Alex Schroeter and Mrs. Sallie Strain, the newly elected school board members, were spared from having to act on an item of controversy during their first official meeting Wednesday evening as old board members unanimously approved a schedule for implementing required athletic programs for girls as required under federal sex discrimination rulings.

Ron Zimmerman and Danny Martin remained on the school board until half way through the meeting when B.F. Cain, county clerk, officially swore in Schroeter and Mrs. Strain, who were respectively elected last Saturday to places 4 and 5 on the Hereford School Board of Trustees. The election ballots were canvassed and approved by the board.

Immediately following the oath of office, Jim Conkwright was unanimously re-elected to a second term as president. Clark Andrews was elected vice president and James Gentry was elected secretary.

BEFORE THE NEW BOARD members were seated, however, the outgoing board members moved and seconded that a recommended plan be approved for phasing in girls basketball and phasing out girls volleyball over the next three years in order to comply with Title IX (sex discrimination) rulings. It states that equal opportunities in athletics must be provided for boys and girls. Presently, girls participate in cross country and track competition, volleyball, and tennis.

The plan, one of three considered by the board, leads up to the 1978-79 school year, when the schools must be in compliance with Title IX. At that point, girls will be competing in University Interscholastic League competition in basketball and tennis if enough teams can be found to offer reasonable matches and games.

Fred Upshaw, athletic director and head football coach, presented the third plan and said, "Yes, I would have to say I'm in favor of it," in response to a question from Conkwright.

The approved plan allows sophomore girls to take basketball as an intramural sport next year and adding juniors to the program in the 1977-78 school year and seniors in the 1978-79 year, when full competition is expected.

Volleyball will not be offered in junior high school grades next year as it presently is. Seniors, juniors and sophomores (grades 12, 11, and 10) will be allowed to take volleyball next year, but no volleyball will be offered in 1978-79. Only juniors and seniors may take it in the 1977-78 school year.

THE GENERAL OPINION on the phasing out of volleyball was that those

PIGUA Seeks Special Session

Members of the board of directors of the Plains Irrigation Gas Users Association met at the Plains Inn in Plainview Thursday night and laid plans to call for a special session of the Texas Legislature.

ASSOCIATION MEMBERS are seeking action to deal with the utility problems facing farmers and housewives in Texas.

Jay Boston of Hereford was appointed to a committee to set up area meetings by Luke Miller, president of the board.

Others named to the committee were T.C. Measles of Tulia, Willie Green of Olton, Charles Wood of Lubbock and Larry Hausmann of Dimmitt.

Area meetings would probably be held in Dimmitt, Plainview and Lubbock.

ASSOCIATION MEMBER Ray Joe

Riley indicated that a study was being conducted by Texas A&M researchers on the impact of increased natural gas prices on all phases of agriculture. According to Riley, results of the survey would be available for the area meetings.

A meeting between the executive committee of the association and senators Kent Hance and Max Sherman which was held in Hereford March 23 was reported on by Miller.

He indicated that Senator Hance has already called on Gov. Briscoe to call a special session of the legislature in an effort to take action concerning the spiraling prices of natural gas and other utilities, particularly the pass-through billing. Miller reported that many individuals feel that the pass-through is being seriously abused by utility companies.

Boston and Carl King of Dimmitt met yesterday (Saturday) with Gov. Briscoe to point up the need for the special session, and particularly, the need to do something about the increased price of natural gas being charged to farmers.

"MANY OF THE FARMERS in Pecos are not able to pay $1.85 for natural gas, and they are pulling their pumps and motors and selling them. It would not take many more months of the kind of price increases that we have been experiencing to put us in the same category with the Trans-Pecos area farmers," commented Riley.

Before adjourning the meeting, Miller urged all board members and each county organization to contact the governor, representatives and senators, and express their support for a special session.

Commissioners' Court To Meet

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court will meet in regular session at 10 a.m. Monday in the commissioners' courtroom on the second floor of the county courthouse.

On the 16-item agenda are bids for a pickup; a discussion with the sheriff and juvenile officer on the county jail, a session with the State Department of Public Welfare to consider office space in the courthouse, a request from Bill Albright of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce concerning bicentennial projects, appointment of public weighers, and a proposal by Sheriff Travis McPherson on parking around the courthouse.

Also, the commissioners will consider the monthly city-county fire report, accept a CJC Grant for the Juvenile Probation Officer, discuss the County Sheriff's Reserves, approve a waterline in Precinct two for the Jahanson Farms, act on a resolution establishing a Manpower Consortium, pass a resolution on the Texas Highway-Funding Crisis, consider hiring an investigator for Criminal District Attorney Andy Shoval and meet with the Texas Highway Department concerning marking center stripes of county roads.

Members of the court include County Judge Sam Morgan, Bruce Coleman, James Voyles, Austin Rose, and Earl Holt.

Primaries Absentee Voting Starts Monday

Absentee voting for the May 1 Democratic and Republican Primaries will be held at the County Clerk's office from Monday April 12 through Tuesday April 27.

B.F. Cain, county clerk, is in charge of the absentee voting and his office is the only place in the county handling it. Those not going to be in town for the elections may absentee vote by bringing voter registration cards to the courthouse and casting their preferences for candidates to be included on the ballot of the Nov. 3 general presidential election.

A spokesperson in the County clerk's office said Friday that the official ballots were being printed and should be available by Monday. Included on it are a variety of state, federal and local offices.

Locally, five candidates are seeking County Commissioners' Precinct 1 seat vacated this year by Earl Holt. They include Alfred Smith, Leroy Bodkin, Gerald Parker, Donald Henslee, and Wallace Shelton Jr.

Seeking commissioners' precinct 3 seat are incumbent Bruce Coleman and Roy Botkin. Other county candidates are incumbent Nell Miller for county tax assessor-collector, and Travis McPherson for sheriff.

The County Commissioners' Court met in called session Wednesday afternoon to designate the county clerk's office for absentee voting as well as canvass the Walcott School Board elections, in which Charles Myers, was disqualified from holding office since he didn't possess a current voter registration within the county. In that election, Layton Sawyer was elected along with Myers, who was a write-in candidate.

Roy Blevins was another write-in candidate and Bill White was the other person filing for one of two open school board posts. The Commissioners' Court had no authority to declare the man with the second highest number of votes as the winner, so the Walcott School Board will decide a replacement for Myers according to a Texas Education Agency opinion. Any person may be chosen, not necessarily one of the candidates in the race.

Trustee 'Walks Off'

A trustee being held at the Deaf Smith County jail apparently walked off Tuesday morning and his will be sought by county sheriff's officers at presstime.

Larry Paschel, 25, of Oklahoma City was being held here as a material witness in a case, and had been working outside the jail as a trustee for some time according to Travis McPherson, county sheriff.

Paschel was working on cars outside the jail at the time he disappeared.

McPherson reported that Paschel's "walking off" could cause him to face a five year prison sentence.

Pastors' Association Sets Holy Week Services

Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor of the Methodist Church, said the services are open to all congregations of the Hereford area. "Services will involve a combination of preaching and music emphasis. We hope for a good attendance," he said.

Services Monday will start off with a solo number from Robert McFarland, director of music ministries at the Methodist Church. The worship though music service is designed to give those present a spiritual lift which may exist throughout the week of services.

VFD Answers Minor Alarms

Hereford firemen extinguished two minor blazes in recent days, but activity remained relatively quiet.

Units were called to the C.C. Renfro residence at 310 West 7th in the wee hours of Friday morning to put out a mattress fire.

Thursday, firemen answered an alarm at Hereford Feed Yards, where a car owned by Charles Walden was on fire.

Year's First Bank Call Shows High Fund Totals

As of the most recent bank call on March 1, both local banks reported about $7.2 million more in deposits for the first quarter as opposed to the same time last year when deposits reached a total of around $59.9 million.

Both banks are required to report their total deposits, loans and assets to government agencies and publish a statement in a general circulation newspaper in their area. Statement of Hereford State Bank and First National Bank of Hereford are carried as advertisements in this issue of The Brand. Other specific information is carried as required by the Comptroller of Currency.

Past year's records have shown that the first quarter bank call is about the lowest of the year and other calls should show higher amounts. A bank call is declared at about the end of every three months and they indicate a bank's condition on that specific date, not necessarily for the complete period between calls.

First National bank reported total deposits of $42,964,000 as reflected on its call report. This adds with Hereford State Bank's $24,208,000 in deposits for the above mentioned total.

Last year, First National reported deposits of $36,444,000 as of April 16,

It is amazing to note that the Hereford Board of Realtors has sold over 3,000 properties through the multiple-listing service since its inception in 1969, for a total sales volume of more than $22 million! We salute local realtors for their vital role in helping make hustlin' Hereford go.

Catholics Schedule Holy Week Services Beginning Today

Holy Week services will begin today at St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, when the congregation assembles at the school auditorium at 10:45 a.m. for the solemn Palm Sunday celebration. "It took us three months," emphasized Jaffer, who added that the plant, here would "grow as Hereford grows." It appears the Hereford Industrial Foundation landed a strong, energetic company that will be a real asset to the city.

ALTHOUGH MOST folks who've lived in hustlin' Hereford for a few years believe this is a friendly town, you still run across people now and then who say: "Hereford is too clannish, too cliquish, too closed to outsiders... you can't break into the inner circle!"

My answer is that we do, indeed, have clans and cliques operating all over town. We've got clans in our churches, in our civic clubs, in our chamber of commerce and our business structure.

We've got civic club cliques, teacher cliques, farmer cliques, rancher cliques, country club cliques, bridge club and other cliques.

What's a clique? The dictionary terms it "an exclusive group of people." I'd say of our cliques in Hereford are nothing more than the members of an organization who can be counted on to work, week after week, and those in other groups who can be depended upon to show up and participate.

Take away the cliques and most clubs, organizations, church and other groups would falter and fade within a few months!

THE HEREFORD COWBELLES are starting a new informational column in today's Brand. Headed as "CowBelle Beef Bit", the column will appear from time to time on our farm page. It will contain news about the beef industry, deal with impending legislation effecting the industry, and will occasionally include beef recipes.

A tip of the hat to Hereford Kiwanies who held another successful Elementary Track Meet Thursday. It's a great event, for the boys and girls in grades 4-6 and something the young athletes really look forward to each year. It entails a lot of work for the Kiwanians, but the rewards should be really gratifying!

School Board Thanks Zimmerman, Martin Click To Retire As Tax Collector

The Hereford School Board held lengthy discussions on a replacement of the tax assessor-collector, accepted tentative figures for teacher salary supplements, approved funds for the continuation of the migrant summer school program, approved chairmen for the science and business departments and heard a series of reports during its regular meeting Wednesday night in the administration building.

It was the first meeting for Mrs. Sallie Strain and Alex Schoeter, who were elected in last Saturday's general election. They officially took office following actions on the election returns and the Title IX (sex discrimination) ruling plan.

Orpha Click, school tax assessor-collector for the past 18 years, submitted his request for retirement effective Sept. 1. He recommended that Fred Fox, assistant in the tax office presently, be his replacement. However, the board decided to meet in closed executive session to discuss the appointment. The meeting was closed for over an hour.

In open session, the board decided to appoint Click tax assessor-collector until Sept. 1 so that applications for the job could be received from throughout the state. This is necessitated by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission requirements.

Jim Conkwright, board president, said applications will be sought until the May 11 meeting. Then the board is expected to decide on a replacement.

OUTGOING BOARD MEMBERS—Ron Zimmerman and Danny Martin were officially recognized for their service to the board through a resolution passed by the new board. Martin had served one year as secretary and Zimmerman served one year as vice president. Both were on the board for the past three-year term.

Roy Hartman, superintendent, reported that budget purposes required that the board support the administration on tentative salary supplements for teachers, tabbed at $800 for a bachelor's degree and $1,000 for a master's degree. He emphasized that no supplement figures have been formally set and that the mentioned amounts were only for planning next year's budget. The board is expected to act on the supplements by the May 11 meeting.

Ed McCreary, director of federal programs, explained that the Texas Education Agency (TEA) migrant division had run out of allotted funds for the migrant summer school program which involves about 600 students. However, he said the local program could be continued this year with surplus funds from the federal Title I monies. The summer program is expected to cost about $114,000.

Hartman noted that the excess money was available through a carryover of last year's funds allocated to the district. Previously, the TEA based allocations on the 1960 census figures, but 1970 census figures on population were used for the first time this year. "This resulted in increased funding for the district and more than we anticipated," he explained.

APPOINTED AS CHAIRMAN of the science department was Tommy Rosson, and Mrs. Betty Oglesby was selected as chairman of the business department at Hereford High School for the 1976-77 school year.

Teacher resignations accepted included those from Hazel Stewart, who is retiring as a first grade teacher at Aikman Elementary School, and Randal Hatfield, formerly speech therapist of the special education coop.

A special committee report centered on complaints in connection with the new tennis courts at the high school. They were built jointly by the county, schools and city governments. Players on the courts had not been able to use the lights because the control boxes were locked, at least so they thought.

Hartman said that a switch on the outside of the boxes may be pulled and the lights will automatically go on and remain on until midnight when they go off. The boxes had been vandalized and were not working, he said, but "we have the materials to repair them and they should be working by the end of this week."

Conkwright told board members that a lot owned by the district on Baltimore Street had been sold to Tommy Carnahan for $3,000. Previously, the lot had been involved in negotiations with Carnahan and the district to pave Seminole Street near Bluebonnet Elementary School.

A LIST OF SENIOR STUDENTS who are presently failing in courses required for graduation was presented to the board. It is to inform a parents and board members that some students might not be allowed to graduate.

Bill Phillips, administrative assistant, reported that enrollment in district as of April 7 was 5,320 students, compared with 5,174 students at this time last year. The number of students dropped by 44 persons since March 9. Students in elementary schools number 2,468, while 1,392 are enrolled in junior high school and 973 are enrolled in senior high school.

All school board members were present.

Board Of Realtors Holds Uncle Sam Essay Contest

The Hereford Board of Realtors is presently taking applications for its "What Uncle Sam Means to Me" essay contest for grades 7th through 12th in Hereford.

Students at Hereford High School, and La Plata and Stanton Junior High Schools are eligible to enter the contest, which is based on the legend of Uncle Sam. The Board has been distributing the film, "Uncle Sam: The Man and The Legend," in conjunction with the biennial and the contest. It purchased the film for local organizations and schools to show.

Entry blanks for the contest are available at a participating realtor's office. These must then be returned no later than April 24 to the realtor's office where the application was picked up.

The essay has a word limit of 500 words or less. Once the essays are judged, awards will be presented for winners.

The film is available to any interested civic groups or study clubs through Tommy Bowling at 364-2222. A book of the film's same title is also available in each of the school libraries.

Members of the Board of Realtors include Boozer Real Estate, Campbell Realtors, Carmichael Real Estate, Carthel Real Estate, Family Homes, First Realty of the Southwest, Inc., Lone Star Agency, Inc., Marn Tyler Real Estate, Property Enterprises, and Ralph Owens and Associates.

girls presently taking the sport will mostly want to participate in basketball and no interest will exist for volleyball. Of course, no definite predictions can be made on future sports interests.

The first two plans called for the inclusion of volleyball in junior and senior high schools through the next three years, but board members wanted an alternative.

Girls will be participating in track, cross country, and tennis during the coming years, just like the present.

The cost of the implementation for the plans is estimated at about $24,000 for additional personnel and equipment. Since volleyball will not be offered, about $2,600 less in funds will be needed in 1977-79. These expenses do not include the cost of officials and game workers, Upshaw said.

The head coach had included a notation on the plan for possible planning and construction of a new gym facility to compensate for space to be occupied by the additional athletic programs, which he said would take up all presently available space. However, this was not part of the plan approved by the board.

Upshaw told the board that he would definitely like and need a new building. Clark Andrews, board member, responded, "Yes! And I would like a new tractor too."

The cost of the first two plans was estimated at about $36,000 each.

THE NEW PLAN FOLLOWS earlier action by the board to eliminate the after school athletic program for elementary grade level boys. It had not been receiving large participation and it did not seem feasible to offer it to girls also as would have been required by Title IX.

The only other area of consideration under Title IX, as viewed by the local research committee for the ruling, was revision of the application for employment. It too will be implemented.

School districts across the state are in the same quandary as faced here since only time will tell whether the federal government will approve any plans now being tried to satisfy Title IX requirements.

Superintendent Roy Hartman said the Hereford District could be forced later on to meet other specifications if deemed necessary by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

PPCA Meeting Slated Here

The Panhandle Police Communications Association will meet at the Deaf Smith County Library Thursday, beginning at 10 a.m.

Hereford and Deaf Smith County Law enforcement agencies are hosting the meeting.

A communications system panel composed of officers from the five-state area which makes up the association will highlight the meeting. Members are from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado and Kansas.

Sheriff Travis McPherson, Police Chief Caydon Brush and Sgt. W.E. Wells of the Texas Department of Public Safety will give the welcome at 10 a.m.

A noon luncheon at the Hereford Country Club will also be held. The meeting will adjourn at 4 p.m.

Participating in the panel discussion will be Lt. Russell Confer, Colorado State Patrol; Major Carl Gray, Kansas Highway Patrol; Sgt. Dudley O'Dell, New Mexico State Police; Lt. Ron Pritchard, Oklahoma DPS; and Jack Martine, Texas DPS.

This is the first PPCA meeting to be held in Hereford. Meetings are held twice each year with the site being moved around the five state area.

Bank Call-- from page 1

1975 and Hereford State had deposits of $23,501,000.

The total loans reported by the banks are $31,555,000 for First National and $11,309,000 for Hereford State. At this time last year, the banks reported loans of $25,685,000 for First National and $9,817,000 for Hereford State.

Hereford State Bank had $26,809,000 in assets on March 31 and First National Bank had $48,338,000 on that date. This reflects higher figures than April 16, 1975, when Hereford State reported $26,010,000 and First National Bank reported $42,321,000 in assets.

All the figures recorded this year are at about the same levels as reached in 1974. Last year's figures of course reflected the poor cattle market and agricultural prices received during late 1974 and early 1975.

The next bank call is scheduled for about June 30.

Mahon Announces Community Action Agency Grant

By Bill A'Bright, Executive VP
Chamber of Commerce

YOUR CHAMBER IS HUSTLING FOR YOU. That simple little statement will never make headlines, but it really deserves to. And the reason it should be summed up in the many many activities through which the Chamber expresses the desires and will of the people to make this community "a better place to live and earn a living."

Oh, I know the reaction of some of the informed, the uninformed and the misinformed: "he's just blowing his own horn." But that's just the point, I want to make - I am blowing a horn; but it's YOUR horn. Because it's you WHO constitute the Chamber - not me, not the board of directors, not the officers, but YOU, the citizens of Hereford and Deaf Smith County. YOU, who care enough about the essentials required for quality growth - YOU who care enough about the future of our young people.

