

Winter Storm Brings Rain, Snow to Area

BY JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Long overdue fall moisture finally paid a visit to Deaf Smith County Monday night, leaving rainfall of over an inch in the Hereford area and lesser amounts over scattered portions of the county.

Snow began to fall this morning in Hereford.

Precipitation was triggered when a storm system developed in West Texas late Monday afternoon and was joined by extremely cold air moving in out of Colorado in advance of a rapidly developing winter storm.

A travelers advisory remains in effect for the Panhandle today in the wake of the brewing storm and as much as two inches of snow could accumulate in the Panhandle by tonight.

Snow combined with gusty winds could create hazardous driving conditions in the area.

A powdering of snow dotted the ground in the far western section of the county this morning with light snow continuing to fall, but most of the county received rainfall desperately needed by the winter crop into the wee hours of Tuesday morning.

The county has fallen behind on rainfall for the fall season, as normally expected rainfall in late August, September and October failed to materialize.

Lack of moisture has been a major factor in poor performance by the local wheat crop, both dryland and irrigated in most localities, and where sufficient rainfall occurred overnight, things have to be looking up a bit for the wheat crop.

The city of Hereford proper led all locations in rainfall accumulation overnight as a slow soaker accompanied by gusty winds settled in over the city around 9 p.m. Monday. Intermittent pea-sized hail accompanied the arrival of the storm.

By this morning, KPAN radio had logged 1.10 inches of rainfall for the city.

The Raymond Schlabs farm five miles north of Hereford also recorded some of the heaviest moisture with an inch of rain falling there.

The Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant recorded .82 inches of rainfall and the H.L. Hershey farm 13 miles northeast of the city logged .80 inches with light mist continuing this morning.

Pioneer Fertilizer at Milo Center, north of Hereford recorded .70 inches of precipitation, and light rainfall was reported from Northwest Grain, west of Informal Store Attire?

Snow began to fall in Hereford this morning for the first time since last spring as a winter storm pushed into the area. Temperatures were expected to remain cold through tonight, with

Wednesday morning's low predicted to be in the mid 20's. Accumulations of up to two inches are expected. [Brand photo by Rick Grossman]

Stock Exchange Hit By Nuke Protestors

NEW YORK (AP) — From the concrete caverns of Wall Street to a submarine base in Washington state, arm-linked demonstrators were arrested by the busload in non-violent protests against atomic power and weapons.

More than 1,000 persons were collared by New York City police Monday as protesters tangled traffic and blocked doorways in an unsuccessful effort to close the New York Stock Exchange on the 50th anniversary of the 1929 stock market crash.

In Bangor, Wash., some 18 miles west of Seattle, about 90 demonstrators faced court appearances today on charges of unauthorized entry after scrambling over a fence at the Trident nuclear submarine base and parading on base grounds.

Meanwhile, 200 anti-nuclear demonstrators, some wearing red arm bands, blocked doors at the Energy Department Building in Washington, D.C., and protesters were arrested at demonstrations against the Trident in St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Groton, Conn.

Some workers in the Wall Street area had to climb over demonstrators to get to offices and a few scuffles broke out at police barricades as a brass band played Dixieland music and clowns on stilts paraded through the New York City crowd.

"I haven't had this much fun since the 1960s," police Capt. Thomas Ryan told demonstrators.

Leaders of the Wall Street demonstration, aimed at corporate investment in the nuclear industry, said they were satisfied with their protest, although it seemed to have little effect on the stock exchange.

"It was a bit unrealistic to think we could have closed down the market," said Grace Hedemann, press coordinator for the protesters organized by a coalition of 100 anti-nuclear groups. But the protest, managed to get brokers "to notice us, see us and hear us."

Among those taken into custody were Daniel Ellsberg, who made public the Pentagon Papers, and David Dellinger, one of defendants in the Chicago Seven trial that followed riots at the 1968 Democratic National Convention. Some

Potter County DA, Detective Indicted for Perjury Conspiracy

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Efforts to use a murder defendant's confession led to the indictment of the Potter County district attorney and a chief of detectives for conspiracy to commit aggravated perjury.

District Attorney Tom Curtis denounced Monday's indictment as ridiculous, calling it the latest effort to harass him by a grand jury he characterized as "stacked" with political enemies and controlled by the Amarillo Globe-News.

"The allegations are groundless. I'm guilty of no wrongdoing in connection with this case," Curtis said.

The indictment concerned testimony Capt. E.N. Smith gave last February during a pre-trial hearing in Fort Worth.

Smith testified there was no enticement and no taint to the confession of murder defendant Jimmy Vanderbilt because the suspect did not ask for an attorney after he was arrested and brought in for questioning.

Later, a secret tape recording made during the Vanderbilt interrogation revealed he asked several times for a lawyer.

Vanderbilt's earlier conviction on capital murder charges was overturned because Curtis reneged on a promise not to seek the death penalty if he confessed, an appeals court said.

After listening to the secret tape, a judge disallowed use of Vanderbilt's confession, but a Beaumont jury convicted him this summer on circumstantial evidence.

He was sentenced him to death in the slaying four years ago of Katina Moyer, 16-year-old daughter of then-State Rep. Hudson Moyer.

"The grand jury is not interested in harassing me, and they're doing a good job of it," said Curtis, indicted by the same grand jury two months ago on a charge of official misconduct.

Both charges named in the indictments were misdemeanors. The first, issued in August, was dismissed by a judge who said it failed to allege an offense. The grand jury indicted Curtis after he subpoenaed tape recordings made of his

'Kennedy for President' Group Made Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle is joined, the Kennedy mystique versus the power of an incumbent president. The prize, the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

On Nov. 7, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will announce in Boston that he will challenge President Carter for the nomination. On Dec. 4, Carter will announce he wants a second term.

The Kennedy candidacy advanced Monday when his brother-in-law, Stephen Smith, standing in front of a large "KENNEDY '80" banner, announced formation of the Kennedy for President Committee. He said he hoped "all citizens in this nation who share our belief that Sen. Kennedy should be the next president of the United States will join in the campaign we are beginning today."

Smith said one reason Kennedy decided to run was that "he feels the real drift in this country and the sense of a lack of direction."

Asked about the Kennedy committee, White House press secretary Jody Powell said: "The American people will ultimately decide which candidate they wish to trust to lead them in the difficult times ahead."

Both the Kennedy and Carter camps made it clear they expect a tough battle that could remain undecided until balloting begins at the Democratic National Convention in New York City in August. Neither camp expressed much faith in public opinion polls that show the senator

Senate Candidate To Address Young Farmers

The Hereford Young Farmers will host an address by 31st Senatorial District candidate Gerald McCathern of Hereford Thursday night at 7:30 in the Community Room of the Hereford State Bank.

The session is open to YF members, their guests and other interested individuals.

McCathern, who is challenging incumbent Bob Price of Pampa for the state senate seat, will comment on agricultural concerns and other issues in the program.

In addition, he will field questions from members of the Young Farmers.

YF members will also finalize plans for the state convention and discuss arrangements for their annual junior livestock show.

"He gave me his knife, and I told him to put his hands on the building and I searched him. He had a cut across the left knuckles on his left hand," Howard said.

Under cross-examination by defense attorney Jimmy Craig, Howard said that Romero told him he stabbed the men because one of them pulled a knife on him.

According to the written statement that Romero gave the police, Demas "cut me on the hand. When I cut (Demas), I saw Juan move in and I cut him somewhere on the neck."

The statement was introduced as evidence in the trial.

Rosa Gonzales, Demas' sister-in-law, testified that she visited him in the Amarillo hospital days after the stabbing and he told her "that he was going to die and did not want any more operations."

Mrs. Gonzales said that Demas told her what had occurred on the evening of Feb.

'Follies' Casting Begins With Director's Party

The second annual Chamber Follies has been scheduled for Nov. 15-17, and the casting begins tonight at 7 o'clock in the Community center with a special "Director's Party."

Mike Carr, executive vice president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, announced that the Director's Party is open to anyone who might be interested in participating in the show. Carr, who will serve as general chairman of the Follies, added that those not interested in being on stage may find another area in which to become involved.

"The show is a musical variety extravaganza with the cast made up entirely of local citizens. Since we put on the show for the first time last year, we feel more people will know what we're doing this time and we'll have more people involved—both in the show and in the audiences for the three nights," Carr added.

Bob Shelfow, Hollywood, Calif., is the director this year for the Jerome H. Cargill Producing Organization of New York. A professional actor for 23 years, Shelfow has appeared in three movies and a number of television shows.

"During his career, Shelfow has directed 60 stage plays in Hollywood, New York and Chicago. He has worked for the Cargill company the past 16 years and, during the summer, directs stage plays in communities all around the country.

His television credits include parts in "Gunsmoke," "Have Gun Will Travel," "Dobie Gillis," "Wild, Wild West," "The Bold Ones," "Bonanza" and "Kojak."

Shelfow urged all interested citizens to attend the party Tuesday night. "We'll find a part for everyone who wants to participate in the Follies," he announced. Shelfow said a tentative rehearsal schedule will be given tonight—with some parts requiring three times a week meetings; some roles two nights a week, and others about one hour each night.

