

Funeral Homes To Drop Ambulances

BY PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The possibility of Hereford being without emergency health care loomed ever closer Monday as the directors of the city's two funeral homes said they plan to be out of the ambulance business by Dec. 1.

And, as of Monday, neither the city nor county had devised a plan to replace the existing funeral-home situation, which in the last few years has become a near-extinct way to run an ambulance service in Texas.

"We intend to quit on Dec. 1," John Gililand of Gililand-Watson Funeral Home said Monday.

"Dec. 1 will be the day we no longer will offer ambulance service," said Ron Smith, owner of Smith & Co.

"We have asked that we be relieved of the ambulance service as of Dec. 1 and the community take the responsibility for it," added Gililand, who has stated on numerous occasions in the past that he would still want to be associated with a city-county-hospital ambulance service in Deaf Smith County.

Economics—in particular, the inability to collect many ambulance-service accounts and ever-rising insurance and vehicle-upkeep costs—prompted the two directors to say in meeting of government and chamber of commerce representatives nearly three months ago that they wanted out of the ambulance business.

An alternate proposal including the use of trained volunteers, submitted by Hereford physician Dr. Bill Patton, was informally accepted by officials at the meeting. However, Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard failed to persuade the city and county commissioners to fund an ambulance service, operated out of the hospital.

Monday's statements of the funeral-home directors established a definite deadline for when they planned to discontinue the ambulance part of their businesses.

"If they sit on their can and don't do anything, that's not our fault. We've been working on this thing for over a year now," Smith said.

"We've expressed the desire to get out for several months now. It's not just something we're fooling around with. We told the hospital around Oct. 1 that Dec. 1 would be the day we no longer offer an ambulance service."

Smith repeated his claim that he can no longer afford to run ambulances.

"My insurance has gone up, my collections have gone down," Smith said. "I think we've done a good job with what we have to work with. But, I'm a funeral director, and that's what I want to devote my time to," Smith said.

Bullard, following the meeting with the government and chamber officials, met with city commissioners to ask if they would accept his proposal. The commission instructed Bullard to meet with the funeral-home directors to determine the date when they would quit.

Bullard also met with county commissioners, who rejected the proposal, saying it was the hospital's responsibility to fund the ambulance service by raising its tax base accordingly.

The county commission also told Bullard to obtain written statements from Smith and Gililand concerning their intention to drop the ambulance services.

The funeral-home directors rejected the idea of putting their intentions in writing, Smith said.

"The city and county have said they won't do anything until they receive official notice from us in writing. That's no way to do it. We've worked with them for over a year to make this a smooth thing, then they bow up and say that we aren't serious until we give it to them in writing," he said.

"It's not right for them to do us this way. They're going to end up making us look bad, and we're the very ones that have worked the hardest. We're not trying to push it off on anybody. We've gotten nowhere on it. We're just sick and tired of it falling on deaf ears."

Both Smith and Gililand Monday said they will do whatever it takes to make the transition smooth in the next few weeks.

"Because of finances, we cannot adequately provide a first-class ambulance service for this town," Gililand said. "I will do what I can to make sure we have a first-class service."

Smith said he and Gililand have stated (See AMBULANCES, Page 2)

Iranian Premier Resigns As Americans Still Held

By The Associated Press

Iranian Premier Mehdi Bazargan resigned today because of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's escalating anti-American campaign, and Khomeini directed his Revolutionary Council to take over the government.

An official of the premier's office in Tehran said Bazargan, who has headed the government since the successful conclusion of the Iranian revolution last February, resigned because of "developments over the past few days as well as his physical tiredness."

The official, Hassan Tabatabai, said Khomeini, the leader of the revolution and the supreme power in Iran, accepted the resignation and asked the Revolutionary Council, his chief instrument of power, to take over the government.

Bazargan resigned several times before in protest against the dominance of the cleric-run Revolutionary Council, but each time previously Khomeini talked him into remaining in office.

Meanwhile, a long ordeal appeared in prospect for an estimated 60 Americans held hostage in the American Embassy in Tehran since Sunday. The U.S. government rejected their captors' demand that the deposed shah be handed over to the revolutionary leaders, and Khomeini urged on the escalating anti-American campaign.

The Carter administration was negotiating with the Bazargan government for the release of the hostages, who also reportedly included seven or eight Iranians. But the Iranian government had no influence on the students occupying the embassy, and they were accusing Bazargan and his officials of not getting tough enough with the United States.

American officials ruled out military action or other retaliatory measures, fearing this would endanger the captives. There also were fears that Khomeini would stop Iranian oil exports to the United States.

The State Department said it received assurances indirectly from the students that all the hostages were well. But the department still was unable to reach the embassy by telephone, and the embassy chief, Charge d'Affaires L. Bruce Laignen, was holed up at the Iranian Foreign

Food Industry May See Profits Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Profits for the food industry should decline next year even though consumers will probably be paying at least 8 percent more for food, the Agriculture Department predicted today.

The forecasts were made public at the department's annual farm-economy outlook conference and were more detailed than those released Monday.

In its forecast, the Agriculture Department said consumer food prices probably would climb another 8 percent next year but could hit nearly 11 percent if the winter were harsh or there were problems with crops.

At the same time, food industry profits should decline after retailers enjoyed two of the best years of the 1970s, officials said.

"Profits in the food industry are expected to decline slightly in 1980, especially if there is a slowdown in economic activity. Food manufacturers' profits are likely to decline most, while increased competition from discount and volume food stores is expected to have a negative impact on food retailers," department economist Kenneth R.

Farrell said.

Food prices this year are expected to run about 11 percent higher than those in 1978.

Almost 75 percent of the added cost to shoppers in 1980 would be due to higher labor, fuel and other expenses for the firms that process, transport and market the raw food farmers produce, the forecast said.

Most of that would come from expected 10 percent increases each in employee wages and benefits, packaging costs and freight rates, it said.

A breakdown of the projected 8 percent rise shows the food industry accounting for 6 percent, higher farm prices for 0.4 percent and higher prices for fish and imported foods for 1.6 percent, the department said.

The Agriculture Department said most of the 1980 food-price surge would come after June when pork and poultry producers reduced supplies to recover losses. Record production of those meats is holding down both food and farm prices now, Farrell said.

The 8 percent forecast assumes an (See FOOD, Page 2)

Commission Approves Zoning-Change Request

Hereford city commissioners met briefly Monday to approve a zoning change request in the 500 block of George Ave. and accept a $5,850 bid for a sprinkler system for the new city hall.

The bid, the lowest of five, was submitted by Town and Country Irrigation Systems of Hereford.

Commissioners accepted the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission by approving a zoning change from "B-Two Family" to "D-1", which would allow mobile homes in the 500 block of George.

Property adjacent to Lots 41 through 45 of Block 3, Burkes Subdivision of Block 17 in the Mabry Addition—the area in question—already was zoned "D-1."

In closed session, commissioners discussed the possible purchase of water and land for water, but took no action after reconvening in open session.

The city presently has no problem with the amount of water, but commissioners in recent closed meetings have discussed the possibility of purchasing land for future expansion.

Building Fire

Hereford volunteer firemen battle a fire in a two-story building at 827 S. 25 Mile Ave. Sunday evening—the 10th call responded to by the department in three days. The once-inhabited apartment house, which has been used for storage, sustained smoke damage in the fire, but firemen had the blaze under control within a few minutes after their arrival. Park Ave. and U.S. Highway 385 were blocked off by law-enforcement personnel during the fire. (Brand photo by Paul Sims)

Lions Honor Charter Members

The 10th anniversary of the Hereford Evening Lions Club was observed during a dinner meeting Monday night at K-Bob's, and the evening's program included presentation of 10-year chevrons to three charter members.

Club president Lee Drake presented the chevrons to Larry Alley, Joe Don Cummings and Lewis Lea. Recognized as honored guests were past presidents Charlie Riggan of Dalhart and Ken McClain of Hereford.

Cummings, who is currently serving as deputy district governor, gave a brief history of the club since its organization in September of 1969. He read a long list of organizations that have received financial support as a result of the Evening Club's projects. The club has purchased many pairs of eyeglasses for

Oil Drifts from Tanker Toward Gulf Coast

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Another series of overnight explosions rocked a burning oil tanker in the Gulf of Mexico as oil seeping from its compartments continued a shoreward drift.