YOU who care enough about the progress of our civic and cultural efforts, and everyone of YOU who cares enough and has an interest in our economic development and well being - and who doesn't? The Chamber works for you in everything that it endorses, promotes, supports and accomplishes. It works directly for you, its members, and it reflects your ideas, your hopes, your talents, your investment; it is a mirror image of YOU!

SO THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS YOU. The plans and programs, which are yours are administered by the Staff - the projects are carried out by YOU - Volunteers working for community betterment.

AND IN THIS WORK, REMEMBER, YOU ARE NOT ALONE!

If you have invested in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, you have entered into a partnership with the community's oldest and most progressive business corporation.

HOW WOULD YOU ALONE - make your voice heard meaningfully in the halls of state and national government?

HOW WOULD YOU ALONE - answer the many requests received from across the country about Hereford, and Deaf Smith County from businesses considering locating and from families planning to visit or move here?

HOW WOULD YOU ALONE - answer all of the questions a visitor might ask about our community?

HOW WOULD YOU ALONE - work meaningfully to implement the "Goals for Progress" program which is in operation to assist our community's quality growth for the next 25 years?

HOW WOULD YOU ALONE - speak for the retail businesses and the agricultural interests of our community?

HOW WOULD YOU ALONE - initiate and answer the numerous needs of the agri-business community?

THE FACT IS THAT YOU - by yourself - cannot do all of these and the multitude of other things, but when you invest in a Chamber membership, you join with almost 800 of the very finest ranchers, farmers, individuals and businessmen in our community in a single united effort.

YOU ARE NOT ALONE, if you are a member of this agri-business community's best friend, the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

AND THOSE OF YOU WHO hold membership in the Chamber have a voice and a vital part in our progress - If you are a member, congratulations - on accepting your responsibility for continuing improvement.

IF YOU'RE NOT A MEMBER, shouldn't you be? DON'T FORGET, it takes three - YOU, your Chamber and me - and plenty of Hustle, Hustle, Hustle!

Herd Girls Qualify For 4 Regional Events

The Whiteface Girls Track Squad gave it all they had Friday, placed in the top three in all the relay events including a first in the 440 and also came home first in two other events. In the end Monterey just had too much depth however and the Hereford girls had to give up their District 4-AAA track crown and settle for third place.

second place finishes took the title with 174 points, Coronado followed with 116, Hereford with 107 while Lubbock High and Plainview were far with 69 and 38 points respectively.

Hereford's three wins included firsts by Debbie Albright in the 100 yd. dash, Rochelle Ruland in the 60 yd. dash and by the 440 relay team of Sharon Strafuss, Judy Birdwell, Suzanne Duvall, and Rochelle Ruland.

Hereford's lone 2nd place of the day came in the mile relay and was run by Albright, Duvall, Stephanie Kelso, and Joyce Betzen. This was a particularly good effort in that it was the last event of the day and all of the girls had already been in several other events, it was also being run against a stiff wind.

The Whiteface also had one 3rd place in the 880 relay, by the squad made of Strafuss, Ruland, Birdwell, and Duvall.

Other finishes by Hereford girls included a 4th by Albright in the 220 and the high jump, a 4th by Betzen in the 440 and by Tami Lawson in the discus. Betzen also finished 5th in the 80 yd. hurdles and Kelso finished in the same position in the long jump. Karen Fox came in 7th in the 60 yd. dash.

The top two finishers in each event qualified for the regional meet to be held in Lubbock on April 23-24.

This means that Hereford will send representatives in four events, Albright in the 100, Ruland in the 60 and the 440 and mile relay squads.

Hereford coach Henry Shipp had said before the meet that he expected most of the records set in 1975 to fall. He was exactly right as the old marks were bettered in 13 of the 14 events run off. Only the time of 2:39.5 set by Grace Abalos of Hereford in last year's 880 yd. dash was still standing at the end of the day.

Girls Distict 4-AAAA Meet

Monterey won the 220-yard dash, shown at the finish line, and also took the team title in the 4-4A District track meet held here Friday. Hereford's Debbie Albright, to left of Monterey winner, was fourth in the 220 but took first in the 100. Hereford won berths in the regional meet in the 60 and 100-yard dashes and in the 440 and mile relay events. The region meet is in Lubbock April 23.

Bufs Stress Air Attack, Defense in Spring Drills

Rebuilding the defensive line and finding a passing game to compliment the Missouri Valley Conference's best rushing attack are the main aims of West Texas State University's 1976 spring football practice sessions.

Three-quarters of the defensive line, including All-MVC selections John Ayers and Floyd Jones, are gone, as well as safeties Michael Kelson and Mike Lozano, both of whom were also league all-star picks in 1975. Only five starters return from the best defensive unit in the Valley last year.

Head Coach Gene Mayfield has a much brighter picture on offense, however. The complete starting backfield is back, and while All-Valley tackle John Jacobi and tight end Jeff Lloyd have graduated, the line was deep enough a year ago to insure plenty of candidates for the open positions.

West Texas had the best rushing attack in the MVC last year with a per game average of over 265 yards per game, and all of the top five rushers return. Junior Anthony Dogan (5-10, 195) was the Valley's Newcomer of the Year after leading the Bufs with 669 yards rushing. Sophomores Bo Robinson (6-3, 215) and Robert Mayberry (5-10, 185) both gained over 500 yards in their rookie seasons at fullback and right half. Backing them up will be senior Eddie Richardson (6-0, 180) juniors Richard Riggins (5-10, 175) and Freddie Turner (5-10, 175), and sophomores Jesse Cross (5-11, 195) and David Johnson (5-11, 180).

Quarterback should again belong to senior Tully Blanchard (5-11, 205), but he'll have to fight off the challenges of lettermen Tracy Qualls (5-11, 180, Sr.) and Bill Delaney (6-3, 205, Jr.).

At split end, sophomore Scott Wiley (5-8, 155) played well as a freshman, but tight end will be a battle between junior college transfer Frank Dudley (6-5, 225) and lettermen Angelo McClain (6-1, 210, so.) and Keith Oxley (6-3, 230, sr.).

The biggest adjustment to improve the passing game won't be new personnel, though. "I think a lot of teams, ourselves included, just kid themselves when they try to throw effectively out of the wishbone," Mayfield says. "In spring ball, we'll try some alternate formations—possibly the I, slot, or a split backfield—to give us a better passing attack."

The offensive line should be up to any changes in offensive strategy. Tackle William Fifer (6-5, 260, Jr.) and guards Willie Burleson (6-2, 240, Jr.) and Richard Perez (6-3, 250, Jr.) were all starting at the end of the '75 season, and redshirt Greg Whetstone (6-1, 215, Jr.) could be the man at center after missing last season with a knee injury. The other tackle could be sophomore Mark Stewart (6-2, 240), though most of the WT freshman recruiting effort was directed toward big linemen.

The bright spot on defense should be a linebacker where All-MVC Jeff Nunn (6-2, 220, Sr.) and Larry Spears (5-9, 185, Jr.) return. Senior Winston Short (5-10, 220) could move Nunn out of the middle.

The line is the real problem on defense as only junior Mike Lusane (6-3, 245) has starting experience. The Bufs need quick development from seniors Tony Edwards (6-1, 235) and Darrel Blades (5-11, 200) and sophomore Mike Roberts (6-3, 205).

In the backfield, senior Tommy Mills (5-10, 175) could be the Valley's best cornerback, and he'll have an experienced runningmate in sophomore Vic Hayes (5-10, 160) on the other side. Replacing Kelson and Lozano will be tough, but Buff coaches hope senior Bryan Carr (5-9, 165) and juniors Mike Ruchlik (6-0, 185) and David Willis (6-4, 195) can handle the job.

The Buffalo schedule should be one of the roughest in years. Three of the four MVC games will be on the road, and other road dates will be at Houston, Texas-Arlington, and Southern Illinois.

At home, the Bufaloes open with MVC foe Wichita State. Also, West Texas will meet North Texas State, McNeese State, Lamar, and Northeast Louisiana in Kimbrough Memorial Stadium.

Herd Nine To Meet Monterey

The Herd baseball squad has put together a good record so far this season, 10 wins and 5 losses to be exact and has beaten some pretty fair teams, Pampa, and Amarillo Tascosa, among others. All of this will be forgotten this Saturday however when they travel to Lubbock to meet their long time tormentor, Monterey and try to turn the tables on the Plainsmen.

One thing for sure: if the Herd does beat Monterey it will be a day to remember because the Plainsmen don't appear to have lost anything. Thus far they have a 16-2 season's record and last Saturday they swept both ends of a double-header from Coronado, 4-0 and 17-2 sparked by the pitching of Scott Gardner and Richard Bowles and the hitting of Tim Leslie and Mark Morgan who together went 11 for 18 in the twinbill.

The Whiteface are not without weapons themselves however as they have five players hitting over .300. Mike Dudding, Pete Hale, Harvey Torres, Roy Martinez, and Chris King. On the mound they have Martinez and Torres who combined for the win in the first game of last Saturday's doubleheader against Plainview and they have Chris Hill who did an excellent job in the second.

At any rate compared to last year it has already been a successful district campaign for the Herd, they won one game in District 4-AAAA in 1975.

Second String

Garry Peebles

While looking at a picture in Tuesday's Avalanche Journal of a crowd of people watching Arnold Palmer hit a drive in a practice round for the Masters, a question came up in my mind which has been there before. In fact it's been there every time I've ever seen a like picture of Arnie, or Jack or Lee or whoever it might be.

It bothers me even more every time I see a tournament on television with the announcers whispering so as not to bother a guy putting 50 ft. away. There they are again, it's those crowds that bother me.

Before I go any further, let me say that I think golf is a great sport although I personally have never really tried it. The real reason for my never becoming more interested in the game goes back to a day when I was nine and a neighbor kid took a 7 iron and spit my lip open with it.

Back to those crowds, I have never been able to understand a person's reasoning for paying $35 (that's what it says here it costs to get a ticket to the Masters) and walking all over creation—and at the end of the day having seen only a small part of what was going on, if that much. More than likely unless you are about 6'8" all you are ever going to see is the back of somebody's head.

But perhaps a person would say, "I only go to see Jack. I could care less about those other guys." Okay suppose you go to the Masters to see the man, first off you're probably going to have to get there about 6 a.m. to get a parking spot within five miles of the place.

You fight the crowds out to the 1st tee and look down at your schedule and find out that Jack Nicklaus and Fred S. Ridley (who's he) don't tee off until 12:32. Assuming you are a real diehard fan you wait it out and spend until 5:33 following the Golden Bear around the course.

At the end of the round, he has a 67 and you have a pair of blistered feet, a body full of aching joints and a sunburnt face and the only time you really get to see him was when he passed only 40 yds. away while getting out of the rough on the 7th hole.

I guess what I'm trying to say is that I think golf is a game to be played, not watched. If I ever have the time and the money (I have neither right now) I might spend some of it chasing a little dimpled ball down the fairway and through the rough but I don't think I'll ever go watch a tournament even if Bobby Jones, reincarnated is playing in it.

Rocky, Steve In Net Finals

Hereford's boys doubles tennis squad of Steve Hoover and Rocky Rodriguez fought their way through two rounds of the District 4-4A tennis tourney at Lubbock Friday and at the end stood as the Herd's only hope for a regional berth.

Hoover and Rodriguez drew a bye in the first round and met Ricky Gamblin and Randy Campbell of Lubbock High whom they disposed of in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2 in the second.

In the semi-finals round, their opposition was Steve Farrell and Robert Davis of Coronado and it was a much tougher match with the Hereford duo finally winning in three sets, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5.

Rodriguez and Hoover will take to the courts against Dale Anderson and Steve Wyett of Coronado on Saturday and at stake will be the boys doubles spot in the regional tourney at Lubbock on April 30-May 1.

Hereford's other boys doubles squad of Clayton Eaubion and David Rudder made it through the first round taking out Landry and Gallimore of Plainview, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, but ran into Anderson and Wyett in the second and went down, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6.

Herby Del Toro and Jesse Castanada both were defeated in the first round of their singles matches.

Hereford's girls singles entry, Susan Grimsley was defeated in her first round match by Boneva Hill of Coronado, 6-2, 7-6.

Both girls doubles squads, Rose Warren-Janet McWorter and Ellen Jorde-Jane Hoffman drew byes in the first round but were taken out in the second.

BULLETIN
Hereford South lost to Dalhart in the Little Dribbler Tourney Saturday morning, eliminating the South stars from the meet. Hereford North was to play Dalhart later Saturday to determine the finalist against Plainview Saturday night.

At the end of Friday's play there were four squads left in the Regional Tournament of the Little Dribblers being held here in the high school gymnasium.

Teams originally entered included two from Hereford, two from Borger and one each from Dalhart and Plainview.

The tourney is a double elimination affair and will have been concluded by Saturday night's 7:30 championship game.

In first round games played on Thursday, Hereford North edged Borger South, 22-20. Plainview breezed past Dalhart, 33-16, Hereford South whipped Borger South, 27-15 and in both squad's second game of the day Plainview had no trouble with Hereford North, taking them out, 34-17.

In games played on Friday, Dalhart skipped past Borger South, 27-23 and Hereford North eased past Borger North, 22-14. This eliminated both Borger entries in the tournament.

In the final Friday encounter, Plainview raced past Hereford South, 41-28 to put themselves in the tourney finals.

Hereford South now has one loss and will have played the winner of the Dalhart-Hereford North game on Saturday afternoon to determine Plainview's opposition in the final round.

Moto-Cross Bicycle Team

Hereford Sweeps Bicycle Moto-Cross

Team Kawasaki of Hereford claimed five of six trophies given at the bicycle moto-cross held in Clovis, N.M. last Sunday. The event was run in conjunction with the motorcycle moto-cross at the same site.

Boys participating in the races were divided into two classes, according to age with 14 being the dividing point.

Kevin Cardinal of Hereford took the first place trophy in the 14 and older group, he was followed by his brother Kris Cardinal in second and Lee Schultz also of Hereford in third.

In the younger division, Kenneth Hicks and Jim Cherry both of Hereford were the 1st and 2nd place winners respectively.

There were approximately 25 entries in the two divisions.

Bicycle moto-cross is a sport which began three or four years ago in California and has spread East since that time.

The races are up to 1/2 mile long and, as the word "moto-cross," implies, are run over any type of ground, the rougher the better.

Specially made bicycles are used in the events. It is necessary that they be very strong and very light. Also, they usually have cast type wheels.

This was the final area bicycle moto-cross scheduled this Spring, but Lonnie Cardinal, team advisor, has hopes of putting together some races in Hereford this summer if enough interest is shown locally.

Hereford winners in the motorcycle moto-cross Sunday include Kenneth Hicks, 1st in the micro-mini class and 2nd in the mini man class, Roy Reinart, 4th in the 250cc class and Wayne Reinart, 5th in the open class.

West Central led the 5th grade boys with Northwest in 2nd and Aikman in 3rd. Schools finishing 1-2-3 in the 4th grade boys division were Aikman, West Central, and Shirley in that order.

In the girls division, the 6th grade lassies from Aikman came home first followed by St. Anthony's and West Central.

The 5th grade girls from West Central took their division with Aikman in 2nd and Shirley 3rd.

The 4th grade girls were competing in the meet for the first time and the finishers were Aikman, Bluebonnet and Northwest in that order.

Eight records were either tied or broken in the boys division. Strangely enough, three of these were in the 75 yd. dash and all three of the old records went back to 1963.

In the 6th grade, Garcia of Northwest ran a 9.0 in the 75 tying the record of Edwards of Aikman in 63.

Juarez of Northwest posted 9.7 in the 5th grade 75 breaking the old record of 9.8 first set by Gearn of Aikman in 63 and tied, twice since.

In the 4th grade division of the same race, Terry of Aikman checked in with a 9.8 and that was good enough to top the old mark set by Hall of West Central in 63 and tied once since.

Other new boys records included a 1.09.5 by Ramirez of Shirley in the 4th grade 440, a 55.4 and 59.9 by the Aikman 6th and 4th grade 440 relay squads and a 1.59.1 and 2.05.4 by the Aikman 6th grade and Northwest 5th grade 880 relay squads respectively.

The girls set five new records, two of them by Albracht of St. Anthony's with times of 9.4 and 12.4 in the 6th grade 75 and 100 yd. dashes.

Other new records included a 1:09.2 by Johnson of Aikman in boys' sprint events. A number of long-standing records were broken at the meet in both the boys and girls divisions.

The Finish Line

the 6th grade 440 and a 1:08.5 by Lewis of West Central in the 5th grade division of the same event.

The 5th grade West Central 440 relay squad also set a new mark of 59.8.

Hereford's linksters had a 328 total in Friday's first round of The Amarillo Relay's Golf Tourney. Unfortunately it was only good enough for ninth place and since only the top six squads survived the cut, the 'Herd didn't get to go back on Saturday.

High winds hampered the play and caused the scores to go considerably above average.

Individual scores for Hereford included Curtis Stoerner at 83, Kelly Kitchens at 79, George Yocum at 90, James McDowell at 83 and Doug Walterscheid also at 83.

Epilepsy Group Forming Here

An organizational meeting of the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the High Plains Epilepsy Association was held recently in the home of David Burns at 135 Ironwood.

Mrs. Betty Brown, director of the High Plains Epilepsy Association in Amarillo spoke on Deaf Smith County's needs in the field of epilepsy treatment during the meeting.

She told those in attendance that a recent survey revealed that a high percentage of Deaf Smith County's epileptics are not receiving proper medical treatment or counseling needed to achieve a normal way of life.

Mrs. Brown stressed the need for a local society to help such individuals.

Burns, who has served as a member of the regional advisory committee of the High Plains Epilepsy Association for the past several months, and reports that a local association is currently forming here, and already includes several members.

The purpose of our organization is to be of assistance to county residents with various types of epilepsy. Our services will include aid in compliance with medical requirements, aid in obtaining jobs, counseling, and providing of information to the community," said Burns.

Anyone interested in the organization or needing information may contact Burns, Marlene Watson, Nancy Hall or Paul Catoe.

Oasis Shrine Club To Conduct 20th Annual Children's Clinic Here

Hereford's Oasis Shrine Club will conduct its 20th annual children's clinic April 24 at the Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic.

Shrine Nobles and their wives will get the day underway at 6:30 a.m. with registration at the Civic Club Center.

Registration of children will begin at 8 a.m. at the Southwestern Public Service building at the corner of 4th and Lee Streets.

Prior to being registered for the day-long clinic, all children must pre-register with their own doctors.

Dr. A.T. Mims of the Hereford Medical Clinic is directing the day-long project, and forms needed for pre-registration may be obtained from him at his clinic, from private physicians, or from any Shriner.

