

Interest Rates To Affect Retail Outlets, Housing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small businesses will be hit hardest — and first — by rising interest rates, economists say. Many won't find credit, while others may pay more than 16 percent interest in coming weeks.

Small manufacturers, particularly in the Midwest, will be most vulnerable, these economists say. But stores that sell specialty items and long-lasting consumer products also will feel the credit pinch.

As a result, many part-time retail workers will be laid off, the economists say. And since women hold many of these jobs, they can expect tough times ahead, the forecasters add.

People who buy, sell and build houses also will be some of the first victims of rising interest rates. Economists say prospective homeowners will find it more difficult to get mortgages, which in turn will slow homebuilding.

The Federal Reserve Board last weekend increased its bank lending rate from 11 percent to a record 12 percent and tightened its control on the availability of money and credit.

The moves generated immediate upsurges in other short-term interest rates. The overall effect resulted in stock prices recording their steepest drop in more than five years Tuesday.

Chase Manhattan Bank on Tuesday boosted the prime rate to its best customers by an entire percentage point, to 14.5 percent.

Small businesses, however, rarely qualify as "best customers." They usually must pay 2 percent to 3 percent above the prime rate, said economist Richard Landry of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

That is almost as much as consumers pay on credit-card interest, and it makes borrowing very difficult for most small businesses with sales below $500,000 a year, Landry said.

Moreover, he added, there are growing reports that smaller, regional banks are hesitant to extend loans.

Consumers who want loans also will face difficulties, say economists.

"I would think that it's going to be a little harder to get a car loan, a little harder to get a mortgage," said economist William E. Gibson of the brokerage house Smith Barney Harris Upham & Co. Inc.

"It will be very tough to buy or sell homes without mortgage financing available," said bank analyst Jonathan E. Gray of Sanford C. Bernstein & Co. Inc. "It's difficult to see institutions funding mortgages one or two months in advance when the cost of money is so uncertain."

The tight mortgage market is expected to slow homebuilding. And that is likely to mean slower sales and rising

Plan Forces Market Plunge

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's investors, apparently afraid that the medicine the Federal Reserve has prescribed to treat inflation will have some potent — and painful — economic side effects, have shown their fears in the stock market.

Against a background of surging interest rates, the market took its sharpest drop in more than five years Tuesday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 26.45 to 857.59.

But President Carter said at a White House news conference that he would do "whatever it takes," even if it hurts him politically, to beat inflation. Carter acknowledged that the rate of inflation, which exceeds 13 percent, has been surprising.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker told the American Bankers Association convention that the nation must reject the "seductive course" of a tax cut, while the banks must avoid "exotic lending" and speculation.

Volcker said the nation should be resolute in the face of unprecedented interest rates and unemployment, which some analysts say could go up to 9 percent from the current 5.8 percent.

In New York, the possibility of a new round of oil price increases — spurred by increases announced by Kuwait and Mexico — pushed gold up sharply, by $24 an ounce to $391, and depressed the dollar.

The dollar gained ground, however, on most overseas foreign exchange markets as traders continued to demonstrate approval of the Fed's moves to tighten credit.

The measures include a 1 percent increase to a record 12 percent in the rate at which member banks borrow money from the Fed. Several major U.S. banks reacted Tuesday by raising their prime rates a full point to 14 1/2 percent.

The Dow Jones industrial average marked its largest loss Tuesday since it tumbled 26.99 points on Jan. 9, 1974, in the midst of the last recession and the Arab oil embargo.

The record single-day loss was 38.33 points on Oct. 28, 1929, during the Great Crash that preceded the Depression.

The daily count on the New York Stock Exchange showed the most one-sided tally in modern memory, with 1,768 issues declining and only 73 stocks gaining ground. Big Board volume came to 55.56 million shares, the heaviest total this year and the fifth busiest in the history of the exchange.

The apparent catalyst for Tuesday's selloff was the decision by many of the nation's banks to raise their prime lending rates — charged to their best, corporate customers.

The unprecedented increase of a full percentage point, apparently prompted by the severe credit-tightening moves announced by the Fed last weekend, came as a shock to many Wall Streeters. Analysts said interest rates had been expected to rise, but not that sharply.

Brokers said the fast-breaking developments appeared to have increased fears among investors that the Fed's tough anti-inflation tactics might induce a worse slump than expected.

Discount Rate Hike Criticized

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Federal Reserve's decision to raise its discount rate means "real problems" for Texas' already sagging mortgage loan market, says Savings and Loan Commissioner Alvis Vandygriff.

He told the policy-making Savings and Loan Section of the Texas Finance Commission on Tuesday that conventional home loans already "are drying up in many places."

The Federal Reserve raised the discount rate — the interest rate charged banks when they borrow money from the "Fed" — to a record 12 percent over the weekend.

Vandygriff said the increase in the discount rate "means we've got some real problems facing us ... There is going to be a drying up of this mortgage money the way it is going."

He later told reporters, "I read a good possibility the prime rate will increase before the week is gone. If it does, it will dry up the possibility of additional mortgage money."

Vandygriff said the discount rate sets off a chain reaction on other interest rates and could quickly force up the interest rate on savings and loan money market certificates. As of this Thursday, they must pay 10.662 percent on new certificates. The certificates are the fastest growing form of savings in Texas, and Vandygriff says they now represent about 34 percent of savings and loan deposits.

Meanwhile, he said, Texas' floating usury ceiling is at 11 percent and will rise to 11 percent on Nov. 1.

"An increase in the money market certificates is going to nearly make it prohibitive to lend at 11 percent," Vandygriff said. "It will make it really difficult for them (savings and loans) to lend at the state limit at this time."

L.L. Bowman of Greenville, chairman of the Texas Savings and Loan League's legislative committee, said "there is a strong feeling" among members of the organization to ask Gov. Bill Clements to include the usury ceiling in a special legislative session.

This year's legislature set the ceiling at two percentage points above the average monthly rate on 10-year Treasury bills, up to a maximum of 12 percent.

New Hereford Crop?

R.L. Lee, 249 Juniper, has a couple of large-leafed, unusual-looking plants growing in his front-yard garden, and he doesn't know what he's going to do with them. You see, the plants are tobacco, and Lee says he doesn't smoke. Lee and his wife picked up some tobacco seeds on a recent visit to North Carolina, brought them to Hereford and planted them to see if they would sprout. They did, and soon grew up and bloomed. Lee says he has no plans to begin a tobacco crop despite the success of the plants in Hereford's climate. [Brand photo by Paul Sims]

Federal Intervention Possible To Save Bilingual Education

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Two state Mexican-American leaders say they are outraged by comments from Texas' top education officer that bilingual education should not be expanded, calling the remarks "irresponsible."

Sen. Carlos Truan, a long-time proponent of bilingual education in the Senate, said federal intervention now may be necessary to save the programs in light of comments by Texas Education Commissioner Alton Bowen.

Bowen has asked that expansion of bilingual education be stopped until proof can be obtained that the program is working.

Ruben Bonilla, president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said Bowen should consider resigning if he does not see the need for bilingual education.

"The man is obviously turning his back on the statistical data that show the Spanish-speaking of Texas still have the lowest attainment of education," Bonilla said.

Bonilla said bilingual education in most schools in Texas is not implemented properly, is underfunded or when implemented is done so without enthusiasm by administrators.

Truan, a Democrat from Corpus Christi, said:

"What his statements may do is prompt all of us who are promoters of bilingual education (to) press at every level of the federal government to take notice of what the new commissioner of education is doing," he said.

"We mean to have a viable bilingual education program even if it is mandated by the federal authorities."

Truan said Bowen "obviously is allowing whatever prejudice he has to come out."

"What he suggests is that the jury is still out on bilingual education," Truan continued. "Are we going to throw out reading programs because Johnny can't read? No, we improve it."

Bonilla said it is "outlandish and the height of absurdity for one of our highest educational administrators to speak in obviously disparaging tones regarding our Spanish-speaking children."

"It smacks of irresponsibility for educators to blame educational shortcomings on the teachings of home life," said the LULAC president.

Bowen's comments came in an address to members of the Texas Association of School Boards and the Texas Association of School Administrators who attended a joint meeting in San Antonio.

Bowen said because children only attend school seven hours a day, "we simply don't have time to be all things to all people. We cannot solve all of society's social problems."

Little Things Add Up In Conserving Energy

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

You don't have to spend a lot of money to save energy.

All the little things add up.

Suppose your heating bill last winter was $700 — a reasonable figure for a three-bedroom home in a moderately cold climate. If you use the same amount of energy this year, you'll probably spend about $900.

Here's how you can trim that bill — maybe even cutting it below last year's: (Your savings, of course, will vary depending on what you've done already, where you live and how much you pay for fuel.)

—Turn down the thermostat. See how low you can go and stay comfortable. Make the change gradually, reducing the setting a degree at a time. Each degree should mean a 3 percent cut in your fuel bill. Going from 70 degrees to 67 degrees would trim that $900 fuel bill by $81.

—Keep cool at night. Setting back the thermostat by 10 degrees during the hours you sleep can cut heating bills by 9 percent to 15 percent. On a $900 fuel bill, you'd save $81 to $135. You can make the adjustment manually or you can do it automatically by converting your existing thermostat or buying a new one with a setback device. Prices for converters and thermostats start at under $50 and go to over $100, depending on complexity and installation charges.

—Insulate your water heater. Adding an inch and a-half of insulation can cut the cost of operating your water heater by 25 percent. Do-it-yourself refit kits generally cost under $20 and are available at building supply and hardware stores.

—Check doors and windows for drafts. Caulk and weatherstrip where necessary. The one-time cost of a one-time job should be under $100; annual savings on a $900 fuel bill could be as high as $90.

—Tape heavy-duty plastic to the inside of windows as an alternative to storm windows. Cost: About $10. Potential savings: $90 to $135.

—Learn where your money is going. On the average, here's how the energy used in American homes — the oil, gas and electricity — is consumed, according to a Pennsylvania State University study:

- Heat 58 percent
- Hot water 15 percent
- Refrigeration 6 percent
- Cooking 6 percent
- Air conditioning 4 percent
- Lighting 4 percent
- Miscellaneous 7 percent

—If you have a fireplace, keep the damper closed when you don't have a fire going. An open damper in a 48-inch square fireplace can let up to 8 percent of your home's heat escape through the chimney. Unless you have a recirculating device, 90 percent of the heat produced when you do light a fire will go up the chimney. The fire also will draw warm air from the rest of the house — up to 20 percent an hour.

