

Probation-Welfare Division To Create Vacancies

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

A representative of the Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board asked county commissioners Monday in regular session to appoint five and possibly six members to the board, which recently voted to separate itself from the juvenile probation board.

Sherry Hoover, who also is a member of the regional child welfare board, told the court that the juvenile probation and child welfare boards decided recently to split in order the effectiveness of each panel.

Mrs. Hoover said she had tendered her resignation from the juvenile probation board to the city commission.

The split was agreed upon because neither board had done "a very good job," Mrs. Hoover said. "We agreed that we needed to delve into each board to see what that board needed to be doing and do a better job."

The juvenile probation board earlier this year encountered problems with the city commission and Hereford Independent School District board over the juvenile officer's duties.

Some members of the juvenile board said publicly they did not know what the exact duties of the officers were.

"You remember that it was blasted all over the front pages of The Hereford Brand. The whole board was terribly embarrassed because we hadn't been doing a very good job," Mrs. Hoover said to commissioners.

Members of the juvenile probation and child welfare boards were the same, and Mrs. Hoover said that the setup did not allow the boards to devote proper time to their respective problems.

Board members include Charlie Bell, Doug Manning, Louis Montano, James Voyles and County Judge Glen Nelson. Tom Templeton resigned from the boards because he had accepted a school principal's position in Junction.

Wes Fisher replaced Mrs. Hoover on the juvenile board after the boards agreed to separate and Mack Tubb took over Templeton's unexpired term.

Bell, Manning, Voyles, Tubb, Fisher and Nelson will remain on the juvenile board. Montano has stated he would like to serve on the child welfare board.

The county commission asked Mrs. Hoover to come up with several candidates for the child welfare board.

Commissioners accepted the resignations of county librarian Marsha Burchinal and veterans service officer Benn Womble.

Miss Burchinal, hired last year, stated in her letter of resignation to the court that she has accepted a librarian's job in Paris, Texas, effective Sept. 20.

Womble resigned, effective next Sunday, to devote more time to his oil

Soviets 'Flow' Weapons to Cuba

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Intelligence Agency has predicted a "steady flow" of new Soviet weapons to Cuba, aimed at increasing the firepower and mobility of Fidel Castro's forces.

In a heavily censored version of a report to Congress, DIA experts said, "The weapons could be used equally well in any arena."

The Pentagon's intelligence agency estimated that Russia has given Cuba more than $1.6 billion in free military aid since 1960.

"The state of readiness of the Cuban army continues to improve," the DIA said. "This is because of increased combat experience in Africa, intensified training at home and delivery of new weapons systems."

The report, given behind closed doors to a House subcommittee last April and released recently, said Russia may send Cuba bigger assault guns, mobile surface-to-surface missiles, interceptor versions of the advanced MIG-23 jet fighter, larger troop transport helicopters and additional ocean-going naval combat vessels.

The censored version of the report made only indirect references to Soviet military personnel in Cuba and said nothing about the Russian ground combat brigade there whose presence was recently confirmed by the Carter administration.

It said that Cuba's military, economic and political ties with the Soviet Union are "closer than ever" and that deliveries of Russian military equipment "greatly increased" in dollar value last year.

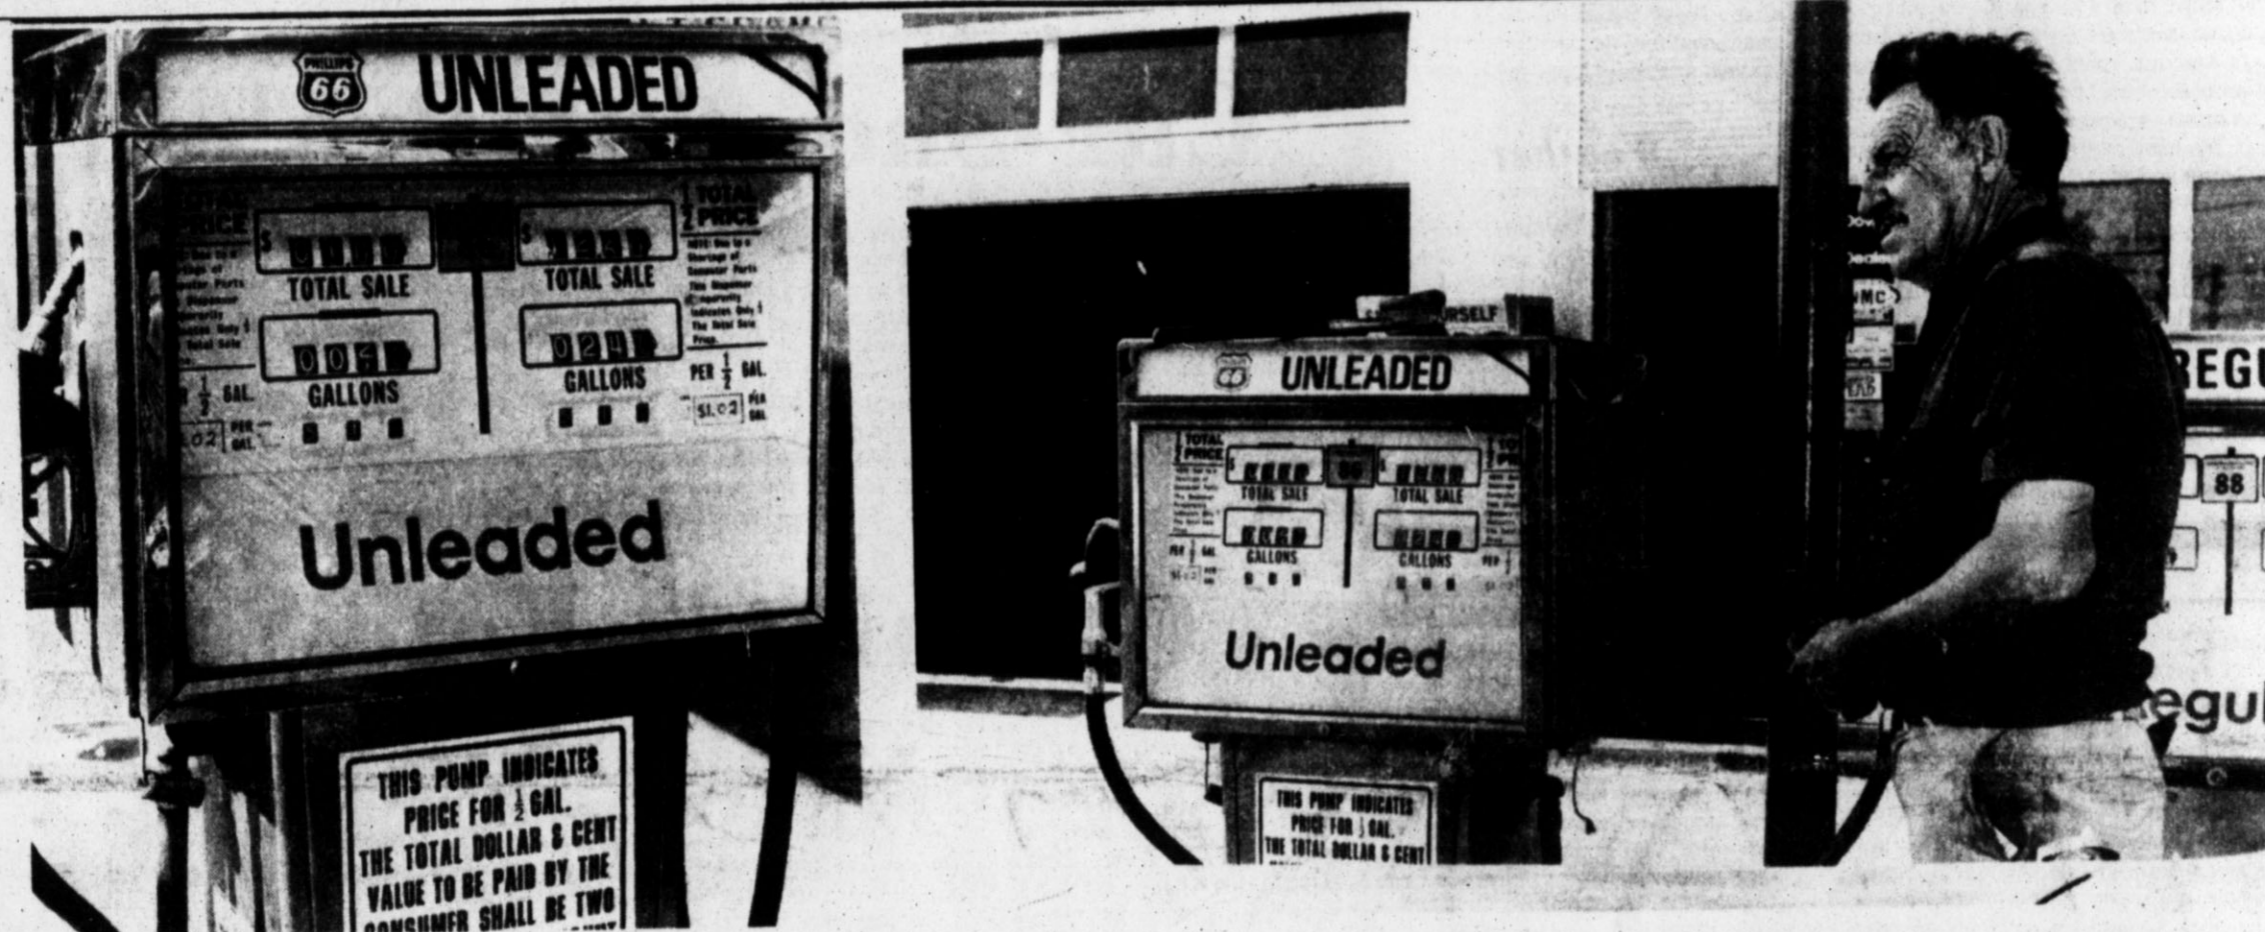

"Traditionally, Cuba has had to settle for older systems while other Moscow client states received more recent production," said DIA analyst Martin J. Scheina.

"Of late, however, in line with the professionalization of the military, Cuba has been taking delivery on systems comparable to those received by Moscow's other allied states."

In addition to Cuba's extensive involvement in Africa, DIA specialists reported "a noticeable increase in Cuban support of Latin American insurgents."

The report linked what it described as

Demo Support for Kennedy Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats trying to drum up support to draft Sen.

Edward M. Kennedy as the party's 1980 presidential nominee are riding a wave of encouragement brought on by events of the past few days.

"The phone is ringing off the hook," said State Sen. Sharon Pollard of Massachusetts, a leader of the draft movement in Kennedy's home state.

"As the indications become more clear that Sen. Kennedy is thinking seriously of making a bid, more and more people are calling," she said. "It's a social phenomenon we've never seen before and we'll never see again."

The latest of the "indications" came in a Kennedy interview published in today's editions of The Boston Globe.

"I have not ruled out the possibility of a candidacy," Kennedy told the Globe. "I have no time frame; I have no date and I have no further comments or statements about a date."

