

House Votes on Relief for Heating Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives, moving with unusual swiftness, is voting on emergency legislation to spend more than a billion dollars this winter helping poor people pay their home heating bills.

House leaders placed the $1.35 billion measure at the top of the agenda for today, less than 24 hours after the plan cleared the House Appropriations Committee.

Usually, several days or weeks elapse from the time a bill is approved by a committee until it reaches the floor for a vote. But in this case, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill has called quick passage of an energy assistance program a "national imperative," and the House leadership has done what it could to compress the normal process.

The emergency measure, when combined with $250 million approved earlier this year, would bring total energy assistance for this winter to $1.6 billion, the figure recommended by the Carter administration and passed in two separate bills by the Senate.

The House bill would allocate $400 million to be mailed out directly — probably in January — to recipients of Supplemental Security Income, the government's aid program for the elderly and handicapped.

An additional $800 million would be available to the states to administer their own assistance programs, in the form of making direct grants to eligible families or establishing lines of credit with energy suppliers. A family would be eligible for such aid if its income did not exceed the official poverty level by more than 25 percent. The poverty level for an urban family of four is about $8,375.

If any state decided not to operate such a program, its share of the $800 million would be mailed automatically to its welfare recipients.

The remaining $125 million in the bill would be combined with $250 million already approved for an emergency assistance program run by the Community Services Administration. Most of that money is distributed through state-run programs.

There is no estimate in the bill on how much aid a typical individual or family might receive. However, similar administration proposals have mentioned target figures on the order of $100 for an individual and $200 for a family.

The speed with which the bill is advancing drew criticism from some Appropriations Committee members.

"We're starting another program that will make the food stamp program look like peanuts," complained Rep. Robert Giaino, D-Conn., chairman of the House

Walter Cronkite, CBS Nightly News editor, has often mentioned his awareness of television's shortcomings as a news media. He noted recently that half-hour reports such as his can only hit the high spots—in fact, only enough to take up half a newspaper page.

He gave this (paraphrased) example of TV news coverage:

"Moses came down from Mount Sinai today with the Ten Commandments, the two most important of which are..."

THIS WAY UNITED Way Day in Hereford and if you read this before 7 p.m., there's still time to get down to Sugarland Mall and contribute your fair share to the community campaign. Pledges will still be coming for a week or more, so it won't be too late, in any case. Volunteers are serving as "runners" today to go and pick up contributions and pledges.

EVER NOTICE the sick and starving dogs wandering around on the outskirts of our community. We have an idea many of them are the result of some misguided intentions of pet owners.

They suddenly find the puppy they lavished so much love on earlier has now turned into an unbearable chore. They rationalize that what the dog needs is a home out in the country where he can roam to his heart's content, where he can be of some use to the family that keeps him.

The problem is that those homes in the country already have their dogs, or maybe a whole pack of them that have been dropped off. If you care for your pet but simply can't handle him in town, don't carry him to the country and dump him. Do the pet and yourself a favor and call the police department. It's the humane thing to do. They'll find a home for the pet or put it to sleep painlessly.

Witnesses: Chase Preceded Stabbing

Murillo Murder Trial Begins

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Three men who were with Hector Mata the night he was stabbed and later died testified Wednesday that an altercation between the four and defendant Balletine Murillo broke out after they tried to help a man start his stalled car.

Murillo is on trial in 222nd District Court for the March 17 murder of Mata, who was stabbed across the street from the Wishing Well dance hall at 2nd and Main.

Mata was dead on arrival at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Only one of the state witnesses—Emilio Rincon, a brother-in-law—testified that he saw Murillo apparently stab Mata. The prosecution is trying to prove to the jury that Mata was stabbed while standing next to his pickup while watching Murillo chase Rincon with a knife around the vehicle.

Rincon testified that he, Mata and two other Mata brothers-in-law—Oscar Ramos and David Rincon—were driving south on Main Street in front of the Wishing Well when they heard a man call out that "he needed a boost."

Rincon said Mata, the driver of the pickup, continued south on Main, pulled into the Firestone parking lot and turned the vehicle around. The pickup parked between cars on the east side of the street, across from the Wishing Well, and the four men got out, Rincon testified.

Rincon said that he and David Rincon went into the Wishing Well and were told the dance going on was by invitation only, while Mata and Ramos assisted the man

President Considers 'Punitive' Proposals if Tax Not Passed

WASHINGTON — Carter threatened today to pursue unspecified proposals that "could be quite punitive to the oil industry" if Congress does not pass a satisfactory "windfall profits" tax.