—Check the temperature on your water heater. Most heaters are set for 140 degrees Fahrenheit; a setting of 120 degrees is adequate for most families. Reducing the temperature by 20

Q—When did they start charging a sales tax on food here in town? My husband was charged nine-cents tax on an 89-cent can of tuna fish. We've still got the sales slip. The lady at the store said that everything there is taxed.

A—According to Sylvester Bonilla of the state comptroller's regional office in Amarillo, the tax should not have been charged. The following food items cannot be taxed: cereal and cereal products, milk and milk products, oleo, margarine, meat and meat products, poultry and poultry products, fish and fish products, eggs and egg products, vegetables and vegetable products, fruit and fruit products, spices, condiments, salts, sugar products, coffee and coffee substitutes, tea, cocoa and cocoa products, or any of the combinations. Tax collected on food items must still be turned into the comptroller, according to Bonilla, and is refunded to the city in which it was collected.

TRLA Files Lawsuit Against Castro County

Three Dimmitt voters have filed suit against Castro County challenging the apportionment of the Castro County commission precincts. The Brand has learned.

The lawsuit was filed Thursday in federal district court in Amarillo by Texas Rural Legal Aid attorney Bill Beardall of Hereford, the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund (MAL-DEF) and Southwest Voter Registration and Education Project (SVREP).

The Dimmitt residents—Carmen Cantano, Maria Rivera and Amelia Velasquez—alleged that the present apportionment scheme is unconstitutional because it dilutes Mexican-American voting strength in the county.

The plaintiffs are seeking a court order requiring the county to redraw the lines so precincts will contain equal numbers of voters. A similar suit was filed last year against several counties throughout Texas, including Deaf Smith.

The Castro County lawsuit alleges a 54 percent population differential between commission precincts.

A written statement from Texas Rural Legal Aid states that "under the U.S. Constitution and the Supreme Court's one-person, one-vote rule, county commissioner precincts must contain approximately equal numbers of voters."

Hereford Brand Names Grossman Sports Editor

Rick Grossman, former advertising manager for a chain of drug stores in Oklahoma City, has been named sports editor of The Hereford Brand, it has been announced by managing editor Paul Sims.

Grossman, who has attended the University of South Carolina and South Oklahoma City Junior College, has been covering Hereford sports for the last two weeks.

Former advertising manager for Hyde Drug Co. in Oklahoma City, Grossman has worked for radio stations in Jacksonville, N.C., New Bern, N.C., Odessa and Myrtle Beach, S.C. He did morning sportscasts at WTGR Radio Station in Myrtle Beach.

Grossman, 27, served in the United States Marine Corps from 1971-1976. In 1972-73, he worked in the newsroom at Far East Network in Okinawa, doing hourly newscasts and writing scripts for two daily television newscasts.

He was later transferred to the Joint Public Affairs office at the Marine Corps Air Station in New River, N.C., where he became the non-commissioned officer in charge of the broadcast operation at that facility.

Grossman was sports editor of his base's newspaper for his final two years of active duty.

"We're pleased to have someone with Rick Grossman's credentials as our sports editor," Sims said. "We think he already has made a fine addition to our news staff."

Davis Said Talking Not Against Law

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Murder conspiracy defend... Cullen Davis says he refused to discuss price tags for several assassinations with informant David McCrory because he knew he would be breaking the law.

Davis, 46, testified Tuesday he talked about the purported contract murders because he did not think he would be breaking the law by just talking about it.

"I knew it wasn't against the law just talking about killing people if I didn't consummate the deal," Davis said on his third day on the witness stand. "I thought I'd be sticking my neck out too far. I could be held accountable for making a statement of that sort."

During testimony Tuesday, lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes read from a transcript of an incriminating tape recording made during an Aug. 18 meeting between Davis and McCrory.

McCrory is the state's key witness in its murder-for-hire case against the Fort Worth millionaire.

Haynes said he did not see the need to replay the tape because it involved "technical difficulties."

Man Returns to Texas After Years in Hiding

DALLAS (AP) - Clyde Brice, who fled from Texas 11 years ago after a Dallas jury convicted him of marijuana possession, wants to return as a free man. Talks are under way to see if that's possible.

Now sick and diabetic, Brice wants to know if it would be "all right if I came home?" Home is Terrell, east of Dallas.

Brice was released without bail in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn Tuesday pending talks between members of the U.S. attorney's office there and representatives of the State of Texas.

The 55-year-old drummer, who has lived in Brooklyn all the time, was arrested last Thursday on an 11-year-old warrant charging him with leaving Texas to avoid serving time for possession of one-half ounce of marijuana, equivalent to 21 cigarettes.

Brice was picked up during an investigation of a social club that allegedly operated after hours.

He was arraigned last week and held in $5,000 bail. At the new bail hearing Tuesday, he was freed on his own recognizance.

Brice was convicted on July 30, 1968, in Dallas and sentenced in absentia Aug. 2, 1968 to life imprisonment, a sentence possibly based on his past criminal record and the fact that he fled, Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade said Tuesday.

we're not allowed to put people in the stocks any more, so instead, what I'm going to do is to focus public attention by putting their names in the stocks, meaning reporting them on the radio," he said.

API President Says Lines Won't Occur

HOUSTON (AP) - Charles J. DiBona, oil's top Washington spokesman, says a gasoline shortage of just 2 to 3 percent can cause panic buying and long service station lines.

But the president of the American Petroleum Institute rejects a forecast motorists may be forming gasoline lines again by the end of October.

In an informal session Tuesday with petroleum and energy writers, DiBona reported reading that a West Coast newsletter on retail gasoline marketing trends had said motorists may be forming long lines by the end of the month.

The possibility was blamed on the federal government's emphasis on the industry building winter heating oil inventories at the expense of gasoline stocks.

"That is so unlikely, very very unlikely," DiBona said of the long lines report.

"I don't think that is a viable prediction. I just don't know how that would happen."

DiBona said gasoline stocks are now about 11 million barrels higher than a year ago "and in a comfortable range."

New York City To Broadcast Johns

NEW YORK (AP) - Names of men convicted of patronizing prostitutes in New York are going to be broadcast over the city-owned radio station, says Mayor Edward Koch, who hopes embarrassment will do more to stop the sex trade than some judges have.

"We're going to call it the 'John Hour,'" the mayor said Tuesday, using the slang word for those who hire prostitutes.

Koch said publicizing the names would be similar to the early American custom of locking lawbreakers in wooden stocks and putting them on public display.

"That was a deterrent because who wants to be in stocks," Koch said. "But EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Burglars, bandits and thieves beware, because CP is no ordinary boar. Instead he is 150 pounds of romping, stomping guard pig.

The 42-year-old Canadian had his prize protector traveling with him Tuesday when he journeyed through El Paso in a rusty old Cadillac limousine.

Along for the ride on the return trip to Vancouver, British Columbia, were Leblanc, his assistant pig trainer, a driver and his wife, their three children, CP, and two smaller pigs trained as circus dogs.

degrees can cut operating costs by 18 percent or about $40. (Note: You may need hotter water if you have a dishwasher; check the manufacturer's instructions.)

-Install a flow restrictor - about $5 - in your showerhead; the spray will feel just as strong, but you'll use less water. Reducing the flow of the shower from eight gallons per minute to three gallons per minute would save the average family about $24 a year.

-If you have an oil furnace, make sure it is serviced at least once a year. Have the technician check the nozzle to see if it is too large, meaning that the furnace is burning oil at a faster rate than necessary. Reducing the nozzle size and modifying air handling parts can trim heating costs by up to 14 percent or $126 on a $900 bill.

Some energy savings can be measured in pennies, but even the pennies will add up. Among energy-saving suggestions:

-Replace incandescent bulbs with fluorescent ones. More than 16 percent of the electricity we use in our homes goes into lighting. A 40-watt fluorescent bulb gives off more than five times as many lumens as a 60-watt incandescent bulb.

-Heat only the rooms you are actually using. During the day, keep bedroom doors closed and turn the radiators off.

-The average dishwasher uses 14 gallons of hot water per load. To avoid waste, run the dishwasher only when you have a full load.

-Use exhaust fans in bedrooms and bathrooms sparingly. While they remove odors, they also remove heat; in one hour, they can blow away an entire household of warm air.

-If you have a forced air heating system, clean or replace the filter once a month. Check duct works for leaks; minor problems can be solved by covering holes or cracks with duct tape.

inventories for makers of appliances and home furnishings as their major market shrinks, economists explain.

Most of the small makers of machinery parts for appliances and cars are located in the Midwestern states.

In a credit crunch, small businesses suffer hardest because they lack the avenues to borrow open to larger companies. Few small companies can issue stock to attract funds, nor do they have long-range lines of credit with their banks.

If they must borrow to weather a sales slowdown and maintain inventories, they will pay the prevailing interest rates, said economist Herman Director of the National Small Business Association.

"The first reaction of store owners," Landry said, "will be to hold sales to obtain needed cash."

"But if everybody holds sales at the same time, it won't work and then the retailers will be forced to lay off workers," he said. "Part-time jobs will disappear first and women will suffer because they are found heavily in this area."

Numerous economists are predicting that the Federal Reserve Board's tight-money thrust will deepen the expected recession, and unemployment - currently 5.8 percent - could reach 8 percent to 9 percent next year.

Small businesses may be able to turn to the Small Business Administration for help, but relief there is modest at best, say economists.

"There really is not that much money available," agreed SBA spokeswoman Jan Nowak.

The SBA is authorized to guarantee $3.6 billion in loans to small businesses during the current fiscal year, she said. That represents 30,000 to 33,000 separate loans.

Interest on these loans cannot be higher than half a percentage point above the prime rate. But banks still have to be willing to lend the money. Even though the loans will be guaranteed by the SBA, banks, holding limited funds, may choose to lend their money to customers willing to pay more interest.

Licensing

Church Asks Court To Block

LAREDO, Texas (AP) - Citing constitutional guarantees of freedom of religion, the People's Baptist Church has asked a federal court here to block state licensing efforts at homes for troubled children operated by evangelist Lester Roloff.

Eight parents of former Rebekah Home for Girls residenters, two girls and four staff members of the Corpus Christi maintain in their suit that the state has deprived them of due process of law and religious freedom.

Roloff refused to comply with a court order to permit the licensing of his Rebekah Home, the Lighthouse Home for Boys near Corpus Christi, and the Anchor Home for Boys at Zapata.

Instead the evangelist closed the homes.

At that time the homes were an operation of Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises. The homes now have been restructured under the auspices of the People's Baptist Church.

Pope, Brezhnev Discuss Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pope John Paul II and Soviet Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, who don't have a whole lot in common, had some interesting things to say recently on the same subject: arms control.