"The cast in our Follies last year had a great time, and we've heard many citizens express an interest in being in the show this year," reported Carr. "We urge them to attend the party tonight and meet our director."

Victim Testifies in Murder-Assault Trial

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Prosecution witness Juan Trevino testified Monday in 222nd District Court that Nick Romero stabbed him and Pedro Demas, who later died of a slash to his stomach, following an argument over Romero's wife.

Romero is on trial for murder and aggravated assault in connection with the Feb. 17 incident in the front yard at 701 Stanton. The prosecution rested its case Monday, the first day of testimony in the trial.

Trevino, a Friona welder, testified through an interpreter that he and workmate Demas went to Ophelia Leal's residence at 701 Stanton on the afternoon of Feb. 17 then the three went to a liquor store to purchase two cases of beer.

Rose Romero and her infant son arrived at the residence after the three persons returned from the liquor store, Trevino said.

stated on past occasions that he was the father of the child.

"She married Nick Romero later," Trevino testified. "I do not know that I am the child's father, but that's what she said."

Romero arrived at the house "after Rose had already been there about an hour," Trevino stated. "He just walked in. He said (to Mrs. Romero), 'No wonder you wanted to come over here.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Romero went outside and "started arguing extremely," said Trevino, who added that he and Demas went outside "20 or 30 minutes later."

Under examination by Assistant District Atty. Jerry Smith, Trevino said that the two men walked up to the Romero's, and Demas said that Mrs. Romero "was got with either one of us."

Romero called Demas a "son of a bitch" and said he did not believe him, Trevino testified.

"I told him (Demas) we better leave because he (Romero) was not going to believe anything he said. That's when we turned around and he (Romero) hit me from behind," Trevino said.

"He cut my back. I turned around and he cut the side of my face."

Trevino showed the jury two wounds on his back and a scar across the left side of his face.

He testified that he fell down and was crawling toward the house when Romero grabbed him by the feet and tried to pull him back. Trevino said he made it into the house and closed the door.

The witness told Smith that he did not see what happened to Demas but "he walked inside the door and he was holding his intestines in his hands."

Trevino testified that neither he nor Demas were carrying a weapon when the attack occurred. "I have never carried weapons," he told Smith. "That I know of, Pete did not have a knife, either."

Inside the house at the time of the incident were Ms. Leal and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arnesimo Vargas, Trevino

Defense Objects To State Strategy

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Defense attorneys have objected to the state's rebuttal strategy in the Cullen Davis retrial, saying prosecutors tried to use the defendant's constitutional right to remain silent against him.

But chief prosecutor Jack Strickland countered Monday that the defendant and his attorneys were attempting to turn the "constitutional shield into a sword" through a story the defense "fabricated after the arrest."

At issue, was testimony by two FBI agents who said they neither spoke nor refused to speak with the Davis after his arrest on a murder-for-hire charge.

Special Agent Bob Oakley said he made "eye contact" with Davis moments after his arrest, but that there was no conversation.

Special Agent Jim Acree, who was scheduled to return to the stand today, said he arrived at FBI headquarters shortly after Davis was taken into custody, but that he had no occasion to talk with the defendant.

The rebuttal testimony was designed to cast doubts on Davis' testimony that he thought he was working with the FBI during his August 1978 meetings with informant David McCrory.

Television Industry

Criticized by FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) - The television

industry has failed to meet its obligations to children and should be required to set aside minimum amounts of programming for them, the staff of the Federal Communications Commission said today.

The staff, in a report to the commission, said the industry has not complied with voluntary FCC guidelines in effect since 1974 and "is unlikely without further government action to increase voluntarily the amount of educational programming for children."

The report recommended that commercial stations be required to offer at least 2 1/2 hours of programming directed at school-age children and 5 hours aimed at preschoolers a week. All would be on weekdays under the staff proposal.

The staff report saw little hope for improved children's programming on commercial television beyond meeting any mandatory minimum time requirement, however, and urged the commission to encourage alternative program sources such as pay and cable television.

The report also called on public broadcasters to increase children's programming.

Government Index

Shows Economy Up

WASHINGTON (AP) - A government index designed to forecast economic trends showed surprising strength in September, rising by the largest amount since April 1978, the Commerce Department reported today.

The Composite Index of Leading Indicators rose 0.8 percent in September, compared with a 0.1 percent rise in August and a 0.3 percent decline in July. The rise was 0.9 percent in April 1978.

The strong showing, however, reflects the economy before the Federal Reserve Board took sweeping action on Oct. 6 to boost interest rates and tighten the money supply to battle rising inflation.

But it also comes at a time when most economists are predicting a recession that could increase the unemployment rate to above 8 percent.

"The economy was a lot stronger in September than generally expected," said Michael Evans, a private economic consultant.

"But now that the Federal Reserve Board has taken action, many banks are not making any mortgage or consumer loans and this will slow up the economy substantially, particularly in sharply reduced retail sales and housing production," he said.

Carter Names Woman

As Education Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is bringing the first woman ever appointed to the federal appeals bench into his Cabinet as the nation's first secretary of education.

The president was set to nominate Shirley M. Hufstедler, a liberal-to-moderate California Democrat, to oversee the new Department of Education, according to a senatorial aide. The new agency will have a $14 billion budget and about 17,000 employees.

An administration source, who asked not to be identified, confirmed that Mrs. Hufstедler, 54, had been offered the job and had accepted. A formal announcement was expected today.

Roy F. Greenaway, administrative assistant to Sen. Alan D. Cranston, D-Calif., said Monday night that White House officials have advised the senator Mrs. Hufstедler, a Democrat, had been picked. Greenaway said she met with the president Monday.

"I have devoted a great deal of my life to education and have a commitment to education," Mrs. Hufstедler was quoted as saying in today's editions of the Los Angeles Times.

appearance before the grand jury. "I'm confident we will get this one thrown out just like the other indictment was," Curtis said.

"It's a press deal. The newspaper is trying to make the news instead of reporting it, and it's crept into the grand jury system. They're trying to get the grand jury to run interference for their litigation against me and for the libel action I've been contemplating against them for some time," Curtis said.

Jerry Huff, executive editor of the Amarillo newspaper, is on the grand jury which indicted Curtis and Smith. James L. Whyte, vice president and general manager of the newspaper, is on a second grand jury that was recently named.

Curtis said at least three other grand jurors are out to get him — a man he once won a conviction against for violating his grand juror's oath; the secretary of a county commissioner he won a conviction against; and the former investigator for a county attorney he won a conviction against for misapplication for funds.

"And the judge that stacked 'em up is a longstanding political enemy mine. It's beginning to sound a little bizarre, isn't it?" asked Curtis.

Whyte laughed off Curtis' complaint the newspaper controlled the grand juries.

"And next year we're going to choose the president. We just control the whole world. It's ludicrous for him to suggest that," Whyte said.

"He's run roughshod over the public the last two or three years. He threatened a county commissioner with civil rights actions, lawsuits and all sorts of things.

We published a transcript of a tape on it, and he's had a vendetta against us ever since," Whyte added.

The newspaper published a front page story and an editorial concerning the commissioner's complaint in July of 1978 that the district attorney was bullying him and other officials. The transcript was of a tape the commissioner had made secretly of a conversation with Curtis.

Afterward, Curtis forbade Globe-News reporters from talking to anyone on his staff without first obtaining an appointment and made it plain the restriction applied only to the newspaper, not to other media.

The newspaper recently won a court ruling prohibiting Curtis from requiring it to get appointments for interviews unless he also required other media to get appointments.

Storm

the Farmer's Corner area. Rainfall was lighter, both to the east and west of Hereford.

Dawn Co-Op, east of the city in the Dawn community reported an estimated .50 inches of rainfall in that area, and just to the south of Hereford in neighboring Castro County, Easter Grain recorded no rainfall.

Gabe King of the grain firm indicated that hail had fallen in a general area ranging southward from Hereford to Easter, and some damage may have been inflicted on those fields of grain not yet harvested, although most of the grain crops are already out in that area.

In the county's "Wheat Belt" on the sprawling dryland fields in the far western sector, rainfall was appreciably lighter, but snow was falling this morning and the chance remained for accumulating some additional moisture.

Mrs. Bill Page reported only .20 inches of rainfall at Bootleg Corner. Wheat in the immediate Bootleg vicinity had received some fall moisture most other crops went without, and moisture stress was not becoming as critical there as in some other wheat areas. Nevertheless, the moisture is welcome by farmers in that region.

Mrs. Bill White reported no rainfall in the area surrounding the Walcott School, but light snow had covered the ground in that area this morning and flakes were continuing to fall shortly after 8 a.m.

Mrs. Clint Homfeld reported only a light sprinkle of rain at the Homfeld farm 47 miles northwest of Hereford, and a light powder of snow also covered the ground in that area.

Rainfall is particularly timely here in light of the fact that some areas of the county were "getting in pretty bad shape" due to moisture stress on the wheat crop, according to John Fuston, Deaf Smith County ASCS executive director.

"We were getting in rough shape on moisture and rain has been needed all over the county for a while now. Considering the dry conditions we've had this fall, the dryland wheat has managed to hang on reasonably well, and this rain has to be a big help to the wheat crop, if we can just get enough moisture," stated Fuston.