The Burmah Agate has been afire since Thursday, when it collided with the freighter Mimosa near the entrance to the Galveston Ship Channel. Two more bodies of crewmen washed ashore at Galveston today, bringing the confirmed death count from the crash to 13. Another 19 sailors are missing and presumed dead.

Periodic explosions have hampered efforts to put out the continuing fire on the Burmah Agate. Fireboats have maintained a round-the-clock water barrage on the flaming vessel.

The latest round of explosions again caused the fireboats to scatter, but no injuries were reported.

Coast Guard Lt. Gabe Kinney said the latest explosions occurred throughout the early morning hours. "I wouldn't really call them minor, but I wouldn't call them major, either," Kinney said. "They're about the scale of the ones the other night."

Monday, Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Richard Griggs said Navy equipment would be staged at Galveston

"in the event we have to deal with a lot of oil. There is a lot of oil still on board that tanker."

The Navy equipment is the same that was used against oil seeping from a blown-out Mexican well in the Bay of Campeche. That well continues to leak oil into the Gulf, and several South Texas beaches have been stained by it.

Goos from the Burmah Agate, which carried 400,000 barrels of light crude oil, stretched 100 miles on the surface of the Gulf of Mexico and washed ashore in four places on the Texas coast during the day, including one four-mile stretch at West Beach. Officials said the stubborn fire aboard the ship prevents them from boarding her and stopping the oil flow.

Tug boat captains hired by the tanker's British owners worked through the night spraying water on the disabled ship in hopes of preventing further eruptions.

"They're drenching her with water, trying to cool the decks down," said Coast Guard Lt. j.g. Don Zelazny. He said there was a danger of more explosions "unless we can get those decks cooled down."

"We're not talking about explosions of the entire vessel, but more like a belching or burping within the tanks where vapors

Texas Voters To Decide On Constitutional Amendments

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Election officials expect less than a 10th of Texas' eligible voters will go to the polls today to decide on three more amendments to the state's much-amended constitution.

The polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

The Texas Constitution has been amended 230 times since it was adopted in 1876.

What happens to the three constitutional amendments proposed by the 1979 Legislature could depend largely on the voter turnout in a number of Texas' big cities with local elections and bond issues also on the ballot.

The Texas secretary of state's office estimated no more than 500,000 would vote. This would be only 9 percent of the 5.75 million registered voters.

The proposed constitutional amendments would:

—1. Make the appointment of public notaries statewide instead of county-by-county and increase the terms from two years to four years.

—2. Allow the Legislature to review, and if necessary suspend or repeal, any rule adopted by an administrative agency.

—3. Set up a $10 million bond program to help preserve the family farm by the state guaranteeing land purchases.

Probably the largest vote will come from the Houston area where Mayor Jim McConn is seeking a second two-year term against eight challengers. Voters there must also select 14 city council members from a field of 88.

Brownsville and Cameron County also have local elections.

In Fort Worth, there is a referendum to place a ceiling on property tax increases.

There are bond issues to attract voters in Dallas, Austin and Jefferson counties.

If approved by voters, Proposition No. 3 would let the commissioner of agriculture create a Farm and Ranch Loan Security Fund and issue up to $10 million in general obligation bonds. The state would guarantee up to 90 percent of the amount due. The loans would be made by private lenders but the state could help the farmers pay back their loans, charging 6 percent interest. An applicant must have lived in Texas at least five years and must have farm and ranch experience and training.

Proposition No. 2 would authorize legislative review of rules and regulations made by state agencies. It passed the House and Senate easily but drew opposition from Gov. Bill Clements and the Texas League of Women Voters. There also were a number of newspaper editorials opposing it.

Proposition No. 1 would take record-keeping out of the county clerk's office and place it with the secretary of state. At present, when a notary public moves from one county to another he loses his official position.

Youth Climbs Elevator, Coaxed Back to Ground

An off-duty Hereford police detective scaled a 125-foot ladder then coaxed a 15-year-old Mexican-American male down from the top of Hereford Grain Corporation's elevator at 511 W. 1st Sunday afternoon.

Hereford volunteer firemen, police officers, the youth's girlfriend, her mother and his preacher watched from the ground as Det. Dale Morgan climbed a ladder outside the elevator before talking the youth into coming down.

Police would not say if the boy had intended to jump from the elevator.

"But, after we got him down, he said that he wasn't about to jump," said Capt. Ray Morgan, who had used a loudspeaker to try to persuade the youth to come down.

The boy's preacher, Paul Garcia, his girlfriend, and her mother, Valia Valdez, also used the loudspeaker in communicating with the youth before Dale Morgan went to the top of the elevator.

"I want to give some credit to Dale Morgan. He went up there and got the man. I just praise Morgan for doing a good job under some tough circumstances," Morgan said.

Dal Morgan had recently been promoted from patrolman to detective in the Hereford Police Department.

Fireman David Spain went up to the top of the building in an indoor elevator but did not talk to the youth, according to police.

The youth, whose name was not released by police, was charged with criminal trespassing and booked into Deaf Smith County Jail for observation.

Parent Can Help Combat Illness' Effect on Child

COLLEGE STATION — Parents can help combat an illness' effect on a child by approaching it with a wholesome attitude, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Whether the illness is real or imagined, a parent's wholesome attitude will make its effect far less damaging, she adds.

"Any illness—physical or psychosomatic—brings changes in a child's development, his behavior, attitudes and personality," Miss Taylor explains.

"How severe and how long-lasting depends on the illness itself and on the child's attitude. His parents' attitude will influence how the child views his illness."

Research does not have all the answers to illnesses, of course, but it does show that psychosomatic diseases can affect a child just as seriously as those caused by germs or physical sources, the specialist says.

Also, research findings point to several associations among healthier children and to some among children with health problems:

Three factors directly related to healthy children appear to be prenatal health, good nutrition and birth order.

—Children who have good nutrition before and after birth tend to be healthier and more resistant to diseases.

—First-born children tend to be less illness-prone than those born later to families.

—On the other hand, children born out of troublesome pregnancies tend to have health problems in their first years of life.

Regardless of the reasons for illnesses, parents with their positive attitudes play a vital role in helping a child combat the effects of the illness, the specialist stresses.

Buttermilk Today Almost Fat-Free

A by-product of butter-making, buttermilk originally was the liquid that remained after the butterfat was removed from milk or cream. Today this product is almost fat free. Tiny butter granules, sometimes added for appearance, result in a dairy product that contains approximately one percent or less of milkfat. Both the food value of commercial buttermilk, in terms of riboflavin, calcium or protein, and the calories, (about 90 per cup), is the same as plain lowfat milk.

Remember, you may freeze any extra buttermilk for up to several months, but for best results in flavor and texture, use it as soon as possible. According to Dairy Council, Inc. home economists, buttermilk can be prepared at home by reconstituting (but not chilling) nonfat dry milk, and adding one-half cup of commercial cultured buttermilk for each quart you want to make. The milk is covered and allowed to stand at room temperature until clabbered or overnight, then stirred and stored in the refrigerator. Buttermilk made this way can be used as a starter for another batch.

Another good-to-know fact is that buttermilk and home-soured whole milk can be used interchangeably for baking. If a recipe calls for buttermilk, you can prepare the amount you need from sweet milk. Just combine one teaspoon vinegar or lemon juice with enough sweet milk to make one cup liquid, and let stand five minute before using.

Gingerbread makes a homey, caring gift for friends and neighbors. Wrap up a plate of fresh-sliced gingerbread and tie a big bow on it for your favorite person. This recipe for gingerbread muffins is extra moist and tender, and more nutritious, due to the buttermilk ingredient.

GINGERBREAD MUFFINS
1 cup butter (fresh, real butter makes the difference!)

1 cup sugar
4 eggs
1 cup cane syrup
4 cups flour
1 t. salt
1 t. cinnamon
1/2 t. each, cloves and allspice
1 cup buttermilk
2 t. baking soda

Cream butter and sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Add syrup. Combine flour salt and spices and add alternately with buttermilk into which 2 t. baking soda has been dissolved. (Batter may be refrigerated at this point up to six weeks) Pour into greased muffin tins and bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Each muffin contains about 200 calories compared to 113 calories in a plain roll.

They advise that since zucchini is a tender vegetable, it requires only a short cooking time and the best methods include steaming, pan frying or baking.

Yuletide Crafts Shown to Club

Handmade Christmas decorations were displayed by Meredith Wilcox Thursday morning for members of L'Allegra Study Club during a meeting in the home of Maarki Hutto. Cohostess was Naomi Schroeter.