In another development Monday, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts told reporters: "I don't think that he (Kennedy) could be denied the Democratic nomination if he were to run."

There's never been any question about the support for Kennedy in Massachusetts. But 3,200 miles away in Vancouver, Wash., Jim Carty, the Clark County prosecutor, has operated largely as a one-man draft movement and grasps encouragement where he can find it.

Carty tells how at a county fair last month he put out Kennedy campaign material — buttons, brochures and bumper stickers left over from Robert F.

Kennedy's 1968 presidential bid.

"They were all gone in less than two hours and weren't well displayed at all," Carty said Monday.

More important, he says, is the sudden change in the response to his frequent letters to Kennedy urging the senator to run.

"In the past, I've always gotten back the standard response you see and hear about," he said. "The one I got back today (Monday) about the response at the fair surprised me."

"It offered me 'many thanks' and 'appreciation' and said, 'I want to thank you for warm words of encouragement and support.' I think he's moving in the right direction."

And in Oregon, Bill Garrett, head of the "Ready for Teddy" committee said he has had so many telephone calls in the past couple of days he "can't keep up."

There are Kennedy committees in at least 19 states, some tiny like Carty's and others highly organized like the one headed by Dudley W. Dudley in New Hampshire.

Reductions Sought For Farmer Loans

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Kent Hance has written Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland to request a 20 percent reduction of outstanding loans held by farmers who suffered the most damage from the recent hailstorm in West Texas.

The congressman asked for the special consideration for those farmers who suffered at least a 70 percent loss of crops expected to be harvested this fall.

"We have some farmers who will be wiped out because of the severity of this disaster," said Hance. "Many will simply go out of business, but hopefully this action could make the difference that many farmers need to continue farming."

In addition to the request for the 20 percent loan reduction, Hance also asked Bergland to consider a deferment of at least three years on all loans to farmer who sustained 50 percent or greater damage to their crops as a result of the disaster.

Nine counties thus far in Hance's West Texas 19th Congressional District have been declared disaster areas because of the more than $200 million in damage done by a major hailstorm in late August. Major crops of cotton, corn, soybeans and sugar beets were destroyed in most of the disaster-designated counties.

HHS Yearbooks To Be Distributed

The 1978-79 Hereford High School yearbooks have been received from the publishers and will be distributed today from 5-7 p.m. at the Community Center. The arrival of the annuals was announced Monday afternoon by yearbook sponsor Cherie Zink.

Students and teachers who bought annuals are asked to have their receipts in hand when collecting their Round-Up copy tonight, if possible. An autograph party is planned at the Community Center this evening.

Highlight of the yearbook will be the unveiling of "Most Beautiful" and "Most Handsome," which is kept secret until the annuals are distributed.

Freedom Celebration Scheduled

The Hereford Mexican-American community's annual Fiestas Patrias celebration will begin Friday night with a public dance at the Bull Barn and continue Saturday with a parade and another dance.

Fiestas Patrias is held each year in honor of Mexico's independence from Spain. The parade will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Community Center and head down Main St., according to parade marshal Victor Cantu. More than 40 entries are expected to participate in the parade, known each year for its colorful floats.

Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded to the top three floats in the parade. Persons wanting to enter floats should contact Cantu this week. Among those who will participate will be a Mexican mariachi, which will also perform immediately after the parade in a free show at the Bull Barn.

Dances are scheduled for 8 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday. Tickets will be sold at the Bull Barn, with proceeds going to the new St. Joseph's Catholic Church being constructed at 13th and Brevard.

Anita Castillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnulfo Castillo, will be crowned Fiestas Patrias queen during Saturday night's dance.

Carter Revising Inflation Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is concluding delicate negotiations with organized labor and business this week on a revised voluntary anti-inflation program the government hopes both sides will support — backing the current program has badly lacked.

Labor leaders have led the opposition to the program President Carter announced in October on the grounds that its 7 percent wage guideline penalizes workers whose wages are being eroded by a 13 percent inflation rate.

But administration officials are cautiously optimistic that they can reach an understanding with labor on the revised voluntary wage-price guidelines, due out by week's end.

Administration sources say the new guidelines, to take effect as Carter's program starts its second year next month, will be tightened for prices and relaxed for wages. The sources asked not to be named.

The administration has acknowledged that the current program has failed to slow the rapid rise in consumer prices, mainly for food, housing and energy. In fact, the annual inflation rate is higher now than when Carter unveiled his voluntary program.

The pay guideline, however, has helped curb large wage settlements by giving employers a reason for holding firm at 7 percent a year, administration officials say.

That is why labor leaders have opposed Carter's voluntary program and called instead for mandatory controls, which they believe would result in more equitable sacrifices by corporations, stockholders and wage earners in the fight against inflation.

Carter remains opposed to mandatory controls, and administration economists say a voluntary program can work only if it enjoys the backing of both business and labor.

With that goal in mind and at the suggestion of the Labor Department, administration officials have been meeting quietly with labor and business leaders all summer to see if the three parties can forge a "social compact" for fighting inflation.

The term "social compact" refers to a British anti-inflation experiment under which government, business and labor — recognizing their mutual interest in controlling inflation — entered into an agreement that limited wage and price increases.

Officials have been reluctant to detail the status of the discussions but have indicated the talks are going well and may produce a breakthrough agreement.

One government bargainer, who asked to remain anonymous, said he felt encouraged that the government, labor and business could become allies in the fight against inflation.

Wheat Farmers Asked To Use Trucks

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Railroad Commission took action Monday to encourage Panhandle wheat farmers to ship by truck in the face of a shortage of rail cars.

It created a trucking allowance of 11 cents per 100 pounds from county grain elevators at Huttoon to primary elevators in Amarillo and Zita.

The commission also raised the trucking allowance from Hereford to Tulsa from 9 cents to 13 cents per 100 pounds.

The allowances to grain shippers are deducted from the through rail freight rates and are offered as an incentive to move wheat by truck.

Commission examiner Harold Bartz recommended the order, saying large quantities of grain are stored in county elevators at Huttoon and Hereford. He said pressure on the elevators will increase with harvest of additional grain or milo in September.

Bartz said Santa Fe Railway has been unable to furnish enough cars to move all the grain from county elevators to primary elevators along its line such as Amarillo, Hereford and Zita.

Scientist Expects Beaches To Clear

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Texas beaches will be in the clear and probably safe from more washups of a Mexican oil spill by mid-October, says a federal scientist.

"We're not out of the woods quite for another three or four weeks," Dr. John Robinson of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said Monday at a daily news briefing.

Robinson and others in the federal team monitoring the world's largest oil spill are counting on autumn southerly currents to continue pushing oil away from the Texas coast. The southerly direction will not be permanently established for three to four weeks.

Since the Ixtoc 1 well off the Yucatan Peninsula blew out June 3, the Texas coast from Matagorda Island south has been stained with thick brown goo. An estimated 3 percent of the well's gush has reached Texas - 500 miles from the blowout.

Mexican officials report the well's daily flow has been reduced from 30,000 barrels to between 10,000 to 20,000 barrels.

American officials are keeping close watch on Hurricane Frederic, said Coast Guard Capt. Theotis Wood, on-scene coordinator of the spill response team.

Security Guards Strike at Pantex

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - The reason for a security guard strike at a nuclear weapons assembly plant remained a mystery late Monday, but union spokesman insisted wages were not the issue.

The next step probably would be to bring in a federal mediator, said Ross Dunham, manager of the Pantex plant operated for the Energy Department by Mason & Hanger-Silas Mason Co., Inc. All nuclear weapon warheads for the United States are assembled at the plant. More than 150 guards, members of Local 38 of the International Guard Union of America, voted to reject management proposals and walked out when their contract expired at midnight Sunday.

Dunham, asked why the proposals were rejected, said, "I prefer not to talk about it but it is basically over some administrative matters."

Charles Ratliff, business manager of the local, also declined to talk about obstacles to a new contract. "It is kind of complicated," he said. "We are trying to keep this thing lowkey."

He emphasized the union is not affiliated with the AFL-CIO, and added that other employees are guarding the plant. "We wouldn't have left the plant unprotected," Ratliff said. "We want that known real well."

Curtis Files Motions To Quash Indictments

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - District Attorney Tom Curtis has filed four motions to quash and dismiss misdemeanor indictments returned against him by a Potter County grand jury.

The motions also would require the grand jury to turn over tape recordings of Curtis' testimony and to provide a list of witnesses the state might call.

The indictments, returned Aug. 15, charge Curtis attempted "to obtain a benefit for himself" in his Aug. 3 attempt to subpoena a grand jury tape recording of his testimony. The indictments allege such an act was "an unauthorized exercise of his official power" and an act that exceeded his official power.

Acting Potter County attorney George Harwood said the motions may be heard as early as the end of next week. District Judge John R. McFall of Lubbock was assigned the case last week. He is expected to hear it in Amarillo.

Although the indictments are a class A misdemeanor, conviction on either would lead to automatic removal from office.

Curtis claimed in the motions that the indictments should be dismissed because he did not issue the subpoena until after the grand jury was granted a 90-day extension of its term.

That extension was granted by District Court Judge Byron Poff so that the jury could continue its investigation of "four distinct matters of grave public concern."

Legal ramifications in the use of agricultural chemicals will receive an in-depth look during the conference, said Bob Sims of Brownfield, president of the West Texas Agricultural Chemicals Institute which sponsors the annual meeting.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12. The program begins at 1:15 p.m. focusing on the theme, "Living with Legality." Federal and state regulations that concern agricultural chemical users and manufacturers will be examined during the afternoon session.

Dr. Stan Fertig, pesticides impact assessment staff, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Beltsville, Md., and Paul Ekoniak of the registration section of I.C.I., an international chemical company, will discuss the federal regulations which permit agricultural chemicals' registration during specific conditions.

Terry Stark, agricultural assistant to U.S. Sen. John Tower, D-Tex., will discuss federal legislation with bearing on the agricultural chemicals industry. Jim Hale, an attorney from Brownfield, will discuss the application of Texas usury law to the collection of past due accounts.

Concluding the Wednesday afternoon session, Jim Mills, of the National Agricultural Chemicals Assn., Washington, D.C., will bring a report from that organization. Harold Harcastle, president of the National Aerial Applicators Assn., Vernon, will report for that group.

Awards for outstanding contributions to West Texas agriculture will be presented during the awards banquet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12. ton scouting and pest management will be the topics of Dr. James Leser, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Lubbock.

The concept and practice of integrated pest management will be explained by Dr. Ray Frisbie, Extension pest management leader for Texas, College Station, and Dr. Stan Nemecek, secretary of the Texas Association of Consulting Entomologists, College Station.

Iowa Actress Commits Suicide

PARIS (AP) - Jean Seberg, found dead in her car two days ago, tried to commit suicide by throwing herself in front of a Paris subway train last month.

Her fourth husband reported. The body of the 40-year-old actress from Iowa was found wrapped in a blue blanket in her car 200 yards from her apartment in the fashionable 16th District. She had been missing for nine days.

