

Iranian Protestors Shout, 'Death to Carter'

By The Associated Press
Iranian demonstrators blindfolded one of their 60 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, bound his hands behind his back and paraded him around the garden today while mobs shouted, "Death to Carter!" and "Send Back the Shah!" a witness reported.

The demonstrators also accused L. Bruce Laingen, the U.S. charge d'affaires, of being a "plotting spy" and said they would hold him captive at the Foreign Ministry, where he has been since the embassy was taken over Sunday.

The spectacle at the American Embassy was reported by a witness who telephoned The Associated Press in Athens. The witness asked anonymity. NBC television said the American who was paraded around the garden was about 40 years old, but did not further identify him.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has rejected a special peace mission from President Carter, leaving the Palestine Liberation Organization the only apparent hope for the release soon of the American hostages, who already have been reported "pushed around, abused, intimidated and mishandled."

Tehran Radio said before any talks could be held with Carter's peace emissaries, the U.S. government would have to surrender Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran to face trial as a war criminal, something Washington has refused to do.

"The U.S. government, by keeping the shah, has declared its open opposition to Iran. The U.S. Embassy in Iran is our enemies' center of espionage against our sacred Islamic movement. It is therefore not possible, under any circumstances, for the special representatives to meet us," said the broadcast monitored in Kuwait and London.

Carter's special envoys were former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who met with Khomeini in January while the ayatollah was an exile in France, and William Miller, a staff member of the Senate Intelligence Committee who speaks Persian. They interrupted their journey in Istanbul, Turkey, "pending clarification" from the Iranian authorities, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

"It is our hope that they will be able to proceed with their mission at the earliest opportunity," said Carter.

Meanwhile, two top aides to PLO chief Yasser Arafat flew to Tehran today, after an overnight stop in Kuwait, to try to negotiate the release of the embassy hostages. Arafat's envoys were Abu Jihad, who heads PLO forces in Lebanon, and Abu Walid, who heads the organization's military operations headquarters.

Although Khomeini rebuffed Carter's representatives, he and his Revolutionary Council were expected to receive Arafat's because of the close relationship they forged as soon as Khomeini's revolution was victorious last February.

Both the U.S. government and the PLO said Arafat took a hand in the situation entirely on his own initiative, without any overtures from the U.S. government. His purpose obviously was to improve his chances for the official U.S. recognition denied the PLO so far because of the U.S. alliance with Israel.

President Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, told reporters in Washington: "Anyone who can help would be playing a constructive role."

Another U.S. official in Washington who asked not to be identified said the approximately 60 Americans held hostage by students in the Tehran embassy were being pushed around and their captors had brought in new weapons, including machine guns. But he said there was no evidence any of the hostages were "beaten, stabbed or

The Chamber Follies, scheduled Nov. 15-16-17, will have two "kicklines" this year, with one group rehearsing in the daytime and one at night as the practice sessions continue daily for the big comedy musical variety show. The photo above has one of the kicklines in rehearsal Wednesday night. Tickets are on sale by cast members and Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce leaders. The cast is composed entirely of local residents, under direction of a Hollywood director.

MSI To Submit Proposal For Local Ambulance Operation

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Two representatives of Medical Services Inc., a Eugene, Ore., private ambulance company, told Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard Wednesday that their firm would provide Deaf Smith county officials with a proposal for an ambulance service prior to Dec. 1.

That was the date given by Hereford's two funeral-home directors as to when they would no longer provide ambulance services in Deaf Smith County.

Dennis Murphy, corporate operations manager for MSI in Eugene, and Texas regional manager Tracy Skeen of Amarillo met for nearly three hours Wednesday with Bullard.

Bullard told the MSI officials that the county could not afford a full-scale private ambulance service but instead was willing to provide local volunteers to assist a fulltime MSI Paramedic.

"I'm not acting as a spokesman for this county, by any means," Bullard told the MSI officials. "But, I think I have an idea of what the officials here have stated that they want in terms of an ambulance service because we've had meetings on the subject and have come up with both ideal and cost-effective systems."

Cost-effective, Bullard said, would be a system with one advance-life support vehicle, two backup vehicles, one paid paramedic to work five days a week and volunteer paramedics, and/or emergency medical technicians to handle calls when the paramedic is off-duty and to assist him during his working hours.

Murphy said that MSI has never attempted a "mixed" operation, but said that a successful system of that type in Deaf Smith county would open doors to other cities and counties in similar financial positions as Hereford.

"It excites me," Murphy said. "If MSI's going to continue to be successful, we can learn right here in Hereford how to do it. We have never done a Hereford before."

Murphy said MSI would come up with a proposal by Dec. 1. The proposal, he added, would contain a user fee a subsidy and optional ambulance memberships.

A family membership would cost $29 per year and would allow payers to receive ambulance service at no additional cost for a year. Other persons would pay the user fee, Murphy said.

He praised MSI's membership program, saying "we have proven that it is successful."

Hereford, Murphy said, "easily presents the best challenge to our flexibility. We'll try to make best use of all our capabilities—yours and mine—and then we'll submit a bid.

"We can get a proposal to you on time if the ambulance drivers are calling it quits by Dec. 1."

Skeen said recent publicity by the Amarillo news media about ambulance response time during last week's snowstorm and higher user fees than what Metropolitan Ambulance Service (MSI's predecessor in Amarillo) charged has been unfair.

"We've dropped the average response time from 10.4 minutes to 6.58. They (news media members) took a couple of long calls during the snowstorm and dramatized them," Skeen said.

Murphy said MSI has experienced in Amarillo "what amounts to cultural shock—we have put in a high-quality service overnight, and the citizenry at large has seen a metamorphosis, a complete change, and they're not used to it."

Bullard told the MSI officials they would need to submit their proposal to the city and county commissioners.

County Judge Glen Nelson said today that he will poll commissioners by

Q—Why can't standards for participants in football and all school sports be raised to equal those of the drill team and other extracurricular activities, rather than lowering the standards of any activity?

A—To answer that, we provide the following space to Superintendent Harrell Holder, who writes:

"I am proud to have the opportunity to further clarify my position on extracurricular activities at the Hereford Secondary Schools. I have always been a believer in a strong activities program for our youth. I spent five years in the Denver City school system (1959-64) when we had one of the finest programs in the nation. Almost all of our students were involved in some phase of our program. It was unheard of for one of our students to drop out of school at that time. When I was a superintendent of a small school, I always felt that the main advantage of our smallness was our ability to involve over 90 percent of our students in activities. This paid dividends because I also remember one year our entire graduating class attended college and passed Freshman English. How many schools can make such a boast?"

"I am convinced that this type of involvement keeps kids interested in school and improves the quality of their academic work. These activities are for all students and not just the academically talented."

"The University Interscholastic League requires that in order to participate a student must be passing the equivalent of three solid subjects. This allows him to fail one subject and be

House Approves Welfare Revision Despite Republican Objections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barely surviving a last-minute attack, a scaled-down version of President Carter's welfare-revision bill won House approval Wednesday over Republican objections that it still goes too far.

House members voted 222-184 for the bill, which would for the first time put a minimum-payment floor under about 11 million Americans now receiving welfare money under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

The final vote came after narrow 205-

200 defeat of a motion to send the measure back to committee with instructions to change it drastically.

Democratic supporters praised the minimum-payment provision as help for "the poorest of the poor," but Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., criticized it as "just a foot in the door" that would surely lead to much higher payments.

The bill sets the minimum at 65 percent of the poverty level — a payment of about $4,700 a year for a family of four receiving money under the program, which now is run by the states with costs shared by the federal government.

Carter.

None of the candidates is expected for meetings today and Friday, but President Carter is sending newly appointed campaign manager Robert Strauss and three top aides.

Strauss, Carter's special Middle East ambassador until joining the president's re-election campaign Tuesday, was scheduled to give the keynote address during Friday's general session.

Strauss' new job and the now-official Kennedy and Brown challenges forced White to do some agenda shuffling.

Strauss will still deliver his speech, but White has allowed Kennedy and Brown campaign officials to designate a speaker in order to allow equal time.

Meanwhile, South Texas Kennedy supporters are planning a large reception Thursday night for the DNC members, especially the more than 50 who publically support the Massachusetts senator. The reception was planned by a Draft Kennedy group before Kennedy scheduled his announcement.

"We figure John White needs to know we're here," said Louise Caddell, a member of the state Democratic committee and co-chairman of Texas for Kennedy-South Texas.

"It's an effort to show we're serious about this. It's early for us, so I doubt we would show a lot of force," said San Antonio attorney and reception host Pat Maloney, who has been in contact with Kennedy aides.

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne is among the Kennedy supporters planning to attend the DNC meeting.

The committee must decide plans for the 1980 convention and elect a "temporary" convention chairman and heads of the major convention committees.

The leaders handle the important pre-convention platform drawing and were expected to be approved as "permanent" chairmen by the convention delegates.

The general session of the DNC is scheduled Friday.

Local Gross Sales Top $55 Million For 2nd Quarter

Gross sales in Deaf Smith County for the second quarter of the year totaled $55,626,145, according to a report released this week by the state comptroller's office.

Comptroller Bob Bullock, in a written statement accompanying the report, said that gross sales, one of the barometers of the state's economic health, continued to climb in the state.

Bullock said that a sales tax analysis of gross sales for April, May and June showed that gross sales in Texas totaled $49.5 billion, up $5.3 billion over the same three-month period of 1978.

The second-quarter gross sales also surpassed sales in this year's first quarter by about $1 billion, the statement revealed.

The gross sales figures were gathered from 262,128 reporting outlets in Texas. Out-of-state gross sales received from 4,788 reporting outlets in the same period totaled $3.8 billion.

Area counties and their second-quarter gross sales included Castro, $27.8 million; Gray $98.6 million; Hutchinson, $59.9 million; Parmer $2.7 million; Oldham, $3.7 million; Potter, $487.8 million; and Randall, $128.7 million.

announced it was raising its prime lending rate from 15 percent to a record 15 1/2%.

Earlier Wednesday, House Majority Leader James Wright sharply attacked the board's policies, saying that continued high interest rates would "drive the economy into the ground, needlessly and foolishly."

He urged immediate reductions in the record-high interest rates, which he said are "counterproductive" and the "worst possible medicine" to fight inflation, which now exceeds 13 percent a year.

Wright said controls on consumer credit would be "infinitely preferable" to "abdication" anti-inflation policy to the Federal Reserve Board.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite growing opposition to high interest rates, the Federal Reserve Board will not reverse its tight-money course until the public is convinced inflation can be beaten, the board's vice chairman says.

"It's not our intention to break the back of the economy," Frederick Schultz said Wednesday, adding that the board's sweeping actions last month are aimed at breaking inflationary expectations that lead people to spending and borrowing more while saving less.

If such expectations can be altered, interest rates will begin to fall "within the next few months," Schultz told a conference called by the National Association of Home Builders.

His statement came as the nation's third-largest bank, Chase Manhattan,

Davis Jurors Don't Reach Early Verdict

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Jurors trying to reach a verdict in the murder solicitation trial of millionaire Cullen Davis were unable to come to a decision after their first day of deliberations Wednesday.

Defense attorneys said the fact that there was no verdict on the first day was a sign there would be another hung jury, but prosecutors said it's too early to tell.

Chief prosecutor Jack Strickland said the time for state attorneys to start worrying about the verdict would be if a second day of deliberations ends without a decision in the 15-week-long trial.

The jury deliberated six hours and 17 minutes before calling it quits at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday, saying they would start again this morning.

"I'm very confident the probabilities of acquittal are excellent," defense attorney Mike Gibson said. But later he said the most likely outcome would be another hung jury.

"I don't think we'll ever get a verdict in this case," he said. "That's not exactly our company line, but that's what I believe. I said the same thing in Houston."

The first case ended last January when a Houston jury deadlocked 8-4 for conviction.

Strickland predicted a conviction, but at the end of the first day of deliberations, he said, "I see no pattern developing at all (in the jury's written requests). In Houston, you could see a pattern developing early. They asked for very small details."

"We don't even have any indication they've had a vote."

