

Economy Strengthens in Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy rebounded from a second-quarter slump to grow at an annual rate of 2.4 percent from July through September, the government reported today.

The figure from the Commerce Department was stronger than expected and threw doubt on whether the nation's seventh recession since World War II was under way.

Much of the growth was attributed to a surge in sales, which had suffered from April through June because gasoline lines inhibited shopping and a shortage of crude oil depressed trade, said a Commerce analyst who asked not to be identified.

The third-quarter growth, which some analysts say could be a temporary plateau before the nation's output again turns down, followed a second-quarter decline of 2.3 percent at an annual rate.

Had the third-quarter figure also shown a drop, the statistics would have lined up well with the traditional definition of a recession: two consecutive quarters of declining output.

The third-quarter growth figure was the strongest so far this year, though still weaker than the 3.5 percent expansion in the third quarter of 1978.

And it occurred, in good part, because Americans saved a mere 4.1 percent of their earnings — the lowest savings rate in more than 25 years, Commerce analyst Adren Cooper said.

"We don't know from this," Cooper said. "If you look at the figures, gross national product is back almost to the level of the first quarter."

Inflation adjusted gross national product stood at $1.43 trillion, about $2 million higher than the first quarter level, the report showed.

Consumer purchases from July through September rose 1.1 percent to $924.8 billion, more than recovering from the 0.7 percent decline of the previous quarter, the report indicated.

Trade surged 47 percent to $19.4 billion, again more than making up for the 22 percent drop in the second quarter.

Although the report indicates that inflation slowed from an annual rate of 9.3 percent in the first two quarters of the year to 8.4 percent in the third quarter, the income of Americans suffered.

Income adjusted for both inflation and taxes was down 0.3 percent in the third quarter to $990.3 billion. It had fallen 0.4 percent in the preceding quarter.

"Real income is down, yet there's a strong recovery in consumer spending," Cooper noted. "Consumers didn't save. They just spent most of their money."

Before adjustment for inflation, the value of the nation's goods and services stood at an annual $2.39 trillion in the third quarter, up an 11 percent annual rate from the second quarter.

The statistics are likely to heighten, rather than depress, debate over whether there is a recession.

'Block'ing Traffic

Hereford police and a truck driver for a Dimmitt produce firm found themselves confronted with a slick problem this morning when a load of block ice was spilled at the intersection of Highways 385 and 60. According to Frank Martinez, who was hauling ice for La Mantia-Cullum-Collier & Co. of Dimmitt, the load in his truck shifted to the rear as he was turning left onto Highway 385 and broke a retainer, allowing the ice to slip out of the truck. Traffic was snarled at the intersection for a brief period as a city crew used a truck and front-end loader to remove the ice impasse. (Brand photo by Jim Steiert)

C-C Directors Named

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce directors Thursday approved the nomination of four men as new directors for 1980.

The nominees are Tom Burdett, an attorney; Bill Reinauer, manager of E.C. Reinauer & Sons; Bill Johnson, associated with Plains Insurance Agency; and Bob Gentry, a certified public accountant. Names of the four will be presented to the general membership for election to three-year terms in November.

Terms expiring are those of Speedy Nieman, Jonny Cloud, Paul Abalos and Raymond Schlabs. Names of the four nominees were presented by the Past Presidents' Committee, named by the board this year to serve as the nominating committee.

In other business Thursday, the C of C board heard progress reports on standing committees and special projects, reviewed the monthly financial statement, and heard a monthly report from executive vice-president Mike Carr.

President Ken Rogers reminded directors that the next Chamber Fun Breakfast has been set for Nov. 29. Merchants will sponsor the event and have special Christmas gift ideas displayed at tables in the Community Center.

Carr reported that 21 people were enrolled in the Defensive Driving Course which was conducted Wednesday and Thursday. It was sponsored by the health and safety committee of the chamber. He also reported that chairman Jim Conkright was having a meeting of the governmental affairs committee Friday afternoon.

The chamber manager also reported that members of the Hustler group were participating in a special event in Dallas this weekend sponsored by the American Dental Assistants' Association. The Hustlers will take Hereford water to the meeting and propose a toast to the convention delegates Sunday morning, using water from "the Town Without a Toothache."

Work and preparations on the second annual Hereford Follies is underway, Carr told directors. Program ad sales have started, and costumes will be arriving next week. Ads sold for the program will also be included in the annual basketball tournament program book. A Director's Party is scheduled for Oct. 30, and all potential cast members are invited. The Follies are slated Nov. 15-17.

Mary Herring, Women's Division president, outlined activities held during the annual Women's Emphasis Days and added that her group will be involved in the Follies' project.

Rogers named Nieman, Dr. Milton Adams, Jonny Cloud and Carr as a nominating committee for new officers in 1980. Attending the meeting were directors Rogers, Nieman, Adams, Cloud, Herring, Butch White, Earl Bookhart, James Hull and Paul Abalos. Absent were Jerry Payne, Dave Hopper, Joan Coupe and Raymond Schlabs.

President Says OPEC Production at Capacity

By The Associated Press
President Carter says he thinks the members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are producing as much oil as they can.

He also told delegates to a national energy conservation conference in Washington on Thursday that, "There is no way to reduce prices."

Carter's tone was milder than it has been several times in the past when he has criticized OPEC sharply.

Carter praised Saudi Arabia, saying the country "is producing more oil than they want." But he was still critical of Libya. "They are eager to cut back for political purposes, harassment or even blackmail," he said.

Libya, Kuwait, Iran and Venezuela have increased the prices of some or all of their oil in the past two weeks and industry sources say Iraq will boost its prices by about 10 percent on Saturday.

OPEC had set a ceiling price of $23.50 a barrel on oil prices at its last meeting. Libya, however, broke the ceiling, raising its price to about $26 a barrel.

The next OPEC meeting is in December and analysts say that if enough of the organization's members increase prices before the meeting, the increases probably will be applied to the whole cartel.

Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said Thursday that the key to prices could lie with Iran. Discussing the OPEC meeting in Venezuela on Dec. 27, Yamani said that if production in Iran is maintained at current levels, "I think the increase, if any, won't be what we're afraid of."

If Iranian production is cut, Yamani said, the United States should ration gasoline.

Saudi oil is the cheapest in OPEC and Yamani said his country is under pressure to raise prices. He repeated calls for consuming nations to cut back their use of petroleum.

In other energy developments: —Republicans on the Senate Finance Committee tried to tie a Social Security tax freeze to President Carter's proposed "windfall-profits" tax on the oil industry. The administration opposes any action now to cut taxes, but Carter could be forced to accept the freeze as the price for getting the windfall tax.

—The Senate approved a $1.2 billion emergency fuel assistance program, tying it to an Interior Department appropriation bill. The House-passed version of the Interior bill does not include such a provision. Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., the sponsor of the fuel provision, said: "The important thing is to get the (See OPEC, Page 2)

Carter's Public Standing Hits Biggest High Since Camp David

NEW YORK (AP) — President Carter's standing with the American public strengthened a bit from its historic lows after a month of high interest rates, Soviet troops in Cuba and speculation about the 1980 primaries, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

The five-percentage-point rise in Carter's rating is the largest positive surge in his ratings since the 16-point jump that occurred after the Mideast summit at Camp David in September 1978.

In the five weeks since the last AP-

NBC News poll, Carter has talked to the nation about the Soviet brigade in Cuba; the Federal Reserve Board kicked interest rates to their highest levels ever; and the first pseudo-confrontation between non-candidates Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy took place in Florida.

Although the latest poll shows a jump for Carter, his job rating is still extremely depressed compared to other presidents.

Twenty-four percent of those interviewed Monday and Tuesday rated Carter's work good or excellent. Fifty percent said his work is only fair and another 24 percent rated his work as poor. Two percent of the 1,600 adults interviewed nationwide by telephone were not sure.

In September, only 19 percent gave Carter good or excellent marks, while 49 percent said his efforts had been only fair. Thirty percent called his work poor. Two percent were not sure.

The 19 percent rating was the lowest ever found for a president since this question was first asked in the 1950s.

Last month's poll was taken Sept. 10 and 11, shortly after the furor erupted over the Soviet brigade in Cuba and after Kennedy indicated he was seriously considering a primary challenge to Carter.

Carter's job ratings in several specific areas edged up in the most recent survey, suggesting there was no single major (See POLL, Page 2)

Feedlot Cattle Numbers Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — New cattle feedlot statistics by the Agriculture Department show the crunch on beef supplies will continue relatively tight at least through the winter.

The number of cattle being fattened for the slaughter market — the source of most supermarket cuts of beef totaled 9.93 million head on Oct. 1, a drop of 13 percent from a year ago, the department said Thursday in a quarterly report.