Several empty barbiturate wrappers and a half-empty bottle of mineral water were found near the body, and a policeman who was at the scene said there were no signs of violence inside the car.

"I knew she wanted to kill herself, for some time she didn't want to see anybody. She even talked of stopping work," Miss Seberg's husband of several months, Algerian actor Ahmed Hasmii, told reporters Sunday.

He said after her suicide attempt in August, she "pretended that she had been ill."

Hasmii said they went to the Sheriff Travis McPherson requested additional office space for the Texas Department of Public Safety. McPherson, who said that the highway patrol office is growing with the addition of troopers, requested that the driver's license office be used by the DPS. The driver's license office would be moved to the present DPS office under the proposal.

Nelson recommended that no action be taken on the matter until other requests for more space in the courthouse can be studied.

"The juvenile probation office is asking for space and the justice of the peace needs space," Nelson said. "We're already absorbed with a lot of state offices and we're penalizing our elected officials. Before we start shifting around, we need to look at the whole picture," Nelson said.

The court approved a right-of-way in Precinct 3 for Thermonetics Inc., an Oklahoma City-based methane and cattle feed producer which plans to build a facility in Deaf Smith County in the near future. "I'd prefer not to designate the specific right-of-way until the contracts (between landowners and the county) have been signed," Commissioner Bruce Coleman said.

The court agreed in a recent meeting with Thermonetics bond attorneys and a company official that the county would construct up to one mile of paved road for the plant. Commissioners voted Monday to set aside $50,000 in revenue-sharing funds to construct the road.

Commissioners approved, by resolution, the appointments of Coleman, city tax equalization board member Melvin Jayroe, Hereford school board member James Gentry, Walcott school board member Dan Hall and county hospital district board president Frank Zinser Jr. to the single tax appraisal district board.

Commissioners voted to change the state-created method of electing board members before approving the resolution. According to the bill which creates single tax appraisal districts in the county, the standard method of election, which involves each entry in the county casting a certain number of votes for board members, a two-thirds vote of entities may change the method.

Entity representatives in the county met recently to decide that the method of election should be changed. The names of the five persons who will sit on the board were submitted during that meeting. Each entity's governing board agreed to meet separately to approve the candidates by resolution.

The board will convene for the first time in January.

Love Change Battled

WASHINGTON (AP) - Opening Dallas' Love Field to interstate flights would either benefit the traveling public or provide the death stroke to the massive Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, the Civil Aeronautics Board has been told.

Charles Wells, the regional airport's attorney, said Monday interstate service at the older, in-city airport would pose air safety hazards, increase noise pollution in densely populated neighborhoods and destroy the regional airport's financial viability.

Asked what would happen if the board approved the requests from Southwest Airlines and Air Florida for Love Field flights, Wells replied: "We would wither on the vine. That's what would happen."

He said the airlines that moved to the regional airport when it opened in 1974 would flock back to Love Field. "If these carriers are given the slightest leeway to go back to Love, they will," the lawyer said.

The CAB is hearing requests from Southwest for service between Love Field and New Orleans and from Air Florida for flights between several Florida cities and the Dallas airport.

The board said it will indicate its decision Thursday, leaving out the environmental questions.

Paul Seligson, Southwest's attorney, said the noise pollution issue is a smokescreen officials are throwing up to "stifle competition between air Southwest pioneered economy service from in-city airports, escaping federal rate regulations by keeping its flights within Texas borders. The airline fought court battles to use Love Field, closer to downtown, for its service.

The Dallas-based airline expanded to the interstate market with the advent of CAB deregulation, starting flights between Houston's Hobby Airport and New Orleans earlier this year.

Seligson said Southwest's ability to offer consumers a lower priced alternative would suffer if had to bear the expense of operating at both Dallas airports. The start of interstate service at Hobby has not prompted other carriers to vacate the newer and larger Houston Intercontinental Airport, he said.

Air Florida is seeking to start economy service between several Florida cities and Love Field.

"Please bear in mind that Air Florida has no argument with the Dallas-Fort Worth facility," Robert Silverberg, the airline's attorney, said. "But it is not the only airport available... nor is it the most convenient to everyone."

Wells said the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth agreed at the urging of the CAB to abandon their local airports in favor of building the regional facility. He said a CAB decision allowing interstate service to return to Love Field would leave regional officials "holding a revenue airport and holding the bag for it."

As airline deregulation proceeds, CAB jurisdiction over the question ends within three years, Wells said the cities and the regional airport board then will go to the courts if the right they claim to keep interstate flights from Love Field is contested.

Gwendolyn Webb, of the Texas Aeronautics Commission, said the CAB should approve the requests of Air Florida and Southwest because of the benefit to consumers. "We have no vested interest in carrier operations at Love Field," she said. "Hopefully the board is here to resolve the case in favor of the public interest."

An environmental assessment made by CAB staff members found the projected increase in service at Love Field if interstate flights are allowed would not have a "significant noise impact" or harm air quality.

The National Park System's annual operating budget amounted to $5 million in 1946, according to National Geographic. It now exceeds $500 million. Nine thousand fulltime employees and more seasonal ones than that now work to keep the system going.

Music Club Changes Slate of Officers

Mrs. Wesley Gulley resigned from her position as president of Hereford Music Study Club Monday during an executive meeting held after the opening luncheon at K-Bob's Steak House.

Mrs. Gulley's resignation was accepted and Mrs. Tom Burdett was asked to advance from her position as first vice president to fill the top vacancy. This necessitated other changes in office with Mrs. Sid Shaw to serve as first vice president and Mrs. Joe Reinauer Jr. as second vice.

During the general membership meeting, Mrs. Wayne Thomas made a special presentation to Mrs. J.C. McCracken, to whom this year's club yearbook has been dedicated. The yearbooks were distributed to members. Theme of this year's programs will be "Music Around the World." To depict this program theme, tourist posters and travel brochures of exotic places were used to decorate the restaurant.

A brief program was given by Mrs. Ray Stewart D.w.n, who offered suggestions for making yearbooks more interesting and productive.

Club members sang the Federation hymn, the monthly hymn "God of Grace, God of Glory" and the benediction. In attendance were Mmes. J.R. Allison, Tom Burdett, S.F. Clements, Paul Lyons, J.C. McCracken, J.D. Neill, Joe Reinauer Jr., A. J. Schroeter, Sid Shaw, Bob Sims, Wayne

Thomas, Mary B. Catter, Ellis Combs, C.J. Mountz and S.O. Wilson.

The club's next meeting is planned Oct. 8 in the home of Mrs. Ken Walser.

Garden Beautiful Begins New Year

Members of Garden Beautiful Club reconvened for the 1979-80 season Friday morning with a coffee in the home of Dorothy Noland. Her cohostesses were Tiny Lee Roberson, Bruce Carter and Louella Cowser.

Camelia Jones, vice president, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the president, Ruby Carmichael.

In a routine business session, members discussed the new yearbooks and made plans for their Tour of Homes, scheduled Sept. 30. Also, it was announced that Mary Siegler, a life member of the club recently celebrated her 95th birthday.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Mayva popped into my utility room the other morning and said, "So, you've switched to the new laundry detergent ALL NEW SCUM FIGHTER?"

"No, it's the one I've been using for 20 years. It's just had sparkle added to the second rinse."

"I thought they added sparkle last year."

"No, last year it was improved with the bleach built in and before that they added an Advanced Formula so I could see the difference."

"Wasn't that the year my detergent was called Revolutionay Clean?"

"No, yours was Power Boosted to eliminate the odor. Remember? People were fainting a lot."

"I remember, but I liked it better when it was Reborn."

"That was the year mine was Streamlined, but then the ecologists screamed and they came out with a low sudser called Perfected."

"Remember the year HMQ was added?" smiled Mayva.

"I certainly do. Incidentally, what was HMQ?"

"I don't know, but their advertising campaign had a fuzzy monster coming out of the washer and grabbing the clothes right off your back."

"You've used your detergent a long time too, haven't you?"

"Yep," said Mayva. "I've stuck with it through Renovated, Futurized, Upgraded and Reinforced to fight grease."

"Me too," I said. "I've hung in there though Newly-Developed, Renewed, Revised and Enriched."

"I was going to buy mine when it was All Modern, but before I could buy a box, it had changed to Advanced."

"You're got to move fast or you miss a step," I said, opening the dryer.

"Was yours ever All-Purpose?"

"Oh sure, at one time my laundry detergent was so powerful it could clean without water and would take the liver spots off your hands."

"I wonder where they go from here," asked Mayva. "I mean, where do you go after Better! Better! All New! and Ultimate Perfection?"

"Funny you should say that. I just got a new box of my detergent in the cupboard. It reads, 'The Original Scum Fighter!'"

"We've been had," said Mayva.

"I know."

'Budget Guard' Helps Smother Inflation

"Budget guard" is simple, but it takes guts.

Here's how it works: keep very close tabs on debts you already owe, and DO NOT set up any more.

LEARN TO LIVE ON YOUR PRESENT INCOME.

Does your family need "budget guard?"

There are definite warning signs of possible money problems for each family.

If you answer "yes" to two of the questions below, you may have problems.

If you answer "yes" to three of them, you're already in trouble--and you may welcome the smother-inflation promise of "budget guard."

1) Do you charge small day-to-day items, such as groceries and housekeeping things because you don't have the money to pay for them?

2) Have you recently put off paying a bill until next month due to lack of funds to cover it?

3) Do you borrow money to pay fixed expenses, such as insurance premiums, a loan installment or tax payments?

4) Do your creditors phone or write to remind you about overdue bills?

5) Do annual payments on long-term debts, excluding mortgage payments, amount to more than 20 percent of your annual income?

6) Are you confused about exactly how much you owe on long-term debts?

If you answered "yes" to two or more of these questions, put "budget guard" in effect today, and smother inflation--for your family.

Saints and Sinners

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please do a rerun of the poem "Saints and Sinners," which appeared in your column March 22, 1971? It is one of my favorites, and I'm sure many people would profit from seeing it again.--K.T.R. Of Charlotte, N.C.

DEAR K.T.R.: Time erodes the memory--no question about it. So, here's the rerun. Even I was glad to see it again. The author is Veda Ponikvar.

SAINTS AND SINNERS
When some fellow yields to temptation

And breaks a conventional law,
We look for no good in his makeup.

On Lord, how we look for the flaw!
No one asks, "Who did the tempting?"

Nor allows for the battles he's fought.
His name becomes food for the jacksals.

The saints who have never been caught,
I'm a sinner, O Lord, and I know it.

I am weak, and I blunder and fail.
I am tossed on life's stormy ocean

Like a ship that is caught in a gale.
I am willing to trust in thy mercy.

To keep the commandments thou'st taught,
But deliver me, Lord, from the judgment.

Of the saints who have never been caught,
DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are the only person in the whole world I can ask about this. Please help me. Last night I caught my husband gulping some yellow pills. When I asked him what they were for, he said he had a prostate infection and hadn't mentioned it because he didn't want to worry me.

I'm scared to death he might have VD. Our sex life has been very good but with this fear hanging over me, I'm afraid to let him near me.

