

Resistant Greenbugs Cause Problems

Agriculture Pilots Battle With Borers

By JIM STEIERT

Deaf Smith County's agricultural aviators are currently joining in waging the annual war against two of the Texas Panhandle's most persistent pests—greenbugs and the Southwestern Corn Borer.

Armed with Cessnas, Pipers, Grummans, Stearman and a vast collection of other spray planes in addition to the best chemicals modern agricultural science can devise, Panhandle agriculture pilots are engaged in a campaign to stave off the pests and save yet another year's production.

LOCAL CROP dusters are finding that their time-proven program of applying Sevin and molasses to corn fields in order to control the die-hard borer is still paying off, and they're spending plenty of extra hours in their cockpits making sure it does. They've run into a real headache where the greenbug is concerned, though.

The tiny insects are causing big problems as they display resistance to chemicals which have proved effective in their control in years past.

According to the Grain Sorghum Producers Association, headquartered in Lubbock, populations of chemical-resistant greenbugs are building and spreading rapidly throughout the Texas and eastern New Mexico plains region.

Report Shows Slim Chance For Property Valuation Change

"There is no way there is $437 million in valued property in the Hereford Independent School District and the evidence supports it," Tax Consultant Jim McMorries told the school board at called meeting Tuesday evening.

The tax expert was reporting to the board concerning a visit he and Orpha Click, schools tax assessor-collector, had in Austin this week before a review panel appointed by the governor on an appeal of the Texas Education Agency's valuation of local property. They were first to appear before the panel which was hearing appeals for districts which felt their property was valued too high.

"This action (by the TEC) is malicious and capricious and is totally unfair to the HISD," McMorries said. "We submitted honest and full market values with no doubt in my mind and then the values were arbitrarily raised 20 per cent."

He said that HISD could not be compared with other districts during the hearing and were limited to about a 15-minute time period. The panel has the authority to change property values according to a majority decision of the five-member panel chaired by Raymond Bynum, assistant superintendent of the Richardson School District.

The only authority over the panel is Marlin Brockette, commissioner of education, who can overrule the panel. Beyond him, the only resource is the courts, McMorries said.

He said, "We were told that unless a drastic economic condition existed, the valuation would not be changed." Property was submitted at an average value of about $423 an acre, which is higher than most area districts. Generally, the total property valuation is considered here to be about $79 million above what is should be.

Click said all the evidence was presented and left with the panel for review. The only bright spot, although minor, was that about $3 1/2 million in automobile values would be dropped from the total figure.

Superintendent Roy Hartman was deeply distressed about the situation and said, at the suggestion of board president Jim Conkright, that he would visit with Brockette to see if it would do any good.

Wednesday morning, he said a telegram was being sent to the panel and Brockette to appeal for a favorable decision although it seemed unlikely.

"I am going to try and go to Austin later in the week," Hartman said. Reasoning expressed by Bynum for the negative opinions were that the $20 million lost on cattle this year didn't present an economic disaster. The decision will be binding for two years and could mean thousands of dollars in lost state financial aid.

"The evidence is in our favor but the votes aren't," McMorries said.

Woodward Case Discussed

Schools Table Tennis Bids

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

The Hereford School Board of Trustees raised school cafeteria prices, tabled a final decision on the eight-court tennis complex bids, gave a procedural approval of a bank depository contract and accepted the appointment of Dempsey Alexander as assistant principal at La Plata Junior High School.

The meeting was called Tuesday afternoon specifically to review bids on the proposed tennis courts to be built at the high school, but the matter was only discussed and not decided after over an hour of consideration. Problems existed primarily with costs as well as structural methods.

Also heard during the meeting was a report from Gene Brock, a teacher at HHS, on the suit filed by dismissed teacher Wayne Woodward.

A bid each were received from Vibra Whirl of Panhandle and Progressive Tennis Court Builders of Lubbock. The total bids including the alternates were within about $2,000 of each other, but each greatly exceeded the budgeted amount of $46,000.

Vibra Whirl submitted a total bid of $60,764 while Progressive bid the project at $58,625. This included wind screens, special tennis court surfaces, asphalt paving, four new courts, resurfacing the four old ones and electrical lighting.

Since the project is being funded jointly by the city, schools and county, the board decided to delay any action until the other governmental bodies are contacted and mutual agreements made on the price and for extra lighting and wind screens.

BILL MCMORRIES, engineering consultant, reviewed the bids with the board and recommended that parts of the best bid be accepted deducting those items needed the least so that a more reasonable price would result. A large part of the cost was the old court lighting which Progressive bid at $8,100 and Vibra Whirl bid at $9,680. The lighting for the new courts were priced in about the same range.

Superintendent Roy Hartman and most of the school board were flabbergasted at the price for lighting and considered the possibility of accepting a bid without the old court lighting and the wind screens, since they were designed in the wrong place. The wind screens automatically were deleted because they were to be put on the Southwest portions of the chain link fencing and not the northeast sides.

Danny Martin, board member, proposed this arrangement so the price could be lowered. This would result in prices in the $47,000-$48,000 range.

However, the board unanimously decided to table the matter until the committee composed of board members James Gentry and Ron Zimmerman could check back with the city and possibly the county on the need for the old court lighting.

Both company representatives present agreed to work with the schools on an appropriate solution.

A BID FOR THE DEPOSITORY

contract was award to First National Bank of Hereford at the last meeting. The board approved the final contract to insure that the bank held enough pledges to back the money the district had deposited. It was usual procedure as the contract will now be sent to the Texas Education Agency for approval.

Brock, a representative of the local chapter of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association TCTA detailed his efforts to seek reasons in Austin why the state level of the organization is backing the suit filed by dismissed teacher Wayne Woodward, now working on an advanced degree in Weatherford, Okla. The TCTA approved funds for Woodward early in July without checking with the local unit as to the specifics of the case.

Brock said he was generally given the run around in Austin and that no TCTA official would talk with him after a hearing held by the organization's professional rights and responsibility committee. He finally found out that the committee just tabled an appeal on the matter.

MARY JO HAMMAN, president of the local TCTA, said that no local membership drive would be held this year if answers weren't provided by TCTA.

"Teachers here have told me they will join the organization unless they receive answers and know what our position is," Mrs. Hamman said. "Right now we just aren't able to establish an official position."

She explained that Woodward had tried to join the state level of the TCTA, but was told he had to join locally. Woodward tried this but was told that a non-faculty member and out-of-state resident wasn't eligible.

Mrs. Hamman said there probably wouldn't be a CTA here this year and Brock said he was prepared to recommend an end to it.

Brock said that he was accused of being Hartman's man, but he answered that his statements came as an individual and as a representative of the local CTA. Hartman said that most of the skepticism about Hereford comes from the friendly relationship enjoyed here between teachers and administration which doesn't exist in most districts.

THE CAFETERIA PRICES were raised from 50 cents a meal to 55 cents a meal for elementary school students and 65 cents for elementary school teachers. Prices went from 60 cents a meal to 65 cents for secondary students and 85 cents for secondary school teachers. All other adults pay $1 per meal.

The proposal was presented by Hartman for Larry Wartes, administrative assistant, who was out of town receiving an award. The superintendent said the difference in teacher costs was due primarily to elementary school teachers having to eat with students while secondary teachers do not.

Dempsey, a former coach and teacher at HHS, received the appointment as assistant principal under Pat Hughes at La Plata.

Sherman Endorses Constitution

State Sen. Max Sherman, addressing a press conference here Wednesday morning, said he personally endorsed all eight propositions for a new Texas Constitution which will go before state voters on Nov. 4.

"There are some charges I'd like to make if I were writing the constitution, but generally I think it has some strong new provisions, some good compromises, and retains the checks and balances of the old document," he told newsmen.

Sherman also reviewed the actions of the 64th Legislature and termed it "one of the hardest-working sessions ever held." He outlined some of the major bills which were acted upon—such as submission of the new constitution, the school finance bill, the formation of a utilities commission, and the strip-mining legislation.

The senator admitted the two-year school finance bill would cause problems in West Texas because of the increase in local fund assignments. "Checking over my senatorial district, I find that 69 of the 84 school districts will have to increase their local fund assignments," he stated. Only a few of the larger cities will benefit from the legislation.

Sherman feels the voters will approve the new constitution, perhaps all eight propositions. "There doesn't seem to be strong opposition to the new document, except some criticism on a specific article." He added there is a possibility that the state could wind up with part of the new document and part of the old, since the vote is on eight different propositions.

He listed some of the strong points of the new constitution as: Budget control, ordinance-making power for county government, stronger appointive powers for the governor, maintaining the pay-as-you-go policy in state government, passage of laws on the local level without going to Austin, accountability in government, and unification of the judiciary system.

The right-to-work provision is not included in the new constitution, but he sees a "status quo" on this controversial matter. It would remain as a status regardless of whether the state is under the new constitution or not.