About 5.95 million head of new cattle were placed in feedlots in July, August and September. That was down 19 percent from the same period of last year and was the smallest since the summer of 1976.

Those cattle, called "placements," represent animals that will be sent to slaughter this fall and winter. Cattle producers reduced their herds severely since 1975 as market prices dropped. Although market prices have generally recovered in the last year, it will be at least several more years before breeding herds can be expanded enough to boost beef output.

The report covered 23 states, which produce about 95 percent of the nation's beef.

Steers in feedlots totaled about 6.69 million head on Oct. 1, down 11 percent from a year ago, the report said. Heifers being fed for the slaughter market were estimated at 3.2 million head, down 16 percent from a year earlier. Older cows and "other" stock accounted for the remainder.

Marketings of feedlot cattle in the third quarter were a four-year low of 5.98 million head, down 8 percent from July-September of last year, the report said.

Looking at possibilities this fall, the report said feedlot marketings may total 5.98 million head during the last quarter of 1979, down 11 percent from a year ago.

Cattle prices slumped in the summer from record peaks last spring but since have improved. Another factor that tended to reduce feedlot placements has been generally good pasture-feed conditions, enabling producers to graze animals instead of having to ship them to feedlots.

Choice steer prices on the Omaha, Neb., market averaged $72.51 per 100 pounds in the second quarter before slumping sharply in the summer, at some points around $55 per 100 pounds.

Recently, according to USDA figures, Omaha steer prices have been around $66 (See CATTLE, Page 2)

Martin—First Trip to Hereford an Unpleasant Experience

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

J.F. Martin's first impression of Hereford was so bad that he enlisted in the Navy to avoid having to take a job here.

He and his wife later moved to Hereford, bought a farm and stayed. His views of Deaf Smith County have drastically changed.

"I think Hereford is the land of opportunity. Still, the economy's as good, if not better, than anywhere, and I think the people are the nicest people in any community. I wouldn't live any place else," said Martin, county commissioner and longtime West Texas farmer.

Martin, who fought fires on Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock during the early 1940's, was promoted to fire chief of the Hereford prisoner-of-war camp south of the city.

"So, I came up to Hereford and looked, then told them I wouldn't take the job. We didn't want to move to Hereford. Places were hard to get—we couldn't find a place to rent—and the job out there wasn't too attractive," Martin said.

"When I went back to Lubbock and told them I wouldn't accept the job, they told me I would be drafted in 30 days. So, I enlisted in the Navy."

Martin was on an aircraft carrier for two years during World War II. When his term was up, he returned to his firefighting job at the Lubbock air base.

"My father-in-law was in Hereford when I retired from the service. He had acquired this land near Walcott while I was in the service," Martin said.

Martin bought into the farm with his father-in-law, the late G.K. Horton.

"After we got more acquainted with people in Hereford and the opportunities here, I was real impressed with it."

That was in 1949. Three years later, Martin bought a farm with J.B. Marion, now of Lubbock, in Castro County. Martin purchased Marion's interest in 1964.

Martin, who was born in Fort Worth and raised in Hurlwood, west of Lubbock, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of County Commissioner Alfred Smith, who died earlier this year.

"I enjoy being a county commissioner, and my intentions are to run for office next spring. I enjoy helping people with their problems," Martin said.

"I think we have a good county staff, and I enjoy working with them. The hardest thing for me is figuring out how our tax system works. But, I'm learning. I just want to be fair with both the people I serve in my precinct and with all the county taxpayers."

Martin's farms are run by his sons, Danny and John Frank Martin, besides working long hours each day as a commissioner, still is active in farming.

"I help the boys whenever I can. I chase parts for them or drive a truck or do whatever they need to be done," he said.

"I don't mind working hard. If you were lucky enough to hold a job when I was coming up, you'd work hard and try (See BRANDING, Page 2)

Fajardo Gets Probation For Assault

Louis Fajardo, of Amarillo received a five-year probation sentence and was assessed a $500 fine Thursday in 222nd District Court after pleading guilty of aggravated assault on a police officer.

Judge Bill Sheehan of Dumas, 69th District judge, accepted the recommendation of assistant district attorney Jerry Smith in handing down the sentence. Smith asked for a probation sentence because Fajardo helped a Deaf Smith County deputy in a fight against two prisoners inmates who recently tried to escape from the county jail.

The two prisoners attacked the deputy with screwdrivers in the attempted escape.

Fajardo was involved earlier this year in a high-speed chase with police and allegedly tried to run into a patrol car with his vehicle.

Others pleading guilty to offenses Thursday include Ray Charles Foster, driving while intoxicated, sentenced to one year in a Tulsa halfway house for alcoholics; Ray Martinez, felony possession of marijuana, six years probation, $1,000 fine; Scott Bischoff, forgery, four years probation, $250 fine; Irene Galan Lopez, forgery, six years probation, $600 fine; and Alfred Darrell West, driving while intoxicated, two years probation, $500 fine, one year in the Tulsa halfway house.

Judge Sheehan was filling in for 222nd District Judge Wesley Gulley, who is ill and in the hospital.

Criminal trials are scheduled for the next two weeks in district court.

Senate Approves Fuel Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suddenly, members of Congress sound like they can't move fast enough to spend more than $1 billion helping the poor pay their heating bills this winter.

"The important thing is to get the dough out before people freeze to death," said Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., sponsor of a $1.2 billion emergency fuel assistance provision that received final Senate approval Wednesday.

His sense of urgency was seconded by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, who made an unprecedented appearance before a House panel to make a pitch for 1.35 billion in aid.

"The first session of the 96th Congress faces no higher priority than providing low-income fuel assistance to meet this winter's needs," he said. "I do not believe we can afford to adjourn without addressing this problem."

O'Neill, who emphasized he was speaking "as the elected constitutional head of the House of Representatives," said disagreements about details of the program should not delay its approval.

"Prompt action is a national imperative," he concluded.

Holly Parents File Suit Against Company

After a tumultuous month of economic developments, 13 percent gave Carter high marks for his work on the economy, up from 10 percent last month.

Forty-four percent said his economic efforts were poor, compared to 47 percent in the previous poll. The remainder were not sure.

This finding suggests that the public reaction to the Federal Reserve's recent moves to slow down inflation — and Carter's support for those actions — is not negative at this time.

On Oct. 1, Carter told the nation of the steps he was taking to strengthen the U.S. presence in the Caribbean in response to the Soviet troop presence in Cuba.

singer's family relationships. The $300,000 suit was filed Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. L.O. Holley of Lubbock, who accused Innovisions, Inc. of breach of contract.

The Holleys said in their suit that Innovisions violated an Oct. 15, 1975, contract which provided for the company's purchase of the rights to their son's life story.

The Holleys say that the contract promised them 3 percent of the film's net profits annually. But the suit contends, "except for some initial lump-sum payments," the Holleys have not received any payments from Innovisions.

The singer's parents said they have been told the film has earned at least $6.5 million since its release. The suit asks District Judge Robert Wright to conduct an accounting using records kept by Innovisions and Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc., a co-defendant.

Clements Criticizes White's SEDCO Suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements doesn't think much of Attorney General Mark White's federal court suit against SEDCO Inc. and Permargo, a Mexico drilling company, for the Mexican oil spill.

"I don't think his suit is any good against anybody," the Republican governor commented after the Democratic attorney general filed the legal action Thursday in Houston.

"I think it is politically motivated," Clements commented, repeating a charge he has made frequently in his long feud with White over who should pay for oil spill damages to the Texas coast.

Clements was founder of SEDCO, a worldwide drilling firm, but, since becoming governor, has put all his stock in a blind trust. He says neither he nor SEDCO had anything to do with the June 3 oil well blowout in the Bay of Campeche.

White's suit claims that the Mexican oil spill has caused more than $10 million damage to the state's economy and environment.

However, White told a news conference there would be no legal action against Pemex, the Mexican oil monopoly, "until it is certain that all negotiations by the U.S. Department of State for damages from Mexico in regard to the oil spill have been exhausted."

Engineers Hope To Cut Spillage

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Engineers, who earlier this week installed a 310-ton steel cone over the runaway knot offshore oil well, hope by the end of the week to drastically reduce the spillage, a spokesman for the Mexican state petroleum monopoly Pemex said Thursday.

The well in the Gulf of Mexico has been out of control for 4½ months, and the spill is the worst in history.

"It all depends on the weather and a number of other technical and engineering factors, but the work is progressing satisfactorily," said the spokesman, who asked that his name not be used.

"We have been instructed not to say yet how much of the oil is being recovered and how much is still spilling," the spokesman added. "But in a couple of days or so, about 85 percent of the oil spewing from the well is going to be controlled."