The pope was subtly plugging for Senate passage of the SALT II nuclear weapons limitation treaty. And Brezhnev was trying to persuade the United States' NATO allies to turn down new U.S. rockets.

The quest for greater security in the world and for closer international collaboration," the pope said from the White House steps.

"With all my heart, I hope there will be no relaxing of its efforts both to reduce the risk of a fatal and disastrous worldwide nuclear confrontation, and to secure a prudent and progressive reduction of the destructive capacity of military arsenals."

The pope's appeal must have cheered President Carter, who is having a difficult time scraping together the two-thirds vote needed for Senate ratification of SALT II. The appeal was a genuine call for arms control.

Brezhnev's offer to withdraw up to 20,000 Russian troops and 1,000 tanks from East Germany and to put his own medium-range nuclear missiles on the negotiating table requires a more skeptical reading.

Over the years, the Soviets have made a number of tempting proposals to reduce tensions in Central Europe that lost their appeal upon closer inspection.

In June 1978, for instance, the Soviets for the first time accepted the principle that there should be an equal number of Eastern and Western troops in the region.

This raised hopes of a breakthrough in negotiations aimed at a matching reduction in NATO and Warsaw Bloc forces in Central Europe. The talks had plodded along for five years without much success.

The optimism died when it turned out the Soviets were claiming to have about 150,000 fewer Warsaw Bloc troops in Central Europe than NATO estimated.

In other words, equal cut-backs would have left the Soviets with a continuing advantage of some 150,000 soldiers.

Brezhnev's latest proposal is seen in that cautious light, at least by Zbigniew Brzezinski, the most skeptical of Carter's advisers when the Soviet Union is concerned.

He suggests that by offering to withdraw troops and tanks, Brezhnev is trying to sidetrack U.S. plans to deploy 572 new medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

CP Proves Good Watchpig

The thin, tanned Leblanc said he has trained attack dogs for Canadian police departments for 17 years.

Leblanc said he bought CP - which stands for Canadian Pig - "to fatten up and slaughter for a friend's party."

But he said he noticed the 150-pound, 6-month-old, pink and white Yorkshire pig learned tricks quickly. So he placed the animal among the Doberman pinchers and German shepherds in a police canine training program.

"The pig performed better than the dogs," said Leblanc.

"We have given him basic training. He attacks and charges," said Leblanc, adding he is trying to get the pig on a late night television talk show.

The pig gave newsmen a demonstration Tuesday when he charged assistant trainer Andre Rabi, 18, who leaped out of the way, outside Leblanc's motel room.

"That trainer is a little scared because CP bit him two or three times," Leblanc explained.

Leblanc left Canada in July with the three little pigs. Along the way he picked up the assistant and last week, in Beaumont, Texas, Bianco and family joined the strange entourage.

During his travels, Leblanc said the group was thrown out of one campground after setting up camp "because they tried to charge $1.50 each for the pigs when they were only charging us $1 apiece. We refused to pay."

The four-legged travelers are not hard to feed.

"They love Kentucky Fried Chicken, steaks and ice cream," said Leblanc.

The trainer said CP also loves bubble gum, but the pig spits it out when the flavor is gone.

Leblanc said he is having fun hauling the group around.

Leblanc was asked the obvious question: "The three-month-old wears diapers while traveling - what about the pigs?"

"Highway rest areas, of course," said Leblanc.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - All Texas businesses should profit from a recent trade mission to China, says Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

"There's obviously billions of dollars of business to be done," Hobby said at a news conference Tuesday. "Who will get the business and when they will get it depends on the companies."

Hobby, two representatives of the Texas Industrial Commission and 12 officers of Texas drilling equipment companies returned Sunday from a 15-day trip to China.

It was the first state-sponsored trade mission to China.

The officers included President J. Ray Pace of Baker World Trade, Inc., Houston, whose company has done $40 million of business with the Chinese in the past year.

Hobby said Baker "was able to secure repeat orders and even more important he was able to meet with high officials that he had not been able to see before."

"Our list of business contacts is endless and all Texas businesses should benefit, particularly Texas' oil-related industry, which will most certainly be assured of lucrative business dealings with the PRC (People's Republic of China) in the very near future," Hobby said.

Absent from the mission was any representative of SEDCO, the international drilling company founded by Gov. Bill Clements.

Hobby said the Chinese have only about 600 drilling rigs in operation but their schedule calls for about 2,000 rigs to be in operation within the next five years.

A CIA report distributed at the news conference said China's oil reserves total approximately 78 billion barrels, with production expected to rise from 1.7 million barrels a day in 1976 to as high as 2.8 million barrels by late 1980.

Hobby said high-ranking officials such as Qin Wen Cai, vice minister of the Oil Ministry, and former Ambassador Han Xu "greeted us with open arms... They also welcomed us back for future trade missions."

Hobby Says Texas To Profit From Recent China Mission

He said within six months, the PRC will announce the site of a proposed warehouse and assembly plant for the imported drilling equipment. The possible locations have been narrowed to Shanghai or Tientsin.

The state paid only for the trips of Executive Director Gerald Brown and Antonito Alagna of the Industrial Commission, Brown said. He estimated the cost of the trip at $4,200 per person. Other members of the trade delegation paid for their trips, he said.

"We feel that this mission accomplished exactly what we set out to do - open the door and introduce Texas businessmen to trade with China," said Hobby.

Charges Dropped

HOUSTON (AP) - Drug possession charges against four Ohio men have been dropped after a judge ruled police used an illegal search warrant in seizing 2.2 pounds of cocaine.

State District Judge Charles Hearm ruled after defense lawyers argued police had lied in an affidavit used in obtaining the warrant.

Jerry Weiner, Columbus lawyer for Piccolantonio, said officers lied in the affidavit about having a credible informant, saying the informant could not even give them the correct motel room number.

Officers testified they raided the wrong room and then went back to a municipal judge to correct the room number.

Stolen Bicycles Reported to Police

Hereford police are investigating two stolen bicycles and a broken windshield - the only offenses; reported to officers Tuesday.

Gloria Arsula, 201 Jackson, and a 14-year-old juvenile at 308 Ave. B, reported stolen bicycles. Officers recovered the youngster's bicycle, which had been abandoned about a block from his house.

Ms. Arsula reported that her bicycle is a light green White's 26-inch three speed. Cecilia Garza, 820 Ave. K, reported that someone threw a beer bottle through the windshield of her pickup while it was parked at her residence Tuesday night.

Officers arrested a man for public intoxication and two juvenile runaways for truancy.

Police issued five traffic citations Tuesday and investigated a minor traffic accident.

Grain Standards Blasted

The elimination from the grain standards of analysis to determine the percentage of Dark, Hard, and Vitreous (DHV) kernels in Hard Red Winter (HRW) wheat immediately as an emergency measure will be requested by the Texas Wheat Producers Board in Washington today according to Leo Witkowski, TWPB Chairman of Hereford.

Witkowski said that Jim Allison, TWPB Executive Assistant will join with producers and grain trade representatives from Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado in pursuing the request in conferences in Washington with Secretary of Agriculture, Bob Bergland, Federal Grain Inspection Service Administrator Leland Bartelt and Under Secretary of Agriculture Bobby Smith, all scheduled today.

Allison said that low DHV, below 40 percent Dark, Hard and Vitreous kernels, is usually associated with a distinct yellow color and is indicative of low protein. The emergency arises now, Allison pointed out, because in much of the Southwest this year's harvest was delayed due to rain which bleached the wheat a lighter yellowish color causing it to grade low DHV even though relatively high levels of protein were present. "Thus," he said, "farmers and country elevators shipping to terminals and export points are being discounted by as much as eleven cents a bushel on this grading factor which is not indicative of true quality and at best is a subjective test which may have variance attributed to human judgement."

Allison said the producer groups will stress to the Secretary and to the FGIS officials that the elimination of DHV analysis will have only a minimal effect in marketing wheat as virtually no domestic buyer and only a few foreign buyers depend on DHV as a measure of quality since the FGIS approved and made available the near-infrared reflectance (NIR) instruments for quick and reliable means of determining protein. NIR is an objective test that can be duplicated without subjective human judgement. If elimination of DHV count were to only keep half of Texas 1979 138 million bushel crop from being down-graded and discounted by out-moded factors which do not reflect its quality, the saving could top $5 million this year alone, Allison declared.

The Texas and Southwest producer groups could find a ready ear in the Administration leaders as in February of this year FGIS itself published notice in the Federal Register stating its intent to discontinue DHV analysis as a part of the grain standards as of May 1, 1980, subject to a period of public comment on the action. Reportedly opposition to the discontinuance was voiced by some international trading interests and certain foreign buyers. Accordingly, no further action or date for discontinuance has been set by FGIS which is known to favor the NIR protein test as a quality measure.

Don Dudley, Executive Director of the Oklahoma Wheat Commission and one of the spokesmen for the multi-state producer groups - all of which are supported by producer check-off funds of from 1/2 cent to 1 cent on farmer grain deliveries at elevators - said that even though many farmers are not directly familiar with the DHV problem, solving it now and quickly could save them enough this year alone to pay their check-off for 10 to 15 years of self-help programs.

Music Study Club Announces Recital

Cynthia Prichard, accomplished star of opera, will present a recital Nov. 10 at Amarillo High School it was announced by Hereford Music Study Club Monday during their afternoon meeting in the E.B. Black Historical House.

All proceeds from Hereford residents will be donated to the Hereford Opportunity Plan. Everyone is invited to attend the recital and tickets will cost $3 for students and $5 for adults.

Ms. Prichard is doing the benefit concert in appreciation of the Opportunity Plan which enabled her to receive her education.

Mrs. Tom Burdett, president, conducted the regular club meeting. Hostesses were Mrs. Lynton Allred, Bill Bradley and Sam Long.

The course of study for the afternoon was "Music Around the World". Members embarked on an imaginary trip around the world by studying music of the near and far East.

Mrs. Paul Lyons led the program and played a tape which included music from Greece, Israel, Arabia, India, Cambodia, Tahiti, China and Japan. Both ancient and modern music were heard.

Mrs. W.T. Carmichael told of plans for the District 1 convention to be held Nov. 3 in Stratford. Mary B. Carter was nominated as delegate to the convention.

The clubs next meeting will be Nov. 12 in the home of Mrs. Allen Cansler.

Members present were Mrs. W.T. Carmichael, Tom Burdett, Mary Carter, Bill Bradley, Lynton Allred, Sam Long, Paul Lyons, Katherine Palmer, J.D. Neil, Calla Mountz, Ed Line, Tommy Mountz, Wayne Thomas, Bob Sims, Joe Reinauer Jr., J.C. McCracken, A.J. Schroeter, Allen Cansler.