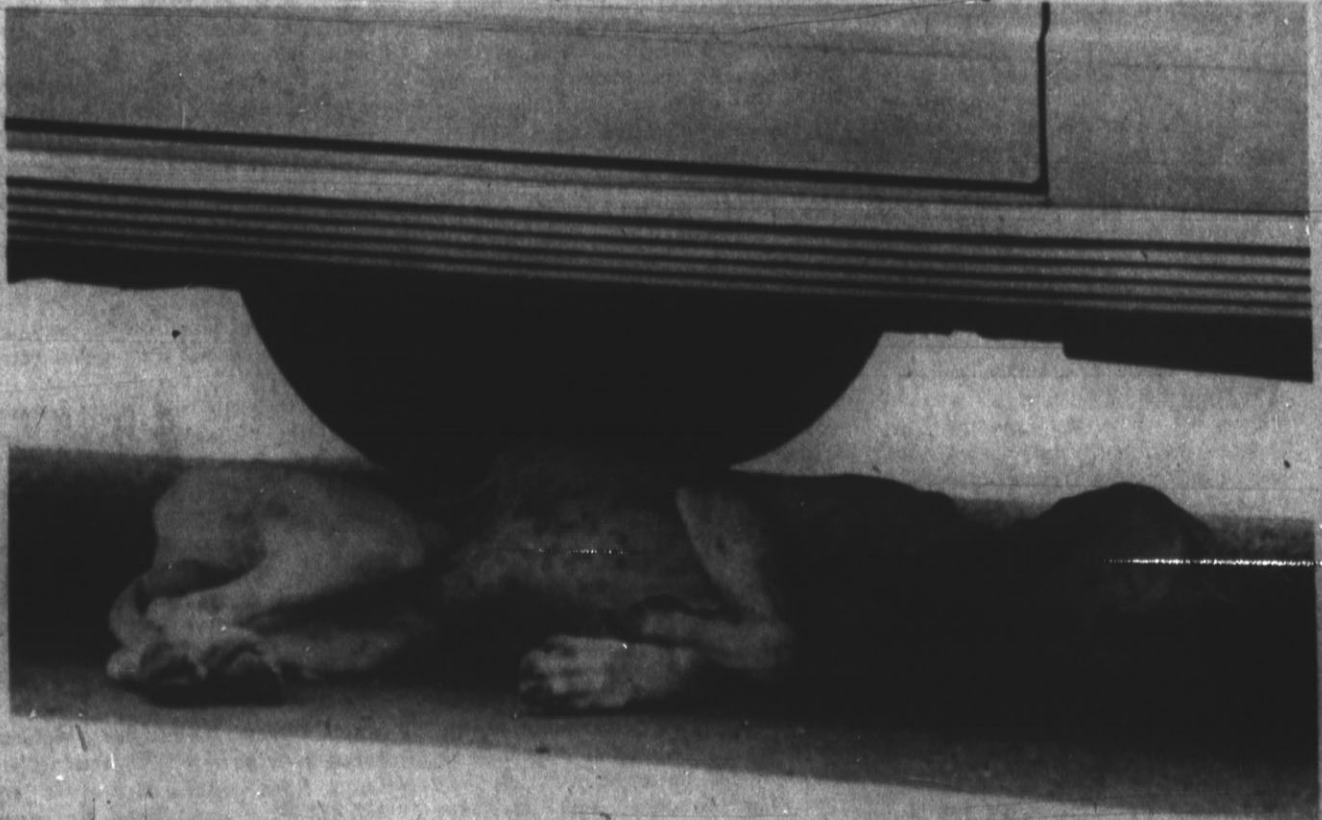

Sen. Sherman says most observers feel the finance article in the new constitution is a good one, but it could draw some criticism. The education article, too, might draw some opposition from some segments of the state.

The senator says the new constitution is not as costly as it might sound. Some of the provisions could be implemented under the present constitution so those who are adding up the costs of the new one are not always using realistic statistics.

If proposition 1 is approved by voters in November, the Legislature would convene in January of 1976, points out Sherman. He added that the Senate could be called back in September if the impeachment proceedings now being considered by the House are called on for action.

Receives Award

Jaycees Honor Conkwright During State Convention

Five men, among them Jim Conkwright of Hereford, were honored as the "five outstanding young Texans of 1975" by the Texas Jaycees at an awards banquet in Austin Saturday night.

A crowd of approximately 1800 people was present for the presentation. The featured speaker was Mrs. Patricia Lindh, Special Assistant to President Ford, the highest ranking woman in the Ford White House.

Conkwright, 33, is a cattle rancher here. He is President of the Hereford School Board, belongs to the Rotary Club and serves on the Bicentennial Committee. He is active in both the Methodist Church and the Chamber of Commerce.

He has distinguished himself in agribusiness as well as community life. He became, at 28, the youngest President of the Texas Hereford Breeder's Association in its history. During the beef crisis in 1974, he was one of 20 experts on agribusiness called to Washington to confer with President Ford on possible solutions to the crisis.

The other men honored this year by the Jaycees are David Frederickson, Sam Monroe, John Thompson, and Roger Villarreal.

Frederickson, 32, an advertising executive and television host from Houston, was honored for his accomplishments in communications, political affairs and civic involvement. Born in West Texas, he is President of his own ad agency and hosts an award winning Jaycee public affairs show in Houston. He has been active in Republican Party politics, having served Houston Congressman Bill Archer as campaign manager.

Monroe, 32, is President of Lamar University at Port Arthur. He formerly served as Vice-President of Port Arthur College, where his efforts at expansion resulted in a merger with Lamar University of Beaumont. He was chosen as President of the new Lamar branch in March of 1975.

Thompson, 32, of Huntsville is a successful banker who has also served as a state and national Jaycee Officer. He was President of the Texas Jaycees in 1974. His leadership helped the Jaycees to finish first in the nation among state Jaycee organizations in 1974.

Villarreal, 30, is from Port Isabel. The death of his father forced him to assume much responsibility at the age of nine. He later served as a combat marine in Viet Nam, and was commended for his bravery.

After his service there, he returned to Port Isabel and became active in community affairs, serving in the Chamber of Commerce, the Lions Club, the Kiwanis Club, American Legion, and numerous other civic organizations, including the Jaycees.

County Court returned two convictions during the week, one for theft under $20 and one for speeding on appeal from Justice of the Peace Court.

Justice of the Peace Court handed down one conviction on a bad check charge.

Cases handled involving convictions in District Court during the week were:

Hereford's Counterpart Visited

By JOE LACKEY
Bread Staff Writer

The city of Hereford, England has many similarities to our own Hereford, Texas, particularly relating to the type of livestock raised there, but there are differences, too, since the English counterpart to Hereford is an old city, according to a local woman who has just returned from a visit there.

Mrs. Henry Sears had planned a trip to London and Oxford, England, but didn't think she would get to go on to Hereford, a city located in Herefordshire. But after finding herself relatively close to Hereford, she decided to go ahead and visit that city.

She says that Hereford, England is located in one of the most beautiful areas in England. The countryside around the city is dominated by lush grassland, where whiteface cattle graze. And the city itself has many beautiful old buildings.

WHILE IN HEREFORD, Mrs. Sears stayed at the Green Dragon Inn. She dined on fresh salmon from the River

Wye, which runs through Hereford.

She hoped to be able to see the Lord Mayor of Hereford while there, but, unfortunately, the Lord Mayor was out of town during her visit. After going to the Town Hall, she was greeted by the Secretary of the Lord Mayor. She stresses the graciousness of the people she met while in Hereford.

The Lord Mayor's secretary introduced Mrs. Sears to the Town Clerk, who also acts as the Chief Executive of Hereford. The Town Clerk showed her around the Town Hall, including the Council Chambers, the Mayor's Parlor, and the reception room of the Mayoress.

She was also shown a locked vault in which some of the city's most precious possessions are kept, such as cups and candleholders which had been given the city by nobles over the centuries.

ONE CANDLESTICK shown Mrs. Sears dated from 1666, and is valued at 10,000 pounds.

Another locked case contained charters of the city of Hereford from different English Kings. Such charters during English history have been granted to English cities which have proved stable fortified, and loyal to the King.

One charter, a document of incorporation, was presented to Hereford in 1597 by Queen Elizabeth.

Mrs. Sears says that the people in the Town Hall were so gracious she "hated to leave." But eventually she had a driver take her around the city and the rest of the shire.

She strolled through an old area of the city restricted to vehicles. One building located in this area is known as "Old House," and once was a saddlery shop. It now is furnished as a museum. The building, which dates from the 17th century, is classically English in its architecture, Mrs. Sears says, and was built of white stone and black timbers.

Mrs. Sears also visited the Cathedral in Hereford. It is recognized as one of England's great Cathedrals, and dates from the 11th century. It is the seat of a Bishop. The Cathedral, Mrs. Sears says, has been built, destroyed by invaders, and rebuilt several times.

Besides being densely populated with whiteface cattle, the countryside around Hereford also grazes sheep and swine, she says. The countryside is heavily wooded. Much fruit, including apples and pears originally brought by the Romans, is grown.

HOPS ARE GROWN in the country around Hereford, and some small grain, according to Mrs. Sears.

Part of the countryside is known as the Golden Valley, which compares to our own Golden Spread, Mrs. Sears noted.

Hereford is located near the border of Wales, but Mrs. Sears just didn't have time to go on to Wales. She described her trip to Hereford as a "perfectly delightful day."

Hereford itself is populated by about 37,000 people, and the entire shire contains about 113,000 people, Mrs. Sears says.

Mrs. Sears says the city was established at least as early as the eighth century, and has been besieged, invaded, destroyed, and rebuilt many times.

She noted that the residents of Hereford have a tremendous interest in music and drama, and dress very much the way we do. She stressed the rich heritage of the English counterpart to our own city.

County Accepts Revenue Sharing Report

EMS Equipment Approved

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Bread News Editor

Mostly inconsequential matters concerned the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court during a two and a half hour meeting at the courthouse early Monday morning.

Convened two hours earlier than normal, the commissioners began at 8 a.m. to devote most of the day to lengthy discussion on the county budget. They adjourned after taking quick action in favor of purchasing equipment for a Panhandle-wide emergency medical service (EMS) communication system, approving the Revenue Sharing Actual Use Report, denying use of the county library for a personal profit event, accepting a location for the County 4-H Horse Club arena and rescinding a request for a desk in the County Judge's office for use by the county museum.

In other action, the court tabled a request from Criminal District Attorney Andy Shuval for a dictaphone system as well as a proposal to raise the district court reporter's salary by about $100 a month. The court was to decide on paving roads in precincts two and three, but the respective commissioners were not ready for action.

Ron Welty, Deaf Smith General Hospital administrator, told the commissioners that the hospital had already filed an application through the Panhandle Regional Planning Council for federal funds to finance equipment here to be used in a coordinated communications network throughout the Texas Panhandle. It was based on the assumption that the county and possibly the city would help in providing the local cost of the equipment, which amounts to about $2,500. The total cost is about $5,000.

THE EMS COMMUNICATIONS system would use the existing county broadcast tower and the services of the county sheriff's dispatcher. Welty explained that the only requirement was for a dispatcher on duty 24 hours a day and that the sheriff's office was the most likely location since it already participates in any emergency cases. Also Sheriff Travis McPherson had expressed a desire to have it located in the office according to County Judge Sam Morgan.

It will be possible with the system, which operates on a separate frequency channel, for a doctor to communicate directly with paramedics from the moment they reach a victim with an ambulance, providing medical advice until the patient arrives at an emergency receiving center. Also, the system will include capability for doctors to monitor vital signs of a patient, which in the case of a heart attack victim might save a life.