Said an engineer in the area: "Sometimes it stops, then it starts belching again. There is no telling what it will do from one hour to the next."

The well, 50 miles offshore in Campeche Sound, turned rogue, exploded and caught fire June 3, wrecking a $22 million drilling platform rented from a Texas equipment company. The 63 men on board were evacuated unharmed.

Paternity Ruling Announced

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court has ruled in a landmark Dallas paternity case that illegitimate children born before Sept. 1, 1975, have until their 22nd birthday to establish the identity of their fathers.

"This brings joy to my heart," said Bill J. Ballard, a Wichita Falls specialist in paternity law. "It's time for rejoicing for many kiddies whose parents neglected to get married."

The opinion in the Dallas case was written by the civil appeals court there. The Supreme Court upheld the ruling Wednesday.

The Texas Department of Human Resources, formerly the welfare department, sued on behalf of the child's mother to compel Edward Charles Delley of Dallas to support an illegitimate child born in 1968. Both parents were 17 at the time.

The ruling is important to the state because child support could erase the need for state welfare payments in many cases.

Before the Delley suit was filed, the appeals court said, Delley signed a sworn statement, witnessed by two people, acknowledging he was the father.

Delley contended a four-year statute of limitations barred the state's suit.

The Dallas trial court dismissed the suit. It held the statute of limitations barred the suit, because the child had been born more than four years prior to the time it was filed.

However, the Dallas appeals court ruled the four-year limitation for illegitimate children born prior to Sept. 1, 1975, does not start to run until the child reaches 18 years of age.

The appeals court remanded the Delley case to Dallas for a possible new trial.

A law effective Sept. 1, 1975, requires paternity suits for children born after that date to be filed within a year of the child's birth.

Ballard said in a telephone interview the Supreme Court ruling Wednesday "gives hope" that even those children will have a year after reaching 18 to sue.

"As a matter of public policy," the Dallas appeals court said, "we doubt that fathers of illegitimate children should be absolved from the duty of paying child support because a paternity suit has not been filed within four years of the birth of the child."

The court said it agreed with a 1977 ruling of the Washington

Supreme Court which held that "the state has a compelling interest in assuring that the primary obligation for support of illegitimate children falls on both natural parents rather than on the taxpayers of this state."

Ballard said nearly 400,000 illegitimate children were born in Texas during the 20-year period ending last year. "Those who are still illegitimate might rejoice at getting in the courthouse," he said.

Ballard said paternity suits are "relatively rare" and are usually filed to obtain child support.

However, he said, a child might want to establish paternity to inherit his or her father's estate or to collect Social Security payments when the father dies.

"And some folks would just like to know who their father is," said Ballard.

Heavy Rains Trouble South Texas Shrimpers

SEABROOK, Texas (AP) — Heavy rains that sent young shrimp in search of saltier seas also have left Texas shrimpers in troubled financial waters.

About 40 percent of the shrimp population was killed during heavy rains in July and August, and those that survived went further into the Gulf of Mexico in search of salt.

Shrimping in Galveston Bay is so slow the federal government stepped in this week and declared the area a disaster.

"This is the worst I can remember it being," said Tony Kriss, 65, who has been shrimping since he was 8. "Many of these guys are coming in with catches that don't even pay for fuel."

"We might as well forget about this year and start looking forward to next season," said Guy Brummerhop, 25.

The disaster declaration does have one silver lining — it makes shrimpers who fish year round eligible for Small Business Administration loans.

Shrimpers who can prove economic losses can apply for long-term, low-interest loans, said SBA spokesman Bill Powers.

But one shrimper, Neil Richmond, says he doesn't have time to cut through the red tape and apply for a federal loan.

"If it rains a couple of days and I have nothing better to do, maybe I'll go down there and apply for a loan. It's not like a gift. You have to pay it back. Last year when things were tough, I called the SBA about a loan. The guy said a lot of people go into business and go broke. When the conditions are like this, you just have to suffer a lot," he said.

"I usually go out about day-break and stay in the bay until 6 p.m. But now there's a lot of traffic out there and no shrimp to catch," Richmond said, adding he spent five hours on the bay the other day and came in with only a 40-pound catch. Shrimpers need a daily catch between 300 and 400 pounds to make a profit.

Emery Waite, owner of a seafood supply firm, said the scarce supply of shrimp also means higher prices in restaurants.

"We are buying unheaded jumbo shrimp for $6 a pound now. Last year at this time, the price was about $4.50 a pound. The retail prices are about 15 to 20 percent higher than that," Waite said.

Voter Turnout Less in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas men, following the national pattern, voted in a higher proportion than Texas women did in the November 1978 election.

The turnout for both sexes in Texas, however, was considerably less than the national average.

A new Census Bureau report said 35.3 percent of eligible males voted in Texas and 33.5 percent of eligible females.

The national averages in the study, released Thursday, showed that 46.6 percent of eligible males and 45.3 percent of eligible females voted.

The study said 55.8 percent of the eligible men in Texas were registered to vote and 55.1 percent of the women.

The 45 to 64-year-old age group was the most active at the polls in Texas, the study showed.

That category listed 68.8 percent registered and 48 percent voted.

The next highest age group in Texas was the 65 and older, where 64.9 percent registered and 43.4 percent voted.

Trailing were the 25 to 44-year-old category with 52.3 percent registered and 30.3 percent voting, and the 18 to 24-year-old group with 36.3 percent registered and 17.1 percent voting.

In a separate section, the report showed that a higher percentage of voters registered and turned out at the polls last year in the Dallas area than in the Houston area.

Registered voters in Dallas included 57.4 percent of those eligible, and 33.6 percent voted. In the Houston area, 51.2 percent of the eligible voters registered and 31.8 percent voted.

Separate figures for other areas in Texas were not included in the report.

Oswald Called Healthy Man

DALLAS (AP) — When Dr. Earl F. Rose performed Lee Harvey Oswald's autopsy in 1963, he found evidence of some old dental work and scars on his left arm.

Rose, the Dallas County medical examiner at the time, said in a Nov. 29, 1963 Associated Press story that very little of the man's medical history could be determined by the autopsy except that he was "remarkably healthy."

Oswald was killed on Nov. 24, 1963, two days after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Oswald was named by the Warren Commission as the killer.

"A thorough autopsy showed the almost total lack of any abnormal pathology," Rose said. "The two things we could determine were, first, that he died from a hemorrhage from a gunshot wound, and that otherwise he was a physically healthy male."

Rose found the scars on the man's upper left arm, the inside of his left arm and on his left wrist. He also had a small scar on his upper lip. He had no tattoos.

The medical examiner did not elaborate on the old dental work.

X-rays indicated no evidence of any old, bone fractures or damage to the skull.

The only evidence of heart damage was bleeding from a cardiac arrest shortly before his death on the operating table.

The autopsy report showed no evidence of a brain tumor or any other organic pathology of the brain.

His lungs showed no old scar tissue that would indicate he ever had a lung disease.

A stomach analysis showed no food, the report said.

The Carter administration forecasts that nearly 1 million Americans will lose their jobs by the end of next year.

compared to 22 percent last month. Forty-three percent said his work is only fair and 28 percent called his international efforts poor. Five percent were not sure.

On energy, 17 percent rated Carter's work good or excellent, while 35 percent said it has been only fair. Forty-five percent said it has been poor and 3 percent were not sure.

Those figures reflect virtually no change from last month, when 16 percent gave his energy efforts top marks.

The rebound for Carter also showed up in another way on a question on whether the respondent would like to see Carter try for another term. The public at large split on whether he should run for reelection: 43 percent favored a Carter bid and 47 percent opposed one. Ten percent were not sure.

But 50 percent of the Democrats said they favor a Carter try for another term — an 11-point surge compared to last month. Forty-one percent of the Democrats opposed a Carter bid and 9 percent were not sure.

In the September AP-NBC News poll, only 39 percent of the Democrats favored a Carter re-election try. Fifty-four percent were opposed and the rest not sure.

As with every sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News poll can vary from the opinions of all those with telephones across the country because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than 3 percentage points either way simply because of sample error. That is, if one could talk to all adults in the country, there is only one chance out of 20 that the results would vary from the findings of this poll by more than 3 percentage points.

Of course, the results can also vary because of differences in the method of interviewing, the timing of the survey and the wording of the questions.

AMARILLO—Two outstanding 4-H members from Deaf Smith County will be honored here at the District 1 4-H Gold Star Banquet at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, November 3 at The Inn, 601 Amarillo Boulevard West.

Paul Gross and Sue Farris, District Agents for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the pair will be among 37 youths to receive the Gold Star honor.

A boy and a girl from each of the 20 counties in district 1 are eligible to receive this highest county award each year. It recognizes outstanding achievement, leadership, and contribution to the county 4-H program.