Study Club Officers

Due to vacancies in several club offices members of Music Study Club recently re-elected a new slate of officers. Serving for two-year terms will be, from left, Mrs. Tom Burdett, president; Mrs. Sid Shaw, vice president; Mrs. Joe Reinauer Jr., 2nd vice president; Mrs. A.J. Schroeter, treasurer; Mrs. Bob Sims, recording secretary; and Mrs. Tommy Betzen, corresponding secretary. Not pictured is Mrs. J.R. Allison, reporter-historian. [Brand photo by Denise Smith]

ICT-VICA Chapter Elects Officers

Hereford ICT Vocational Industrial Clubs of America Chapter No. 459, held their second meeting at the Pizza Hut recently under supervision of Ray Barber.

The meeting was called to order by president Kris Cardinal. Other officers elected to serve this year are Ricky Moore, vice president; Carol Day, secretary; Roy Stallings, treasurer; Shane Scott, sargent-at-arms; Laura Ivins, reporter; and Robert Byers, parliamentarian.

Danny Brinkley gave the invocation and the guest speaker was Cris Southward, who spoke about district leadership in VICA. Other guests were Ken Helms, Hereford ISD Vocational Director, his wife and Shirley Barber.

Local VICA members recently attended an Area VI VICA fall leadership conference at Canyon High School. The conference was designed as a motivational program. Ray Barber and Cris Southward conducted a group interest session on club business procedure.

Workshops attended by the local delegation were Job interview, Tom Jenkins; extemporaneous speech, Sharon Reed; prepared speech, Phil Earhart; outstanding chapter, Jackie Cabbiness; club business procedure, Ray Barber and Cris Southward; opening and closing ceremonies, Kent Cline and Bobby Allen; Chapter activities as part of the instructional program, Ted Henley. The afternoon sessions emphasized officer training.

The slate of VICA officers will be installed this month with Jeanette Taylor, State VICA president, acting as installing officer. Jeanette lives in Pampa and is an ICT member under direction of Phil Earhart.

Mike Moon Presents Book Review To Club

Veleda Study Club met in the home of Retha Tucker with guest speaker Mike Moon Monday evening.

Waneen Ragsdale introduced the guest speaker who gave a review of the book, "Passages."

Roll call was answered with "What has been the most fulfilling in my life."

Norma Walden presided over business. Members voted to renew Friends of the Library membership and two new members were approved, Marjorie Lasiter and Norma Jean Martin.

The next club meeting will be Oct. 22 in the Community Center with Becky Grounsnik presenting the program on "Aerobics."

Members present were Marcella Brady, Janice Brownlow, Frances Crume, Arvella Lauderdale, Marcella McLain, Teddie Poindexter, Waneen Ragsdale, Joyce Ritter, DeAnn Simon, Retha Tucker, Norma Walden, and Margaret Zinser.

FRESH CHERRY GELL Refreshing and pretty, 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin

1/2 cup cold water

1/2 cup boiling water

1-3rd cup sugar

2 tablespoons lemon juice

1 cup rose wine

1/2 pound sweet red cherries, pitted and halved (1 1/4 cups)

In a medium bowl sprinkle gelatin over cold water so gelatin swells -- about 5 minutes. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin dissolves. Stir in sugar until dissolved, then lemon juice, rose and cherries. Chill until slightly thickened. Stir to distribute cherries. Turn into six 1/2-cup molds or custard cups. Chill to set. Unmold by dipping molds briefly into warm (not hot) water. Makes 6 servings. This gel is very soft; you may prefer to turn it into sherbet cups, punch cups or glass dessert dishes and serve without unmolding.

Ann Landers

Insensitive Well-Wishers

DEAR ANN: My older sister, in her 30s, recently died of suicide. We were only two years apart. Paula (not her real name) had been seeing a therapist for several years. Just when I thought she was getting well, this awful thing happened.

Paula moved out of state years ago, and most of my acquaintances had never met her. My close friends, however, know the circumstances surrounding her death.

I am amazed at the number of people who have asked me to tell them the details of Paula's suicide. I usually respond abruptly by saying I don't want to talk about it. Now, after having been asked so often, I'm beginning to wonder if such a question is out of line, or does it show genuine concern about caring?

Please set me straight, Ann. Am I being rude and impatient with well-wishers? -- Second Thoughts In Minnesota four-door clod with nose trouble. Insensitive hulks deserve to be dealt with abruptly, and I hope you will continue to do so.

DEAR MIN: Anyone who would ask for details of a sister's suicide is no "well-wisher." He (or she) is a brass-plated.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to comment on the letter from that nutty lady who was furious because so many people wear their corsages upside down. The screwball clipped out several dozen pictures from various newspapers and sent them to you to prove her point. She plans a national crusade to get women to wear their corsages with the flowers looking up at them. "A flower should NEVER be worn with the stem above," she repeated for emphasis.

She's off her rocker. I've been a florist in Morristown, N.J. for many years, and there is no right or wrong way to wear a corsage. It depends on the size of the flower, the arrangement of the ribbon, the cut of the neckline (and even the sleeve) of the gown. Some corsages look best sideways.

Please tell Mrs. Know-It-All she's all wet.--Hothouse Harry

DEAR HOT HARRY: You already told her. No point in having her mad at both of us. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: People sometimes write to say they took your advice and it didn't turn out so hot. Well, I'm writing to say I DIDN'T take your advice, and it was the biggest mistake of my life.

The man I was in love with was an alcoholic. He promised to stop drinking. I believed him. You advised me not to marry him until he kept his word, joined Alcoholics Anonymous and stayed with the program at least six months. You said a year would be even better.

I was bull-headed and decided love would conquer all that he didn't need AA and could do it alone.

Now we have three small children. They never see him. I am only 27 and feel like 90. The bill collectors are driving me nuts. He has missed so many days of work (hung over) he'll probably lose his job any minute.

How I wish I could turn the clock back. Do you have any advice for me NOW? I swear I'll listen.--Jacksonville, Fla.

DEAR JACKSONVILLE: Look in the phone book under Al-Anon. Find out when the next meeting is--and go. It's free. Many women have gotten their husbands off the booze because they learned through Al-Anon how to deal with them. Get going, Dear.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK ARTICLE

Free Press, Free People

By PHIL DESSAUER
President, The Society of Professional Journalists
Sigma Delta Chi

The newspapers of our country are most of the things their critics say they are.

They're nosy, noisy, aggressive, irreverent, occasionally arrogant. In some instances they embarrass people, distort the truth, get facts wrong and—Lord knows—misspell names. They are a long way from perfect. . . just as our society is.

But newspapers broaden our lives. They pursue justice, expose grafters and lawbreakers—ranging all the way from Boss Tweed to Watergate. They keep watch over taxpayers' money; patrol the world in search of news; give us "instant history," telling it as it is. They inform, entertain, stand guard. . . and feed us millions of words every day with remarkable accuracy.

Daily and weekly papers can do these things because they are free. In countries without a free press the people needn't worry about aggressive reporters or high-handed editors; newspapers simply dish out the party line. If they stray, their publishers get unscheduled, indefinite vacations.

A free press has all the flaws of a free country. It has good guys and bad, diamonds and duds. But you have to ask yourself, "If we didn't have the First Amendment and a free flow of information, what would be the alternative?"

Control. Government control. . . and still more control—until there would be no room for factual reporting, no tolerance for unfavorable news, no noise or dissent. Just the deadening drug of conformity—and submission to Big Daddy Knows Best.

Newspapers should be responsible, truthful and worthy of trust. The great majority of them are. But if a few don't measure up, we can stand that—for as long as they are free, we are free.

(Mr. Dessauer is managing editor of the Tulsa Daily World, Tulsa, OK., and National President of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi.)

Clean Water Costs

HOUSTON (AP) — Douglas M. Costle, chief of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, believes the nation's water can be cleaned and then cleared but that it will take billions of dollars and years of work and research.

Costle said at a Tuesday news conference, and then repeated to delegates at the Water Pollution Control Federation, that Americans must not lose patience, nor should Congress "waffle" around about appropriations.

He also warned that serious environmental problems are coming, especially the dangers of disposal of hazardous chemical materials.

About 12,000 persons are attending the convention.

The EPA chief admitted the clean water program "is behind schedule, but at least we are turning the corner. We have made considerable headway. Industry officials who used to dismiss environmental protection as a fad have now buckled down to the job with commendable energy and imagination.

"Environmental protection has become a permanent part of our political value system. We need money and the American people are willing to spend money to protect the environment," he said.

The disposal of hazardous chemicals, Costle said, is the big headache of the future.

"For example," he said, "there are traces of 700 man-made chemicals in the Cincinnati water supply, chemicals that were not there 20 years ago. We need more research to determine the health effects of so many chemicals.

"And, the chemical waste landfills are just not adequate at this time."

Costle said he was convinced that with modern technology coal can be used safely as an energy source, "in fact as clean as oil."

He said for every federal dollar that is already at work cleaning up "our water, another $11 have been invested in the construction of plants that have yet to process a single ounce of waste water. As those plants come on line, we will start to see a dramatic acceleration in the rate of clean-up."

Cited by Costle as major water clean-up projects successful in the past few years were Willimantic River in Connecticut, Bogue Lusa Creek in Louisiana, the Calumet River in the heart of Chicago, Lake Erie and the River Rouge in Detroit.

Earlier in the conference, Federation president Martin Lang said there were too many attorneys involved in the clean water projects and the work should be turned over to scientists and engineers.

On that, Costle said, "almost every time we call for enforcement of regulations we wind up in court. The problems can't be turned over just to scientists and engineers. We must work in a partnership."

The cost, Costle said, will be high but "it is pay now or pay later and if it is paying later it will be a damn sight higher."

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former Gov. John Connally's presidential campaign headquarters said Tuesday Jim Campbell of Pampa has been named state organizational director.

Campbell a rancher and businessman, was a Texas leader in Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign in 1976.

The Connally campaign also said that Ken Towery of Austin and Scott Caven of Houston will serve as deputy organization directors.

Towery was Sen. John Tower's administrative assistant for several years, served as deputy director of the United States Information Agency and ran Richard Nixon's 1968 presidential campaign in Texas.

Caven is a stockbroker with Goldman, Sachs & Co. He was a legal assistant and planning analyst in the governor's office during Connally's final year as governor, 1968.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who is president of the Houston Post, told Capitol reporters Tuesday of a recent visit to the People's Daily in China, which has a circulation of 6.25 million.