Physicians who will be present for the clinic include: Dr. James E. Lovelless of Lubbock and Dr. William McKay of Amarillo, orthopedics; Dr. Don Ryan, Denton, speech and hearing; Dr. Jerry Miller, Dallas, radiology; Dr. Robert Leachman, Houston, cardiology; Dr. Maurice Dyer, Amarillo, pediatrics; Dr. J. Franklin Howell, Amarillo, ophthalmology; Dr. Willard Sellman, Dallas, plastic surgery; Dr. Norman Wright, Amarillo, otolaryngology; Dr. Jerold Gormley, Amarillo, oral surgery; and Dr. Louis A. Finney, Amarillo, neurology.

Participants in the clinic will be welcomed at a noon meal which will be catered by the Noon Lions Club of Hereford. The meal will be held in the Hereford High School cafeteria.

The clinic is held each year to determine any medical deficiencies in children who might not ordinarily be able to pay for complete examinations.

Last year, a total of 106 children registered for the clinic and 103 were examined.

Following the close of the clinic, doctors and Shrine Nobles will meet at the Hereford Country Club to receive reports on the children examined.

Dinner, and dancing will follow the report session for the Shriners, doctors, clinic personnel and their spouses.

Wednesday, April 14. Special services will be held at that same time on the following Thursday and Friday, April 14, and 15.

Delivering a message at these services will be Rick Gonzales, pastor of the Spanish Assembly of God Church in Amarillo. The services are in observance of Passion Week, Villa said.

Sunday morning and evening services and Wednesday night services will be conducted at the new location from now on, the pastor said.

Child Abuse Serious Problem

A record 60,000 reports of child abuse, neglect, runaways, children in need of supervision, and other similar cases were handled by the State Department of Public Welfare in 1975 it was announced recently. Of these, almost 11,000 involved confirmed abuse and neglect, and many other cases were highly suspect but could not be confirmed.

"Child abuse and neglect can touch even the smallest community," according to Ann Carson, Regional Coordinator for the Child Abuse Campaign, Lubbock. "There is a need for every person who suspects that a child is being abused, physically, emotionally, or sexually, to report the situation to the local Child Welfare Office. Or he can call the toll-free 'hotline,' 1-800-292-5400."

Ms. Carson went on to say that it is important to report neglect because the child may be exposed to dangerous persons or situations. "Accidents are the leading cause of death among children," she added, "and accidents occur often in cases where the child is chronically neglected."

Under the law, the State Department of Public Welfare is responsible for all children in Texas up to age eighteen. Abuse and neglect occurs among every racial group, an at all income levels. Perhaps this is because child abuse most commonly occurs in cycles, i.e., people tend to be the kind of parents their parents were.

"It should be kept in mind," Miss Carson said, "that it is not necessary to have proof that child abuse or neglect exists before making a report. The Child Welfare Unit will be responsible for providing or disproving the situation exists, so a suspicion is sufficient for a report."

"We also accept anonymous calls, but it is not really necessary to remain anonymous because the name of the person reporting is held in confidence anyway."

"Some people are hesitant to report because they hate to see the children removed from the parents. However, this will not necessarily happen. Whenever possible, children remain in the home during the treatment period, or are returned following treatment."

Persons interested in further information about child abuse and neglect, or in arranging a group program, can do so by writing to Ms. Carson at the State Department of Public Welfare, P.O. Box 10528, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

More back at work in America in February.

The Abundant Life

By BOB WEAR

The loss of the sense of "personal worth" is the kind of loss we cannot afford. Many of our perplexing problems are caused by or associated with this loss. Many of us do not realize our "personal worth," and even more of us do not realize the "worth" of others. Consequently, many aspects of our lives are distorted.

"WHAT IS HE WORTH?"
This question, to most of us, means "how much money does he have?" Surely, we know that there is more to be considered than the amount of material wealth; when we are thinking about "personal worth." What is the value of the individual? This is the crucial question. The answer we give is going to be decisive in every aspect of the human experience.

The quality of home life, the over-riding goals and purposes of our educational system, the standards and guidelines of community life, and all other social situations will be determined by the value given to the individual.

"The value of the individual, sick or well, is in the fact that he is important and worthy in his own right; and not simply because of what he can do or achieve or produce." -Dr. Menninger.

IF WE ACCEPT THIS CONCLUSION, we move immediately to a higher and better level of the human experience. When the individual can see and appreciate his "personal worth"; aside from what he can do, or achieve, or produce; the self-image is better, behavior improves, and the general performance will be much better. When we see and appreciate the "personal worth" of each other, the total social climate will be improved, and all of the interaction among us will be much better. Everybody and everything will be better.

We must not permit the culture we have created to cause a devaluation in our view of the self or of others. In fact, we must resist any and all of the influences that would obscure the most important of all considerations; the worth, actual and potential, of the individual. If ever there is to be any general improvement in the human situation, the "personal worth" of each individual will have to be recognized.

"OUR CULTURAL WORSHIP of the machine and the industrial genius which produced it has profoundly perverted the basic individual value, and has risked reducing us all to cogs in an industrial society that can replace us indiscriminately and without regard to any individualistic specialness that we may value in ourselves or others." - Dr. Menninger.

The concept of "personal worth" does not involve self-conceit, or any other undesirable manifestation; but it sets forth the principal element of effective living. We must never downgrade and degrade ourselves or our fellowmen.

The real worth, the real value is the human worth and the human value; and if we forget this, there are no other values.

Property Week

It is highly appropriate that Realtors here are in the forefront of the national celebration of Private Property Week, April 18-24. No other group has been more in tune to the need for advancing private property ownership and rights.

Realtors, as professionals in real estate sales, management and investments, recognize that government incursions into this area strike at a basic tenet of America. The right to own property stands as tall as the right of free speech or freedom of the press.

Thus, Realtors have consistently supported measures at local, state and national levels that would assist American families in realizing their dream: ownership of a home. And, they have opposed measures that would severely hamper the realization of that dream: land use controls that mean a no-growth policy, and that take decision making powers in this area away from local and state governments.

As Americans, we join with Realtors in celebrating Private Property Week. In this bicentennial year, nothing could be more appropriate.

Forgotten Man

While the plight of the farmer has been a frequent topic in Brand editorials, today we add another "class" who are over-taxed, over-regulated and under-appreciated...the small businessmen of this country.

By coincidence, Sen. John Tower in Washington and Speaker of the House Bill Clayton in Austin sent out news columns this past week dealing with the same subject—the forgotten man.

Both concerned the small businessman. Sen. Tower points out that 97 per cent of the nation's businesses are small and yet are responsible for more than half of all private employment and about a third of the gross national product.

Small business is the lifeblood of our free enterprise system. Yet government has been throwing more and more roadblocks in the path of small business. Excessive paperwork demands and the bewildering regulations passed out by an army of bureaucrats has him not only confused but frustrated. He is being harassed and sometimes ruined by a political system that takes him for granted and is utterly indifferent to his problems.

Government is not the only offender in taking the small businessman for granted, either. In a Panhandle town recently, a group of young housewives went on the radio station to protest high prices in the community. Yet the organization to which they belong heads for the front door of those local businesses every time they need financial help with club projects.

Sen. Tower has proposed legislation to raise the surtax exemption for small businesses to the first $100,000 of taxable income. This will allow small business to retain some earnings for investment in capital improvements. It's a step in the right direction. What is also needed is relief from all of the complex regulations that force the small businessman to spend this time and money keeping up with federal government paperwork instead of running his business.

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maquire

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY— Richmond, Fort Bend County, and the phoenix, the legendary bird of the Egyptian religion, share a common quality.

The Phoenix, after being consumed by fire, could rise with youthful freshness from its own ashes and live another 500 years. Richmond, burned to the ground 140 years ago by an invading army, rebuilt a new and larger community on its ruins.

In 1822, the first settler built a log cabin just below a large bend in the Brazos River about 30 miles west of what now is downtown Houston. The settlement was called Old Fort or Fort Bend.

The village prospered until the Texas war for independence began. Then in February, 1836, the Mexican general, Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, began his attempted conquest of Texas. Residents of Fort Bend, like most other settlers in the area, fled their homes in what has been termed the "Runaway Scrape."

On April 12, 1836, a platoon of Mexican troops made their first strategic crossing of the Brazos near the little settlement. The invaders pillaged the town, then burned everything in sight.

After the Texas victory at San Jacinto nine days later, the settlers returned and began the task of rebuilding. By May 1837, their new community was finished and it was incorporated and renamed Richmond after the capital of Virginia. The next year it was made the county seat of Fort Bend County.

Thus like the legendary phoenix, Richmond arose from its own ashes. It is one of the oldest continuously inhabited towns in Texas.

Down the Drain

If the United States Postal Service acted like a responsible corporation, it would quickly cut back on the most costly item in its budget, the item that has caused it to sink into financial chaos.

In the case of the USPS, this costly item would be labor, which accounts for 85 per cent of the total expenses incurred by the service. However, because of union strength, cutting labor enough to help the bleak financial picture is next to impossible. The remaining 15 per cent of the costs cover all postal vehicles, building expenses, etc. So what's to be done? At this point, no one seems to know—and the costly monopoly keeps right on costing more and more.

early Texas, no woman would practice medicine or dispense drugs. A 1795 law made it illegal.

A woman could own a drug store—called apothecary shop then—but only if she hired an approved male to run it. Even then she had to pay a stiff tax for the privilege of ownership. Males owners paid no tax at all.

IT COULD ONLY HAPPEN HERE— Texas, where betting of any kind is against the law, breeds most of the greyhounds racing in the dozen states where such gambling is permitted.

Breeding racing dogs is a multi-million dollar business in rural areas of Dallas, Tarrant and Denton Counties. It is estimated that 5,000 greyhounds are being bred for the track within a 50-mile radius of a point half way between Dallas and Fort Worth.

It's a perfectly legal business, even if pari-mutuel betting on greyhound racing is not. Many of the breeders don't sell their dogs but lease them to the legal tracks, retaining a percentage of their winnings for their trouble.

IT'S A FACT— During the Civil War, any man who killed a neighbor's cow for food was not prosecuted if he left the hide behind.

The reason? Only the hides and tallow had a ready market. Fresh meat was so prevalent that it was given away. Even in the larger towns, butchers had difficulty getting customers to buy sirloin steak at 20 cents a pound.

Speaking of Candidates; Ford Worth Seeing

The heart of the utility bill mess lies with the Texas Railroad Commission (TRC). That august body of utility and business controlled members allowed the Lo Vaca Gathering Co. to seek gas at what ever price it could and the TRC would allow any price it wanted to set.

It created a statewide scramble for any gas reserves available which shot gas up in price. Due to the situation, the other gas companies, including Pioneer, were allowed a fuel adjustment allowance also referred to as a per cent pass through of costs to the consumer. Pioneer has a 100 per cent pass through which effectively operates at 85 per cent. It still is a government guaranteed basis for profits.

Probably the most interesting result of the situation is the upcoming election for positions on the powerful railroad commission, which was reported in The Dallas Morning News as one of the most powerful agencies in the nation. A wide field of candidates are seeking a seat on the commission and a good number are trying to use the current situation as means of winning voter approval.

Of all the candidates, I favor Lane Denton of Waco, whom I had the opportunity to meet while he was a fighting freshman legislator.

He says "Texas natural gas companies and the Texas Railroad Commission ought to be jointly given The Ripoff of the Year Award." I agree.

Gas companies are still under the authority of the commission as the Texas Utilities Commission will have power over the electric and telephone concerns.

Denton introduced a bill in the state legislature in 1975 to outlaw the automatic pass-through. He termed it "an automatic loophole—a loophole big enough to drive a herd of longhorn cattle through."

I like his thinking and his direct and descriptive way with words. He reminds me of the old-time politician who might have been a bit crusty with his speech, but a darn good legislator when it came to rolling up the sleeves and showing some action in favor of the people.

He is a onetime teacher and an original down-on-the-farm boy. The Democrat spent his early years roaming the pastures.

Another candidate is Terence O'Rourke, a Houston attorney, who argues like Denton but with some self gain involved. He promises to save Texans $100 million in fraudulent utility bills.

The conflict comes in the form of how he wants to go about it. He doesn't want to wait until he possibly gets on the Texas Railroad Commission, but right now as an attorney.

He sent each city a petition urging each mayor to join in and fight the practice of "banking." This he says involves the loaning of gas at a certain price by gas companies to the Lo Vaca Gathering Co. The lender then

Anyway, I'm glad to have the chance to see him again. "Others are glad as they made a mad dash to get the tickets in the first two hours of their availability. As a newsmen, my interest is even keener to hear what Ford had to say even if it might not be especially original or provocative. Some of those words from Ford's mouth carry more weight than a pregnant hippo."

Of course, Ford is politically motivated on this trip and no doubt the far-out places is where he will try to win votes. I am indeed surprised to be able to run into Ford twice in the locations where I've worked.

Sometimes, the most significant events happen in the most unpredictable places. claims the gas in the future at about the same price. The petition is to be filed with the TRC.

However, O'Rourke, chairman of the Public Utilities Committee of the State Bar of Texas, is not thinking of the customer alone. As an attorney with the firm of O'Rourke, Lawler and Coleman, he hopes no doubt to gain the business of representing the cities in a fight before the state agency.

This point surfaced at this week's Hereford City Commission meeting when City Attorney Earnest Langley reviewed the situation and presented the petition mailed to him. He too surmised that O'Rourke was in it for himself to gain the profitable city business.

"I think it's the rankest kind of solicitation," Langley said. Again, I agree.

It's good to back the candidate that will effectively deal with our problems, but let us watch who that person is. Candidates aren't easy to weed out from the scoundrels, but we need to try.

-BT-

I had the opportunity to hear President Gerald Ford in Canyon Saturday, much like I did in College Station, only he was just a vice president then.

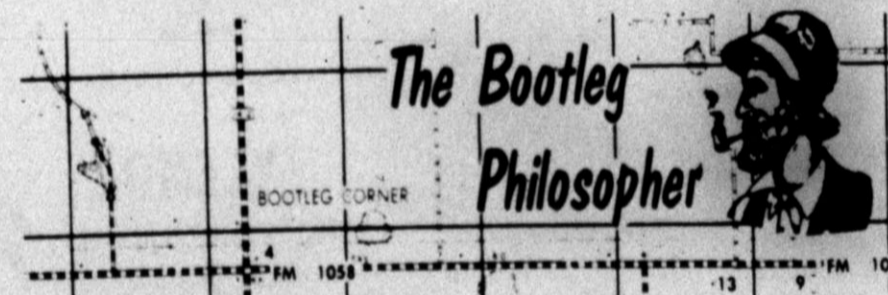

It's not that I personally like the man or favor him. He's the president and the significance of the office awes me even though Nixon tarnished it a bit. I asked if others were going over to see him and my answers were, "Who? Ford?" or "No, he doesn't interest me."

I guess I stood alone in my anticipation of seeing and hearing The President of the United States. It's not man in the office, but the office itself.

Even a Tricky Dick couldn't destroy that fact.

Apparently, quite a few persons were thrilled by the scheduled visit by Ford since it's not every day that a president comes to the Panhandle.

Politicians can feel as important as they want. But it's the people that make them so by electing them in the first place. The power they hold makes me respect them.

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm on Bootleg Corner tries to defend a few things this week, in his own way!

Dear editor:

There's nothing worse than thinking up a brilliant idea only to find out somebody else has beat you to it.

Now nearly all of us have been guilty of criticizing and poking fun at the Postal Service, so I decided it was time somebody started coming to the outfit's rescue with some constructive suggestions.

As I understand it, the Postal Service is losing a tremendous amount of money, and to offset this is considering limiting its service, say to delivering mail maybe only three days a week.

However to do that, it's obvious the volume of mail would have to be reduced, and I have hit on what I thought was the perfect way to do it. It's simple: stop teaching kids how to read and write. I guarantee that'll decrease the volume of mail in one generation and put the Postal Service back on its feet.

I mentioned this idea to a friend to the monopoly on first-class mail.

Postal officials didn't even stop to rest after the recent campaign to up the rates before they started hollering for increased subsidies from Congress (translated that simply means additional monies from taxpayers). Increased rates AND increased subsidies? No. Enough is enough. There's no proof the USPS could ever live within a and he said, "Man, you're behind the times. The schools are way ahead of you. They're already turning out high school graduates who can't read and write. The schools are on their toes. They figured out the solution to the problems of the Postal Service long before you did."

Sometimes a man might as well sleep as think. I'll try another subject. People are always criticizing weather men. "We may get a rain tomorrow," they'll say, "the forecaster said it'd continue dry."

This is just another example of the cynicism that's so popular these days. If the weatherman, consulting high and low pressures and the upper wind patterns, predicts continued dry and it rains, he didn't make a mistake. The weather made a mistake.

Or take Secretary of State Kissinger. If he threatens maybe military action against Cuba if it doesn't keep its troops out of other countries, a lot of people jump on him and say where does he get the authority to do such a thing? It's just another case of not having all the facts. How do such people know whether or not Kissinger can fly a fighter bomber?

Yours faithfully,

budget unless we give it the key to the Treasury.

The USPS is going to have to take some positive steps to cut costs. The whole thing needs to be completely revamped by experts who know how to run a business on a businesslike basis. Until then, additional money, whether from increased rates or subsidies, will be just like so much water down the drain. (Amarillo Daily News)

Joyce's Journal

BY JOYCE SHIPP
Deaf Smith County Extension Agent

Electric crockery-pot slow cookers can free housewives from hours spent cooking—just put the evening meal to cook in the morning, and supper is ready when the family gets home at night.

This method of cookery is especially valuable to working wives, bachelors and others who are away during the daytime. A roast, stew, chicken or soup can be started in the morning, and the meal will be ready—without all day cooking care—when the family's ready to eat.

These cookers have a low wattage wrap-around heating element which cooks all day without burning the food. Or cook a sausage casserole all night and have it for breakfast. Most dishes cook from eight to ten hours on low setting.

Slow-cooker cooking is economical in terms of food itself because it uses the moist-heat method—in which moisture builds up slowly—which is the recommended method for cooking less tender, inexpensive cuts of meat.

And from the standpoint of energy, the slow cooker is also economical to operate. Cooking a stew in the slow cooker takes only half the energy as cooking the same stew on top of an electric range.

The cook's understanding of the appliance's capabilities and willingness to adapt cooking practices are major considerations in choosing a slow cooker. For example, cooks need to learn not lift the lid during cooking, because each time the lid is removed, steam escapes losing 15-30 minutes' cooking time.

Some consumers may worry about leaving an appliance operating while they are away all day, and this might be a drawback in using a slow cooker.

Another possible disadvantage is the end product itself—which is usually roast, stews and casseroles. If the family isn't really fond of eating this type food, the slow cooker would seldom be used.

Favorite family recipes can be adapted for the slow cooker, but the major change will be in cooking time. It takes about six to eight times longer in the slow cooker. Also, since liquids in a slow cooker do not boil away, reduce stew liquid by half.

Meat should be browned and drained before adding to the slow cooker because it will not brown as usual.

Also, it is surprising that vegetables cook slower than meat—so cut them into small pieces and place in the bottom in liquid.