The Commissioners Court then agreed unanimously to fund half the cost with the other half being provided by the hospital district. Commissioner Bruce Coleman suggested strongly that the city ought to help with the cost and that Welty should ask the city for such funds. Welty said he would.

Welty also was appointed as the court's representative to the Panhandle Regional Medical Association.

Secretaries Plan Meeting

The Deaf Smith-Castro counties Legal Secretaries Association will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, August 5, 1975, at the offices of Cowsett Abstract & Title Co., 106 West Bedford in Dimmitt.

Mrs. Clara Vick, owner and operator of Cowsett Abstract & Title Co., will give a program on the preparation of abstracts of title and the duties and responsibilities of abstract companies.

All members are urged to attend, and any interested persons are cordially invited.

The Revenue Sharing report listed the uses of funds from the last fiscal year as follows: $123,800 for public transportation, $50,000 for the library, and $25,000 to remodel the courthouse.

So far this year Revenue Sharing funds amount to $116,402 including a balance of $62,530 carried forward from 1974. The remaining is what has been received so far. About $10,000 has already been spent according to the report.

THE 69TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT court Reporter Ray Quillen requested that the court raise his salary by $100 a month to keep up with inflation and help cover rising costs. Presently he is paid about $7,500 plus travel and other expenses.

He said Deaf Smith County pays a half of his salary with the other five counties in the district footing the remaining portion. Also, law provides that he can raise his salary 10 per cent from each of the counties involved, the court reporter said.

The commissioners decided to consider it further before taking action. An increase in salary was suggested around Jan. 1, 1976.

Shuval asked the court for about $2,100 to finance a new dictaphone system for his office. It would be more effective than his present one in communicating instruction to his secretary and the assistant criminal district attorney, he said.

The new system was shown to the commissioners in the district attorney's office, where it is being used on a 30-day trial basis. Shuval explained that the system was better than the old one since it allowed him to record messages on cassette tapes while he is working weekends and that the secretary can go directly to instruction signals where the instruction is automatically replayed.

"It speeds up the work we have to do," he said.

Commissioner James Voyles said he thought any large expense that was not an emergency should not be allowed unless originally included in the budget. The other commissioners generally concurred and decided to postpone any approval of the system.

A DESK IN THE COUNTY judge's office for use by the museum had been requested but the answer was no since the desk is already in use. Eventually it may become available.

Gwen London, county librarian, asked the court what the policy was for use of the Heritage Room in the library for profit making ventures. Roy Faubion, who conducts leadership seminars for a living, had asked to use it for a leadership meeting in connection with the Community Action Agency.

Since participants would be charged for it, Commissioner Voyles said, "I think it falls under the same category as the Bull Barn, which is not used for profit generating activities."

Coleman then moved that the library should not be used for personal profit or gain, only non profit groups. It was unanimously passed.

The county 4-H Horse Club had earlier asked for county land on which to construct a horse training arena involving only pipe guard rails. One location was the 30-acre tract recently purchased for recreational purposes.

However, it was explained that the club preferred a location near the Bull Barn where it would be more accessible and desirable since the Hereford Riders Club rodeo arena is there. It was okayed.

All commissioners were present. The next regular meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday, August 11.

It was great to have State Sen. Max Sherman in town Wednesday, and we sat in on a very interesting news conference with him at the chamber office.

Following the press conference, a number of interested citizens stopped by for a "coffee break with Senator Sherman" hour between 11 a.m. and noon.

Sen. Sherman spoke at the Lions Club at noon Wednesday, and we'll have a report on that address in Sunday's Brand. In a recent edition of "Texas Monthly", the magazine called Sherman "one of the two or three finest public servants in state government, at the top of everyone's Ten Best list."

oOo

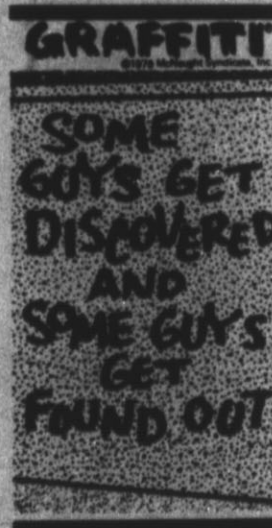

News editor Bobby Templeton got some response—mostly favorable—from his Sunday column expressing opinions on what he thought were "irrational" reactions to the school tax increase. I believe he stated the case pretty well, but I might have been one of those reactionaries if the shoe had been on the other foot.

For instance, I can't fault a local merchant too much for his public criticism of the superintendent for buying suits out of town. It didn't really have anything to do with the tax increase and, perhaps, a school board meeting wasn't the place to bring it up. But, I can see his point and I sympathize with his feelings.

To say that it's nobody's business where we buy our products is theoretically true but, practically speaking, it doesn't work out that way.

"Shop at Home" and "Shop Hereford First" are not just slogans; they are vital factors in our business community. All of us buy items out of town, and sometimes for good reasons, but the community grows and prospers because we do business with and support each other.

It's a two-way street—the merchant must offer a variety of goods and services at competitive prices, and we must buy here in order for him to keep providing the products and services we desire. And, the more goods the merchant stocks, the more taxes he pays to local governmental units. The cycle is a fact of life and one that helps keep our economy strong.

The problem has intensified because the greenbugs have developed resistance to Thimet, leaving only two chemicals which are generally effective in their control.

GSPA REPORTS indicate that Parathion and Diazinon are still holding in their control of greenbugs, but resistance to both is beginning to develop in some areas.

The greenbug presented problems of almost epidemic proportions last year in an area beginning at Hale Center and stretching northward into the Hereford area and eastward to Tulla.

Greenbugs began showing signs of chemical resistance last year, with little or no control in some fields. Extremely dry weather at that time caused some problems in control, and insects developed resistance to such workhorse control chemicals as Di-Syston.

The resistance problem has become even more serious this year.

RAY FRYE OF American Dusting Co. of Hereford indicates that the Deaf Smith County area has been fortunate thus far this year in that greenbug numbers have not reached the serious levels which have been observed in some other areas.

"Overall, I would say our insect problem in the county has been 'moderate' thus far," Frye commented.

"The number of greenbugs just haven't been as heavy here as in past years, and if we're lucky we may not have a re-migration of greenbugs into the fields. So far the greenbug numbers haven't been heavy enough locally to damage the crops," he added.

Frye was quick to explain that local aviators have run into their own problems in dealing with the greenbugs, in spite of lower numbers.

"We started off treating the greenbugs locally with Thimet this year, but we didn't get the results we were looking for. Now we're using parathion," he said.

FRYE INDICATED that most aerial applicators are currently busy with their corn borer control programs, following recent emergence of the second generation of the borers.

"We don't try to control the first generation because it isn't felt that they do substantial damage to warrant control. A close watch is kept for the emergence of the second generation, in order to initiate control measures that will halt both it and the third generation," Frye explained.

One of the most widely used methods of borer control on the High Plains is an application of a mixture of Sevin and molasses which is applied three times. A period of from seven to ten days is allowed to elapse between each application.

Furadan is another insecticide being used in the battle against the borers. Frye reported. Two applications of the granules are flown on in the control program.

CAMPAIGNS against pests of sunflowers and sugar beets have also consumed much of the flying time of local crop dusters this summer.

Aviators have applied 2-3 treatments of methyl or ethyl parathion to sunflower fields in some portions of the county, with good results reported in the effort to control the sunflower moth.

Fungicides have been applied by the cropdusters to aid in controlling leaf spot on sugar beets and leafhoppers in beet fields have become yet another target for the hard-working ag pilots.

"In general, the weather has helped in our control efforts, and the overall fight against pests this summer has been a successful one thus far," Frye concluded.

Tuesday morning's session will be devoted to officer and director reports. A special awards and recognition luncheon is planned Tuesday to honor certain individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the state association. Also honored will be Baylor County Extension Agent Lowell B. Cure, who has been selected to receive the National Achievement Award from the national association. Speaking at the luncheon will be Representative Clayton. New officers and directors of the state association will be elected at the afternoon session.

The first day of the meeting will feature a golf tournament, registration, and a meeting of officers and directors. Tag Team Action Here Highlights Mat Card Tag team action highlights this week's wrestling card at the Bull Barn, according to officials of the Hereford Lions Club.

Hansome young Scott Casey of Dallas teams up with spectacular Johnny Starr of Nashville, Tennessee. At a combined weight of 460 pounds they take on Killer Brooks and Bobby Jagers.

Brooks weighs in at 270 pounds, Jagers at 296. Brooks is originally from Dallas like Casey, but has been some years in Detroit. Jagers is a former Washington State Logger.

In other matches, Intern number one meets Ray "Candy Man" Candy in the semi-main. The intern is one-half the Western States Tag Team Championship Team. Candy is a 300 pound hard head from Georgia, an outstanding black wrestler with a devastating head butt.

The intern is managed by Dr. Ken Ramsey, as his partner. Intern number two starts the action in the opener against Mario Romero, brother to popular Ricky. Mario Romero tips the scales at 220 pounds, while both interns weigh over 300 apiece.

Few wrestlers have drawn the crowds that Killer Brooks has brought to Southwest arenas. Erratic in behavior, he seems little to care about being disqualified or counted out.

He has met in recent months such mat luminaries as the Punks, Maurice Vachon, Ricky Romero, and Champion Jack Brisco.

Most of the wrestlers who have clashed with the cigar-chewing wild man have felt that his place was in a mental ward rather than the squared circle.

According to National Wrestling Alliance Officials, they would prefer to see most of his matches held under no-disqualification rules, and have suggested that Brooks risks the permanent suspension in Texas that has been allocated to him in numerous other states. Action at the Bull Barn starts at 9:00 p.m.

Hereford Youngsters Attend Tennis Camp

Two Hereford youngsters are among 127 players participating in the third session of the West Texas Tennis Camp this week (July 29-August 2) on the campus of West Texas State University.

Campers from Hereford attending the third session include Kevin Downing and Angela Hartman.

BASEBALL

By Pete Fritchie

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's near-firing was partly his own fault. He has popped off on subjects in recent years with less than the desired amount of wisdom and restraint.

He has done a good job in many areas and is the favorite of the inside crowd which really runs the sport. But in being initially opposed by the ownership at Oakland, Baltimore, New York and Texas, mistakes were reflected.