How can I tell for sure that he is being truthful?--Faithful Faye

DEAR FAYE: Get yourself checked at once. If you OK, then he is, too.

I'm reasonably certain that if your husband has a social disease his doctor would have insisted that you come in for an examination. This is standard procedure.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's sister (grossly overweight) sat on our lovely antique bench and broke it to pieces. Her only comment was, "Thank God I didn't break my back."

Not one word about having the bench restored. I was really annoyed but kept my cool.

My husband says it's our fault, not his sister's. In his words, "All furniture should be functional. Antiques belong in a museum." Is he right?--Burning In Bridgeport

DEAR B.: No, a heavyweight should not plant herself on a delicate antique bench. Some folks, however, don't know any

Eggs Excellent Food For Fresh Nutrition

COLLEGE STATION — What could be more natural than an egg, a bundle of nutrition sealed in its own package by a hen?

According to one official, an egg is one of nature's freshest and most nutritious products.

Dr. Dave Mellor, a poultry marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, says a hen's diet influences certain egg characteristics, such as yolk color, egg flavor and quantity of fat soluble vitamins (A, D, E and K).

For instance, the natural yellow yolk color, egg flavor and quantity of fat soluble vitamins (A, D, E and K).

For instance, the natural yellow pink color is from fat soluble pigments in the diet's green or yellow plant products. Green, red and black yolks could be produced, if desired or for a special occasion, by adding fat soluble food dyes to the ration.

As far as egg flavor is concerned, if the hen eats onion grass or field garlic, eggs will be more highly flavored. Since most people dislike flavored eggs, delicate, naturally flavored ones are produced commercially, notes Mellor.

The specialist says the commercial laying hen probably receives a better diet than any other animal. The balanced ration contains ground corn, better. So it's best to guide your obese guests to the sturdier pieces and casually remark, "The rickety furniture is unsafe."

soybean oil meal, calcium (ground limestone or oyster shell), phosphorus (ground rock phosphate) and a vitamin-trade mineral mix.

Vitamins A, D, E and K are present in the egg, making it an excellent vitamin source, points out the specialist. These vitamins transfer well from the diet to the egg.

Eggs are also a good source for two minerals needed regularly. An egg contains one milligram of iron and three milligrams of zinc.

For top quality, Mellor advises purchasing clean, sound-shelled, graded eggs maintained under refrigeration at a store where movement is rapid. The Texas Egg Law requires that all eggs be graded, have a clean, sound shell, and be maintained under 60 degrees F.

While some people desire special eggs such as organic, fertile or araucana, there is no evidence that these are nutritionally different, adds Mellor.

Pork, Spuds, Eggs Priced Well

COLLEGE STATION — Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include poultry, pork, potatoes and carrots, and some fresh fruits, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Also, there are special features, in dairy cases, frozen food chests and along grocery market aisles, she says.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

POULTRY — Eggs are a real bargain now. Compare prices among medium and large sizes. Generally, if there's less than a seven-cent difference between two sizes in the same grade, the larger size is the best buy.

Fresh chickens are economical, and some markets offer them at even lower "special" prices. Also, turkeys 10 pounds and up—and drumsticks—have reasonable prices.

PORK — Prices are fairly steady.

Scattered specials in various markets include Boston butts, chops, rib-end roasts, steaks and liver.

Smoked cuts at economy prices are semi-boneless hams and bacon.

FRESH VEGETABLES — Best buys are potatoes, carrots, cabbage "on special" and snap beans.

Also, purple hull peas, green peppers, soft-shell squash and dry yellow onions.

FRESH FRUITS — Budget items are cantaloupe and watermelon.

Most plum varieties are in good supply with low prices, especially the purple-prune plum. White seedless grapes are heavier now and prices are down.

More nectarines are available, and peaches are still in good supply.

Bananas and limes continue in heavy supply. Bartlett pears are economical.

DAIRY CASES — "Spotlight" items are milk, yogurt and a variety of cheeses.

FROZEN FOODS — Thrifty items are vegetables, strawberries, fried chicken parts and ice cream.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES — "Specials" appear on sugar, tuna fish, pasta products and peanut butter.

BEEF — Cuts to consider this week include chuck cuts, corned beef, ground beef, rib steak, round steak and beef liver.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Making the most of your food dollar takes constant study, a careful eye for value and planning — each time you shop. It also means taking care of the food to assure top-quality nutrition for your family.

Foreigners Buy Farmland

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Germans are coming — and the Swiss, Mexicans, French, Dutch, Canadians, Scots and others, all buying choice Texas farm and ranch land.

Since March foreigners have bought 53,002 acres of farm and ranch land in 32 counties. The land has an estimated value of nearly $27.3 million.

"There's a lot of money floating around," Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said Monday.

Brown distributed the first official federal report on foreign investment in Texas agricultural land.

The 1978 Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act charges the U.S. Department of Agriculture with gathering information on land owned by foreigners and submitting reports to the states.

In April the Texas House killed a proposal that would have prohibited purchases of agricultural land by foreigners.

The largest investors in recent months have been West Germans, who spent more than $7.2 million for 8,456 acres, including over 1,000 acres of citrus groves in Hidalgo County.

Brown, however, expects the next wave of big buyers to be Mexican nationals, who have been involved in 12 recent transactions.

The report, which includes transfers of inherited land, shows 28 separate transactions in Hidalgo County and seven transactions each in Cameron County, also in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, and Zavala County in Southwest Texas.

The largest land sale involved 14,030 acres of "pasture" in Pecos County, purchased by Alvaro Lebrija of Mexico. The most expensive sale was $3,493,023 for 9,206 acres in Delta County, bought by Sulphur Bluff Realty of the Netherlands Antilles.

Brown said the report covered the six-month period ending Aug. 1 and does not show foreign purchases prior to March.

When an estimated 93,000 acres of farm land were purchased in 1978, it was said that at that rate it would take foreigners 25 years to gain control of 1 percent of Texas' 157.9 million farm, ranch and forest acres.

However, Ed McKay of the Texas Farm Bureau has been quoted as saying foreigners already own 1 percent of Texas' farm land.

The Texas Agriculture Extension Service identified Prince Francis Joseph II of Liechtenstein as the buyer of more than 40,000 acres of Texas land last year, an area nearly 1,000 acres larger than his country.

Also, reported the Austin American-Statesman, relatives of the deposed Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza bought a 1,200-acre ranch near Waller in Southeast Texas in 1977.

The 1979 purchases in Texas total only 0.044 percent of the arable land in the state, Brown said in a statement.

"They (foreigners) are paying the going rate," said Brown,

"but the sad thing is that if they sell the land they're not required to pay capital gains or income tax on the sale."

"I've got to wonder, though, when I see a Dutch couple buying land in Bowie County — who are they and why are they buying?" said Brown.

Here the counties, by area, in which foreigners have acquired land since March, with the total approximate acreage transferred and the estimated value:

Panhandle and Plains — Dallam 794 acres, $293,900; Hartley 701, $523,000; Lubbock 153, $450,000; and Kent 1,920, $102,000, inherited property.

Lower Rio Grande Valley — Cameron 1 1,541, $2,146,294 plus 59 acres of inherited land with no value; and Hidalgo 1,302, $2,975,537.

North Central Texas — Denton 1,226, $12,441; Ellis 253, $125,000; Delta 9,206, $3,493,023; and Bosque 129, $42,000.

East Texas and Coastal Area — Bowie 2,539, $1,633,600; Brazoria 433, $692,922; Franklin 177, $67,159; Grimes 67, $90,000; Henderson 1,050, $750,000; Hopkins 4,753, $1,803,426; Morris 253, $288,454; Nueces 141, $112,349; Smith 41, $85,814; Van Zandt 207, $185,537; and Waller 99, $150,769.

NEW COOKBOOK BOOSTS LOW INCOME NUTRITION

A new cookbook that's long on good nutrition and good taste is credited with giving some babies a better start in life.

It's "WIC and You and Recipes, Too," 200-plus pages of recipes chosen to show people with modest means how to make the most — nutritionally — of what they have. Many low income mothers in Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., say the book's a big help.

WIC is short for Women, Infants and Children — the name the nation's combined effort by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the nation's state and local health agencies. The goal is a better diet for women and children with special nutritional needs.

Participants are pregnant and breastfeeding women, new mothers up to six months after delivery and infants and children up to five years old.

In Minnesota, checks redeemable at retail stores are provided to participants for supplemental foods. Local clinics also provide nutrition education.

Dieticians of the Minneapolis Health Department say a growing number of low income mothers are using the recipes. The result, they add, is better balanced meals for more and more families.

Lois Schmidt, one of the book's editors, said the project grew from a need that was easy to see.

"But I don't know how to cook those foods! That's what the mothers often would say when we suggested nutritious foods," said Schmidt. "Many of our WIC moms are young and don't have a lot of experience preparing meals."

Schmidt said the mothers tend to rely heavily on fast foods and canned goods.

"A survey showed that as many as half of the program participants had no cookbook at home. A recipe book seemed to be a good idea. To make sure it would really be used, we decided to get help from the people involved," she said.

Clerks passed out entry forms for recipes and children's drawing contests along with the regular WIC monthly food coupons.

"We offered prizes so mothers would be willing to share their favorite recipes and it worked," Schmidt said. The response was more than 400 recipes from mothers, over 80 drawings by their children and some good suggestions for a convenient format.

The fresh and direct vision of children comes through in the drawings chosen to illustrate chapter heads. They include a plump carrot, a wobbly milk pitcher, a beaming stick family at the table.

The recipes are simple, low-cost, nutritious and tasty.

For easy reading, the book is written for a ninth grade reading level. About one-fourth of the pages discuss the nutrients required for good health and how WIC foods can help meet the special needs of women and their children.

As part of the Minneapolis program's nutrition education work, each mother received a copy of the cookbook.

Using the clinic copy as a guide, a counselor may suggest easy, appetizing ways to use the special foods the program provides.

"A counselor who suggests more vegetables in a diet can refer to the index for dishes to recommend," said Schmidt. "She can also look there for dishes rich in a needed nutrient, such as iron. In addition, a nutrient symbol on each page shows which foods and recipes are low in calories and rich in vitamins A and C, iron, protein, calcium or B vitamins.

"This is more than a cookbook," said Schmidt with pride. "It is a guide-book to help women eat right during and after a pregnancy. It discusses foods children need to grow and stay healthy. It shows how WIC foods can be used with other foods to help participants eat wisely.

"We know it is far more convenient than the variety of handouts we were using. After it has been in use for a while, we will do a survey to see how much the information improves eating habits and influences the decisions people make daily when they choose a snack, eat out, give a children's party or pack a bag lunch."

There is already evidence of the cookbook's popularity. Almost immediately, friends of WIC mothers began to ask whether they could buy a copy of the book distributed free to the participants.

As a result, Schmidt says, additional copies have been printed for sale to the public. Anyone interested in buying a copy may send a check or money order for $2.50 to the Minneapolis Health Department, Department of Health Education, 250 South 4th Street, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55415.