Spices should be added during the final hour of cooking because their flavor power may increase.

Concerning safety of slow cookers, food cooked in slow cookers is safe to eat as long as it reaches an internal temperature of 140 degrees F. for one and a half to two hours, or 150 degrees F. for only 12 minutes. But researchers have found that not every brand of slow cooker will reach the recommended internal temperature of 140 degrees F. Consumers should compare brands with this in mind before buying one.

Homemakers can check the temperature of food cooked in a slow cooker. The best way would be with a meat thermometer when cooking a roast. This will indicate if the roast reaches the recommended internal temperature of 140 degrees F.

Some consumers have expressed concern about the nutritive value of foods cooked in the slow cooker. Most cooking affects the nutritive value of food to some extent. But so far there has been little or no research to prove how slow cookers affect it.

Nutritionists do question the nutritive value of foods with heat-sensitive vitamins—that's Vitamin C and B-vitamins—because heat destroys these vitamins. Increasing the size of meat and vegetable pieces for slow cooking does help them retain nutrients.

One favorite Texas recipe prepared successfully in the slow cooker is Texas Beef and Beans. Try this recipe and see how the family likes the quality of food prepared this way.

TEXAS BEEF AND BEANS

1 lb. dried pinto beans
6 cups cold water
½ lb. salt pork, cut up
1 lb. lean chuck steak, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 red chili pepper
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 6-oz. can tomato paste
2½ tsp. chili powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cumin seed
½ tsp. marjoram leaves
1 whole chili pepper (optional)
Soak beans in water overnight. Brown salt pork in skillet or slow cooker with browning unit. In slow cooker, combine soaked beans (with water), browned salt pork and remaining ingredients. Cover and cook on low for 9-10 hours. Makes 8 servings.

Try this tasty recipe:

EASY RICE PUDDING

½ cup rice
½ cup sugar
½ tsp. vanilla
¼ qt. milk
1 tsp. butter

2 eggs, beaten
1 tsp. ground cinnamon
½ cup raisins
Combine all ingredients in slow-cooker. Stir thoroughly. Cover pot, turn on LOW and cook for 6 to 7 hours, until rice is tender and milk is absorbed. Stir 3 or 4 times during cooking, bringing rice up from bottom of pot. Transfer pudding to a dessert bowl and chill.
Serve with bowl of sweetened, whipped cream. Serves 6.

WANTS SLOWDOWN

LOS ANGELES—Many California cities which once thought the population explosion was the next best thing to sunshine have embarked on a "grow slow" campaign to protect their lifestyle. They want to end the developers' gold rush.

NO MILITARY DEFEAT

PARIS—Gen. William C. Westmoreland, retired U.S. Army chief of staff and the top commander in Indochina at the height of the American buildup, claimed that the Vietnam war was not a military defeat for the United States.

TRACT TO PUBLIC

NEW YORK—Nearly 11,000 acres of forest land in the Great Dismal Swamp L. North Carolina has been given to the nation hoping to save unspoiled land for future generations.

Handicapped Children's Program Explained To Lions

A special program for handicapped pre-school children, being conducted at Shirley Elementary School, was outlined and explained to the Hereford Lions Club during the organization's regular weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday at Civic Club Center.

Supt. Roy Hartman and Jim Holmes, head of the special education programs, introduced the program. Wendell Jones, project director outlined the purpose and goals of the pilot project and introduced four teachers involved in the program.

The program, funded by the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, is titled the Texas Handicapped Early Childhood Program. The model program here is for handicapped children 0 through 3 years of age.

Discussing the program for the Lions were teachers Mary Baird, Lupe Hernandez, Yolanda Rameriz, and Beverly Jesko.

While the school system has programs for older handicapped children, this federally-funded program is for the 0 to 3 years-old group. All types of handicaps—mild or profound—are accepted in the program.

Lions president Weldon Dickson announced plans for delegates and members to attend the District Lions Convention in Amarillo April 10-11.

Texas Grain Stocks Up After Good '75 Harvest

AUSTIN—Texas grain production for 1975 showed substantial increases for most grains, hitting the Texas Crop Production Index for 14 major grains up to 119, a rebound from the 100 reading of 1974.

More favorable growing conditions prevailed in 1975 than in drought-plagued 1974, and gains were recorded for wheat, oats, barley, sorghum and corn.

As a result of increased production, Texas is beginning 1976 with total grain stocks higher than they were a year ago, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Wheat production reached a record 131.1 million bushels when harvest was completed in late summer. Wheat stocks showed a 39 percent increase, totaling nearly 71 million bushels.

The sorghum crop of 374.4 million bushels was the second largest on record, exceeded only by the 1973 crop of 417 million. Stocks held in all positions are estimated at 185 million bushels, up 34 percent from the 138 million a year ago.

Texas also recorded its second largest corn crop with yield per harvested acre topping previous years' figures. Farmers completed harvest in late fall with a crop of 113.3 million bushels and average yields of 10.3 bushels per acre.

By The Garden Gate With Glad

By Gladys Manjeot

SPRINGTIME: One of the happiest times of the year is when the earth starts awakening from the long winter sleep, and all seems fresh and beautiful. My mockingbird has returned and this morning, as I worked in the garden, setting out rhubarb plants and checking on the new flowers that had bloomed out over the weekend, he serenaded me. One of his favorite places is in the beautiful crab-apple tree and on top of the highest light pole he can find. It was so pleasant to work to the sound of his music.

Other signs of spring are the worms that we dig up, as we turn the soil to plant. This reminds us that it is good fishing weather. The following is written especially for the men who read Glad's Column. (Also the women who like to fish.)

One sign of spring is that it is time to go fishing. It is the chance to wash one's soul with pure air, with the rush of the water over the rocks or the shimmer of the sun on the lake.

It brings meekness and inspiration from the decency of Nature, charity toward tackle-makers, patience toward fish, a mockery of profits and egos, a quieting of hate, a rejoicing that you do not have to decide a darned thing until next week.

And it is discipline in the equality of men—for all men are equal before fish. And it is a wonderful time to just be happy and let the rest of the world go by, while the tackle is made ready to cast.

BRIGHT YELLOW flowers glistening in the early morning sunshine. Some of these (the daffodils) which are really beautiful, are in full bloom at the...Episcopalian Church on Park Avenue. The planting of the daffodils was done by Mrs. Robert Betzen, a new member of Bud to Blossom Club. She is making an "excellent" member and a well-informed horticulturist also.

For those who are interested in indoor gardening, which is the use of potted plants, I want to recommend the Massange's Dracaena.

This handsome plant, so well-proven as a tough long-lasting species under household conditions, was first mentioned in a Belgian horticultural journal in 1881. Its botanical name, Dracaena fragrans massangeana, tells us that this species has fragrant blossoms, but they are rarely seen on house plants, which are not large enough to flower. However, they do bloom profusely in their natural habitat.

European traders of the 16th and 17th centuries, whose ships sailed along the western coast of Africa, found the summer rains and tropical heat so intense that their trips were limited to what was called the "Guinea season," October until April.

When rainfall and heat were less intense, dense equatorial forest covered the land to the water's edge, where few traders or travelers ventured inland. Thus, it was not until late in the 19th century that Dracaena was discovered.

A suitable soil for Dracaenas can be made of equal parts of peat moss, loam and sand. It should be kept barely damp and not overly fertile. One feeding with a mild house plant fertilizer every 6 months is ample to maintain healthy growth for years.

It is one of my favorite house plants; I have had one for two years and it is a delight. The maintenance is very easy. They are "comfortable" in most places in the home. In summer, they can be used on the patio, in a sheltered area where the wind and hot sunshine will not hit them.

They remind one of cane. The foliage is tough and in some species, it is two-toned, others are light or dark green, and some have red touches underneath the foliage. My plant has been in the den this winter, and in the morning it has approximately two hours of sifted sunlight, and it has done exceedingly well. New growth and the sheen are excellent. When it did not receive as much sunlight, the growth was not as good, but it did have good color and textural qualities. Should be groomed every month, by using a soft cloth or ball of cotton and luke warm water. Clean the leaves carefully (not to split them) and on both sides.

A suggested placement is to have it near or included in a mass arrangement of potted plants, contrast of foliage Devil's Walking Stick (Aralia spinosa), add a lacy fern as all are interesting plants and the difference in patterns of foliage makes them an excellent conversation subject.

I have also found that Aralia spinosa is a lovely potted plant. The deep green foliage, with its intricate pattern, develops into a beautiful plant. It is by far one of my favorite plants. Once a week I give it tender loving care and enjoy it the rest of the time. I recommend it as an excellent house plant.

CAUTION: When selecting seed or plants for planting flowers or vegetables, buy the best. The success of gardening is largely determined by the quality of plant materials and seed. Read carefully the directions on the seed packets and follow them as best you can.

Do not get in too much of a hurry to plant.

Onion sets can be put out now, also plant radishes in a protected area and start plants, hardening the plants that have come up. Do not let them become too leggy.

Peat Pots are good to put the plants in when planting them outside. Just plant peat pot and all. The plant will not have to go through too much shock.

It is vitally important that the soil has been well-prepared, before planting anything. Also, ground temperature is going to have to come up, before plantings can be made. As long as we are having 30 and 40 degree weather, the ground is going to remain cold.

As I worked in the garden this morning planting rhubarb and asparagus, I enjoyed the sweet fragrance of the hyacinths, the brilliant colors of the tulips, and the lovely fairy-like blossoms of the narcissus and crab apple blossoms. Also noticed that insects are already busy.

I saw some slugs, which makes one a bit "oozy".

As I watched them I remembered Vera Deason's treatment for slugs. When they become quite active, one can place a can or container of beer in their pathway and they will drown in it. Better still, she suggests that the container in which the beer has been poured should be sunk into the ground, with just the top of bottle above ground. This will hold down the evaporation and may spare you rinsing and replacing the beer so frequently.

Another way of capturing them is to take rind of an orange or grapefruit half, out of which all juice and meat has been removed. Turn it upside down and place some insect powder around and under the rind.

"A seed's so very small And dirt all looks alike; How can the 'tiny seed know

The way they ought to aim? So wait around. Be patient, after planting, and Turst the good earth, the sunshine and rain...they will do the Necessary things for the tiny seeds." From "The Anxious Farmer" By Burgess Johnson

Wa-Tah-Ni-Ki Senior Horizon Club Campfire Girls paused long enough for a photo Friday afternoon before departing on an excursion to New Orleans. Group members have been raising money for the trip for the past four years, sponsoring a haunted house each Halloween as their main fund-raising

Everybody Has The Rights of Their Own Opinion

Wanda brought me to the hospital Friday morning. I was heart-broken and sad. My body was swollen with fluid and I looked pretty bad. The nurses weighed me, called the doctor and turned her head "Mrs. Cook, we have a room for you and you are going to bed". They took my blood pressure, temperature, and heart beat, too. As I lay here tonight there is a big glow in Hereford sky. Oh, Lordy mercy, I know the reason why. Deaf Smith County Hospital has the best of doctors and the whole staff and clinic, too. Yes, Lord, with your help, there is nothing they can't do. Course there is a special doctor. His name is Dr. Rush. You remember, Lord, when you and him operated on both my girls and took care of all of us. Now I am on the road to recovery and I am here to tell This Deaf Smith County Hospital will surely get you well. Now if I had the knowhow, I'd write a whole big book about that Dr. Rush from this old Granny Cook. Now I want to thank all my loved ones, friends, neighbors, the hospital staff, and First National Bank of Hereford for the flowers and gifts of love and kindness they shared with me while I was here.

Outlet Store shopping can be a money-saving experience if you follow a few simple guidelines.

Smart Shoppers Find Big Values At Outlet Store

Even in a year when prices seem to be going through the roof, there are still ways to economize. Where, when and how you shop can make a tremendous difference in family expenditures-particularly in clothing and home fashions.

With this many sources, the store can bring merchandise in early--and often--and sell at the lowest possible price to make room for new shipments.

Velva Decker, manager of Ashley's, offers these additional hints for getting in on the best bargains at an outlet store:

One shopping tip for bargain hunters is to explore the money-saving world of outlet stores. An outlet store is different than a department store, specialty shop or discount. Unlike these other retailers, an outlet store generally offers famous brand merchandise at 30 to 70 percent below regular retail prices.

Shop often. Outlet stores feature many one-time items that may not be repeated or reordered. The frequent shopper can take advantage of these specials by coming in regularly to check on new shipments.

Most outlet stores are operated by manufacturers who are faced with production overruns and slight irregularities that they can't market through traditional channels. So, by holding down fancy frills on fixtures, displays and advertising, it is possible for them to sell at prices only slightly above manufacturer's cost.

Shop early. Outlet stores begin stocking seasonal merchandise further ahead than most stores. Because it comes direct from the factory, spring goods are available as early as January; fall goods begin arriving in June.

The key word here, of course, is VALUE. While it is possible to buy cheap merchandise at low prices, an outlet store can sell high quality items (that normally retail much higher) for less.

Shop effectively. Outlet stores usually offer the best selection right after deliveries. Your store manager can keep you posted on the store's normal schedule and procedures.

An example of this type of direct-from-factory marketing is Ashley's Outlet Store in Hereford. The store is owned by a leading manufacturer of family clothing, home fashions and camping equipment and receives goods from more than 60 of its own plants.

Shop smart. Plan ahead to take advantage of your best buys. If you wait until the last minute, selections may be limited or you may be forced to pay twice as much elsewhere.

By knowing how to shop outlet stores, a wise buyer can get quality merchandise and still beat inflation.

Methodist Choir To Sing "The Seven Last Words"

The Hereford United Methodist Church Choir will present the "Seven Last Words of Christ" at 7 p.m. today at the church.

The cantata, written by Theodore Dubois, will include soloists Bob and Margaret McFarland, organist Mrs. George Grey of Amarillo, soloist James Daniels, and director James Stewart McFarland.

Bob McFarland, director of music ministry at the church, said the Seven Last Words is especially significant as Easter item and it is a great way to observe the Easter season.

The performance is open to the whole community and all are welcome to attend, he said. It will be held in the sanctuary of the Church, located on the corner of 5th and Main Streets.

There is a spirit which like the father of evil, is constantly "walking to and fro about the earth, seeking whom it may devour"; it is the spirit of false philanthropy.

A no fuel car is being designed.

Since the season of thunder storms is approaching, it's appropriate to look into the behavior of the cumulonimbus cloud, or thunderhead. It's the most active and most dangerous, of all the clouds.

In the temperate zones thunderheads, which often feature a large anvil-like top, and which tower up to 30,000 to 40,000 feet, or higher, usually move from west to east. They bring with them heavy rain, and strong winds.

On Wall Street

By BOB HILL

We have written about the VRM in an earlier column, hoping it would go away or be ruled out of order by regulatory authorities. VRM stands for variable rate mortgage, and was pioneered by five of the larger California savings and loan associations last year. Now two of the largest California banks are trying it out. The VRM is popping up in several other areas of the country, but California is the leader in the field. Basically, the VRM offers an interest rate 1/4 per cent below the fixed mortgage rate available at the moment. The initial rate cannot be changed for the first year. After the first year, the rate can go up every six months but never more than 1/4 per cent at a time. There is no limit on the number of decreases in the rate. The maximum increase permitted over the life of the loan is 2 1/2 per cent. The interest rate is tied to the cost of money index computed by the Federal Home Loan Bank.

VRMs at the savings and loans differ in that the borrower has the option of extending the maturity of the mortgage out to 40 years from 30 years. The two California banks are requiring the VRM on home loans of $40,000 to $50,000 and the response to the VRM has not been very enthusiastic. Still, it has been strong enough to encourage the banks to expand the service. Since beginning the VRM last year, the five California savings and loans have placed 58 per cent of their new loan commitments on the VRM.

The advantage to the mortgage lender of VRMs is quite clear, but what is not as clear is just how fair it is to the borrower. The banks and savings and loans want to avoid being locked in on 6-7 per cent mortgage loans at a time when interest rates are climbing sharply as they did in 1974 and 1975.

How fair is the VRM to the borrower? The trend in long-term interest rates is up, now down. So, chances are that the interest rate will rise rather than drop once the loan is on the books. One good feature of the VRM is the elimination of the prepayment penalty on the mortgage. Lenders have also indicated a willingness to continue the mortgage at the going rate if the new owner is credit-worthy.

Eligibility Restored To Servicemen

GI loan eligibility was restored to more than 12,300 veterans and servicemen who were released from liability for their former GI loans during 1975, and the Veterans Administration is urging others to apply. VA says all veterans should request releases when they sell homes purchased originally with GI loans.

The agency issued 12,200 releases during 1974, and has given 76,200 over the years. The GI loan program was established shortly after World War II.

"There's a good reason for obtaining a release," Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Director, explained,

"since without it, the seller could be held financially liable should the purchaser default on mortgage payments."

It was noted that through December 31, 1975, some 8.9 million veterans and servicemen had received home loans valued at $118.3 billion since the inception of the program. More than half, or nearly 4.8 million loans, have been repaid.

VA grants releases provided the veteran's loan is current, the prospective purchaser agrees to assume the veteran's liabilities and the purchaser is a good credit risk with sufficient income to meet assumed mortgage payments.

2. Be more directly responsible to the citizens by having Commissioners' names and addresses published periodically along with a map designating precinct lines.
3. Encourage on a regular basis a land re-evaluation to insure a continuously equal tax distribution.

I have observed first hand the waste and inefficiency in the Federal Government. As your commissioner, I will meet with each department head to make sure that their budgets provide the maximum services with the least tax dollars.

Cities May Apply For Funds

The Texas Aeronautics Commission (TAC) will begin studying requests from Texas cities and counties seeking state funds through the Texas Airport Aid Program for fiscal year 1977. The legislature has appropriated $1 million for the new program and the TAC has begun formulation of the 1977 program, prior to September 1, 1976 starting date, in order to expedite planning and funding. Charles Murphy, TAC Executive Director said priority will be given to those communities prepared to proceed with their projects on a state and local basis since the federal Airport Development Aid Program (ADAP) has been delayed since last June. Murphy said every effort will be made to expedite construction on approved projects to assure their completion within the same fiscal year.

Requests for aid are invited from any community, and communities with FY 1976 requests for federal/state/local funding already on file with the TAC may revise their request in light of the ADAP delay, or confirm by letter.

' And They Crucified Him . . . .

And set up over His head His accusation written: THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

Jesus, when he had cried out again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost .

And behold, the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake and the rocks rent;

Now when the centurion, and they that were with him, watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and those things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Son of God.

And many women were there beholding afar off, which followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto Him:

Among which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joses, and the mother of Zebedee's children. — From St. Matthew

Spring Party Held At Country Club

Mark Anthony and his orchestra performed airy, nimble-fingered music Friday evening during a spring dance at Hereford Country Club.

For the semi-formal dinner dance, the club's entryway featured a garden scene of spring flowers and umbrellas. More spring blossoms were arranged in antique buckets suspended in the main ballroom.

