

HISD May Simplify Insurance Purchases

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Hereford Independent School District trustees Tuesday night heard a proposal from Superintendent Harrell Holder which would simplify the purchasing of health insurance for district employees.

Trustees met for 3 1/2 hours in regular session, tabling insurance matters, purchasing two vehicles for the school district and adding to the HISD policy manual.

The school district's health-insurance policy with Blue Cross-Blue Shield expires on Feb. 1. Holder told the board that administrative officials have encountered a difficult time writing specifications for a new policy and suggested a method to simplify bid-letting for insurance.

According to Holder, Boone-Chapman, an Austin insurance firm endorsed by the Texas Association of School Boards, would meet with the district to develop a plan "tailored to our needs."

The school district then would supply Boone-Chapman with a list of proposals from bidding insurance companies, who would then compete with companies selected by Boone-Chapman. The Austin firm would then recommend acceptance of one insurance company.

Should the school district elect not to go along with Boone-Chapman's recommendation, it could award the bid to the company which was presently carrying the district's policy. The matter was tabled until the November meeting of the school board.

Trustees also tabled the purchase of a general liability policy for the school district until they are able to consider a proposal from Plains Insurance, Lone Star Insurance and Plains have submitted bids for the policy.

Trustees Mack Tubb, James Gentry and Clark Andrews were appointed by President Sallie Strain to make a recommendation on the liability insurance.

In another insurance matter, Holder said that a new law requires the upgrading of health insurance coverage for employees between the ages of 65 and 70. The board authorized Holder to negotiate changes in the present policy with Blue Cross-Blue Shield to comply with the law.

The board, on second (and final reading), passed a policy change which allows Holder to have the final decision in allowing a teacher living outside the school district to be employed by HISD.

Holder requested the authority to hire out-of-district teachers after he encountered problems in hiring enough instructors prior to the start of the 1979-80 school year.

The board also amended the policy which allows schools to

USDA, Defense Back Meat Computer System

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although some stubborn resistance may develop against a nationwide computer system for the wholesale meat trade, two of the government's biggest meat-buying agencies say they would go along with the plan.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Tuesday that the Agriculture and Defense departments endorse the idea.

But it should be set up by private industry, free of direct government subsidies, new laws or new regulations, Bergland told the House Small Business Committee.

Advocates of the computerized system say it would make the wholesale meat business more competitive and eliminate opportunities for price manipulation by a handful of big meat packers and supermarkets.

The committee has been sharply critical of the current system by which supermarket chains, large meatpackers and others use "average prices" from only a few sales by others as a basis for buying and selling beef.

The cotton and egg industries have a computerized system now, with producers offering goods for sale and buyers bidding on them through the network. Bergland said the programs operate like the computerized market in over-the-counter common stocks.

Bergland put the beef industry on notice this summer that it had a year to change its practices or he would consider legislation to require a different approach. His warning stemmed from findings of a task force on meat pricing he appointed a year ago under pressure from the committee.

"We're waiting for someone in private industry to begin a system. ... As soon as they do, we're in" as a large-volume buyer for school lunches and other feeding programs, Bergland said.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown wrote him this week that the Pentagon also will participate. The two agencies alone would make such a system "commercially sound very quickly," he said.

However, "imposing mandatory price reporting ... is premature today and hopefully can be avoided through voluntary cooperation," Bergland said.

Committee members were skeptical, saying only outsiders are dissatisfied with present arrangements. "The big guys aren't going to mess around with it," commented Rep. Dan Marriott, R-Utah. "They already get the prices they want."

"Nobody likes competition," added Rep. Berdley Bedell, D-Iowa.

"If we run up against a stone wall, we're prepared to come back with legislation," replied Bergland. He said he hoped for "tangible movement by spring" after a February seminar on electronic marketing he's sponsoring for the industry.

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, the committee chairman, has been conducting hearings and investigations on meat pricing for two years. He said he was encouraged by Bergland's endorsement of electronic marketing, "but I'm still impatient."

Marines 'Practice' In Cuba

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP) — Marines swarmed ashore by helicopter and amphibious craft in a practice landing today on the beaches of the only U.S. military base on communist soil. A Soviet surveillance ship stood offshore and Cuban reservists in the area were called to duty.

"So far as we know, there were no problems" in the 8 a.m. landing, said Cmdr. Howard Matson, a spokesman at Atlantic Fleet headquarters in Norfolk, Va.

Three Navy warships had carried the Marines close to the shore at dawn in the show-the-flag exercise, hastily arranged by the Carter administration as a flexing of military muscle in response to the presence in Cuba of a Soviet brigade, about 500 miles west of Guantanamo.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said there was no overt action by the Cubans.

About 2,200 Marines were involved in the exercise, a practice reinforcement by helicopters and amphibious vehicles at Guantanamo Bay, on the eastern tip of

Walcott Numbers Increase

Members of the Walcott School board reviewed an enrollment survey which revealed a 29 percent increase in the number of students compared to Oct. 1 of 1978.

The review came during a regular session of the board Tuesday night, which was attended by six trustees.

An additional report projected a steady increase in the kindergarten enrollment at Walcott during the next five years.

Board members also viewed a letter which is being sent home with students concerning a grade policy which sets a minimum grade performance level at which students will be allowed to participate in athletics, cheerleading or any other UIL activity. The move is being initiated in order to encourage students to keep their grades up, according to a school spokesman.

Trustees took action to revise school bus routes, which account for a total of CITY COMMISSIONERS ran into a complex problem after being asked to consider an ordinance regulating the parking of boats, trailers and recreational vehicles on city streets. It seemed like a reasonable request at first view. Many citizens do not like their residential areas cluttered up with vehicles that remained parked for long periods of time.

However, a check with state officials revealed that no similar ordinance existed in other cities. It became apparent that a primary reason lies in the wording and enforcement of such a law. As it now stands, it appears local residents will have to live with the problem, relying on their neighbors to use a little judgment in the matter.

BOOBOCRACY marches on!

The House Banking Committee held a hearing a couple of weeks ago, at which time members viewed the Susan B. Anthony dollar with about the same distaste as the American public.

"Based on my survey, the American people don't think the dollar coin is worth a plug nickel," said Rep. Thomas Evans of Delaware. "It's the Edsel of the monetary system," claimed Rep. Joseph Minish of New Jersey.

And other members were upset that the treasury has signed a big contract with a public relations firm to promote the acceptance of the coin. As usual, bureaucrats continued to do their own thing—despite congressional objections.