Sewing with Plaids Takes Forethought

COLLEGE STATION — Plaid fabrics seem to weather all fashion change, and this fall's fashions are no exception, says a clothing specialist, Nancy Brown, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Make sewing with plaids fun by taking time to plan before cutting.

BUYING

Before buying plaid fabric, study its effect on your figure by holding it up in front of a mirror. Keep the size of the plaid design in scale with your figure.

Choose a simple pattern with few seamlines to minimize matching.

If the pattern does not give yardage for using plaids, allow about one-fourth to one-half yard (23-46 cm) extra for small to medium-size plaids and about one-half to one yard (46-92 cm) for a large-size plaid.

BEFORE SEWING

Pre-shrink a plaid fabric because shrinking can affect matching. A woven plaid can shrink more in one direction than the other, the specialist points out.

Before placing the pattern pieces, look at the fabric to see if it is an even (balanced) plaid or an uneven (unbalanced) plaid.

An even plaid has the same lines on the left and right and the same line above and below a dominate line.

More care is needed for matching uneven plaids, and beginners should avoid them.

For greater accuracy, cut all plaids on a single layer, she suggests.

MATCHING

Match plaids at the stitching line, not the cutting line.

Match the sleeve to the bodice front, not the bodice back.

To insure accurate matching, baste seams together exactly where you plan to stitch.

Falcons Win Again With Miracle Finish

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons always seem to find a way.

Last year, the Falcons won six games in the last two minutes en route to their first appearance in the National Football League playoffs.

This season is only two games old and Atlanta has pulled two games out on plays manufactured in fantasyland.

In the opener against New Orleans the game went into overtime tied at 34. Then a center snap sailed over the Saints' punter's head. The punter tried to pass the ball. It was intercepted for a six-yard touchdown.

Monday night, the Falcons played the Philadelphia Eagles on the NFL's weekly national television game. They showed their supernatural powers again. Atlanta trailed 10-7 in the final period. Tom Pridemore intercepted a pass and returned it 20-yards to the Eagles' 17.

The Falcons had a third down from the Eagles' 13-yard line. Quarterback Steve Bartkowski went back to pass and the play he had called was soundly defended by the Eagles.

That didn't stop the Falcons. They scored a touchdown on the play that stood up for a 14-10 triumph and a 2-0 record. The Eagles slipped to 1-1 after opening with a 23-17 decision over the New York Giants.

The winning touchdown was an ad lib play," said Bartkowski, the fifth-year Falcons' quarterback. Bartkowski gave all the credit to Wally Francis who caught the ball in the end zone.

"Francis has a tremendous knack to work himself open. He saw the outside blocked and worked his way inside," Bartkowski explained.

"Quite frankly I didn't think the play would work," said the Falcons' quarterback who completed 10 of 16 passes for 123 yards. "We tried the same play earlier on the other side and Philadelphia had it covered extremely well."

"Actually it didn't work the second time, because they had the flat covered so well. Fortunately Wally found an opening. And there was no safety there. And besides, Alfred Jenkins ran a tremendous pattern and ended up setting a pick just like in basketball to help Francis get open."

Earlier, the Eagles had taken a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on a 35-yard field goal by rookie Tony Franklin. After Bartkowski scored on a second period quarterback sneak, Philadelphia regained the lead on a 3-yard pass action run by quarterback Ron Jaworski to lead 10-7 at halftime.

The third period was scoreless, although the Eagles disdained a chip shot field goal with a fourth and one at the Atlanta seven to try for a first down on fourth and one. They didn't make it.

That decision came back to haunt Eagles' coach Dick Vermeil as his team reached the Atlanta 38 in the final seconds. If they had taken the earlier field goal, Franklin, a thunder-foot kicker might have won it with a field goal.

Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett said his team went into the game with the idea of establishing the running game. He said they accomplished their goal. He expressed pride in the offensive line, which opened the way to 145 net yards rushing. Rookie William Andrews, who gained 167 yards last week, added 121 against the Eagles. And he was a blocking back at Auburn last year.

Vermeil said he went for that fourth and I because his scouts in the press box said the Eagles needed only two feet.

"I had confidence we could make two feet," Vermeil said. "If we went for the field goal, we would have gone up 13-7 and they still could have made a touchdown and beat us 14-13. I didn't think this was the turning point."

Vermeil said the key play was Pridemore's interception.

"I was disappointed in our running game," said Vermeil, noting that his team gained only 57 yards on the ground. "We were not physical enough and they blocked our people. My observation is that we got beat by a better team."

Knight Won't Return to Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Bobby Knight, the embattled basketball coach at Indiana University, faces six months in jail and a fine of $500 if he ever sets foot in this U.S. Commonwealth, but he says he probably never will.

Knight was convicted in absentia on Aug. 22 of assaulting a police officer during the Pan American Games. On Monday, District Judge Rurico Rivera formally set sentence, the maximum allowable for the misdemeanor offense.

Although he was not available for comment Monday, Knight said at a news conference Sunday in Bloomington, Ind., that he had no intention of ever going back to Puerto Rico, where he coached the U.S. men's basketball team to the Pan Am Games title last July.

After setting sentence, Judge Rivera issued an arrest order. Carlos Romero Barcelo, governor of Puerto Rico, said he would not consider extradition for a misdemeanor, however, and Indiana Gov. Otis R. Brown added he "would not be willing to allow Bobby Knight to be extradited."

After his conviction in August, Knight was given two weeks to show up in court to appeal if he wanted. Since Knight did not show up, the judge set sentence.

Knight was charged with assault after an incident during a practice session. It started when the Brazilian women's team arrived eight minutes early for practice while the U.S. men's team still was on the court. Knight asked that the women's team be told to leave until its assigned time.

Policeman Jose Silva said Knight swore at him and hit him during the argument. Knight said at the Sunday news conference that he accidentally brushed Silva with his finger tips when the policeman poked him in the eye while shouting and waving his arms during the argument.

Knight did acknowledge, however, that while he was still in San Juan he said the "Puerto Rican team was a heck of a lot easier to beat than their court system. That infuriated a lot of people, but I was not trying to infuriate anybody."

"Then, when the silver medal was presented, I said, 'I'll clap for that; they should get second place. They've been a second-class operation all week.' What I said I meant with some degree of humor. But for the most part it was not accepted this way."

After the U.S. team's victory, Knight's players hoisted him on their shoulders as the coach thrust a triumphant fist in the air.

"After what we had been through, a pretty traumatic situation, anybody else, I hope, would have reacted the same way. I was saying, 'There, damn it! We won!' In spite of everything, we had taken all that could be thrown at us and we were truly No. 1."

Astros, Reds Meet Head On in Big Pennant-Race Series

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, who trail by half a game in the National League West, battle head-to-head tonight and Wednesday night with the division-leading Houston Astros, but none of the Reds wants to put too much importance on the series.

"We know one series isn't going to win it," said Dave Collins, the Reds' hot-hitting superstar. "We've got to take it like any other series."

Collins, who leads Cincinnati batters with a .318 average, said the Reds know what to expect from Houston:

"You're going to get good pitching, and they execute well," he said. "They do the little things well; that's why they're where they are. And everybody in the lineup can run."

Both Houston and Cincinnati had a day off Monday, and first baseman Dan Driessen said that might help the Reds.

"Both sides know they can't take anything for granted," Driessen said. "Everybody will be up for the series, everybody on both sides."

But Driessen also thought the division title wouldn't be determined this week, even if Houston were to sweep the series.

"As long as we're real close, anything could happen," he said. "I believe it could go to the very end."

First night pitchers were scheduled to be Tom Seaver, 14-6, for the Reds, and J.R. Richard, 16-12, for Houston. Each has been hot lately, Seaver winning 12 of his last 13 decisions and Richard leading the league in strikeouts and possessing a string of 37 innings without an earned run.

Tomorrow night, the Reds'

Mike LaCoss, 14-6, will face Joe Niekro, who leads the National League in victories with an 18-9 record.

Each team has a winning record against the other team at home this season. The Reds are 4-3 against Houston in Riverfront Stadium but have won just one of six games in the Astrodome.

Seven of the 13 games have been decided by one run.

"The series is crucial, but whatever happens in these two games isn't the end of the season," said Cincinnati Manager John McNamara. "When you're 10 games back in July and you pick up a game a week, you're not overlooking any club or opponent."

"We have them (Astros) now and we're going after them, then after the next opponent."

Rookie Anderson Adds New Dimension to Cardinal Attack

The numbers on the scoreboard were ominous. Third-and-5. A tough time to be a quarterback.

Jim Hart, who has faced his share of tough times over the years with the St. Louis Cardinals, looked at the scoreboard and then at Ottis Anderson. And instead of frowning, he smiled.

"Having him back there allows you to do so many things," Hart said. "You don't have to throw ... even on third-and-5. You know he can go for five or six yards a crack. They bring in that nickel (five defensive backs) defense in a passing situation and it's tough to throw against it. Now we don't have to throw."

Ottis (that's right, two t's) Anderson has given an extra dimension to the Cardinal attack. He is strong and quick. Give him the football and watch the sparks fly. In two National Football League games, Anderson has rushed for 193 and 111 yards. He is only the fourth rookie in 60 years of NFL history to go over 100 yards in each of his first two professional games. Old Double T has been exciting with a capital E.

"There's no question about that," said veteran Cardinal defensive back Roger Wehrli, who gets to watch Anderson from serenity of the sidelines. "It doesn't look like he's going that fast, but he runs with those long strides. He keeps his feet close to the ground. It almost looks like he's shuffling along. I wouldn't like to have to tackle him."

Anderson was drafted in the first round by the Cardinals and carried the blue-chip reputation that accompanies all No. 1 selections. When he ran up and down the backs of the Dallas Cowboys for nearly 200 yards in his debut, it did not simplify his life.

"Because of what I did in that game, I came into this game more tense than I was in that one," Double T said after going for 111 against the New York Giants.

That sounded suspiciously like pressure but Anderson shrugged off that suggestion. "The pressure's not on me," he said. "It's on the offensive line. Anybody can run. It's the guys up front who do the hard work."

If you accept that, then Anderson's accomplishments against the Giants — he also caught four passes for 57 yards — gain in stature. That's because the Cards played the second half without two regular offensive linemen — All-Pro Dan Dierdorf, who's probably done for the season because of a knee injury, and Terry Stieve, who had his jaw gashed an elbow just before halftime.

They were replaced by subs, and still, when Anderson carried the ball, he found gaps in the Giant defense. He paid the price for them, though, and was limping around the Cardinals dressing room afterward.

Rankings Remain Same After First College Games

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Southern California, Alabama, Oklahoma and Texas held onto the top four places in The Associated Press' first regular-season college football poll today while Stanford, Texas A&M and Arizona State were casualties of the year's first upsets.

Southern Cal, a 21-7 winner over Texas Tech in its opening game, received 47 first-place votes and 1,222 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of 62 sports writers and broadcasters.