The event is sponsored annually by Deaf Smith, North Plains, Rita Blanca and Swisher Electric Cooperatives.

In 1953, a young Havana lawyer, Fidel Castro, led a group of revolutionaries in an attack on a fortress held by army and police supporters of Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista. Many of the attackers, including Castro, were captured and imprisoned. Castro was later released and disappeared. He returned in 1956 at the head of another group of revolutionaries who finally overthrew the Batista regime in 1959.

Ann Landers

Teenage Trouble

DEAR ANN: A very good essay appeared in the Beth El Teen Topic several years ago. I have tried to track down the origin, but it was written by either Rabbi Elovitz of Birmingham, Ala., or a teenager who wanted to remain anonymous.

I hope you will print it in your column, so millions of teens can see it instead of just a few hundred. There's a valuable message here. Thanks very much.

THE MAN I WANTED TO BE, OR TOO BAD I GOT BUSTED

Man, it's a bad scene, (a real bummer. Who would've thought it could happen to me? I mean, like it was something cool to do. Just part of the scene. So some kids experiment. So what? Besides, it'll be legal in a few years anyway. Damn the establishment! You'd think the fuzz is born with sirens in their heads and "do-good" stamped on their bottoms. Hell, weren't they ever kids? It could have been you. You just lucked out. Anyway, getting booked was really gross. All that finger-printing jazz. I called my old man, and was he ever ticked off. He had to hire a lawyer to get me out. He's got influence. I thought I'd get off with a reprimand, maybe grounded for a while, and that would be the end of it. It wasn't.

They booked me, and I've got a record. I was going to law school, but now that's screwed up. Medical school won't accept me, either, when the time comes. Why should I suffer? Look at all the kids who do dope and never get a glove laid on 'em.

You should have seen my mom's face. Even all that makeup couldn't cover her shame. You'd think I had committed a crime or something. It was weird. It's not like I didn't know it was illegal; it's just that everybody was doing it, and I was the one who got nailed. Besides, I was holding it for a buddy--only took a couple of drags.

There must be some way to clean up this mess. I'm sure as hell not a criminal. I just got mixed up with a little illegal fun. Funny, somehow I don't think the dean of admissions will buy it. Oh, well. I can always be a plumber or go into my dad's business. On second thought-- I wonder if my dad would hire me.--Out Of Sync.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You once printed a letter from a woman who said she tried all kinds of diets and nothing worked. She then tried an experiment on her own and it worked like magic. She decided to take half a portion of everything, and eat very slowly. Her theory was a lot of people keep eating more than they want because they eat too fast, then continue to eat just to keep someone else company.

At the time I read that letter I didn't need to watch my weight, but I remembered it. About three months ago my clothes began to get too tight and I knew I had to lose at least ten pounds or invest in a new wardrobe. I tried the woman's system and it did the trick. I know now I never be fat again. Sign me--A Happy Loser.

DEAR HAPPY: You're not a loser--you're a winner! Congratulations!

DEAR OUT: if a rabbi wrote that peice he is very much in tune with the times and knows a great deal about youth.

If it was written by a teenager, he has certainly mastered some of life's lessons early. By the time this appears, I hope he is well on his way to becoming a lawyer or doctor--or maybe a rabbi. Thank you for writing.

Say Yes... to

..Salvation Army

Salvation Army is well known for its work in time of disasters, but helping transients is probably the single most important service it provides in Deaf Smith County. And, it is not limited to providing services for transients or indigents. Unexpected needs of people who really need help are also filled by this United Way agency.

If a traveler comes through Hereford and needs a meal or lodging, the Salvation Army takes care of that need. Sometimes it provides money to send them on to larger Army centers in Amarillo or Clovis. The agency also helps families of prisoners through material aid or counseling. A local board determines the areas of service.

..Red Cross

Red Cross is primarily concerned with the health and safety of individuals, explains executive secretary Betty Henson of Hereford. To accomplish that premise, more than 100 local, active Red Cross volunteers utilize United Way money to provide shelter, food and clothing, along with immediate assistance, to disaster victims, to Deaf Smith County military families and numerous classes--all geared to saving lives.

Classes are offered in water safety, first aid, cardiopulmonary resuscitation and home nursing. Red Cross volunteers also assist in Westgate Nursing Home's physical-therapy program.

During the tragic Wichita Falls tornado, the local chapter sent clothing, furniture, household goods and more than $1,000 in cash to victims.

..Children's Rehabilitation Center

Children's Rehabilitation Center of Amarillo, which provides help to afflicted Panhandle youngsters, relies solely on area United Way for support. It is one of the agencies in the Deaf Smith United Way.

The center is an outpatient organization for physically-disabled children. Through a medical staff of 28 physicians, it provides physical, occupational and speech therapy, along with special education. The

..Family Services Center

Family Services Center, 610 E. Park Ave., was created to help couples with marriage problems, persons with mental health problems, alcoholics, and the families and children involved. Mike Moon is the director, and the center has consultants who come to Hereford on a regular basis.

One of the main objects of the center is to improve communications between marriage partners. Alcoholism counseling is geared to helping the person with the drinking problem as well as his entire family. One advantage of the center is that people are assured of confidentiality and privacy through the office. Counseling is provided for all members of a family. The center sees many children each month, some whose parents are living apart or have already divorced. The counseling is geared to helping the child deal with his reaction.

..High Plains Epilepsy

High Plains Epilepsy Association, one of the new agencies of Deaf Smith United Way, serves more than a dozen Hereford residents. The association locates jobs for epileptics, provides treatment and does much public education work trying to remove the stigma that epilepsy is a type of mental illness. It is a malfunction in brain transmissions, and it is controllable.

The agency has a neurologist who is on call and arranges treatment for people who can't afford a doctor's care, or have no other way of obtaining treatment.

doctors comprising the staff receive no payment for their services. Some 300 children from the area, including 32 from Hereford, were served through the center last year. Main ailments include cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, and congenital spinal deformity. All it takes for a child to be helped is a referral from the family physician.

Postponement Asked For Supe's Removal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Officials in the governor's office say they will ask the Texas Indian Commission to postpone the removal of Emmett Battise as superintendent of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation.

The TIC, citing sagging finances at the East Texas reservation, last month asked Battise to resign by Oct. 15. The superintendent, who is also second chief of the tribes, has refused to step aside.

After a 90-minute closed door session here Wednesday, Paul Wrotenbery, director of budget and planning for the governor, said the TIC will be asked to let Battise stay on through Dec. 15. That would give the tribal council time to develop a "long-range plan" for the financially-troubled reservation, Wrotenbery said.

"We are talking about a way to take a very difficult issue through a transitional period," he said.

The meeting, requested by the Indians, included Battise, tribal council members and Secretary of State George Strake.

Battise has served as the $19,000-a-year superintendent since 1972. The resignation request met opposition from officials at the 500-resident reservation. Tribal officials blame the problems on Walter Broemer, TIC executive director.

The Indian leaders have called for Broemer's firing. Wrotenbery said the governor's office will make no recommendation concerning Broemer, who has worked with the Indians for more than 20 years. Broemer served as superintendent at the Alabama-Coushatta Reservation before taking the executive director post.

Roland Poncho, spokesman for the tribal council, said the council resolution in support of Battise and against Broemer is still in effect.

"Emmett Battise will be a major part of this long-range plan," Poncho said. "He has a more important position as second chief."

Wallace Blasts Brown

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace today described California Gov. Jerry Brown as part of a Ralph Nader-Jane Fonda effort to put the federal government in charge of oil and gas production.

Wallace told oil and gas executives financial experts predict a bill introduced by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., would result in a production decline.

Also, Wallace said, the energy plans of the Carter administration are "erected on the false premise that no more oil and gas can be found in this country."

"The fact is that there are over three million square miles of area in the United States with oil and natural gas potential," Wallace said. "Production has been developed on only about 50,000 square miles, less than 2 percent. Federal bureaucrats and radical environmentalists would have us walk away from the potential of the other 98 percent!"

Wallace addressed the statewide oil allowable meeting, after the commission had routinely set the production factor for November at 100 percent. The oil and gas regulatory agency has maintained 100 percent production, with the exception of a few fields, for all but three months since April 1972.

The East Texas Field, for example, was restricted to 86 percent production once again.

The production rate was announced after major purchasers of Texas crude oil told the commission they would like to buy 2,684,610 barrels of oil a day in November, a decrease of 13,883 barrels daily from October.

Wallace noted the cost of crude oil imports had risen from $4.3 billion in 1972 to some $60 billion this year.

According to a study published by the Institute of Gas Technology, Wallace said, a decrease of 500,000 barrels a day in imports would save consumers $16.2 million over the next three years.