One can dismiss Oakland's Charlie Finley as hard to get along with, even among his own players and managers. But the other opposition can't be explained away so easily.

In the end, of course, New York's flip, back to the support of Kuhn, proved decisive. Texas, it's believed, would have remained in opposition had Yankee management stood firm. Pressure from other owners changed New York's position.

That Kuhn stayed is probably better for baseball, which has enough problems at the moment without the added one of breaking in a new Commissioner—who could be less acceptable than Kuhn.

Doubles Victors

Steve Hoover, left, and Clayton Faubion pose with their tennis rackets. The two Hereford High varsity players won the doubles championship in their division in the Panhandle Closed Tennis Tournament played over the weekend in Amarillo. Two other trophies were won in the tournament by Hereford players.

Hereford Players Take Three Trophies

Three first place trophies were won by Hereford players in the Panhandle Closed Tennis Tournament over the past weekend.

Clayton Faubion and Steve Hoover, Hereford High varsity players, won the doubles championship in their division by defeating Skidmore-Clark 6-0, 6-2; Cannon-Clemens in a very hard-fought match 7-6, 6-7, 6-4; and Nail-Lorey in the finals 6-2, 6-1.

Coach Steve Thomas won the Mens A Singles by defeating Cannady 6-0, 6-0; Henslie, 6-0, 6-2; and Alper in the finals 6-3, 7-6.

Jim Henderson won the Mens B Singles defeating Webb 6-3, 6-0; Sutherland, 6-1, 6-1; Lillie 5-7, 6-3, 6-4; and Fyfe in the finals 6-1, 6-2.

In other action in the tournament, in the mens championship singles Goodwin defeated Coach Thomas 6-2, 6-3. In the mens championship doubles McAlpine and Bunch defeated Thomas and Rocky Rodriguez 6-2, 6-3.

Action in the 18 and under boys singles saw David Rudder defeated by Replogly 8-9; Steve Hoover beat Crawford 8-2;

Hoover was then defeated by Harris 6-3, 6-4; Barnett defeated Clayton Faubion 8-9; Rocky Rodriguez defeated Smith by default; and Shipman defeated Hereford's Rodriguez 7-5, 6-3.

In the 16 and under boys singles, Jesse Castanada defeated Northland 8-2 and Barnett 9-8, but lost to Herrman 6-2, 6-2. In the same division, Neeley defeated Vargas of Hereford 8-4. Steve Hoover beat Freeman 8-0 and East 8-1, but lost to Cannon, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6.

The 16 and under girls singles saw Ellen Jorde of Hereford defeated by Cannon, 8-5, and Shelley Scott of Hereford lost to Yockum 8-4.

And in the 18 and under girls singles Jorde lost to Sigler 8-2 and Scott was beaten by Harris 8-3.

Glen Barola of Hereford defeated Doose 7-6, 3-6, 6-0 in the mens B singles, but then lost to Fyfe 6-0, 6-1.

In the 16 and under boys doubles, Pete Vargas and Jesse Castanada defeated White and Louick 8-5, but then lost to Beavers and Snook 5-7, 7-5, 2-6.

Kelly Lanier defeated Sandra Thomas of Hereford in the 12 and under girls singles 8-6. Coach Thomas reports that there will be three more tournaments in the Panhandle area this summer. Anyone interested in information about these tournaments can contact Thomas at 364-4729, for details on times, divisions, location, and entry fees.

Bass Masters Hold Tourney

The Triangle Bass Masters Club conducted a tournament July 14 at Lake Meredith. Robert Moss of Muleshoe was tourney winner with a winning catch of 4 1/2 pounds.

Next meeting for the club will be Aug. 4 at 8:30 at the West Texas Rural Telephone building. A fishing film will be shown and all interested persons are vited to attend.

INSUR-MATION

Where is the best place to keep my policies?

At home where you and your family have easy access to them. Insurance policies are simply a copy of a contract. There is no reason to keep them in a safety deposit box since if the policies are lost, stolen or in a fire, duplicates can be obtained from your company. Occasionally legal problems make it preferable to keep policies within easy reach. In the case of life insurance policies, a beneficiary might need a court order to open a safety deposit box and this could delay payment. Numbers of the policies and company names should be kept in a separate place from the policies as a double check.

View From The Plains

BY J.D. PEER

TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPT.

Unfavorable cotton prices, heavy rains and large fields of commercial sunflowers could produce a bumper dove harvest in the South plains and Panhandle of Texas.

This ready cash crop for farmers could give the Texas bird shooters a boost as the dove, quail and pheasant move into the sunflower fields following the normal harvest in late August.

"The 5,000 acres of sunflowers harvested in 1974 did very well with a rate of 1500 to 2500 pounds of seed per acre," Dr. Raymond Brigham, soybean and oilseed expert, Texas A&M Extension & Research Center near Lubbock, said.

"There is from 250,000 to 300,000 acres of sunflowers planted this year," said Brigham. "Game birds prefer the rich high oil seeds such as sunflowers and hunters would be wise to hunt these harvested fields in September."

Some of the late planted sunflower fields will not be harvested until late November or early December furnishing the resident-quail and pheasant food.

Brigham said that most landowners will be reluctant to allow dove hunters in the unharvested sunflower fields due to the ease of shattering the seed from the sunflower head.

Even with the modern harvesting techniques and machinery used to cut the sunflowers, an estimated five to ten per cent of the seed will fall to the ground ready for the game birds to find and eat.

During the harvest of the sunflower seed, most of the leaves and stock are chopped off leaving sparse cover in the field. Although this might not allow enough cover for the hunter, it will increase the bag limit by allowing hunters to find their downed birds.

Brigham said that once the birds find the sunflower fields only cold rains or winds will move them south.

Northwest Texas hunters are reminded to contact the landowner now for permission to hunt the harvested sunflower fields in September.

Track Team Scores

A total of 24 tracksters from Hereford participated in the Taft State Meet at Grand Prairie last Friday and Saturday, with James Mays, Michelle Osborn, and the bantam girls relay team placing high in the meet.

Mays, the intermediate 800 ace, placed second in his division in the 800 with a 2.0000 minutes time.

Michelle Osborn placed fourth in the bantam girls 90 yard dash in 7.1; fourth in the 100 yard dash in 13.8; and third in the long jump with 11'3".

The bantam girls relay team placed sixth with a 65.1 time. The team is composed of DeDe Whitley, Michelle Osborn, Marilyn Osborn, and Jolisa Barrie.

ON URANIUM

President Ford has asked Congress to allow private firms to produce and sell enriched uranium to nuclear power plants around the globe.

ON MENTAL PATIENTS

The Supreme Court has ruled unanimously that state-committed mental patients who are not dangerous and can live safely outside an institution cannot be confined without treatment.

Beavers Expand Range

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Central Texas has asked Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists how they can deal with a rival group of engineers—beavers.

Beavers are rapidly expanding their range in Texas and especially favor the numerous man-made lakes and stock tanks where they stop up drains with sticks and mud.

Corps engineers want the impoundments to drain slowly after each rain and reduce the danger of floods.

But the large rodents prefer higher and more constant water levels to get them closer to trees which are their food supply.

Biologists at the P&W say that young beavers once they are weaned are evicted from established colonies by the adults and forced to set up colonies of their own.

The animals are gradually recouping their former range from which they were trapped by man in the 19th century.

Department biologists say that the beaver is not an endangered animal and that populations exist even within the city limits of Austin.

Sunflower Crop Is Nearing Maturity

Sunflower crops across the High Plains are taking a final bow, marking the end of the bloom period. The worst seems to be over.

All that remains now is a period of grain filling and the harvesting operation, says Dr. James Supak, area agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. But farmers will have to be careful not to stop plant growth too quickly with harvest-aid chemicals because it could have a drastic effect on seed yields.

"These producers did an excellent — almost unbelievable — job of establishing and maintaining a crop that most has never even considered growing until about seven months ago," Supak says.

"Planting rates and plant populations worked out satisfactory for most producers. The crop made excellent growth and weed control in most instances was not a serious problem. Due to favorable rainfall, even the dryland plantings never really stressed for moisture in most areas."

Supak says the dreaded carrot beetle infestations which were expected never materialized, and although pressure from the sunflower moth was terrific, most producers managed to control the pest with minimal crop damage.

"There is still some concern regarding a possible outbreak of diseases such as rust, but the pathologists feel that the early planted crop has a good chance of escaping any serious damage," he adds.

One of the most important considerations now is the length of the grain filling and curing periods. The agronomist observes that with the cool, damp weather now prevailing on the High Plains it will take four to six weeks after completion of bloom for seed to reach full maturity.

By that time, he points out, the back of the head and stalk should be lemon yellow in color and most of the leaves will be dead or appear to be dying. The triangular shaped bracts on the outer edge of the head will be brown or turning brown and the seed in the center of the head will be black in color and quite firm.

When these characteristics are noted, the seed is mature but the fleshy head base (which when cut open with a knife looks somewhat like a sponge) will not be sufficiently dry form combining. To avoid adding high-moisture foreign matter to the seed during the combining operation, the head base must be dry, Supak cautions.

Several weeks may be required for the head base to dry naturally. During this period seed will begin to shatter and some yield will be lost. The best alternative is rush the final drying process through the use of a harvest-aid chemical.

"Unfortunately, at this time (July 25) none of the available harvest-aid chemicals are cleared for use on sunflowers, Supak reports. Efforts are under way by the agricultural chemical industry, producer groups and public institutions to obtain a label for at least one such chemical by the time it is needed in the field. The establishment of a federal residue tolerance level for this harvest-aid chemical has senatorial priority in Washington and industry spokesmen are hopeful this petition will be acted on shortly."

Once a harvest-aid chemical is applied, the crop will be ready to harvest in 7 to 10 days. A combine equipped with a sunflower header attachment should be immediately available, because delays could be costly in terms of seed loss to shattering and bird feeding.

The harvest-aid chemical that will be used on sunflowers is a non-selective desiccant. That is, it will kill any plant tissue it contacts including cotton, sorghum and other crops in adjacent fields. Chemical drift is a potentially serious problem, Supak says.