A large bouquet of fresh spring flowers centered the serving table, where dinner guests were offered salads, peppered steak, chicken breast ala crab and shrimp, green peas with fresh mushrooms, parslies, rice and almondine.

Enhancing each quartette table was a basket brimming with seasonal blooms and miniature paper parasols.

Host couple for the evening were Messrs. and Mmes. Charles Springer, Dean Stallings, Bob Renfro, Jerome Friemel, Karl Mannschreck, Alvin Sauter, Ed Allison, Tommy Braddy and Dick Coupe.

Couple Pledges Vows In Twilight Service

Baskets of spring flowers atop pedestals flanked the marriage altar where Miss Lawona Jean Stephenson of Claude and Richard Alan Guynes of Dawn were wed Saturday evening.

The ceremony was read in United Methodist Church at Claude by the Rev. Douglas Gossett, minister. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Stephenson, Claude, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Guynes, Dawn.

Miss Charlynn Williamson served her aunt as maid of honor and Gary Heck assisted as best man.

Ushers included Ronnie Heck and Larry Williamson, the bride's nephew.

In addition to traditional wedding music, Miss Dee Ann Watson of Plainview sang "We've Only Just Begun" and "Wedding Song." Mrs. Olinda Collins, Claude, was the accompanist.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza over bridal taffeta patterned with a shepherdess lace and organza ruching. Adorning the sheer yoke were covered buttons and matching lace.

Sheer organza was styled as full-bishop sleeves, which gathered in deep cuffs with delicate flared lace over her hands. The A-line skirt fell to a double flounce hemline banded by lace. The gown swept to back fullness and chapel train.

Chantilly lace edged her illusion veil, which drifted over the train from a miniature lace coil. Her bridal ensemble included her mother's blue handkerchief and an heirloom brooch belonging to her grandmother. She carried a cascade of white roses bound by white satin streamers.

A slipper-length gown of blue lace was worn by the bridesmaid, who carried a nosegay of blue and white carnations. Her dress was designed with empire waistline and bishop sleeves. Complementing her attire was a white picture hat.

For the reception in the church fellowship hall, the bride's mother arranged white roses and blue forget-me-nots around a glass globe, which sheltered tapers held by crystal candlesticks.

The three-tiered wedding cake was enhanced by blue icing roses. Serving refreshments to guests were Miss Vicki Heck and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Gene Ann Guynes. Others in the house party included the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Nelda Stephenson and the bride's sister, Evelyn Davis.

Guests were registered by the bride's niece, Miss Lisa

Stephenson. For her honeymoon trip, Mrs. Guynes chose to wear a two-piece dark blue knit suit with coordinating blue print blouse. The couple will reside at 819 Irving.

The recent bride is a spring candidate for graduation at West Texas State University, where she is majoring in math education. Her husband is currently employed by Pitts Aero Repair here. He is a graduate of Northrop Institute of Technology at Inglewood, Calif.

Officers Installed At Delta Xi Meeting

Members of the Delta Xi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met at the Hereford Country Club recently for election and installation of officers.

Members also enjoyed a birthday brunch and paid tribute to the organization's founders.

Margaret Bell, president, conducted the business meeting and Mrs. Opal Bookout led the Collect.

Mrs. Audrey Powell gave the treasurer's report and recommended that the chapter pay a portion of the president's expenses in attending the upcoming convention in June.

Mrs. Joe Bradley, program chairman, reported that the May 2, meeting, scheduled for the Heritage Room of the County Library, is to honor charter members and pioneer women teachers.

Miss Phyllis Gerdson announced that Mrs. Pat Hughes was the recipient of the custard glass bell, on which members bought chances. The money was given to Girls Town as a love gift.

Mrs. Rodney Gordon read the tribute to the twelve founders of Delta Kappa Gamma. She told of the dream of Dr. Annie Webb Blanton, and how on May 11, 1929, she called eleven other women together to help her put this dream to work. Miss Phyllis Gerdson, Mrs. Mack Tubbs, Mrs. Edward Dzuik, Jr., Mrs. Clifford Kerr, and Mrs. Bob Hamman assisted with the program.

Eleanor Hudspeth told of the organization of Delta Xi, 20 years ago. Of the members who signed the charter April 21, 1956, there are six who are still members of Delta Xi: Mrs. Hattie Boling, Miss Della Stagner, Miss Erma Walker, Mrs. Eloise McDougal, Mrs. J.J. Durham, and Mrs. Eleanor Hudspeth.

Mrs. Eloise McDougal, ceremonials chairman, aided by Mrs. Charles Bell, Mrs. Joe Bradley, Mrs. Bob Lasiter, Mrs. Roland Hairgrove, and Mrs. Audrey Powell, conducted the installation of the newly-elected officers for the next biennium. They are Mrs. Bob Hamman, president; Mrs. Rodney Gordon, first vice-president; Mrs. Sue Painter, second vice-president; Mrs. Edward Dzuik, recording secretary; and Mrs. Betty Sue Robinson, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Audrey Powell was selected by the new officers as treasurer.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Earl Holt, chairmen, Miss Phyllis Gerdson, Mrs. Marie Stringer, Mrs. Betty Sue Robinson, and Mrs. Clifford Kerr.

How to get along with your new mother-in-law

It's not as bad as it's been "cracked up" to be in this relationship. Remember that she's a person, an individual, much the same as you, and to some extent, she has some priority rights. Because of her seniority alone, she deserves deference and respect, so it's well to put the "problem," if any, in proper perspective. In a very real sense of the word, respect is the name of the game, if you are going to get along with your husband's mother, and she, with you. It works both ways.

You no doubt will find many useful things about your new husband, from his mother. Not the family secrets kind of thing, of course, but you will probably pick up little clues to his character, through ordinary conversations with this lady. You may find out that his gustatory tastes for instance, are not so extravagant, after all. He may have been trying to impress you, all those months. What a relief, these days of "cutting corners"—and who isn't, even if you were born with the proverbial silver spoon in your mouth!

And so it goes. Start now. Make the most of knowing your mother-in-law!

Courtesy Fetes
Miss Sorrells

Miss Debbie Sorrells, bride-elect of Ralph Ellerd of Austin, received a bridal shower Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Paul Harvey, 518 Ave. I. The couple will exchange vows May 1 in First United Methodist Church here.

Forming a receiving line were the honoree, her mother Mrs. J.E. Sorrells, her fiance's grandmother Mrs. George Meyers of Amarillo and Mrs. Harvey. Each was presented a corsage made of small yellow blooms, green ribbon and tiny kitchen utensils.

Centering the serving table was an arrangement of ivy, minute yellow flowers and green ribbon. The table was draped by an Irish linen cloth edged in lace. Cake squares, coffee and punch were served.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Harvey were Mmes. W.J. Lueb, Jack Weaver, Raymond Hughes, Walter London Jr., H.C. Angelo, John E. Hill, Molly Jo Schofield, John Schneider, George Turrentine, Jack Nunley, Gary Cotten, Charlie Brurk, F.A. Marnell and W.W. Gilbreath.

Miss Sorrells was also feted at a pre-nuptial shower Friday evening at Tulsa.

Miss Bradley Honored

Ann Bradley, FHA girl at Hereford High School, was honored with the honorary title of Little Sister by Young Homemakers of Texas. Here, Mrs. Mike Solomon presents the award to the recipient, who will assume her new position this fall.

YHT Little Sister Selected At Tea

Miss Ann Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Bradley, was chosen as 1976-77 Little Sister by Young Homemakers of Texas during a tea Wednesday afternoon at La Plata Junior High School.

Runner-up for the position was Colleen Rudd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rudd.

Miss Bradley, a junior at Hereford High School, will be eligible to compete for the area title in the autumn, when she will begin service as Little Sister to the Hereford YHT chapter.

A gift of appreciation was presented to Ann Zetsche, who is concluding her term as local Little Sister. She is a senior at HHS.

Refreshments were served to tea guests, who included high school FHA students, Mrs. Joe Bradley, Mrs. Frank Prowell, Mrs. R.L. Layman and Mrs. M.T. Burlsmith, YHT advisor.

Spring Program Given

Third grade students at West Central Elementary School presented a program entitled "All On A Spring Day" Friday morning. Kay McMenemy, music director, narrated the program.

Publicity is a dangerous habit; some people make fools of themselves over a little bit of it.

Vacation is not going away from your work; it is getting your work out of your mind.

SALAD TOPPINGS — Homemade croutons are delicious and of course less expensive. Melt 3 tablespoons butter in pan and add 2 cups of 1/2-inch bread cubes without crust. Toss and brown in 350-degree oven for 10 minutes. Sprinkle with your favorite seasoning — garlic powder, herbs, or onion salt.

HARD FREEZE — The best temperature for storing frozen goods is 0 degrees. But not all freezing compartments of one-door refrigerators register this low. If your ice cream does not stay hard, it is not at 0 degrees. Do not keep frozen foods too long at any temperature higher than 0 degrees.

THE HOME GAME BY VIRGINIA TRIJAX

BUNNY TREATS — Decorated sugar cookies tucked in Easter baskets are most colorful and inexpensive. Shape them as eggs, animals, or flowers, then decorate with pastel frosting and Easter candies. To make gumdrop strings, flatten elongated gumdrop with rolling pin, sprinkle with sugar and cut into strips. Use to form bows, borders, or flower stems.

INSTANT COOKIE-CUTTER — You can make your own Easter egg shaped cutter for cookies by bending the end of an empty juice can into an oval egg like shape.

MRS. CLEAN — Friends might accuse you of being Mrs. Clean, but the trick of waxing ashtrays is a real work saver. They wipe clean with a whisk of a paper napkin and stay odor free!

GARDENING NO-NO — You learn something new every day! Don't plant your vegetable garden too near a walnut tree. The toxic substance of the tree is not good for it.

TV COMMENTARY

THE ANNUAL Oscars show was full of rotating star-wheels, zany stage settings and gushing film types, all trying to look glamorous, good-natured and surprised at their award.

BUT IT was a boring performance and most of the film types, when they try to be serious, fall flat. Much of their personality is phony. They're still acting.

BBC programs on educational television are far and away the best such series available. These quiet, informative and interesting programs are not constantly interrupted by commercial pitchmen or housewives lying about products for sale.

TELEVISION was used again for untrue propaganda in the filming of the alleged story of former President Nixon's last days in the White House. This film was based on the controversial and scandalized book by Woodward and Bernstein — which Secretary of State Henry Kissinger called in addition indecent and vulgar.

THE VALACHI PAPERS, recently shown on ABC at nine on Sunday night bested another Kojak rerun on CBS in this view. The Italian-made film was intriguing, based on a true story. The music helped greatly to set the tone.

THE RECENT John Denver and Frank Sinatra special had the appearance of a father and son go

Things your mother never told you—about the nitty gritty aspects of "keeping house"

Quick now — true or false?

- A carpet can hold its own weight in dirt, yet look clean.
- Regular gentle vacuuming helps keep lush, leafy plants healthy and lustrous.
- Failure of an air conditioner resulting from a dirty condenser is usually not covered by the warranty.
- You can demoth closets with a canister vacuum cleaner.

All of these statements are true—but don't throw up your hands in disgust if you flunked this mini-quiz. You probably didn't know the answers because these are just a few of the many things your mother may never have told you about running a house.

With 94 percent of this year's new brides planning to work full or part time, according to a Bride's Magazine survey, and the plethora of modern convenience cleaning tools available, housework is being relegated to part-time status.

That's why it's more important than ever before to know all about your home: how to keep it sparkling and running smoothly with a minimum of effort.

Did your mother tell you what can be your best home care helpmate? No?

Well, how about a vacuum cleaner? Many women consider it their most important home care ally; it's found in 97 percent of all households.

Sure, you know all about vacuums from watching your mother, but say experts at the Eureka Home Care Institute, today's vacuum is a very different appliance from that old vacuum mom contended with.

The contemporary vacuum cleaner is an all-purpose time and energy saver that quickly and thoroughly cleans not only carpets and furniture, but everything from leafy plants to dirty air conditioner condensers.

INSIDE TV

TV REPORT--CARROLL O'CONNOR says the kiddies' hour will force Archie Bunker to play to a new audience -- the kids just couldn't take the reality of "All In The Family." The show was moved from its 8 P.M. Saturday time slot to 9 P.M. Monday, in accordance with TV's new purity hour policy. "I assure the 8-9 time slot is the purity policy," confides the actor, although the network denies the charge. "I don't think we could keep the show the kind that it is in the 8-9 time. If Archie can't say 'What the hell is this?' as he sits down to eat, he isn't Archie." Carroll O'Connor is quick to point out that even last year the number of "hells" his character could use was drastically reduced. "Some of the shows we've done in the past wouldn't be possible at the 8 P.M. time now that they've changed it to the children's hour. I think the move is better for the content of our show, I don't think it will affect our ratings," said O'Connor. "They may be affected by natural attrition. We've been on for five seasons and how long can a series run"... BURT LANCASTER still figures when he thinks of himself as "Moses: The Lawgiver" on television this past summer which was viewed when half the nation was away on vacation. The veteran actor's reasons for his disappointment and annoyance are two-fold. First of all, Burt saw his portrayal of Moses as being the high point in his 30-year career. And secondly, he felt so many people were deprived of seeing the $5-million epic film which was offered by CBS-TV as a summer replacement for the "Carol Burnett Show."

But a most unusual cancer patient is her husband, BILL PUTCH. So unusual, in fact, that he simply refuses to die. And he's still alive and vigorous seven years after doctors told him he had cancer of the lymph glands. There appears to be no explanation besides the power of thinking. "Bill and I are strong-willed," Miss Stapleton told me. "We said we weren't going to let the disease lick us. Through all the pain, through all the endless doctors' visits, hospital visits and tests, we've maintained an air of optimism. That's how we're licking the cancer. We're not giving in to it. We haven't given up on life."

TV BACKSTAGE--ANDY GRIFFITH, who once made audiences laugh with his zany antics on TV and in films, has turned serious actor and critics say he's as good in a drama as he was in comedy. He plays a down-on-his-luck movie cowboy in "Hearts of the West," a movie about Depression-era Hollywood which also stars ALAN ARKIN, JEFF BRIDGES and DONALD PLEASANCE.

RAMBLING ROUND TV-LAND--It's a story that would bring tears of admiration even to the eyes of Archie Bunker. For Archie's wife, Edith, played by JEAN STAPLETON, is in real life married to a man who has cancer.

Candlelight Wedding Unites Couple Here

Miss Claudia Michele Melugin and Roger Dale Bradley of Ft. Gordon, Ga., were married Tuesday evening in Grace Gospel Church by the Rev. Jim Gilliam, pastor.

The bride, a graduate of Hereford High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Melugin, 543 Willow Lane. The bridegroom, who is now serving in the U.S. Army, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradley of Webb City, Mo.

Matching branched candelabra flanked the altar for the ceremony. Mingled with the lighted tapers were white blossoms and greenery.

Burl Davis served his brother-in-law as best man while the bride was attended by Miss Sherrill Feagley.

Escorting guests to their seats in the sanctuary were the bride's brother, Greg Melugin, and Randy Williams.

The wedding candles were lighted by the bride's sister, April Melugin, and her cousin, Debra Melugin.

Miss Mindy Mason sang "Love Story" during the service with Donna Newton accompanying.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown styled with empire waistline and tiered lace skirt. She carried a bouquet of red carnations and babybreath, wearing her grandmother's pearls.

The bridesmaid wore a pale blue gown with tiered skirt and sapphire blue velvet belt.

enhanced by blue frosting roses and the traditional bride and groom figurines.

The bride's sister, Miss Pam Melugin poured coffee while Miss Feagley served cake. Also assisting was Mrs. Jim Gilliam. Miss Mason presided at the guest registry.

The newlywed couple departed for their honeymoon trip to Georgia, where they will reside.

A CHICKEN SANDWICH THAT'S WORTH $10,000—Chicken 'n Swiss Extraordinaire made Mrs. Carolyn Graefe of Council, Idaho, the grand prize winner in the recent National Chicken Cooking Contest, sponsored in Texas by the Broiler Council and the Texas Department of Agriculture. An open-face sandwich of chicken breasts and Swiss cheese, this dish makes a fine brunch or luncheon entree.

CHICKEN 'N SWISS EXTRAORDINAIRE

- 3 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, skinned and boned
- 1 tsp. flavor enhancer
- 1/4 c. flour
- 1/4 c. corn oil
- 6 thick slices French bread
- 6 slices Swiss cheese
- 1 T. butter
- 1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced
- 2/3 c. white wine

- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper

Sprinkle chicken with flavor enhancer. Roll in flour. Heat corn oil in fry pan over medium heat. Add chicken and brown on all sides. Reduce heat; cover tightly and cook about 10 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Place bread, topped with cheese slices on baking sheet. Heat in 200-degree oven while preparing mushrooms. Remove chicken from fry pan. Add butter to fry pan; add mushrooms and saute over low heat about 3 minutes. Push mushrooms aside; add wine and stir to loosen browned bits. Add salt and pepper. Return chicken to fry pan and simmer until sauce is slightly thickened. (Sauce may be thickened with a bit of flour if desired.) Place chicken piece on top of each bread slice and spoon mushrooms and sauce over chicken. Makes 6 servings.

For additional Chicken recipes write Texas Department of Agriculture, John C. White, Commissioner, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Tex. 78711.

by H. BOSWELL YORK, R. PH.

Are there any drugs which are used specifically on people who undergo heart or kidney transplants? -- M.B. Yes, they are called immunosuppressive drugs. The transplant triggers a chemical war in the body. These drugs are designed to suppress the chemical reactions.

I have heard that acupuncture may not always be helpful but is it ever harmful? -- N.P.

No. Harm results when people seek help from acupuncture "quacks." Many people seek relief through acupuncture on the recommendations of friends, newspaper articles or other information sources. Not all acupuncture clinics are adequately staffed with medical personnel for physical evaluation of all patients before treatment. Clinics of this type have caused serious injury to people by improper insertion of needles, inappropriate therapy and ignoring the lack of improvement. If you think acupuncture may benefit you, let your personal physician refer you to a reputable clinic. Then and only then will you be safe.

What would happen if I didn't use cleaning solution regularly on my contact lenses? -- M.M.

You may end up with one or two red eyeballs. Contamination collects on contact lenses just like every place else. If it isn't removed, your lenses will impair your vision, irritate your eyes and trap bacteria, which could lead to infection.

Is it true that bath oil capsules are just as effective as a liquid bath oil? -- J.F. They should be. Bath oil capsules are usually gelatin capsules containing bath oil. When immersed in water, the gelatin dissolves and releases the bath oil. Their effectiveness depends upon the quality of the bath oil and quantity in each capsule.

What drug is good for high blood pressure? -- K.D. The medicine best for you will depend on the severity of your disease plus the way your unique body chemistry reacts to the medicine your physician prescribes. Each patient is treated differently.