"I cannot understand why the present administration insists on delaying production," he said. "Production is the answer."

But Wallace added, "There are some in our society who do not feel the same way." He mentioned demonstrations by Nader and Ms. Fonda in 20 cities to reimpose price controls on crude oil, heating oil and natural gas and to impose price controls on gasoline.

"Ralph and Jane also want a government energy corporation which would buy and distribute all imported oil; explore for oil, gas and coal on federal lands; and compete with the private sectors in developing alternate energy sources," Wallace said.

"It takes no wizard," he added, "to see that Jerry Brown is a small part of the Ralph and Jane show. This week in New York, the governor proposed a sweeping scheme to impose public and government control over oil companies."

Wallace said a Kennedy bill to prohibit some mergers by oil companies would, according to

Vice President James Wallace III of the Chase Manhattan Bank, reduce oil production by three million barrels a day by 1990.

"According to Dr. Wallace, the decline will come about because the companies would have trouble with financing," Wallace said. "In time, banks would be less willing to finance costly oil operations unless the companies would diversify by merger into other industries."

"If SB1246 passes in its original form; if the windfall profits tax passes without significant exemptions; if the nation's energy policy does not begin to emphasize free market principles and reasonable environmental concerns, then this nation of ours will cease to be great," said Wallace.

The executives applauded his speech, and Chairman John Poerner of the commission said, "Well done."

Here are what the major purchasers of Texas crude oil report they would like to buy in November, in barrels per day, with any changes from October in parentheses:

- Amoco 272,500 (down 5,000)
- Chevron 59,354
- Cities Service 90,000

Sunshine Mining Shines with Silver

DALLAS (AP) — Sunshine Mining Co. has put all its eggs into a silver basket, and the gamble seems to be paying off.

A year ago the Dallas-based company was a small conglomerate controlling a fence company, some manufacturing plants and a silver mine in Kellogg, Idaho.

Today, Sunshine owns nothing but silver mining and processing facilities, with plans to acquire more.

"We are going to eliminate everything between what happens to the price of silver and the price of our stock," said President G. Michael Boswell. "We want Sunshine (stock) to clearly reflect the price movements of the products we mine and sell."

The strategy may be working. On the third day of last week's precipitous stock market plunge, Sunshine Stock went up.

The increase was too small to offset losses of the previous two days, but Boswell took it as an indication Sunshine investors were less interested in market trends than silver prices.

Sunshine has used part of the $31 million it gained from selling its other assets to buy a London-based silver trading company, for easier entry into the international silver market.

Boswell said he plans to introduce "American" methods to the market.

"The silver trade is still using 150-year-old methods," he said. "It has not been systematically attacked with modern business techniques," Boswell said.

Boswell is trying to make it cheaper and easier to buy Sunshine stock than to purchase silver coins or bullion.

Boswell said Sunshine has tentative plans to mint and sell its own silver coin, as South Africa has done with its gold Kruggerand, and perhaps pay stockholders in silver instead of dollars.

The company changes came in the wake of the "Hunt International trauma." Boswell's term for a tender offer by Hunt International, later withdrawn, and Sunshine's subsequent repurchase of Hunt's 1.6 million shares of Sunshine stock.

Sunshine also has made plans for an Idaho refinery using its own electrolysis technique to turn the silver it mines into bullion.

Since most mining companies also have interest in non-precious metals or depend on foreign production, Boswell said Sunshine's position will be unique.

He said the company has pursued exploration rights in several states, and hopes a new shaft at the Idaho mine will boost production by 80 percent in three years.

Boswell says the silver market is "out of kilter."

"We want to put ourselves in position to take advantage of that opportunity," he said.

Nun Habits Questioned

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — After my travels with John Paul II in Mexico, Poland, Ireland and the United States, the subject of nuns and their habits troubles the mind, as it must the Holy Father's.

'Tis a pious puzzlement.

In officially anti-clerical Mexico, where the constitution forbids the wearing of religious garb in public, a few nuns turned out in the habit of their orders on the day the pope arrived. They were probably from the United States or Canada and didn't know the law of the land.

But the next day, emboldened by the presence of their pontiff, hundreds of Mexican sisters ventured outside their convents in the proud uniform of their lifelong vows, some for the first time ever.

By the time the pope got to Guadalajara, there were thousands of priests, brothers and sisters joyously flaunting their religious roses in silent defiance of the government, which wasn't going to do anything anyway to embarrass so distinguished a visitor and, in fact was shutting a benign eye at such unconstitutional behavior.

In Ireland and Poland, both strongholds of traditional Catholicism after centuries of persecution, nuns in their flowing skirts and starched bibs were everywhere, flocking across the squares and parks like pigeons to catch a pontifical blessing or swell a papal procession.

Then came the Immaculate Conception Shrine in Washington, D.C. and the press section view of Sister Theresa Kane standing there at the lectern in a brown tailored business suit earnestly and respectfully lecturing the pope on women's rights in the church.

Although Pope John Paul II has several times implored nuns everywhere to retain a distinctive religious mode of dress, nearly one-third of the 4,000 American sisters who thronged the church to hear the address were in civilians clothes.

Some 50 nuns, although only a handful at first, stood up in silent, sedate protest when he said again, as he had in Philadelphia a few days before, that women were not called by Christ to his priesthood and that

Hail Rips West Texas

Hail as big as golf balls lashed the Midland-Odessa area during a heavy thunderstorm that pushed across West Texas Thursday night.

But West Texans enjoyed generally clear skies early today, while much of the rest of the state had cloudy to partly cloudy skies.

Fog was once again being reported along the upper Texas coast northward into the piney woods of East Texas. The areas around Houston and Lufkin reported visibilities near a mile because of the fog.

Predawn temperatures over Texas continued mild for this time of year. Early morning readings were mostly in the 60s and 70s, except for temperatures in the 50s over the Panhandle and mountains of West Texas. Extremes at 4 a.m. ranged from 46 at Marfa to 78 at Brownsville.

Mary had not asked for a place at the Last Supper.

Most nurses, I suppose, want to trade in their crisp white uniforms for a surgeon's green smock. Air stewardesses, no doubt, would prefer the pay that goes with pilot's stripes. Role changing there involves swapping uniforms.

But I wonder if the nuns who want to be priests will disdain the collar for the bright ties and three piece double knits of the mod Jesuits. 'Tis a puzzlement.

Carter, Press Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter claims that he is the most open president in history, despite his decision to cut back sharply on news conferences.

Although Carter has a habit of exaggerating his boasts, there is at least a grain of truth in this one. Scarcely a week passes in which the president is not questioned publicly on current issues.

It irks a good many Washington-based reporters that the questioning is being done increasingly not by them, but by non-Washington journalists and broadcasters or ordinary citizens.

Nevertheless, it is hard to imagine a newsworthy subject on which Carter has not recently been questioned in public by someone.

It is true Carter sometimes evades questions put to him by non-journalists. But Carter easily glides by pointed questions from Washington-based reporters, too. No matter how persistent the cross-examination, Carter seldom if ever allows himself to be nailed down when he doesn't want to be.

Non-journalists occasionally ask questions that are at least as tough as those posed by the Washington press corps. A questioner on a radio broadcast reminded Carter of his campaigned pledge to cut military spending and asked why he was proposing spending for an MX mobile missile system. "Why don't you try to stop inflation by stopping this unnecessary military spending to put that money to work in the economy?" he asked.

It was last July, after his mountaintop "domestic summit," that Carter formally reneged on his old promise to hold two news conferences per month.

"I have nothing against the White House press corps nor the Washington press," he said at a news conference July 25. "I will continue to have interviews with the White House press corps, as we are doing tonight, but not twice a month. ... My decision is to go to different places around the country."

This has produced muttered accusations by some of the forsaken Washington reporters, who feel the president is "hiding out" or "drawing the wagons in a circle" or otherwise behaving like the reclusive Richard Nixon.

And in fact the president has held only one news conference, on Oct. 9, in the 12 weeks or so since then.

But Carter has been far from reclusive.

He held five "town hall meetings" to answer questions from citizens in Burlington, Iowa; Tampa, Fla.; Steubenville, Ohio; Queens, New York, and Dolton, Ill.

Each was roughly twice as long as the standard half-hour Washington news conference.

Pirates: An Action Team

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Here's a look back through "The Family" album.

In January, President Dan Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates okayed baseball's richest contract for Dave Parker. There were grumblings in steelworker taverns and beauty parlors that Parker was overpaid, but Galbreath was paying the price for big league success.

"We had confidence in Pittsburgh as a city, and especially as a baseball city," said Galbreath, who agreed to the reported $5 million pact, despite an attendance slump in 1978.