Hobby said the Chinese language has 7,000 characters, and the People's Daily keeps 4,000 characters in stock, which are set by hand.

The presses are Czech-made, Hobby said, although the Chinese are trying to buy United States presses.

"Think of the oldest newspaper plant you've ever been in," said Hobby, "and this was twice as old."

Hobby returned Sunday from a 15-day trade mission to China.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission said Tuesday the federal Office of Surface Mining has approved $140,000 in grants to reclaim two abandoned lignite mining operations in Hopkins County.

The sites to be reclaimed are usually identified as the Wallace mine and the Lumsden mine, the commission said.

The Wallace mine is approximately five miles southeast of Sulphur Springs. The Lumsden mine is 12 miles south of Sulphur Springs.

"There has been substantial erosion of spoil material onto adjacent property and onto a county road," said Acting Director J. Randal Hill of the commission's Surface Mining and Reclamation Division.

"Also, there has been siltation of streams and drainageways and in a downstream recreational lake which needs to be abated."

Reclamation work is expected to begin in early 1980.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Robert A. Shults, a Houston lawyer, will replace J.R. Ormsher of Dallas as investigator into possible financial irregularities at North Texas State University.

The announcement was made by Andy Shuval, director of the Texas Prosecutors Coordinating Council.

Ormsher, who was on loan from the Dallas district attorney's office, is leaving to enter private practice in Dallas, Shuval said.

Shults has served as a lawyer for the University of Houston, and Shuval said he "became familiar with the activities of university foundations and the manner in which they work."

He is a partner in the firm of Burge, Shults, Driscoll and Driscoll.

DALLAS (AP) — City Manager George Schrader has recommended Dallas not allow two cable television companies seeking permission to sell their service in the city until other firms are given a chance to bid.

Allowing a company to bring cable television into the city now "could pre-determine some features of the cable system and could reduce the attractiveness of the city of Dallas as a cable television franchise territory," Schrader told the City Council Monday.

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — San Angelo City Commissioners have indicated they will support a city-wide pay raise referendum for police and firefighters.

Representatives of the police and fire officers told the commission Tuesday they will ask voters to approve a referendum that would give them a $272 a month raise in basic pay.

Jerry Watkins and Gene Bell, representing the "Public Safety Committee" of firemen and policemen, told the commission they have started circulating petitions calling for the referendum.

The organization must collect 899 signatures, or 25 percent of the total vote in the last San Angelo city election.

Commissioner Kenneth McNease said "we are not opposed" to the referendum and fellow commissioners nodded in agreement.

The committee wants minimum salaries for officers who have completed a six-month probation period from $921 per month to $1,193 per month.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans recently upheld a three-year prison term assessed a former Fort Worth banker, but the man's lawyer says he will seek a full hearing before the court.

George Thompson III had asked that the court set aside his conviction on charges he made a $45,000 loan without notifying the Internal Revenue Service.

Prosecutors had argued that

Thompson made the loan with the knowledge that the jazz musician who got the money would use it to buy cocaine.

Thompson's lawyer, Frank McCown, said he would seek a hearing before the full court in its written opinion failed to discuss several basic points he raised in his client's behalf.

The court ruled that the law requiring the reports is not so vague that it is unconstitutional, that Thompson's breaking the $45,000 loan into five $9,000 loans did not get around requirements that loans over $10,000 be reported, and that prosecutors presented sufficient evidence to support the guilty verdict.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas City Council had before it today the question of whether to commit $11,500 for selection of a new community service center in west Dallas.

Some members of the council said before the meeting they disliked the threat attached to the issue. The Mexican-American Assembly for Civic Involvement issued statements saying it would organize opposition to the city's next bond issue unless the financial commitment were made.

"I don't particularly like the idea of making decisions about city projects based on threats or bribes," councilman Richard Smith said.

He said the city should proceed with the West Dallas Center only if council members are satisfied the project has merit, not because it could cost them support of the bond issue if they scrap the proposal.

The center would cost an estimated $1.7 million to build, and officials said it was likely it would come from federal funds.

England Prime Minister Urged to Recognize

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher came under increasing pressure today from members of her Conservative Party to recognize the Muzorewa government of Zimbabwe Rhodesia as black guerrilla leaders continued to resist key provisions of the new constitution proposed by Britain for the breakaway African colony.

The chairman of the Zimbabwe Rhodesian peace conference, Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, went to Blackpool today to report to the annual Conservative Party convention. Right-wing delegates there were campaigning for recognition of the biracial government headed by Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, who has accepted the British draft constitution.

Carrington, after demanding that guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe accept the British proposals without change by Monday, gave them an extension until Thursday when they refused to accept several key points. But there was no indication that they would modify their position or their demand that the conference shelve the constitutional proposals and negotiate the composition and powers of a new government.

Muzorewa, having accepted the draft constitution, was demanding that the British government lift the diplomatic and economic sanctions invoked when his white predecessor, Prime Minister Ian Smith, declared Rhodesia independent 14 years ago.

Because of the uncertain outlook for the peace talks, the Conservative convention had before it a bland motion saying the party looks forward to full recognition by Her Majesty's Government of a multiracial government in Zimbabwe Rhodesia. But the right-wingers hoped to amend this and distributed lapel buttons reading "Lift Sanctions Now" and "Recognize Zimbabwe Rhodesia."

They gave an enthusiastic reception Tuesday to two of Muzorewa's cabinet ministers, a black and a white. But they greeted a guerrilla representative invited by members of the party's left wing with chants of "murderers" and "terrorists."

Meanwhile, at the peace talks Tuesday the guerrilla leaders of the Patriotic Front reiterated their objections to provisions in the British draft favoring the white minority and said they could give no final answer until the conference agreed on setting up an interim administration to hold new elections and a new army.

Carrington again said he would not shelve the constitution and discuss a new interim government.

"This would mean we had wasted four weeks of inconclusive discussion and would place the whole future of this conference in doubt," the foreign secretary said. "There comes a time when the spirit of decision must take over."

The Front is objecting to property, pension and citizenship rights promised the whites for 10 years.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission said Tuesday the federal Office of Surface Mining has approved $140,000 in grants to reclaim two abandoned lignite mining operations in Hopkins County.

"There has been substantial erosion of spoil material onto adjacent property and onto a county road," said Acting Director J. Randal Hill of the commission's Surface Mining and Reclamation Division.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Robert A. Shults, a Houston lawyer, will replace J.R. Ormsher of Dallas as investigator into possible financial irregularities at North Texas State University.

Supporters Pledge Connally $500,000

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — It had been a long, problem-filled day of campaigning for John Connally. But the Republican presidential hopeful had on his dancing shoes Tuesday night as supporters pledged to swell his already-bulging campaign coffers by about $500,000.

Airplane problems in flight forced the former Texas governor to miss a rich afternoon reception. But it had no apparent effect, as he made it in time for a later fund-raising dance and picked up a check for $125,000 and pledges for up to $375,000 more.

"This was organized by a bunch of young people who want to help," Connally said of the dance. He then quipped, "It's not my first choice for an evening's activity, as much as I'm on my feet. But if they want to dance, we're gonna have a dance."

Connally, 62, who has raised more than $4 million for his campaign to win the Republican nomination, was coming to San Antonio Tuesday afternoon for a private Connally Charter Club reception.

About 50 club members, each of whom has pledged to raise $10,000 for Connally's campaign, had gathered at a plush downtown hotel for the reception when it was announced Connally's plane had returned to Houston.

"We lost our electrical system. The pilot said we were going back to Houston and I said, 'Fine, I'm with you.'" Connally jokingly explained.

Connally was able to borrow another plane, round up a crew and arrive in time for the $1,000-per-couple, formal dinner-dance.

Connally, who lives in nearby Floresville, was presented with a $125,000 check at the dance. Local Charter Club Chairman Shelton Padgett said that represented cash collected Tuesday at both fund-raising functions.

Padgett said he had invited 75 persons to join the Charter Club and received pledges from 48 of those who said they would each raise $10,000. There were about 125 couples at the dinner-dance.

"We've been able to raise more money than any candidate in either party," said Connally, noting that federal law limits individual contributions to $1,000. "We have over 10,000 different contributors. That simply means we have a broad base of support."

Connally, a three-term governor of Texas as a Democrat in the 1960s and a Cabinet member under President Nixon, said his campaign organizations will be in place in each state by mid-November.

He said he is running "neck-and-neck" with Republican front-runner Ronald Reagan in Florida's non-binding, presidential preference convention Nov. 17. That, he added, is despite the fact that Reagan supporters control the process and that Reagan gains exposure through his syndicated newspaper columns and radio shows.

Spurs Stay in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs have resolved their dispute with San Antonio city council members and won't be moving back to Dallas, says Spurs President Angelo Drossos.

Drossos had created a furor when he told the San Antonio Express-News in a copyrighted article Sunday that he was looking into the possibility of moving the National Basketball Association team to Dallas because of problems with the city council.

He now says he misunderstood the situation.

Drossos met Monday with council members to settle the dispute that had developed over the possible loss of some portable seats in the city-owned HemisFair Arena where the Spurs play.

The 568 choice seats had been allowed in the past and were pre-sold by the Spurs this year.

City officials, however, said it was understood those seats, which are in violation of the city code, would be removed this year because the arena seating has been increased.

Under an agreement worked out with the fire marshal and approved last week by the council, the Spurs were allowed to install 294 permanent seats in one row of the fire aisle, but not two rows.

Drossos, pointing out that the other portable seats are already sold and were allowed in the past, then attacked the council for non-support and said he feared it was a preview of bad things to come.

Drossos said he was especially fearful that the team would lose the concession rights when its contract with the city expires in three years. That, he said, would cause the team serious financial problems.

The Spurs president said in the article that he would meet this week with NBA officials to explore the possibility of moving the franchise back to Dallas.

But after the meeting Monday, Drossos said the controversy developed because of "a misunderstanding on my part as to the council's intention."

He added, "This is where the team belongs. The relationship between the city and the Spurs is as strong as ever."

Meanwhile, two of the 11 council members have launched a move to allow the second row of seats.

But Councilman Gene Canavan was angry with Drossos putting out what Canavan called a "one-sided story."

"I don't appreciate it at all," he said. "Drossos made it look like we were taking something away when actually we were adding 294 more seats."

The Spurs moved to San Antonio from Dallas when the old Dallas Chaparrals of the now-defunct American Basketball Association flopped there.

The team has been a success in San Antonio, entering the NBA with the 1976 ABA-NBA merger. The Spurs have won two consecutive NBA Central Division titles.