The jury, reduced to 11 members earlier in the trial when one suffered a broken leg and dropped out, made several requests during the day, mostly for soft drinks. Judge Gordon Gray denied their request for a dictionary, but did provide the eight men and three women with a list of witnesses and the notes of FBI agents which were part of the evidence.

Chase over Ticket Ends with Bovina Arrest

A 26-year-old Pennsylvania man refused to accept a speeding ticket from a Hereford police officer, fled in his car and was involved in a high-speed chase with area law-enforcement officers before he was finally apprehended Wednesday afternoon in Bovina.

Thomas Pater, 26, of Tarentum, Penn., and his brother, Stephen Pater, 22, of Newkens, Penn., were charged with evading arrest and booked into Parmer County Jail in Farwell on $7,500 bond each. The older man was driving the car, a late-model Chevrolet Nova.

They were stopped east of Bovina on U.S. Highway 60 by a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper and a narcotics officer, both of Amarillo, one of whom shot out two tires on the suspects' car.

According to Hereford police reports, officer Neal Green stopped the car on W. Park Ave. for speeding on N. Highway 385 and a defective brake light.

The driver, according to police, refused to show his driver's license after several demands by Green, then engaged his gearshift lever and took off, with the patrolman holding onto the door.

Green lost his balance and released the door, according to reports.

Two units from the Hereford Police Department and three from the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office chased the suspects' vehicle west on the Harrison Highway before it turned south onto a dirt road.

The car was pursued on several dirt roads before it finally eluded the patrol vehicles after a 47-minute chase.

According to reports, a Friona patrol car picked up the chase on Highway 60 and the suspects' vehicle was stopped before it reached Bovina.

Hereford police answered one other call Wednesday. Jim Miller, 431 Fir, reported that someone kicked open his front door and entered his residence some time between 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. A 16-gauge shotgun and several shells were reportedly stolen.

Brown Formally Announces Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today, saying that the nation's current leaders are "simply inadequate to steer the ship of state."

Brown says he stands for protection of the Earth, service to the people and exploration and industrialization of space.

That was the theme of a brief statement with which, Brown said, "I offer myself as a candidate" for the White House because the nation's current leadership is not adequate.

"Presidential leadership often seems the exception rather than the rule," he said. "It's time to wake up America, to build for the future, not steal from it."

He vowed: "I'm going to offer an alternative."

With that, Brown formally launched his challenge to President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the latter already on the road campaigning for the nomination. Carter is to announce his candidacy on Dec. 4.

Brown said he is the candidate of the future, and that is what the nation needs.

Americans Upset

At Iranians

By DON HARRISON
Associated Press Writer

A growing number of Americans appear to agree with the sentiment expressed in a banner hung from a college dormitory window in New England: "Iranians go back to your fascist dictator."

The banner, discovered Wednesday dangling from a dormitory window at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut was one of many responses to the continuing stalemate at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, where about 60 Americans are being held hostage by Iranian students.

Some 200 Iranians attend the University of Bridgeport.

The words were different, but the message this week has been the same at other schools, meeting halls, street corners and living rooms. Some people have picketed. Others have shouted.

The captors are demanding the U.S. return the deposed Shah of Iran, hospitalized in New York with cancer, to face trial. Iran's ruler, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, has supported them, and efforts to resolve the standoff through diplomacy have failed.

The Carter administration has ruled out resolution by force, but many Americans don't want the U.S. to back down, either.

7 Prisoners Remain

Free After Break

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — Seven prisoners, described by authorities as "armed and really dangerous," remained at large today after a prison break by 15 inmates that left an off-duty state trooper and one of the prisoners dead, officials said.

A three-state manhunt was under way for the remaining inmates, who escaped from the West Virginia Penitentiary at 8:10 p.m. EST Wednesday after overpowering two guards.

Several escapees were believed to be armed with automatic weapons, authorities said.

"They are armed and really dangerous," said Cpl. J.G. Watson of the West Virginia State Police.

Several were serving sentences for first-degree murder, according to Jerrie Braeken, penitentiary spokeswoman.

State police Capt. L.J. Trupo said "When they came out the door apparently they scattered like sheep."

Four inmates, all unarmed, were caught within walking distance of the penitentiary, just hours after the breakout, Watson said.

El Paso Officer

Indicted For Bribe

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An El Paso policeman was arrested Wednesday on charges he offered a customs inspector "in excess of $1,000 per week" to look the other way while he smuggled an unspecified amount of marijuana through a border checkpoint.

Ramon Magos, 29, was named in a five-count sealed indictment returned by a federal grand jury Tuesday.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Mike McDonald said the arrest culminated a nine-month investigation by customs internal security officers and El Paso police that began when Inspector Richard Martinez reported the alleged bribery attempt to his supervisor.

Police Chief Bill Rodriguez suspended Magos, a three-year veteran of the force, after his arrest at police headquarters Wednesday.

The indictments charge Magos, who is being held on $50,000 bond, with attempted bribery, attempted smuggling and three counts of using a telephone to commit a felony.

If convicted, he could face maximum sentences of 15 years in prison and a $20,000 fine on the attempted bribery count; 15 years and a $25,000 fine on the attempted smuggling count and four years and a $3,000 fine on each of the telephone counts.

HHS student body participate and get to feel the excitement of 'being number one.'

"Both of the athletic directors with whom I have worked in Hereford have believed in getting kids into their programs. They believe that we can help kids more effectively if they are in our activities than we can if they are running up and down the streets. Their work is now paying dividends. You could even say our standards for our football team are rising because the numbers we now have are increasing competition for each spot.

"I have seen 'standards' work in reverse right here in Hereford High School. Where students are not allowed to make a grade below a 'C' during any reporting period; they have been reluctant to take the courses they really need. They may want to be in the drill team and not take any chances of being suspended, so they do not enroll for a course which they know they can easily make a high grade.

"Many of the girls in the drill team are scholars in their own right. It is highly unlikely that they require getting the drill team as a motivation for making high grades. Assuming four or five might be motivated by the activity, can we justify disqualification for even trying out for forty or fifty girls who might make terrific additions to our squad. If some of these girls end up participating, I think the advice and counseling of our sponsors will help almost all of them make better grades.

"I believe in standards very strongly. I believe in them so strongly that I advocate minimum standards for all of our students in reading, writing, and mathematics. Our teachers are currently studying processes whereby students can follow steady progress toward meeting these minimum standards. We are working on challenging all of our students regardless of their abilities.

"Success in life is based on a person's ability to perform a given task at a given time. Our mission at school is to prepare our students to meet this type of challenge. Academic abilities are a great asset to a person in overcoming obstacles in his path, but all people have other qualities upon which they must also rely.

"Some of our elective offices require certain grade standards. What are the standards for holding most public offices? Generally, one must simply be a qualified voter. There are no "cutoffs" for those with below average grades. Should the qualifications for serving on one of our student councils be higher than those required for serving in the United States Congress? We have a great bunch of kids, and I believe they will make wise decisions in selecting their leaders.

"Our local taxpayers are spending thousands of dollars to keep our activity programs in operation. Let's get our money's worth and get as many kids involved as possible.

"By the way—lest you feel this instruction, referred to in our original question last Friday, was given by me under pressure from any person or group, it was first issued in a staff meeting in November, 1976. It came directly from my heart."

hospital should take this thing by the horns and do something with it," Nelson said.

"I realize the hospital's budget already has been established for this year, but the same thing applies to the county and the city."

Bullard said the hospital district definitely would not fund an ambulance service.

"If people are waiting for the hospital to pay for it, we may not have an ambulance service. We cannot afford to both fund and run an ambulance service," Bullard said.

"We won't risk the financial burden of what an ambulance service would cost, endangering our own operation one bit."

Funds from somewhere for an ambulance service probably will need to be provided by Dec. 1, however. John Gilliland and Ron Smith—owners of Hereford's funeral homes—have stated for months that they want out of the ambulance business and, for the first time, have set an official date for discontinuation of their health-care businesses.

"I think they are serious," Nelson said. "And, I think it's time we tried to do something about it."

Mayor Bartley Dowell said today that he, too, is concerned about the situation, but added that he did not know how the problem should be handled.

"We still don't know what's going on. We haven't heard anything from anybody, except what you've put in the newspaper. It looks like we're going to have to have a meeting of everybody and get something done, though," Dowell said.

organization affiliated with the State Department, were also seized and taken to the embassy.

The State Department said about 200 Americans have left Iran since the embassy takeover and urged the 300 to 400 still in the country to leave quietly. The U.S. charge d'affaires in Iran, L. Bruce Laingen, was at the Iranian Foreign Ministry when the embassy was invaded, and Tehran Radio said he and two unidentified companions would continue to receive protection there.

The New York Times said friends of the shah told it the deposed monarch offered to leave the United States at once to ease the crisis but was dissuaded by doctors because of the seriousness of his cancer. They said he planned to return in about a month to Mexico, where he took up residence several months after Khomeini's forces deposed him in February.

Battleground Set

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)

— Today's meeting of the Democratic National Committee was called to work out routine details for the 1980 convention. But party leaders say it has become the early battleground for an intra-party struggle among President Carter and his challengers.

"I was looking for a tranquil, peaceful meeting in which we really had little to do. Since the political climate has speeded up a good bit, I think we'll have lots of maneuvering and negotiating," said Democratic National Chairman John White, a staunch Carter supporter.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., formally announced his presidential candidacy Wednesday and California Gov. Edmund Brown was expected to announce today. But White said Wednesday night that he feels 60 percent of the 363 DNC members still support Carter.

None of the candidates is expected for meetings today and Friday, but President Carter is sending newly appointed campaign manager Robert Strauss and three top aides.

Strauss, Carter's special Middle East ambassador until joining the president's re-election campaign Tuesday, was scheduled to give the keynote address during Friday's general session.

White has already recommended House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill as convention chairman. He has also recommended Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso to head the credentials committee, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young as chairman of the platform committee and Sen. Daniel Inouye of Hawaii as chairman of the rules committee.

White's recommendations were expected to be routinely approved by the DNC.

The leaders handle the important pre-convention platform drawing and were expected to be approved as "permanent" chairmen by the convention delegates.

The general session of the DNC is scheduled Friday.

Writings Called Fantasy In Physician's Trial

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP)

— Defense attorneys who were unable to suppress the diary of a convicted "hit man" in the trial of a doctor accused of attempted murder say they will try to show the rambling writings are mostly fantasy.

The diary and some letters were allowed as evidence Wednesday in the trial of Dr. Archie Burkhalter of Pasadena, Texas, who is charged with attempted capital murder in the Feb. 15 shooting of John Hensley on South Padre Island.

Burkhalter is accused of offering money to convicted hired killer S.J. Wilburn and another defendant on trial with the doctor, Scott David Minnick, to kill Hensley. The victim was blinded by a rifle shot to the face.

The night before the shooting and after his arrest, Wilburn wrote several letters to his girlfriend in Houston, Emma Vlasquez.

"The only evidence against me, or 90 percent of it, is an old red Cadillac sedan parked at the police station on Padre Island," Wilburn wrote the woman on Feb. 20.

In his letter, Wilburn then outlined a "dream" in which he described pouring gas on the car and burning it.

Wilburn was arrested minutes after the shooting in a red Cadillac that had gun ports cut in the trunk. Minnick was captured later in a 1977 blue Cadillac registered to the doctor's Pasadena hospital.

"Had he ever asked you before the letter to burn up any evidence," defense lawyer Warren Burnett asked Mrs. Velasquez Wednesday about her former companion.

She said they had never discussed it and added she complied with none of Wilburn's requests in the letters. He asked her to send him things but also said she should discreetly get copies of his letters to the "doctor."

"He was crazy. Even his girlfriend didn't believe him," Burnett said after the trial recessed.

"Begin regular visits with the doctor," Wilburn said in a Feb. 17 letter to the woman. "Be sure he has copies of all my letters. He may read something you do not understand."

Burkhalter had treated Wilburn at his Pasadena Memorial Hospital for stomach problems. Minnick, Wilburn's nephew, also was a patient of Burkhalter.