At the very time the hearings were being held, a Treasury task force released a detailed recommendation for wider use of the coin, and urged that the one dollar bill be replaced by the Anthony coin.

The boobocrats also want to do away with the 50-cent coin, make pennies out of aluminum, and suggest that American currency in the future be made from plastic.

Treasury Department Supports Dollar with Gold-Auction Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said today that the government's economic policies are aimed at maintaining "a sound and stable dollar," which is essential for controlling inflation.

A strong dollar, he said, "is in the interests of our own domestic economic stability, and consonant with our broader world interests and responsibilities."

The Treasury Department took another step in support of the dollar Tuesday when it announced it will keep gold speculators guessing on future public auctions of the nation's gold reserves.

It said it no longer will hold the auctions on a regularly scheduled basis, and that the amount of gold it will sell may vary from auction to auction.

Miller told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that the same policies that are important in fighting inflation, such as high interest rates, also are important in supporting the dollar on world money markets.

"Maintenance of exchange market stability is essential in the fight against inflation and forms an important part of our comprehensive attack on inflation," he said in a statement for the hearing.

The Treasury's change in its gold auction came just nine days after the Federal Reserve Board sharply increased interest rates, an action Miller said was "needed and appropriate."

Miller and Federal Reserve Chairman Paul A. Volcker were called to appear before the Joint Economic Committee to discuss the moves.

Miller told a congressional subcommittee Tuesday that the increase in interest rates, combined with the possibility of higher oil prices or renewed shortages of oil, could worsen the nation's recession.

"The underlying factors have now changed somewhat and we cannot be as certain as previously about the depth and severity of the economic slowdown," he

Pro-Oil Industry Rally Rips Feds for 'Dastardly' Decisions

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Oil industry advocates rallied near the core of the petroleum-rich Permian Basin, lashing out at critics and chastising the federal government for "dastardly" decisions that victimize producers.

More than 1,000 people attended a pro-industry rally Tuesday in Midland, where for more than a generation the economic life blood has been pumped by oil wells that dot the West Texas region.

"We're here to support the oil industry, but we're really here to support America and fight for the free enterprise system," said independent oilman Bob Bailey, the only producer to speak at the rally.

"In some parts of the country, particularly Washington, D.C., the oil industry is held in antipathy and distrust," said rally speaker Harrell Feldt, an attorney. "But actually, it stands for free enterprise."

Organizers called the rally to counter protests — labeled "Stop the Oil Profiteers" — by a coalition of private citizens and labor unions that scheduled the demonstrations in at least 20 U.S. cities today.

Angry Group Begins Assault on Oil Costs

By The Associated Press

The organizers of today's Campaign For Lower Energy Prices are trying to turn anger into action, urging Americans to let the oil industry and the government know they are fed up with rising costs.

The agenda for the day included the usual rallies, demonstrations, marches and teach-ins.

The sponsors included the Gray Panthers, Consumers Opposed to Inflation in Necessities, the Episcopal Urban Bishop's Conference, the Americans for Democratic Action and a variety of unions.

A major effort was the distribution of millions of red, white and blue postcards headed: "Big oil discredit cards." The cards urge Congress to put a lid on oil and gas prices, appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the oil industry and create a publicly owned energy corporation.

Oil company offices were targets of demonstrations even before the official day of protest. About 30 people picketed the headquarters of the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) on Tuesday, chanting slogans like: "Sohio, stop pumping us dry."

The company, which closed off the entrances to the building and stationed guards nearby, said in a prepared statement, that it understood the frustrations that lead to demonstrations. "But fundamental answers on solving inflation are needed, not looking for scapegoats," the statement said.

In St. Louis, Don Owens, the head of research and public relations for District 9 of the International Association of Machinists, one of the sponsors of a mid-day demonstration, said: "We're holding this rally because we're sick and tired of a national energy policy that robs the workingman and gives to the multinational oil corporations."

William Wimpinger, president of the International Association of Machinists and the chairman of the coalition coordinating the events, described the protest as a "national grassroots organizing effort."

Wimpinger also is also heading an effort to draft Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination. He broke with President Carter last year over the issue of whether to decontrol energy prices. Congress already has approved the phasing out of controls on natural gas and is considering an end to controls on petroleum. Price controls on heating oil and diesel fuel were ended during the Ford Administration.

Carter's re-election headquarters in Concord, N.H., was the focus of a planned afternoon march. Sponsors said they would try to telephone their demands to Carter; if they get no response, they said, they will urge everyone driving by to honk horns in protest.

An Associated-Press spot check indicated support for the protest seemed strongest in states where winter heating bills are expected to be a serious problem.

"Here in Connecticut, the rally will focus on low and middle-income families already affected by cash-on-demand payments for heating oil," said Lou Kiefer, labor co-chairman of the coalition sponsoring today's demonstrations.

The protest follows on the heels of announcements of price increases by Libya and Iran, two of the world's major oil exporters. Carter has blamed price increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries for the high rate of inflation in the United States. The oil industry says its price hikes are due to the OPEC boosts.

Figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that from December 1978 through August 1979, the heating oil component of the Consumer Price Index went up 46 percent, the gasoline section went up 42 percent and the natural gas part went up 12 percent. In the same period, the overall index rose 9 percent.

College Instructor Urges Well Classes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A college petroleum engineering instructor recommends that workers on offshore rigs go to school to learn how to shut down wells in emergencies.

Bruce Dameron of Texas A&M University said company men, tool pushers and drillers should be taught in "blowout schools" how to respond to emergencies. "Instead of on the rigs — that's not the place to learn it, really."

Dameron and general manager William Sky-Eagle Jr. of the Corpus Christi Area Oil Spill Control Association testified Tuesday before the House Committee on Environmental Affairs.

House Speaker Bill Clayton instructed the committee to investigate the blowout of IXTOC 1 well in Campeche Bay. The PEMEX well spilled oil that flowed onto Texas beaches, apparently endangering fish and wildlife and severely crippling the summer tourist industry.

Dameron said starting Jan. 1 the U.S. Geological Survey will require workers on wells in federal waters to pass a one-week school that includes simulated practice in shutting down a well that has gone out of control.

World Grain Reserves Face Large Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Short harvests in the Soviet Union and some other countries will mean a decline in world grain reserves by mid-1980 to 164.5 million metric tons, says the Agriculture Department.

That would represent an 18 percent decline from the stockpile of wheat and coarse grains on July 1, the department said Tuesday. The new estimate also is down from the 168 million metric tons the department indicated a month ago would be in reserve next summer. The world stockpile July 1 was 199.9 million metric tons, the report said.