Rice Coach Picks Sooners

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University Coach Ray Alborn, whose Owls lost to Texas and Oklahoma on successive weekends, said Tuesday that the Sooners should win the annual slugfest in Dallas if they don't fumble away their chances.

"Oklahoma has a very explosive offense and unless they leave the ball on the ground (fumble), I don't see anyone stopping them," Alborn said.

"Now if they have trouble pitching the ball, Texas could win but if they get the ball to the corner it could be a long afternoon. If I were going to pick a winner I'd pick Oklahoma."

Alborn has an accurate track record for picking the winner of the annual classic.

When the Owls lost to Oklahoma 66-7 and to Texas 34-0 last year, Alborn predicted a Sooners victory. Texas Coach Fred Akers didn't like the forecast but the Sooners did win the game 31-10.

Rice improved against UT and OU this season, losing to Oklahoma 63-21 and to Texas 26-9 and Alborn has the same prediction for the 1979 game.

The game shapes up as a battle between the potent Oklahoma offense led by Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims and the rugged defense of the Longhorns, rated by some as the best in the school's history.

"Texas' defense tackle to tackle, manhandled us pretty well," Alborn said. "They put a big rush on and their secondary is good. We just couldn't get the ball to our receivers."

Alborn said the Sooners aren't as powerful offensively as last year and that graduated Thomas Lott was more effective operating the wishbone than J.C. Watts.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see Oklahoma start Kelly Phelps," Alborn said.

Sims and UT running back A.J. Jones each rushed over 100 yards against the Owls but Sims played less than one-half of the game and Jones played the entire game.

"Jones is a good back, but he's not Billy Sims," Alborn said. "Not by any score. I mean, Jones isn't bad, but Sims is in a class by himself."

One stumbling block to the OU offense and Sims could be Longhorn safety Johnnie Johnson, Alborn said.

"Johnnie Johnson, their free safety, will be able to create some problems for the Oklahoma offense," Alborn said.

"Texas will support him on both sides against the run."

Dallas Trades For Dutton

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys almost drafted John Dutton five years ago, but instead took Ed "Too Tall" Jones.

With Jones now retired and boxing for a living, they traded two precious draft picks Tuesday, hoping to fill the void with the defensive end they now wish they had drafted in the first place.

The Cowboys signed Dutton, who stubbornly refused to play for the Baltimore Colts this season because of a dispute with management, to a multi-year contract for undisclosed terms.

Jones was the fifth person in the draft in 1974 and club President Tex Schramm said "We debated at great length whether to take Ed or John Dutton."

"Of course, our philosophy is the draft, but we are not totally against trading for a player who is quality and who is Dutton's age."

"Dutton is 28 and an All-Pro and we are not so hide-bound that we won't do what's proper. The loss of 'Too Tall,' who was on an All-Pro level, threw off our scheduling and our timing or we would not have done it."

The Cowboys surrendered a No. 1 and No. 2 round draft pick in 1980 for the somewhat stunned Dutton, who flew to Dallas for a late Tuesday night press conference.

"I just about gave up all hope of playing this year because I was not going to play for the Colts," said Dutton, who was obtained a mere 20 minutes before the trading deadline. "I didn't think the Cowboys would get me because I thought they had everything."

The 6-foot-7, 266-pound Dutton was an All-Pro in 1976 and three times has been to the Pro Bowl.

Coach Tom Landry said Dutton, who played right end at Baltimore, would be inserted in Jones' old left end position as soon as it was possible.

Landry said "There's no question that he can help us. It'll probably take him a while to regain his competitive edge."

"It would be wrong to say that he can come back right now and play like he did when he was at the top of his game."

Dutton is not likely to play in Sunday night's meeting with the Los Angeles Rams. When he does play, he will wear the same number, 78, that he wore for the Colts.

Dutton said his dispute with Baltimore "was not financial... it was just not the place for me to be... I can't play football if I'm unhappy."

Dutton's agent, attorney Howard Slusher said: "John didn't come here for the money. He just wants respect. The Colts could have made him the most wealthy player in the NFL and he would have turned them down."

The Cowboys acquired Dutton to shore up their defensive line, which has been less than adept at pass rushing this year.

"I feel like I can pass rush if I need to, but I think I'm probably really better against the run," said Dutton, who had 17 sacks one year with the Colts.

NBA Season; A Race From Start

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

The Seattle SuperSonics have improved significantly since last season, when they won their first National Basketball Association championship.

Yet they are anything but a lock to become the first team in more than a decade to win consecutive NBA titles.

The Sonics will have their hands full repeating in the Pacific Division, by far the NBA's toughest, let alone going all the way. Pacific playmates Phoenix and Los Angeles rate right up with Seattle as legitimate contenders for the NBA title, and San Diego and Portland are both only a couple of players away.

Seattle has last year's title team back intact, and has added three players who should make valuable contributions: center Tom LaGarde, who missed most of last season because of a knee injury, and college standouts James Bailey of Rutgers and Vinnie Johnson of Baylor. The Sonics will need them all if they are to become the league's first repeat champion since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics.

In the Midwest, the Kansas City Kings lost their home — the roof fell in on Kemper Arena, forcing a move to older, smaller Municipal Auditorium — but are favored to retain their division title, although Denver has the firepower to regain the top spot.

Pacific Division

SEATTLE — The Sonics are loaded. Jack Sikma, Lonnie Shelton, LaGarde, Bailey and veteran Paul Silas share the power positions. John Johnson and Wally Walker are the small forwards, Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams are the best two-way guard tandem in the league, and Fred Brown and Vinnie Johnson are explosive reserves. The coolness of Coach Wilkens and the intensity of the huge Kingdom crowds are other plusses. Minuses? None are apparent.

PHOENIX — A full year from Truck Robinson, who came over from the Jazz in midseason and then suffered an illness late in the year, could be all the Suns need to shine. There are no new faces, with the all-star starting five — Robinson and Walter Davis at forward, Alvan Adams in the middle and Paul Westphal and Don Buse on the back line — again backed up by no-name reserves like Mike Bratz and Joel Kramer. Veteran Gar Heard was a pleasant surprise last spring, but the Suns need Robinson to play up to his form of 1978, when he led the NBA in rebounding, if they are to go all the way.

LOS ANGELES — They're billing it as the Magic Show, now that rookie Earvin "Magic" Johnson has arrived from NCAA champion Michigan State to team with Norm Nixon in the backcourt. But the keys for the Lakers remain up front. Newcomers Spencer Haywood and Jim Chones should finally provide some rebounding help for center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, while Jamaal Wilkes shifts to his more natural position of small forward. If Johnson's enthusiasm rubs off on Abdul-Jabbar, the Lakers could well make a run at the title.

PORTLAND — The Trail Blazers, who added Kevin Kunnert and Kermit Washington in the Bill Walton compensation award, have as much depth as any team in the league, and it will come in handy because versatile Mychal Thompson is out the first half of the year because of a broken leg. Tom Owens shares the center spot with Kunnert while the presence of Washington may make all-star forward Maurice Lucas expendable. Top draft pick Jimmy Paxson of Duke bolsters a deep backcourt.

SAN DIEGO — The Clippers' fortunes rest on Bill Walton's shaky legs, because no player in the league brings as much out of his teammates as the red-haired center. And Walton will have to be at his best to get anything from San Diego's motley group of forwards — Nick Weatherspoon, Sidney Wicks, Joe Bryant and Jerome Whitehead. The backcourt of Loyd Free, Brian Taylor and Freeman Williams is solid.

GOLDEN STATE — The Warriors are an ordinary team in an extraordinary division. Robert Parish is a first-rate center and one of the NBA's best-kept secrets. John Lucas and Sonny Parker are other quality players, but the Warriors lack the overall strength or depth to challenge in the potent Pacific.

Midwest Division

KANSAS CITY — The baby backcourt of Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong is a year older, but so is center Sam Lacey. The Kings obtained Mike Green from San Antonio to take the pressure off Lacey until Tom Burleson, who underwent knee surgery, is ready to play in midseason. Rookie Reggie "Mule" King should step in and help as a reserve forward.

DENVER — Donnie Walsh, who did well enough as interim coach late last season to get the job on a permanent basis, decided to stick with the same explosive lineup as last season. David Thompson and George McGinnis are a potent 1-2 punch, but center Dan Issel, at 31, isn't getting any quicker and the team defense is not the best.

MILWAUKEE — The Bucks have added rebounding strength in Pat Cummings and Harvey Catchings and point production in guard Sidney Moncrief, but their future depends on the development of center Kent Benson, who seemed to come around late last year. The pre-season holdout of forward Marques Johnson, the all-around star who didn't report until Monday, didn't help.

CHICAGO — Ricky Sobers, who came from Indiana as compensation for the loss of free agent forward Mickey Johnson, gives Chicago a genuine playmaker and a fine runningmate for Reggie Theus. Rookie forward David Greenwood should help take the pressure off center Artis Gilmore, but small forward is a big problem unless Scott May is over his knee troubles.

UTAH — The transplanted Jazz has plenty of scoring power with Pete Maravich, Adrian Dantley and Bernard King, but center is a weakness — journeyman John Gianelli and converted forward James Hardy.

Tomorrow: the Eastern Conference.

Game One Rained Out

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 1979 World Series was tied 0-0 today because not even baseball's annual fall classic can fool around with Mother Nature.

It rained on the scheduled Tuesday night opener of the best-of-seven game confrontation between the Baltimore Orioles and Pittsburgh Pirates.

It marked the first time in the 76-year history of the Series that the opener was postponed. And it was the 26th time a Series game bowed to the elements - 25 to rain and one because of cold weather.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn called off the game at 8:32 P.M. EDT just two minutes after the scheduled starting time. The decision was booed by the fans, but justified by the continuing downpour and dire weather forecast for the rest of Tuesday night.

There was no way the American League champion Orioles and National League winning Pirates could have played on the sopping wet natural grass and dirt surface. Although a tarpaulin covered the infield, the outfield was full of puddles.

It wouldn't have taken long once the tarp was off to turn the infield into a quagmire. And, the valuable talent on both teams would have been subjected to possible injury.

The Series opens tonight (8:30 P.M. EDT) and continues Thursday night. The teams will hustle to Pittsburgh for a third game Friday night. The fourth game is scheduled for Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon.

If needed, a fifth game is scheduled for Pittsburgh Sunday afternoon with Monday off and a return to Baltimore if Games Six and Seven are necessary.

Cooper Tops 4A Ratings

Abilene Cooper dominates Class 4A of The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll this week just as it has dominated its four opponents this season.