Monday night's arrival of the cold front brought the first real indication of freezing weather to mark the transition from fall to winter.

Blustery conditions are expected to send the mercury plummeting to 26 by Wednesday morning, according to weather observers.

The arrival of the strong storm system triggered at least one tornado and sent severe thunderstorms across vast areas of West and North Central Texas.

A small tornado touched down just before dawn at Bangs, but there were no immediate reports of serious damage or injuries. A tornado warning was issued for Brown County.

Much of West, Northwest and North central Texas remained under a tornado watch throughout the night.

Forecasts called for thunderstorms, including some severe, across central sections of the state. Heavy rain was expected as these storms moved into East Texas by afternoon.

Very cold air was surging southeastward across the state. Highs were to range from the 40s and 50s in Northwest Texas to the 80s in the southeastern third of the state.

Temperatures were expected to plunge into the middle 20s by daybreak Wednesday in Panhandle. Although the front was expected to move into South Texas by late night, early morning temperatures were expected to remain near 70 by early Wednesday.

The severe thunderstorms moved across West Texas into Central Texas by dawn, accompanied by heavy rain, gusty wind and occasional outbursts of hail.

Winds gusted to 74 mph in a thunderstorm at Amarillo late Monday as hail ranging from pea-size to golf ball-size fell. Golf ball-size hail also was reported 4 miles west of Claude and near Muleshoe.

Abiene had wind gusts to 46 mph, pea-size hail and about half an inch of rain in a 30-minute period early today. Some wind damage was reported at Colorado City at 3 a.m. when the storm, accompanied by gusts of up to 45 mph, moved through.

Winds estimated at 50-60 mph, accompanied by hail, struck an area about 5 miles west of Reese Air Force Base near Lubbock shortly after midnight.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s. Extremes ranged from 34 at Dalhart and 38 at Amarillo to 79 at Brownsville and McAllen.

Dollar Jumped in Tokyo Exchange

LONDON (AP) - The dollar jumped in Tokyo today and improved on most other most foreign exchanges. Gold prices also rose.

In Japan, the dollar closed at 237.70 yen, the high for the year and nearly three yen up from 234.77 Monday.

Dealers said the Bank of Japan sold an estimated $300 million to support the yen, weakened by increased oil prices and a troubled Japanese economy.

Mid-morning dollar rates in Europe, compared to late Monday: Frankfurt—1.8112 West German marks, down from 1.8120. Zurich—1.6793 Swiss francs, unchanged.

Paris—4.2370 French francs, up from 4.2355. Amsterdam—2.0171 Dutch guilders, up from 2.0145.

Milan—834.25 Italian lire, up from 834.20.

In London, the British currency opened nearly one cent down at $2.0885. The pound has lost 10 cents against the dollar this month.

Gold prices, which have fallen sharply from an all-time peak $444 an ounce in Zurich on Oct. 2, improved at the opening.

Diplomate Named

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Dr. Gerald G. Payne of Hereford has been named a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP) as a result of passing a certification examination offered by the ABFP.

Dr. Payne is now certified in the medical specialty of family practice. The intensive four-day written examination is designed to prove the candidate's ability in the areas of internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry and community medicine.

To qualify for the examination a physician must have successfully completed three years of residency training in family practice. There are some 375 such training programs in teaching hospitals and university medical centers across the United States.

ABFP diplomates also must continue to show proof of competence in the field of comprehensive, continuing care of the family by being recertified every six years. No other medical specialty requires diplomates to prove competence on a continuing basis.

The latest group of diplomates brings the total number to more than 22,000. Most are members of the Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors.

The academy was the first national M.D. group to require members to take continuing medical study, and was chiefly responsible for securing specialty status for family practice.

17. "He said he was running and tripped and fell, and when he turned around, he got cut," she testified.

Demas underwent five operations for his injury—one at Deaf Smith General and four in Aarillo. He died 28 days after the incident.

Dr. C.E. Rush testified that he treated both men at Deaf Smith General following their admittance to the emergency room.

Dr. Rush said Demas had a "large" laceration on the left side of his lower chest and a deep slash on the back of his neck.

He testified that Trevino had been cut on the left side of his face "from his eyebrow to the back of his neck" and had smaller lacerations on his back. Trevino was hospitalized for three days. Dr. Rush said.

Also testifying for the state Monday was Amarillo pathologist Dr. R.M. Nugent Jr., who performed an autopsy on Demas; Mrs. Leal; and a neighbor, Nanch Perales.

Mrs. Leal said she did not see the incident because she was in her bedroom at the time, but aided both injured men after they walked back into her house.

Mrs. Perales said she, too, had not witnessed the fight, but saw Romero, Trevino, Demas and Mrs. Romero near the front of her residence at 703 Stanton just before she learned of the stabbings. The nine-man two-woman jury is expected to deliberate this afternoon after the defense finishes.

Judge George W. Miller ordered the trial to begin Monday morning with 11 jurors after learning that a male member of the panel had suffered a heart attack.

Kennedy

leading the president among Democrats. "We're going to pay very little attention to the polls," said Smith.

Powell has said repeatedly that the president would fight for every delegate to the nominating convention.

"We look forward to an interesting campaign and to a close examination of the candidates and their philosophies of government and their records of accomplishment," said Powell.

Smith, meeting with reporters, made it clear at the start that the campaign was on, that there was no longer any need for political charades to maintain that Kennedy was still making up his mind.

"This is not an exploratory committee," Smith said. "It's a campaign committee."

While both sides are talking about leadership, there are other issues that will play major roles.

Certain to be raised is the incident at Chappaquiddick in which a car driven by Kennedy went off a bridge and Mary Jo Kopechne, a passenger, drowned.

Kennedy has made it clear he will make opposition to administration energy and economic policies a major part of his campaign.

Powell's reference to "philosophies of government and records of accomplishment" echoed the White House theme that Kennedy is a big-spending liberal out of step with the times and that despite his 17 years in the Senate and his campaign for national health insurance, he has been unable to get his health bill out of committee.

Ann Landers

Liquor in Offices

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and his assistant have fallen into the habit of having cocktails in the office at closing time. Their secretaries join them. My husband never kept liquor in his office when he was in business alone, but now that he has this young men in with him, things have changed.

We live in a small community where gossip travels fast. I don't think anything improper is going on with these young women, but it would not sound very good if the word got around that they were sitting around drinking after office hours.

I hate to make an issue of it, Ann, but perhaps if you print my letter and offer a few comments, it might help. Please tell me: What are your views on liquor in offices?--Stranger After 25 Years

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My view on liquor in offices is simply that it doesn't belong there. Offices are for work, and liquor is for recreation. When you start to mix the two, you're bound to get less work and more recreation.

Cocktailing with secretaries is a bummer. It can also lead to a heck of a lot less work and a great deal more recreation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 22-year-old woman who will be marrying a very special young man soon. I don't intend to take his surname. My maiden name is a nice-sounding one, and I always have liked it.

My fiance does not mind that I will not take his name, but I'm having trouble getting him to agree to allow the children that may result from our marriage to take my name instead of his.

I don't want you to print his name in the paper, but it's one of the odd-ball handles that lends itself to a ridiculous abbreviation. All his nieces and nephews are called by a crazy name, and I don't want to handicap my children with it.

As a compromise, I am willing to take a completely different, mutually acceptable name.

Am I being outrageous and unreasonable, as he says? What possible legal consequences could result from our changing our name--such as inheritances?--Much Ado About Plenty

DEAR ADO: Yes, you are being outrageous and unreasonable--also insensitive and foolish.

The legal aspects could be time- and energy-consuming, confusing and messy. Regarding an "inheritance": A well-heeled relative might take a dim view of the name change and leave a bundle to someone who had sense enough to accept a less fancy name and be proud of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After being a sweet, dumb girl for 26 years, I got sick of never have a date. I had my hair dyed red, lost 25 pounds and took a job where the action was.

In the past four months, I have met seven married men who want someone on the side, three homosexuals who would like a cover, a big shot who has a Cadillac but no money for gas, and a guitar player who smokes crazy cigarettes.

Where are the decent men, anyway?--Beulah

DEAR B: You don't say what kind of job you took, but I suggest you quit. Find a position where decent people work. Get involved in volunteer activities, night school classes, political organizations, etc. The list is endless.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I never approach Halloween that I don't remember my first brush with discrimination.

I've never told you this before, but I was the first "no-talent" mother to integrate a neighborhood of mothers who were art school graduates. When I looked at the house the realtor tried to warn me. He said, "See that mailbox next door to you? The one with the flowers and butterflies hand painted? Mrs. Walters did that free hand."

A bit farther down the street he pointed to another house and said, "Isn't that a clever play area with the Peter Pan motif Mrs. Tierney did that. She's very handy with tools. In fact, all the women in this neighborhood can make anything out of nothing."

I was undaunted. You can't keep a person out of a neighborhood just because they don't have imagination. When they knew me, they'd learn to love me and to accept me for what I am. I was wrong.