District Judge Darrell Hester

admitted 22 letters, notations and other materials as evidence. Burnett and Bob Heath, Minnick's lawyer, objected to most of the material, which had been used at Wilburn's trial.

Wilburn was convicted of attempted capital murder and sentenced to life in prison.

At the time of the shooting, Hensley was a witness against Burkhalter in a kidnapping case. Hensley is married to the doctor's ex-wife, the victim of the alleged abduction.

Home Buyers Upset at Fees

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)

— Texas home buyers are more upset about the hidden costs of purchasing a home than they are about rising mortgage rates, according to a Texas Consumers Association official.

Katy Davis told the Senate Committee on Financial Institutions Wednesday that home buyers are tired of "gimmick fees" that allow saving and loan associations to skirt interest ceilings. She said the "hocus-pocus" should be taken out of the mortgage business.

"This means eliminating both buyers' and sellers' points, origination fees, prepayment penalties and other gimmicks. Why can't we simplify the transaction down to the downpayment, the real estate agent's commission, the interest rate and the term of the loan?" she said.

"I assure you this single area causes more resentment among buyers who feel helpless than even the higher interest rates the savings and loans are asking for," she said.

The Senate committee is looking into the shrinking supply of mortgage money in the state. A Texas Savings and Loan League executive said the first eight months of 1979 saw a sharp decline in the dollar volume of mortgages written by Texas savings and loan associations.

The statewide drop was 24 percent as compared to the same period in 1978. The Texas figure was four times the nationwide decline, said Pat Malone, a league executive.

Every area of the state reported drops. Only Waco and Wichita Falls showed increases, according to the report.

The biggest drop — 80 percent — was in Corpus Christi.

"The pace of mortgage lending activity in Texas had dropped markedly even before the sharp increase in interest rates in October," said Malone.

He said mortgage money will remain scarce in coming months as interest rates rise. The Legislature has removed the 10 percent cap on mortgage rates and allowed them to rise as high as 12 percent.

Ms. Davis, who said her association represents 1,000 members, also called for detailed reports from savings and loan associations. She said the quarterly reports should include data on how much money is available and where it is going.

She said increasing profits at savings and loan associations make it "only natural and human to be suspicious."

The British Broadcasting Corp. said two Americans were taken from the Tehran Hilton to the embassy to join the embassy staff members captured when several hundred students occupied the compound Sunday. A Japanese correspondent in Tehran reported the two men worked for Bell Helicopter. The same Japanese report said U.S. officials of the Iran-America Society, a cultural organization affiliated with the State Department, were also seized and taken to the embassy.

The State Department said about 200 Americans have left Iran since the embassy takeover and urged the 300 to 400 still in the country to leave quietly. The U.S. charge d'affaires in Iran, L. Bruce Laingen, was at the Iranian Foreign Ministry when the embassy was invaded, and Tehran Radio said he and

Special Homes Help Keep Stricken Families Together

NEW YORK (NEA) - The doctor says the child has leukemia or cancer and the parents go into shock.

"They think my child is dying, whether that's true or not," says Suzanne Jeffers, chairman of the Children's Oncology (study of tumors) Society of New York.

Twenty years ago, it was true. "Almost no child with any form of cancer or leukemia was cured," says Dr. Edward Baum, pediatric hematologist and oncologist at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago. "But today, it can be expected that over 50 percent will survive their disease. And those statistics are improving."

Still, the diseases lay waste. Home life, for one, disintegrates. To be with the child, says Ms. Jeffers, "Parents camp out in hospital corridors, eating out of vending machines, washing in the bathroom, hanging their clothes on a hook in the child's room."

Their other kids, feeling slighted, may become resentful and aggravate the strain which, in any case, is sustained by anxiety - or still more shock if the child suddenly has a relapse after a period of remission. In short, "The emotional damage is devastating," says Ms. Jeffers.

So is the financial. Even if the disease is in remission, the medical bills persist because the child must keep going to the hospital for treatment. And, if the hospital is miles away, the cost is compounded by hotel bills.

Which is why since '73, nine Ronald McDonald Houses have sprung up around the country (in Philadelphia, Chicago, Denver, Atlanta, San Francisco, Birmingham, Pittsburgh, Boston and Cleveland); why 16 more will open by 1980 or after, and why Ms. Jeffers' organization was founded - to sponsor and operate the Ronald McDonald House opening soon in New York City.

"Like the others," she says, "it will serve as an inexpensive temporary home for families whose children are being treated in local hospitals."

The houses differ in size - Chicago's can accommodate 25 people, New York's, at least 56 - and ancestry (New York's was a convent, San Francisco's, an old Victorian house). But all share a common design and philosophy.

All have communal kitchen and laundry facilities, a playroom and cancer library; all provide linens, dishes, etc. (the families staying for, say, one night or seven months, provide their own food and clean up after themselves).

"And all request, but don't compel, a nominal fee. "We charge $5 per night per family in Chicago," says Dr. Baum, "if the family can afford it."

Most of the 1200 families who've stayed since the house opened in '77 have paid something, and we're taking in about $23,000 a year from them."

Since the houses rely on volunteers and donations to function, they also take, in whatever they can get, once they're launched. "The Ray Kroc Foundation supplies $25,000 seed money to each house that crops up," says Ms. Jeffers, "and then the individual McDonald owner-operators in the area pledge perhaps half of what it will take per year to keep the house going over a five-year period. Our house will cost $200,000 a year to run. Since we have 26 bedrooms to service the families of the 900 children who come to New York for treatment every year."

The community, then, provides the rest: furniture, soap,

RONALD McDonald houses opening about the country serve as an inexpensive temporary home for families whose children are being treated in local hospitals for leukemia or other serious diseases.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

What people are saying...

"We work with all races, but we don't believe in mixing them. We feel that almost 50 percent of the world's problems are caused by the mixing of races, which we believe to be totally against the natural makeup of man."

— John A. Harrell, founder of the Christian-Patriots Defense League, a conservative group based in Louisville, Ill. (Time)

"We all play hurt. I don't think there is a man out there on any Sunday afternoon who is not feeling pain."

— Larry Brooks, Los Angeles Rams defensive tackle, talking about his team's dedication to football despite constant injuries.

forks, mirrors. "Everything you need to furnish a house," she says. "Most of all, we need money because even if people are willing to sell us lumber or paint or carpeting at cost, you still have to pay the cost."

And there's room and board and perhaps a small stipend for the full-time resident manager who checks people in and out, acts as liaison with the hospitals, deals with crises and helps to make the house a "refuge from the hospital and a place to keep the family together."

"A place, too, where the parent who has already seen his child go bald from chemotherapy can prepare one about to undergo the trauma; who may say, don't worry about your child dying, mine was diagnosed with leukemia six years ago and he's still here."

"And that kind of support among the parents," says Dr. Baum, "is immeasurable."

Key Club Week is Declared in Hereford; Service Activity Planned by Members

In conjunction with Kiwanis International, Mayor W.B. Dowell of Hereford proclaimed Nov. 11 through the Nov. 17 as International Key Club Week in Hereford, during ceremony held at his office yesterday.

The Proclamation declared in part "Whereas, the Hereford High School Key Club has encouraged, participated in, and contributed to good citizenship in the City of Hereford by promotion of patriotism and observance of respect for our National flag, work days in beautification projects for the City, aid to our senior citizens by work efforts at King's Manor, assistance to children with learning disabilities and working with our MHMR Center, support of Camp Wigwam, the Special Olympics, and, furthermore, by aiding our youth in the Elementary Tract Meet, as well as other assistance to youth-sponsored activities within the City of Hereford, County of Deaf Smith, State of Texas;

The Hereford Key Club is a service organization for high school age students and is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. In Hereford it is sponsored jointly by the Hereford Noon club and the Whiteface breakfast Club.

Key club members take part in projects designed to better the school, church and community. Raising the flag each day at school is just one of the services that key club members perform. On holidays they put up flags all over the community.

Some contributions made by the Hereford Key Club in the past include the presentation of the marquee sign in front of the high school, erected at a cost of a little over $2,000.00, purchase of a score board for the High School gym, the Baseball field, the "Big H" at the football stadium, and last year, the Key Club purchase and installed six refrigerated water coolers at the high school.

Since becoming a part of this International Organization in 1956, the Hereford High School Key Club has made continuous, exemplary contributions to the welfare, spirit and tradition of Hereford High School.

Klan Philosophies Are Tangled Puzzle

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The hooded men of the Ku Klux Klan espouse white supremacy to save the United States from communism, but beyond the apparent unity of their beliefs lie feuding and bitter bickering.

The FBI agents assigned by President Carter to investigate the Klan in the aftermath of five killings at a leftist "Death to the Klan" rally last Saturday will have to unravel a tangle of philosophies and factions, all trying to court the state's "good ol' boys."

Six or seven groups operate in North Carolina, claiming close to 10 percent of all Klan members — estimated nationally at about 9,000 by the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League.

Six of the 14 suspects in the weekend attack have told police they are Klansmen. Another three avow they are Nazis.

Linking the Klansmen and extremists such as Nazis is a hatred of communism. Klansmen say communism, not racial integration, is now their main target. Blacks, they say, are pawns of communism; integration is just a salvo in the battle to destroy America.

The five victims of Saturday's shooting — all organizers of the rally — were four white men and a black woman. They were shot when several carloads of men drove up to the rally, jumped out and opened fire. Nine persons were wounded.

Twelve men are charged with murder, two with conspiracy, and a 15th man — Jack Fowler, described as a Nazi with a Klan background — is being sought on murder charges.

The violence was preceded by months of increased Klan visibility in North Carolina and other areas of the country. Factions announced increased membership, and rallies have been held throughout the state — although few have attracted more than 100 persons.

Six factions are active in North Carolina alone: the United Klans of America, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Federated Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, White Knights of Liberty, Confederation of Independent Orders of Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and Invisible Empire-Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

The Knights of the KKK, based in Winston-Salem, staged an exhibit of Klan paraphernalia at the public library in February. The exhibit was closed after a shouting match between anti-Klan people and Klansmen.

In March, the Winston-Salem chapter of the Federated Knights showed a pro-Klan movie at the civic center without incident. The same group held a rally on July 8 in China Grove and were confronted by members of the Workers Viewpoint Organization. That group, now called the Communist Workers Party, organized the fatal weekend rally.

A white supremacy rally in September drew Klansmen, Nazis and the National States Rights Party to the little town of Louisburg for the unveiling of another extremist group, the United Racist Front.

"You take a man who fought in the second World War, it's hard for him to sit down in a room with swastikas," said Gorrell Pierce, a Winston-Salem farmer and leader of the Federated Knights. "But people realize time is running out. We're going to have to get together. We're more effective when we're organized."

Other Klan leaders scorn the Nazis as dangerous and un-American. "You can't be a Nazi and a Klansmen — it would go against your oath to uphold the government," said Joe Grady, 49, a building contractor who was once Pierce's superior in the Federated Knights.

Grady recently split to form the White Knights of Liberty because of Pierce's sympathy for Nazis. "Those weren't Klansmen," Grady said after the Greensboro shooting. "They were damned Nazis."

Klan observers who asked not to be identified said the shooting suspects appear to be North Carolina members of the Louisiana-based Invisible Empire, one of the more militant factions.

But according to local press reports, many of the suspects are suspected members of the South Carolina-based Confederation of Independent Orders.

The reports say the FBI is looking for Virgil Griffin of Gastonia, a Confederation leader. Sources told The Associated Press the Confederation is the most militant Klan group.

Except for three men from Winston-Salem, all suspects charged in the Saturday shooting are from areas of western North Carolina where both the Invisible Empire and the Confederation are active.

Differences in Klan chapters go deeper than their names. —The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, headed by David Duke, 28, of Metairie, La., purports to be the "new" Klan — seeking to obtain its goals through non-violent political action rather than confrontation. Its members condemn such Klan standards as cross-burnings as "Hollywood."

—The Federated Knights proclaims its white supremacy approach more boldly and offers marksmanship training to its members. Its former head of security, Raeford "Nighthawk" Caudle, is one of those charged with murder. He now claims to be a Nazi.

