with 23 points and Rodney Monroe with 22. The Wolfpack grabbed a 10-point halftime lead and stretched it to 17 five minutes into the second half.

A&M releases Sherrill payout

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University paid former athletic director and football coach Jackie Sherrill $542,000 cash to buy out his contract when he resigned under fire in December, school officials say.

The school also released Sherrill from the final lien on his house, officials said in a statement released Thursday. The value of the lien was $90,000, the Bryan-College Station Eagle reported.

Texas A&M paid off Sherrill's contract, including some provisions, with revenues generated by the athletic department, the university's statement said.

Sherrill and the university agreed to a payment of two years of the remaining five on his contract, which paid Sherrill $185,120 for his coaching and athletic director duties and $142,000 for media activities.

The university then subtracted radio and television money Sherrill already earned in 1988 to reach the $542,000 figure.

Texas A&M released the termination document after a ruling by Attorney General Jim Mattox last week that said it had to be made public under the state's Open Records law. Several news organizations sought release of the document as long ago as December, when Sherrill announced his departure after nearly seven years in the two posts.

Officials delayed the release until Sherrill and his attorney, A.W. Davis of Bryan, could examine the ruling and consider their options.

The school made the agreement with Sherrill on Dec. 12, 1988. In return for the cash payment, Sherrill agreed in the document to return all property owned by A&M, including automobiles and credit cards.

Texas A&M stated in the agreement that it would hire separate individuals in the future for athletic director and head football coach.

In September 1988, the Aggie football team was placed on NCAA probation, but none of the charges directly related to Sherrill.

The coach's problems began in November when former running back George Smith told The Dallas Morning News he was being paid money to keep quiet about some of the NCAA allegations. Smith later recanted his statements.

During the school's internal investigation, Sherrill maintained that he was "helping a former player out."

Sherrill has an unlisted telephone number and could not immediately be reached by The Associated Press for comment. He has not discussed his resignation publicly.

Slocum says SWC in best shape ever

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas A&M assistant who was promoted to head football coach in the wake of an NCAA investigation says he would like to see greater emphasis on punishing coaches and players who cheat.

However R.C. Slocum, who got the Aggie job after Jackie Sherrill resigned in December, says the troubled Southwest Conference — a recent target of NCAA penalties — is now, perhaps, in its best shape ever.

Slocum, a late addition to the program at the Sports Law Conference on Thursday, said, "There are a few cheaters in this world but the problem and the direction we should go is find those cheaters, identify those guys, and get them out of the game."

Slocum mentioned no names, but added, "What I would like to see is greater emphasis on punishing the player and punishing the coach involved, where you get those people out of the game."

NCAA penalties now are directed at the colleges, including bans on bowl appearances and loss of scholarships.

Slocum said he is telling Aggie boosters to keep their hands off recruiting. He said he would lock the locker room to keep out alumni after games. He also said he would hold regular meetings with his staff and periodic meetings with players to make sure they comply with NCAA rules.

The conference, sponsored by the State Bar of Texas, attracted approximately 260 people, some of whom showed up before 7 a.m. Thursday to get a seat. The conference continued today.

Slocum was named coach after Sherrill resigned in December as head coach and athletic director. John David Crow was named athletic director.

The NCAA has penalized six Southwest Conference schools for football rules violations in recent years, and Slocum said, "For years people were running around saying, 'You know, everybody's doing it.' And you know what, it looks like most everybody was doing some of those things."

He said his contract, as well as those of Athletic Director Crow and Slocum's assistants, provide termination without pay for knowingly violating an NCAA rule or remaining silent when they know a rule is being violated.

Worley of UT-Austin said school President William Cunningham "every year talks to the entire staff, and his policy is pretty clear. 'If you knowingly violate a rule, you're fired.' And I heard him make that statement and say, 'Look at me. I'm not winking when I say it.' And he's not smiling when he says it either."

If Aikman asks too much, Cowboys may pick Walsh

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Steve Walsh of Miami may be the Dallas Cowboys top draft pick if Troy Aikman wants too much money, the Cowboys' new owner said.

Jerry Jones, a Little Rock oilman, completed his purchase of the Cowboys during the weekend. He dismissed Tom Landry as head coach and hired University of Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson.

The Cowboys have the No. 1 choice in the NFL draft because they had the worst record in the league last year — 3-13.

"He's got to do some cutting on his price," Jones said of Aikman. "We're not going to pay that kid a lot of money. If not, we'll go with Walsh."

"Steve Walsh is a fine quarterback and we'd be glad to have him in a Cowboy uniform."

Walsh said: "That's new to me. But it has nothing to do with my decision-making process." He declined to comment further.

In an interview with a Miami TV station, Johnson discussed Jones' comments.

"Steve Walsh is an underclassman; he has not declared for the pro draft," Johnson said. "And I kind of chuckled when I heard Jerry's statement. He's very enthusiastic, and he's a shrewd

Bock's Scorebook Younger players feel cheated by owners

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

At last count, better than one of every six major league baseball players will earn $1 million or more this season. And a good portion of that group will be more than $2 million.