Smaller crops this year in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, India and some other major production areas have reduced the supply available for 1979-80.

Meanwhile, global consumption of grain is expected to increase, the report said. That will mean larger exports by the United States where total grain output is expected to set a record this year.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn. Coarse grains include corn, barley and similar grains used mainly for livestock feed in the United States.

Total world grain output in 1979-80, including milled rice, is expected to be about 1.382 billion metric tons, down by 4.5 percent from 1.448 billion produced in 1978-79, the report said.

Chinese Dissident Goes on Trial

PEKING (AP) — Fu Yuekua, a 34-year-old woman who organized a demonstration by poverty-stricken peasants campaigning for work and food, went on trial today on charges that she falsely accused a minor party official of rape and that she instigated public disturbances.

It was the second such trial in two days. Wei Jingsheng, a 29-year-old magazine editor and advocate of democracy, was convicted Tuesday of giving military secrets to a foreigner and seeking to overthrow the government. He was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment.

Mrs. Fu was charged with libel and violating public order by organizing a mass disturbance, the official Xinhua news agency reported. She went on trial at the People's Intermediate Court before more than 500 ticket-holding spectators and representatives of the government-controlled media. She was represented by a lawyer from the Peking Lawyer's Association.

Outlining the libel charge, the indictment said Mrs. Fu, a construction worker at the time, in April 1973 accused Geng Yutian, former acting Communist Party secretary of her commune brigade, of raping her 14 months before. It said she persisted in her charge despite three official investigations that found it "groundless" and "entirely false."

12 Men Sought For Smuggling Hash

BOSTON (AP) — A dozen men are being sought in four states today on charges of smuggling 6,000 pounds of hashish into the United States on a yacht, officials said.

Three others have been arrested so far, in Michigan, Virginia and California. They include Peter Lynn Kruttschewski, who has been called to testify before a Texas grand jury investigating the murder of U.S. District Court Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Federal officials in Texas have said they believe Wood's murder is linked to illegal drug smuggling.

Kruttschewski, 34, who also uses the name Peter Blake, was listed on public records as half-owner of the Blackfriar's Restaurant in Boston, where five men were gunned to death in June 1978.

He was identified as a "key person" in the alleged hashish ring. Federal officials estimate that hashish is worth $2,500-$3,000 a pound on the wholesale market, making the drugs involved in the case worth nearly $18 million.

Robert M. Stutman, regional head of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, called it the first major success in a program of "dismantling entire drug organizations from top to bottom."

Governor Speaks to Rotarians

Dr. J. Davis Armistead, district governor of the Rotary Club, urged Hereford Rotarians in their noon meeting Tuesday to become involved with international and district club projects while continuing to support local affairs such as United Way.

Rotarians last year pledged $3,800 to United Way—a gesture Armistead singled out in his speech.

Armistead's theme during a brief appeal to Rotarians to become involved was "service will light the way," a saying coined by Rotary Club's United States president.

Armistead, an optometrist, is a member of the Lubbock Downtown Rotary Club, in which he has been president, vice president and a board member for several years.

Armistead has been engaged in his Lubbock optometry practice since 1949. He was graduated from East Texas State University did graduate work at Texas Tech and received his doctor of optometry degree from Southern California College of Optometry.

He is presently on senior active status in the Rotary Club with almost 30 years membership at Lubbock. He was elected Rotary governor of District 573 in the organization's international convention in Rome.

Armistead has served as chairman of the administrative board of First United Methodist Church in Lubbock, and his family was selected Church Family of the Year in that city.

He is a member of the chamber of commerce, past president of the South Plains Council of Boy Scouts of America and recipient of the Scout Silver Beaver Award. He is past president of the Knife and Fork Club and Lubbock Cerebral Palsy Center. He was honored by the Texas Optometric Association as the Outstanding Optometrist of the Year.

Armistead has twice been appointed to the Board of Regents of the University of Houston. His current appointment will extend to 1983. He also serves on the board of directors of West Texas Savings Association.

Among those attending Tuesday's meeting were Rotary member wives, Mr. and Mrs. Speedy Nicman and Dr. and Mrs. Milton Adams. Nicman is president of the Noon Lions Club, and Adams is a Hereford optometrist and longtime friend of Armistead.

During the meeting, treasurer Roger Ruland announced he has accepted a position in Garden City, Kan., and Oct. 30 will be the date of his last club meeting in Hereford.

Rotarians gave Ruland a standing ovation at the meeting.

Traveling Metric Show Arrives in Michigan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Traveling Metric Show rolls into Michigan this week, an effort aimed at persuading Americans to measure milk by the liter, hamburger by the kilogram and the miles to grandmother's house by the kilometer.

Americans gave the system mixed reviews at U.S. Metric Board hearings earlier this year in Dallas, Boston and San Francisco.

Indeed, Americans have steadfastly ignored the metric system despite its being the official system of weights and measures since 1893. This country — alone among the world's industrial nations — seems to prefer using quarts and pints, and more obscure measures such as bushels and pecks, all four of which can be converted to the metric liter.

The only other non-metric nations are Brunei, Burma, Liberia and North and South Yemen. The sessions in Dearborn, Mich., on Thursday and Friday are expected to feature a lively discussion on the merits of metrics, according to Bill DeReuter of the Metric Board, with auto industry figures arguing both sides of the question.

Congress created the board in 1975 to "coordinate the voluntary conversion to the metric system." While many consider this a mandate to encourage Americans to give up yards, pounds and gallons in exchange for meters, grams and liters, others — even board members — disagree.

And if it is a mandate, it is one without teeth, since conversion is voluntary. Changeover activists include U.S. industries that want to sell their products overseas where the metric system is nearly universal.

But firm opposition also exists, from people for whom the English system is too deeply ingrained to those, like the garage mechanic with a full set of English system socket wrenches, who hope to avoid the inevitable costs of the changeover.

Nonetheless, the board predicts the metric system will be the dominant system in the United States by 1990.

In Detroit, the car companies are already converting to metrics because of their large involvement in overseas markets, and they are pushing for other industries to follow.

However, the United Auto Workers union is concerned the costs of retooling to accommodate metric measurement would be borne by car owners and mechanics, according to DeReuter.

UAW fears were realized, at least in part, by the alcohol industry.

Distilleries and vineyards, under pressure from the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, were leaders in adopting metrics, but the changeover brought price increases for wine and liquor buyers.

A federal study last year noted that "most wines and distilled spirits that were converted to metric sizes experienced unit price increases greater than those that did not convert."