—The United Klans of America, which counts most of its members in conservative eastern North Carolina, contends it is the one true Klan and pays little attention to other groups.

"I don't know much at all about the Duke group," said E.J. Melvin Jr. of Goldsboro, said to be the United Klans Grand Dragon, in an interview earlier this year. "And Joe Grady, why, I never have been able to figure out what he stands for. Joe changes his philosophy every two or three weeks."

The Nazis in North Carolina are led by Harold Covington, 25, of Raleigh, who often wears swastikas. Covington ran unsuccessfully for a city council seat two years ago and for mayor of Raleigh this year.

Covington said some of his men were in Greensboro on Saturday. "What I regret are that 12 good men are in jail," he said after the shootings. "As for the Reds, I don't give a damn about them."

What you will NOT see are some of the precious scenes behind the scenes: Ruth with a screwdriver repairing a faulty light socket; Billy, his lap spontaneously overloaded with adoring grandchildren.

Just before my interview with Ruth you will not see Billy mischievously holding up a microphone cord between the jaws of a pair of scissors and playfully admonishing her not to say "one bad thing" about him. I doubt she ever could; I know she never would.

An unpremeditated something I hope you do see when the documentary is finally edited: After lunch, still seated at the dining table alone with Ruth, I asked her views on issues—on women generally and some individually, including several First Ladies she has known.

I asked about her girlhood in China and her children and her parents and about herself as a parent.

And about her husband. Her response to most all questions reflected her abundant good humor. The only lines on this grandmother's face are crow's-feet at her eyes from the smile that never leaves for long. It left once. When I asked this question:

"Ruth, at the risk of intruding on your bedroom-at night or morning when—for whatever reason—you are awake and he is not. All is still. Nothing to intrude on your most private thoughts."

"There in the quiet—who is that man lying beside you? Is he a little boy? Is he the inevitably aging father of your children? Your lover? Is he still the college boy you married? An ecclesiastic giant? A David with a slingshot? Who is he?"

Ruth of the laughing eyes was thoughtful for a long moment. Then with a misty look, both grandmotherly and bride-like, she replied: "Yes. Yes. Paul, he is—each and all those things."

White Terms Carter-Kennedy Clash 'Dangerous'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Kennedy-Carter clash puts Democrats in the "extremely dangerous" position of becoming hopelessly split and handing the 1980 presidential election to the Republicans, warns Democratic National Chairman John White.

"The only chance the Republicans have is for us to run a bitter, tough campaign and split the party. If we don't have enough sense to keep the party together, we deserve to get beaten," White said here Wednesday night following Sen. Edward Kennedy's announcement in Massachusetts that he is challenging President Carter.

"It could happen. I hope it doesn't. I think we're in an extremely dangerous position," added White, a staunch Carter supporter. "I just want all of the candidates to remember that November is election day."

White fears Carter, Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who is expected to formally announce today, will get into a bitter campaign based on personalities, not issues.

"They are going to have to be restrained," said White. "Kennedy's a pro. I'm not saying anything he doesn't know."

"I had the unpleasant task in 1978 of reminding Senate and House candidates that it's not good politics to run against an incumbent administration, the president and other Democrats," he added.

White said Carter ran "a healing campaign" in 1976 that has unified the Democratic Party. He said the party at present faces no seriously divisive issue, such as the Vietnam War.

White compared the Kennedy-Carter confrontation to spectacular train wrecks once staged in the Old West to attract buyers to land sales.

"It's going to be exciting and create a lot of interest. But when it's over, I hope we don't have two wrecked trains," he said.

"I'm just trying to warn some people. It may be fun to criticize, raise hell and make fun of people you disagree with. They just have to remember that the alternative might be (Republican contenders John Connally or (Ronald) Reagan. It's not easy to unify a party once it becomes split."

White was in San Antonio for the Democratic National Committee's 1979 meeting, which he said had been transformed from a tranquil, routine gathering into a "political event" with Kennedy's announcement.

White said he feels about 60 percent of the 363 DNC members support Carter.

"I have no compunction about supporting the president," said White. "I think he has done a good job. He has a good record that deserves re-nomination and re-election," said White.

Another Oil Onslaught Expected on Gulf Coast As Leaking Tanker Continues to Blaze

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — The Coast Guard today braced for another onslaught of oil on the upper Texas shore from a crippled tanker after fickle gulf winds shifted and blew from the southeast toward land.

Winds which had been blowing from the north, shoving most of the oil leaking from the grounded Burmah Agate out to sea, shifted Wednesday. The grounded tanker has been burning and leaking oil since it collided with a freighter one week ago.

Thirty-two men were believed killed in the crash, but only 14 bodies have been recovered.

"The wind is expected to remain from the southeast, so it is likely more oil will wash onto the beaches, mostly along mid-Galveston Island," Chief Petty Officer Richard Griggs said.

The Coast Guard and private contractors mounted pollution-control forces to defend against the expected assault, while a Dutch firefighting team battled to put out the stubborn blaze in the bowels of the Burmah Agate. The tanker is grounded in about 40 feet of water about five miles offshore near this busy port.

Their fireboats were driven back from the blaze Wednesday by another barrage of explosions. Sporadic blasts from the ship have caused the fire to burn with new intensity and stymied firefighters' efforts.

The body of what was believed to be a tanker crewman was recovered Wednesday afternoon near Freeport, about 40 miles south of the point where the collision occurred. It was the 14th body recovered since the accident.

Officials estimated more than 90,000 barrels of the 390,000-barrel cargo stored in the tanker's 36 compartments have spilled out since the collision, but the Coast Guard said most of it burned away and only about 20,000 barrels reached the water.

The wind had held most of the light crude about three to six miles offshore every day except Monday, when it shifted and blew oil onto several areas along a 120-mile stretch of coast south of here.

Nature continued to cooperate Tuesday as the wind held most of the oil in the water while 70 men hired by the owner of the Burmah Agate cleaned up the stained areas with rakes and shovels.

But the Coast Guard said the wind turned against them Wednesday.

Earlier in the week, the Coast Guard placed booms across the openings to several environmentally sensitive areas on the east end of Galveston Island and staged larger harbor booms at San Luis Pass on the island's west end and the Colorado River mouth further south.

It also prepared for the possibility that the oil spill might reach major proportions by bringing up from Port Aransas pollution-control equipment that had been used to fight crude that had reached Texas beaches from the runaway Mexican oil well, Ixtoc 1.

WILL FARMERS SOMEDAY GROW THEIR OWN FUEL? Current widespread interest in the area of on-farm fuel alcohol plants indicates that this could be a possibility in the years to come, notes Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

Much emphasis has been placed on mixing ethanol derived from grains and other farm products with gasoline to produce gasohol. This would help American motorists stretch increasingly tight and expensive gasoline supplies. But for many farmers, the best answer may be to produce alcohol for their own use on the farm, he says.

Commercial ethanol used in gasohol ideally should be 200 proof, which means, the product is 100 percent alcohol and contains no water. But for on-farm usage where long storage periods are not required, 160- to 180-proof alcohol can often be utilized. Additional research is needed to establish the feasibility of using pure ethanol in farm vehicles and equipment, however.

"By producing the lower proof alcohol, farmers can avoid the cost of additional distillation steps. This means the product could be made on-the-farm or in small co-op plants more cheaply and with less initial investment," said Brown.

If such on-farm alcohol production is found to be economically feasible, farmers someday could devote part of their production to making fuel, just as they now plant crops for hay and other products for their own use, he said.

The need for alternative fuels in Texas and other major farm states is critical. It is estimated that fuel costs alone eat up over 12 percent of a producer's gross income, and this figure could rise to 20 percent by 1985. Many farmers also have found that adequate fuel supplies often are simply not available when they are needed the most.

Legislation currently before the U. S. Senate would provide an, estimated $125 million in direct loans to build small-scale alcohol fuel plants on farms and in agricultural communities. If passed, this could stimulate an area of production that could be of great importance to our farmers and ranchers.

TEXAS RANKED THIRD among the states last year in farm export sales, but in terms of sheer diversity of products overseas we came out on top, notes Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

"Illinois, the No. 1 export state, was among the largest producers in only five areas, while Texas appeared on the top ten list 14 times," said Brown. "This illustrates the amazing variety of farm and ranch products which this state can produce."

"We are continuing to push for expanded markets for our agricultural products, and we have found that the Texas name means a great deal to foreign customers," he said.

Texas farm exports topped the $2 billion mark in fiscal 1978, and a further increase should be registered in 1979. Texas ranked No. 1 in exports of cotton, lard and tallow and cottonseed oil. Texas was among the top ten exporters of feedgrains and related products, wheat, vegetables, fruits, rice, hides and skins, meats, peanuts and peanut oil, nuts, sunflower seed, and, of course, all farm exports.

TWINKLE, TWINKLE WASHINGTON (AP) — Stars pass through a well-defined life cycle, according to National Geographic.

It says, "They are born from clouds of dust and gas, live long and relatively uneventful lives pouring out energy, and then die spectacularly. The explosion of a large star, called a supernova, creates one of the most dazzling displays of fireworks in the universe. About 100 million times more brilliant than the sun, the explosion sends matter in all directions."

"From this material new stars and planets, even life, are born. Nearly all the atoms in the human body and in the earth once originated in a star that exploded and disintegrated."

Iowa Iowa, the heart of the rich Midwest farm belt, is one of the nation's wealthiest agricultural states. But its industrial growth has been so great that the value of its manufacturing output has become more than twice that of its farms.

ground is the beating of the publicity drums for the one-and-only heavyweight championship of the world between Larry Holmes and John Tate.

Sure, Holmes, who rules the World Boxing Council's share of the planet, has signed to fight Lorenzo Zanon of Italy, possibly in Tokyo in February or March. Yes, John Tate, the World Boxing Association champ, is scheduled to fight Earnie Shavers, Ron Lyle or the winner of the Scott LeDoux-Mike Weaver fight in February and Gerry Cooney in May, if Cooney beats Dino Dennis at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

But those fights could be wiped out if promoters Don King, tied to Holmes, and Bob Arum, connected with Tate, can agree on terms for a Holmes-Tate fight. But it's much more likely these fights, and possibly others, will take place before a Tate-Holmes agreement is reached. Meanwhile, the publicity buildup for a fight to produce one heavyweight champion will continue.

"We'll fight him next if he'll fight," Holmes said Wednesday at a news conference. Tate had said after he beat Gerrie Coetzee for the WBA title last month that he'd fight Holmes anytime.

But fighters don't make fights.

"We'd like to fight him as soon as possible," said King. "Tomorrow is not soon enough. We accept a fight with the Knoxville Tennesseean (Tate) and the Park Avenue lawyer."

But there's much more than the mere acceptance of challenge before the fight can become a reality. In fact, Richie Giachetti, Holmes' manager, said he could see a Holmes-Tate match "at the end of next September or November or December."

And Holmes, added, "The longer we wait, the more money we'll make. But we'll take him anytime."

"I'd like to have the fight in May," said Arum when told that Holmes and King have said they want the fight as soon as possible. "I like the ABC-TV offer in which each fighter would get $500,000, with another $2 million to the winner."

"It would be up to Jose Sulaiman (WBC president) and Rodrigo Sanchez (WBA president) to work out the officials. I think details should be handled by a neutral promoter. It could be held in Madison Square Garden, with Gil Clancy (the Garden matchmaker) staging it. We would pay the Garden for handling it."

"We're very interested in it," said Clancy. "I've discussed it with Arum but not with King."

"It should be winner take all for the promoters," shouted King about Arum's proposal. "We should gamble the receipts. The fighters should be paid well. I can't gamble Larry's money. He (Arum) has a slave. I ain't got no slave."

In another development, King said at the news conference that he has taken on the promotion of former world heavyweight champion Leon Spinks, who once fought out of Arum's stable.

"He's a young man who's had trouble ..." said King of Spinks. "But I have been known to deal with people who cannot be dealt with."

Re-Construction of NY Yankees Continuing Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The re-construction of the New York Yankees was expected to continue today when free agents Bob Watson and Rudy May officially sign contracts with George Steinbrenner's club.