Rosie Griffin, club president, called the business session to order for routine reports from committee chairmen. Carolyn Johnson, representing the Hereford Medical Auxiliary, outlined the plans for project Christmas Card, which will begin after Thanksgiving.

It was announced that the club's next program will be on gourmet cooking in the home of Susie Merrick. Kathy Allison, yearbook chairman, distributed the remaining yearbooks.

Others in attendance were Lynn Carlile, Jeanette Caviness, Janice Conkwright, Carmen Flood, Kitty Gault, Vickie Green, Carolyn Hays, Glenda Keenan, Barbara Kerr, Susie Mannschreck, Judy McCarter, Mary McWhorter, Selsey Metz, Brenda Reinauer, Naomi Schroeter, Jody Skiles, Ella Marie Veigel, Carolyn Canon and Shelia Upshaw.

Forum Committees Appointed Recently

Thirty-five local club members attended the quarterly meeting of Deaf Smith County Women's Forum last week at the Community Center. Hostess clubs were Pioneer Study Club, Bud to Blossom Garden Club and Summerville Study Club.

Lizzie Wilson, Forum chairman, conducted the business meeting and appointed a project committee composed of Mrs. J.O. Clark, Margaret Ann Durham and Alene Montgomery. Also, it was announced that the nominating committee has been formed of Mrs. O.G. Hill, Esther Springer, Virginia Garner, Faye Williams and Patty Atchley.

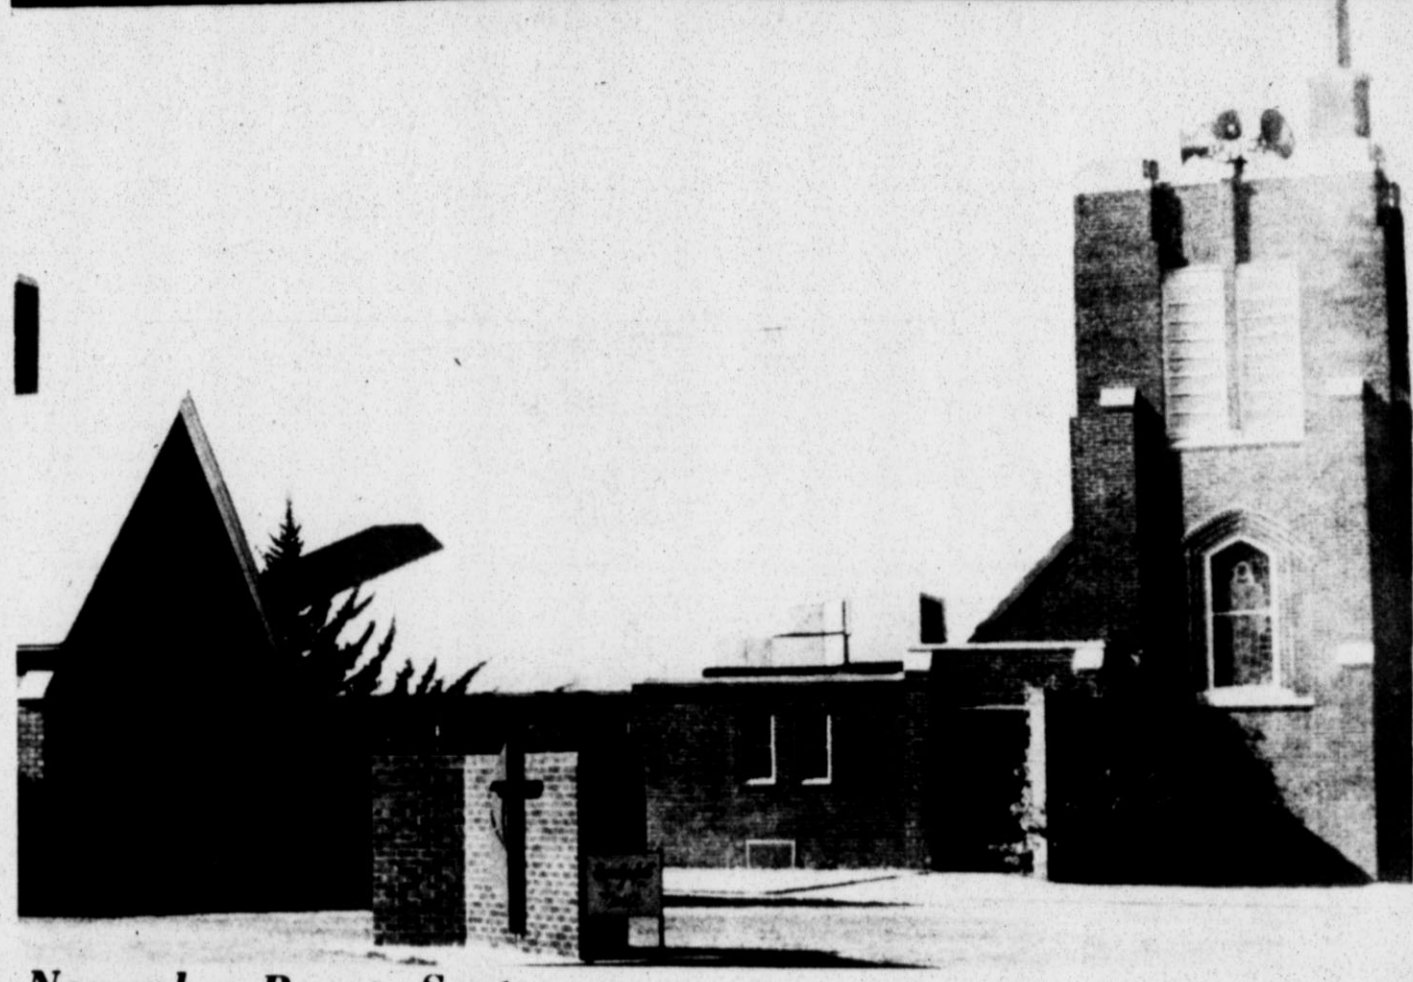

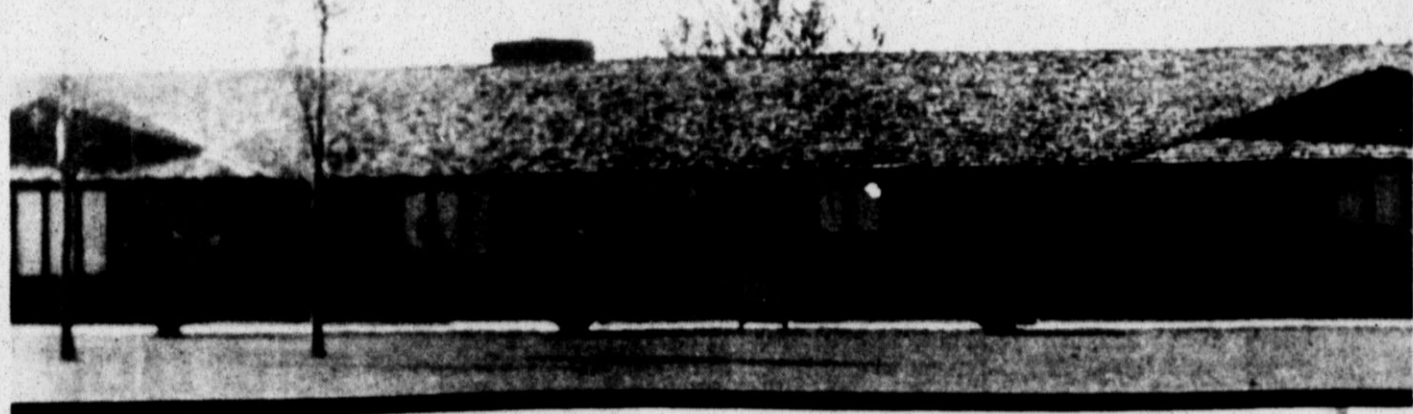

The International Students Association and its foreign exchange opportunities were discussed during the program, presented by Jack Muthersbough, professor of Geography Department at West Texas State University, and Misri Saliman, a student from Malaysia. Muthersbough, who introduced the Malaysian coed, explained the purposes of the International Students Association, which was formed in 1963. He said there are currently 130 international students at WTSU, representing 34 countries. He stated that the exchange program adds to the culture of the University.