DeReuter said that public forums in Dallas and Boston drew opposition to change, so the board was surprised when a majority of those speaking in San Francisco favored use of metric measurement.

The Detroit meeting will likely include discussions on the current hot topic in the world of metric measurement — gasoline pumps.

Gasoline prices of more than $1 a gallon have led to problems because most pumps can indicate prices only to 99.9 cents.

Some stations are selling by the half-gallon as an interim measure, but metric proponents are urging a conversion to pumps that measure in liters, which are slightly more than a quart.

This, they claim, would be cheaper than changing the calculator part of the pump. Some independents have already converted to liter measurements.

For the time being, there is no national consensus, and gas station owners or oil companies must make the decisions individually. The metric board has no power to compel the use of metrics, and when others tried to use leverage, the public outcry was overwhelming.

Walcott-area students who presently leave school at 2:30 p.m. each day to ride the bus back home will be exempt from taking physical education classes but will still receive credit, trustees decided.

Since Walcott students have five, instead of the regular six classes, each day, they will be permitted to omit PE.

The local policy exempting certain students from PE classes was accidentally omitted from the 1979-80 policy manual, but trustees reinstated it during Tuesday's meeting.

The board purchased a 1979 station wagon for $6,921 from Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac GMC and a 16-foot truck for $9,800 from Pratt Chevrolet.

The truck will be used to carry band instruments out of town. Teachers hired by the board included Billie L. Young at the high school and Debbie Noblitt, a music therapist. Resignations were accepted from Mary Helen Askew at the high school and Adam Nieto Jr. at West Central Elementary.

Holder said the problem of identifying students on the free-lunch program—a situation recently criticized by a group of Mexican-Americans and Texas Rural Legal Aid—might be alleviated by offering discounts to all students who buy tickets for charged lunches.

The more students carrying tickets, the less chance for identifying those on the free program. Holder theorized to the board.

The enrollment report submitted to the board showed that there are 5,423 students in the district, compared to 5,584 last year.

Marines

Cuba 500 miles from Havana.

Military officials insisted the exercise was routine and, although they made extreme efforts to accommodate, nearly 80 reporters and photographers covering the landing, they denied reports that the exercise was merely a media event.

"This is a training exercise which reinforces the Marines and Naval units (stationed at Guantanamo Bay)," Navy Capt. John Fetterman said at a briefing Tuesday night.

However, Fetterman said, "What you will see tomorrow (Wednesday) in no way approximates what would be done under hostile conditions." He said if the base was threatened, reinforcements would be flown in instead of brought in by ship.

"It is not a classic amphibious assault," said Capt. Robert Bowen, a Pentagon spokesman.

Once ashore, the Marines were to move into defensive positions behind the 17.4-mile perimeter fence, then engage in about four weeks of training and drills before returning home.

Sources in Washington said they viewed the call-up of about 3,000 Cuban reservists and other action as "normal precautions."

There was no indication in the Washington reports that the Cubans were moving any troops close to the 45-square-mile base, but about a half-dozen tanks and an equal number of anti-aircraft guns were said to have been shifted to the vicinity of the base.

Administration sources also said a Soviet hydrographic research ship, which U.S. intelligence officials say is a cover for surveillance activities, was reported off Guantanamo.

On Tuesday, President Carter criticized Cuba as "the most highly militarized country on Earth per capita," and said it is "constantly interfering" in the affairs of other nations. He said it has more than 45,000 troops in countries where "they have absolutely no business."

He said the United States will not move to establish normal diplomatic relations with Cuba until it ends its involvement in other nations' affairs and until the regime of President Fidel Castro releases political prisoners.

really want to help, let them put a part of their profits into drilling for oil and gas," said Bailey.

"After a little of that action," he said, "I'd like to see what their idea of an obscene profit is."

Bailey said he annually spends more finding oil than he gets for selling it, and without continued credit from banks he "would have been out of business long ago."

The oil industry "is the free enterprise system at work. It's the system that made America great," he said.

The windfall profits tax is "a tax on our very existence," said Bailey, who also claimed oilmen have developed a "lossers' syndrome."

"We've forgotten what it is like to win. We're more interested in not losing too badly. I think this has gone far enough. It's time to turn our team around and win," he said.

Baskin read telegrams of support from Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, and Texas Railroad Commissioner John Poerner.

Executive Director Ed Thompson of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association said there may be another rally next month.

The government reported Tuesday that the nation's industrial output increased 0.5 percent in September, the biggest gain in four months. But Miller said this doesn't change his belief that the nation is already in a recession.

Ann Landers

Shocked Sam

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your reply to Shocked Sam of Columbia, S.C., who was amazed at a jury award of $854,000 for an off-center belly button, was to cite another bizarre news story and promise one more the next day for "a good laugh." Excessive jury awards are no laughing matter.

I am an insurance agent, and I see liability rates skyrocketing. Unbelievable jury awards are the reason. Medical malpractice rates have soared for this reason, and automobile liability and business liability rates are on the increase. If insurance companies have to pay huge sums in defense and settlement of lawsuits, premiums will be increased. To pay higher insurance costs, doctors and other businesses must increase their fees. Those huge settlements encourage more lawsuits.

1. A large suit was filed last week on behalf of a child who was accidentally kicked by Mickey Mouse at an amusement park. Mickey Mouse was dancing, and the child's leg was bruised.

2. Two boys were injured in Yosemite Park by a bear they were teasing. Although signs informed the public that bears are dangerous and the boys had been warned by a ranger, the parents sued for damages because they weren't warned "enough."

I could go on, but I imagine that Shocked Sam has the message by this time. My hope is that everyone gets it.

Unfortunately, juries view awards as "free money." They just love to see an individual, especially from the working class, get a huge settlement from a large company or a "rich doctor."

This is a serious problem. Public education is desperately needed. Your reply to Shocked Sam was woefully inadequate. -- Also Shocked And Concerned in The North

DEAR S. and C.: You are right. I missed a fine opportunity to point out that every time someone rips off an insurance company you and I are that much closer to getting our rates increased.

People should also be aware that insurance companies are not run by a bunch of dumbbells. They employ excellent investigating staffs. If a person is caught trying to fake a claim, he may find his credibility severely damaged and wind up uninsured.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was engaged to a terrific guy for seven months. Now he is going to marry someone else. The announcement appeared in the newspaper yesterday and it damn near killed me.