Their cakes at the bake sale made mine look like sliced bread. Their garbage cans were hand painted with cartoons and cute sayings. Their hedges were clipped and shaped to look like farm animals. Their hand smoked yokes for their daughters' dresses were everywhere and macrame hung from every porch.

They turned old discards into museum pieces, decouped until they fainted and looked the other way the Christmas I bent a coat hanger, twisted nose tissue over it and called it a wreath.

But it was Halloween that did me in...that single day when your children turn to you for imagination and creativity...the oneday of the year when you must transcend phantasy.

There was something about the hand-carved pumpkin in the window across the street I couldn't put my fingers on. Then I realized it had capped teeth.

The porch on the other side of us had a replica of Ray Bolger right out of the Wizard of Oz. When the doorbell rang I was greeted by a parade of monsters, pirates, queens, animals, ballerinas and space ships right out of the wax museum. My daughter came home in tears when everyone wanted to know what she was doing running around the street with a grocery bag on her head.

I learned a lesson that night. You may exist in a clever neighborhood, but you can't be happy there. They'd have to bus me in to get me back.

BRUNCH FARE

Pineapple Orange Compote
Roosevelt Eggs Bacon
Oatmeal Muffins Coffee

OATMEAL MUFFINS

My sister Phyllis favors this recipe.

1 1/2 cups fork-stirred all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 cups quick-cooking oats
1/2 cup raisins
2 eggs
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; stir in oats and raisins. Beat eggs, milk, butter and vanilla until blended; add to flour mixture and stir just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Fill buttered muffin-pan cups 2-3rds full. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes. Serve at once or reheat. Makes 12 to 18, depending on whether muffin-cups are medium or large size.

EVENING REFRESHER

Bananas Foster Coffee

BANANAS FOSTER

Repeated by request.

4 firm but ripe bananas
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup cup firmly packed light brown sugar
Freshly ground nutmeg to taste
1/2 cup banana liqueur
1/2 cup light rum, warmed
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Peel bananas and cut each in half lengthwise and crosswise. In a 10-inch skillet stir together the butter and sugar over moderately low heat until bubbling. Add the bananas in a single layer and cook a few minutes. Turn bananas and cook only until slightly softened -- a few more minutes. Sprinkle with nutmeg and liqueur. Off heat, pour the rum over the bananas and ignite with a long match. When the flame subsides, serve over ice cream. Makes 4 servings.

4-H Firsthand

By: Agnes Taylor
Assistant County
Extension Agent

Teenagers spent a record $32.2 billion on goods and services last year, but they often do not buy wisely. This is where 4-H can play an important role.

To help youth of all ages become smarter shoppers, the national 4-H consumer education program offers girls and boys 9-19 a variety of opportunities to learn and practice consumer decision-making skills. This includes consumer information sources, comparison shopping and the costs of buying on credit. The consumer education program is conducted by the Extension Service and supported by Montgomery Ward and Co.

Fun as well as educational, all 4-H consumer education activities are planned around the interests and daily life experiences of youngsters. 4-H members can tour a local business and discuss careers with the manager, develop a financial resources plan for purchasing a "big ticket" item, or study the influence of advertising on their buying habits.

Activities for younger 4-H'ers include shopping for a specific item in three stores and comparing quality and prices, or playing "Let's Make A Deal"--a trading game that helps them distinguish between needs and wants.

4-H members in the consumer education program are eligible for recognition provided by Montgomery Ward and arranged by the National 4-H Council. Incentives include six $1,000 scholarships at the national level; an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago for one 4-H'er per state; and four medals of honor per county.

More information on the 4-H consumer education program is available from the county Extension office.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on.

The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

Call between 11 pm and 8 am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it.

You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.

New this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the weekend. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Reach out and touch someone.

Mrs. Miller Feted On 75th Birthday

Approximately 100 friends and relatives honored Mrs. Gladys Miller Saturday afternoon during a reception in honor of her 75th birthday. The courtesy was held in the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Miller received guests with her children and their spouses, including Mr. and Mrs. Jed Miller of Odessa, Mrs.

Jerry Jacobs of Raymondville, Joy Dones of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller of Flagstaff, Ariz.

An autumn floral arrangement decorated the main table, where coffee, punch, mints and nuts were served with a three-tiered cake, trimmed with confectionate chrysanthemums. At a nearby table, photographs representing different periods of Mrs. Miller's life were displayed, dating from pictures of her as a bride to photos of her great-grandchildren.

Among the out-of-town guests attending were her brother-in-law, Bill Miller of Fort Worth; her sisters, Ann Cazalas and Francis Boessing of Houston; and Mrs. Harold Erwin and Mrs. Jim Ford of Amarillo.

Her grandchildren and great-grandchildren in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Jody Miller with Danny and Kara of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Cochran with Whitney and Erica of Odessa; Mrs. Allen Baker with Jenny and Angie of Fort Worth; Douglas Miller of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lehmick with Michael of Canyon; Linda Bea and Brent Dones of Lubbock; and Vickie, Debbie and Celeste Miller of Flagstaff.

The Lighter Side

DAVIE, Fla. (AP) — First Thor lost his front teeth. Then he lost his job over his new ones! It was beginning to look like he might be leading a man's life.

Thor is a 28-month-old police dog who broke two of his front teeth.

"The dog didn't eat," said his owner, police officer Mike-Moore. "He lost 20 pounds."

Moore was referred to Dr. J. Scott Owen by the U.S. Police Canine Association. Owen, a veterinarian, had done dental work on dogs in the Air Force.

After six weeks of trips to McOwen's office in Delray Beach, Thor had a bright smile, highlighted by four shiny metal-capped teeth.

But someone in the police department thought the new choppers looked overly sharp, and worried that somebody bitten by them might sue the town as a result.

Thor was suspended until the town insurance agent concluded the teeth posed no more of a problem than the dog's regular teeth.

Moore says he never doubted the capped teeth "are not as sharp, not as long and not as dangerous as the regular teeth God gave him in the first place."

OREM, Utah (AP) — Students, parents and townspeople wanted to name their new school "Rocky Mountain High," but the school board thought "Lincoln High" was more appropriate.

What caused the controversy? Harold Jacklin, Alpine School District administrative assistant, said the board didn't like the idea of potential association with a John Denver song named "Rocky Mountain High."

Was It A Rematch or Preview?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ask a pro football fan which two teams played in the last Super Bowl and which two will be in the next one and the odds are you'll get the same answer.

In more than one corner of the country, Sunday's game here between the Dallas Cowboys and the Pittsburgh Steelers was hailed not so much as a rematch of Super Bowl XIII as a preview of Super Bowl XIV.

It's as though 26 teams were being kissed off seven games from the start of the playoffs.

Detroit? San Francisco? You can make a case for ignoring them and a few other clubs who are just about resigned to playing out the schedule. But Tampa Bay? Houston? Washington? Cleveland? New England? Philadelphia? San Diego? And others? One little bounce of the ball can send one or two of them flying into Pasadena next January while unceremoniously bouncing last year's Super Bowl participants into oblivion for another season.

And the Cowboys and Steelers know it all too well.

"Usually a team that plans on being in the Super Bowl is certain not to be there," Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach said after the 14-3 loss to the Steelers. "If you plan to be there, you're sure to be knocked out of the running."

His counterpart for Pittsburgh, Terry Bradshaw, also downplayed the significance of the meeting. "Just another game," he said. "One of 16. Sure, it's nice to hear people say it's a preview, 'cause if it is it means we'll be in Pasadena. But we don't think that way. We can't afford to."

"Maybe we'll be in it again and maybe Dallas will, too," added Lynn Swann, the Steelers' lithe receiver.

Only one other team has a record as good as the 7-2 owned by Dallas and Pittsburgh. That's Tampa Bay. And the Bucs aren't about to concede anything to the Cowboys and Steelers.

"A couple of weeks ago the world champions got beat — beat bad," Tampa Bay quarterback Doug Williams said, reflecting on the 34-10 pounding Pittsburgh took in Cincinnati. "You can have a bad game anytime, now or in the playoffs. If it happens then, goodbye."

"You don't win this game just on talent. You win on breaks, too. Cleveland has a lot of talent but maybe not quite as much as Dallas. But they beat up on the Cowboys. You've got to have talent to get into the playoffs, but after that"

Eight teams are within one game of the Steelers, Cowboys and Bucs.

"There's seven more games and a couple of playoffs that are going to decide whose in the Super Bowl," says Joe Theismann, quarterback of the 6-3 Washington Redskins.

Philadelphia is tied with the Redskins in the National Conference East, one game behind the Cowboys, and, "Anything can happen," says Eagles linebacker Bill Bergey.

Says offensive tackle Leon Gray of Houston, one game back of Pittsburgh in the American Conference Central race: "Nobody's packing their bags. OK, Dallas and Pittsburgh are certainly the teams you look for in the playoffs, but a lot of others will be there, too. One little mistake and maybe one of them will be out of it after one game."

Top Three Positions Remain Same

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Bobby Bowden is historically aware of Florida State's lofty status this week in The Associated Press football rankings. And he's sky-high about it.

"We were once ranked No. 9 last year, but we dropped out the next week," the Florida State football coach said. "So this is very exciting."