Misri Saliman, who was married in January of this year, came as a bride with her husband, both of whom are studying at WTSU on a scholarship from their government. They will be returning to Malaysia, to use their education in that country.

Muthersbough concluded the program, stating that the International Students Association welcomes any opportunity to explain the purposes of their organization.

The Forum's next meeting will be in January.

November Beauty Spots

The Chamber of Commerce Women's Division Beautification Committee selected the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlabs as the residential beauty spot for the month of November. The Schlabs reside on the Frio-Easter farm-to-market road. Chosen as the non-residential beauty spot was the First Methodist Church at 501 North Main Street. [Brand photo's by Denise Smith]

Local residents are invited to visit the campus of King's Manor Methodist Home on Thursday, Nov. 8, which has been proclaimed Founder's Day. The observance will culminate Thursday evening with the annual Founder's dinner in the Manor's Lamar Memorial Garden Room.

Founder's Day is under the auspices of the Manor Founder's Association, according to the Association president Bill Walden.

Featured speaker at Thursday night's banquet will be well-known artist Kenneth Wyatt.

Membership in the Founder's Association is open to any interested person who wishes to support the Manor's programs. Membership can be attained through the following donation amounts: $25 for an annual membership; more than $25 for an annual membership which accumulates to a life membership; $1,000 or more for a life membership, which accumulates to a Founder's donor; and $10,000 to become a Memorial Founder or Founder's donor.

Christmas Coffee Planned by Club

Plans for a Christmas coffee on Dec. 7 were discussed Friday morning by members of Garden Beautiful Club who met in the home of Mrs. Wilburn Axe.

Mrs. W.T. Carmichael, club president, called the business meeting to order and reminded members that the Christmas coffee will be in her home with past presidents as special guests. Each member will be welcome to bring a guest. Cohostesses will be members of the yearbook committee.

Welcomed as a new member was Mrs. E.W. Young.

Mrs. Carmichael also presented the program, an informative discussion of formal gardens in Europe. Describing their origin and development, Mrs. Carmichael illustrated her talk with slides taken from their trips abroad.

The European theme was carried out by the hostesses who served cuisine from several European countries. Serving as cohostesses with Mrs. Axe were Mrs. Don Robinson and Mrs. Frances Hill.

In addition to those already mentioned, in attendance were Mmes. Deward Roberson, Charles Hood, Ray Cowser, N.D. Bartlett, T.J. Carter, Earl Springer, Wayne Jones and Joe Story.

Ann Landers

Cruelty to Animals

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other night there was a singing dog contest on TV. The first woman came on carrying her precious little white poodle. He had a patch over one eye. The woman told the audience the dog was partially blind. The audience laughed.

Then she put the dog on a table near the microphone. He began to walk around. It was obvious that the dog limped. The woman said, "He has a bad leg." The audience laughed again.

What in the world is wrong with people when they laugh at the handicapped? I don't care whether it's a person or an animal. It seems to me that such cruelty is unforgivable.

The little white poodle did not win the prize, even though he sang every bit as well as the dog that did. I'm sure the audience did not applaud very much for the poor thing because of the eye patch and the limp.

If you will please print my letter and ask the public to be more sympathetic to all living things, I will be forever grateful.—Pet Lover In Houston

DEAR PET LOVER: Your plea needs no assist from me. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You ought to update your advice or throw in the towel, Sister. I refer to that bit of antiquated counsel: "Decent girls aren't sitting on bar stools waiting to get picked up."

I am 24 years old, hold a good job in an insurance company and share an apartment with another working girl. I consider myself decent.

You seem to forget that not everybody can afford to go to college these days, or belong to a country club, or take trips to Bermuda, Nassau or Aspen. Working girls who want to meet men have to go where the men are. And they are in bars after 5:00 p.m. So get with it, Grandma.—No Tramp

DEAR ANN LANDERS: OK, work the bars after 5:00 p.m., and do you know what you'll find? Men who are also working the bars. You'd be a lot better off if you saved your money and took a trip to Bermuda, Nassau or Aspen.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is one I am sure many other 12-year-old girls share. It's hair under my arms. Not just peach fuzz but real ugly, coarse hair. My mother will not let me shave it off. She says I am too young. I am totally embarrassed whenever I wear a bathing suit or a short-sleeved dress. I also realize that hair can trap unpleasant odors—which is certainly true in my case. I have tried several different deodorants, but none works throughout the entire day and evening.

Will you please say a few words to my mother? She swears by your column. You will also be doing a big favor to other girls my age.—L In Industry, Calif.

DEAR MOTHER: Hairy armpits look like L. Although 12 may seem awfully young to you, it's not too young for a girl to practice good hygiene. In fact, you should be pleased that your daughter wants to. Say yes for heaven's sake.

DEAR ANN: I love to read Sydney J. Harris. He is one of the brightest men alive. He said something about what matters in the long run. I meant to clip it out, but it got away from me. Can you locate it?—A.G.R.

DEAR A.G.R.: Here is the Sydney J. Harris quote you're after: "An idealist believes the short run doesn't count. A cynic believes the long run doesn't matter. A realist believes that what is done or left undone in the short run determines the long run."

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I have just answered a four-page questionnaire on the stress and pressures endured by a "non-runner" who is married to a person who sweats for pleasure.

And I say it's about time. There are thousands of us who sit around like lumps waiting at the finish lines bringing "Debbie and Mike" home with our applause...basting blisters...tying shoes without so much as a thank-you-here's-a-T-shirt.

The runners get all the glory just because they run 26 miles. Big deal!

Do they know what I had to go through to get a seat at the Boston Marathon finish line? Have they ever tried to get a cab that will take you to the start of the race and then follow 10,000 runners back to the finish line in first gear?

Do any of them appreciate what it is like to go to a formal dinner party with a man wearing blue and white Adidas gym shoes?

You talk about hitting the wall. I can tell you all about hitting the wall. It's blowing $17.50 on a standing rib and having a husband in training for a marathon who announced, "I can't have protein. Can you make me a stack of pancakes?" It's having your spouse stand before you after a race...his face ashen...his legs beginning to cramp...nausea creeping into his stomach...the rock in his shoe now embedded in his arch, and telling him a German shepherd dog officially entered in the race beat his time by five minutes.

And the pressure by intimidation. Oh, runners don't come right out and say you should run, but they get their point across in a thousand subtle ways. To begin with, runners never get up quietly in the mornings. Their alarm clocks are amplified. Their showers sound like a dam broke. Their warm-up exercises are accompanied by grunts, groans and squeaks.

But mostly, it's the loneliness of being on the "outside" of every conversation. It's that awkward pause when your companion looks at you and gasps, "You don't run?" (Better to admit you're against clean air.)

Personally, I hope the questionnaire will shed some light on those forgotten people who, despite a running spouse, keep children and home together. As one woman wrote on her questionnaire, "Running has kept our marriage together. I'd have left him years ago, but I couldn't catch him to tell him."

4-H-PROJECTS--WHERE THE LEARNING IS

New 4-H projects are now being organized, and this is where the "real" learning takes place. The Extension Service is the parent organization of 4-H.

4-H offers exciting projects and activities for every young person between the ages of 9 and 19 who has a curious desire to learn.

4-H encourages "learning-by-doing" and provides citizenship and leadership skills. 4-H wants to involve all youth--rural, urban, suburban, teens and pre-teens, and from all races, creeds, ethnic and economic backgrounds. 4-H youth learn work and play together.

In 4-H, young people can learn how to make things, grow things, take care of things, and repair things in a wide variety of projects.

And the great part about the whole program is that 4-H youth can select what they want to do. Projects include things such as nature study, wildlife, entomology, animal science, beef cattle, horse and pony, dog care, plant science, gardening, field crops, home economics, foods and nutrition, clothing, automotive, bicycle, small engines, mechanics, electricity, personal development, citizenship, leadership and public speaking.

4-H has a lot to offer. So if you have a desire to learn and what to get involved in an action-oriented program, contact the county Extension office. 364-3573.

Longhorns To Do Anything To Move Ball Saturday

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Coach Fred Akers will tell Houston this much about his game plan for Saturday: The Longhorns will not base their attack on quarterback sneaks and off-tackle plays.

Asked at his weekly news conference Monday if he thought the crucial Texas-Houston game in the Astrodome would be a defensive struggle, Akers said:

"Defensive games come about when you run quarterback sneaks, go off-tackle and then punt. I don't know about them, but we don't plan to do that. That's not their style, either."