Comings And Goings At Kings Manor

By Mrs. Fay Gauggel
Mrs. Jane Bickley and Mrs. Don Davidson visited friends and relatives in Lubbock last Sunday and Monday.

Bud to Blossom group) had lunch with us at the Manor. They were Wilma Bryant, Cora Gentry and Joan Howell. Mrs. Howell is a state officer of the club and lives in Lubbock.

praying. Mrs. Dorothy Zimmerman compared the lives of Jeremiah and Christ. Both were sanctified from conception, as being chosen by God for His service; their home backgrounds were alike; both suffered and both could have been considered failures at the time of their deaths. Now both immortal in glory.

Stars. These were teary-eyed reminders of our own youthful glorious quests. Principal, Poindexter and W.G. Gentzel were in the wings supplying moral support and approbation.

The program concluded with "God Bless America" which grew a bit louder and more crescendo as it worked on to the climax (all stops out). We all jerked our minds from the ethereal down to Lamar Memorial Garden Room and mingled with the crowd inspired and thrilled beyond measure.

Much Herculean labor had gone into this production but how good it was for us all. We kept asking ourselves (yes, the children had asked over and over) "Where, oh where except in America could such a program have been staged."

Thanks to youngsters and coaches alike. The performance was surely a thrilling success.

WESTGATE NEWS By Mrs. Bea Noland

Monday's sewing class was a special time as the residents recalled memories of the past when they use to quilt for their families and for the communities. We did not quilt, but we did tuck a quilt which was more fun for all and we had as many different ideas as we had people as how to tuck a quilt.

In crafts Wednesday the residents had a happy afternoon making bunny rabbits, which really did not hop but was realistic enough too. The ladies coming to help in crafts were Edith Hunter, Jewell Hargraves and Ruth Gandy. The Park Avenue Florist furnished artificial flowers to be used in crafts.

Thursday morning the group from the First Baptist Church finished their study, as they have been coming during the month of March. The study was led by Mrs. Clint Formby.

Her opening words were "penny for your thoughts" then she gave bible references as what the bible teaches about our thoughts and how we should use our minds. Mrs. Calla Mountz led the group in singing and then sang a beautiful solo "Pearly White City." She was accompanied by Mrs. Sam Long. Other visitors were Mrs. Louis Le mons that has planned each program for March, and Mrs. Doris Hair.

Mrs. Carl Frishe and Mrs. Carolyn Fry - we thank you for the quilt scraps. Mrs. Kenneth DeHart and Mrs. Betzen were in Thursday a.m. with their sunshine smiles and the shopping cart.

Thursday afternoon our fun afternoon, was spent playing dominoes, forty-two and chinese checkers.

Mrs. Robbins and Mrs. Owen Andrews came in and played with the residents.

A good time was had by all that attended the bingo party Monday evening. This was a money making project that the Auxiliary ladies had for the Westgates curtain projects.

Thank you ladies of the Auxiliary and also to the people that came and played for our concern.

Saturday afternoon was fourth Saturday and the time for the once a month tea party. This party was well attended with Miss Stagner, Mrs. Harold Close, Mrs. Dorothy Renfro, Mrs. Calla Mountz, Mrs. Alton Frazier, Mrs. Gladys Setliff, Mrs. Ellen Patterson and Mrs. Lola Jewell.

The residents have been enjoying The Hereford Brand compliments of Harold Close Drug.

Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Huntley, Mrs. Boardman, Mrs. Lippard and Mrs. Hewitt attended Alice Ward Circle at the Manor Wednesday morning.

Thursday morning Mrs. Tinnin and Mrs. Hennen came with the shopping cart and their sunshine smiles. The Dawn Baptist Church was represented by two of their members in an unusual bible study Thursday morning. Mrs. Glenna Hinger sang and read from the "Alleluia Chorus," and was accompanied by Mrs. Pat Nelson. Mrs. Sally Reynolds of Amarillo was a visitor. The residents are looking forward, to each Thursday morning in April if this introduction program compares to the programs to be continued.

Mrs. Ruby Hewitt, Mrs. Emma Payne, Mrs. Marie

Huntley traveled to Happy with Bea Noland Thursday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Virgil Toles. Mrs. Toles had been a resident of Westgate for a number of years and was active in crafts, although she was in a wheel chair she was very busy with her hands. She was known for her cunning socks dolls and her beautiful China dolls. She always attended Crafts and also spent many hours in her room with her crafts.

The Wilder Wing had a new look this week, was Mrs. Gandy, Mrs. Fisher, and Mrs. Parson came and finished hanging curtains. The auxiliary ladies have been making these curtains and we do appreciate all of the work the Auxiliary does to make our home look so much nicer.

Sorry we missed last weeks report, we will try to do better.

We have so many thoughtful people in Hereford helping in so many ways if we fail to report, please forgive for we do appreciate all of you.

The battle of Monmouth Courthouse, near Philadelphia, in June 1778, was a long and hard one, made even more difficult by the very hot weather. Casualties on both sides from sunstroke and heat prostration were almost as severe as those from gunshot wounds. As General Washington did his best to keep his troop's morale up, a 22-year-old woman dodged cannon and musket fire to take water to the fighting men who included her husband. After the battle, Washington heard of her bravery and gave her a warrant as a noncommissioned officer. Who was this lady? Molly Pitcher.

Do's and Don't's

A guide to using color

Color can work a wonderful transformation in any room — especially when you follow some of the basic rules that have been discovered about its use. Here are "Color Do's and Don't's" to guide you:
DO USE LIGHT COLORS in a small room to create an impression of greater size.
DON'T USE TOO MUCH pattern, in any room. This can be distracting and tiring.
DO PUT EMPHASIS on warm reds and yellows in rooms that are windowless or face toward the north-east.
DON'T USE BRIGHT COLOR in large areas, as this will detract from the furnishings.
DO HAVE CONTINUING COLOR flow through the house, and use harmonious colors in rooms that adjoin.
DON'T USE TOO MANY cool blue hues in a north-east room or it will seem to be cooler.
DO MIX LIGHT AND DEEP colors in each room.
DON'T USE TOO MUCH red or yellow in a south-west room with large windows, or it will seem warmer.

VISITORS TO MANOR

On Sunday, the Aldersgate S.S. Class of Asbury Church, Lubbock, made up of men and women, met at King's Manor for lunch. Our own Zona Smith and Jane Bickley have been members of the class for years. And Dr. Davidson and wife pastored there several years ago.

Those who attended were about 14 in number. What a reunion took place and what pleasant fellowship was enjoyed. Snapshots were taken of the group.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN MEETING

The U.M.W. held their fifth meeting on the study of the prophets in Lamar Memorial Garden Room March 31st.

Mrs. Cox made announcements concerning United Church Women's honoring the Rev. Gene Brink.

Brother Jordan Grooms assisted Mrs. Grooms by leading us in a song he had on a recorder. It was written by Dr. F.R. Montague who is a personal friend of Dr. Grooms. Taken from the life of the Prophet Jeremiah, it described the weeping prophet; was entitled "If you'll only answer Me. It ended thus: "I will write my law withing their hearts; my spirit shall be theirs. I shall dwell within their hearts and then they shall answer me."

Helen Langley introduced Jeremiah who was born just outside Jerusalem and prophesied in Judea. She spoke of his sorrows, his imprisonment, his relations to Zedekiah and his lonely life. (God had instructed him not to marry). Mrs. Langley stated that Jeremiah set his eyes on God, and held on to this vision.

Mrs. Grooms then spoke refuting Jeremiah's being a prophet of doom alone, saying that out of tragedy he came to have hope always. To prove his optimism he once bought a piece of land and buried deep his title to the land as proof that he depended on the future. To those in exile, Jeremiah gave advice such as building homes, living Godly lives and hope far all who were faithful.

Carol Armor spoke on Jeremiah as "The Father of Prayer". She expressed her own philosophies of effective

The program included some songs led by Sue Sims and accompanied by Mrs. McCracken. Our Ministerial Alliance is often called on for money to help needy people. A fund for such has been called the Good Samaritan. Our group apparently took a sizable amount toward the "Good Samaritan" cause.

The Public Schools of Hereford! They've done it again. What have they done? Why they've chalked up another "super duper" Bicentennial pageant. This time it was the Aikman fifth graders-about 100 youngsters. Mr. Poindexter is principal. Mrs. John Latham was at the piano and was assisted by Mrs. Murleen Streun.

They began with a number of patriotic songs. They named quickly the states in alphabetical order, the Presidents in chronological order, founding fathers, outstanding battles, of American Revolution. Most of them displayed appropriate posters as they sang. They repeated and explained the meaning of the following in phrases on clauses: each child speaking in the mike. The Bill of Rights, Constitution of the U.S. and, Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

They sang the familiar "To Dream the Impossible Dream" and "To Reach the Unreachable

Resistant Sorghum Should Yield Well

Lubbock—Producers who use greenbug resistant sorghum hybrids this crop season can fully expect "good to excellent" yields even in the presence of greenbug infestations, provided production circumstances are normal.

This conclusion comes from evaluations last season of greenbug resistant sorghums tested on Deaf Smith and Hale County farms, and from four years of observations throughout the Great Plains from Texas to Nebraska.

Dr. Jerry W. Johnson, sorghum breeder for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, released the results this week, citing Texas High Plains sorghum producers for their contributions to research which led to the rapid development of the greenbug resistant hybrids. With these hybrids on the market for the first time this year, he added, producers who use them can expect lower greenbug populations, sustained yields even with greenbug infestation, and agronomic characteristics at least equal to susceptible hybrids.

"Greenbug resistant hybrids will save Texas sorghum producers millions of dollars in insecticide costs and lower yields caused by the greenbug," Johnson said.

"Greenbug resistance has now been incorporated into hybrids that are indistinguishable from susceptible hybrids in the absence of greenbugs," Johnson said, "but which can produce a 600 percent increase in grain yield when the greenbug population is large." Johnson said breeding efforts to incorporate greenbug resistance into sorghum hybrids acceptable to producers was begun in 1969 by Experiment Station personnel and other public and private researchers. Since then, Experiment Station scientists have reared millions of greenbugs in the greenhouse and thousands of breeding lines have been evaluated for resistance in the greenhouse and in the field.

In the past four years, he added, greenbug resistant hybrids have been tested throughout the Great Plains from Texas to Nebraska. Observations during this time have caused cautious optimism among sorghum breeders about hybrids that contain greenbug resistance derived from the three lines—Tunis Grass (PI 38108), IS809 and PI 264453. Among these observations were the following:

Greenbugs are present on greenbug resistant hybrids but at one-third to one-half the numbers found on susceptible hybrids.

Beneficial insects remove the greenbugs from resistant hybrids earlier in the season than from susceptible hybrids.

Greenbug resistant sorghums can be damaged by greenbugs but it takes a large number of greenbugs feeding for a longer period of time on resistant sorghums to cause the same yield loss on susceptible sorghum hybrids.

Greenbug resistance in sorghum has no adverse effects on grain yield, quality or other important agronomic characteristics of the hybrid.

In 1975 yield trials where greenbugs were controlled, resistant hybrids produced grain yield equal to standard commercial hybrids (over 7500 pounds per acre). Johnson reported. However, in Deaf Smith and Hale County tests where greenbugs were not controllable with insecticides, resistant hybrids produced seven times as much grain as susceptible hybrids (600 pounds per acre for nonresistant hybrids compared to 4500 pounds per acre for resistant hybrids) in Deaf Smith County, and over two times as much grain in Hale County (3700 pounds for the susceptible compared to 6100 pounds for the resistant hybrids.)

Breeding and evaluation studies conducted by Experiment Station personnel in greenbug resistance have been aided by a research grant from the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board.

"Most sorghum producers on the Texas High Plains can take pride in the fact that they have had a direct input into the availability of greenbug resistant hybrids when they participated in the check-off program," Johnson said.

"These producers will receive a return on their investment many fold."

Lofgreen To Speak At Beef Conference

The lead speaker for this year's Texas Beef Conference in Amarillo's Villa Inn is Dr. Glen Lofgreen, a member of the University of California cattle research organization and nationally-recognized beef feeding expert. The conference will be held on April 29.

During the day-long meeting, experts in the cattle industry like Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of the West Texas State University school of agriculture and Dr. Max Lennon, head of the Texas Tech department of animal science will present crystal ball perspectives of last year's and the coming year's beef industry. They will be followed by various representatives of the beef industry who will talk about developments in retailing, packing, feeding, cow-calf production and grading services.

The afternoon session will include reviews of research being done at WTSU, Tech and Texas A&M, three of the eight co-sponsors of the fourth annual conference.

The annual T-Bone Club dinner will highlight the day. Allan Grant, the new president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be the featured speaker for the affair.

Palmer Warns Of Demise Of Family Farms In U.S.

"Unless something is done to change our federal and state estate taxes, the family farm will become a vanished specie."

This call for a revision in estate tax laws came from Lane Palmer of Philadelphia, editor of Farm Journal, during the second day of Agricultural Centennial Week April 5-9 at Texas A&M University.

The farm magazine editor pointed out that "rank discrimination against farm widows, our hopelessly outdated level of estate tax exemptions, and an Internal Revenue Service provision which forces settlement of estate taxes within nine months after death are forcing hundreds of family farms right out of existence."

Palmer also said that a proposal by Senator Edward Kennedy and others to levy a high capital gains tax at death of the surviving spouse would leave very little for children to inherit.

Calling estate taxes the "widow's tax," Palmer noted that the estate tax reform issue was actually brought to the forefront by an article in Farm Journal last September. Referring to the plight of a number of farmers' widows as a result of estate tax laws, the editor said that estate tax reform has become the No. 1 issue on Capitol Hill this spring. Palmer called for both an increase in the $60,000 personal exemption that a widow can claim on the farm estate along with assessing farm land for its farming value rather than its development value.

He said that while the $60,000 exemption looks about right to the labor union member whose estate consists mostly of a car and home, it's simply not enough when looking at a sizeable farm with land valued at $2,000 an acre. A bill before Congress has the exemption level at $200,000.

"To help overcome estate tax problems, one thing a farm wife can do is to document her contributions to capitalization of the farm so that in event of her husband's death, she has proof that she helped operate and finance the business and was therefore a true business partner. Of course, Congress could simplify the whole thing by changing the federal law to treat joint tenancy the same as tenancy in common for estate tax purposes. That way, no matter which spouse died first, only half the estate would be taxable," said Palmer.

At the current rate of inflation, estate taxes are bound to become increasingly confiscatory, he emphasized. "If estate taxes stay on their present course and if Senator Kennedy's proposal on capital gains at death becomes law, you could see the value of a farm erode by more than half in passing it from one generation to the next."

To avoid this, the editor suggested two courses of action for farm families: (1) Form a corporation and distribute shares to the children ahead of time; (2) Form a legal partnership which will guarantee that half of the farm belongs to the wife.

Another speaker, Ed Wheeler of Washington, D.C., who is president of the National Fertilizer Institute, said that fertilizer will continue to be a key source of energy as far as food production is concerned in the years ahead. He noted that the future will bring a great sophistication in chemical products and that use of these products will continue to increase to meet the growing demands for food by an expanding world population.

Looking at the future, Wheeler viewed such things as genetic breakthroughs that would allow plants to fix their own nitrogen and sea water conversion plants that would alleviate a shortage of potash and phosphorus that is developing.

"The future of American agriculture boggles the imagination," Wheeler added. "With the increasing need for more food to feed a hungry world, young farmers today are the key to this nation's future."

Hog Outlook Bright But Caution Needed

For hog producers 1976 should be a profitable year is they don't get overzealous and expand operations too quickly. That's how the hog picture looks to Dr. Ernest Davis, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Hog prices should continue strong during most of the year due mainly to a continued shortage of pork supplies. "Pork supplies per person in the United States last year were the lowest since 1935," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist. "This caused market prices to reach an average record of $48.32 per hundredweight, more than $8 above the record level set in 1973."

For the first half of 1976, Davis estimates pork supplies to run 9 to 10 per cent below the same period a year ago. However, increased farrowings during this period could boost pork supplies for the second half of the year as much as 16 per cent above those of the second half of 1975.

"Producers can expect to see market barrow and gilt prices average near the $46 to $48 per hundredweight level during the first half of the year," believes the specialist. "But prices will probably drop off during the second half of 1976 and average in the $40 to $42 range during the last quarter."

"All in all, 1976 should be good year for those in the hog business if expansion doesn't occur too quickly," contends Davis.

Approximately 10 percent of all fatal accidents caused by contact with overhead power lines occur on the farm.

Yankee Women Hired To Save Crops

Harvesting their crop before bad weather has always been a problem for cotton farmers. One resourceful Mississippi County, Ark., planter—beset by a shortage of labor during the last year of the Civil War—solved his problem by hiring Yankee women cotton pickers.

According to a diary kept by Edward Palmer, a representative of the Smithsonian who visited Arkansas in the 1880's to study Indian Mounds, the planter was Dr. F. G. McGavock of Pecan Point.

With cotton selling at $1.40 to $1.80 a pound, the Arkansas doctor was understandably anxious to get his crop harvested. So he made a trip to Castle Garden, N.Y., where he hired 86 Irish girls to save his crop—promising to pay them $20 a month plus room and board.

A flood came before all of the cotton was harvested, however, and the doctor promised each girl a new balmoral—a woolen petticoat—and a pair of shoes if all the cotton were pulled up and saved.

So appealing was the Scotsman's offer that the girls went to work—four on each side of a row—pulling the cotton, loading it on a wagon, and taking it to a dry place for storage.

McGavock's scheme worked, but an 1860's wave of women's liberation soon set in.

CowBelle Beef Bits

Presented By The Hereford CowBelles

TEXAS COWBELLES are currently calling for an immediate letter writing campaign to congressmen stressing support of the original House Bill 7656, the Beef Research and Information Act.

The bill is due to come out of committee in the near future, and the state organization is urging all of its members and all interested persons to encourage the writing of letters in support of the bill.

Included in H.R. 7656 are the following:

Enabling legislation for cattlemen to conduct a referendum on whether producers favor a uniform collection for research, consumer information, producer information, promotion and market development.

Consumer information is defined in the bill as facts, data and other information that will assist consumers and other persons in making evaluations and decisions regarding the purchasing, preparation and utilization of beef and beef products.

PRODUCER INFORMATION is defined in the bill as facts, data and other information that will assist producers in making decisions that lead to increased efficiency, lower cost of production, a stable supply of cattle, and the development of new markets.

The program is voluntary in that a producer may, upon request, obtain a refund.

Administration of funds will be by a 68 member beef board comprised of cattlemen nominated by existing cattlemen's organizations and appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

The beef board will contract with other organizations or institutions (National Livestock and Meat Board, UDIA, state beef councils, universities, private agencies, etc.) for special projects, programs or research.

EMPHASIZED in the program will be consumer education on purchasing knowledge, nutrition, beef economics, research on nutrition, health, marketing, production, new beef products, improved merchandising methods, reduced cost of production and other items.