"S" treated me swell but I drank too much and socked him when we got into arguments. He wouldn't call for a few days and I'd go out with somebody else

On the west coast of Africa, in Cameroon, miniature iron spears about 30 inches long are used for money and are known as "Wife" money. About a dozen of these spears are the purchase price for a wife. Smaller spears that range in size from about 4 to 6 inches are used for smaller purchases. The custom probably began with the use of real spears, a valued possession, as a medium of exchange.

Construction began on the Panama Canal in 1904.

just to "show him." The last time we had a fight I broke his glasses and threw his ring in his face. He never called me after that.

The girl he's going to marry is nothing to look at. I know I could get "S" back if only he'd talk to me on the phone. He hung up on me twice last week. What should I do?--Crying My Heart Out

DEAR CRYING: You can stop making a pest of yourself and go to work on controlling your temper and your boozing. I can't do anything for a girl who abuses a terrific guy, then goes to pieces when he finds someone who treats him right.

The Deaf Smith-Castro Counties Legal Secretaries Association will be hosting a shower Saturday from 10 a.m.-12 noon for Rose Abrego, who lost her possessions in a trailer fire Sunday. The general public is invited to the shower, to be held in the basement of the County Library.

The Legal Secretaries will welcome gifts of money, trading stamps, small appliances, furniture or other household goods. Individuals wishing to donate furniture are asked to call the Justice of the Peace office, 364-0999, for the goods to be picked up.

Mrs. Abrego is secretary to Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal and is a member of the Legal Secretaries Association.

Local Residents Home After Three-Week Tour

Cap and Lucy Cocanougher have returned from a motorcoach tour of New England and Eastern Canada, where they viewed the colorful autumn foliage. Others from Hereford who took the trip were Robert and Alice Thompson, official escorts for Trailway Tours, Inc.

The tour group departed Sept. 23 from Amarillo and traveled east to Springfield, Mo., for an overnight stay. St. Louis and the Mississippi River were highlights of the next day's travel, followed by an excursion across Indiana, through Detroit and into Canada for a stay in Windsor, Ontario.

Niagara Falls and the St. Lawrence River were viewed enroute to Montreal, a city of more than two million people.

From there, the tourists skirted the picturesque countryside of southern Quebec to the city itself, the only walled city on the continent north of Mexico.

A sightseeing trek along the north bank of the St. Lawrence River included a visit to the world famous shrine of Sante Anne de Beaupre and a view of Cyclorama, an impressive painting of "The City of Jerusalem on the Day of the Crucifixion." Leaving Canada, the travelers entered the USA through Maine and journeyed through the White Mountains to Montpelier and Barre for a visit to the Rock of Ages Quarry.

Arriving in Boston on the twelfth day of their trip, the tourists visited Bunker Hill Monument, Old North Church, Old Ironsides in the Navy yard and other attractions. The next stop on the itinerary was New York City for tours of the Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty, Chinatown, the United Nations, the Bowery, Wall Street, Fifth Avenue, Central Park and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Advancing to Philadelphia, the visitors saw Independence Hall, Betsy Ross Home and many other historic sites. They then continued their trip to Washington, D.C. for lectured tours of the Capitol, White House, Arlington Cemetery and Mount Vernon. A drive across the Blue Ridge Parkway took the group to Monticello in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, once the home of Thomas Jefferson.

After viewing the Natural

Bridge, the tourists continued through the Blue Ridge Mountains into the Smokies and through Bristol. From Knoxville, Tenn., the tour headed toward Nashville via the scenic Cumberland Mountains. Next was a stop in Memphis, Tenn. and westward to Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas. A farewell dinner for the tourists was held the night before returning home.

Bucs Send Series To Seven

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pittsburgh's little Phil Garner carries the hottest bat and flashiest glove into the seventh game of the World Series tonight, but he entertains no visions of driving home in a flashy new sports car.

"I never think about it. It's the farthest thing from my mind," insisted the sure-handed Pirate second baseman, son of a Tennessee preacher, when reminded that he is the leading candidate for the Most Valuable Player award.

"I'd be willing to go hitless and make 14 errors if we could only win the Series."

Garner rapped out his 10th and 11th hits to boost his series batting average to .524 and figured in his ninth double play, a record, in the Pirates' 4-0 victory Tuesday over the Baltimore Orioles, tying the Series at 3-3.

He was the most modest man in the locker room as the Pirates savored their comeback from what appeared to be hopeless odds after falling behind in games 1-3.

"One man can't take any credit for double plays," he said when told that he had erased a mark set by Bucky Harris in the seven-game Washington Senators-New York Giants series in 1924.

"The pitcher has to make the batter hit the ball on the ground. It has to bounce just right and then you have to count on two other guys — the shortstop for a relay and the first baseman to handle what may be a hurried and inaccurate throw."

"I can't tell you how many times Bill (Bill Madlock, Pirate third baseman) has kept me from getting my legs sawed off by the spike-flying runner."

By Pirate standards, Garner is just a wisp of a man — 5 feet, 10 inches tall and 177 pounds — with a wispy mustache and a molasses drawl he picked up in his native East Tennessee hill country.

Now 30 years old, he broke in with Charlie O. Finley's wild, feuding Oakland A's in 1973, the middle year of their three world championships, and remained there until he came to the Pirates in March 1977 in a six-for-three deal.

The only similarity in the champion A's and the current Pirates lies in the fierce fighting spirit of the two teams. The A's thrived on discord. The Pirates prevail on togetherness and mutual respect.

"We're a free-swinging team," Garner said. "We are aggressive even when we play cards and backgammon. But the bond among all of us is very strong."

Garner came to the defense of his Baltimore counterpart, Rich Dauer, who misplayed Dave Parker's infield scorcher in the seventh inning, opening the door for the Pirates' first run and setting up the second.

"They're a tough ball club," he said. "They don't look awesome. But their pitchers throw strikes, their hitters hit and their runners run. They are patient. They never beat themselves. They are a typical Earl Weaver team."

Garner, a three-sport letterman in high school at Knoxville, Tenn., and a business major at the University of Tennessee, is a great kiddier, joining big Dave Parker in the Mutt-and-Jeff act that keeps the Pittsburgh locker room loose.

Yet he reveals himself as a serious, introspective man.

"I can't forget that bad error in the first game when I threw the ball away," he said, referring to a two-run error on a sure double play chance.

"At times this club has seemed ready to pack it up and go home, yet it puts its nose in the dirt and goes out and does the job. It never quits."

Clayborn and the National Football League Players Association have appealed a $2,000 fine imposed by Commissioner Pete Rozelle for the player's trouble with the news media, including punching a sports writer.