Since desiccation will, in most cases, be done with aircraft, producers should insist that hire aerial applicator pick a calm day for the spraying operation. Aerial applicators can help by equipping their aircraft with the new types of drift reducing nozzles such as "Raindrop" and by using drift reducing agents such as Target or Nalco-Trol. These equipment changes and additives will probably increase the costs of spraying operations. In the long run, however, this could be money well spent if there is danger of damaging adjacent crops.

As usual, Supak says, the toughest part now will be the waiting during the next few weeks.

New Ag Weather Center Planned

An expansion of weather forecast services tailored to the needs of agriculture in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma is planned soon following establishment of an Environmental Study Center at Texas A&M University by the National Weather Service.

Dr. Ray E. Jensen, formerly head of the National Weather Service's Auburn Center in Alabama, is head of the new Study Center, located in Room 161 of Bizzell Hall on the A&M campus. Jensen has a cooperative agreement with the Texas A&M University System.

"Major function of the Study Center will be continuing studies relating to weather and other climatic factors important to weather-related agricultural problems in the three-state area served by the Center," said Jensen.

Additionally, Jensen emphasized, the new Southwestern Center will issue on a year-round basis daily advisories interpreting prior, current and forecast weather conditions in terms of their expected effect on farming operations and plant growth.

Dr. H.O. Kunkel, dean of agriculture at Texas A&M, said, "We welcome this new adjunct to the University's widely diversified programs in support of agriculture. We look forward to working on an equal-partner basis with scientists at the Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, and the New Mexico State University at Las Cruces."

The new Southwestern Center is one of three in the nation. The others are situated at Stoneville, Mississippi and Auburn, Alabama.

Jensen said that earlier this month the Weather Service Forecast Office at Oklahoma City began issuing forecasts of drying conditions, dewpoint, wind, duration of sunshine and vegetative wetness for agricultural areas of Oklahoma.

"Agricultural weather forecasts, formerly provided on a limited scale for New Mexico and the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, are now being expanded on a progressive basis to encompass all of the principal agricultural areas of these states," Jensen said.

L.R. Mahar, director of the Weather Service's Southern Region headquartered at Fort Worth, said Jensen was selected to head the new Southwestern Center because he has a long and varied scientific career in agricultural meteorology and as a climatologist.

Jensen was awarded the Ph.D. at North Dakota State University and in 1973 received a one-year Department of Commerce Science and Technology Fellowship. He was assigned to the office of the Assistant Secretary of Transportation in Washington, D.C., for systems development and technology, and assisted in implementation of the Department's university research program. He also served as a consultant to the climatic impact assessment program, which studied consequences of supersonic aircraft flying in the stratosphere.

Jensen joined the National Weather Service in 1967 and has had two previous assignments in Texas, first as agricultural weather forecaster at Brownsville and later as data acquisition director for the Southern Region in Fort Worth.

The new Center director grew up on a midwest farm and was actively engaged in farming for several years. He has a B.S. from North Dakota State University and also attended Iowa State.

Nitrogen Deficiency Is Showing Up In Sorghum

Following the use of lower than customary rates of fertilizer under this year's sorghum crop, nitrogen deficiency symptoms are showing up more frequently in the area, according to James Valentine, soil chemist who heads the Texas Agricultural Extension Service's soil testing laboratory in Lubbock.

"The best way to evaluate nitrogen needs this late in the season is the appearance of sorghum," says Valentine. "If it's turning yellow, it probably means nitrogen shortage."

"Lower leaves yellow first and when these leaves burn at the tips with a yellow or dead v-shaped area pointing up the center of the leaf toward the stalk, extreme nitrogen deficiency exists."

Valentine says nitrogen applied to nitrogen-deficient, irrigated sorghum can be expected to increase yields significantly.

"Rates of 40 to 60 pounds of actual nitrogen can take up a lot of slack," he adds.

If a ground rig is used the nitrogen, regardless of source, should be placed in the soil, preferably in the middles to avoid root pruning, the soil chemist explains.

Ammonia and nitrogen solutions can be applied through furrow irrigation systems, but the operator should be aware of the possible hazard of pipe scale formation when using anhydrous ammonia. Nitrogen solutions containing urea and ammonium nitrate have not been reported to cause scale problems and are ideal for use through sprinkler systems. Broadcast applications of solid nitrogen carriers can cause burning in the whorl and on leaves.

"Time is now a critical factor," Valentine emphasizes. "While profitable response from nitrogen applied as late as the bloom stage has been observed, the sooner it is applied after it is six weeks old the better."

Greenbug Resistance Continues To Build

Populations of chemically resistant greenbugs are building rapidly and spreading throughout the Texas and Eastern New Mexico plains regions, threatening serious economic injury, according to area entomologists.

The problems has rapidly intensified because the greenbugs are developing resistance to Thimet, leaving only two chemicals which are generally effective.

Jack King, research director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association and the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, said Thimet is "getting only fair control in some places and virtually no control in others, and the resistance is continuing to spread."

"Parathion and Diazinon are still holding but there are reports that resistance is beginning to develop in both," King said. "And the kill time is longer on all three chemicals, in some cases up to three days."

King advised against flying chemical controls for corn leaf aphids at this time.

"They (aphids) will probably leave the fields as soon as the sorghum starts to head and what remains will be killed with the greenbug controls."

A farmer with developing greedbug problems should contact his local applicator for information about what chemicals are proving beneficial in his area. King points out that timing is vital and that farmers should avoid spraying too early. He adds that in most cases, the label rates should be used.

"When using Parathion, a rate of 1/4 pound per acre active ingredient is advised in good weather or 1/3 pound per acre if the weather is less than ideal," King suggests.

King urged farmers who use Parathion and Diazinon but do not get satisfactory results to contact him immediately at the GSPA-TGSPB offices, 1708-A 15th St., Lubbock, Tex. 79401, (806) 763-4425.

bicentennial briefs

Tobacco was the first money-making crop for colonists in America. John Rolfe, who later married Pocahontas, began experiments in growing tobacco in 1612.

Four years later, Virginia colonists were giving so much attention to growing tobacco that they neglected food production.

This led to a regulation known as the "two-acre rule." It required a colonist to plant two acres of corn for himself and for each man servant as a condition for raising tobacco.

Before Virginia-grown tobacco began to be a factor in the British market, Spanish tobacco was such a high-priced product that it was retailed in England by the pipel.

Tobacco-growing in the Virginia colony was so profitable that some settlers came there to acquire wealth quickly by growing and selling the crop and returning to the mother country to enjoy their wealth.

Colonists' overproduction of tobacco brought on depression, price fixing, and inspection.

Big On Potatoes
More potatoes are produced in the United States than any other vegetable.

The fast-food business is on the rise in Japan, and it could mean a big increase in exports for U.S. farmers.

Fast-food sales in Japan reached $337 million last year, and Japanese predict a five-fold increase by 1979.

When this occurs, USDA's Foreign Agriculture Service says American farmers could expect about a $100 million increase in exports of farm products to Japan.

Moisture Level Key To Grain Storage

Watching moisture content of grain crops as well as taking simple precautions can insure safe storage after harvesting, according to an agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Bill R. Stewart points out that an aeration system for grain cooling and moisture control is needed if the grain is stored more than two to three months. "Harvesting efficiency can be improved significantly with some crops by harvesting at moisture contents of 18 per cent or above. When grain is harvested at a moisture content higher than that recommended for safe storage, mechanical drying must be done," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Moisture contents for safe storage vary with crops. Stewart suggests these moisture percentages for efficient storage: corn, 13; flax, 8; rice, 12.5; sorghum, 12-14; soybeans, 11-12; sunflowers, 8; and wheat, 12-14.

"The higher the grain temperature and moisture content, the quicker the grain must be dried to prevent mold," Stewart points out.

"For example, when grain is at 90 degrees F. and has a moisture content of 18 per cent, the moisture content must be reduced to 15 per cent within about six-to-eight days. If the temperature is reduced to 70 degrees F., the allowable time to reduce moisture is about 30 days. Of course, in this example it is assumed that grain is being aerated during this period."

According to Stewart, aeration systems for cooling grain and controlling moisture migration within the grain should supply about one-tenth cubic foot per minute (cfm) of flow per bushel.

"Fans must be designed to provide this flow rate against the pressures developed in pushing air through the grain. If unheated air drying is carried out in the bin, an air flow rate of three-and-a-half to four cfm per bushel is required," contends the engineer.

Stewart cautions that for certain crops designed for the human food industry, drying with heated air dryers may result in severe loss in grade and potential income as well as a loss in germination if the grain is to be used for planting.

"Grain temperatures should not exceed 110-120 degrees F. if germination is planned. Temperatures above this level should be allowed with extreme caution, particularly for food grains," adds Stewart.

He also suggests some simple precautionary measures before storing crops.

Checking potential sources of water leaks into bins and sealing them with a good non-drying caulking compound is important. Also make sure air vents are protected from blowing rain.

"Where rust spots exist on galvanized bin surfaces, clean the surface with a wire brush and apply a good quality zinc or rust inhibiting paint," advises Stewart. "Also plan for alternatives in your harvest and storage operation in case emergency drying or protection against insects is needed."

Graduate Course Set At Pantex

Several graduate courses in Animal Science will be offered at the Texas Tech University Center at Amarillo, Pantex, during the fall, according to Dr. Max Lennon, chairman of the Department of Animal Science at the university.

Among them will be courses in animal energy utilization, ruminant nutrition, a graduate seminar and a course in research in animal science.

The course in animal energy utilization is an in-depth study of the requirements for production as well as an evaluation of sources of nutrients. The ruminant nutrition course is a study of the digestive physiology of ruminants. Emphasis will be on rumen fermentation and its relationship to practical nutrition.

The seminar includes an analysis of current and significant past research. Oral presentations and discussions will be featured.

Registration for the courses at the Amarillo center will be conducted at the same time registration for Texas Tech is conducted, Aug. 27-30.

Couple Attends Houston Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. J. Barrett Sowell Sr. of 705 13th recently returned from Houston, where they attended the wedding of their grandson, Steven Barrett Sowell and Miss Donna Jean Salsar, both of that city.

The couple were married July 12 in First Baptist Church of South Houston. Performing the candlelight service was the Rev. Avon Cavanaugh, pastor.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Bradley Salsar of Houston and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Sowell Jr. of Conroe.