At least a piece of that substantial payroll, however, is coming out of the wallets of the younger members of their fraternity, players with less than three years of major league service who are routinely chiseled by the owners.

Play three years and you can go to arbitration to settle any salary dispute. Play a day under three years and the club can renew your contract on its terms, take it or leave it.

What this means is that management gets its way for the first three years of a player's career. And the bosses of baseball are not shy about taking advantage of their advantage.

So, David Cone wins 20 games for the New York Mets in his second season and asks for a raise from $92,500 to $340,000 — certainly not pocket change, but bargain basement in today's baseball economy.

The Mets examine Cone's credentials and say $320,000. What's more, they say, sign for $320,000 or we'll renew you for less. Later, in an attack of generosity, the team adjusted its number, first to $325,000, then finally to $332,500, but maintained the renewal axe, never getting to Cone's figure and leaving the pitcher little choice but to sign.

On the other side of the Florida spring training coast, outfielder Kal Daniels — 37 days short of arbitration eligibility — walked out of the Cincinnati Reds camp in a similar dispute.

Daniels batted .291 with 18 home runs, 64 runs batted in and 27 stolen bases and led the National League with a .397 on-base percentage last season. For that production he wanted a raise from $185,000 to between $330,000 and $340,000. He said he would accept $325,000. The Reds said $300,000, a difference of $25,000.

How was it settled? Well, the Reds settled Daniels' contract when Schott conducted a coin toss, which Daniels won on Thursday.

The Mets invested a hefty $6.7 million for the next three years in Dwight Gooden, who won 20 games once, and $5.3 million for the same period for Ron Darling, who has never reached 20 wins. And they battled David Cone over $200,000?

These are the same Reds who have four players with salaries of more than $1 million. And they went to war with Kal Daniels for $25,000 before deciding it on a coin flip?

Houston did the same thing last year with Glenn Davis, rewarding a 27-homer, 93-RBI 1987 season with a salary of $340,000, a cut-rate increase of $125,000.

When, in his fourth season, a bitter Davis hit 30 homers and had 99 RBIs, it cost the Astros at arbitration time. His salary went to $1.085 million an increase of more than $700,000 for essentially the same production as he had the year before.

If Davis' production was worth $700,000 one year, how could the essentially the same numbers be worth only $125,000 a year earlier?

This small change bickering sounds like a lot of nickel and diming for an industry with the economics of baseball. The Mets make the $20,000 they argued over with Cone in one night, maybe in one inning, at one Shea Stadium concession stand. The same is true of the Reds at Riverfront.

Still, the owners maintain the policy, perhaps because they like to use the unilateral power for as long as they have it. Make the players squirm now, because later they will be the ones with the hammer. It is, however, a policy that could eventually explode in management's face.

SWC tourney seeds are up for grabs

LUBBOCK (AP) — Southwest Conference officials are drawing up probability charts and checking the rule book, preparing to cut through the league logjam as conference play goes into its final weekend.

Who will occupy places one through seven in the final standings is anybody's guess, but the best person to ask might be an expert on probabilities and statistics.

Texas and Arkansas are atop the league standings at 12-3, while Houston and Texas Christian are 8-7. Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Southern Methodist are bunched together at 7-8.

But depending on the outcomes of four weekend games, as many as five teams could end up tied for third place, leaving league officials to break the deadlock.

"It really takes higher math to get it all squared away," said Bo Carter, SWC director of media relations, on Thursday.

At this point, the only two certainties are that Rice will be the eighth seed in the SWC Post-Season Classic March 10-12 in Dallas and that the Baylor Bears will be staying in Waco that weekend.

Bob Gennarelli, assistant to SWC Commissioner Fred Jacoby, spent Wednesday night and Thursday morning working out various ranking and seeding possibilities for the tourney.

According to conference rules adopted in 1976, seedings will be determined in the case of a tie first by the teams' records against each other and then by their records against other conference opponents starting with the first-place team or teams and working down.

And if that complicated formula fails to resolve anything, league officials resort to more primitive means: a coin toss.

Therefore, if both Texas and Arkansas win their final games, the Hogs would be the top seed in Dallas because they defeated Texas twice, according to SWC officials.

But consider this scenario — Texas Tech, Houston, SMU, TCU and Texas A&M could all end up in a third-place tie if:

- The Red Raiders beat the last-place Bears here Saturday.

- The Mustangs complete a sweep of TCU in Saturday's game in Fort Worth.

- The Aggies score an upset over the Longhorns in College Station.

- And the Razorbacks defeat the Cougars in Barnhill Arena Sunday.

Then the number-crunching would begin to determine seedings. Of course, there are at least a dozen other possible scenarios, all resulting in at least one tie.

Either a four- or five-way tie would be an SWC first. Texas, Texas A&M and TCU shared the league title in 1986 and three teams crowded into second place in 1985.

Meanwhile, the Owls have finished the season at 6-10 and have sole claim on eighth place. Baylor, 1-14, will be staying in Waco after playing the Red Raiders, win or lose.