Bowden's euphoria stems from Florida State's highest ranking in history as the nation's No. 6 team today. The Seminoles moved up from No. 8 in this week's poll after defeating a strong Louisiana State squad 24-19 in Baton Rouge's so-called "Death Valley" last Saturday.

"That stadium is as tough as any in the country for a visiting team," Bowden said. "The fans are close to the field and they're screaming all the time. I've been in lots of tough places, Oklahoma among them, but none worse."

Also obviously instrumental in Florida State's rise in the rankings was the television exposure. Bowden has those numbers, too.

"I think we were seen by 84 per cent of the nation," Bowden said, vitally aware of such a public relations factor.

Now that the Seminoles have made a name for themselves, Bowden believes they have every right to be ranked with the Alabamas and Nebraskas of the college football world.

"This is definitely the strongest team we've had so far," said the onetime West Virginia coach now in his fourth year at Florida State. "Our defense has been the difference."

Undefeated in seven games thus far, Florida State is on a course toward Bowden's finest record in Tallahassee. The last two years, the Seminoles compiled records of 10-2 and 8-3 and made visits to the Peach and Tangerine bowls.

Meanwhile, the Alabamas and Nebraskas remained in their accustomed places — the Crimson Tide holding onto No. 1 and Nebraska No. 2 after impressive victories.

Alabama received 46 first-place votes and 1,235 of a possible 1,260 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters after a 31-7 victory over Virginia Tech. Nebraska received seven first-place votes and 1,176 points for No. 2 after a 38-10 rout of Colorado.

Southern Cal remained No. 3, collecting four first-place ballots and 1,083 points after defeating California 24-14. Houston edged Ohio State for fourth place, 1,058 to 1,052 after a 13-10 triumph over Arkansas. Ohio State routed Michigan State 42-0.

After Florida State, the remainder of the Top Ten were No. 7 Oklahoma, No. 8 Texas, No. 9 Arkansas and No. 10 Michigan.

Brigham Young and Pittsburgh were 11th and 12th for the second week in a row, followed in the Second Ten by Notre Dame, Wake Forest, Purdue, Washington, Tennessee, North Carolina, Penn State and Auburn.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court was asked to make two National Football League stars return money they took to sign with a World Football League team that folded before they could join it.

Rayfield Wright and Jethro Pugh, all-pros with the Dallas Cowboys at the time, got $75,000 each to play out their options and sign with the Birmingham Americans. The team folded while Pugh was in his option year at Dallas and while Wright had a year to go with the NFL team. Although another franchise was granted to Birmingham, the two players stayed at Dallas.

Pugh retired and Wright is still a member of the Cowboys.

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Americans Trey Walke, Tom Gorman and Bruce Manson scored first-round victories in a $75,000 European Open Indoor Championship tennis tournament.

NEW YORK (AP) — Guard Michael Ray Richardson of the New York Knicks was named the National Basketball Association's Player of the Week for the period ending Sunday, Oct. 28.

Manson whipped Alvaro Fillol of Chile 6-0, 6-1, Gorman defeated fellow American Tom Gullikson 6-4, 6-4 and Walke rallied to beat David Schneider of South Africa 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

The 6-foot-5 Richardson, New York's No. 1 draft choice last season, had 51 points, 26 rebounds, 26 assists and 11 steals in three games last week, shooting .594 from the field.

Rodeo Team Picks Up Points

Members of the Hereford High School Rodeo Team picked up some important individual and team points as they traveled to Childress to participate in the Childress Tri-State High School Rodeo over the weekend.

The HHS girls' rodeo team wound up their showing with a second place finish in team points.

Cathy Trolinder finished second in the goat tying event with a time of 12.24, picking up five points toward the finals in June.

Miss Trolinder also finished fourth in breakaway roping with a 4.75 time, good for three points.

Tania Willson was fifth in breakaway roping with a time of 5.36, and was fourth in poles with a time of 22.35.

Sid Howard paced the HHS boys' rodeo team with a first place finish in calf roping. Howard's time was 12.37.

Lee Washington was sixth in calf roping with a 14.77 clocking.

Brett Cunningham's time of 11.51 was good for a fourth place finish in ribbon roping.

Overall, the HHS boys' team picked up 6 1/2 points.

The HHS rodeo team's next outing will be Saturday and Sunday during the Slaton competition, to be held at Lubbock.

The Omaha, Neb., Country Club has named the first hole on that course, the "O'Connor Hole," a tribute to the caddy-master at the course.

Longhorn Offense Gains 449 Yards

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas backs and receivers, operating with a grade-A offensive line, had 449 yards total offense against Southern Methodist, and Texas Coach Fred Akers warns the Longhorns are improving.

Texas thrashed Southern Methodist, 30-6, Saturday, one week after Arkansas had upset Texas, 17-14, to spoil the Longhorns' bid for the No. 1 spot in college football.

Line Coach Leon Manley said left tackle Craig Rider graded 95 in the Southern Methodist game, and center Wes Hubert and tackle Terry Tausch each graded 90. The other offensive linemen graded in the high 80s.

Texas, 5-1, and Texas Tech, 3-3-1, will play here Saturday before a sellout crowd of nearly 78,000.

Akers told his weekly news conference Monday that Tech "is stronger now than at any time this season," including a 21-7 opening game loss to powerful Southern California.

"We've caught them at the strongest they've been or could possibly hope to be," said Akers.

"We're starting to regain momentum," he said. "We showed significant improvement last week... We expect to be an improved football team this week, and we're going to need to be."

Traditionally, he said, the Texas-Texas Tech game "has been hard-hitting and very exciting, and we expect this one to be the same. They have a lot of ability, they're well coached, and they come to play."

Akers said Texas coaches had selected quarterback Donnie Little — "who had his best game of the year" — and safety Ricky Churchman as the most valuable offensive and defensive players in the Southern Methodist game.

Akers noted Little had approached 200 yards total offense and had directed an 87-yard touchdown drive in 2 minutes and 20 seconds.

Churchman tied linebacker Robin Sendlein for the team lead in tackles with 14, including a "spectacular" stop where he dived over blocker Craig James and slammed Charles Wagoner for a loss.

"One of the great things" about the game, Akers said, was starting running backs A.J. "Jam" Jones and LeRoy King were able to rest injuries while subs Brad Beck and Rodney Tate played.

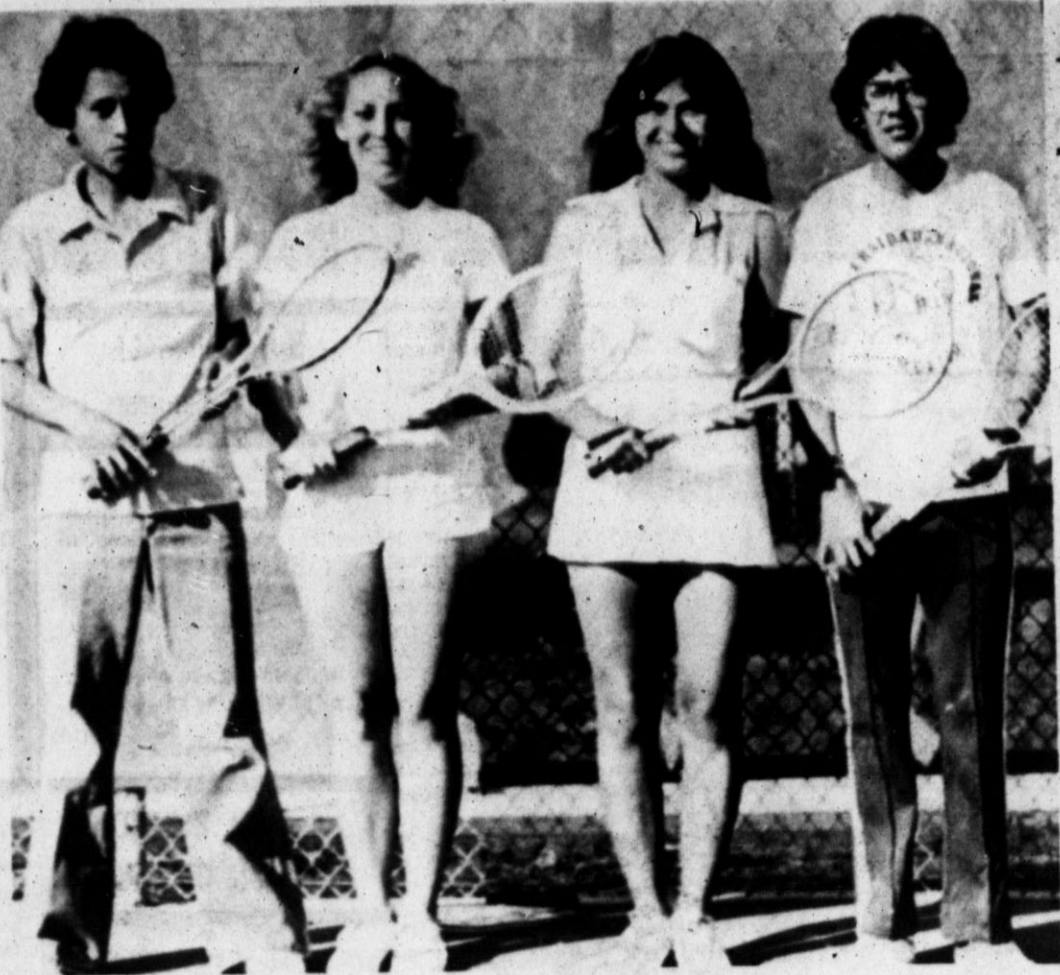

Beck and Tate combined for 134 yards rushing and each scored a touchdown.