In April, Pete Peterson showed he was a general manager of action by dealing erratic shortstop Frank Taveras to the New York Mets for less spectacular but steady Tim Foli.

"I never thought Foli would hit like he did," Peterson said after Foli played solid defense and batted 44 points over his .244 lifetime average.

In May, Manager Chuck Tanner showed he was a man of patience by accenting the positive while last-place Pittsburgh was falling nine games off the pace in the National League East.

"We have four months and three weeks left. That's a lot of season," said Tanner. "Our guys will turn it around."

In June, Peterson showed he was a burglar as well as a general manager by acquiring Bill Madlock from San Francisco in a multi-player swap that sent the Giants pitcher Ed Whitson.

"I want to make this the Giants' loss and the Pirates' gain," said Madlock, who came to Pittsburgh batting .261 and finished at .298.

And in July, August, September and October, Willie Stargell and his Pirate teammates showed they were the comeback, do-it-in the clutch team of 1979.

They fought off gutsy Montreal in the tight National League East, they swept Cincinnati in the NL Championship Series and they rallied from a 3-1 deficit to end Baltimore's dream season in the World Series.

Then they popped open bottles of champagne and played their clubhouse disco theme song, "We Are Family," over and over.

Some cynics suggest there really is no such thing as family togetherness in professional sports and that the Pirates' record .323 Series batting average was a far mightier factor than team unity.

"Someone asked me if 'The Family' was overrated," Stargell said after pounding Baltimore pitching and accepting the Series' MVP Award.

"That bothered me because this person didn't live with us and didn't see how we depended on each other...We had to scratch, we had to crawl and we did it together because 'We Are Family.'"

The disco tune, by the group Sister Sledge, has one segment that goes, "We've just begun to get our share of this world's delights."

What does the future hold for the Pirates?

What about Stargell? Will he be too old next season? Well, he was too old for THIS season at 38 and he carried the team on his back when it counted most. So don't count Willie out.

And youth is on Pittsburgh's side with talents like Parker, Madlock, Foli, Phil Garner and Omar Moreno. It's the same with the pitching staff, which is solid from top to bottom despite the absence of a 20-game winner.

Of course, you can't predict what will happen to a World Series' winner. Look at recent winners like the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Yankees, and look back at the Pirates of 1971.

When the Pirates clinched '71 in Baltimore, Roberto Clemente was the MVP, Steve Blass was the winning pitcher in Game Seven and first baseman Bob Robertson was a power hitter of promise.

Within a few years, Clemente had been killed in a plane crash, Blass' pitching had taken a sudden, never-explained collapse and Robertson's promise had gone unfulfilled.

So all any team is guaranteed for the future is uncertainty.

But, for now, the Pirates are guaranteed their $29,000 Series paychecks and a four-month off-season to savor the title.

Anderson Ready For Cowboys

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It's been a long time since Ottis Anderson exploded onto the National Football League scene with 193-yard rushing performance ... a very, very long time for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Anderson, the Cardinals' No. 1 draft choice out of Miami, has done just about everything expected of him. He's third in the National Conference in rushing with 663 yards and has added 21 receptions for 150 additional yards.

But despite his performance, starting with that near-record yardage against Dallas - the Cowboys won the game 22-21 on a late field goal - St. Louis has failed to become the NFC East contenders that so many fans figured they'd be. They're 2-5, rattling around the division basement along with the New York Giants, four games behind co-leaders Dallas and Philadelphia - and they play the Cowboys in Dallas this Sunday.

Sunday's other games are Philadelphia at Washington, the Giants at Kansas City, Atlanta at San Francisco, Baltimore at Buffalo, Cincinnati at Cleveland, Green Bay at Tampa Bay, Oakland at the New York Jets, Miami at New England, Chicago at Minnesota, Detroit at New Orleans, Houston at Seattle and San Diego at Los Angeles. On Monday night it's Denver at Pittsburgh.

After being chewed up so royally by Anderson, who came within one yard of Alan Ameche's first pro game record, the Cowboys began reestablishing their Doomsday Defense, to the point that it is now the conference's best against the rush.

They take a 6-1 record into the game and are rated roughly 10-point favorites to beat the Cardinals - but Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, never one to take matters lightly, observes: "O.J. is still running well. It's not going to be an easy day." Anderson gained 73 yards in St.

Louis' 24-20 loss to Philadelphia last Sunday.

As if facing Dallas' defense wasn't enough, the Cards must also try to prep their own defense second in the NFC against the rush but ninth against the pass for an onslaught by Roger Staubach.

The Cowboys' quarterback is No. 1 among conference passers and has thrown 6 touchdowns while being intercepted only three times. Last Sunday night against Los Angeles he completed 13 of 18 passes for 176 yards and three TDs. He now owns the Cowboys' TD passing record of 137, having passed Don Meredith's 135 during the 30-6 victory over the Rams.

Considering all of that, St. Louis Coach Bud Wilkinson was asked what the Cardinals would have to do to defeat Dallas.

"Be very lucky," he said.

The Eagles are riding a five-game winning streak, their longest since starting the 1961 season 7-1, thanks to Wilbert Montgomery's thundering hoofbeats. He's second in the NFC in rushing with 696 yards 30 behind Chicago's Walter Payton, and leads the conference's non-kickers in scoring with 48 points on eight touchdowns, five rushing and three receiving.

The Redskins, 5-2 will have to contain him if they are to stay in the East Division race. They didn't do it very well in Philadelphia two weeks ago, when Montgomery scored all four touchdowns in the Eagles' 28-17 triumph.

The Giants, who have won their last two games with rookie Phil Simms as the starting quarterback, head into Kansas City, where Chiefs Coach Marv Levy has reinstated veteran Mike Livingston at quarterback in place of rookie Steve Fuller.

With Cincinnati having beaten Pittsburgh last Sunday, compliments of the Steelers' nine turnovers, San Francisco remains the NFL's only winless team. The 49ers will be trying to pick up that elusive first victory against the Falcons, out to rebound from their 50-19 shellacking by Oakland.

Trojans, Fighting Irish Square Off

Notre Dame and Southern Cal have blossomed since, of course, and Saturday they'll have the 51st renewal of their often-spectacular rivalry. The Fighting Irish hold a 27-19-4 lead in the series, although they have won only three of the games in the last 13 years.

Although the No. 4 Trojans are coming off an ego-puncturing 21-21 tie with Stanford, they still rate as six-point favorites over No. 9 Notre Dame before an expected sellout crowd at South Bend.

Southern Cal Coach John Robinson doesn't feel like the underdog in the nationally televised game, though.

"It looks like a very even game to me," says Robinson. "Notre Dame is a great football team, as always. Vagas Ferguson looks improved over last year, and they do with him what we do with Charles White - give him the football a lot."

Ferguson needs only 21 yards to surpass the Notre Dame career rushing record of 2,682, yards set by Jerome Heavens last season. White, another in a long line of great tailbacks at Southern Cal, is the nation's leading rusher with a 148-yard-per-game average.

Meanwhile, Alabama puts its recently acquired No. 1 ranking on the line against No. 18 Tennessee at Birmingham. The Crimson Tide was elevated to the top spot this past week after Southern Cal was tied by the Cardinals.

Angels Dominate

NEW YORK (AP) — Four members of the California Angels and two from the American League champion Baltimore Orioles highlighted The Associated Press' 1979 American League All-Star team.

California, who won their first AL West title in 1979, placed first baseman Rod Carew, second baseman Bobby Grich, catcher Brian Downing and designated hitter Don Baylor. Outfielder Ken Singleton and left-handed pitcher Mike Flanagan represented the Orioles.

The rest of the team consisted of Kansas City third baseman George Brett, Minnesota shortstop Roy Smalley, Boston outfielders Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, and right-handed pitcher Dennis Eckersley, and relief pitcher Jim Kern of Texas.

La Plata Drops To 2-4

The LaPlata ninth grade dropped its game last night 22-13 to Plainview Red.

Glen Phibbs scored the first touchdown for the Mavericks on a five yard run around the right side. Raymond Martinez kicked the extra point and La Plata was up 7-0.

Plainview jumped right back and scored on a nine yard run. After kicking the extra point the score was tied up at 7-7. Plainview scored another TD in the second period to take a halftime lead of 14-7.

The Mavericks picked up another score in the third quarter on a three yard run by Phibbs but failed to convert the extra point, leaving the score 14-13. Plainview added an insurance touchdown in the fourth and went on to win the game 22-13.

The loss brings the record of the Mavericks to 2-4.

The eighth grade lost to Canyon White 8-0. The only scoring in the game was in the second quarter when Canyon scored on a 12 yard run and converted the two points.

Both the eighth and ninth grade teams will play here on Thursday.