Since the government will be reimbursed by producers for the cost of the referendum (unless the referendum fails) and any administrative expenses, there will be no cost to the government.

Development of the plan was by a Beef Development Task Force, comprised of 15 cattle industry leaders representing the American National Cattlemen's Association, National Livestock Feeders Association, National Live Stock & Meat Board, United Dairy Industry Association, Competitive Livestock Marketing Association, Central Public Markets and the American National CowBelles.

The Beef Research and Information Act has broad and industry support, including endorsement by 11 national beef and dairy organizations, 10 national breed associations, 39 state cattlemen's associations and 16 state beef councils.

Research Seeks Better Harvest Equipment

Designing new mechanical harvesters or improving the performance of existing models are constant challenges for agricultural engineers with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the Texas A&M University System.

"Improving efficiency of our earlier designs, or going to the drawing board and designing a new labor-saving unit needed for a major crop harvest in Texas requires the best planning possible," says W.H. Aldred, Experiment Station farm machinery scientist.

Often, he adds, it takes only some slight modification of the original design to have a much more efficient piece of equipment for Texas agricultural producers.

Aldred is presently working on six major design projects.

"These include an onion harvester; a harvester for fresh peaches that will not damage the fruit; a system for applying cotton desiccants; a harvesting system and prototype equipment for harvesting green sugarcane, and storage procedures for pecans," he explains.

A system engineering approach is being used for the design and development of equipment for mechanization of onion harvesting, handling and conditioning, Aldred emphasizes. Prototype harvesting and conditioning equipment have been designed and constructed, and are presently undergoing operational tests.

"Our peach project involves development of equipment for mechanically harvesting Texas peaches for the fresh fruit market and the development of mechanized systems for handling the fresh fruit from the field to the consumer with minimum reduction in quality. Efforts are directed toward determining physical properties of peaches and the conditions to which they may be subjected when processed through a mechanical harvesting system," explains the research project leader.

In regard to citrus, Aldred is concerned with the design, development and evaluation of equipment of retrieving grapefruit and oranges after they have been removed from citrus trees. "Additional effort also is directed toward developing a reliable procedure for reducing the force required to remove citrus from trees," he said.

The pecan project concerns determining the effects of conditioning and storage procedures on pecan flavor, kernel color, mold development, free fatty acid and aflatoxin. Objectives also include development of a sampling procedure and determination of sample size required for grade determination, Aldred, the project leader, explains.

In 1975, the agricultural engineer and his co-workers added a project on the design, construction and evaluation of a system for applying desiccants to cotton without spraying, thus reducing air pollution from spray drift and having the potential for reducing chemical residues in cotton gin trash.

Also initiated recently was a project to develop procedure and to design and construct equipment for mechanically harvesting green sugarcane without burning its leaves.

"This project is supported in part by a grant from the Rio Grande Valley Sugar Growers, Inc.," adds Aldred, who is co-project leader.

Previous research by Aldred and his co-workers led to the development of principles for mechanically harvesting pecans and the development of a prototype machine.

Still other research by the scientists led to the design and development of equipment which removed foreign materials from mechanically harvested pecans.

"The experimental equipment performed according to expectations in field tests. Research results have enabled two companies in Texas to begin manufacturing pecan harvesting and cleaning equipment. Also, principles developed have been utilized by companies in other states. Presently, about 50 per cent of Texas pecans are mechanically harvested," says Aldred.

Besides his research with the Experiment Station, Aldred has taught since 1957 in the Department of Agricultural Engineering. In 20 years of teaching, he has conducted approximately 150 different sections of undergraduate courses and participated in the research design for numerous master's theses and Ph.D. dissertations.

Aldred, a native of Thomson, Georgia, has B.S. and M.S. degrees in agricultural engineering, and has done post-master's study at Texas A&M.

Before coming to A&M, Aldred was an instructor at New Mexico State University, at Las Cruces.

As a result of his outstanding research and teaching programs, Aldred will be promoted to Associate Professor, effective next September.

A Registered Professional Engineer, Aldred holds membership in many professional societies, has served on professional committees of the societies, and numerous A&M Councils and committees.

Food Diplomacy To Determine Ag Policy

An increased role of international food and diplomatic considerations—as well as consumer involvement in policy-making—foretells the future of agricultural policy, according to a Texas A&M University agricultural economist.

Dr. Ronald D. Knutson, economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, made the 10-following specific predictions during A&M's Agricultural Centennial Symposium:

The trend away from commodity programs will continue, with the end now in sight for the peanut, tobacco, and long staple cotton programs.

There will be less willingness to provide price support for farmers in the event of overproduction.

A program of strategic grain reserves will be established, regardless of whether other countries participate or producers want it.

Government involvement in export markets is likely. Export guidelines and licensing will be substituted for embargoes.

There will be no government intervention in a trend toward integrated agriculture.

Commercial sales and technical assistance will take precedence over direct international food aid, except in emergencies.

Consumers will become more involved in food policy decisions.

Food stamp and school lunch programs will continue to grow, and will remain in the Department of Agriculture.

Concerns about the environment, safety, and food quality will continue to bring increases in regulation of production, processing and distribution functions, and will result in increased food costs.

Farm labor organization will come under the National Labor Relations Board, or similar state regulations.

"Producers will be more subject to market prices. Public policy decisions will be made less on the basis of the producer interest. Producers will seek means such as contracting, cooperatives, and vertical integration to protect themselves from the resulting market risk," Knutson said.

To forestall these predictions, Knutson said "producers will need to speak with greater unity. Commodity and general farm organizations will need to speak with one voice. It seems unlikely that this will happen."

Another speaker, John Anderson, vice president for manufacturing and production with Farmland Industries, said that the American public will need to change its general attitude about energy consumption in the months ahead.

"There will need to be more conservation of energy by everyone during the next decade as new sources of energy are being explored and developed. And costs of energy will continue to increase," said Anderson, who is from Kansas City.

He said the average citizen today is apathetic about energy conservation, and that this attitude will need to be changed.

Anderson pointed out that the American farmer is a converter of energy from one form to another, rather than a waster of energy. About 3 percent of the total U.S. energy consumed goes for producing food, while transportation of that food to market uses a much larger chunk of the energy supply.

Stock Up On Beef, Shoppers Advised

If you're after a bargain at the supermarket—and who isn't buy a supply of beef this week. Stock up, fill your freezer, get ready for the barbecue season, because beef is likely to be higher priced during the summer months, according to information provided by the Texas Cattle Feeders Association (TCFA).

In mid-January, the average price of choice beef stood at $1.48 per pound, but this week, the average price of choice beef dropped to a low of $1.31 per pound—a 13 per cent reduction in price.

Why the sudden drop in price? "Cattle slaughter during the first quarter of 1976 is 11 per cent above last year and calf slaughter is running 25 per cent ahead of last year," says Jim Gill, market analyst for TCFA.

But things don't look as rosy for the consumer during the second quarter of the year (April-June). "Fed cattle marketings during the second quarter will be sharply lower than the first quarter of this year," Gill added.

Why? "Placements in feedyards last fall and winter dropped as much as 25 per cent to 30 per cent. Also fewer cows and calves will be moving to slaughter as pastures begin to 'green up' and provide grazing," Gill says.

What about competition from other meat? Won't they bring the price of beef down? "Not likely," Gill explains. Pork production is nearing the last year's level, but is not likely to show any added increases until next fall. Thus, there will not be any increased competition from pork during the second quarter of this year."

Gill says there will be less beef on the market in the next few months and prices will begin a gradual upturn this week.

So, now is the time to stock your freezer with choice beef before prices begin their upward trend. "Beef prices may now have reached their low point for the entire year," Gill added.

Henry Was No Ford

Today's cotton industry would be quite different, if two devices patented by a Mobile, Ala., cotton broker and merchant had proved successful.

In 1855, George G. Henry designed a machine with which he hoped both to pick and spin cotton into yarn on Southern farms. The device attracted much attention, reports the National Cotton Council, but Henry was unable to build a workable machine.

Two years later, he patented and offered for sale a combination gin and spinning machine which he called a "mechanical marvel."

It won a silver medal at American Institute's annual fair in New York in 1857, but the Civil War prevented much use of the machine. Little interest was shown in Henry's device after the war, as Southerners began textile mill development.

For Rent

You're doing without a Zimmatic center pivot. Saving your hard-earned capital for other improvements. Don't want to borrow right now. But it's costing you money every year you wait. Two ways. First, you're losing the extra crop production you get under irrigation. Second, inflation is at work. Boosting prices, dropping the value of your dollars. Why not rent a Zimmatic under our new lease plan? Let the system pay for itself and put some extra money in the bank for you at the same time. Our rates are reasonable. You can include freight, installation, pump other "above ground" items in one flexible package, tailored to your needs. Why wait to irrigate? It's just costing you money. Call us today for details on our new lease plan.

Narrow Row Spacing Helps Widen Profit

Narrow row spacing can make for wide profit margins by increasing yields of dryland grain sorghum 15 to 20 percent, a U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) study shows.

Narrow row spacing of sorghum provides an earlier and more complete leaf canopy than conventional spacing. This leaf canopy intercepts more sunlight and rainfall, increases water intake by the soil, and reduces evaporation. Soil water measurements taken during and at the end of the growing season showed no significant difference in soil water content between narrow and conventional row spacing. This suggests that sorghum planted in closer rows uses water more efficiently than sorghum planted in conventional rows.

Spacing sorghum in 27 to 30 inch rows instead of the usual 40 inch rows increased the value of the yield approximately $30.00 per acre in the Central Texas study. Moreover, narrow row spacing involved no additional production costs, and was accomplished with only conventional farming equipment.

The study was conducted by USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS) soil scientists

Cotton Farmers Cautious; '76 Planting to Drop 10%

AUSTIN—Planting of one of the state's major crops, cotton, officially began in the Rio Grande Valley February 1, but Texas farmers apparently are not going to increase acreage drastically. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimates there will be only a 10 percent increase in acreage this year, lower than some observers had expected.

"Farmers are looking very closely at costs of production this year as well as the world market. Costs have become so high they cannot afford to gamble as they have in previous years," Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

John E. Adams, Joe T. Ritchie, and Earl Burnett, and agricultural engineer Clarence W. Richardson in cooperation with agricultural engineer Gerald F. Arkin of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Temple.

The research team found that besides increasing crop yield and conserving water, narrow row spacing cut down soil erosion significantly by reducing runoff.

Candidates To Address Session Of FB

Waco—A state-wide conference of county Farm Bureau presidents April 14-16 in Waco will feature an address by the new president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and a measure-the-candidate session involving four candidates for U.S. Senator in the May primaries.

AFBF President Allan Grant of Visalia, California, will speak on "Issues Confronting Agricultural Leaders" at a dinner meeting opening the three-day conference, Wednesday, April 14, at the Holiday Inn 1-35. The presidents of the 210 organized county Farm Bureaus have been invited.

Candidates scheduled to appear at the measure-the-candidates session Friday morning, April 16, are Senator Lloyd Bentsen, Democrat of Houston; Phillip Gramm, Democrat of College Station; Louis Leman, Republican of Crosby; and Congressman Alan Steelman, Republican of Dallas.

These four, along with three other Democrats and one Republican, are candidates for their respective Party's nomination for the U.S. Senate in May 1 primaries. All candidates were invited to appear on the Farm Bureau program.

The April 15 morning session will feature a discussion of state issues by Pat Smith, Austin, TFB state affairs director; and an explanation of Councils of Government by Bill Wedemeyer, Waco, TFB director of research and education.

Warren Newberry of Waco, TFB executive director, will act as discussion leader for that subject. County presidents will be given the opportunity to give their experiences with Councils of Government and recommendations for dealing with this relatively-new structure of government.

The April 15 afternoon session will be devoted to a discussion of proposed expanded programs in the Texas Farm Bureau. Bill Reid of Lamesa, TFB vice president, will be in charge. State board members will present reports on various recommendations made by a special "Farm Bureau of the Future" committee last year. Carol Chaloupka of Dalhart, TFB president, will be dinner speaker on the evening of April 15.

At the final morning session on April 16, Ed McKay of Waco, TFB national affairs director, will present a brief description of Farm Bureau's measure-the-candidate program and will list some of the major national issues on which Farm Bureau has policies. Each of the candidates will be given 20 minutes to discuss his candidacy.

Newberry will conclude the conference with a talk on "Prepare 1976 for the History Books."

Ag Careers Bright, But Fraught With Hazards

Career opportunities in production agriculture are brighter than ever, but the glitter also is fraught with new and bigger hazards, the University of Nebraska's president reports.

The thing to remember, said Dr. D.B. Varner, is that modern farming and ranching is a hard and demanding business. Not only is it subject to weather, insects, diseases and fickle markets in the United States, but it is being confronted more than ever by world market vagaries.

Varner, a native Texan and an A&M graduate, spoke to students, faculty and staff of the College of Agriculture at the opening session of Texas A&M University's Agricultural Centennial Week in Rudder Auditorium. His discussion centered on the theme, "Youth and Agriculture—The Heritage, The Challenge."

He said tomorrow's most successful farmers and ranchers will be college graduates, and "it is encouraging to see that more and more of the graduates today are electing to return to the land."

But it is important, he emphasized, for young people to recognize some of the problems awaiting them.

One of the obstacles is the huge investment just to get started. A farm of between 300 and 400 acres will likely require about $500,000. Production costs, the speaker said, are expected to rise even more. The price of borrowed money isn't likely to go down.

"One bad year can wipe out the struggling farmer," Varner said.

Another factor to consider is the impact of the world food market, which is increasing its influence on the price of U.S.

***

Tomatoes—Popular but fickle—Most home gardens just wouldn't be the same without at least a few tomato plants. Growing tomatoes can be both rewarding as well as frustrating, notes a horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. For success, first of all select adapted varieties that are resistant to common diseases. Plant tomatoes where they will receive at least six hours of sunlight a day. Set them somewhat deeper than they were originally growing and apply a starter solution. Provide some protection from wind and heat while plants are young. Use stakes, trellises or wire cages to support plants as they begin to grow. Fertilize plants weekly once they begin to set fruit.

agricultural products. Current world food bank proposals, designed to help hungry nations, might hang heavily over market prices, Varner said.

Shifting more to the international scene, the speaker said the U.S., Canada and Australia are now feeding much of the world. As a result, U.S. grain reserves, for examples, would last about 30 days if a great calamity arose.

Russia can't help because it has demonstrated for many years that its agriculture is weak, Varner said. South American and African agriculture still is not on a big volume basis. The most promising area for world food help is China, but its government apparently chooses not to cooperate.

"The greatest hope to feed the world's hungry still lies in that region from the Rio Grande River northward," he said.

Proper Methods Make Home Buying Enjoyable

"House-hunting can be an easy and enjoyable experience, or a difficult and disillusioning one, depending upon how the potential buyer goes about it," said Mrs. Coker, president of the Hereford Board of Realtors. "A good first step would be to contact a member of the Hereford Board, but there are a number of other things the potential home buyer could do to move easily from house-hunter to owner," she added.

Following are a number of ideas offered by members of the Hereford Board:

*Do some homework. Analyze the wants and interests of the entire family. Should it be a new or existing home? Traditional or modern? How many bedrooms and bathrooms? And location: Should the neighborhood be quiet and conventional or busy and informal?

"This kind of homework should go a long way toward helping the REALTOR zero in on the 'right' homes for the family to look at, and thereby save the buyer a good deal of time," Mrs. Coker said.

*Know what you can afford. Generally, the home should cost no more than 2.5 times your annual income, and monthly mortgage payments should not exceed 25 per cent of your monthly income.

"These guides are flexible, however, and are affected by a family's other obligations," the president noted.

*Check your assets—savings, investments, and others—and explore all sources for mortgage loans.

"There are many potential lenders: savings and loans, mortgage and banking companies, and commercial banks. Your REALTOR will assist you in this step," Mrs. Coker added.

*Be realistic. Be willing to compromise between your "dream house" and the home you can afford.

"Remember, the larger the down payment, the lower the monthly payment. And, since a lower monthly payment might enable the buyer to qualify for 'more home', that compromise might only be a small one," she explained.

"Thoroughly inspect the homes you are shown. Your REALTOR will see that you have plenty of time for an unhurried inspection. Accompanying you in the process, he also will call your attention to improvement and advantages you might overlook," Mrs. Coker added. "Ask questions. Don't hesitate to ask your REALTOR about anything having to do with the home, surrounding land, the neighborhood, or property taxes."

"A home generally is the largest investment a family will make, so resolve all questions before buying," she urged.

"Following these basic tips could make house-hunting almost as enjoyable an experience as home buying," Mrs. Coker said. "But the greatest joy is still ahead: Living in your home, building equity each time you make a mortgage payment."

"It's an investment in your family's happiness, and there's no better investment anywhere," she concluded.

Utility Cost Cutback Could Make Houses More Enticing

"There are many ways to make a home more salable: a coat of paint here and there, kitchen and bathroom improvements, manicuring the lawn and shrubbery."

"But one approach that sellers frequently do not utilize—one which will become increasingly important to the home buyer in years ahead—is cut back on utility costs through sensible energy-saving steps," said Jeane Coker, president of Hereford Board of Realtors.

"At the rate utility costs are increasing—some 20 per cent per year nationally—buyers soon will be asking about these costs before asking about the down payment or monthly mortgage payment," she added.

Mrs. Coker said that the seller who can offer prospective buyers an energy-tight home "will be miles ahead of those who cannot."

Following are a few ideas from the Hereford Board for putting homes on a better competitive ground at selling time, and saving the owner money meanwhile:

Ceiling insulation at least six inches of batt insulation or six to eight inches of blown insulation is a must. "It will pay for itself in just a few seasons," Mrs. Coker said.

Roof ventilators can reduce cooling costs about 20 per cent in poorly ventilated attics. They help keep the house cooler, and therefore allow the air conditioner to work less. However, roof turbines should be covered in the winter, or they will work against the home owner.

Weatherstripping helps stop air leaks around doors and windows in summer and winter. "A latex base caulking lasts longer and seals better," Mrs. Coker added.

Exterior doors should be solid or honeycomb insulated, and be tightly gasketed around door frames.

Good storm windows and doors can save 18 per cent or more per year on the heating bill.

Curtains with thermal insulated linings soon pay for themselves, especially if kept closed on summer days and winter nights.

Disposable filters on heating systems should be changed every two or three months.

Permanent filters should be vacuumed every month or less. Dirty filters make the furnace motor work harder to get air through, resulting in higher costs.

"These are just a few ideas for helping to put a home on the best possible competitive ground at the time of sale. The Hereford Board can offer other hints that will help speed a transaction, and make the home a better and less expensive place in which to live," Mrs. Coker concluded.

Purchase of homes by single men and women continues on the increase, reports the National Association of Realtors. Lending institutions are no longer reluctant to make such mortgage loans, and singles have become increasingly aware of investment and tax advantages found in home ownership.