"For the first time this season we've got depth at that position we can rely on," said Akers.

Apparently the only significant new injuries were to special team players Charles Vaclavik and Jackie Wallace. Vaclavik bruised a thigh, and Wallace bruised a knee.

Asked what he thought of Houston's 13-10 victory over previously undefeated Arkansas, Akers said, "We'll accept any help... any help along the way will be appreciated."

Texas and unbeaten Houston play Nov. 10 at Houston, possibly for the Southwest Conference championship.

Howser Appointed Yankee Manager To Replace Martin

NEW YORK (AP) — Perhaps the most surprising part of Dick Howser's appointment as manager of the New York Yankees is the fact that he got the job and Gene Michael didn't.

The reason is that the Yankees have other plans for Michael, who is expected to be named the team's general manager Thursday when Howser is officially introduced at a news conference.

Howser replaced Billy Martin after a brawl involving Martin in a Bloomington, Minn., hotel left marshallman salesman Joseph Cooper of Lincolnshire, Ill. with a cut lip requiring 15 to 20 stitches.

Martin's public explanation was that the man had fallen and cut himself. But privately, the manager got word to Yankees owner George Steinbrenner that he had hit the man, a source told The Associated Press. That disclosure convinced Steinbrenner to make the change.

Martin was reported distraught and unavailable for comment Monday.

Michael had been considered a prime candidate for the job after winning the International League pennant in his first season with Columbus. He is a favorite of Steinbrenner, who has used him in a variety of organizational capacities including coach and administrative assistant.

Now Michael is expected to fill a front office post that has been more or less vacant with the Yankees. Cedric Tallis, a club vice president, has operated as GM without portfolio.

Yankee-watchers will recall that Bob Lemon was supposed to get the GM job. That was part of the grand plan Steinbrenner pieced together following Martin's tearful resignation July 24, 1978 and his triumphant return on Old Timers Day at Yankee Stadium five days later.

The scenario had Lemon remaining as manager through 1979 and then yielding that post to Martin who would return for 1980. But when the Yankees struggled early last season, Steinbrenner speeded up the timetable and returned Martin to the manager's post in June.

Lemon then drifted into an undefined front office limbo, operating as something less than GM. Meanwhile, Martin, seeming almost serene, was unable to move the Yankees up in the standings but was set as manager until the Bloomington affair.

Howser, the Yankees third base coach for 10 years, had left the club after the 1978 season to become baseball coach at Florida State University in Tallahassee, Fla. His team posted a 43-16 record in his first year there and he seemed set, too, until Steinbrenner called him in the dugout Saturday during a game against Indian River Junior College. The two men met Sunday and the change was made.

The news stunned most Yankee players.

"I'm surprised he was named," said outfielder Roy White, who has declared for this week's free agent draft. "I thought Gene Michael was the more likely choice. He'd been mentioned a lot as the successor to the Yankee manager's job."

White called Howser a good friend whose sense of humor kept the Yankees loose.

"I thought he was very happy with his position at Florida State and that he had no intention of coming back to the major league level," White said.

Shortstop Bucky Dent, who signed a new Yankees contract Monday instead of trying the free agent draft, called Martin a good manager.

"I felt very sad that Billy was fired," Dent said. "He didn't bother me and I didn't bother him. I guess that's a pretty good relationship. I think I had a good chemistry with Billy. I think will have a very good relationship with Dick Howser. He will be a good manager. I think he'll be an authoritative, calm manager."

First baseman Jim Spencer, who also signed a new contract Monday, called Howser "a mild-mannered, easy-going guy. He'll expect 100 percent and in his quiet way, he'll make sure you give it."

Loerwald Wins Football Contest

S.T. Loerwald was the winner of last week's Hereford Brand Football Contest. Loerwald missed only three games and will receive the $25 prize for his effort.

Five persons tied for second place, all missing four games and all having tiebreaker scores of 42. The actual tiebreaker score was 24. Those tying for second were H.L. Johnson, Natividad Torres, Tracy Shephard, Cawthon Bryant, and Joyce Wartes. The second and third place money will be combined and each person will receive a check for $5.00.

Four other people missed four games but were off on their tiebreaker scores, they were George Loerwald, Darla Duggan, Nita Shepard, and Reggie Barker.

Practice Golf Match Held Saturday

A practice golf match was held Saturday at the municipal Golf Course by the Hereford High varsity golf team with Coronado and Lubbock High traveling to Hereford to take part.

Coronado won the match with a total score of 318; The Hereford "B" flight was second with a score of 333, Lubbock "B" flight was second with a score of 333, Lubbock "B" was third with a score of 343, Lubbock "A" fourth with a 346, and Hereford "A" came in fifth with a 350.

The Medalists were Tony Flore of Hereford with a 74 and Alex Gumula of Coronado with a

The Hereford "A" team consisted of Dee Hairgrove, Scot Skinner, Michael Craig, Greg Robinson and Bill Kirk. The "B" members were Tony Flores, David Dudding, John Foster, Charlie Kerr and Curt Beard.

Shooting Singles were Frankie Garcia, Paul Jorde, Dean Howard, Bret Barrick.

The next practice meet will be held at the Municipal Golf Course Saturday when Plainview comes to visit.

The Hereford Brand will take an in depth look at the High School Golf team in Sunday's paper.

Disgust Didn't Get Martin Fired

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

It wasn't disgust or impatience that provoked Yankee Owner George Steinbrenner to yank the rug from under his belligerent manager, Billy Martin — it was brotherly concern. "George was afraid something terrible would happen to Billy if he continued in this bar-room gunslinger role," says Bill Fugazy, a close friend of both men. "He feared that, if this were allowed to continue, Billy might be killed or might kill somebody."

After the stunning Sunday night announcement that Martin had been fired — his second loss of the Yankee job in 15 months — because of another brawl — Steinbrenner went into seclusion, refusing interviews, and Martin was conveniently out of pocket.

So, to get the facts on what triggered the latest episode in the continuing Steinbrenner-Martin drama, we turn to the man who has been a non-dispassionate observer from the beginning.

Fugazy, who heads Continental Travel Corp., a vast travel-limousine leasing-credit card empire, is an intimate of the great and near-great in sports. He is often seen on TV with comedian Bob Hope. Golfer Arnold Palmer stays at his home during the Westchester Golf Classic. Fugazy is a golfing partner of both Martin and Steinbrenner.

"The two guys really like each other," Fugazy said. "They've disagreed a lot but each admires the other's forcefulness and leadership qualities."

"Billy once told me: 'George is good to me. I love working with him.'"

Amarillo Run

10,000 meters through the streets of Amarillo! That's how far about 300 runners will go Nov. 10th in the First Annual Amarillo National Bank 10K Classic. Plans for the run were announced today by Chip Gilmour, vice-president of marketing at Amarillo National Bank.

"In more familiar terms, 10,000 meters is about 6.2 miles," said Gilmour. "It's a distance that's long enough to be challenging but short enough where a lot of people can participate. We expect it to become one of Amarillo's premier running events."

The event starts off at Amarillo National Bank's new drive-up plaza on 11th and Taylor. The course goes west out 11th Street to Julian Blvd., then down Crockett Street to Austin Jr. High. Runners will circle the school then retrace their route to the finish at the new drive-up plaza.

"We've designed the run so virtually anybody can participate. There are eight age group divisions for both men and women from 13 and under to 50 and over," said Gilmour.

"All entrants will receive 10K Classic t-shirts. The top-three finishers in each division will get special awards. The overall winner will be awarded a 10K Classic Cup," said Gilmour.

"The Lone Star Runners Club has done a great job organizing the run," Gilmour continued, "they'll have times posted at the 1, 3 and 5 mile mark and an aid station at the half-way point. There will also be refreshments at the finish line for all finishers."

Entry fee is $5.00. Entry blanks are available at sporting good stores in Amarillo plus the YMCA, YWCA and from Amarillo National Bank.

"If somebody wants to run and can't find an entry blank, said Gilmour, "just write or call us at the bank, we'll be happy to send you one. It's going to be a fun time. We want lots of folks to participate."

Is 'Lam' Jones Worth Four People

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Johnny "Lam" Jones — a senior pass receiver-running back with Olympic speed — has been praised as one of the most valuable members of the Texas football team since he was a freshman.

Saturday, however, he may have received the ultimate compliment.

When coaches sent Jones onto the field in the Southern Methodist game, Coach Fred Akers noted, four Longhorn players "tried to come out."

"He's valuable," Akers laughed, "but he's not worth four."

Coffee needs study

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some time back there was a spate of news stories about coffee, tea, cocoa and colas causing breast disease. The report said that if women stopped drinking these beverages their breasts improved. If you wanted to try this, could you use decaffeinated coffee? I'm sure there are many women who would like some information on this.