Rozelle levied the fine Oct. 2, stemming from a locker room scuffle between Clayborn and Will McDonough of The Boston Globe after a Sept. 9 game in Foxboro, Mass., and a verbal encounter the week before with Associated Press sports writer Bruce Lowitt.

A spokesman for Rozelle said the appeal was filed by the NFLPA last week. It will be heard by Rozelle, and if the NFLPA is unhappy with the result, it can take the case to a neutral arbitrator.

Clayborn Fined

BOSTON (AP) — New England Patriots cornerback Raymond Clayborn and the National Football League Players Association have appealed a $2,000 fine imposed by Commissioner Pete Rozelle for the player's trouble with the news media, including punching a sports writer.

Rozelle levied the fine Oct. 2, stemming from a locker room scuffle between Clayborn and Will McDonough of The Boston Globe after a Sept. 9 game in Foxboro, Mass., and a verbal encounter the week before with Associated Press sports writer Bruce Lowitt.

Malone Held to 17

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Before playing the New York Knicks, Houston's Moses Malone was warned by his coach, Del Harris: "You'll be seeing a lot of Bill Cartwright for a long time."

He saw all he wanted to see of him Tuesday night.

New York's gifted rookie center took on last year's Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association as if he had been playing Malone all his life.

Cartwright scored 31 points while holding Malone to 17. And the result was a 126-121 victory for the Knicks.

"Tonight I learned how to play Moses Malone," said Cartwright. "I decided to keep Moses away from the boards and keep him from getting inside the basket area. Basically, I think I succeeded. He was taking shots he didn't want to take. If I had to play against Malone tomorrow, I'd play him the same way I played him tonight."

In other NBA action, Golden State defeated Denver 108-106, Indiana stopped New Jersey 113-100, Cleveland whipped Detroit 137-117, San Antonio edged Atlanta 118-116, Phoenix turned back Seattle 102-86, Portland trimmed San Diego 88-81 and Los Angeles beat Chicago 105-96.

Cooper Holds Top Spot

By The Associated Press

Abilene Cooper in 4A, Jasper in 3A, Pittsburg in 2A and China Spring in A held onto their top ranking in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll in a virtual status quo performance by all but two of last week's ranked teams.

Only two of the 50 ranked teams in the four classes lost last week and the successes were reflected in the balloting by 22 Texas sports writers and sportscasters.

There were no changes in the top 10 teams in Classes 3A and 2A and Troup, which jumped ahead of Mason into sixth place, was the only adjustment in the Class A ratings.

Houston Stratford and Lake Highlands, ranked sixth and ninth last week, lost their second games of the season and dropped from the 4A rankings.

Lake Highlands, ranked as high as No. 3, lost to Plano 30-0 while Houston Stratford, the defending 4A state champion, was defeated by Houston Spring Woods, 9-0.

Midland Lee, 5-0, took over the No. 9 spot this week and Dallas White, 4-1, returned to the top 10 in the No. 10 position.

Pittsburg blasted Hooks 40-0 last week and still lost ground to No. 2 ranked Childress, which beat Tulsa 35-0.

Cooper maintained a strong 217-178 lead over LaPorte in 4A but the big battle was for second place with 1978 state finalist Plano challenging LaPorte for the No. 2 ranking. LaPorte retained the runnerup spot by a slim 178-175 margin.

Kerrville Tivy edged closer to Jasper in the race for No. 1 in 3A... Jasper got 13 of the 22 first place votes to four for Kerrville but Tivy trailed only 201-196 in total points.

Other teams receiving consideration in Class 4A included Klein, 5-0, which faces a district showdown later this season against No. 4 Conroe; Denton, 5-0, and Houston Stratford.

Bridgeport and Barbers Hill, both 4-1, and Medina Valley, 6-0, were other nominees in Class 2A.

Falls City, which dropped from second to 10th in the Class A rankings, fought off strong challenges to remain in the top 10. Pilot Point came closest to unseating Falls City with 13 points, followed by Boyd with 12 and Montgomery with 10.

Paterno's Lions Improved Team

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The question Joe Paterno has heard most often this fall is, "What's wrong with Penn State?"

That's what happens when you win more than 80 percent of your games but start a season by losing two of your first three. After beating Rutgers, the Nittany Lions were trounced by Texas A&M 27-14 and manhandled by Nebraska 42-17.

"The only thing wrong is that we're not a very good football team," Paterno says. "We started the season with a completely inexperienced secondary and then we had some injuries there. We also had an inexperienced kicking game, inexperience at quarterback and only one returning wide receiver."

"The defensive down linemen and a couple of linebackers were the only thing we had going for us. Too many people had to play themselves into being players."

Since that dismal start, though, Penn State has defeated Maryland 27-7 and Army 24-3. Nothing sensational, but possibly the start of something good.

"We're getting a little better each week," Paterno says. "We're a better football team right now than at any time this year."

Paterno made a key move two weeks when he switched All-American defensive tackle Bruce Clark to nose guard alongside Matt Milten, the Lions' other star tackle. Opponents can't waste four people trying to double-team both of them.

"It gives people some blocking problems and it's made us a better team," says Paterno. The coach also sheds his customary low-key attitude where Clark is concerned.

"Clark is a super player, and you can underline that six times," he says. "He's the best football player, the most dominant player we've ever had. We've never had a player who was better than anyone else. The only one close would be Lenny Moore."

Syracuse Coach Frank Maloney, who must find a way to neutralize Clark, calls Clark and Milten "the best two defensive linemen I've ever seen on one team. It's ridiculous to let the Football Writers Association vote on the Outland Trophy this year. Just lock Clark and Milten in a room and whoever comes out will be the winner."

Then, Maloney casts a vote for Clark.

"He's the finest defensive lineman I've seen since I've been coaching."

Baylor's Grant Teaff has a word of caution for anyone who thinks Texas is a shoo-in for the Southwest Conference championship and a berth in the Cotton Bowl.

"They've still got to play Arkansas, Southern Methodist, Texas Tech, Houston, Texas Christian, Baylor and Texas A&M," he points out, adding, "I'm very high on Houston."

Yale's Carm Cozza, immediate past president of the American Football Coaches Association, says the AFCA's Ethics Committee will investigate Arizona State's firing of Frank Kush at its annual convention in January.

"First, we have to find out all the details," Cozza says. "If the incident happened a year ago, why was the suit filed now?"