Miss Grance Hopfe of Houston served as maid of honor. Other bridal attendants included Miss Glenda Salsar, the bride's sister, and Misses Kathy Hudgens, Marilyn Wilson, Janet Meek and Gaylynn Hopfe, all of Houston.

Appearing as best man was Raymond Christopher Sharp. Groomsmen were William Ott Jr. of Houston, Bret Ainsworth of Louisiana, the bride's cousin, David Wolff of San Angelo, the bridegroom's cousin, Michael Sowell, the bridegroom's brother, and Mark Ainsworth of Louisiana, the bride's cousin.

Escorting guests to their seats were two Houston men, Jerry Bevens and Alan Currie. Wedding tapers at the altar were lighted by James Barry Salsar of Houston, brother of the bride, and Leslie Kent Sowell, the bridegroom's brother.

Miss Lisa Lippincott was junior flower girl in the procession while Cara Mathis, the bridegroom's cousin was the flower girl. The bridegroom's cousin, Gwynn Mathis, carried the wedding bands.

The couple received guests after the ceremony during a reception at the Ramada Inn on Airport Boulevard, Houston.

The couple are now at home at 8900 Chimney Rock in Houston, where he is employed by Houston Independent School District.

A graduate of South Houston High School, Mrs. Sowell attended San Jacinto Junior College. She is employed by Houston Lighting and Power Company. Her husband is a graduate of South Houston High School and attended Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos.

Microwave Ovens Save Energy 'If'

Microwave ovens can add energy conservation to their "plus" lists—but only if they cook for five people or fewer, one authority says.

"The microwave oven cooks most foods in about one-fourth the time of conventional ovens—and that means significant cut in total energy consumption," Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist reported this week.

Translating that into numbers, this makes an average energy savings of 60-65 per cent for a family of four, the specialist added.

Mrs. Chenoweth, a Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, specialist, also said that microwave cooking most food quantities for a four-member family actually saves from 50-70 per cent energy.

"Smaller portion sizes (cooking for one or two persons) makes the microwave even an even greater energy saver.

"By contrast, for larger portions, the savings are less.

"In fact, for portions of six or more, the microwave oven offers little energy consumption advantage," she admitted.

Over mixing muffin batter causes them to rise in peaks and burst open.

Make your own dust cloth—use a soft old piece of material, sprinkle with water and furniture polish and let stand a few minutes. It will clean up finger prints as well as dust.

Grocers Promote Summer Fruits

Heavy supplies and moderate prices make several summer fruits "economy choices" at Texas supermarkets this week, one observer says.

"Nectarines—at peak harvest—are estimated to total the second largest crop ever," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, reported.

"Texas-grown cantaloupes are still available with good color and high sugar content.

"Also, bananas, peaches, grapes, cherries, plums, oranges and watermelons are currently worth considering."

Top-quality fresh vegetables are available, in spite of hot weather and excessive rain in some areas, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, specialist noted.

"New crop green cabbage—great for salad or quick cooking is plentiful.

"Carrots, cucumbers, okra, purplehull and blackeye peas are other choices—along with yellow and zucchini squash."

At meat counter, prices are about the same or a bit higher, Mrs. Clyatt said.

Most-often featured items are ground beef, chuch roasts and steaks, round steaks, beef and calf liver.

"Eggs continue a good value with large and medium sizes in good supply."

However, fryer chicken prices are a bit higher, partially due to fryer chicken popularity at family cookouts, the specialist added.

"To economize, buy the whole bird and cut it up at home. Also, some markets are featuring turkeys, all sizes, both whole bird and turkey parts."

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: In egg buying, if there's less than an eight-cent price spread between a dozen of one size and the next smaller size in the same grade—buy the larger size to get more for the money.

Lemons Utilized As Aides

The ordinary lemon can be a quick easy, inexpensive beauty treatment, Marlene Odle, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, suggested this week.

"A few drops of lemon in a favorite shampoo leaves hair shiny and squeaky."

"A fresh lemon squeezed into warm water is great rinse for soap-dulled hair. Rinse thor-ghly with clear water," the specialist with the Texas A&M University System, said.

The lemon is a natural face astringent. Squeeze a fresh lemon into the rinse water for a fresh tingling splash. Rinse with clear water.

Keep a lemon half near the sink to rub over hands after washing to help remove stains and food odors.

"Stick rough elbows in two halves of cut lemons to help whiten and get rid of dry, scaly skin. If lemons are at room temperature, they'll be juicier and more comfortable."

A wedge of fresh lemon rubbed on the skin will give a refreshing relief to tired feet. It helps soften and whiten while it soothes, she said.

This specialist suggested for a fresh clean smell and tingle all over, drop fresh lemon slices into a warm water bath.

Improperly Sealed Cans Can Be Cured

If you preserved foods in "loud mouth" jars that keep "talking" all year on the pantry shelf, help is at hand to prevent it happening again.

Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, pointed out these "talking" jars often spell spoilage.

She cited reasons jars don't seal and suggested some solutions.

—Small particles of food left on rim of jar.

Remedy: Wipe off top of jar with clean damp cloth before placing lid on jar.

—Sealing compound or lid doesn't seal.

Remedy: Lids may be old. Usually, they last five years. Some may have a year date on the, such as 1-75, to indicate the lid was manufactured in the first quarter of 1975 and should be used before the end of the first quarter of 1980. It's a good idea to mark date of purchase on box of lids.

—Bent or rusty rings.

Remedy: Bent or rusty rings can cause the lids not to seal properly. Always remove rings when jars have cooled thoroughly and seals are tested.

Rings are necessary for the processing, but are not needed after the seal is made. Rings left on can rust and become difficult to remove—so store them in a dry place in a container that prevents them from being bent out of shape.

Examine rings before the start of each canning season and discard rusty or bent ones. Never use lids more than once, because they are designed for a one-time seal.

—Rings screwed on "too tight" or "too loose."

Remedy: Rings which are screwed too tightly on the jar do not allow space for venting (escape of air from the jar). This makes pressure build up in the jar, causing the lid—and sometimes even the top of the ring—to buckle. Rings not screwed on tightly enough will not seal, because the compound is not pressed firmly enough against the top of the jar.

This specialist said that the main point to remember is to follow manufacturer's directions. Do not use lid tighteners recommended for zinc caps. Two-piece lids don't require tighteners, she said.

Authors Thread Tales Of Humor, Intrigue In Featured Selections

Humorous support of cowardice and gothic mystery in Portugal provide material for two books which are being featured this week at Deaf Smith County Library.

Great moments in the annals of fear and cowardice are analyzed by Marvin Kitman in his latest publication, "The Coward's Almanac" or "The Yellow Pages." Everything from the Basic Fears of Man to a map of the safest places to hide at cocktail parties are included in the satirical account of "inspirational" tales of courage.

A young girl cast into a baroque setting in Portugal becomes trapped in a whirlpool of subtle suspense in "The Jade Dragon" by Nancy Buckingham. Elinor Rosslyn delves into the mystery of a missing jade dragon, strange accidents and the haunting actions of her grandmother, the Contessa.

Deaf Smith County Library is open free to the public from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

weekdays and until noon Saturday.

THE COWARD'S ALMANAC
or the yellow pages
By Marvin Kitman

The battle cry of The Coward's Almanac is "Yellow is Beautiful," and its underlying philosophy is that bravery is cowardice run amuck ("If God wanted us to be brave, why did he give us legs?") In this seminal work Marvin Kitman provides us with inspirational tales of courage (featuring Lyndon Johnson's decision not to run for re-election, actuary tables comparing life expectancies for cowards with heroes, and great moments in the history of cowardice (including the invention of the white flag, the retreat, and the previous engagement).

Here too are some of the "biggies" from the Coward's Hall of Shame: Chicken Little (cited for his contributions to meteorology), John Alden (this one speaks for itself), and the entire town of "High Noon" (fear of crime in the streets).

Then there's heartfelt advice to help you through those times of the year that prove particularly trying, Veteran's Day for example, when all cowards are cautioned to walk with a pronounced limp and talk a lot about "over there."

Within these "yellow pages" are some of the most complete listings ever completed—everything from the 62 Basic Fears of Man to an illustration of a typical apartment, showing the safest places to hide at cocktail parties. Every phobia (including phobophobia—the fear of having a phobia, even though you may not have one at the moment) that ever gave a coward cause for concern is right here. No self-respecting, yellow-bellied coward dare be caught without one.

THE JADE DRAGON
By Nancy Buckingham

It was all very mysterious and upsetting to a young girl brought up in genteel Harley Street in Victorian times. True, Portugal was a lovely country and the great baroque house at the Quinta dos Castanheiros could hardly have been more impressive, but Elinor Rosslyn did not care much for her mother's family, the aristocratic Milaveiras, who owned the estate and still lived there in luxury despite declining fortunes and a mounting flood of debts.

The dowager, Condessa, Elinor's grandmother, was outwardly disapproving, though perhaps secretly glad to see this child of her erring daughter, who had married a penniless young English doctor. But the present Conde and his scheming wife obviously resented the intrusion of another possible heir. Without the advice of Stafford Darville, who superintended the Milaveira vineyards, and of the nice Vicencia, the poor-relation housekeeper, Elinor would have felt herself quite lost.

Then Elinor began to discover intrigues beneath intrigues: The old Condessa walked in her sleep; a precious jade dragon, a family totem, disappeared; strange accidents occurred. And what was the secret Pedro the coachman so clearly new? Who was to be trusted? Should Elinor confide her fears in Darville, or in Vicencia's charming brother?

A first-rate suspense story with a delightfully exotic nineteenth-century setting, by the author of "The House Called Edenhythe."

Year Reviewed At Westway Reunion

Members and former residents of Westway Community registered Sunday at the community house to make a total count of 105 present for the annual reunion.

States represented in addition to Texas included Minnesota, Nebraska, Oklahoma and New Mexico with regional guests coming from Gruver, Friona, Hereford, Waco and Dallas.