That means over the last dozen days, the Yankees have hired a new manager and a new general manager, completed two six-player trades, signed two free agents and prevented two others from going into the re-entry draft.

How's that for reconstruction?

Following Billy Martin's adventure with the marshmallow man in Minnesota, Steinbrenner hired Dick Howser as his new manager and Gene Michael as the new GM.

Then the owner blocked the moves toward free agency of first baseman Jim Spencer and shortstop Bucky Dent by signing them to new, lucrative, long-term contracts.

Then came the trades with Seattle and Toronto delivering center fielder Ruppert Jones and catcher Rick Cerone among others.

Now, it's Watson to provide right-handed punch to a lefty-laden lineup, and May as an added arm for either the bullpen or starting rotation.

Watson, the Yankees' No. 1 selection in last Friday's re-entry draft, did not come cheaply.

The 33-year-old first baseman who split last year in Houston and Boston, reportedly agreed to a four-year deal worth close to $2 million. Compared to that, the $1 million, three-year pact that May received puts the 35-year-old pitcher who was drafted fourth by New York in the bargain basement category.

The Yankees had hoped that pitcher Bruce Kison, their second re-entry pick, could be part of today's signing spectacular.

He also is a client of attorney Tom Reich, who negotiated Watson's contract with New York. But Kison is not close to signing with anybody yet.

"Rep rts that Bruce has agreed and is responsible and unfounded," said Reich. "There is absolutely no truth to those reports."

Reich said Watson was interested in either remaining with the Red Sox or moving to New York and that the nine other teams drafting negotiating rights were not contacted.

"There was no discussion with any other teams except Boston and New York," the attorney said. "We didn't want to take advantage of anyone else. We didn't feel it would be fair."

Watson is a power hitter who tagged 13 home runs and drove in 53 runs while batting .337 in 84 games with the Red Sox after being acquired from the Astros. He gives the Yankees important right-handed balance and will serve as designated hitter while sharing first base with Spencer.

May was 10-3 with a 2.30 earned run average for Montreal last summer, doing almost all of his pitching in the second half of the season. This will be his second term with the Yankees. He pitched for New York from 1974-1976 before being traded to Baltimore. The Orioles later swapped him to Montreal in the deal that brought reliever Don Stanhouse to the Orioles. Ironically, Stanhouse also is a free agent now, shopping for a new team.

Whiteface Seniors

Whitefaces Play Coronado In Final Home Game

Friday night will be the last time that the Hereford Whitefaces will play at home in the 1979 football season. They will face Lubbock Coronado at the Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

On top of being the last home game, it will also be the last chance for the senior members of the varsity football team to play before a hometown crowd in Hereford.

Hereford will host 22 members this year including: Joe Walker, a running back; Keith Adams, who plays flanker on offense and corner back on defense, Jamie Valdez, also a corner back; Barry Morgan, tight end and free safety; Bruce Edwards, Flanker and free safety; Ricky Pena, linebacker; Joe Mitchem, running back and linebacker; Edward Dominguez, running back and Strong Safety; Mike Snow, center; Max Gonzalez, defensive tackle; Donny Lauderback, linebacker; Corey Christie, Nose Guard;

Johnny Reyes, nose guard, Gilbert Gonzalez, defensive tackle; John Warden quick tackle, Robbie Fish, strong guard; Thane Wright, strong tackle, Steve Artho, defensive end and Carlos Tijerina, defensive end.

Coronado will be coming into tomorrow night's game with an overall record of 5-3 and 1-1 in district play. Coronado Head Coach Jack Quarles sees Hereford as a very well balanced football team. "They are throwing the ball well, and they are moving it on the ground."

According to Hereford Head Coach Don Cumpston, "They will not be real fancy they will run the 'I' formation and just try to run over people, and they will give you several different looks on defense."

Both coaches expect an extremely tough football game. Coach Quarles, said, "both teams are coming off tough losses last week. I just hope mentally we are ready."

Quarles has basically a junior football team.

The mustangs offensive and defensive line are both very large, they average 220 pounds.

Hereford lost last week by a point to Lubbock High 7-6. Hereford has a season record of 4-4 and are 0-2 in district play.

Rangers Win In NHL

By The Associated Press

The newest New York Ranger, defenseman Barry Beck, doesn't believe fans should expect the Rangers to win the Stanley Cup, because to do that "you need luck and all the breaks."

But he doesn't think it's too much to "expect the Rangers and Barry Beck to do well."

Beck, a third-year man acquired on Friday from the Colorado Rockies, scored one goal and threw some bone-crunching checks in New York's 8-4 victory Wednesday night over the Los Angeles Kings.

Philadelphia edged Quebec 4-3, Toronto downed St. Louis 7-4, Detroit whipped Edmonton 5-3 and Washington beat Winnipeg 6-3.

Canadiens 3, Penguins 3

Pierre Mondou's second goal of the game, with 3:44 left in the third period, gave Montreal its tie with Pittsburgh.

The Penguins had taken a 3-2 lead less than three minutes earlier when Paul Marshall knocked in a rebound of a shot by Pat Hughes.

The Canadiens took just 11 shots in the first two periods, but blasted away 19 times in the final frame.

Flyers 4, Nordiques 3

Bob Kelly scored two goals, his third-period tally the eventual game winner, as Philadelphia rallied from a two-goal deficit to beat Quebec. Quebec took a 2-0 lead in the first period, but Philadelphia stormed back with three goals in the second period, then capped it off with a goal by Kelly at 6:50 of the third frame.

Leafs 7, Blues 4

Laurie Boschman, Dan Maloney, Joe Quenneville and Lanny McDonald scored successive goals in the first two periods, getting Toronto off to a 4-0 lead and helping the Maple Leafs continue their domination of the Blues. Toronto has not lost to St. Louis in three seasons.

McDonald wound up with two goals and an assist for Toronto.

Red Wings 5, Oilers 3

Dan LaBreaen scored two goals in a one-minute span in the second period to key a four-goal explosion for Detroit. Bill Hogaboam and Vaclav Nedomansky sandwiched goals around a score by Edmonton's Wayne Gretzky later in the period.

Capitals 6, Jets 3

Mark Lofthouse scored two goals and Robert Picard added three assists to lead Washington over Winnipeg. The Capitals got off a club-record 49 shots on goal in the game. Washington led 4-0 after 14:24 of the second period. Lofthouse got goals in the first two periods. Bengt Gustafsson added a first-period score and Rolf Eddberg hit in the second period for Winnipeg.

Rockets Dump Nets

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets center Moses Malone is putting the rest of the National Basketball Association on notice that his team's on-vaunted, but recently sputtering offense is coming around.

With their shooting touch back and a newly developed defense, he says, the Rockets will be as tough to beat as they were Wednesday, when they dropped the New Jersey Nets 106-101.

This win was the second in a row for the Rockets, improving a miserable 2-7 season start to 4-7 and lifting Houston out of the NBA Central Division cellar.

"The big difference between us winning these two games and the games we have lost is that the ball is starting to go in the hole for us, and we're playing good defense," said Malone, who finished the game with 27 points and 19 rebounds.

He said the Rockets have had a chance to win every one of their games, but have usually managed to get only one shot in the last two minutes. Now they're getting at least two shots, he said.

"We're still trying to get everything together, but now it's starting to come around," he said.

It came around for Houston offensively and defensively in the first half of Wednesday night's game as the Rockets jumped to a 51-43 halftime lead after holding New Jersey to a 36 percent shooting average, just 20 of 55 from the floor.

The Rockets maintained the eight-point lead through the third quarter, and were ahead 90-82 with 7:33 left to play when New Jersey assistant Coach Bob MacKinnon, who took over for head Coach Kevin Loughery after he was ejected from the game in the first half, sent in four substitutes.

It began to look like another fold for Houston as New Jersey outscored the Rockets 11-4 during the next three minutes and closed to within one point, 94-93, on two free throws by ex-Rocket Mike Newlitt.

But Houston mounted a rally of its own behind the shooting of Malone and Robert Reid, who combined for 17 fourth quarter points to stave off the New Jersey rally.

Reid finished the game with 18 points for the Rockets, while Rudy Tomjanovich added 17.

Rich Kelly led the Nets offensive charge with 18 points, and John Williamson hit 17.

The line of Ulf Nilsson, Steve Vickers and Anders Hedberg accounted for most of the Rangers' offense. Nilsson had a goal and four assists, Vickers scored twice and had one assist and Hedberg had a goal and two assists.

"I can't explain how good it is here — how much easier it is here with all the talent this club has," Beck said. "I'm not saying we didn't have good players in Denver, but we just couldn't put it together."

Two Longhorns Promoted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas sophomore halfback Brad Beck and junior linebacker Mark Martignoni have been promoted ahead of two seniors for the Houston game on Saturday night.

Texas Coach Fred Akers also told the Longhorn Club on Wednesday non-letterman John Tobolka may start in place of tackle Terry Tausch, who hurt his knee in Texas' 14-6 victory over Texas Tech last Saturday.

Akers said Beck and Martignoni earned their promotions "as a result of the Texas Tech game." Beck will replace senior LeRoy King and Martignoni moved ahead of Chuck Holloway, another senior.

Akers said defensive tackle Steve Massey sustained a deep thigh bruise, but the coaches' "main concern" was the injury to Tausch, a 260-pound sophomore. He said it would be Friday before doctors would know whether Tausch might play.

Offensive guard Joe Shearin and halfback A.J. "Jam" Jones also were hurt in the Tech game, but Akers said they should be ready to play.

Lloyd, Austin Advance

STUTTGART, West Germany (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd, Tracy Austin and Billie Jean King advanced to the second round of a $100,000 Grand Prix tournament.

Lloyd defeated Marita Redondo 6-1, 6-2; Austin downed Leslie Allen 6-3, 6-3 and King beat defeated Helena Anliot of Sweden 6-3, 6-3.

The Tech victory, said Akers, "was a costly one, but we're training new faces to take up the slack. ... I promise you this. Whoever makes the trip and goes on the football field will give it everything he's got."

Houston is 8-0 and ranked No. 5 in college football. Texas, 6-1, is ranked No. 8.

In other matches, Sweden's Nina Bohm defeated Ann Kiyomura 6-2, 5-7, 6-1; Australia's Wendy Turnbull defeated Barbara Potter 6-4, 6-4; South Africa's Liana Kloss defeated Iva Budarova of Czechoslovakia 6-0, 2-6, 7-6 and Stacy Margolin upset Betty Stove of the Netherlands 6-3, 6-1.

Pacers, Hawks Win In NBA Action

By The Associated Press
Doug Collins, Philadelphia 76ers guard, sat in the locker room at halftime, four points on his ledger.

"In the past I would have gotten upset," Collins said. "It's a wacky game and it can drive you totally up a wall. I'm such an intense guy, getting only four points is frustrating."
Collins, however, came out after the half and scored 26 more points to lead the 76ers to a 110-102 victory Wednesday night over the Kansas City Kings and keep Philadelphia atop the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division.

"The ball was coming to me in the second half, and I was going up with no hesitation," Collins said. "I've had to make an adjustment this season because we changed to an inside scoring team."

Added to Collins' first-half frustrations was the Kings' Otis Birdsong, who was the game's high scorer with 35 points. Collins' drew first-half duty on the Kansas City guard.

Collins' long jumper with 7:22 left in the game put Philadelphia up for good at 89-87. Three straight technicals on Kansas City, one on Birdsong, made it 93-87 as the 76ers won their third straight.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston topped San Antonio 117-105, Indiana downed Portland 97-90, Atlanta whipped Detroit 115-107, Houston defeated New Jersey 106-101, Denver clobbered Seattle 113-92, San Diego beat Phoenix 114-102 and Golden State walloped Los Angeles 126-109.

Pacers 97, Blazers 90
Mickey Johnson scored 16 points in the fourth period, and Indiana rallied from a 16-point deficit midway in the third quarter to beat Portland.

Celtics Trounce Spurs 117-105

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics are running like sprinters with five consecutive victories and a 9-2 record in the National Basketball Association. But Coach Bill Fitch is far from satisfied.