Saturday's Division III contest between Pace and Hofstra is being billed as "The Battle of the Training Camps." The New York Giants hold their preseason camp at Pace University in Pleasantville, N.Y., while the New York Jets have their year-round practice field and headquarters at Hofstra University in Hempstead, N.Y.

Vagas Ferguson should become Notre Dame's all-time rushing king this weekend against Southern Cal. He needs only 21 yards to break Jerome Heavens' mark of 2,682 after gaining 84 against Air Force last Saturday.

"I took him out at the half because I didn't want to run up the score," said Coach Dan Devine. "He might have gained 400 yards the way he was running."

Ferguson wasn't upset, since he now figures to break the record at home. "I'm glad to see the other guys get some playing time," he said. "The record will come."

"Our initial game plan was to defend Wilson and not pressure him. In the past, defending him seemed to bother him." That's how Utah State Coach Bruce Snyder described his defensive strategy against Brigham Young.

Snyder guessed wrong. Marc Wilson completed 19 of 35 passes for 372 yards and two touchdowns in BYU's 48-24 victory.

The Louisville-Tulsa game was marred by seven lost fumbles, including this three-minute comedy of errors in the second period:

It began when Louisville's Ricky Skiles recovered a fumble by Tulsa's Bill Blankenship. Tulsa got the ball back two plays later when Bob Laird recovered a fumble by Greg Hickman. On the next play, Blankenship fumbled again and David Drachman recovered for Louisville.

On Louisville's third play, quarterback Stu Stram (yes, he's Hank's son) fumbled and Tulsa's Eugene Williams recovered. Three plays later, Louisville got the ball back when Ray Payton intercepted a Blankenship pass.

Say Yes . . . to Senior Citizens

Hereford Senior Citizens Center is an ever-growing United Way organization which believes that life doesn't stop at 60. Projects and activities are geared to making seniors realize their importance and provide them with after-retirement activities. The organization has doubled in size in the last year, growing from 175 members a year ago to 348 this week. Margie Daniels, executive director of Senior Citizens, has initiated numerous projects aimed at increasing the size of the non-profit organization.

The seniors are in the process of moving into an adjacent cafeteria-dining room, recently constructed with center funds. The dining facility will seat 75 people, compared with the 60-seating capacity new utilized inside the main building at the old Central School. Other activities include sing-a-longs, a Kazoo band, weekly trips to Westgate nursing home "because we want to help others instead of feeling like others are just helping us" said Mrs. Daniels, and weekly devotionals.

Transportation is provided with an organization-owned van purchased recently by the seniors. Seniors are taken shopping, to the doctor or pharmacy and to the center for lunch and various activities. Recreational activities include dominoes, bridge, canasta and birthday socials. Educational classes are held for oil painting, tile painting, plaster painting, needlepoint, quilting and gold-leafing. Health programs provided to seniors have included taking blood pressure and talks on hearing aids by a Belton Corp. representative. Other health-recreation activities include bowling and square dancing.

Activist Says Gays Intend To Stick Around Awhile

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Texas gay rights activist says she is lobbying the state's congressional delegation to "indicate that we intend to be around."
Kathy Deitsch, of the Texas Gay Task Force from Austin, was among more than 100 gay Texans who remained for visits to Capitol Hill after a national gay rights rally on Sunday.

Most of the meetings with Texas congressmen and their aides were scheduled Monday.
Ms. Deitsch said the visits were planned as a foundation to build support for legislation that would include homosexuals under federal civil rights law.

Notorious Crook Has Gravestone Stolen

DALLAS (AP) - As if Clyde Barrow didn't have enough trouble in his lifetime, Texas-OU pranksters seem determined to make him rest uneasy in his grave some 45 years after his death.
Somebody's made off with his headstone again.

Barrow and his machine-gunning moll, Bonnie Parker, have been buried in Dallas since they died in a hail of police gunfire in a 1934 Arcadia, La., ambush.
Ever since, their tombstones have been a favorite target of pranksters. It is rumored the interest has been renewed during the annual Texas-OU football craziness that descends on Dallas once each fall.
This weekend, a Dallas police officer took his rookie partner by the Western Heights Cemetery just west of downtown. The young officer had never seen the landmark stone, and Officer Vance Shearer thought he ought to be sure the stone had not fallen victim to Texas, or Oklahoma hijinks.
Sure enough, the stone was gone.
Investigators figure the hefty stone was spirited north across the Red River and has been secreted in some Norman, Okla., fraternity house.
"We are assuming they did it again, partly because of the time and partly because lifting something that heavy would have taken several people and an organized effort," Shearer said.

A spot check of fraternity houses at OU turned up nothing but denials.
And Joe Johnson, director of student affairs at the University of Oklahoma said he'd never heard of a tradition to swipe the stone.
"In fact, I'm a little embarrassed to ask, but who's Clyde Barrow?" he queried.
The theft causes a recurring problem for the families of the notorious bank robbers, who became more notorious 10 or so years ago with the release of the movie, "Bonnie and Clyde."
Bonnie's stone disappeared with regularity from Crown Hill Memorial Park in Northwest Dallas until her family had it sunk in an impossible amount of concrete.
Clyde shares a stone with his older brother, Marvin, who was gunned down by police a year before his younger, more famous sibling.
The Barrows' oldest sister, Mrs. Artie Key, said she had ordered a steel rod placed between the stone and the grave-site after last year's theft, but cemetery keepers said she never paid for the work.
"They asked for a receipt, but I didn't have one," she sighed. "I guess I just trust people too much."

Witness Can't Travel So Court Does

DALLAS (AP) - A federal judge has taken his court to Illinois to hear the expert testimony of a pregnant witness in a job discrimination suit filed against the biggest bank in Dallas.
A group of former employees have filed suit against Republic National Bank, contending the bank denied equal job opportunities to women and blacks.
U.S. District Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham ordered the trial moved to Champaign, Ill., for today's session because a witness for the plaintiffs, Dr. Francine Blau of the University of Illinois, was unable to travel to Texas.
Mrs. Blau, who is expecting a baby Oct. 31, is a statistics expert who teaches in the economic department.
A spokesman for Higginbotham said the trial would return to Dallas Thursday.
Testimony in the non-jury case began Monday and so far has dealt mainly with highly technical computer methods used in gathering statistics.