DEAR READER — Yes, you've quoted those news stories accurately. Basically, the study was of women who had breast lumps or nodules that were not cancer.

The first report stated that about 20 of these women stopped using coffee, tea, colas and chocolate and that 65 percent of them had a complete resolution of breast lumps and symptoms in from two to six months.

That's very encouraging information although the reasons for it may not yet be established. Dr. John P. Minton of Ohio State University Medical School in Columbus, Ohio, attributed it to the xanthine, such as caffeine found in coffee, and theophylline or theobromine, which are also found in some of these drinks. He felt they interfered with the basic nucleic acids such as AMB that are associated with cell regeneration.

Our body undergoes constant regeneration with old cells being eliminated and new replacement cells being formed. One of the side products in the chemical reactions for cell regeneration is xanthine.

It's probably true that a woman could use decaffeinated coffee. But since these are preliminary trials and it's not definitely established what the mechanism is that causes the reversal that's been observed, that may not be the case. Additional studies will surely be needed to establish all the aspects of this very important and exciting observation.

Coffee in particular contains a lot of additional complex chemicals that can be irritating to the digestive tract and may, indeed, have other overall effects on the body, particularly in individuals who consume large amounts of coffee, whether decaffeinated or not.

Clearly, the caffeine in coffee is the main drug that acts as a cell stimulant and increases mental alertness. In some instances, small amounts of this have some value. But in many instances, they increase a person's tendency to anxiety and tension.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-4, Coffee, Tea, Colas And Chocolate. It will give you more information on how these drinks affect the body. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Coffee is an example of a natural food that has not been adequately evaluated. Whenever we think of a synthesized chemical in our food, we begin to get excited and worry about what it might do to the body, but we forget that a lot of the naturally occurring foods that we use may be potentially hazardous too.

I don't believe that coffee has been adequately studied. It is interesting that the Mormons have a much lower rate of colon cancer than most other groups in the United States and they use little, if any, coffee.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The U.S. Department of Justice has joined Texas Attorney General Mark White in filing legal claims against SEDCO, Inc. of Dallas, the oil drilling firm founded by Gov. Bill Clements.

Last Tuesday the Justice Department filed a multi-million dollar damage suit against the company, claiming that the off-shore rig used to drill Ixtoc I (site of the largest oil well blowout in world history) was unseaworthy and that its crew including SEDCO employees was "incompetent and negligent."

The federal government still has not made a decision whether to file similar claims against other parties connected with the oil spill.

In the Texas suit filed two weeks ago, Mark White included Pemargo, the Mexican drilling firm which had leased SEDCO's rig, as a negligent party.

Gov. Clements had blasted White's actions as "politically motivated" and he repeated the theme when he learned of the federal government's lawsuit.

"I'm glad to get another bird in the tree. Jimmy Carter has now joined Billy Goldberg (state Democratic chairman), Attorney General Mark White and Harry Hubbard (president of Texas AFL-CIO). They're all three twirling the same song," Clements said.

Clements' son, Gill Clements (SEDCO's president) said the federal government's suit was a "lot more responsible claim" than previous filings related to the oil blowout because damages were based on $6 million cleanup costs estimated by the U.S. Coast Guard.

About 50 individuals, corporations and governmental entities registered claims Tuesday against SEDCO which totaled more than $50 million.

Bullock Blasts Mayors — State Comptroller Bob Bullock, reportedly resting well at home following hospitalization two weeks ago for a mild heart attack, was on the attack himself last week blasting a group of mayors who suggested raising the sales tax. The suggestion came from Gov. Clements' Mayors Advisory Committee to allow cities to increase their local option sales tax from one percent to three percent.

Saying the mayors should have their heads examined, Bullock said the proposed hike "is nothing short of greed" and will lead the state down the road to an income tax.

Blacks Join Clements — Clements put together another advisory group last week, this one composed of more than 100 black businessmen who had to ante up $125 apiece for the privilege.

Clements called the group "the cream of the crop." Most of the money will go to retire Clements' gubernatorial campaign debt, estimated at more than $2 million.

The idea of paying to be a member of an advisory group brought a rebuke from black legislator Rep. Paul Ragsdale of Dallas. Calling it "ridiculous," Ragsdale said "I guess that is the governor's business connection. You pay to be in his administration. You pay to be his supporter."

Banker Sues Senator — A Galveston banker filed a grievance with the State Bar of Texas last week, charging State Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz of Galveston with misconduct.

The grievance filed by Shearn Moody, Jr. stems from lawsuits filed by Schwartz and Moody. Schwartz is suing Moody for $245,000 in unpaid legal claims and Moody is counter-suing Schwartz for over $202,000 in unpaid loans.

Federal and legislative officials are "looking into a grievance of another nature, this one alleging sexual abuse of a woman employee within the Texas Health Department."

State Rep. Wilhelmina Delco of Austin, who initiated the probe, said the woman complained to her of sexual harassment by a superior.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Polly Cramer
Cleaning a mildewed screen

DEAR POLLY — Can you please tell me how to clean a glass-beaded projection screen? Ours has mildew on it plus dust and dirt that have collected through the years.

—N.G.T.
DEAR N.G.T. — I was once advised that warm soapy water carefully and sparingly used will work on age and yellow spots as well as dust and dirt. As for other spots, such as mildew, there is not much hope. A new screen is probably called for. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the manufacturers of jackets and coats who make a dark mark where each button is to go. I have a new rain-and-shine coat with three such marks that show now that the buttons have been moved over.

—C.W.
DEAR POLLY — Think you will enjoy my Pointer. Save all your empty paper dispenser boxes and cardboard rolls such as are used for waxed paper, plastic wrap and foil. When making a pie, prepare a couple of extra crusts and place them by wrapping each around a cardboard tube. Then store in-the-box and freeze. It's simple if you roll out the crust on plastic wrap and cover with a sheet of the same — VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for senior citizens in particular but others might well use it. After bathing, spread a wet washcloth on the bottom of the tub to stand on and prevent slipping. Also, a wet cloth on the edge of the tub is good to use for a grip. — FRAN

DEAR POLLY — When sticky gum is left after a price sticker is removed, dip a piece of paper towel in cooking oil and rub it off. Wipe with a soapy cloth to remove the grease and then rinse with clear water. This works well on plastic. — IRENE

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is those friends who date their letter just "Monday" or "Tuesday" and do not put the date of the month. I am left wondering what Monday or Tuesday. — MRS. L.D.H.

Texas Briefs

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes says he has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review the conviction of a Dallas teen-ager sentenced to 99 years in prison for the stabbing death of her mother.

Haynes said his petition contends that Lucinda Stout was not legally advised of her rights before making two separate oral statements and that she did not "knowingly and intelligently" give up her rights to remain silent.

Miss Stout was convicted in 1977 of killing her mother after being certified as an adult. She was 16 at the time.

Last April, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the conviction.

Haynes also says prosecutors should not have used the testimony of two friends of Miss Stout. One of those girls testified Miss Stout told her in a phone call she had stabbed her mother and shot her father.

Harry Stout has recovered from his wounds, and has refused to aid his daughter in her legal battles.

GARLAND, Texas (AP) — An emotional battle over the quality of a city councilman's representation will culminate in the City of Garland's first council recall election on Nov. 6.

The election is the final step in an emotional and bitter split between voters in the southeast portion of this Dallas suburb, and their city councilman, Mayor Pro Tem Larry Holley.

The citizens began a recall effort after Holley and four other council members voted to reorganize the city planning and zoning commission. Holley's opponents claim the reorganization would lead to less restrictive zoning and traffic congestion in their district.

Holley says his services to the city has been positive.

The disgruntled voters are supporting Joe Langfitt, a sales representative for an office machinery firm, against Holley, a dentist.

The 5th District Court of Civil Appeals ordered the election earlier this month when the Garland council refused to order an election, saying there were not enough signatures on the citizens' recall petitions.

DALLAS (AP) — Federal agents have expanded their investigation into alleged bidding in a multi-million-dollar renovation project sponsored by the Dallas Housing Authority.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Dan Guthrie says an ongoing investigation into a $13 million renovation of the West Dallas Houston Project has been expanded to include all operations of the DHA.

"Virtually every company which contracted with the Dallas Housing Authority to perform services is now within the scope of the investigation," he said. "That allegation (bid-rigging) has been made and we certainly are pursuing it."

Most recently subpoenaed were the records of Henry's Aluminum Screen and Door Repair of Grand Prairie, which received more than $100,000 in DHA work, and Recreation Enterprises, Inc., of Dallas, which received two DHA contracts totaling $93,000.

The owners of both companies deny any wrongdoing.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Republican Ronald Reagan, one of a number unannounced presidential candidates, says President Carter may stage a popularity comeback that would cinch the Democratic nomination in 1980.

"A few weeks ago, I might have gone along with the tide that Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) would (win the nomination). But now, I wouldn't write off the President this early," Reagan said during a fundraiser here Sunday.

Reagan said incumbent presidents have a certain advantage in the race, joking that he discovered that bit of wisdom the hard way in his loss of the 1976 Republican nomination to Gerald Ford.