In its 8-0 season, Houston has scored 188 points and allowed 90. Texas, 6-1, has tallied only 138 points, but its defense has given up only 54.

Akers said the only thing that bothers him about playing in the Astrodome is "you can't get enough people in."

The capacity is listed as 54,000-plus, which is nearly 30,000 fewer than saw the Texas-Houston game in Memorial Stadium here last year.

Houston won that game, 10-7, to win the Southwest Conference football championship. A victory over Texas on Saturday could enable the Cougars to repeat as the host team in the Cotton Bowl.

"The biggest difference in the two teams is they're undefeated and we've lost one," Akers said.

Texas lost to Arkansas, 17-14, and Houston edged Arkansas the following week, 13-10.

Students stood in long lines for tickets Monday, and there were early indications that 9,500 reserved seats for a closed circuit telecast of the game here also would be sold.

Texas defeated Texas Tech, 14-6, last Saturday with Texas alternating three quarterbacks — sophomore Donnie Little and freshmen Herkie Walls and Rick McIvor.

Akers said he pulled Little after he got "rattled," threw an interception and almost had another pass intercepted.

Asked if he would use three quarterbacks against Houston, Akers said, "We have no definite plans. We will do anything we can to move the football. Whatever substitutions need to be made to move the football, we'll make them."

Akers said Mike Baab, the top sub at all five interior line positions, underwent surgery to repair a torn ligament in his knee and will miss the remainder of the season.

Jones To Fight In Dallas Soon

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboy Ed "Too Tall" Jones has announced his new sports career includes a boxing match in the city where his old career began.

Jones and his manager, Dave Wolf, said Monday they are trying to arrange a Dallas fight Dec. 14, possibly a rematch with Jesus "Yaqui" Meneses, the man Jones narrowly defeated Saturday in Las Cruces, N.M.

Earlier this year, Jones announced his retirement as a Cowboy defensive end, saying he had decided to pursue his first love — boxing.

Wolf and Jones said they have decided to stage a fight at the Dallas Municipal Auditorium. The opponent has not been determined, but Wolf said one of the considerations would be a Meneses rematch.

"We were very disappointed in the way he fought in Las Cruces," Wolf said of Jones' first professional opponent. "It was rather cowardly but it kept him alive."

Meneses was credited with the only knockdown of the fight, but he then hit Jones with an illegal left hook while Jones was sitting on the mat.

Jones, though, said he was generally satisfied with his boxing debut.

Starting tackle Terry Tausch had a strained knee; guard Joe Shearin had a bruised pelvic bone; defensive tackle Steve Massey had a bruised thigh; halfback A.J. "Jam" Jones strained his shoulder; and receiver Les Koenning had a hamstring strain.

"I hope all hands are well," said Akers. "Now's the time we need to be."

Akers said Texas coaches had selected sub halfback Brad Beck as the outstanding offensive player in the Tech game and end Ron Bones as the best defensive player.

Beck scored Texas' second touchdown on an 11-yard run, and Bones had 17 tackles, including 10 unassisted.

"I was very excited, tense and nervous going into the fight," he said. "I'm glad to have the first one behind me."

Meanwhile, promoter Paul Percifield said Monday he's trying to arrange a fight for Jones in the Dallas Convention Center Dec. 14.

"Too Tall is upset about the way the referee handled the (Meneses) fight," Percifield said, "and he is upset at Meneses for hitting him. I think there is a good chance for the rematch."

Jones has a bout scheduled in Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 13, against Abdullah Muhammad, and has tentatively arranged matches in Tucson, Ariz., and Washington, D.C., before the Dallas fight.

The Meneses fight was televised nationally, and Wolf said the Dallas bout could be on television also, but that none of the next three fights will be broadcast.

"We plan for Ed to fight a great deal," Wolf said, "and we don't want to run the risk of his being overexposed."

Darlene Cornelius was the winner in last week's Hereford Brand Football contest, missing only two games. She had a tiebreaker score of 32 and will receive $25. The actual score was 31. The second and third place winners also missed only two games. Cal Jones was second with a tie breaker score of 37 and S.T. Loerwald was third with a tiebreaker of 40.

13 others missed only two games this week including Darwin Manning, Donnie Cornelius, Jerry Richardson, Jason Jones, Jeff Loerwald, Ricky Klein, Nancy Howard, Mal Manchee, Curt McNaney, Beverly Bryant, Frank Cogdell, Bill Sanders, Bobbie Kitchens.

Pearson, Man In Clutch Situation

DALLAS (AP) — Drew Pearson is a clutch junkie.

Put the Dallas Cowboys in a pressure-cooker and Pearson has to have a fix—the ball.

Tight situations are the only times he ever pleads to Roger Staubach to throw the ball to him.

It was like that Sunday in the Meadowlands cauldron against the New York Giants.

"I was begging Roger for the ball," Pearson said Monday. "They were doubling me and tripling me but I just knew what I could do. It's been like that ever since I've been with the Cowboys."

Pearson was Staubach's connection on the famed "Hail Mary" last second bomb that beat Minnesota in the 1975 National Football League playoffs.

Pearson caught that ball on his hip. He looked up at the clock which said 20 seconds to go and threw the ball over the scoreboard.

He shagged an 83-yard touchdown pass that beat Los Angeles in the playoffs in 1973 in the fourth quarter and beat Washington on Thanksgiving Day 1974 on a 50-yard bomb from Clint Longley.

"I've always told them I can do it if they will just get the ball to me," said Pearson, whose

Houston Rips Miami, Oilers Get Ripped

MIAMI (AP) — The Houston Oilers' coaches were yelling angrily in the post-game locker room, but the Miami Dolphins' locker room was quiet — an angry quiet.

Three field goals by Toni Fritsch and some costly Dolphin turnovers enabled the Oilers to escape the Orange Bowl with a 9-6 victory Monday night.

"We played good when we had to," Coach Bum Phillips said after the game.

Suddenly, one-by-one, Phillips' assistants began shouting as they discovered their lockers had been stripped of watches, wallets and rings during the game.

"I've heard of poor losers but that beats everything," Phillips said.

The victory marked the fourth time this season a Fritsch field goal provided Houston's winning margin. He tied the game with a 46-yarder to open the second quarter, broke the tie with a 48-yarder with 5:05 left in the third quarter, then opened a 9-3 lead with a 39-yarder just before the quarter ended.

"Toni, I think, is the best kicker in the league," Phillips said of the 34-year-old Austrian who has hit 15 of 17 field goals this season.

Rookie Uwe von Schamann belted field goals of 32 and 51 yards and was warming up for a potential game-tie with two minutes left and the Dolphins at the Houston 20. But on second-and-7, linebacker Gregg Bingham picked off a Bob Griese pass at the 15 and returned it 54 yards to clinch the game.

Griese, under fire through most of what's been one of the worst slumps of his 13-year career, said: "Of course, that's the worst thing in the world that could have happened in that situation. I didn't plan it that way. Bingham just made a great play."

Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini, no stranger to criticism, agreed.

"It was one of those things: he had the guy open and made the throw. But Bingham gambled and made the interception. Knowing Bob Griese, he could make the same throw 100 times and it would not happen again," Pastorini said.

Griese's teammates weren't as quick to defend.

"We just choked up. We didn't challenge them with our play calling. We played a contender and we choked up. We played conservative instead of taking the challenge to them," said wide receiver Duriel Harris.

Harris set club records the previous week with 10 receptions for 180 yards but didn't catch a pass Monday while fellow wide receiver Nat Moore had just two receptions.

"I only got the ball thrown to me twice all night," Harris said. "I know what I can do to help this team, but if I don't get the ball I can't help. It's frustrating to work hard all week in practice for this."

"We took what they gave us — the short stuff to the backs. They were double covering the wide receivers," an annoyed Griese said. "I'm getting tired of hearing grumbling from my own team."

Gary Davis, in the starting lineup while halfback Delvin Williams recovers from two broken ribs, fumbled twice: at the Houston 15 in the second quarter and at the Houston 48 in the final quarter.

"There's no excuse for the way I played. It really bothers me that I didn't do the job when I had a chance to," Davis said.

Ironically, Davis was the training camp roommate this year of fullback Leroy Harris until Harris was traded to Philadelphia. Harris fumbled twice in the Dolphins' 17-9 loss to Houston in a wild-card playoff game here last season.