"It may sound funny, but we need to run more in practice — at least five miles more a day," Fitch said Wednesday night after the Celtics raced to a 117-105 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

"Even though we won, I'm not really happy with the way we played," Fitch said. "After the first period, I didn't like our shooting, passing or running."

"We made some dumb defensive plays when we were in the penalty situation and we had some guys out there who tired. However, the big play or big pass was there when we had our backs to the wall."

Controlling the boards and running and passing in whirlwind fashion, Boston charged to a 38-21 first period lead.

However, the attack slowed, and San Antonio closed to within 57-47 at half time.

The Celtics came to life again in the third period, hiking the lead to 20 points, 78-58, but the Spurs refused to quit. San Antonio cut its deficit to three, 87-84, early in the final quarter before Boston broke open the game on two field goals by M.L. Carr and a basket and free throw by Cedric Maxwell.

"The first period was awesome, but then we went to an individual style and we lost our running game," said Carr, who finished with 25 points. "We lacked a killer instinct."

"We wanted to run with them — and we proved we can run with anyone if we play as a team," said Nate Archibald, who had 15 points and 17 assists.

Indiana outscored the Trail Blazers 20-7 in one third-quarter stretch during which Johnny Davis had eight points. Tom Owens had 28 points for Indiana.

Hawks 115, Pistons 107
Forward John Drew scored nine of his 28 points in the final five minutes to help Atlanta hold off Detroit, and the Hawks won their fifth straight game.

Detroit pulled to within 103-101 late in the game until Wayne "Tree" Rollins hit a basket and Drew sank two free throws.

Nuggets 113, Sonics 92

Denver, shooting 63 percent from the field in the third period, erased a 54-51 halftime deficit and whipped Seattle. Dan Issel paced a balanced Denver attack with 23 points. George McGinnis contributed 15 and Tom Boswell had 14 points as the Nuggets placed seven men in double figures.

Clippers 114, Suns 102

Lloyd Free scored 45 points, including three crucial baskets late in the fourth period, as San Diego held off Phoenix.

Leading by only six points with 7:30 left to play, Free hit a layup and two close-in jumpers in succession. His total was one short of his season high.

Warriors 126, Lakers 109

Robert Parish and Purvis Short led six players in double figures with 26 points each as Golden State beat Los Angeles on its home court for the first time since the end of the 1976-77 season.

The Warriors outscored Los Angeles 17-6 midway through the first quarter to take the lead for good. Jamaal Wilkes led the Lakers with 18 points.

LSU Picked To Upset Alabama by Three Points

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

It may be apocryphal, but the story is that when veteran Charlie McClendon was told this would be his last season as football coach at Louisiana State University, he rallied his orphan-to-be forces and fed them a little fire and brimstone.

"OK, if that's the way it's to be," he said, failing to hide his bitter disappointment. "We'll just have to show 'em by going out and winning the national championship. We go to beat Southern Cal and Alabama."

An echo rocked the locker room: "Yeah, man, that's the ticket! Let's go get 'em!"

The Bayou Bengals almost pulled off the first half of their assignment, losing to Southern Cal in the final seconds. Now comes top-ranked Alabama. Upset sparks are flying all over the place.

They even reach out to Knoxville, Tenn., where the Vols are primed to stun Notre dame.

Last week's tally: 38-11, .775. Season: 342-106, .767.

Louisiana State 18, Alabama 15; Don't go betting the family homestead on it, but the Root Hogs may rise again.

Nebraska 46, Kansas St. 7; Remember when the Cornhuskers were big, muscle-bound and slow. Now they're big, quick and mean.

Ohio St. 40, Iowa 14; Woody Hayes will be peeking out from behind the blinds — the Buckeyes are still his kids.

Southern Cal 31, Washington 24; The Huskies will play with vengeance, but how do you defend both White and McDonald?

Texas 10, Houston 7; The Cougars have given up exactly 10 points to six foes this year. The Longhorns take their quota, and underbid it.

Oklahoma 42, Kansas 0; This should be just a jogging session for the Sooners, looking two weeks ahead to Nebraska.

Florida St. 17, South Carolina 10; Perhaps the toughest test yet for the unbeaten, untied, unclaimed Seminoles.

Arkansas 20, Baylor 14; Lou Holtz is still stealing from Millie's gag file. Sneezing, he quipped: "I hope I catch pneumonia — they got a cure for that."

Purdue 20, Michigan 17; The specter of Ohio State, just ahead, and talented Mark Herrmann stun the Wolverines.

Brigham Young 38, Long Beach St. 18; The Cougars never run out of talent. When they get low, they tap the Mormon missionary fields.

Pittsburgh 27, West Virginia 19; A traditional head-knocker in the coal belt. An upset is possible.

Tennessee 19, Notre Dame 17; Johnny Majors' Vols hope to salvage a mediocre season with one dramatic blow.

Yale 20, Princeton 16; The Blues win the 701st of their ivy-coated career and their eighth of the year.

The others:

VFW Buddy Poppies To Be Sold Friday

The local VFW Auxiliary will be selling Buddy Poppies Friday in Hereford as a benefit for disabled and needy veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

The following proclamation was signed by Mayor Bartley Dowell, Wednesday morning. The proclamation reads as follows:

WHEREAS: The annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States has been officially recognized and endorsed by governmental leaders since 1922; and

WHEREAS: V.F.W. Buddy Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans, and the proceeds of this worthy fund-raising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans, and

WHEREAS: The basic purpose of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars is eloquently reflected in the desire to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living;" therefore

I, W.B. Dowell, Mayor of the city of Hereford do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support through the purchase of Buddy Poppies on the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of appreciation for the sacrifices of our honored dead.

I urge all patriotic citizens to wear a Buddy Poppy as mute evidence of our gratitude to the men of this country who have risked their lives in defense of the freedoms which we continue to enjoy as American citizens.

Poppy Day Proclaimed

VFW Buddy Poppy Day has been slated for tomorrow in Deaf Smith County. Above from left, Auxiliary president Marie Goheen, Mayor Bartley Dowell, and Helen Sowell, publicity chairman of the VFW Auxiliary just finished having the proclamation signed and are pinning the mayor with a poppy. ## Library Declares Amnesty on Fines

In conjunction with Children's Book Week, Nov. 12-18, Deaf Smith County Library has proclaimed that period as Amnesty Week.

In observance of Amnesty Week, no fines will be charged on overdue books returned to the library. Also, no fines will be charged on returned books which had been reported as lost. Fines currently due at the library will be dismissed if the person comes to the library to check out materials.

The library cannot excuse patrons for lost books which are not returned.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

We hear a lot of talk these days about Teacher Burnout. In layman's terms, it's stress brought about by hassles with kids, abusive language, physical assault, pure exhaustion and lack of appreciation for what you're trying to do.

What a coincidence! In 1959, every mother in our suburb suffered from Teacher Burnout. Only we didn't know it was a national social problem with a scientific name. We simply called it a nervous breakdown.

The symptoms were the same: difficulty in sleeping, irritability, upset stomach, headaches, and an unnatural craving for weekends.

I was telling this to Sylvia Saffron, who teaches third grade and lives down the street from me.

"I know just what you're going through, Sylvia," I said. "I used to get so tired I'd fall asleep having my teeth cleaned."

"What did you do about it?"

"Some women took shots for it. Others didn't even bother putting it in a glass after awhile, but I knew if I just toughed it out, it would all work out somehow."

"What happened?" asked Sylvia.

"Well, I used to go crazy every morning telling the kids what to wear. By the time they got out of the house, I was a nervous wreck. Then we got the school to set up a dress code and THEY had the hassle."

"I used to get exhausted keeping up with nutrition to make sure my children got a well-balanced diet, but then we got the schools to do this for us."

"Sex education was tough for parents to handle, but then we got the school involved and now they have the responsibility."

"Same thing for physical fitness. I used to nag my kids to exercise and get involved in sports, but now it's the school's problem. And I can't tell you what a relief it was when we dumped driver's education on the school. That can throw you into early menopause."

"But the biggest factor in getting us well was when the school had to take the responsibility for the values and morals of our children...not to mention discipline and how they are going to fit into society."

"That's fine for you," said Sylvia, "but how do I get relief?"

"You spell it. P-A-R-E-N-T-S."

Holiday Meal Planned For Lodges, Canton

Twenty members were in attendance Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 in IOOF Temple.

Nobel Grand Helen Sowell presided during the business session. Sick members and friends were reported. Thirty-four visits to the sick and 19 greeting cards were tallied.

Plans for a Thanksgiving supper were finalized for the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m. All Rebekahs, Odd Fellows and Canton members are urged to attend with their families.

A warm welcome was expressed to Ola Hacker of Westgate Nursing Home who has been unable to attend lodge for several months. Gladys Everts served as hostess to Lydia Hopson, Martha Bridges, Ola Hacker, Mary Flowers, Roberta Combs, Karrol Rettman, Edna Mathes, Guy Lawrence, Sadie Shaw, Ada Hollibaugh, Ursalee Jacobsen, Bessie Sauley, Helen Sowell, Verna Sowell, Peggy Lemons, Faye Brownlow, Bessie Lawrence, Frances Parker and Susie Curtsinger.

The largest and most valuable diamond ever found is the Cullinan I, mined in South Africa in 1902. In the rough it weighed 3,106 carats or about one and one-third pounds before being cut into nine large stones and 96 smaller ones.

Ann Landers

Ma Bell Request

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in Directory Service for Ma Bell. Will you please tell the public our job is to help find telephone numbers for people who can't see, read or spell, or folks who happen to be in a phone booth where there's no book? We are also happy to help supply the numbers of customers with new phones who haven't yet been listed.

Some people think we are supposed to answer questions about birth control, cooking, Social Security and astrology. This morning a woman asked if I knew Gerald Ford's real name. She had a bet on with a friend. I told her all I knew was Gerald Ford. She got mad and yelled, "He was adopted, dummy...what was his real name?"

Ten minutes later a woman said she was making a meatloaf, and it called for oatmeal. She didn't have any oatmeal and wondered if cream of wheat would be OK.

Just now, a guy asked me what city he was in. He said, "I'm not drunk, baby, I travel a lot. Where am I today?"

I enjoy my job, but it sure would be a lot more pleasant if people knew what we were supposed to do, and not lay all that other stuff on us. Tell them, Annie...D.S., Not Ph.D.

DEAR D.S.: You told 'em -- that's enough. Incidentally, Gerald Ford was born Leslie Lynch King, Jr.; cream of wheat won't work in a meatloaf, and that guy who didn't know what city he was in wasn't so wacky. It has happened to me more than once.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Me writing to Ann Landers. What a laugh! But the problem isn't very funny.

I went with "Hank" for three years. We're not kids (both 30). We talked over all the things we thought were important before we had a big Catholic wedding. I have six nieces and seven nephews and I'm crazy about kids. "Hank" said he wanted at least four.

We've been married two years and I'm dying to start a family. "Hank" has changed his mind. Children make him nervous all of a sudden. He keeps telling me about the trouble people at work are having with their kids. He won't even consider adoption. I want a baby so bad I can't stand it. My sister is pregnant with her third, and when I'm around her I feel like bawling. What should I do?--Hitched To A Stubborn Ox.

DEAR HITCHED: Discuss this with the clergyman who performed your marriage ceremony. I don't see how you can have a life of contentment with a man who broke his word about a matter that seems vital to your happiness.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 14-year-old daughter (former marriage) walks around the house in a see-through bra and panties.

She does this in front of her 17-year-old stepbrother. I don't think it's decent. She says, "He sees more when I wear a bikini." The girl is well developed and a tease. I'm worried about what might happen when we leave them alone for an evening. My husband says I'm crazy. Am I?--Scottsdale, Ariz.

DEAR SCOTTS: No, you aren't crazy. Get some outside counseling at once. Sounds like you have a dynamite situation under your roof, and you need to know how to deal with it.

TOMATO JELL SALAD
Easy to make and a delightful change from the usual tomato aspic.