However, second-ranked Alabama closed the gap from the preseason poll. The Crimson Tide, which opened by thrashing Georgia Tech 30-6, received 14 first-place ballots and 1,172 points. The margin of difference

Penn State, fifth in the preseason poll, also was idle and slipped to seventh place behind Purdue and Michigan, which posted impressive triumphs. Purdue trounced Wisconsin 41-20 and climbed from sixth to fifth with 931 points while Michigan swamped Northwestern 42-7 and jumped from seventh to sixth with 898 points.

Then came Penn State with 823 points, idle Nebraska with 742 and idle Notre Dame with 644. Michigan State defeated Illinois 33-16 and held onto 10th place with 594 points.

The Second Ten consists of Missouri, Georgia, Houston, Washington, Ohio State, Pitt, Arkansas, Florida State, North Carolina State and Southern Methodist.

The preseason Second Ten was Georgia, Missouri, Stanford, Texas A&M, Washington, Houston, Pitt, Arizona State, Florida State and Arkansas. However, Stanford was beaten by Tulane 33-10, Texas A&M lost to Brigham Young 18-17 and Arizona State was upset by California 17-9.

The three newcomers to the Top Twenty are Ohio State, North Carolina State and Southern Methodist. Ohio State whipped Syracuse 31-8, N.C. State trimmed East Carolina 34-20 and SMU downed Rice 35-17.

AUTO RACING LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Gary Gabelich, holder of the FIA-USAC official land speed record, has protested the method used by Stan Barrett in his claimed record-breaking run Sunday.

Slumping Rangers Lose

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Willie Horton is just on a one-year contract with the Seattle Mariners, so he's eligible to declare for the baseball free agent draft after this year.

But don't hold your breath waiting for it to happen. "I'm not interested in the free agent draft. Seattle has been too good to me," said Horton, whose 27th homer and sacrifice fly drove in two runs for the Mariners in a 5-2 victory over the Texas Rangers Monday. "We've got a good young club here, and I think next year it's going to be a different story in this division (American League West). The more experience they get, the better they get, and I just hope I'm back with them," Horton said.

He played with four clubs, including the Rangers, last year, "and I was thinking of quitting." But Mariner president Dan O'Brien, a Ranger executive last year, persuaded Horton to play for Seattle and the veteran star is happy.

"Seattle has been great, from the front office on down. They gave me a day up there, and that made up for the bad times over the last 14 years. That day was worth more than money can buy, as far as me and my family are concerned," Horton said.

His 27th homer of the year disappeared over the fence in left center in the fifth inning for the Mariners' first hit off Ferguson Jenkins. Teammate Leon Roberts followed with another solo homer, his 14th, two batters later.

Two errors by Texas shortstop Nelson Norman let Seattle score two unearned runs in the seventh, and the Mariners added an insurance marker in the eighth on Larry Milbourne's triple and Ruppel Jones' single.

Rob Dressler got his second victory of the season, the first having come last week with Horton driving in the run in a 1-0 victory over Jenkins and Texas. Dressler gave up eight hits Monday night, three of them to Billy Sample and two to Mickey Rivers, before he left with a 4-2 lead and two out in the seventh.

Byron McLaughlin held the Rangers hitless the rest of the way, getting his 13th save. Dave Rajsich wrapped up for Texas, allowing only an infield hit, after the eighth-inning departure of Jenkins, whose record fell to 13-13.

Bump Wills stole second, moved to third on Buddy Bell's single and scored on Willie Montanez' single in the sixth, cutting Seattle's lead to 2-1, but Pat Putnam grounded into a double play and the Mariners wrapped things up with their two unearned runs in the seventh.

Sample doubled and scored on Al Oliver's pinch-hit single in the seventh for Texas' other run.

WACO, Texas (AP) — Keith Bishop, the Baylor University starting center injured in the Bears' contest with Lamar Saturday, is expected to be out for the remainder of the season.

Bishop tore ligaments in his right knee during the first quarter of the game, which Baylor won 20-7.

Baylor head coach Grant Teaff said Monday the loss of the Midland senior "will be a tremendous blow to the team."

"Because of his athletic ability and leadership, Keith was one of the most valuable players in our program," Teaff said at his weekly press conference. Bishop will be replaced by sophomore Buzzy Nelson, who also is the Bears' deep snapper for punts.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A pair of Arkansas State seniors, Gene Bradley and Anthony Williams, have been named backs of the week in the Southland Conference.

They accounted for 323 of the Indians' 374 offensive yards in a 24-14 victory over East Texas State. Bradley set an Arkansas State single-game record for passing accuracy, hitting 10 of 13 attempts for 165 yards.

Williams rushed for 161 yards on 23 carries and hauled in three passes for 22 yards. He scored on a 13-yard run and a two-yard touchdown pass.

Lamar's Kurt Phoenix made 19 tackles in the Cardinals' 10-7 loss to Baylor and was named lineman of the week.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Despite an 18-17 loss to Brigham Young last Saturday, no Texas A&M players will be sidelined with injuries for the Baylor game this weekend.

"Everyone who played against Brigham Young should be ready to play this week against Baylor," coach Tom Wilson said Monday.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Their women's basketball team has assured the United States of at least matching its best-ever performance in the World University Games.

The American girls scored a 68-62 semifinal victory over Canada and now go against Cuba, a 64-63 winner over Bulgaria, in the gold medal game tonight. The United States beat Cuba 105-74 earlier in these multiple-sport games and is favored for the gold.

The Americans now have a gold-total count of 15-42.

HOCKEY

TORONTO (AP) — Free-agent center Garry Unger of the St. Louis Blues says he will take legal action to test the National Hockey League's equalization rule, which he alleges is restricting his move to another team.

Lawyers for the 31-year-old veteran informed the league, the NHL Players Association and the Blues of the lawsuit pending against them, saying that Unger has rejected St. Louis' final contract offer.

Unger, who has 377 career goals and 352 assists, has played in a league-record 883 consecutive games.

City Golf Tourney Is Slated

The Hereford City Championship Golf Tournament is to be held Saturday and Sunday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Dana Rush is expected to defend his title in the championship bracket. Players will be flighted according to handicap. Entry fee is $25 for the 36-hole tourney.

Persons interested could contact Mike Horton, pro at the golf course. Deadline for entering is Friday at 5 p.m.

U.S. Fems Assured of Best Performance in World Games

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Their women's basketball team has assured the United States of at least matching its best-ever performance in the World University Games.

The American girls scored a 68-62 semifinal victory over Canada late Monday night and now go against Cuba, a 64-63 winner over Bulgaria, in the gold medal game tonight. The United States beat Cuba 105-74 earlier in these multiple-sport games and is favored for the gold. Even if they lose, and that's not expected, that's all the Americans would need to match their previous high medal count of 43, set in 1977 in Bulgaria, the only other time the United States has sent a full delegation to the biennial festival that has attracted college-age athletes from 95 countries.

The Americans now have a gold-total count of 15-42. But any hope they may have had of breaking the defending champin Russians' dominance has all but disappeared.

The victories by the women's basketball team and the water polo team, 4-3 over Romania in the final round-robin bracket, were about the only two bright spots on an otherwise gloomy, rainy day.

And the basketball victory was a near thing. The Americans had to come back from a 40-31 halftime deficit.

"Thank heaven for second halves," sighed U.S. Coach Fran Garmon. "That's been our salvation."

Carol Blazejowski helped, too. She scored 15 of her game-high 19 points in the second half, including a couple of critical free throws with seconds remaining.

The American men's basketball team plays host Mexico in a semifinal game tonight.

The track and field program was highlighted by the spectacular performance of Italy's Pietro Mennea as a heavy, steady afternoon rain that forced the postponement of two scheduled finals.

Mennea, who called himself "the best 200-meter athlete in the world," ran that distance in 19.96 seconds, the fourth fastest time in history, in a preliminary heat and said he hopes to break the world record of 19.83 in the semis or finals.

Roslyn Bryant, with a silver in the women's 400-meters, won the United States' only medal of the day.

Russians won two of the track and field golds. Andrei Prokofiev won the men's 110-meter hurdles in 13.50 and Maria Koulchounova took the women's 400 in a Games record 50.35.

The other winners were Lucyna Lager, Poland, 12.62 in the women's 100-meter hurdles, and Wolfgang Schmidt, East Germany, in the discus. His winning throw of 199 feet, 5 inches in a pounding rain was 34 feet behind his own world record.

Vladimir Aleinik led a one-two Russian finish in the men's platform diving, the final event in that sport. The United States failed to gain a medal in diving.

Twins, Royals Split Twinbill

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It will happen every so often: a player or manager will sit and stew after a game, say "I don't have anything to say," then vent his frustrations for five minutes or so.

Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch did it Monday night, after his Twins spent six hours, 52 minutes splitting a two-night double-header with the Kansas City Royals and staying in third place — 6½ games behind the American League West-leading California Angels.

"I don't have anything to say," his speech began, "except that we played all night for California."

"We have to win every game the rest of the season. You're darn right we had to win two. But to that we have to play a lot better than we did in the first game. We played all night for the Angels. That's exactly what they want to happen."

Like the man said, nothing to say.

The Twins lost the 4½-hour, 14-inning opener 6-5 when Hal McRae blasted a Mike Marshall pitch over the fence. They salvaged the nightcap 5-2 with the help of Roy Smalley's two-run homer in a four-run Minnesota sixth.

The nightcap left the Royals second, four games behind California — exactly where they started the evening — leaving Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog to offer these comments:

"We're definitely in a situation where we need help. We needed help from Milwaukee this weekend. The Angels are hot."

Meanwhile on Monday's abbreviated schedule, the Boston Red Sox cooled off the Orioles 3-2, snapping Baltimore's seven-game winning streak, but Carl Yastrzemski went 0-for-4 and remained one hit away from the 3,000 plateau. In the other game — the National League was idle — the Seattle Mariners beat the Texas Rangers, 5-2.

Smalley's homer wiped out a 2-1 lead the Royals had built on consecutive fourth-inning homers by George Brett and Darrell Porter.

"I hate double-headers, anyway," offered Smalley. "You hardly ever win double-headers. This was our ninth double-header. That's 18 ball games that you figure to go .500."

That's what they did Monday night.

Red Sox 3, Orioles 2

Jim Rice drove in two runs and Bob Stanley pitched eight innings of four-hit ball to help Boston beat Baltimore. But the Fenway Park crowd of 30,618 — which sent the Red Sox' total attendance past the 4-million mark this season — missed seeing Yastrzemski become the first American Leaguer to amass 3,000 hits and 400 homers.

Philly Baseball

Fans Are 'Mugged'

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia baseball fans have been mugged.

Last December after the Phillies acquired free agent Pete Rose the club all but opened a World Series ticket window. Rose was the link that would take the Phillies over the hump after the National League East champions had lost three consecutive league playoffs.

The attitude was that the Phillies might clinch the East by July 4. Bake McBride, Larry Bowa, Rose, Greg Luzinski, Mike Schmidt, Garry Maddox, Bob Boone, and later Manny Trillo, read like an All-Star lineup.

Why vote? Just send the Phillies against the American League in the midseason classic.

Season ticket sales boomed after the Rose signing. The fans were walking on cloud nine.