Formidable Earl Campbell, slowed to 41 yards the previous two weeks as he recovered from a thigh bruise, gained 121 yards on 32 carries to become the first running back to break 100 yards against the Dolphins this season.

But overall, Miami's defense was solid, holding Pastorini to 25 yards passing and three times stopping the Oilers without a first down in the thrilling fourth quarter.

"Our defense played their guts out, getting the field position many, many times for the offense to score some points," said Coach Don Shula. "But we really hurt ourselves with fumbles and interceptions. The interception at the end was the only thing we couldn't let happen and we did."

The victory kept the 7-3 Oilers tied with Cleveland, one game behind Pittsburgh in the AFC Central. The Dolphins, 6-4, fell a game behind New England in the AFC East.

Miami has yet to beat a team with a winning record.

"To get to where we want to go at the end of the season, we have to start beating some winning teams. Tonight was a good time to start," Shula said.

Brownfield Dropped From Herd Schedule

The University Interscholastic League's realignment will take effect next year but will have only minor effects on the Hereford Athletic program.

Beginning with the 1980-81 school year there will no longer be a Class "B." That classification will become Class "A" and each of the present classes will add another "A." For instance "AAAA" will become "AAAAA," "AAA" will become "AAAA" and so forth.

According to Hereford High Athletic Director Don Cumpton the only real change that will effect the Whiteface is Brownfield's move to a new District. Brownfield will join Borger, Canyon, Levelland, Lubbock Estacado, Dumas and Lubbock Dunbar in District 1-AAAAA next year. The move will drop Brownfield from the Whiteface football schedule. They will be replaced by Tascosa.

The other change for next year will be the order in which Hereford plays its District games. The Herd will face Monterey first, Plainview second, Lubbock third and Coronado last.

3-AAAA - AHS, Caprock, Palo Duro, Pampa and Tascosa.
4-AAAAA - Monterey, Coronado, Plainview, Hereford and Lubbock High.
1-AAAA - Borger, Brownfield, Canyon, Dumas, Levelland, Dunbar and Estacado.
2-AAAA - Andrews, Fort Stockton, Lamesa, Monahans, Odessa Ector, Pecos, San Angelo Lakeview, Snyder and Sweetwater.

2-AAA - Dimmitt, Friona, Littlefield, Otton and Muleshoe.

Okies Celebrate Birth of Will Rogers

OOLOGAH, Okla. (AP) — Will Rogers, born in Oklahoma Territory 100 years ago Sunday, saw the frailties in life and made the world laugh about them. It was 44 years ago that Rogers died in an Alaska plane crash, but his memory is still bright, particularly around this northeastern Oklahoma area where he was born and buried. A few people still personally remember the cowboy humorist, movie actor and writer. But thousands visit the Rogers Memorial on a hill at Claremore and the house where he was born, 13 miles from here. His humor, a half-century old, still wears well. Although it was topical — "I only know what I read in the newspapers," he often said — much of it could be written today. "I do not belong to any organized political party — I'm a Democrat," he once quipped. Rogers birthday events are held annually, but this year there was more interest in the humorist than usual. He was inducted into the Oklahoma Aviation Hall of Fame; actor James Whitmore continued a one-man tour, "Will Rogers USA"; a mobile museum of Rogers history went on display and an air show at Claremore was dedicated to him. Commemorative events in Oklahoma occurred not on his birthdate but on Aug. 15, the anniversary of the 1935 plane crash that took the lives of Rogers and his close friend, pilot Wiley Post. Rogers was born Nov. 4, 1879, the son of a comfortably fixed rancher, businessman and political leader. He grew up on a 60,000-acre ranch in the sparsely settled territory that later became Oklahoma. As a boy, he learned to ride and spin a rope, a skill that later helped make him famous. He attended a variety of schools in the territory and a couple in Missouri but did not shine as a student, preferring to practice his roping and tell jokes. It was when he combined the rope spinning act, that he hit the Ziegfield Follies bigtime and was invited to perform for royalty in England and Europe. Among his fans was President Franklin Roosevelt, who admired Rogers' intelligence as well as his wit. "Will Rogers' analysis of affairs abroad was not only more interesting but proved to be more accurate than any other I had heard," Roosevelt wrote.

Rogers looked anything but intelligent when making his savvy observations of the world. He slouched. He scratched his head. He gave a loop of rope a desultory twirl from time to time. He always chewed gum. Rogers had not set out to be an entertainer. He was a cowboy, but he was restless on the ranch even with gifts from his father of land and a herd of cattle. He wandered through the Southwest, working as a cowhand for the customary $30 a month. He went to Argentina but wasn't able to get a ranch started.

There, he got a job tending cattle on a boat to Africa and soon afterwards joined a wild west show as "The Cherokee Kid," a reference to his Cherokee Indian ancestry. He traveled with the show to Australia and New Zealand and finally back to the United States. By 1915, he had joined a Florenz Ziegfield production at the New Amsterdam Theater in New York. The Follies followed, along with movies, newspaper interviews, lecture tours, radio broadcasts, goodwill tours and books. Rogers insisted on keeping his humor timely. "A joke don't

No Shortage of Candidates For Houston City Offices

HOUSTON (AP) — There was no shortage of candidates — nine for mayor and 88 for the City Council — but a shortage of Houston voters was forecast today in an election marked with general disinterest and some confusion. The weatherman called for fair skies and temperatures in the mid-70s. Mayor Jim McConn is seeking his second two-year term, and political observers have said he should lead the ticket, although a Nov. 20 runoff appears certain. His two chief challengers are Councilman Louis Macey, 44, and Leonel Castillo, 40, former Houston city controller and recently resigned commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. The reconstructed City Council has caused some concern among voters as to how to cast ballots. In years past, the eight City Council members were elected by a citywide vote. But, the U.S.

Justice Department found Houston in violation of the federal Voting Rights Act because recently annexed areas were predominantly white. The department approved a new plan whereby the council was increased to 14 members, five to be elected at large and nine from specific districts. This means each voter can cast a ballot for six council members. Absentee voting has fallen below the figure of two years ago and election officials blame that on the new system. This confusion could cut into the turnout today. Minorities definitely will increase their representation on the city's governing body. In two of the new districts all of the candidates are black and in one all are Hispanic. Currently there is one black and no Hispanics on the council. The City Council races have drawn many political newcomers, but also three state legislators, a former fire chief, and a former school board president. Major issues have been the pothole-marked Houston streets, a sharp increase in crime, and an undependable mass transit system. McConn has reported campaign contributions of some $400,000 in his effort to win a second term for the $71,000-a-year job. Macey has a campaign kitty of $275,000 and Castillo, $90,000. McConn has avoided almost all face-to-face public meetings with the other candidates and has used a late television blitz to convince voters of the progress the city has made under his leadership. Castillo and Macey have pointed on occasion to a $6,000 loan McConn received in January to pay off a Las Vegas gambling debt. McConn said the loan was arranged by Jack Key, then the city purchasing agent. Key later was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of extorting $6,000 from the owner of a tire repair company doing business with the city. The mayor said there was no connection and he had no knowledge of Key's activities. Others in the mayor's race are C. Leon Pickett, 51, a real estate investor; Larry Robinson, 32, an auto salvage firm owner; Bette Graham White, 40, public relations consultant; Jewell Davis Lemons, 70, attorney; and Lawrence Andrew Sims, 31, a law school student and developer.

Adams to Head Texas DPS

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — James Adams, the former FBI official picked to head the Texas Department of Public Safety, says the state police agency needs wiretaps to trap big-time drug dealers. "I anticipate we're talking about 10-15 wiretaps a year in Texas," Adams said. "Why should law enforcement people in Texas be denied a tool that has been constitutionally upheld?" Gov. Bill Clements brought Adams home to Texas in April to head the governor's criminal justice division. Clements endorsed Adams' candidacy as a replacement for DPS director Col. William Speir, who is retiring Dec. 31 after 11 years as director. Clements says he will ask legislators at a special session next year to pass a law authorizing wiretapping and imposing limitations on its use. Adams said "top echelon" drug dealers manage to stay clear of narcotics trafficking. Listening to their phones, Adams said, is the only way to catch them. "But obviously this is not going to end drugs in Texas," he said. "The drug problem is almost bigger than the world." The former FBI No. 2 man said he knows the man he beat out for the Texas Department of Public Safety director's post was the favorite of DPS personnel. "There's always a lot of sentiment in an organization to promote from within," he said. But the three-member commission broke with tradition and bypassed DPS Col. Leo Gossett-Speir's choice-for the top spot at the 4,500-person state police agency. Gossett will stay on as assistant director. "We're dealing with a professional group here," Adams, 52, said, "and a professional group falls in line. I think I'll have their full support." Before Adams' selection, Speir called the DPS a "pretty close-knit" agency. He said it would take an outsider a while to understand the operations. Adams' selection Friday followed weeks of subdued politicking. Clements said he exerted no pressure on the commission and made it clear Adams is on his own at DPS. "I'm not telling Mr. Adams what to do or how to do it," Clements said. Adams joined the FBI in 1951 after resigning as a state representative. He previously had been an assistant Limestone County attorney.