It was just a handshake, but it had a pretty strong grip at that. When Knute Rockne and Howard Jones shook on a gentlemen's agreement in the 1920s, the seed was planted for the great Southern Cal-Notre Dame football series.
The handshake took place in the 1920s after Rockne's Notre Dame team had been beaten by Jones' Iowa Hawkeyes. Rockne asked for a return match - and he got it after Jones had moved to Southern Cal.

Asked the other day if he knew Lou Holtz was unbeaten in Little Rock, Fred Akers replied "Arkansas is unbeaten in a lot of places."

But the oddsmakers don't figure Holtz and the Razorbacks will be unbeaten at sundown Saturday.

Holtz loves to play in Little Rock. And his players have picked up the vibes.

However, a Holtz-coached Arkansas team has yet to beat Texas. And the Razorbacks are picking a tough time to try again.

Texas is riding the euphoria of a 16-7 victory over Oklahoma. The Akers-coached Longhorns are No. 2 in the nation. Arkansas is No. 10.

The oddsmakers say it's Texas by four and one-half points.

"We are better than I thought we would be but we're not real solid team," says Holtz. "I have confidence in this team. But I'm concerned our team may not have the confidence it needs."

Akers said the Texas defense will face a stern test. "Arkansas' offense will be the best balanced we have faced this year," said Akers. "They hit a remarkable number of passes and they have a good offensive line. They get your attention because they have great big play potential."

Kickoff for the regionally televised game is 3:10 p.m. with a sellout crowd of 53,555 fans on hand in War Memorial Stadium.

In other SWC action, Houston is a 12 point nod over Southern Methodist in the Astrodome. Texas Tech is a 21 point selection over Rice in Lubbock. Baylor is a 13-point pick over Army at West Point, and Tulsa is a four-point favorite over Texas Christian in Tulsa.

Arkansas and Houston lead the SWC race with 2-0 ledgers. Texas is 1-0 followed by Baylor 3-1, SMU 2-1 and Texas Tech and TCU, each 1-2.

Mustang Mania is also crippled going into the meeting with the Cougars. Freshman Mike Fisher of Waco Richfield will start at quarterback for the injured Jim Bob Taylor.

"Houston is an outstanding team and we are really beat up," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer.

All-America wide receiver

Emanuel Tolbert and line-backers Eric Ferguson and Clarence Bennett are expected to miss the game against the unbeaten Cougars.

The Houston-SMU series has a weird statistic. Neither team has ever won at home.

The SWC can boost its 15-8-1 edge against outside competition if Baylor and TCU come through.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff warned against downplaying Army.

"I do know they beat a fine Stanford team that tied the No. 1 team in the nation. USC," said Teaff.

Hilton, From Hammers To Grid Linebacker

By Murray Olderman

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) - It may be work to some, but to Scott Hilton playing professional football amounts to a paid vacation.

Normally, this time of year he'd be clambering over beams, whacking away with a hammer, picking up his $7.50 an hour the hard way.

You see, by profession, Scott is a carpenter.

Almost by accident, he is now a rookie linebacker for the NFL San Francisco 49ers, delighted to be picking up $30,000 for the fall exercise. And knowing that back home in Pennsylvania, the seasonal unemployment period for carpenters is coming up soon anyhow.

Hilton, 25, is one of the more unusual players in the NFL. He never competed in college football. He came to the 49ers this year straight from the Somerton All-Stars, a semi-pro sandlot team outside Philadelphia.

A few luminaries have managed to matriculate as NFL stars without attending an institution of higher learning. One was the legendary Gene "Big Daddy" Lipscomb, an all-pro defensive tackle with the Baltimore Colts who came into the pros from the Marine Corps. Another was Chester "Cookie" Gilchrist, a marvelous fullback for the AFL Buffalo Bills who started his career in Canada straight out of high school.

Today, especially, college credentials are almost de rigueur in the highly specialized, intensely competitive game that has evolved. At a big football school, you major in the veer or the blitz. Scott's major was a beveled edge.

Recruited by 100 different universities after he finished high school at Willow Grove, Pa., Hilton opted instead for carpentry at $1.50 an hour, the prevailing wage.

"My parents were divorced," he says. "I'd been working since the ninth grade, was more into earning a dollar, getting a girl, buying a car. People told me, 'You're stupid.' They were right."

Technically, Hilton does have some college background. In January 1973, he was persuaded to enroll at Salem College, a small school in West Virginia, on a football scholarship. But when he got back to Willow Grove for the summer, he picked up his hammer and his level. And went back to being a carpenter.

He turned out for the Somerton All-Stars, who have won the league title regularly. Since Scott stands 6-foot-4, carries 230 pounds and has better than average speed for a big man, it was inevitable that he would be noticed.

The Philadelphia Eagles invited him to training camp in 1977 after a free agent tryout. Since they were stocked at linebacker (the only position Scott had ever played), they tried to convert him to offense as a tight end. "I walked out after two weeks," he says. "I was overwhelmed mentally."

A college player, when he comes to the pros, has already been educated to the subtleties of keys and tendencies and the recognition factor of football, being able to "read" what's going on around him.

Monterey proved to just about everyone that they were a legitimate contender for the district title, when it defeated Plainview 17-7 in Lubbock last night.

The Plainmen scored first in the opening quarter with Willie Johnson going into the end zone from three yards out, capping a 15 play drive.

Plainview's only score of the night came when Bobby Reyes intercepted a pass intended for Ricky Pinkerton and raced 105 yards for the touchdown as the first half ran out. The point after was good and the game was tied up at halftime 7-7.

The Plainmen picked up a field goal in the third period and added a final touchdown, in the fourth, the second of the night

Golf Tournament Set

The Deaf Smith County Jaycees are presenting the first annual Longest Drive tournament Saturday at the Pitman Municipal golf tournament.

Registration will be at 9 a.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall and the tournament begins at 10 a.m. at the Pro Shop.

The events will be longest drive in the fairway, putting contest for nine holes, closest to the pin (100 yard chip) and chip for 31 (25-30) yard tip.

SCOTT HILTON, rookie linebacker for the NFL San Francisco 49ers, never played college football. Until this season, Hilton, 25, had worked for $7.50 an hour as a carpenter.

With Scott, his whole grounding in the game was to take a whack at a guy in a strange uniform and hope it was the one with the ball.

In 1978, Hilton decided to try out with the Eagles again. This time in his natural role as a linebacker—buoyed by a $1,000 bonus to forsake his carpentry during the busy summer period.

He lasted until the final cut before the start of the season.

"They dropped me on Tuesday," he recalls. "I was back playing semi-pro on Sunday." At $75 a game.

But fortunately for Scott, on the Eagles coaching staff were John Ralston, once the head coach at Denver, and Bill McPherson. When Bill Walsh took charge of the San Francisco 49ers this year, he hired Ralston as his key administrator and McPherson to handle the linebackers. The new aides remembered Hilton's raw talent.

"In February," says Scott, "I just came home from playing racketball one night when Billy Mac called. There was a blizzard outside. It didn't take much to persuade me to come to California. They gave me $500 for signing. That's O.K. I don't have anything to wheel and deal with."

"This was going to be my last shot at football. The 49ers, desperate for talent, liked the rookie's natural assets — size, speed, strength — and by the end of the exhibition season he was installed as the starting strong side linebacker.

He makes mistakes because he's going through on-the-job training, but he has improved steadily in learning the intricacies of NFL play.

His chief asset remains the one that sustained him through those years with the Somerton All-Stars — a willingness to hit people.

There is only one drawback to this new life. It would be tough to go back to being a carpenter.

Rues Scott. "I've lost the callouses on my hands."

What people are saying...

Harold Brown

"The appropriate reply to continued Soviet political and military assertiveness - such as that represented by the Soviet brigade in Cuba - is not to hold SALT hostage, but rather to fashion in each instance a diplomatic and military response of our own."

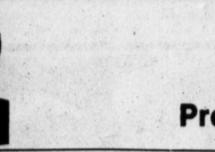

- Defense Secretary Harold Brown, speaking to the Miami, Fla., Chamber of Commerce. Brown has urged the U.S. Senate to approve the SALT-2 treaty.

United Way Responds ... to Your Comments

Early this year a Survey was conducted, to attempt to determine the general public's feeling about the concept of the United Way. In this survey, we asked for comments. Your United Way board feels that an attempt should be made to respond to these comments. You may not find your exact comment but there probably is one similar that we have attempted to answer.