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 16-ounce can stewed tomatoes, cut into small bits and undrained
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Salad greens and mayonnaise

In a medium bowl evenly sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. In a small saucepan heat stewed tomatoes until boiling gently; add to gelatin and stir until gelatin dissolves. Stir in salt and Worcestershire. Chill, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened. Ladle into five 1/2-cup molds or 6-ounce custard cups. Cover and chill to set. At serving time, unmold and garnish with salad greens. Pass mayonnaise. Makes 5 servings.

Consider Tree Characteristics When Planning Home Landscape

COLLEGE STATION — When selecting trees for landscaping, a whole host of characteristics must be considered, the head of the Texas A&M University Department of Forest Science said here recently.

Speaking at a Texas Arborists Workshop sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the International Society of Arboriculture, Dr.

Robert S. Dewers outlined a number of characteristics of trees that affect their desirability:

--Longevity: Long-lived trees are much more desirable than short-lived ones. Among long-lived trees are honeylocust, pecan, oaks, red maple, Sabinal maple, cedar elm and Southern magnolia.

--Resistance to breakage: Trees with strong wood that are most resistant to breakage include crabapple, beech, blackgum, pecan, oaks, honeylocust and Sabinal maple.

--Freedom from insect and disease problems: Trees with little disease or insect problems include ailanthus, coffeetree, ginkgo, maples, oaks and tallow.

--Autumn color: Those with outstanding fall color include blackgum, sweetgum, Texas oak, sumac, tallow, Sabinal maple and Chinese pistachio.

--Attractive or fragrant flowers or fruit: Trees with an outstanding display of flowers or fruit include redbud, flowering peach, flowering crab, flowering dogwood, magnolia and crepemyrtle.

--Handsome or unusual bark color or pattern: Among trees with handsome or distinctive bark are cork oak, Japanese crepemyrtle, eucalyptus, sycamore, Texas, madrone and Chinese parasol tree.

--Cleanliness: Those that are clean and require little cleaning up include basswood, beech, oaks and Sabinal maple.

--Distinctive form: Trees with distinctive form include willow oak, pines, deodar cedar, American elm, Bolleana poplar, Lombardy poplar, weeping willow and sweetgum.

--Distinctive foliage color: Trees with distinctive leaf color add variety and interest to the landscape and include Sunburst honeylocust, silver poplar, fraser photinia, Texas madrone, Japanese maple, Russian-olive and purpleleaf plum.

--Interesting or unusual leaf shape: Those with unusual leaf shapes include ailanthus, buckeye, honeylocust, Texas oak, sumac, sassafras, coffeetree, Chinese parasol tree, ginkgo, sweetgum, tulip-poplar and loquat.

--Distinctive and handsome bud, twig or branch arrangement, shape or color: During winter months, some trees are attractive due to unusual patterns of buds, twigs or branches, including beech, blackgum, coffeetree, dogwood, sassafras, bur oak, corkscrew willow, ginkgo and Southern magnolia.

--Surficial root system: Trees with root systems near the surface are more subject to damage and cause lawn problems. These include cottonwood, silver poplar, weeping willow and tallow.

--Thorniness: Thorny trees are a safety hazard and include Russian-olive, huisache, black locust, mesquite, hawthorn, honeylocust, osage-orange and trifoliolate orange.

--Incompatible root system: Some trees have roots that enter and clog water pipes, drain pipes and waste pipes. These include red maple, silver maple, pecan, sycamore, cottonwoods, poplars and willows.

--Suckering root system: Some trees send up sprouts from roots, which is undesirable. These include flowering crab, Lombardy poplar, tallow, jujube, ailanthus, Bolleana poplar, silver poplar, sassafras and persimmon.

--Toxic properties or offensive odors: A few trees have properties toxic to humans or have offensive odors, such as poison sumac and the female ginkgo.

When selecting a tree for landscaping, look at the sum of its many parts--roots, bark, trunk, branches, twigs, buds, flowers, leaves and fruit, suggested Dewers. Then decide how the characteristics of each part will add to or detract from the desirability of the tree.

The Stanton Chapter of FHA (Future Homemakers of America), have elected officers for the 1979-80 school year. Those elected and the office in which they will serve are: Angie Cano-President, Patricia Gonzales-Vice-President, Cecilia Garcia - Secretary - treasurer, and Marcy Barela-Recreation Chairman. These officers will be installed at the November meeting.

FHA is an integral part of the vocational homemaking program. Each student develops self-confidence and leadership through this organization. The chapter programs are set up to be a part of the class activities, and meetings are held during class.

On Tuesday, Oct. 30, there was a Halloween Party for FHA members in the CVAE room at Stanton. Entertainment included games such as three-legged races, rolling peanuts with nose, and a spook room. There was a parade of costumes and the prize for the prettiest costume went to Lin's Herrera, for the ugliest costume to Matilda Castellano and for the most original to Rosemary Castillo.

Sponsors for the FHA are Mrs. Karleen Moore and Mrs. Dean Bradley.

During October, there were 1483 books checked out from the library and 112 classes came to the library, during their class period, for research, to view films, to spend the period reading books and magazines, and to check out books.

Students will be enjoying four-day weeks for the next three weeks, as November 9 and 10 are teacher in-service days and Friday, November 23 will be a Thanksgiving Holiday. Classes will dismiss at 2:20 on Wednesday, November 21 for Thanksgiving.

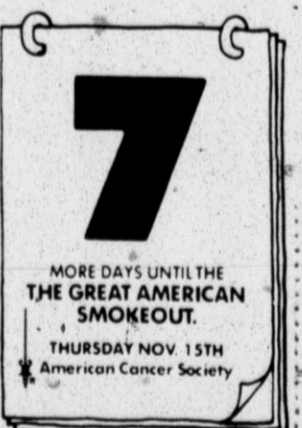

Today, our ninth football team traveled to Canyon for a four o'clock game while the eighth grade team met LaPlata at five at the stadium. Our seventh team played Plainview here Tuesday.

Yearbook staffers are contacting the students who have yet to order a yearbook. They are about 125 students to contact.

The seventh and eighth grade speech class presented a play during homeroom yesterday. The play, by Percy Frost, "An Apple For Teacher" was under the direction of Miss Carol Robinson. Cast members were: Brenda McMorries, Florentino Carbajal, Tracy Hargrove, Mary Lou Trevizo, Minnie Enriquez, Pat Cantu, Brad Walser, James Layman, Lenora Hill, Mel Ramirez, Paula Mendoza, Valerie Villegas, Erlinda Hernandez and Mildred Collins.

Rally Day Attended By TOPS 1011 Club

The TOPS 1011 club attended an Area Rally Day (ARD) Saturday in Dimmitt to honor their graduating member, Earlene Cook who was one of thirteen to graduate.

Of the 13, George China of Amarillo was crowned "king of the year" with a loss of 22½ pounds, and Judy Lange of Nazareth was crowned "queen of the year" with a loss of 75½ pounds.

Mrs. Lange's mother, Wil-hemine Fetsch, a TOPS 1011 member, received recognition also for reaching her goal. Mrs. Fetsch will graduate at the next ARD meeting which will be in Lubbock in April of 1980.

All people who attended participated in singing and a luncheon.

Any people interested in joining TOPS 1011 are asked to attend the meetings held each Monday evening at 6 p.m. at the Community Center.

CARL J. SMITH
...Texas Panhandle artist

Area Artist Featured In Magazine Article

Texas Panhandle artist, Carl J. Smith is featured in an eight-page article in the November issue of the prestigious magazine, Southwest Art.

The article traces Smith's background and career, and includes both black and white and full-color reproductions of some of the artist's recent works.

Wendel Clark, Hereford resident and owner of the Sagebrush Gallery in Amarillo, is exclusive agent for Carl J. Smith's paintings. Clark's efforts in behalf of the artist resulted in the coverage by Southwest Art magazine.

Smith maintains his home and studio in Canyon. He has attained an international following for his oil paintings that are of the West but are set apart from those that are ordinarily termed "Western" or "Cowboy" because of the artist's distinctive style and technique. Smith employs a "veiled" technique which he sweeps across the details of his canvases, softening the harsher aspects of the frontier existence and focusing the viewer's attention upon the gentle or heroic qualities of the individuals who pioneered this part of the country.

Smith is the grandson of Charlie Smith, a circuit-riding Church of Christ preacher, whose large and gregarious family put down roots on the southern edge of the Texas Panhandle. The artist recounts as one of his happiest childhood memories, being "raised in a sandstorm" on a dry-land farm at Joel, near Canyon.

After receiving his training at West Texas State University, Smith taught art for 12 years, in the elementary schools of Portales, New Mexico. In 1966, he decided to devote all his energies to painting and returned to Canyon, where much of the Smith clan's activities centered.

Drawing from senior family members' recollections of pioneering, and from his own experiences, Smith found a niche as one who chronicles the viewpoint of the settlers who tamed Texas' prairies and New Mexico's mountains and mesas. He gained widespread acceptance of his work when he associated with Wendel Clark and his Amarillo-based Sagebrush Gallery.

A one-week showing of Smith's more recent works opens at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 16th, at the Gallery, 4320 West 45th, in Amarillo.

Authored by Amarillo writer, Carol Finch, the Southwest Art magazine article depicts Smith as an artist who devotes a 40-hour week to his painting, and his leisure moments to family members and close friends. The diversity of Smith's subjects, his expanding use of colors, and comments from owners and collectors of the artist's works are also discussed in the article.

Copies of the November issue of Southwest Art may be found in two of the Amarillo galleries and at a downtown Amarillo news stand.

Pen Pals Sought For Korean Youths

Local youths aged 13-17 are invited to correspond on a regular basis with members of the Student Language Club in Seoul, Korea to help them in learning English. The following letter, written by Miss Insook Kang, is directed to The Hereford Brand in hopes of reaching local youth:

Dear Editor,

I am a leader of the Student Language Club in Seoul, Republic of Korea. In my club, there are so many youngsters who wish to correspond with your youths in the English language. I write to you in the hope that you will help them get in touch with young people in your country. Their ages are ranging from 13-17.

I think this kind of direct communication between friends will help both to learn each other's country and moreover to provide a correspondence forum for discussion of international problems. It will also help my students to brush up their English skills. Of course, I guess they might have fun in swapping items in their hobby collections.

Our student language club was organized by an English teacher many years ago and there are many students who wish to correspond with foreign friends especially from your country for their knowledge about foreign countries. And for the knowledge of this, corresponding might be the most desirable to them.

I am sure each of them will be the faithful friends and correspondents to anyone who wishes to be their friends. It would be very nice if their new pen pals will kindly write about themselves including age, sex and any other information for their Korean pen pals.

I hope you can perhaps publish my name and address in your esteemed paper. Then we will anxiously await letters from your country. Thank you very much for your time and kind consideration.

Sincerely yours,
Miss Insook Kang

COMMENTARY Incomprehensibly American

Donald F. Graff

Well, Americans are at it again. It's official now. The presidential campaign is under way, that quadrennial rite that to the rest of the politically civilized world is in large part or wholly incomprehensible.

Why official? Because Edward Kennedy finally announced his intention to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination. But he is challenging the incumbent president of his own party who has yet to make his own official announcement of candidacy for re-election. (It's official, however, that Jimmy Carter will be announcing on Dec. 4.) Meanwhile, the official opposition already has fielded five declared candidates.

So why should it have taken the Kennedy candidacy to make it official? That's what we mean — incomprehensible. And there's so much more to come.

Consider the focus of the Kennedy campaign — leadership, to the lack of which he ascribes the Carter administration's problems. No matter that his own qualifications in this area have yet to be demonstrated convincingly. He had a try at a leadership role early in his Senate career, but that came to an abrupt end in 1971 when his Democratic colleagues decided he wasn't backing it as majority whip.

Carter's already evident response is to tag Kennedy as an old-line, big-spending liberal, addicted to expensive social projects the feverish economy cannot afford. Never mind that his own promise hanging over from the last campaign to balance the federal budget is still unfulfilled, with prospects of ever being able to do so receding.