In April 1978 he was named associate FBI director. He was among the top officials when the bureau was criticized for its clandestine operations. Commission Chairman Robert Shelton of Kerrville said he found nothing to taint Adams' record. Adams, a Baylor Law School alumnus, said he knows the DPS is different from the FBI. He promised a "balanced" program, with emphasis on both criminal and traffic law enforcement. "Texas doesn't need a mini-FBI," he told reporters. "I recognize I'm no longer in the FBI." Adams said DPS resources are limited — but Clements said the budget "may very well grow in the short term and long term." Speir also said there are differences in the way the two agencies operate. "My belief is we have better cooperative programs — especially in criminal law enforcement — with the police and sheriff's departments. We work with those people very closely in a supportive role. As far as I know, the FBI doesn't," he said. Speir, 62, was director for 11 years and served with the DPS for 38 years. He said he has applied for a part-time teaching job at Southwest Texas State University. "The late Indian leader Mohandas Gandhi began a fast in 1932 to dramatize his campaign for an end to discrimination against the so-called Untouchables, the lowest of the castes. The fast ended after six days when the Pact of Poona allowed the Untouchables to enter all temples and schools and to use all Indian roads.

Defendant's Brother Testifies In Phillips Murder Trial

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A Jefferson County investigator says five members of the Bishop Phillips family apparently fell into a pre-dug grave after each victim was shot back of the head. Pat Hayes of the Jefferson County district attorney's office Monday identified 24 photographs of the bodies and the bullet taken from 3-year-old Jason Phillips' head. Hayes testified Jason lay on top of the pile of bodies with his arm draped around the neck of his father, Elmer Phillips. Ovide Joe Dugas Jr. is accused of capital murder in the death of the child. The boy and four other family members were taken from their home near Winnie, in Southeast Texas, and executed during the July 4th holiday in 1978. Dugas' former wife, a member of the Phillips family, was not among those slain. Elmer Phillips' torso was bent around his legs, Hayes said. "I believe the man was standing when he was shot and fell forward," he said. Hayes said the other adults' bodies were in similar positions, except for Elmer's wife, Esther, who was on her side. He testified all of the victims appeared to have been shot in the back of the head, and that all of the adults had masking tape over their mouths. In earlier testimony, Dugas' brother said Dugas bragged about committing the "perfect murder." Richard Dugas, 30, testified that although his brother had on several occasions tried to solicit his help in the killings, he never took him seriously. "I just never believed him," Richard testified. "I didn't think he had the guts to do it." He said his brother told him about the killings as the pair drove alone in a truck on July 4, 1978. Richard said his brother told him he met a woman, on the parking lot of a nightclub near Port Arthur and the pair drove in her car to a spot near the Phillips home. Joe Dugas and the woman, wearing "jungle fatigues," crawled to the house through a rice field, Richard Dugas said.

On Billy Graham's Mountain, Part I

Over my shoulder a backward glance. Billy Graham and I were born the same year — I in September and he in October. Recently in his hilltop home in Montreat, N.C., I called him over to mirror where he could see both of us together and reminded him: "Billy—that is what you are going to look like in one more month!" His laughter was genuine but there had to be some anxiety in it. The organization which has been filming Billy Graham's crusades for television wanted to do a TV documentary on the private life of the world's most public man. I was asked to host the program, interview Ruth and Billy in depth. It was suggested that I be a probing interviewer—challenging him on sensitive issues. How could I? Billy and I grew up together—though our wives must suspect at times that neither of us has grown up yet. We have known one another professionally for most of our lives. My wife Angel and I love Ruth and Billy. How could I join the nit-picking critics of his ministry when I would prefer to protect it from them? Such is my admiration that I hope I do not have to live in a world without Billy Graham in it. But they insisted—and I tried. And that is how I happened to be at his home on what was to be an historic weekend for us all. To the young cynics whose suspicion of the "celebrity clergy" is not entirely groundless, the most significant single endorsement of Billy Graham is his exemplary family. The weekend of our TV taping—his youngest son, Ned, was married to a nurse he met at the Mayo Clinic—on the front lawn of the family home in Montreat. His dad conducted the service. It was a coincidence that the previous day was the one we'd selected for our day-long interviews on camera. So Saturday the lawn, the porch and the house were a mass of cables and cameras, lights and amplifiers, technicians and directors.... All this going on, mind you, while Ruth is back and forth from the door to welcome family from all over the world and to the kitchen to feed us and to prepare for the wedding the following morning. If it sounds hectic, somehow it did not seem so. Our TV make-up man, having tried to make my tan match Billy's real one—was trimming the groom's hair on the front porch while his bride-to-be took snapshots and Billy and I sat on the rail fence which separates his smaller world from his larger one and informally reminisced about his life, his family and his ministry. (To be continued—next release)

What Beach Does She Swim On ?

WINDSOR, Conn. (AP) — Six-year-old Neysa Levesque is afraid to go to Brownie meetings alone any more. Christopher Cahill, 21, breaks into a cold sweat every time it rains hard.

The man and the little girl are only two of the many in this small New England town who share a common nightmare.

It was a month ago today. Like a bully who moves into a new neighborhood, a rare tornado bore down on the shocked New Englanders with vengeance, killing two and sending damage into the tens of millions.

Neysa still has recurring nightmares of the time she spend huddled in a school hallway as the twister ripped the building apart.

Christopher's brother, Dennis, 28, doesn't know when he'll return to work with the Southern New England Telephone Company. His left leg is paralyzed from injuries he received when the storm tore up his mother's house and hurled him and his two brothers across the street like rag dolls. Brother Jeffrey suffered a broken back.

Patricia Levesque, Neysa's mother, says she doesn't think she'll ever be able to erase from her mind the minutes she spent struggling to keep a closet door shut as the twister destroyed most of her new house.

Rosemary Cahill, the 52-year old mother of the three brothers, cannot get over the day the body of a new friend, Carole Dembowski, was found near her house in the debris.

The Cahills, Levesques and many others are living in government-furnished trailers now. They are part of stubborn group intent on rebuilding houses damaged and destroyed when the tornado struck Windsor, Windsor Locks and Suffield. Damage has been estimated at more than $200 million.

"We're still in a daze but I'm back to normal if you can call living in a trailer normal," Mrs. Levesque said. She says a contractor told them their house won't be finished for at least four months.

"I had been looking forward to spending our first real Christmas in it," Mrs. Levesque said.

She said she had been preparing embroidered Christmas ornaments on the floor of the den when the tornado struck. Her daughter was attending a Brownie meeting in the auditorium of Poquonock School when the storm struck, her mother said.

The children were shepherded to a hallway, where they remained as the tornado ripped off the roof and walls of the auditorium.

"She wasn't ready to handle it," said Mrs. Levesque. "Her favorite saying is that she wishes it were a dream."

Liver damage suggested

DEAR DR. LAMB — About a month ago I had a complete physical, the first one I've ever had and I'm 72 years of age. When the results came back, the doctor asked me if I drank, as alcohol showed up in my liver. I never, never, never touch that poison. I never have nor will I ever. His question really hurt me and I was so mad that I could hardly see straight. Now they want me to go through another test of the same kind. Please tell me how it would be possible for alcohol to show in the liver when I never drank or smoked. I'm still hurt and confused over what he said.

DEAR READER — Perhaps you misunderstood your doctor. You probably had some blood tests that related to the function of your liver.

These tests may have been abnormal. One of the common causes of damage of the liver is alcohol. But certainly the liver can be damaged from many other things, including old infections or reactions to gallbladder disease and even as a complication to long-standing heart failure.

It would be natural for your doctor to ask you about alcohol if your tests suggested that you have liver damage. He would need to know that fact and wouldn't know without asking you.