The bank said it has hired blacks and women in proportion to the number who are qualified to work in the banking industry. Its lawyers say when confronted with equally qualified people the bank treated them equally without regard to race or sex.
But the judge issued a preliminary report last year saying the plaintiffs in the case have some strong arguments.
"There is bitter irony ... that after 12 years under Title VII only three blacks have managed to meet the 'standards' for filling one of the 514 officer positions of the largest bank in the South ..." Higginbotham's 1978 ruling said.
"To accept this 'statistic' with aplomb renders Title VII a cruel hoax," he said. Title VII is the section of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 that protects equal employment.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Blood pressure machines

DEAR DR. LAMB - What is your opinion on the blood pressure machines that are in the stores and public places today? My husband has had his taken several times that from different machines and got three different readings. They were as follows: 146/99, 212/208 and 140/202.
He's a long distance truck driver and 42 years of age. He's 5 foot 8 and weighs 155 pounds and doesn't take any medication. Each one of these three readings was after he had stopped and rested for at least an hour.
He had a physical by our family doctor and another one by a company doctor and both said the readings were normal but they wouldn't tell him what they actually were. He does not drink but he does smoke two packs of cigarettes a day. On his last physical the doctors said he couldn't be healthier for his age.

We are wondering if we should get alarmed about the readings from these machines and if we should consult our doctor, especially on the high readings.
DEAR READER - The best way to regard those do-it-yourself blood pressure machines is that they are screening devices. They usually identify borderline, moderately elevated or higher readings. If you have such a reading, you should see your doctor and let him check it in the usual manner.

Blood pressure readings aren't nearly as accurate or as consistent as most people think. They are influenced by your emotions at the time. They can be influenced by reflex action. In some people just as soon as the blood pressure cuff is placed around their arm, their blood pressure reading will go up.
That's why experienced doctors insist on having a number of readings before they decide the real blood pressure is too high. If a person has intermittent normal readings, it's not considered high blood pressure as a disease. These people are called vascular hyperreactors and we know their blood pressure goes up and down in response to stresses and that the blood pressure responds reflexly.

Most heart specialists don't feel that individuals who have fluctuating blood pressure with frequent normal readings should be taking medicine to lower their blood pressure. Why? If your blood pressure on its own will drop to 120 over 70 and you add to it the blood pressure lowering effect of some medicines, you might have readings that are far too low and can contribute to serious medical problems.
To help you have a better understanding of the many factors that control blood pressure, I am sending you "The Health" Letter number 1-3, Blood Pressure. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. As this issue explains, the reflex rise in blood pressure can be as sudden as the reflex action dilating or constricting of the pupil of your eye.
You might be interested to know that a high percentage of individuals who report to a hospital emergency room with high blood pressure turn out on later examinations to have perfectly normal readings.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 40-year-old woman and I'm 5 foot 7 and weigh 225 pounds. Naturally, I'm concerned about my weight. I'd like to know if I walked a mile a day for 365 days, would I lose 36 pounds if I don't change my eating habits?

Gustave Eiffel, who built the Eiffel Tower, also designed the right arm of the Statue of Liberty.

Plastic vegetable bags make good shoe bags when you're packing.

DEAR READER - Not likely, unless you also decrease your calorie intake. At your weight you will use about 85 calories more every time you walk one mile than you would have sitting still. If you multiply 85 calories by 365 days of the year and divide the year's calorie loss by 3,500, you'll find that's about nine. There are 3,500 calories in a pound of body fat so that amount of exercise would help you lose about nine pounds of body fat. A person who weighed less would lose less body fat by just walking one mile a day.
I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You can use this plan to help control your diet at the same time you're exercising.
Both exercise and a proper calorie control are important in eliminating excess body fat. In your case if you didn't use diet at all, you'd have to walk four miles a day to lose 36 pounds of body fat in a year's time, assuming that your present weight is stable and that you don't change your eating habits.

On the other hand, people who insist on losing fat simply by diet and don't exercise run the risk of losing some of their muscle weight rather than just body fat. That's not very helpful.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Easy foam hanger-covers

DEAR POLLY - Some years ago I bought foam strips that slipped over a coat hanger so dresses did not slip off. These strips had a hole in the middle that the hook went through and the ends fit tightly over the hanger so the strip did not come off. I wonder if anyone has a suggestion for a substitute as I really miss not being able to get these covers. - ALICE M.
DEAR ALICE - Why not make your own? Cut a strip of foam about 18 inches long and one and a half inches wide, make a hole in the center, pull the ends down over the top and around the end curves and staple in place. I have some like this that work beautifully on ordinary wire hangers. - POLLY.

Beef Remains Bargain Despite Higher Prices

COLLEGE STATION — If you haven't fertilized your lawn lately, it's not too late to do so, says a turfgrass specialist.

"A fall application of fertilizer not only prolongs green color in lawns but also stimulates root growth, reduces winter injury and promotes early spring recovery," points out Dr. Richard L. Doble with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Fall fertilization also increases turf density and reduces weeds."

Warm fall days and cool nights provide conditions favorable for grass to accumulate carbohydrates that promote root growth and help the grass survive winter months. Leaf growth is also less during the shorter fall days, says Doble.

The specialist recommends applying a fertilizer high in nitrogen and potassium and low in phosphorus. "Both nitrogen and potassium are important to leaf growth and color and root growth. Potassium is also important to winter survival, disease resistance and drought tolerance. While phosphorus is essential, it is required in much lesser amounts than the other nutrients," points out Doble.

The specialist recommends applying a fertilizer high in nitrogen and potassium and low in phosphorus. "Both nitrogen and potassium are important to leaf growth and color and root growth. Potassium is also important to winter survival, disease resistance and drought tolerance. While phosphorus is essential, it is required in much lesser amounts than the other nutrients," points out Doble.

"Use a fertilizer with a 15-5-10, 12-4-8 or similar analysis for the fall application," suggests the specialist.

Base the rate of application on the nitrogen content, the first number in the fertilizer analysis. Apply 1 to 2 pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn. So, with a 12-4-8 fertilizer, use 10 to 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet, depending on when the last fertilizer application was made. If the lawn has not been fertilized for the past eight weeks or longer, use the higher rate.

"Lawns can be fertilized through October in most areas of the state," points out Doble.

"In South Texas lawns can still be fertilized in November without adverse effects.

"For the homeowner interested in an attractive lawn this fall and early recovery next spring, fall fertilization is a must," contends Doble.

Bitter Growth

Celery is "blanched" during the last stage of its growth. This is done by placing soil about the plant to prevent sunlight from reaching any part of the plant except the leaves. If allowed to grow naturally, the stalks would have a greenish color and a bitter taste.

The famous steam engine, the "Tom Thumb," raced with a horsedrawn car on Aug. 25, 1829...the horse won after the engine broke down.