COMMENT: Too many of the agencies listed have sources of funds other than the United Way, such as Federal funds, dues, concession stands, etc. If United Way is going to be a one-contribution, once-a-year effort, then we should require these agencies to either depend on United Way or obtain their own funds themselves. As it is - we contribute to the United Way, then make additional contributions, fees or dues and, in some instances, pay again in tax monies. If United Way is going to function successfully, we should require the member agencies to operate within the budget set by United Way.
ANSWER: Many of the agencies supported by the United Way have funds from other sources. When the agencies come before the Budget Committee, they are required to give a break-down of all their expenses. They are then required to give a break-down of all income from other sources. The differences is the amount requested from United Way. We could not understand anyone's quarrel with the concept that each agency should be as self supporting as possible. This self support takes many forms as you mention. Not many folk want a free handout and they expect to pay dues and fees when they participate in an activity. We do have one agency that gets Federal and State funds and they ask the United Way for a small amount to supplement their budget.
If the United Way was asked to fund 100 percent of every agency, our budget would, probably exceed $300,000, an amount so unrealistic that many would be so discouraged that they would be unwilling to make an effort. The member agencies DO operate within the budget approved by the United Way.

HEALTH

Preventing trichinosis

DEAR DR. LAMB - I've been married for 10 years and consider myself a fairly good cook. One evening I cooked pork chops and I know how careful one should be with pork. Halfway through the dinner, I noticed that my daughter had just about finished her pork chop. The meat around the bone was quite pink - almost red. I'm sure the middle of the chop was cooked because I cut it for her.
Anyway I'm quite upset and worried. I called my pediatrician and he assured me that in this day and age I wouldn't have to worry about it. That was two weeks ago and I'm still upset. All the material I have read tells me to worry. Everything I read says that whenever the pork is eaten raw or insufficiently cooked there is a danger of trichinosis or tape worm.
Would she have already been sick? And is there something I should be doing for her or not? I do not know how pork is inspected or if it can be inspected for the diagnosis of these dangerous worms.
DEAR READER - I don't blame you for being upset and I wish I could reassure you but I can't.
Trichinosis is caused by little worms and these parasites are in pork. It's true that the amount of infected pork has decreased in the United States to about one-third what it used to be but that still allows for an enormous amount of infected pork to be on the market.

Routine meat inspection doesn't always tell you that it's infected either, and the skin tests that were tried to detect infected pigs haven't really been successful. The only real safeguard against ingesting some contaminated pork is thorough cooking. That means that all of the meat should be cooked to an internal temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit (140 degrees Fahrenheit) for at least 30 minutes and none of the pork should be pink or raw.
The first stage of the trichinosis infection is when the male and female worms unite in the intestine. The intestinal phase may cause diarrhea and digestive symptoms. One form of treatment is given to eliminate any more of the adult worms that might still be in the digestive system.
The second phase is the migration of the larvae into the circulation and throughout the body, particularly forming little cysts inside the muscles. At this stage there may be swelling around the eyes, muscle pain and fever. Blood tests help establish or rule out the presence of the infestation and, if necessary, a muscle biopsy may show the characteristic parasites between the muscle fibers.

I'm afraid there's not much you can do at this late date about the incompletely cooked chop that your child has eaten. You should be alert to the problem and by now the intestinal phase or diarrhea, if it were going to occur, would have passed. If you're concerned about it, ask your doctor to do some blood tests to make sure that there's no evidence of an infection.
BACKACHES ARE one of man's most frequent complaints. There are things you can do to prevent them. Readers who want information on this can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 13-10, Backache And What To Do About It. Send your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I'd appreciate any information you can send me about hemorrhoids. I have them and my doctor is considering surgery. He said I have the internal kind and if I'd improve my bowel habits, that could help relieve my hemorrhoids.

I have taken measures to improve my bowel habits and have had considerable success in that department but at times my hemorrhoids still flare up. Is there any danger in living with them? I've heard so many people say they have had surgery and had them return.
DEAR READER - Hemorrhoids is certainly one of the oldest and most common ailments of mankind. I often explain them as varicose veins of the rectum. Basically, they are large dilated veins. You can have the internal or external type. The external ones are underneath the skin outside the rectal sphincter. They can form a little ball or itch. There are many pain nerve fibers to this area and that's why the external type cause such problems.
The internal type are inside the sphincter. This area does not have pain fibers and you may have no symptoms other than bleeding, sometimes in large amounts.
I'm sending you The Health Letter number 13-12, Hemorrhoids, which will give you more detailed information on this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. As The Health Letter I'm sending you explains in more detail, there are a variety of different ways of treating hemorrhoids, including a variety of different surgical procedures.
If you have a little clot form in one of the external hemorrhoids, it's said to be a thrombosed hemorrhoid. Sometimes these need to be opened and drained.
Of course, if you have a large hemorrhoid that causes recurrent massive bleeding, that can be a medical problem in itself. Otherwise most of the medical problems posed by hemorrhoids are those of discomfort.

The one point I would like all of my readers to recognize is that hemorrhoids may mask some other disease of the rectum. If you develop evidence of hemorrhoids for the first time, you should see a physician and have an examination. Those dilated veins that pop out may do so because of pressure on the veins. A tumor in the rectal area can cause the pressure. Also you can't assume that bleeding of the rectum is simply from hemorrhoids. If you have unexplained bleeding, you must have a medical examination.
Bowel function is important. If you have normal functions, you're less likely to cause pressure in the rectal area and cause an exacerbation of your hemorrhoid problem.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 17 years old and I've got a pretty big problem. I'm not overweight. I weigh 165, I'm 6 feet tall and I'm in good shape. My problem is stretch marks. They cover my hips and buttocks. How can I get rid of this affliction? I was fat as a boy of 12 and I gradually lost weight. Please, Doc, what's the answer?
DEAR READER - There are limited things that can be done to stretch marks once they've appeared. If it is really important to you, you might ask a plastic surgeon who does cosmetic work if there's any improvement he or she might be able to make for you, but I wouldn't expect too much.
I want to include your letter in my column to emphasize that even being fat during childhood can leave its mark on the body.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Polly Cramer
Glue sticks to slacks

DEAR POLLY - As one of my Sunday School pupils handed me a bottle of glue it spilled all over my gabardine pants. I tried softening the glue in warm water but it had already dried so I took them to the dry cleaners but they could not remove it so I wonder if you could suggest anything I could try. - DIANE.
DEAR DIANE - There are many kinds of glue and they are removed different ways. If the dry cleaner had no success it is maybe a lost cause. But the following methods are suggested for removing regular glue or mucilage. Soak in warm water and detergent, apply a bit of household ammonia and rub between the fingers, rinse and wipe dry with a cloth. Or you could try soaking in lukewarm water and white vinegar. Washable fabrics (except acetates) might be sponged with acetone that is left on long enough to dissolve the glue and then wash in warm suds and rinse. Acetone is flammable and should be used with care. Always test the effect of anything on your particular fabric. - POLLY.

DEAR POLLY - These days many of us are saving materials that can be recycled and I have found an easy way to handle old newspapers. They are hard to bundle and get so dirty to handle when being stored before they are picked up. All of us who are savers usually have a lot of the large-size grocery bags so I just fill a heavyweight bag with folded newspapers and they just fit. This makes an easily handled bundle and the bags also go into the recycling process. - KATHERINE.

DEAR POLLY - The half pint freezer boxes are great for holding cake that you want to put in lunch boxes. The cake stays fresh and the icing intact on a nice-sized serving of a single-layer cake. Of course, they are brought back home to be used again and again. - ETHEL.
DEAR POLLY - A reader wanted to know how to remove milk stains from furniture. Dip a cloth in vinegar and rub the stain. Wash with that pure white bar soap, rinse and wipe dry. The milk stain should be gone. (Polly's Note: I would use white vinegar and test before using.) - MURIEL.
Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peavee or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY - To clean stuffed animals I open the back or some other seam, remove all the stuffing as it usually is cotton. I refill them with shredded foam, resew the seam and toss in the washer and they come out beautifully. - MRS. E.S.
Polly's Note: Of course, this is dependent on the fact that the outer covering is washable.
DEAR POLLY - When giving gifts that I have knitted I always cut the fabric content and fabric care portion from one of the labels and include that with the gift card. This informs the recipient about possible allergic reactions as well as the way to properly care for the gift. - ADALYN.

YOUR FAITH IS ONE FREEDOM THEY FOUGHT FOR

The powers that be may change the date of Veterans Day, but they cannot change the meaning and purpose of it: to honor our veterans of many wars fought in many places for many reasons; but the underlying one is always directly or indirectly the preservation of your freedoms, including the right to worship God as you please. It cost them years out of their lives, with many resulting personal losses and hardships and, in some cases, permanent injury. It cost others life itself. To honor them by availing yourself of this freedom will cost you only an hour in Church on Sunday morning.

Hail ye heroes!
Heaven-born band!
Who fought and bled
in Freedom's cause.
Joseph Hopkinson