Since you've never used alcohol, it's clear that if you do have any abnormality in the function of your liver, it's in no way related to alcohol.

These tests are very tricky and sometimes you can have abnormal tests and still have a normal liver. That's why he wants to repeat the tests.

To give you more information about the liver, I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-9, Low Blood Sugar: Hypoglycemia. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As The Health Letter I'm sending you explains, you can have a low blood glucose level from many different things. Some people have this while they're fasting. In those instances, it may be caused by such things as a tumor of the insulin producing glands in the pancreas. The oversecretion of insulin causes the low blood glucose levels.

The other type and probably more common form of low blood sugar is reactive hypoglycemia. This means the blood glucose may be perfectly normal in the fasting state but falls to very low levels sometimes after eating. Some people call this rebound hypoglycemia. The thought here is that the blood glucose level goes very high and falls to low levels as a rebound reaction.

DEAR READER — Low blood sugar, which we call hypoglycemia, merely means that someone has observed that you have a low level of glucose in your blood. This can occur in normal people who have no symptoms at all. Levels below 40 have been found in vigorous, healthy, young athletes. Thus we don't make the diagnosis of clinical low blood sugar unless the person also has symptoms. Ideally, the symptoms must be demonstrated at the same time the blood glucose level is low.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The shutdowns of low-level nuclear waste dumps in other states may prompt Texas to create a dump of its own.

Although Texas has several sites which generate nuclear waste, the state has no permanent site for disposal of such wastes and has been shipping them to dumps in South Carolina, Washington and Nevada. Only the South Carolina dump is still operating and officials there announced recently it would not take on the wastes refused by other states.

Texas now has to find a place to ship the radioactive wastes which are accumulating here. Health Department officials predict the wastes could pile up for six months to a year before the state faces a major problem.

Last session the Texas Legislature rejected a bill to create a low-level nuclear waste dump somewhere in Texas because the penalty to other states for illegal dumping was $200—the same fine for littering on the highways. The Nevada and Washington dumps shut down after illegal dumping was discovered at those sites.

Gov. Bill Clements long ago expressed his willingness to create a dump site in Texas, and lawmakers are now mulling over the problem. Strong sentiment exists that if Texas does create a waste dump, then the facility should accept only Texas waste and none from any other states.

Tuition Low in Texas
A brighter note for Texans came last week from Higher Education Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth who told a legislative committee that state university tuition and fees would still be among the lowest in the nation, even if tuition doubled.

He stopped short of recommending an increase, though. The Coordinating Board will consider such a proposal in January.

"Redneck" Attitude
Institutions of higher learning came under attack from Gov. Bill Clements two weeks ago when he charged they probably wasted more tax money and effort than any other state agency.

Clements, himself, drew criticism from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby for that comment.

Hobby told reporters that there is already a strong current of "anti-intellectualism" in the Legislature, "but it should be the duty of the governor to counteract that sort of thing rather than give it redneck reinforcement."

He backed higher education as "very well run" and added, "if there were fat (too much tax money) there, I think we would cut it out."

Black-Hispanic Coalition?
Controversial Ruben Bonilla, national president of the League of Latin American Citizens and a Texan, flew to New York last week to meet with the director of the National Urban League.

The subject: creation of a working coalition between blacks and Mexican-Americans.

The Corpus Christi attorney said minorities are concerned they are losing ground in the area of civil rights.

Bonilla, who has been outspoken in the past months, also blasted U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling of Houston for sentencing three former Houston police officers to one year and one day in prison for violating the civil rights of Joe Campos Torres. Torres died in police custody after he was beaten and thrown into a bayou by the officers.

Sterling's removal from the bench will be a priority Hispanic issue, Bonilla vowed.

Hill Seeks Refund
Former Attorney General John Hill asked Dallas County to refund half of the money he paid for a recount of county votes last year in his race against Gov. Bill Clements.

Hill said he was due the money not spent in the recount, about $1,000 of the $2,071 he paid.

Garwood Named
Governor Clements has appointed Austin attorney Will Garwood as associate justice of the Texas Supreme Court. He replaces Sam D. Johnson, who is now judge of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Garwood is expected to seek a full term as a Republican in the 1980 election.

Rep. Roberts to Retire
U.S. Rep. Ray Roberts, D-McKinney, announced he will retire at the end of the 96th Congress. Roberts, 66, touched off a flurry of political activity in the 4th Congressional District. One observer predicted the district will be split by redistricting.

Attorney General Opinions
Atty. Gen. Mark White in a legal opinion ruled expert witnesses at criminal trials cannot be paid greater fees as witnesses than other witnesses.

He also found that a district clerk is required to file exhibits received in evidence during criminal proceedings as well as those received during civil proceedings.

The Titus County Hospital District may select its depository from among those used by Titus County.

What is A Town?

A town is a group of people.

It is schools.

It is city government.

It is churches.

It is hospitals

It is industry and jobs.

It is retail businesses.

They all have to work together. All must have the support of the people.

Or there is no town.

Give your local merchant a chance for your business. You shouldn't spend your hard earned money with him unless his selection is adequate and his price competitive. But give him the first opportunity to make the sale.

For the local retailer pays the highest percentage of local taxes. He most often is the civic leader who dedicates his time and talents to his town. He is contacted first for contributions to charitable projects. He provides jobs. Without his store you have no town.

Give the local merchant a fair shake

Prime Farmland Shift Made Important in Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The shift of prime farmland into urban and other nonfarm uses is a concern of many agricultural leaders these days, but it may be a long time before Congress decides how best to cope with the problem.

For example, a hitch developed Friday over a bill that would make the loss of farmland an official concern of the federal government.

Rep. Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa, and some other Agriculture Committee members said the legislation would be a step toward a federal land-use law.

One of the lurking fears shared by some farmers and their organizations is that any kind of congressional land reform would be a step toward all-out federal management of the American land system.

The legislation, which supporters say is not such a threat and, in fact, would help preserve individual land rights, is sponsored mainly by Reps. James M. Jeffords, R-Vt., and Richard Nolan, D-Minn.

It would require all federal agencies to make sure their actions conform to state laws designed to protect 1 billion acres of farms and woodlands.

The measure flatly prohibits federal agencies from using its policy statements to try to regulate the use of any private land. It repeatedly says that protection of crop lands, pastures and forests is a state and local matter.

After an hour's discussion, Grassley pointed out that the committee did not have permission to hold a business meeting while the full House was in session.

Under the rules, Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., had to adjourn the meeting. He said that the proposed Agricultural Land Protection Act would be taken up again next Thursday.

Grassley lost, 15-4, on an earlier attempt to send the bill to a subcommittee other than the one that wrote it.

Foley said the bill was "a cautious, moderate, sensible approach ... to a very sensitive issue."

But he said that anyone who wanted to stop a federal program — from energy projects to a research station — could use the Jeffords-Nolan language to file lawsuits and delay it "for some reason other than saving a farm."

"It would add considerably to the arsenal of anyone who wanted to stop any federal project," Foley said, noting that a vacant lot could be considered crop land under the bill. He said that environmental-protection laws are repeatedly being abused this way.

"which will have a significant and direct effect of converting agricultural land to nonagricultural uses."

His bill "is a direction to consciousness-raising" that provides no new legal tools but might help "stop the reckless, ill-considered and thoughtless taking of agricultural lands."

Both approaches would provide $60.5 million for four years of tests by states of various ways to reduce the amount of farmland being lost to other uses each year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department wants meat graders to look cleaner and neater on the job.

Officials said Friday a proposal under consideration would require meat graders and their supervisors to wear "clean, white frocks" while performing their duties.

"Meat graders, as well as butchers and other plant personnel, customarily wear frocks," the department said. "The proposal would make clean, white frocks mandatory for meat graders to help maintain sanitary conditions."

Comments on the proposal can be sent by Dec. 31 to: Executive Secretariat, Food Safety and Quality Service, USDA, Room 3807-S, Washington, D.C. 20250.

WASHINGTON (AP) —

World production of oilseeds is up sharply this year, due largely to the record U.S. soybean crop now being harvested.

The Agriculture Department said Friday world output now is estimated at a record of nearly 178 million metric tons of oilseeds, which includes sunflowerseed, cottonseed, rapeseed and other oil-bearing crops.

In 1978-79, world output was about 160 million metric tons of oilseeds, the department's outlook board said.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and, in the case of soybeans, is equal to 36.7 bushels.