All the Phillies had to do was throw their gloves on the field and the rest of the NL East would get hardening of the arteries.

But something happened between December and September. As fall approaches, the Phillies are in fifth place, a fistful of games behind the division-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

They trailed the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals and Montreal Expos as well.

Phillies fans were stunned. The boss rolled around Veterans Stadium like claps of thunder. The team that couldn't lose made more fundamental mistakes than a Little League club.

Management, sensing fan discontent, fired Manager Danny Ozark, the same manager who led the team to three consecutive division titles. They knew it wasn't Ozark's fault. You can't, however, fire 25 players.

What happened to Wonder Team?

They had an unusual run of injuries. But that's no excuse. All teams have injuries. That's why you have 25 players.

Ozark did too much experimenting; too many lineups; perhaps questionable handling of the pitching staff. But he won with the same tactics in 1976, 1977 and 1978. That wasn't the answer.

What it came down to was sub-par performances by some of the heralded stars, unsound baseball. Some guys were still missing signs in September. The team lacked cohesion. One guy didn't pick up the other the way good teams do.

Oilers Check On What

They Lost Besides Game

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers hoped to learn today if they lost anything more than a football game to the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday-like wide receiver Billy Johnson and quarterback Dan Pastorini.

Johnson, who missed most of the 1978 season with a knee injury, suffered torn ligaments in the other knee Sunday during Houston's 38-7 loss to the defending Super Bowl champs.

Houston Coach Bum Phillips said Pastorini would play in Sunday's home opener against the Kansas City Chiefs if the injury is not more serious than already determined.

The prognosis did not appear as bright for Johnson.

"We sent Billy to a specialist in Atlanta, Ga., to get another opinion," Phillips said. "All we can do is wait and hope."

Phillips said Johnson was to be examined today.

Meanwhile, the Oiler coach started regrouping.

"This was only the end of a game, not the end of the season," Phillips said Monday.

"We didn't play the caliber of football that Houston is used to playing."

Despite the completeness of the defeat-Pittsburgh held Earl Campbell to a career low 38 yards rushing. Phillips isn't conceding the American Football Conference Central Division race to the Steelers.

Schultz Wins Grid Contest

L.L. Schultz of 719 Country Club Drive began the 1979 grid campaign as the winner of the initial Hereford Brand Football Contest this week with only three misses out of the week's 26 matchups. Schultz thus claims the first place money of $25 and qualifies for the season-ending grand prize contest for which $150 in prize money will be up for grabs.

Beyond the top four this week, nine persons missed seven games on the contest, while 14 missed eight, and 22 missed nine. Those missing seven included John D. Bryant, Americo Gamez, Scott Howard, Dave Hopper, Rick Foster, Rose O'Rand, George Loerwald, Greg Albracht, and Zane Foster.

Placing second and third respectively this week in the contest were Terry Russell (5 misses) and Norman Hill (6 misses). Those two entrants earned $15 and $10 for their efforts, and also earned a spot in the finale. Hill edged out Henry Ramackers for third place with his tie-breaker guess of 46 points for the Cincinnati-Buffalo game, which was won by Buffalo 51-24. Ramacker's tie-breaker guess of 41 put him just out of the money.

A total of 211 entries were received for the first week's contest. Entrants are reminded that an official entry blank or reasonable facsimile thereof is required or the entry will be thrown out. Judges use a master punch card to grade the entries. This year the contest is changed somewhat in respect to the grand prize contest. Instead of an overall season-long winner, those who win money during the first 12 weeks of the contest will qualify for the final contest. Those not in the money the first 12 weeks will still get one last chance at the $50 weekly prize money.

Correctly picked the Estacado win over Plainview, the Oregon win over Colorado, and Pittsburgh's win over the Houston Oilers.

Entries for this week's contest are due at the Brand office by 5 p.m. Friday. This week's slate of games appears in today's issue.

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT
(S.J.R. 13)
Senate Joint Resolution 13 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution authorizing the Legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans used to purchase farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers. The proposed amendment would allow the Legislature to provide for, issue, and sell general obligation bonds called "Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds" of the State of Texas not to exceed 10 million dollars. All money received from the sale of such bonds would be deposited in a separate fund with the State Treasurer and administered by the commissioner of agriculture without further appropriations. These funds would be used to guarantee loans for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate. The commissioner of agriculture would use these funds, under provisions to be prescribed by the Legislature for the purpose of guaranteeing loans used for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate, to acquire real estate mortgages or deeds of trust on lands purchased with guaranteed loans. These funds would also be used to advance to the borrower a percentage of the principal and interest due. The Legislature may also authorize the commissioner of agriculture to sell at foreclosure any land acquired in the manner authorized by this amendment. The commissioner of agriculture would be required to charge at least 6 percent interest on such loans. Finger Thwarted Burglar SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — In the dim light of his bedroom, Charles Towne had no trouble convincing the intruder to freeze: "Mister, if you so much as move, you're a dead man."

But when Towne reached over the man who had been crawling along his bedroom floor to flick on a light, he gave his rise away — instead of holding the intruder at gunpoint, the 45-year-old Towne was holding him at finger point.

"I suddenly realized I've got my finger held on this guy," said Towne, an artist, recalling the Thursday morning incident. "I had to reach over the top of him to get the switch and still keep my finger pointed at him," he said, shaking his head at the memory.

Towne called his 15-year-old son Russ to the room and armed him with the leg of an antique piano, then left the bedroom to call the police. He said the intruder tried to run out of the house, but sat down again when he couldn't find the door.

Towne then armed his son with an antique Indian war club. "I said, 'Russ, if he so much as wiggles a whisker, hit him with it,'" Towne recalled.

Deputy sheriffs arrived a few minutes later. Gerard Robert Baudy, 32, of Bushnell, was arrested and charged with burglary on an occupied dwelling, police said. He was held in lieu of $1,575 bond.

Towne said Baudy used to work for him.

And he said that after the police arrived he began trembling over the incident. "I suddenly realized if he had had a gun, he could have blown me away," he said. "One police officer said to me, 'Mr. Towne, you're either crazy or the most courageous man I've ever seen.'"

The Lighter Side

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A candidate for the Louisiana governorship says there ought to be a constitutional amendment so voters dissatisfied with their choices could cast their ballots for "none of the above."

L.D. Knox, of Winnsboro, an independent candidate, said Sunday such an amendment would make the nation a true democracy.

"The people of this country have never had a free election," he said. "We don't have a right to reject candidates. We have to take the lesser of the evils. At the present time, many candidates who are unopposed are elected by default."

Knox says he can't understand why the concept was not included when the U.S. Constitution was framed.

"Our forefathers thought of a public office as a public trust. They couldn't conceive that our politicians might run for personal gain," he said.

—Fasten Your Seat Belt BOSTON (AP) — With the help of some half-fare coupons, Charles A. Shattuck, a 62-year-old grandfather, is spending $1,900 in an effort to win a line in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Shattuck planned to leave Boston today for five days of flying. According to American Airlines, Shattuck, of East Hartford, Conn., will try to set a record for continuous flying on the same airline.

The journey, taking him from Boston to the West Coast and back, will include 33 flights and 18 airports. It will cost him $1,900, a price he kept low by using 50 percent discount tickets, the airline said.

Shattuck plans to leave Boston for New York and then fly 25,000 miles, stopping six times in Chicago, four in Dallas-Fort Worth, three in Los Angeles, two times each in New York, Detroit, St. Louis and San Francisco, and once each in San Diego, Hartford-Springfield, Cleveland, Tulsa, Buffalo, Newark, Cincinnati, Tucson, Washington and Memphis, returning to Boston on Saturday.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Impotence is a symptom

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a serious problem with my sex life. I'm a 36-year-old man and I seem to be in good health. I'm having trouble maintaining an erection during sex.

When this happens, I'm unable to have an orgasm. I'm very upset about this and it bothers me. I'd appreciate your advice and help.

I've gone to my doctor and told him about the problem and he gave me some pills called Cyclospasmol. They don't help me at all and I hope you can give me some good advice.

DEAR READER — In plain English, you're having a problem with impotence. It's not an infrequent symptom either and you did the right thing in going to your physician. After all, it's just a symptom and it can be caused by a lot of different things.

If your letter is accurate, I'm a little disappointed that your doctor just gave you Cyclospasmol. There is no reason that medicine will do anything at all for impotence. It's primarily used as a vasodilator for people who have certain types of circulatory problems.

It could be that he thought you would note some reaction to it and that it would improve your confidence and, in that way, would help you to overcome the psychological hurdle.

I have no real way of knowing what's causing your symptoms, but I can send you The Health Letter number 3-12. Impotence, if you'll send me your address. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Tony's grizzled face is scarred and lopsided, a reminder of countless back alley brawls with other street bums. All but three of his teeth have been broken off, he walks with a limp from when he was hit by a car.

And like the other down-and-out transients of downtown San Antonio, Tony donates blood to earn his food.

It's only catfood. But then what else would you give to a gray tomcat?

Tony is the resident blood donor at a downtown animal clinic, where veterinarians figure the wily old street fighter has given a 10th life to at least a half-dozen felines hospitalized for surgery.

"I guess you would say Tony's blood is as tough as he is. He's been exposed to everything that could go wrong with a cat," said Stanley Hood, the clinic's veterinary assistant. "It also helps that he's just an old

Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1531, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As The Health Letter explains, impotence can be caused by a number of diseases, including diabetes. These are the diseases that directly affect the nerve fibers that control the erection mechanism. This has nothing to do with a person's hormones. These nerves can be cut surgically, as occurs in some operations, or they can be affected by diseases such as diabetes.

In people somewhat older than you, there can be circulatory problems. This is usually in the nature of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries to the pelvic region and the thigh. Sometimes such disorders are associated with leg cramps during walking.

It's true that decreased hormone levels can be a factor but they seldom are — particularly not in relatively young men such as you.

In younger people, the most common cause for impotence is psychological. Often this is just pure fear of failure. A man begins to think he's not going to be successful during sexual relations and the anxiety he experiences keeps him from being successful.

All of these factors are discussed in The Health Letter. I'll send you, but I think you're going to need some professional help. I suggest that you seek out a specialist in urology for an adequate medical examination related to your problem. He will have seen numerous cases of impotence in the past so it won't be any surprise to him. And then if you need some psychological counseling, he can possibly refer you to the proper place.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 24-year-old female and I weigh 116 pounds. I eat very little meat. I just do not like it. I eat dried beans occasionally. I eat the gravy from meat, rice, potatoes, vegetables, an egg almost daily and very little bread.

My mother is concerned that I'm not getting enough protein. Am I harming myself by not eating meat? What other foods have protein? Should I take vitamins? Also, how much protein does a 29-year-old man weighing 130 pounds need?

DEAR READER — Your mother has a right to be concerned. The two major sources of good-quality protein in our diet are the meats, which include red meats, fish and poultry, and milk and milk products such as cottage cheese and yogurt.

I don't know what kind of gravy you eat since it's made in different ways, but if it's made as milk gravy, that's one way to get some additional protein into your diet. Mature beans do contain quite a bit of protein but not quite complete protein and I noticed that you only eat them occasionally anyway.