Jasper still leads in Class 3A with 13 first place selections but is being challenged by Kerrville Tivy.

Pittsburg remained ahead of Childress as the Class 2A leader with 12 first-place votes, compared with three for Childress.

China Spring maintained its lead in Class A but has a new challenger this week with Haskell assuming the No. 2 spot after Falls City, last week's runner-up, was upset by Lavonia last week.

Two losses among the 4A teams resulted in a shakeup of the ranks and a return to the top 10 by Highland Park.

Highland Park, which dropped out of the list after an earlier loss to Plano, defeated No. 4 Lake Highlands 17-16 and regained the No. 10 position. Lake Highlands dropped to No. 9.

Seguin, No. 5 last week, disappeared from the list after a loss to San Antonio MacArthur, making room for Highland Park. Gainesville, ranked seventh last week, was the lone loser in 3A and dropped off the list. Cuero, 5-0, made its first appearance of the season as the No. 10 team.

Whitehouse and Hondo, ranked sixth and seventh last week, were upset victims in 2A. Whitehouse dropped out of the top 10 while Hondo fell to the No. 10 spot. Hays Consolidated, 5-0, moved in as the No. 9 team.

Falls City hung on in the A rankings as No. 10, fighting off the challenge of three unbeaten teams, Lovelady, Pilot Point and Montgomery. All three teams received 10 points in the voting.

Big Get Bigger

Report Documents Family Farm's Decline

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has called the second annual Family Farm Report to Congress—made available Oct. 2 to the public—"one of the most important resource documents on farm structure published by the department this year."

The report, "Status of the Family Farm," deals with structural changes occurring in the farm sector; the distribution of 1978 commodity program payments and benefits among farmers; the implications of forward contracting and direct farm-to-consumer marketing; and the structural changes that have occurred in beef cattle feeding.

The report confirms earlier findings that the decline in farm numbers over the past several decades is largely a result of larger farms absorbing small units. This growth of existing farms through consolidation is the primary means by which the increasing concentration in farming is taking place.

At the same time, the report shows the average age of farm operators is steadily increasing, moving from 48.7 years in 1945 to 51.7 years in 1974. Only about half of older farmers leaving the profession between 1964 and 1974 were replaced by younger farmers.

The report says there have been structural changes in the cattle feeding business, once an industry of small farmer-feeders located primarily on grain farms in the Corn Belt. Today, the industry is dominated by large feedlots in the Southern and Central Plains which use industrial-type management, financing and marketing techniques. One-half of the cattle produced in feedlots come from 400 large operations and while there are still more than 130,000 small (less than 1,000 head capacity) feedlots, they produce less than one-third of the fed cattle.

In the area of federal farm program benefits, the report indicated that because payments are related to individual farm acreages and volume of production, the benefits were distributed with relatively more going to larger producers.

In 1978, a total of $2 billion in payments were made to farmers, the largest amount since 1973. But almost half of the payments went to the 10 percent of the program participants who operated the largest farms. In contrast, 50 percent of the farms—those with the smaller units—received only 10 percent of the payments.

Among other findings included in the report:

—Farmers are increasingly using forward contracts in the production and marketing of commodities, and primarily doing so to reduce risk. Twenty-one percent of all agricultural commodities were produced or marketed under contract in 1974, compared to 17 percent in 1970. Farms using contracts tend to be larger than those not contracting, averaging $123,000 in total sales compared with $48,000 in total sales for those not forward contracting.

—Poultry, dairy products, vegetables, fruits and sugar crops are most frequently produced or marketed under contract. The use of contracts—although still small—is increasing for grains and hogs.

—The potential for greatly increased direct farmer-to-consumer marketing is small due to the limited number of farms located near markets which produce commodities suitable for direct sale. Farms deriving the most benefit from direct marketing programs are relatively small, with gross sales under $40,000.

—Increased opportunities for direct marketing could materially improve the well-being of some farms while creating a more competitive environment for consumers shopping in these locations.

Single copies of the report may be ordered from ESCS publications, room 0054-S, Washington, D.C. 20250. Or phone (202) 447-7255. Ask for "Status of the Family Farm, Agricultural Economic Report number 434."

Government Analysts Take Second Look At Farm Crop Supply, Demand Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government analysts soon will take another look at 1979 farm crop prospects to see how the supply stacks up with demands in the coming year.

The first step will be the Agriculture Department's monthly crop production report, scheduled to be released Friday. Later, analysts will issue new figures showing the expected "disappearance" of key crops such as corn and wheat through the remainder of the 1979-80 season.

Also on Friday, USDA will issue an updated estimate of the Soviet Union's grain harvest this year, an important factor in determining the export demand for U.S. grain.

Wheat, oats, barley and some other U.S. crops have been harvested, but the big fall harvests of corn and soybeans are running later than normal and are just getting well under way in the major production areas.

A month ago, based on Sept. 1 indications, USDA forecast the corn crop at a record 7.27 billion bushels, an increase of 3 percent from the previous high of 7.08 billion in 1978.

The average yield of corn from each acre expected to be harvested this fall was put at a record of 104.6 bushels, compared with 101.2 bushels an acre from the 1978 crop.

Although much of the 1979 corn crop was planted late last spring, nearly all of it has developed enough by now to escape frost damage, according to USDA observers.

Nothing severe has occurred in the past month to reduce yields from the Sept. 1 outlook, they say. The October corn production estimate, in fact, could be somewhat higher.

Meanwhile, corn exports—including possible record shipments to the Soviet Union—are running well ahead of a year ago and are affecting market prices.

"Grain prices are usually lower at harvest than at other times of the year," said a recent USDA newsletter to farmers.

"But this year's pricing pattern may be trickier to figure out because large export sales may overshadow the normal seasonal pattern.

"For example, corn export sales for the 1979-80 marketing year (that began Oct. 1) are nearly 500 million bushels ahead of new crop commitments at this time last year."

Consequently, it said, corn prices have not weakened as much as might be expected with the huge harvest now at hand.

The department's supply-and-demand analysis after the September production report projected corn exports in the 1979-80 marketing year of some 1.4 billion bushels, up from 1.19 billion last year. The analysis will be updated next week to reflect the October figures.

Corn prices at the farm, the month-old analysis said, were expected to average in a range of $3.60 to $3.90 a bushel, compared with $2.94 over the entire 1978-79 marketing year.

TDWR Publishes Estimates On Groundwater

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Water Resources has published a new report containing estimates of available groundwater that is recoverable in Texas aquifers on an average annual basis from 1980 through the year 2030.

Average annual groundwater availability from major and minor aquifers is estimated to range from approximately 10.2 million acre-feet in 1980 to 8.4 million acre-feet in the year 2030.

An acre-foot of water is the amount of water that would cover an acre to a depth of one foot or 325,851 gallons.

Updating estimates from the department's previous water planning studies and appraising newly collected data, the department utilized digital computer models of aquifers and other methods of analyses to project more current estimates of aquifer recharge, depletion, water quality, and available groundwater. The report provides a comprehensive groundwater reference for current use and for future state and local water planning.

Detailed tabulations in the report indicate groundwater availability by aquifer and by river or coastal basin. A table shows estimated available groundwater recoverable in each of the aquifers through the year 2030. The use of digital computer models of five of the aquifers is described in depth as a method of analysis. A recommendation is made to develop and maintain active digital computer models of aquifers in order to more accurately evaluate the effects of ground-water withdrawal on depletion of aquifer storage, land-surface subsidence, coastal flooding, salt-water encroachment, and available ground water.

Titled "Ground-Water Availability in Texas—Estimates and Projections Through 2030," the report is available without charge from the Texas Department of Water Resources, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711. The report number is 238.

Major aquifers included in the study are the Ogallala, Carrizo-Wilcox, Edwards (Balcones Fault Zone), Trinity Group, Alluvium and Bolson Deposits, Gulf Coast, and the Edwards-Trinity (Plateau).

Minor aquifers in the report are Woodbine, Sparta, Queen City, Edwards-Trinity (High Plains), Santa Rosa, Hickory Sandstone, Ellenburger-San Sabá, Marble Falls Limestone, Blaine Gypsum, Igneous Rocks, Marathon Limestone, Bone Spring and Victoria Peak Limestones, Capitan Limestone, Rustler, Nacatoch Sand, Blossom Sand, Purgatoire-Dakota, and other undifferentiated smaller aquifers.

Wheat Release Continues

WASHINGTON — Producers may continue to redeem wheat from the farmer-owned grain reserve at least through Oct. 31, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has announced.

The Agricultural Marketing Service daily average adjusted prices on Sept. 28 and the mid-month price for wheat reported by the Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service were above the $3.29 per bushel release level. The daily adjusted price on Sept. 27 was $3.72 and the mid-month price was $3.84.

Since wheat was released from the reserve May 16, producers have redeemed 159.7 million bushels, 38.7 percent of the 413.2 million which were then in the reserve.

Opportunity For Learning Saluted During 4-H Week

COLLEGE STATION — The 4-H program provides youth between the ages of 9 and 19 in Texas and throughout the nation an opportunity to make the most out of life and to become responsible citizens and leaders.

In essence, 4-H provides "expanding horizons," the theme of this year's National 4-H Week, Oct. 7-13, points out Dr. John T. Pelham, state 4-H and youth leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Extension Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System, is the parent organization of 4-H.

"4-H provides a wide range of 'real-life' experiences for youth in a 'learning-by-doing' environment," explain Pelham. "This helps them become productive, self-directed and contributing members of society."

More than 137,000 boys and girls are enrolled in 4-H in Texas, with the national enrollment totaling some 5.2 million. There are some 2,000 organized 4-H clubs in the state and almost 1,100 special interest groups.

"A vital cog in a successful 4-H program are volunteer leaders," notes Pelham. "Texas boasts some 16,200 adult leaders and more than 6,300 junior and teen leaders who give direction to specific project areas and assist 4-H members with special events and activities."

As far as 4-H projects are concerned, Texas youth are engaged in a wide range of programs that are providing meaningful learning experiences. By far the most popular project area is foods and nutrition, which is attracting more than 36,400 youth. Electric projects rank second at more than 14,370. The horse and pony project is attracting the third highest enrollment with more than 1,500, while clothing and textiles is running a close third with an enrollment of more than 11,200. Following in the top 10 listing of project enrollments are safety, creative crafts, beef, home gardens, sheep and swine.

"With the emergence of new project areas, special interest groups and 'self-directed' programs, 4-H is reaching boys and girls from every cultural, economic and social background and is opening doors to a lifetime of personal growth and fulfillment.