Climax of the yearly gathering was the announcement of the "Westway Family of the Year" by Mrs. Merlin Kaul, historian. Cited this year were Mrs. G.P. Owen and the late Mr. Owen. Numerous members of the Owen clan were present, including Mrs. Owen, who accepted the award; Warren Owen and his wife, Juanita; Gwynne Owen and wife Ruth; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hargrave; Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Cassels with Jeffrey, Kelly and Kristin; Jeannine and Bryan Cassels of Nebraska; Mrs. Bobby Owen with Brenda and Beth; Athena Owen of St. Peter, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Owen with Warren, Donnie, Robert and Mark, all of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Owen and Dax.

The Owen family also received recognition as the family with the most members in attendance with the J.C. Morrison clan as runner-up. Those representing the Morrison name were Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. T.B. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morrison and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morrison and Joseph, and Mrs. Don Heddings, all of Gruver; the John Drake family and Mrs. Larry Noland and Burk.

The customary visiting period from 11 a.m. until noon was held until Joe Landers presented the invocation, which was the signal for a covered dish luncheon in the newly-renovated cafeteria.

Walter Kaul, president of the reunion organization, called the business meeting to order after the meal. He introduced special guests, who were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Franklin of Jal, N.M., who taught at Westway from 1925-27; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Williams of Afton, Okla.; Jessie and Paul Matteson of Clinton, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Witherspoon and Neil, of Albuquerque, N.M.; County Judge Sam Morgan and County Clerk Vesta Mae Nunley, both of Hereford; Mrs. Verna Schroeder and Carl of Pampa; Mrs. Anna Mae Vestal of Dallas.

In observance of the birth days of Ann Kershen and Joe Landers, those present sang "Happy Birthday" and presented the pair with a decorated cake.

Minutes of last year's meeting were read by June Rudd, secretary-treasurer. She also presented correspondence from Paul Mae Mathers Wallace of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mrs. Kaul reviewed occurrences of the previous year and announced that there had been 25 weddings in that period. She extended congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Burges who were married just prior to the 1974 reunion. Other anniversaries she cited included those of Mr. and Mrs. George Parker for 72 years of marriage, Messrs. and Mmes. Paul Rudd, Charley Shipley, T.B. Cox and Elmer Reynolds, all for 50 years; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kershen for 40 years; Messrs. and Mmes. Leroy Burges, George Turentine, and Harold Rudd, all for 25 years; and Mr. and Mrs. David Sowell of Saudi Arabia for 25 years.

There were 16 deaths reported, 13 births and 17 graduates, including Jimmie D. Auten for a master of arts degree from Webster College at St. Louis, Mo.; Richard Stengel for a bachelor degree of agriculture at West Texas State University; Dians Sowell McGee for a nursing degree at Arlington and Betsy Houk Cleaver for a nursing degree from Amarillo.

Also drawn from the pages of The Hereford Brand were feature stories involving Westway. They included Marjorie Morrison Thomas, the Lloyd Vaughn family, the Glenn Greens, Argen Draper and Ann Kershen. Hereford High School students who have been in the news during the past year included Roy Martinez, Micky Merritt, Gary Landers, Ann Zetsche, Celia and Sara Ricketts and Elizabeth Wilson. Other recognized stories focused on garden club activities, Mrs. P.B. Sowell, civic clubs and lodges.

Awards were presented to men who have passed their 70th birthday. These were Paul Matteson, Paul Rudd, Joe Landers, Oliver Rudd, Guy Lawrence, Clifford Franklin, Clay Angelo, Clarence Morrison and Robert Boyd.

Mrs. Ida Clay was the oldest woman present with Mrs. Dave Grimes and Mrs. C.V. Burges next in line.

Steven Greg Drake was the youngest present and Athena Owen came the farthest distance, from Minnesota.

Judge Sam Morgan presented J.C. Morrison with a certificate of merit and a plaque proclaiming him "Honorary Mayor of Westway" for 1975-76. Morrison was praised for his role in the former school system at Westway and for his assistance in providing better roads, telephones and electrical service in the community.

A bicentennial committee was appointed to make plans for honoring the nation's heritage at the next reunion. Composing this delegation will be Vesta Mae Nunley, Ann Kershen, Rita Burges and June Rudd.

The meeting concluded with the hymn, "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again."

Resume

Mrs. Merlin Kaul, Westway historian, reported detailed events which would be of interest to Westway residents Sunday during the yearly reunion. In her address, Mrs. Kaul referred to a mammoth scrapbook which traces the history of the nearby community.

Influence Child's Learning Skill

Parents and environment are the greatest influence on a child's mental development, Mrs. Inene Miller, family life education specialist, said this week.

"A parent can make learning fun and challenging if he has some insight into how children grow and develop, and if he is willing to provide the help and encouragement a child needs."

This specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out that children expand and refine their mental skills through daily experiences.

"Learning to observe and to remember are some of the first mental skills a young child develops. Later he learns to compare objects and can distinguish between likenesses and differences."

"As a child matures, he learns to group items, ideas and information that have something in common—for example, bananas and lemons are both yellow fruits. Even more difficult mental skills to master are the abilities to solve problems and make choices," she explained.

It takes time and repeated experiences for a child to develop these mental skills. Children need opportunities to explore their environment and to seek their own solutions. They need some freedom to explore and learn how things work.

Parents can help by keeping the environment safe for children to explore, Mrs. Miller said.

"Remove dangerous household items, which could cause injury or death for young explorers. Put valuable breakable items out of a youngster's reach until he is old enough to leave them alone."

Being naturally curious, children ask endless questions. Parents who take time to answer questions simply and honestly help promote learning.

"Even questions that seem foolish to an adult are important to a child. Taking time to listen to and talk with children about their experiences, ideas and feeling helps a child to learn," she said.

Mayor Chosen

Judge Sam Morgan presented J.C. Morrison with the honorary title of Mayor of Westway during the community's annual reunion Sunday afternoon. Morrison was recognized for his numerous contributions to the community, which was represented during the reunion by more than 100 current and former residents.

Youngest Guest

Steven Greg Drake was given this jar of peanut butter as a prize for being the youngest to attend the annual Westway reunion Sunday. He is held by his mother, Mrs. John Drake of 712 Irving.

Approval of the financial outline and yearbook was conducted this week by a portion of Pioneer Study Club in preparation for the new club season. Some members are pictured here: standing from left, Mrs. Ray Johnson, Miss Roberta Campbell and Mmes. Bennie Brumley,

State Hospital Group Critical Of Ruling

"Disappointment best summarizes our opinion of Judge Dice's ruling on the malpractice insurance case of the Argonaut Insurance Company against the State Board of Insurance," said O. Ray Hurst, CAE, president of the Texas Hospital Association immediately following the Judge's ruling.

Judge Wesley Dice ruled that the 90-day notice provision of S.B. 466 would begin running on the effective date of the bill which was June 3, 1975. During this 90-day period insurance companies are free to charge whatever premiums they care to on hospital professional liability insurance. Judge Dice granted a "temporary injunction" to Argonaut Insurance Company against the State Board of Insurance prohibiting the State Board of Insurance from enforcing the 90-day notice provision of this new law during the first 90 days of the new law.

Hurst went on to say, "With this ruling we would expect that many of our hospitals will continue to be quoted insurance premiums from the Argonaut Insurance Company and others that they simply cannot afford.

Even if the hospital possibly can afford these much higher premiums, the additional costs will be passed on to the patient in the form of higher daily hospital costs. Once again, the patients and the citizens of Texas are the losers as a result of this malpractice crisis."

Hurst said, "The increased premiums that we have seen quoted to a number of our member hospitals will cause increased daily patient charges of from $2 to $10, and possibly even more. Projecting these charges against the total number of patient days throughout all hospitals in Texas, this could amount to $50,000,000 to $175,000,000 additional annual cost that hospitals will have to pass along to the users of their facilities. We find these enforced increases very disappointing because our hospitals are now doing everything possible to deliver quality health care at a reasonable cost to the citizens of Texas, and this uncontrolled factor only adds to an ever increasing problem."

The Texas Hospital Association is the statewide trade association of hospitals in Texas. More than 675 hospitals and other health care institutions are members of THA. Headquarters for the Association is in Austin.

Act Focus of Discussion

The 1975 Real Estate License Act will be discussed and its implications explained to the real estate community August 5 at Concert Hall Theater on the campus of Amarillo College.

According to Charles E. Gaither, Supervisor, Community Services Program, Amarillo College, the two and a half hour session will begin at 6:30 p.m. and is designed for real estate licensees, prospective licensees, real estate educators and members of related industries, such as home builders, mortgage and commercial bankers, and title companies.

"In addition to explaining the new requirements of the Act," Gaither said, "we plan to inform licensees about existing and planned courses at local colleges, and through other agencies, which will satisfy these requirements."

The major changes in the recent legislation involve a real estate recovery fund, new license fees and increased educational requirements.

The meeting is being offered by the Texas Real Estate Commission and the Texas Real Estate Research Center.

"What we plan to do is to stage a group of knowledgeable persons to answer questions about the Act and its implications," Gaither said.

Also scheduled for the program are discussions on the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act and the Housing Purchase Credit Act.

SENIOR Citizens

The number of senior citizens is increasing in our country due largely to the great advances of medical science. Though our older citizens enjoy a longer life—what is the quality of that life? In our youth-oriented society, they are often pushed aside and forgotten. Yet through their greater age and experience they still have much to contribute.

Remember the senior citizens in your church and community. Utilize their talents and skills. Their life and yours will be fuller for it.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Summer vacations still have a few weeks to go, but many parents already are thinking about fall and getting their youngsters ready for entrance into school for the first time.

One thing they'll need, reminds the Texas Department of Health Resources, is a certified copy of a birth certificate.

To some parents, the start of school is old hat, but parents whose first-born are starting school the first time may be a bit bewildered by the excitement of it all.

That's why the Department of Health Resources (formerly the State Health Department) advises parents to get the birth certificate chore behind them—while there is time.

This fall there will be approximately 220,000 new first graders in the schools throughout Texas, and proof of age is necessary for the first-timers. Total public school enrollment is expected to reach some 2.8 million children as the school population continues to grow.

Anticipating the rush of birth certificate requests, the Records and Statistics Section of the Texas Department of Health Resources has been prepared for it. Requests already are pouring in.

It takes a sizeable staff just to open the thousands of letters received daily, let alone search out a requested certificate, remove it from the thick volume, make a certified copy, mail it out and then return the original certificate to its proper place.