If you're not going to eat meat, I think you must include in your diet an increased amount of milk, cottage cheese and yogurt. These are also good sources of calcium. You need around 50 grams of good-quality protein a day and the man you asked about needs about 58.

To give you more information about sources of protein in your diet and how much food you need to provide it, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 3-4. Proteins Part II. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1531, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

In the list of the foods that contain protein in The Health Letter I'm sending you, you'll note that protein makes up 3.5 percent of the weight of whole milk and 4.2 percent of the weight of skim milk fortified with 2 percent non-fat solids. That means in a liter (a little more than a quart) of fortified skim milk, you'd get about 42 grams of good-quality protein.

About 18 percent to 20 percent of the weight of the edible portion (after bones and inedible parts are removed) of red meats, fish and chicken is good-quality complete protein.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know if a person's blood can change by itself. Before I became pregnant, my blood was O positive. After I had the baby, the doctor said I had Rh negative and gave me an injection for it. Is it possible that a person's blood can change?

DEAR READER — No. If you were O positive before your pregnancy, that's nothing to do with your being Rh negative or Rh positive.

The Rh factor is unrelated to the basic blood types — A, B, AB and O. It's sometimes called a subtype. A person is O, A, B or AB, and also either Rh positive or Rh negative.

Your doctor did the right thing in giving you an injection to help prevent you from developing problems related to being Rh negative, most specifically if you bear an Rh positive child in the future.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 68-year-old single man and sometimes I get lonely for the opposite sex. I'm a widower and I want to maintain my ability as long as possible in case I find some lady I want to live with.

Are there any foods I can eat that will help me maintain my sexual capacity? Are there any medicines or pills I could take that would be helpful? I have heard that there are a number of different stimulants men use to maintain their capacity.

DEAR READER — The best stimulant of all is someone you find attractive. That doesn't come in bottles or pills and it's related to your own psychological reaction to the other person.

There has been a lot published about foods and sexual capacity. Most of it is useless. In some primitive cultures, certain foods have improved sexual capacity but there's a catch to it.

These people had poor diets. When they ate so-called sex foods, their nutrition improved. Proper nutrition maintains health in all aspects, including one's sexual capacity. Poor nutrition decreases one's sexual interest and capacity.

Forget about all those advertised products from rhinoceros horns to tree bark. Their effect if any is just a confidence reaction. The individual expects that they work or have some magical power and the confidence he gains may improve his performance.

Tony's Blood Buys Catfood

mixed breed alley cat. We can give his blood to just about any cat.

Tony, now fat, spoiled and content after several years as resident blood donor, is always on emergency call. And it's a tough life — sunning near the clinic's front window, cat-napping on the receptionist's desk or lounging in his favorite waiting room chair.

After each donation and on special occasions, Tony gets his favorite rations — strained baby food, human baby food.

But life hasn't always been that easy for Tony.

A kind-hearted attorney picked up the battered, scrawny stray on a downtown street and brought him to Dr. B.C. Hickey's clinic in 1972. He left money and instructions for the staff to nurse Tony back to health and find him a home.

Tony then weighed a mere five pounds and was infested with worms and mites. He had numerous bites and cuts, a twisted toe and a bum leg from a losing encounter with an automobile.

"He was in pitiful shape. We figured he'd used up all but one of his nine lives," said Hood. "Nobody would take him because he was in such bad shape. We kind of found a place in our hearts for him. We took to him and he took to us."

Tony quickly became the clinic mascot. He had the run of the clinic and was a favorite with pet owners.

That was that, everybody figured.

The transfusion was successful and the patient, survived. Since then, Tony, believed to be about 14 years old, has donated blood about 15 times.

"The only way to save the cat was to find some good blood to give it. While we were trying to think what to do, Tony walked up," recalled Hood.

"We know the loyal paramilitarists are planning something big," the Sunday Mirror quoted its source as saying.

A spokesman for the Ulster Defense Association called the newspaper report "totally ridiculous," and said his organization believes that Catholics "have the right to their religious worship and religious conviction," the British Press Association reported.

"We have good reports that the pope is the No. 1 target" of Protestant paramilitary groups plotting reprisals for the Aug. 27 deaths.

The mainly Catholic Irish Republican Army has claimed responsibility for blowing up Mountbatten's yacht in Ireland's Donegal Bay and for triggering two bombs that killed the soldiers several hours later in Northern Ireland near the Irish border.

"Everything is a possibility and the precautions that will be taken during the visit will, incorporate every possibility," a Protestant spokesman said Sunday.

But he declined comment on a British newspaper report that Protestant agents from North-

The Philadelphia Story

The Department of Justice has filed a lawsuit against Philadelphia's police. In effect, the police are accused of being too brutal.

One newspaper citing one allegation of police brutality in Philadelphia went into great detail concerning the allegation but neglected to mention that the police in question had been tried and exonerated.

Now Philadelphia officials are suing that paper and a public spitting match is doing neither side any good.

Philadelphia elected and re-elected Mayor Frank Rizzo because he had been a tough cop and because he supported toughness.

But if he were really brutal, there is something he could do.

There were 122 complaints against Philadelphia police last year alleging physical abuse by policemen.

To keep this in perspective, Philadelphia police made 28,804 arrests last year of suspected murderers, rapists, assaulters, burglars, car thieves and others.

Philadelphia police responded to one million radio dispatches and had two million other contacts with complaining civilians.

Yet in all this police activity there were only 122 accusations against police for physical abuse.

Eight officers were dismissed as a result, 15 were suspended, one was allowed to resign and two were reprimanded.

Since 1976 the Department of Justice has investigated 77 cases of alleged police brutality in Philadelphia.

Seventy-five of those cases were dismissed.

Of the other two, the city won one and the other is on appeal.

Meanwhile, the accusers have preoccupied the public forum with these negligible numbers of comparatively rare instances of over-response by police.

During those same years 101 Philadelphia policemen have been shot, 13 murdered, 222 policemen suffered injuries resulting in permanent disabilities. Who is brutalizing whom?

I cannot understand why resigning Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell saw fit to bring this indictment against Philadelphia's police.

I can imagine only one conceivable explanation—and that sounds so selfish that I am reluctant to attribute it to him. But in the game of politics, I suppose any Southerner hoping someday to be appointed to the Supreme Court might figure he'd have a better chance of Senate ratification if he had some 'civil rights' on his record.

I cannot conceive of any other reason that a lawman would turn against lawmen.

And if Frank Rizzo were really as vindictive as his critics say, he would announce today: "The federal government has accused all Philadelphia police; I am obligated immediately to relieve from duty all Philadelphia police."

Thus leaving Philadelphia at the mercy of the merciless.

You'd hear the screaming around the world.

Lincoln Bedroom

The Lincoln Bedroom of the White House, which contains an ornately carved bed and furniture of its period, is at the east end of the second floor. It served as Lincoln's cabinet room and in it he signed the Emancipation Proclamation. A portrait of Andrew Jackson, admired by Lincoln, hangs there today. In the room there is also a copy of the Gettysburg Address, written out by Lincoln.

Defense Introduces McCrory-Meeting Tape

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys have introduced their own tape of a secretly-recorded meeting between a defense lawyer and key prosecution witness David McCrory.

Steve Sumner, a Dallas attorney who has done the bulk of defense investigative work, testified outside the presence of the jury that he recorded an August 7, 1978, meeting with McCrory. According to the tape of that meeting, the two discussed what McCrory might know that would help Cullen Davis' multi-million dollar divorce from Priscilla Davis.

Less than two weeks after that meeting, McCrory secretly recorded two meetings with Davis that led to the Fort Worth millionaire's arrest on murder-conspiracy charges.

The defense tape was played in Davis' murder-for-hire trial Monday. The 45-year-old defendant is charged with soliciting the murder of his divorcee, Joe Eidson.

District Judge Gordon Gray said he would rule on the admissibility of the defense tape today. Davis' attorneys introduced the tape in an attempt to impeach McCrory's credibility.

Under cross-examination by lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes McCrory said he met with Sumner at his office at Jet Air Co. — a Davis-owned business in Dallas where McCrory was working at the time. "I don't remember what we talked about," McCrory said when Haynes asked the gist of the conversation.

"Did you tell the truth," Haynes asked.

"I told him anything he wanted to hear," McCrory replied.

On tape, Sumner asked McCrory about his knowledge of a 1968 pre-nuptial agreement between Davis and Priscilla. Priscilla claimed in the divorce trial that she did not know she was signing a document forfeiting any claims she could make on Davis' extensive business holdings.

A district judge ruled the pre-nuptial agreement valid and Priscilla received a $3.4 million settlement when the divorce was granted this spring.

McCrory said on tape he and Judy, his wife at the time, Davis and Priscilla socialized at the Pink Elephant club in 1969.

Ex-Hereford Man Gets Nevada Post

Dillie M. Kelley, former business manager of Hereford Independent School District, has been named Associate Superintendent of Public Instruction for Administration for the Nevada Department of Education.

Superintendent Ted Sanders announced Kelley's appointment and that he would assume his new duties October 1, 1979.

Kelley comes to Nevada from Austin, Texas where he was Coordinator of Services with the Southwest Educational Development laboratory, a position he has held since 1969.

Prior to joining the Southwest lab, Kelley was a high school principal for the Buena Vista Independent School District in Imperial, Texas from 1947 through 1949. From 1949 through 1955 Kelley was high school principal in Friona, and from 1955 to 1959 he was superintendent of Friona Independent School District.

Kelley later entered business management. From 1959-65 he was business manager of the Brownfield Independent School District, and held the same post with the Hereford Independent School District, from July 1, 1965 to Oct. 14, 1966. From that time until 1969 Kelley was associate director of fiscal services with the Southwestern Cooperative Educational Laboratory in Albuquerque.

DILLIE M. KELLEY

Kelley, 58, was born in Palestine, Texas, and graduated from Montalpa High School in 1939. He received his Bachelor of Science and his Masters of Business Administration degrees from North Texas State University.

Kelley and his wife, Cornelia, will make their home in Carson City, Nevada.

"Kelley surpasses all qualifications set by law for the unclassified position that pays $28,000 annually," Sanders said.

"The budgets, government accounting and government research, Kelley looks forward to working for the Nevada Department of Education; he considers the assignment his greatest professional challenge."

HEW Aid

Refusal Valid

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Health, Education and Welfare Department's refusal to give the Galveston (Texas) Independent School District any Emergency School Aid Act money was upheld by a federal appeals court today.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reversed U.S. District Judge James L. Noel Jr., who had ordered the department, known as HEW, to come up with a grant or prove that it didn't have the money for it.

Though the regional director approved a grant for Galveston to help finance a school guidance and counseling center, HEW's Equal Educational Opportunity office overruled him.

HEW civil rights officials said Galveston was not eligible for federal money because four of its elementary schools were 95 percent black.

Galveston took the issue to court, contending that the action violated a consent agreement it had reached with HEW. Judge Noel agreed. However, the 5th circuit said the school district didn't read the agreement closely enough.