Holly Hires Rudd As Agriculturalist

Holly Sugar Corporation announced the hiring of a new Agriculturalist, Homer Rudd, a native of Hereford, has been hired to fill the vacancy in the North and East District, according to Calvin Jones, agriculture manager for Holly's Hereford plant.

Rudd was reared in the Westway area and graduated from Hereford High School. After receiving his B.S. Degree from Texas Tech University he entered the U.S. Army Artillery School of Electronics where he studied the electronic guidance system of the "Nike" missile.

"Having worked for various local feed lots and a local irrigation pipe company, Rudd is a welcome addition to the Holly Agricultural Staff here at Hereford," said Jones.

Rudd's wife, June, is a registered nurse for the Hereford Independent School District and they have five children.

Driveway is stained

DEAR POLLY — We have had no luck cleaning oil and rust off our cement driveway. Ours was stained by rust and oil falling from an old car. Thanks for any help. — JOYCE
DEAR JOYCE (and Mrs. L.M. who has the same problem) — One suggested remedy for this is to scrub with a solution of one-fourth pound trisodium phosphate in a gallon of hot water. Some scouring powder may also be added. Use a very stiff brush and then rinse well. If the stains are old sprinkle trisodium phosphate on them and then moisten with hot water. Let stand at least 30 minutes and then scrub hard with the stiff brush. Rinse with the hose. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My vinyl bird bath turned yellow so I filled it with a solution of bleach and water and let it stand overnight. Be sure to cover it or take it indoors so that our feathered friends are not harmed by a bleach burn. — ELLEN
DEAR POLLY — Hal's question about packing a suit in a suitcase reminded me of the way my father taught me when I packed to go to college many years ago. Spread the jacket out on a flat surface so that the lining is down and the back is "face up." Place the sleeves so that they line up along the back center seam. Fold the two front panels over the sleeves so the jacket is "inside out." Then fold the jacket in half along the center seam, still inside out. Finally the tail of the jacket can be folded up to make it short enough to fit in the suitcase. Folding a jacket this way keeps the sleeves and the front as flat as possible and the few inevitable wrinkles usually come out if it is hung up as soon as it can be unpacked. — P.S.C.

Hispanic Pushed For Mexico Job

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hispanic groups, pushing for President Carter to make more top appointments from their fast-growing minority, have a new target created by Patrick J. Lucey's resignation as ambassador to Mexico.

"We will now be conducting a very vigorous campaign to insure that a Hispanic is nominated to fill the vacancy," Ruben Bonilla of the League of United Latin American Citizens said after Lucey's resignation was announced Tuesday.

Hispanic leaders called for a Spanish-speaking ambassador to be appointed last spring when rumors circulated of Lucey's pending resignation.

Lucey, a former Wisconsin governor, did not speak Spanish.

That round ended with Lucey remaining in Mexico City and former Texas congressman Bob Krueger nominated for a new position as ambassador-at-large to coordinate U.S.-Mexican relations from the Washington center.

Vilma Martinez of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund said her organization worked last spring for a Hispanic to be appointed as ambassador-at-large.

"I am sure this presents us with another opportunity to try again," she said by phone from San Francisco.

Ms. Martinez is a member of the president's ambassadorial review committee.

She said possible candidates last spring included Esteban Torres, then U.S. ambassador to UNESCO and now Carter's special assistant for Hispanic affairs; Graciela Olivarez, the Community Services Administration's director; Cris Aldrete, director of the Southwest Regional Border Commission; and Abelardo L. Valdez, nominated as the White House protocol chief.

Valdez, of Floresville, Texas, was assistant administrator for Latin America at the Agency for International Development until his recent nomination to the protocol post.

Aldrete, of Del Rio, Texas, was an aide for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, before moving to the border commission.

Bonilla said he planned to send Carter a telegram endorsing Valdez as the next ambassador.

"I think it is long overdue that a Hispanic is nominated for that critical position," Bonilla said by phone from Corpus Christi, Texas. "Valdez is competent and capable."

Carter sent Krueger's nomination as ambassador-at-large to the Senate in June for confirmation. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee gave its approval last month but the nomination was awaiting action by the full Senate.

Among the other vacant positions mentioned by Hispanics as targets for possible appointments are secretary of the newly created Department of Education, deputy attorney general and commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Baptist Church Rips TV Movie

DALLAS (AP) — The Beverly Hills Baptist Church has urged viewers to boycott a drama scheduled next week on national television because it depicts an incestuous relationship between a mother and her son.

The 6,000-member church placed weekend newspaper advertisements calling for television watchers to tune out next Sunday and Tuesday nights when the two-part drama "Flesh and Blood" will be aired.

The ad called the show "the lurid account of a young boxer who has a torrid love affair with his mother while trying to kill his opponents in the ring. The detestable act of incest is not only accepted but condoned."

CBS programming executive James H. Rosenfield issued a statement previously describing the show as "neither salacious nor sensational, nor does it contain any explicit depictions of, or references to, incest. The young fighter's relationship with his mother is implied, but never explicit."

"There are no sex scenes between the mother and son," Harrison said.

But the Rev. Steve Moffatt of the Beverly Hills Baptist Church said, "We feel very strongly the effect of the drama is to condone incest, whether it is shown or not. The suggestion is there."

Fibrillating heart

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband is 45 years old and for the last eight years he has had a heart condition the doctors call atrial fibrillation. He's only had about three attacks in eight years and the last one was very recent. The doctors have done all kinds of blood tests, sugar tests, electrocardiogram and the study of his arteries and everything is normal. They don't seem to be able to find out what's causing it since he's never had a heart attack.

Lately he's starting to worry about himself and it is acting up about every three days. He was told not to smoke and he's trying to stop. Is there any answer to this and there any known cause? Is it at all common and can it be cured?

DEAR READER - It's more common than you might think and it does occur with and without heart disease. It was even found in one of the astronauts. He was apparently a healthy, robust individual who was first found to have atrial fibrillation when his heart tracing was being recorded while he was on the human centrifuge used for space flight training. A review of the records showed that he was fibrillating even before the run started.

I saw a number of young healthy people in the Air Force flying population over a period of about 10 years who had attacks of atrial fibrillation without heart disease.

Atrial fibrillation means that the two top collecting chambers of the heart merely twitch or fibrillate rather than contracting in a rhythmic fashion to aid the normal pumping mechanism of the heart. The atria can twitch as rapidly as 500 times a minute while the lower part of the heart that pumps blood beats much slower.

It follows that some patients have a very rapid heart rate in the presence of atrial fibrillation and still others have a relatively slow almost regular pulse rate.

Atrial fibrillation can be made him retire and we want to do some traveling but he gets too tired for that.

DEAR READER - To answer your first question. Men do develop osteoporosis. It usually occurs 10 to 20 years past the age that women commonly develop it. That's why you usually don't see it until men are in their 70s and sometimes not until they're in their 80s.

Osteoporosis is degeneration of the spine. The term degeneration of the spine or deterioration of the spine is used by doctors to cover a host of disorders when they're talking to the public.

I don't know from that term exactly what your husband has and I don't know how long he's had it. He may have degenerative arthritis or he may have some other form of arthritis. If there is any question about his diagnosis, you might want him to see a specialist in rheumatology to clarify what the basic problem is.

I will send you The Health Letter number 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias, which includes more information on this problem. Other readers who are interested in atrial fibrillation, skipped beats, palpitations and tachycardias can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Certainly anyone who has such a problem should eliminate coffee, tea, colas and caffeine-containing drinks. And, as your doctor has advised your husband, he should eliminate cigarettes. Alcohol should probably be prohibited and if there's any triggering factor in lifestyle that's been found to be associated with the problem, it should be eliminated or controlled.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You're always talking about women having osteoporosis but you never say anything about a man having it. My husband has it. The doctors told him he has deterioration of the spine. Some vertebrae are already gone. He has a lot of pain and takes medicine for that. He's only 61 years old. His back hurts him all the time. We walk quite a bit and that helps his legs. Otherwise, he gets sore and stiff. He can't take exercises as the strain hurts his hips. His health

DEAR DR. LAMB — Eight years ago when I was 30, I was found to have hearing loss in both ears because of nerve damage. A hearing aid helps very little.

There is no explanation for this except that I was given streptomycin by injection off and on for two years for treatment of chest colds and asthma. Could this medicine have damaged my hearing? This is important for me to know as I have three young school children and would want to keep them from being given this antibiotic if there's any danger of it affecting a person's hearing.

DEAR READER — Yes, streptomycin can cause hearing loss. When it is used, careful attention must be given to any symptoms of ringing in the ear or any signs of hearing loss.

This doesn't mean that streptomycin shouldn't be used as a medicine. There are medical conditions that are sufficiently severe that the risk has to be taken. This is less often true today now that there's a larger number of antibiotics available.

Of course, I must tell you that just because you have hearing loss from nerve damage doesn't mean it was caused by the streptomycin. There could be other reasons for your hearing nerve.

DEAR READER — I will send you The Health Letter number 6-10, Osteoporosis Or Bone Softening so you can have more information on that problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Of course, if your husband does have true osteoporosis, then high calcium diets, perhaps hormone support and other measures may be indicated to help prevent the situation from progressing. But if he has arthritis, the treatment would be entirely different.

The Hereford Brand Saves You A Walk To The Town Square

Of course, most towns don't actually have a "town square" any more, but before the days of newspapers, there had to be a central place where important public notices were posted. Today, your newspaper fulfills the same function as the old town square posting board. The legal notices, found in your newspaper, mark the history and progress of your community. They call the attention of interested parties to the bid-letting for the new high school, auditorium or swimming pool... street improvement projects... sewage and water systems and the many other items that are synonymous with your community's growth. They can also be concerned with the citizen's obligation to jury duty, the administration of a deceased neighbor's estate. Publication of the transactions of local and state governmental bodies, and the financial statements of private firms with wide public interest, such as financial institutions, safeguard the taxpayer's pocketbook and his constitutional rights.

Few public notices are published in the country ruled by a dictator. In a democracy, everyone has a tremendous stake in preserving the freedom of the press — and the citizen's right to know.

MERIT undisputed victor over leading high tars in tests comparing taste and tar level.

Smokers Prefer Merit 3 To 1!

Smokers find the taste of low tar
MERIT matches that of high tar cigarettes.

New taste-test results prove it.

Proof: A significant majority of smokers rated MERIT taste as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Proof: Of the 95% stating a preference when tar levels were revealed, 3 out of 4 smokers chose the MERIT low tar/good taste combination over high tar leaders.

MERIT smokers rate
low tar MERIT satisfying taste alternative to high tar brands.

New national smoker study results prove it.

Proof: The overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers polled