Years of experience have eliminated nearly every bottleneck. The operation is smooth and fast. Usually the copy is mailed within 3 or 4 days after the request is received.

One bottleneck still remaining, however, is the individual who makes the last-minute request. Parents are requested to stop now and write for a certified copy of the birth certificate, or contact either the city registrar where the child was born or the county clerk in the county of birth.

In most cases it is an easy matter to make a trip to your county courthouse or registrar and personally request a certified copy of a birth certificate. The county clerk's office has birth records on file, as well as countless other documents.

If you write the Texas Department of Health Resources, Bureau of Vital Statistics, the address is 410 East Fifth Street, Austin, TX, 78701. Be sure to include the child's name, his place of birth, the date of birth, and names of the parents—including the mother's maiden name. The State Health Department fee for a certified copy of the birth certificate is $2.

Filing of birth certificates is just one function of the Records and Statistics Section of the Department of Health Resources. Records also are kept of deaths, diseases and other public health information.

There are approximately 13 1/2 million birth certificates on file in the state office, and the tabulation of birth certificates is a never-ending process. Last year, for example, there were more than 221,000 live births recorded in Texas.

Largest number of live births for Texas in one year was recorded in 1957. That year 249,567 babies were born alive in Texas, and their births are recorded in the Records and Statistics Section.

Just maintaining records of current births and deaths is a mammoth task. In order to do this, the statewide system include 1,000 local registration officials who collect these records. All of these must be carefully indexed to expedite the hundreds of thousands of searches that must be made each year to process applications for birth verifications and certification.

This sounds complicated, and it is. But to a person who needs a birth certificate for a passport or to prove the age of a child entering school, it is a vital service.

Not only are these records helpful to you and necessary for legal proof in many instances, but they furnish—as a group—information of great value to the state. To best use this wealth of statistics, data is transferred from records to magnetic tapes and a computer converts these into tabulations. From these charts and reports come information enabling staff statisticians to read and interpret the very pulse of the state's health.

Great Relief

Caller (moralizing)—You know we take nothing with us into the next world.

Mrs. Rounds—Thank heaven for that. It will be a novelty to go somewhere without having to pack.

Inevitable

Salesman—This model has a top speed of 120 miles an hour, and she'll stop on a dime.

Prospect—That's fine. But what happens then?

Salesman—A little putty knife comes out and scrapes you off the windshield.

Family Day Set For August 10

Family picnics, outings, get-togethers and patriotic events will mark the eighth annual celebration of Family Reunion Day on Sunday, August 10, 1975.

Family Reunion Day recognizes the family as the cornerstone of society. The observance is supported by numerous service and fraternal organizations, veterans, patriotic, youth and religious groups to dramatize the family as the keystone of strength and morality in our nation.

In 1968 President Lyndon B. Johnson proclaimed Family Reunion Day. He said: "I urge all people to support those actions that will strengthen the family, and to celebrate this day with such ceremonies as will reemphasize our continuing belief that family life is the highest and most enduring product of our civilization."

Family Reunion Day was originated by Kiwanis International and Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge. Freedom Foundation's president, Reed Harris, stressed the importance of the family in America today, saying, "Strong families are the Nation's most valuable asset as we work to improve the quality of life for all our people. Family Reunion Day is a time to spend with our families, to reflect on the value of our family ties. It is a time to learn more of our family histories, the history of our community and our Nation." Mr. Harris pointed out that "the family is the cornerstone of our social structure. It is the footing on which a youngster's ideas of honesty, integrity and concern for others is based."

Some of the activities suggested for families on August 10 include: family dinners, picnics or outings with children, grandchildren, aunts, uncles and cousins; getting the family up-to-date on addresses, births, anniversaries, deaths and other family events; patriotic activities such as familiarizing the youngest family members with our historic documents and events in national and local history; the development of family research projects so that youngsters know more of their grandparents and great-grandparents; everybody in the family getting together for at least part of the day; family worship together in the manner of their choice; renewing contact with family members in other parts of the state or country by phone or mail.

Who's Mistake?

Customer: "Say, you made a mistake in that prescription you filled for my wife. Instead of quinine you used strychnine."

Clerk: "You don't say! Then you owe me 40 cents more."

Smith (suavely): "Yes sir I was afraid, sir, that you wouldn't have time to finish your interesting lecture, sir."

Ron Stewart picked to coach Rangers next season.

Diplomacy
Prof: "Mr. Smith, will you tell me why you look at your timepiece so often?"

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME ...

By Robert L. Haney, Science Writer
The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Nuclear Power Plant Site in Texas Studied by Scientific Team

Nuclear power is one source of energy that the U. S. is counting on to help supply our ever growing needs. And Texas is more than ordinarily blessed in this regard; uranium deposits in the state are extensive. From uranium ore, of course, we obtain nuclear fuel.

There is concern by some segments of society that construction and operation of nuclear power stations will result in environmental degradation. Because of this concern, Gulf States Utilities requested a scientific team from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) to make an ecological study of the site of the Blue Hills Nuclear Power Station in Northern Newton County. The plant is being designed by Bechtel Power Corporation.

This team from Texas A&M is but one of a number of teams from universities doing a comprehensive study of the area for GSU. Included in the A&M team's area of responsibility is all land and water in a 3-mile radius centered on the power station plus land for a 1/4 mile on either side of more than 200 miles of power transmission corridors. In addition, studies were made on adjacent sections of the Toledo Bend reservoir. This information is being used by engineers to plan construction so as to minimize damage to land and water resources.

The TAES scientists are with the Department of Forest Science and the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Sciences. They have collected what is called "baseline data" on biological populations and the characteristics of the environment before construction begins. What this means is that a record is being made and preserved of the area as it is now; what plants, animals and fish live there? What kind and amount of water is in the area, and what is its quality? What are the characteristics of the soils?

Some of the findings of the TAES team are being fed into a computer which is used to "bank" the information. The Project Leader, Dr. Jack M. Inglis, says that as additional information becomes available, during construction and after start up of the plant, the computer can continue to make comparisons. Sort of "before and after" comparisons that will reveal any changes, their size and their significance. It should quickly show if any serious changes are occurring in the ecology and what needs to be done to stop or reverse those changes.

More than 97 percent of the land involved is in regrowth forest, according to Dr. David M. Moehring, forest specialist. Agriculture was tried on most of the upland in the area in the late 30's. Most of the land was cleared at one time but has now been allowed to go back to forests or been planted in pines.

Botanical studies of this area recorded 400-500 species of plants indigenous to East Texas. Some of these have been classified as rare and endangered by plant specialists, but they tend to be concentrated in limited areas. Project personnel will recommend monitoring and forest management schemes which will avoid affecting these important species.

Over 300 species of animals were identified. Several of these were rare and endangered. Of these, the most important was the red-cockaded woodpecker. It is endangered throughout the southeastern U. S. About 115 roosting and nesting sites were discovered and marked in the vicinity of the construction site, though none were on the actual site itself. Efforts have been made to protect these nesting sites. The location of these sites played a role in selecting the corridor used for the railroad spur.

Streams are spring-fed, clear and continuous running throughout the year, so any erosion of land during construction is of real concern. Dr. William J. Clark, aquatic specialist, says the sand hills in the area are susceptible to erosion, and extreme care will need to be taken during construction to avoid polluting and silting.

The first reactor of the Blue Hills Station is expected to be in operation in 1985, the second by 1987. The capacity of each reactor is to be 930 million watts. The two will furnish more than 20 percent of the planned nuclear power in Texas that will be put to work by the mid 1980's. Total planning in Texas calls for more than 9,060 million watts of nuclear power to be plugged into our electric grid by 1985.

Scientists working on the project for Texas A&M say their purpose is severalfold: one, they are providing industry with information which will assist in making ecologically sound decisions and, two, they are acquiring for the university a detailed fund of knowledge on the ecology of this representative site in the forests in southeastern Texas. The project also provided an opportunity for training young scientists to do environmental impact work.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

1976-Party Unity-Ford's Strategy-Kennedy-

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The two major parties both face the danger of splits in the 1976 presidential election, but the danger in the Democratic Party seems greater. George Wallace remains an enigma to top Democratic Party officials. Some have begun to say in recent weeks he must now be accepted as the second-place nominee.

Others feel that will wreck the chances of the party and give the election to President Ford.

Wallace and some supporters, say they are not interested in the Vice Presidency. They are out for the top nomination and may be right in predicting Wallace will enter next summer's convention with more delegate votes than any other candidate.

If Wallace's supporters are embittered, if Wallace is snubbed either in the writing of a platform or in the convention voting, he may well lead a third-party effort.

This is what some liberals say is the likely outcome of the Wallace campaign in 1975.

President Ford may or may not benefit from a separate Wallace effort. That could depend on whether Wallace carries his campaign through to the winning of electoral votes—which he might be able to throw to either major-party candidate.

The Ted Kennedy possibility is that he will be drafted to stop Wallace at the Democratic convention. It could happen.

People once believed that pixies would gather the apples that fell from the trees after harvesting.

An NBC News special examining the social, medical and legal aspects of marijuana in the 1970s, with an objective look at the pros and cons of the use of the drug through the eyes of people who smoke it, research scientists and legislators.

"Money from Home"

The slam-bang ping-pong of Martin and Lewis madcap career across the screen in "Money From Home," their 1953 comedy hit which has an encore presentation on the ABC Television Network's "The ABC Saturday Night Movie," August 2 (8:00-10:00 p.m.). (Rebroadcast)

Based on a story by Damon Runyon, "Money From Home" casts Dean Martin as Honey Talk Nelson, a sweet-talker loser whose losses lead him to Virgil Yokum (Jerry Lewis), an unsuccessful veterinarian whose naive incompetence leads him to pretend to be a number of other people—all of whom are equally incompetent. The combination leads to the classic chaos that made Martin and Lewis the top comedy team of the '50s.

The story concerns a race-track tout (Martin) who calls upon his cousin (Lewis) to fix a race. The plan fails. Hal Wallis produced the Hal Wallis Production, which was presented by Paramount Pictures. George Marshall directed the Hal Kantor screenplay. Other characters include Autumn Claypool, The Seldom Seen Kid, The Pooch, Herd Top Harry, Lead Pipe Louie and Hot Horse Horlie. Enough said.