Reagan carried all the Texas delegates to the National Democratic Convention in 1976. The 68-year-old former California governor says he will formally announce his political intentions Nov. 13, when he is expected to toss his hat in the already-cluttered Republican ring. A crowd of 3,500 mostly middle-aged supporters shelled out between $30 and $150 each to join Reagan and singer Wayne Newton at the benefit concert.

PLANO, Texas (AP) — Plano Fire Marshal Bill Threet says four youths have been arrested in connection with a fire on a football field that grew out of a heated sports rivalry.

More than one-third of the Plano High School football field was destroyed Oct. 13 when someone tried to burn the initial "RHS" into the artificial turf. The blaze occurred just hours after Richardson High School upset then top-ranked Plano 3-0 at the stadium.

Threet said the entire field will have to be recovered at a cost of $300,000.

Veterans of Vietnam War Often Racked by Stress Later

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — For years, the men seem calm.

Then something sets off the guns in their heads, the long silent guns of Vietnam, bringing back the trauma of combat and reopening the festering wounds.

Harold Mann, who was a medic in Vietnam, held 27 persons hostage at gunpoint in a tiny church in St. Albans, W. Va., nine days ago. He surrendered after making an obscene statement on the radio in which he complained of medical problems the military had ignored.

Clinical psychologists believe the Vietnam veterans who explode so violently are reacting to delayed combat stress, the haunting return of the memories and fears of combat in Vietnam.

"These people are not crazy," said Don Crawford, a Veterans Administration official. "They've been traumatized by war and need help to adjust."

Little is known about the delayed stress reaction. Researchers are just starting to study the problem, and they warn that Mann will not be the last veteran to explode.

"They have flashbacks of injury and death. In one case, a vet kept seeing decapitated bodies after 10 years of no problems," said Malcolm Farmer, head of counseling at a local VA center.

"We're going to have to live with it for years and years," said Crawford. "If we had started doing something about it 10 years ago it might have been better. Now the problems are complex beyond our understanding."

"We've made a national error that we're going to have to live with," Crawford said.

In an effort to deal with delayed stress and other chronic problems that trouble veterans, Congress this summer authorized the VA to set up Operation Outreach. Under Crawford's direction, 71 special counseling centers are being set up around the country.

The program was first proposed eight years ago.

Larry Lapelle, a VA vocational counselor in Huntington, dealt with Mann in a number of veterans programs. He also grew up with Ashby Leach, the Vietnam vet from Huntington who held 13 persons hostage at the Cleveland headquarters of the Chessie System railroad in 1976.

Both men raged at what they said was the indifference of America to the problems and anguish of Vietnam vets. Before their outbursts, they were quite different, Lapelle said.

Mann, working as an ambulance paramedic, was "very, very upset about where he was in life and what he wanted to do," Lapelle said. Leach — a former Chessie employee — "was a pretty solid citizen without any problems." Leach is now in an Ohio prison. Mann, charged with kidnapping, is at the Hospital for psychiatric tests.

Lapelle said Mann's "reactions were quite normal."

"We just don't know that much about these explosions.

Maybe more contact with Mann could have prevented it. But there was just no time," he said.

Charles Figley, professor of psychology at Purdue University and a pioneer in the study of delayed stress reaction, described the phenomenon as the eruption of long-simmering pressures and memories.

"Delayed stress basically is putting off dealing with an extremely difficult period in life," he said.

Combat stress is not new but Vietnam veterans faced unique conditions in combat and at home, Figley said. A nightmarish guerrilla war in a threatening, alien world and the nation's indifference when they returned clouded their minds with feelings that have "never been confronted, he said.

"They're acting out of resentment, the feeling that they gave part of their lives and deserve some recognition," Figley said. "If you scratch any Vietnam veteran that hostility will come through. Unlike veterans of other wars they never received any recognition."

Studies suggest that up to 85 percent of Vietnam combat veterans are troubled by war memories and a sense of "bitterness and resentment over feelings of being used," Figley said. Within that group, as many as 2,500 veterans may be teetering on the edge of psychopathic rage, Figley estimated.

"We would predict that these people are at a highly extreme risk," he said. "And it's never going to go away."

Figley links the surfacing of stress to the veterans' age. "Many of them are in their 30s now, which is a very difficult time when most people naturally reflect on their lives and achievements," he said.

The way soldiers entered and left Vietnam alone, rather than in units where buddies could lend emotional support, also contributed to the stress, he said.

"When Vietnam vets came home, often within days of leaving combat zones, the only way they could deal with their experiences was with themselves. If they tried to talk to their wives or families, they didn't want to know," Figley said.

Steven Champlin, a spokesman for Vietnam Veterans of America in Washington, said the problem "is going to get worse. When they come out of the woodwork, it's unclear what we're going to be able to do about it."

Writing a best seller is easy!

IRISH SETTER. Female, 1 yr. old. Mahogany red. Very gentle, good with children. $75 or best offer. 555-5555 after 5:30.

1. Identify what you're selling. Abbreviations may be clear to you, but maybe not to a prospective buyer. Keep in mind that brand names have pulling power.
2. Describe the item with enough basic information to get the reader interested. Feature appealing details.
3. Don't exaggerate the item's condition or features. Make your pitch attractive, but believable. People shun claims that sound too good to be true.
4. Include price. Research shows that advertising the price draws greater response because people are interested in what they can afford. If the price is negotiable, say so.
5. Be home when your ad is running or specify the hours you can be reached. People may not call back if they can't reach you the first time. Don't risk missing a sale — be there when the phone rings!

A Quick Cure for Crime,
But You Wouldn't Dare

Everybody wants to be somebody.

Each of us seeks recognition--as trifling as a preferred parking place in the company lot--or as significant as elective political office.

Beauty pageants, athletic contests and the Guinness Book of World Records pander to this hunger in all of us for "distinction."

Even to be the champion wrist-wrestler, cowchip-thrower or chili-cooker is worth tireless yearlong preparation.

For R. Palmer Donnelly it's enough to be known as the man who swam around Manhattan Island.

For Eddie Sapir it's enough to be known as the man having been arrested the most times for drunkenness--1,002.

For Glynn Wolfe it is enough to be known as the man who's been married the most times--23.

And in a separate strata of our subculture is the criminal whose claim to prestige among his peers is that he has done "big time." That means he has served time in a federal penitentiary.

What that means in his neighborhood is that he is somebody special.

The big increase in crime is among males under 25. The major motivations are money for drugs and pathological meanness.

Criminologists, sociologists and lawmen are agreed on at least one thing: The ex-con enjoys a macho image which encourages imitators.

There is one way to fix that. From an Alabama jail Dick Gregory protested that "jails are inhuman," that they "tend to make criminals worse criminals."

It can be argued that if jailbirds don't like jails they should stay out of them.

However, if a prison record used to be an indelible black mark on one's record, today it may be just the opposite--a door-opener for immediate acceptance as a "big-timer."

New York City banks have been getting knocked over ten a day--why not? The apprehension risk is small, the risk of conviction is less and at worst the robber will be out of the big tank and strutting around his home neighborhood like a hero.

There is a quick cure for much of such crime...but I don't think you'd dare.

In Philadelphia, a mayor and a police commissioner who tried to get tough with criminals are themselves enroute out of office and headed for court as defendants.

So you are not ready for this prescription.

But can you imagine how much less a macho hero the ex-con would be if he came home from prison castrated?

numbers as the basic interpreter of the economy. Businessmen, unions, presidents, offer them as concrete testimony to the correctness of their positions.

The fact is that they are not indisputable monitors of the economy, and those who compile them are those most aware of the deficiencies. Most numbers are, in fact, not counts but calculations.

What's the difference? A calculation is the product of a formula, one that might be weighted or seasonally adjusted. It contains an element of arbitrariness, of subjectivity. It is often, if not always, revised.

Monthly retail sales, for example, are often revised. So, too, the monthly index of economic indicators. Sometimes the jobless rate, too. And the jobless rate, of course, is seasonally adjusted as well.

Evergreen State.

The state of Washington in the Pacific Northwest is a leader in many ways — in lumber, in fruit and other crops, and in aircraft production. Its ports on Puget Sound are gateways to Alaska and the Far East. The great dams on the Columbia River provide power for production of aluminum and irrigation for the rich Columbia basin.

Fed Won't Be Hurt, But Others Might Be

NEW YORK (AP) — If you did what the Fed did earlier this month, that is, overestimate your money supply, you'd have checks bouncing like pingpong balls, you'd be fined, and your reputation would be damaged.

But the Fed, the nation's central bank, won't suffer many financial consequences. Those will be borne by those who made financial and investment decisions based on what they thought were the facts.

They will not be the first to be misled by the official numbers that so many elements of the economy must rely on for a sense of direction.

But first the latest case. The Federal Reserve system, whose error amounted to $3.7 billion, will not escape totally without damage. Its image, its reputation, its integrity, its credibility are priceless.

If, for instance, its figures are suspect, who will have confidence that it is on track in its battle with inflation? Who will not suspect it hasn't rigged figures to produce the interest rates it seeks?