Breakthroughs in the solar energy field could mean less expensive and more efficient equipment available before 1980. That report was made by the National Association of Realtors by industry leaders who also indicated that these breakthroughs could come as early as 1977. Result: equipment would pay for itself with utility savings in seven years or less.

Code Of Ethics Helps Realtor To Aid Clients

"Business firms and public advocates say they are for the best interests of the consumer, but the National Association of Realtors and its nearly 500,000 members, including members of Hereford Board of Realtors, have a written Code of Ethics to prove their statements."

Board president Mrs. Jeane Coker continued, "only after agreement to abide by provisions of the code does a real estate broker become a Realtor."

Mrs. Coker noted several points in the Code of Ethics as "examples of Realtor interest in dealing fairly with the buyer and seller of a home." Following are articles from the code:

"The Realtor should keep himself informed as to movements affecting real estate in his community, state and the nation, so that he may be able to contribute to public thinking on matters of taxation, legislation, land use, city planning and other questions affecting property interests."

"It is the duty of the Realtor to be well informed on current market conditions in order to be in a position to advise his clients as to the fair market price..."

"It is the duty of the Realtor to protect against fraud, misrepresentation or unethical practices in the real estate field. He should endeavor to eliminate in his community any practices which could be damaging to the public or to the dignity and integrity of the real estate profession..."

"In accepting employment as an agent, the Realtor pledges himself to protect and promote the interests of the client. This obligation of absolute fidelity to the client's interest is primary but it does not relieve the Realtor from the obligation of dealing fairly with all parties to the transaction..."

Mrs. Coker said that there are some 30 articles in the Code of Ethics that deal with Realtor relations with the public, his client and his fellow Realtor.

"It's one of the strongest commitments nationally to high moral conduct in business relations. That commitment is the public's guarantee of fair treatment and value-for-the-dollar results," concluded Mrs. Coker.

Answers Given On Realty Questions

Question: Would it be best for me to wait until interest rates drop before buying a home?

Answer: The best time to buy a home is now -- or whenever you can afford the home you want.

Even if interest rates should fall a full percentage point in the year ahead -- and there is no guarantee of that -- you would be better off buying a home now. Prices of existing homes locally rose more than (State Percentage) per cent in 1975. All indications are the prices in the this area will continue to rise at or near 1975 levels in the year ahead.

Therefore, even assuming that 1 per cent drop in interest rates, any saving from waiting a year would be more than wiped out by the increase in home prices, and the interest paid on that increase. Meanwhile, of course, the potential buyer would be paying rent instead of building equity in his own home, which amounts to a loss of several hundred more dollars. Buy now!

Question: How much will my down payment be?

Answer: The amount of the down payment depends upon a number of factors, but two of them stand out as being most important: First, how much you can manage as a down payment, and secondly, how much the lender will require. Between those two points lies a good deal of ground to be covered by you, your Realtor and the lender.

Often, the answer to that question depends on another outside factor; the state of the national economy. If the economy is good and money is available for home loans, then the required down payment is less--often as little as nothing to 5 per cent or 10 per cent of the home's purchase price. If the economy is bad, and money is hard to come by for lenders, then the required down payment might be as high as 25 to 40 per cent.

What I'm saying is that the answer to this question could vary from day to day, even if the amount of down payment you can manage is fixed in your mind. Because of this, it would be best for you to consult a local Realtor who is professionally aware of the local money market and the various financing methods available.

Home Buyer Candidates

Who are likely candidates for buying a home? Mrs. Jeane Coker says "now, just about anyone who can qualify financially is a likely candidate."

"Less than 10 years ago, the typical first-time home buyer could easily be categorized: He was between 25 and 35 years old, married and had one or two children."

"But now, although that group of potential buyers still is a major force in the real estate market, the list of likely candidates includes single men or women to a far greater extent than 10 years ago," he said.

Mrs. Coker estimated that (State Percentage) of all home sales in the area are to single men or women. "Ten years ago, it was almost unheard of for singles to buy homes," he added.

He attributes the change to:

- *The realization by singles that home ownership is a good investment, and can provide the home owner with a substantial income tax saving annually.
  - *The growth of single-person households nationally--homes, condominiums, and apartments.
  - *Liberalization of lending regulation.
  - *The greater availability of higher paying jobs for women.
  - *Whatever the trend in years ahead--and I believe home ownership by singles will increase--the single-family home will maintain its place in the American dream," Mrs. Coker said.
- If your grocery budget keeps increasing--remember that you pay extra for convenience foods and ready-for-the-table foods.

THE HOME GAME BY VIRGINIA TRUAX

- CREAM IT --- If creamed vegetables are a family favorite, do it the simple way. Blend one can cheddar cheese soup and 1/4 to 1/2 cup milk in saucepan and add to your favorite cooked vegetable. Especially good with lima beans or cauliflower!
- ODOR-LESS --- To rid a jar of previous odors, fill with water and a little dry mustard. Let stand several hours and wash.
- FLIP-FLOP --- If you're on a spring housecleaning binge, don't forget to turn your rugs around. This helps to distribute the wear and add years to their life.
- TOP POPPER --- For great-tasting popcorn, try popping it in bacon fat rather than shortening. You get a different flavor and save a little money, too!
- DECAL REMOVER --- If your kitchen is getting a facelift but you're having trouble removing the old decals, give this a try. Fold a sturdy paper towel several times and soak it in warm vinegar. Apply over the decal

Outside Safety Precautions Are Responsibility Of Home Owners

One of the nicest things about owning your own home is the responsibility as far as safety is concerned. Safety doesn't start when you walk through the door of your home, and end when you go out again. There are many safety considerations that apply to the area outside the house.

Using the list below, look around outside your house and make sure all is in compliance with guidelines for safe conditions. If you're a prospective home owner, use the same list to check for safety features outside any house you may consider buying.

Television As Detector

Although the human eye is still the best method for locating tornadoes, most homes are equipped with a built-in tornado radar: the home television set. If properly tuned, it is believed that a television set will detect a twister within a 15-20 mile radius.

Known as the Weller Method, the phenomenon is named for the Iowa scientist (Newton Weller) who first perfected the procedure. The method is not foolproof and therefore should not be the sole source of information during bad weather. The National Weather Service recommends that anyone who lives in an area for which a "tornado watch" or "tornado warning" has been issued should keep an ear on up-to-date weather bulletins broadcast over local radio and television stations.

Weather bulletins are based on information from both radar and the phalanx of trained spotters deployed around a community whenever dangerous weather threatens.

As a supplement to this kind of protection, anyone can apply the Weller Method by following a few simple instructions:

First, warm up your television set as if you were going to watch it. The contrast control should be tuned to the maximum position. Turn to Channel 13 and adjust the brightness control until the screen is just on the threshold of black. Then turn to Channel 2 without making any new adjustments to the picture settings. The audio (sound) settings may be adjusted as desired. If Channel 2 is not an operating channel in your area, be sure to have a radio or second television tuned in for weather reports.

Monitor the screen as continuously as possible. Lightning will appear on the screen as horizontal flashes or streaks. On a color set the streaks will be in color.

A tornado within a 15-20 mile radius will cause the screen to glow brightly or cause the darkened picture to become visible and remain continuously visible. Should this happen, it is important to take immediate safety precautions. Turn your television set off and open windows a crack to reduce the potential damage from pressure if a tornado passes nearby.

Take cover in a safe place, preferably near the center on the bottom floor of the building. A closet or small, windowless room offers best protection.

If you have a transistor radio, take it with you to the shelter area and continue to monitor weather broadcasts.

During particularly bad storms when the electric power is off, the transistor radio can be used to augment the television warning system. To do this, set the radio alongside the TV and turn the radio knob to the lowest end of the dial (about 55 kilocycles).

At this setting the radio will pick up storm signals, emitting intermittent static when lightning is near and continuous static when a tornado is moving toward the signal.

Advance warning, whatever source, is of no use if it is ignored. Anytime a tornado watch is issued persons living in the watch area should take precautions to protect their lives and property.

Loose items in the yard should be tied down during severe weather to prevent wind damage. Cars should be moved inside the garage, if possible, to prevent damage from hail or wind-blown projectiles.

Property Offers

Increased Earning

"There is only one 'sure' investment, an investment that annually increases in value and provides the investor with a 'dividend'. That investment is real estate," said Mrs. Jeane Coker, president of Hereford Board of Realtors.

"Stocks, bonds, savings certificates or treasury notes--regardless of the type of investment chosen for comparison, real estate consistently proves to be the best," he added.

Mrs. Coker noted that in all other investments, the investor faces the possibility that the value might decrease or that the increase might not be keeping pace with the rate of inflation. "Real estate is the only investment that continues to appreciate, and generally more than keeps pace with the inflation rate. And then there is the dividend of an income tax deduction on interest and taxes paid on the investment over a year," she added.

On a 30-year, $25,000 mortgage loan, the deduction for interest would be more than (State Appropriate Figure) at today's (State Prevailing Interest Rate) per cent interest rate.

Mrs. Coker explained.

"For the average taxpayer that would mean a tax saving (State Dollar Amount That Per Cent of Deduction) interest. And the saving on estate taxes might be several hundred dollars more," noted.

"Stocks, bonds, saving certificates and treasury notes don't compare as investments," Mrs. Coker said.

Concluding her statement prepared in conjunction with celebration by Realtors nationally of 1976 Private Property Week, April 18-24, Mrs. Coker advised persons interested in buying a home or other estate available in the area to contact a member of Hereford Board for assistance.

"Realtors are able to out varying opportunities in estate purchases, and can your attention to those investments best for you and family," she added.

Realtors Say: Look For Safety Features In Homes

Among a home buyer's many considerations should be those that can affect how long and happy a life he and his family will spend in their new home. The safety features of the house itself.

Nearly twice as many fatal or disabling accidents occur in the home as in industry, according to the National Association of Realtors. And research shows that most of these home accidents could have been prevented.

In the excitement of looking for just the right house, don't forget to check for features that help assure a safe, accident-free life.

The following list -- and common sense -- will alert home buyers to some of these safety features.

The kitchen, often considered the heart of a home, is also the site of many home accidents. When you're inspecting that very special part of the house, keep in mind these safety pointers:

The floor plan should be designed to prevent traffic through kitchen work areas. The kitchen should be well ventilated, and should have an exhaust system that discharges to the outside, not into the attic or other unused spaces.

The sink, stove and all work surfaces should be well lighted. There should be adequate counter space to provide safe work areas, keep lifting and carrying to a minimum.

Gas ovens, broilers and rotisseries should have pilot lights, and should be provided with an automatic cut-off in case of flame failure.

The kitchen range should not be located under a window with hanging curtains.

Another scene of many home accidents is the bathroom. Look for a bathroom floor with a non-slip finish. Bathtubs also should have textured, nearly flat or non-slip surfaces.

Tub and shower enclosures should be equipped with sturdy grab bars. Doors should be made of safety glass.

Electric fixtures and switches should be out of reach of the tub or shower enclosure. And all electrical equipment should be grounded.

Towel bars, soap dishes and other fixtures should be made of durable materials, firmly installed.

A medicine cabinet that can be locked -- particularly in a home where small children live -- is a definite plus.

Falls are the leading cause of accidental death in the home. To safeguard your family, look for well-lighted stairways with switches at both top and bottom of stairs. And make sure stairs are free of loose floor boards or wobbly railings.

Nosing, carpeting and treads on stairs should be in good repair. Treads should have non-slip surfaces.

Deaths associated with fires take the second largest number of lives in the home. Remember these fire and emergency considerations when you're house-hunting.

Each room should have at least one door to the outside or a window low and large enough to be used as an emergency exit in case of fire. A fixed fire escape, a rope or chain ladder can provide an escape from upper-floor rooms not adjacent to an outside deck or roof.

Bedroom and stairway doors should not be louvered or have other openings. Closet doors and doors between rooms should open from either side.

There should be doors at the top or bottom of stairways so that each level of the house can be closed off.

Be sure electrical service is of sufficient capacity to accommodate the expected equipment load. Regardless of whether or not additional large equipment -- such as an air conditioner -- will be installed, it is wise to have an electrical or local building department check the adequacy of the system. This is especially true if you find evidence of do-it-yourself wiring. Make sure the electrical system is protected against overload, either by circuit breakers or fuses.

Be certain all rooms have enough electrical wall outlets so that "octopus" connections with extension cords will not be necessary.

Outlets should be of the three-hole, grounding type or, at least, should be grounded so that appropriate adapters may be used. (Older houses may not meet this criterion.)

All electrical equipment should bear the label of a nationally recognized testing agency such as Underwriters Laboratories.

Space and water heating equipment bears special consideration from a safety standpoint too. The latter should be provided with a temperature and/or pressure relief valve that can be tested readily by the home owner. Discharge for pressure and temperature relief valves should be piped down near the floor.

Fuel-consuming heating devices should be vented to the outside, either directly or through a chimney, and should have draft hoods or dampers appropriate to the fuel being used.

Make sure heating equipment is in good condition, is securely mounted in place and has no parts that have rusted through. Be certain, too, that vent pipes are tightly connected to chimneys and are not rusted through or sagging.

Fireplaces should have dampers, and fireplace hearths should extend a minimum of 16 inches into the room. Chimneys should be in good repair at both bottom and top, and should not be close to any combustible structure parts.

Don't overlook possible hazards outside the house. Porches, balconies, terraces, copings, window wells and other elevations or depressions should be guarded by railings, closed with bannisters or otherwise protected. Sidewalks and driveway should have a rough finish to prevent slipperiness when wet, and should be graded to a slight slope to eliminate puddles of water or spots of ice. All walkways should be well lighted.

or any other large glass areas in hazardous locations -- should be glazed with safety glass. They also should be marked to indicate their presence.

The safety features mentioned in this article do not, by any means, comprise a complete checklist for home safety. Rather, this information is presented by the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS to alert home buyers to the importance of thinking safety. Realtors not only want to help you find the right home, but also to help assure that you and your family will spend a happy -- and safe -- life in the home you select.

Efforts Made To Raise Standards Of Realtors

"The Hereford Board of Realtors and the Texas Association of Realtors have been working for many years to raise the standards of all their members in order to better serve the public," said Jeane Coker, president of the board here, and "now we are beginning to see some very happy results of our efforts."

In a recent survey completed by the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A and M University in College Station, it was found that the homebuying public was definitely employing the services of the professional more and more."

Dr. Alvin Wooten, the director of the research center, indicated that the number of homes sold by private owners and builders continues to decline. Dr. Wooten said that the survey showed that private owners sell 3.1 per cent of the new homes, and 16.2 per cent of existing homes, a total of 9.6 per cent of all homes sold.

Realtor-brokers were found to sell in Texas 50.5 per cent of the new homes, 73.4 per cent of existing homes, and 6.19 per cent overall.

Jeane said "during Private Property Week we will focus especially on this fact. We want everyone in the buying and selling public to realize that we are dedicated to providing the best service possible. Considering the many complicated tax matters that now confront us all, as well as financial arrangements, we feel the Realtor is the better trained person to handle all real estate transactions in the most effective manner possible."

Jeane Coker added that under the leadership of the Texas Association of Realtors "our board members are offered each year an increasing number of ways to learn about specialized matters, ranging from syndication to condominiums to land planning to the establishment of complete recreational facilities. We attend seminars sponsored by TAR and by the National Association of Realtors. It is our business to keep ourselves abreast of the latest in construction, financing and marketing."

Potential home buyers who are waiting for an interest rate drop to save money on their monthly payments probably are waiting in vain, the National Association of Realtors reports. If homes continue to increase in value at the rate prevalent in recent years, it would take an interest rate drop of 2 per cent in the year ahead to compensate for the value increases.

The Home Protection Program, launched July 1, 1975, by insurance-warranty firms endorsed by the National Association of Realtors, is expected to be available in all parts of the nation within three years. By then, possibly as many as 1,000,000 sellers of homes annually would be taking advantage of the program that includes inspection and coverage of the home's major components.

What's the best way to prepare your home for sale? The National Association of Realtors advises: cut the grass and manicure trees and shrubs; invest in a coat of paint for parts of the home that need it most, particularly the kitchen and bathrooms; repair all loose doorknobs and leaky faucets; give the home's interior a neat appearance.

The Job Corps is a system of 60 residential and nonresidential training centers providing intensive education, vocational training, and work experience counseling to disadvantaged men and women, aged 16 to 21.

The U.S. Department of Labor is cooperating with several labor organizations to provide some of the instructional staffs for Job Corps centers.

The International Union of Operating Engineers is helping the U.S. Labor Department in training more than 300 Job Corpsmen in 1976.

The Hereford Board of Realtors with Jean Coker, president here, are observing "Private Property Week," April 18-24.

Mrs. Coker said that "all over the United States men and women working in real estate will be taking off time this week to salute our basic right to owning property spelled out in Colonial America. Even before the Constitution was written and signed, one of the first acts of Congress guaranteed that when a settler bought land, he got fee-simple title. He also got the right to sell his own free will. This marked the first time in history that the great mass of people could freely buy and sell land without fear of governmental interference.

more freedom for everyone. In discussing land programs, Mrs. Coker said that "Realtors should do every effort to work governmental officials to develop a sensible, practical land policy."

The board here is one of boards scattered in every part of the nation.

ROUGH 'EM UP --- Make sure you get your money's worth out of new clothes by checking carefully before buying. If the tag says "crease-resistant," take a handful of fabric and crumple it. It should spring back to its original condition as soon as you release material.

EARLY WORM --- Early March is the best time to plant asparagus and rhubarb if your soil is workable. Test by squeezing a handful. If it doesn't make a ball of solid clay, it's ready to be planted.

FREEZE-OUT --- Locked out of your car by a frozen lock? Heat the end of the key with matches before inserting it into the lock. You may have to repeat several times, but it will melt the ice.

Over 18,000 acre ranch near Wagon Mound, located in the rolling valley with mostly blue gramma grass. It is considered some of the best steer or cow-calf country in Northeastern New Mexico. There are 8 major pastures with ample water from windmills and live water. Improvements are modern. Excellent ranch country.

35,800 acres in the Santa Rosa area is very good ranch land. The grass is quite varied with some Pinion Pine and other shrubs which make it well adapted to winter grazing. It is good for either cow-calf operation or a stocker operation. There are 15 windmills some of which have extra storage tanks. There is a 3 bedroom house on headquarters, bunkhouse, corrals, and scales. Some antelope are seen here.

Approximately 10,000 acres near Las Vegas in the heart of the strong grass country. It is suited to mother cows or a combination of cows and yearlings. Excellent gains are experienced on average years. It is watered by several windmills and dirt tanks. This ranch has adequate headquarters and corrals. It is one of the most desirable ranches in New Mexico.

Nice 3 bedroom house on Northwest Dr. Completely redone. Also new drapes. Will FHA or VA. $25,000. Excellent location.