And his is the proposal for a $142 billion crash energy program to free us from dependence on the oil cartel. (Yes, yes. Most of that is supposed to be financed by tapping oil-industry profits. But that windfall is still written on the wind, not something you can write checks on.)

Meanwhile, it is not Carter himself who is the most active campaigner in his cause, but his wife. Which is probably just as well since polls indicate Rosalynn is by quite a bit the more politically effective Carter. Which could raise the question as to why she isn't running instead. And that's a possibility the Carter camp may yet want to consider.

In what is going to be a media-oriented campaign like the last several, only more so, Carter appears to have lost an early round with the refusal of the networks to sell him air time for his Dec. 4 announcement. Can you see the French president or the Japanese prime minister being refused time at a similar request? Incomprehensible.

The Carter-Kennedy confrontation is only the preliminary. There are still the final stages of whoever emerges from a Republican melee that, with the more dramatic Democratic contest monopolizing center stage, may very well take place mostly in the wings. An apparently party-splitting fight could actually work out to be a plus for the eventual Democratic nominee, giving him a long publicity lead over the Republican challenger.

Kennedy may have the charisma, but Carter may be able to look to tradition to compensate. Not since Franklin Pierce in 1856 — and that was the sole such instance — has an incumbent president been denied renomination by his party.

On the other hand, tradition has not fared well in recent presidential elections. John F. Kennedy in 1960 retired the one about Catholics not needing to apply. Richard Nixon demonstrated that a loser on his first try could still come back to pick up the big prize. Carter brought a bona fide Southerner back into the White House by direct election rather than succession for the first time since before the Civil War.

Incomprehensible as it may seem, Kennedy's challenging of tradition may put him right in step with the latest tradition. It's all part of a process non-Americans probably will never completely understand.

For that matter, neither may Americans.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE What people are saying...

"The California sunflake doesn't exist. That's a figment of an unknowing mind."
— Richard Maulin, an aide to Jerry Brown, insisting that the California governor's "flaky" image is unfair.

"I can't discount the fact that I'll save money on gas."
— Leo Whinery, professor at the University of Oklahoma, who has solved his personal energy crisis by riding to work on horseback.

Kucinich is Ousted as Cleveland Mayor

AP Political Writer
Cleveland Mayor Dennis Kucinich is out after two years of battling the city's bankers and his own party establishment. But Democrats retained control of other big-city governments and withstood spirited state-house challenges in Mississippi and Kentucky.

Kucinich, who had survived last year's recall vote and two defaults on the city's debts, lost decisively to George V. Voinovich, Ohio's Republican lieutenant-governor.

Even in defeat, Kucinich was still fighting. "We sacrificed the mayor's office because we refused to bow and serve to the money power of this community," he said in a defiant concession speech late Tuesday. The final tally gave Voinovich 94,407 to 73,505 for Kucinich, who told his subdued supporters, "We stood up for the people against the corporations that are attacking the consumers every day."

Political novice John Y. Brown was elected governor of Kentucky, while political veteran William Winter captured the Mississippi statehouse.

Democrat Kevin White won an unprecedented fourth straight four-year term in Boston. And in Philadelphia, former Democratic U.S. Rep. William J. Green will succeed flamboyant, law-and-order Mayor Frank Rizzo.

In Minneapolis, Donald Fraser scored a comeback for the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party with his election as mayor of the city he served as congressman for 16 years.

San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein, appointed after Mayor George Moscone was slain last year, apparently faced, a Dec. 11 runoff with second-finisher Quentin Kopp, a city supervisor. With 99.7 percent of the vote counted in the 10-person race, Ms. Feinstein held a narrow lead with 80,914 votes to 77,643 for Kopp.

Another runoff is in store in Houston, where Democratic Mayor Jim McConn finished first but will have to battle Councilman Louis Macey, his chief critic in city government.

"Those years were marvelous and I loved them," she said

after she stepped from the podium. "But they're behind me."

Johnson's daughters, Luci Nugent and Lynda Bird Robb; his son-in-law, Virginia Lt. Gov. Charles Robb; and Humphrey's son-in-law, Bruce Solomon, joined the two women on the podium for a hand waving session straight from the campaign trail.

The Friends of the LBJ Library in Austin, Texas, sponsored the reunion as a special edition of its annual Washington party. Invitations were sent to campaign workers throughout the country, but most of the 700 people who accepted came from the Washington area.

Scattered among the crowd were such Johnson stalwarts as Clark Clifford, his defense secretary; Liz Carpenter, Mrs. Johnson's former press secretary; aide Jack Valenti; and a now grown Courtenay Valenti, who as a two-year-old at the White House was billed as the "president's darling."

A good share of the Texas congressional delegation attended, including Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Scotter Miller, whose husband Dale was chairman of the 1964 inaugural, wore a cowboy hat and close to a dozen campaign buttons. She carried the bag she used on the whistlestop through the south, with a map and a carefully stitched red stripe showing the train's route.

Jack McNulty, one of Johnson's speechwriters, was asked how he would describe the mood of the evening. "It was the last happy election," he said.

The LBJ Library opened on the University of Texas campus in 1971.

Johnson died in 1973 and Humphrey in 1978.

"Here I am, caught, unlike Hubert Humphrey, without any words to say," Mrs. Humphrey said as her speech. "Lady Bird and I remain everlastingly good friends - through all the sadness, through all the triumphs."

With over two-thirds of the vote counted, Winter had 274,956 to Carmichael's 184,244.

Former Republican Gov. Louis Nunn put up a stiff fight in Kentucky, but lost decisively to Brown after a bitter campaign. With virtually all the precincts counted, Brown had 553,077 votes; Nunn, 379,932.

Nunn, announcing his retirement from politics late Tuesday, told supporters, "The voters have done my family and me a personal favor. What they have done for themselves has yet to be determined."

Brown, who made a fortune in the fast-food business, is married to former Miss America and TV personality Phyllis George.

Noting Nunn's campaign attacks on his jet-set lifestyle, Brown told supporters, "There was a lot in this campaign that was an embarrassment to this state (but) truth always wins out. It's obvious that the mud didn't stick."

Green, 41, represented Philadelphia for six terms in the U.S. House and had lost to Rizzo in 1971.

Marston, one of best known Republican candidates in Philadelphia in recent years, won national attention when he resisted unsuccessfully the Carter administration's moves to replace him as the city's U.S. attorney while he was investigating several Democratic congressmen.

In racially-troubled Boston, White noted that he had won in every neighborhood and said "this is the first time in 12 years that this city has not been divided."

Green echoed those comments, saying, "We set out to end the bitterness, the divisiveness in this city. It ends tonight. Philadelphia is whole again."

Fraser had served Minneapolis as congressman for 16 years but gave up his safe seat last year for the Senate. His party, which had dominated Minnesota politics under the leadership of the late Hubert H. Humphrey, lost the statehouse and both Senate seats in last fall's general election, and Tuesday's contest was viewed by many as a do-or-die turning point.

Campaign Reunion Conducted

WASHINGTON (AP) - The 1964 presidential campaign returned to Washington for a rousing night of nostalgia Tuesday, carrying the Johnson-Humphrey political family and its fellow travelers on a recreated Lady Bird Special.

A hotel ballroom was decorated to recall the train used for the successful Johnson-Humphrey whistlestop campaign that ended with an election night celebration exactly 15 years ago - November 6, 1964.

In one of the few speeches of the evening, Muriel Humphrey, wife of the late Vice President Hubert Humphrey, said there were "so many memories floating through my mind that it's almost impossible to sort it all out."

Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, told the crowd of several hundred that "All of this to me is a beautiful, happy, dear evening."

Mrs. Johnson said later that she has stepped completely away from politics to devote her time to her grandchildren and family business.

"Those years were marvelous and I loved them," she said following improper repairs on a crack in the engine pylon, the FAA alleged. Braniff continued to operate that aircraft after it had agreed with FAA determination that the repairs did not meet FAA approval, the agency said.

Melugin said despite the allegations he still considers U.S. aviation the safest in the world and flies on Braniff planes "once or twice a week. They're not going to fall out of the sky."

Braniff spokesman Jere Cox said the "FAA allegations are not in context with the facts." He said Braniff has "the finest maintenance, the highest skilled technicians, and (we) give our fleet of modern jet aircraft the most meticulous care of any airline in the industry."

by using improper and unapproved maintenance procedures, by operating aircraft that had not received required inspection, and by failing to keep adequate records of repairs performed...." FAA Southwest Regional Director C.R. Melugin Jr. said Tuesday.

The FAA cited 10 major violations and several minor ones. Braniff denied the allegations.

Melugin accused the airline of violating numerous FAA rules involving the operation of

FAA Recommending Fine Against Braniff Airways Over Repairs

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The Federal Aviation Administration has recommended fines against Braniff Airways of $1.5 million, accusing it of flying passenger jets that were in need of repairs, and in general, disregarding FAA rules.

The FAA did not ground Braniff's planes, but said it would consider such action if the alleged violations continue during a special one-year surveillance period.

"The violations in question appear to reflect a basic pattern of contiguing disregard of federal aviation regulations on the part of Braniff management

Boeing models 747 and 727 and Douglas DC-8 aircraft that "did not meet applicable airworthiness requirements for scheduled airline operations."

He said in the most serious violation Braniff flew six flights on a 747 jetliner despite the fact its main cabin door would not operate properly. Melugin said the problem was so bad Braniff assigned a mechanic to those flights to open and close the door.

In another allegation, the airline operated a DC-8 on 447 flights over an 11-month period

Leftists agreed to a 30-day truce with El Salvador's new military-dominated government and ended their occupation of two government buildings, freeing 30 hostages they had held for two weeks. Then they joined a victory march through downtown San Salvador.

Juan Chacon, 22-year-old leader of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc that took over the Labor and Economics Ministries Oct. 24, said the government asked for a "reasonable time" to meet the Bloc's demands. He said his organization, a coalition of workers, peasants and students, agreed to 30 days.

Arnoldo Aonso Majano, one of the two colonels who overthrew President Carlos Humberto Romero in a military coup Oct. 15, said: "We have boken with the past. We are trying to change the structures and the concepts that were so 'mistaken'."

Chacon said the Revolutionary Bloc would "continue the struggle" to force the junta to double the minimum wage to $6 daily, freeze food prices and report on the fate of 550 persons who disappeared while Romero was president.

The hostages who were freed included three Cabinet ministers.

Leftists Agree to Truce With El Salvador's Govt.

NEW YORK (AP) - You may disagree with the following ideas, proposals and findings, but they represent the thinking of some of the most influential individuals and institutions in the nation.

—From a conservative economist:

Interest rates are "too low," according to Milton Friedman, the Nobel laureate economist. And he means what he says, even though almost all rates are into historically high territory.

Friedman explained his position a couple of weeks ago to an alumni group at Stanford University.

There is still a gap between the rates of inflation and interest, he explained. In many instances inflation rates are higher.

When that gap is taken into account, Friedman said, people who borrow now are "being paid 2 percent for the privilege." Such a statement would assume, for example, an 11 percent loan and 13 percent inflation.

Consumer borrowing rates in most areas of the country are possible considering the circumstances," one of the captives said.

About 200 leftists, most of them teen-agers, poured out of the two buildings Tuesday to join thousands of supporters in a victory dance for 20-blocks to the university.

The marchers chanted: "Socialism is coming. No one can stop it." and "Prolonged war."

Chacon told a rally at the campus: "It cost a lot of bloodshed and more than 100 dead, but this is the first Salvadoran government that recognizes we are right."

About 1,000 leftists occupied the two ministries and took about 300 hostages, but last week they freed all but 30 of the captives and about 800 of the leftists left the buildings.

Human rights groups estimate at least 80 persons have been killed in clashes with the army since the coup.

The Communist Party denounced negotiations with the new government. It charged the junta's conciliatory policy was provoking the extreme right and that El Salvador's land-owning oligarchy is conspiring with reactionary army officers for a countercoup.

San Salvador's archbishop, Oscar Arnulfo Romero, also has warned of another coup if the junta doesn't purge the military. The archbishop supports the junta and was an outspoken critic of previous military regimes.