Carter also said the surge of profits posted by major oil companies in the third quarter "vividly demonstrate the need" for a major portion of unearned profits from the oil companies to go into the general service of the American people.

The president made his comments, the first on the oil industry's new financial reports, in a speech to a citizens' coalition having breakfast at the White House before visiting Capitol Hill to push for passage of Carter's tax plan.

It would tax oil company revenues stemming from the presidential decision to remove price controls on oil.

Carter vowed that if he fails to bring the Senate around to supporting a biller than that before the Senate Finance Committee, "we will shift our combat zone" to the House-Senate conference that will work out difference between the Senate bill and a bill more to Carter's liking that the House approved.

If the final measure does not meet his approval, "we'll move toward additional proposals to the Congress which could be quite punitive to the oil industry," the president told the National Citizens' Coalition for the Windfall Profits Tax.

"I will not hesitate to do that if necessary," he said, without spelling out any specifics.

Referring to the coalition's mission and his belief that the Senate bill is inadequate, Carter said: "I think the

Carter Says He's Not Afraid Of Competition from Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Encouraged by the first rallying of his troops, President Carter says he isn't afraid of competition in his 1980 re-election bid, even the expected challenge from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Carter told 500 of his firmest supporters at a dinner-rally in a Washington hotel Wednesday night that when he formally announces his re-election plans, "you will not be disappointed."

Kennedy used similar words when he signalled to backers that he plans to oppose Carter for the Democratic nomination next year.

A Kennedy spokesman confirmed earlier Wednesday that the Massachusetts senator will announce next Monday the formation of an exploratory presidential committee, which will make him legally a candidate.

The Kennedy committee will be headed as expected by the senator's brother-in-law, Stephen Smith. But in a surprise move, Morris Dees, national campaign finance director for Carter's 1976 campaign, said Wednesday he has agreed to handle that chore for Kennedy this time around.

Like Kennedy, Carter has not formally announced. He assumed candidate status last March when he registered a campaign committee with the Federal Election Commission, however.

The White House has said his formal announcement will be made Dec. 4. Kennedy's is expected at about the same time.

But Wednesday night Carter was all spunk and confidence and poked some blunt fun at Kennedy.

"I have never feared a political fight and ... I look forward to 1980 with anticipation and confidence," Carter told his audience.

As to whether he would seek a second term, Carter said: "I asked my Momma, and she said, 'Rosalynn said she'd live in the White House four more years.'"

Both statements were jibes at Kennedy. Among the senator's first hints that he would seek the presidency were announcements that his mother, Kennedy family matriarch Rose, had given her blessing and that his estranged wife Joan had agreed to live in the White House if he is elected.

Carter also talked some serious politics to the partisan crowd, saying he hoped at the end of the congressional session the public and his critics would "accurately assess for a change what we have proposed, what we have fought for and what we have achieved."

Dees said in an interview he hopes to raise between $1 million and $2 million for Kennedy by year's end. He said his switch to Kennedy indicated no falling-out with Carter, noting he had long hoped for a Kennedy candidacy.

"I urged Senator Kennedy to run in 1975 and he decided not to. Being a friend of Governor Carter, I decided to work for him," Dees said. "I still have great respect for him, but I just happen to be a long-time supporter of Senator Kennedy and I would like to see him president."

$100 Ride

Stanley Simmons of Simmons Carpet offered $100 to Deaf Smith County United Way if Lajeane Henry of the Pants Cage would ride the bucking horse, sponsored by the YMCA, this morning at Sugarland Mall. Ms. Henry accepted the challenge, and United Way moved $100 closer to its goal of $148,110. By 11 a.m., more than $20,000 in pledges was turned into the mall. (Brand photo)

The Hereford Whitefaces have been working on every aspect of the game in order to get ready for its clash with Plainview Tomorrow night. The Whitefaces are 4-2 going into the game, the Bulldogs are 2-4. It is the first district game for Hereford while Plainview opened last week against Monterey and lost 17-7 [Brand photos by Rick Grossman]

Whitefaces Open District Play

The Hereford Whitefaces will start district play tomorrow night after having an open date last week. The Herd will travel to Plainview to take on the Bulldogs.

Monterey held Plainview to a total of 101 yards on offense, 103 yards on the ground and a minus two yards passing. Unable to generate any real offense against the Plainsman, The Bulldogs only score of the night came when defensive back Bobby Reyes intercepted a pass and took it 103 yards for a touch down on the last play of the first half. According to Head Coach Don Cumpton, in order for Hereford to win they need to do the same thing that Monterey did "play ball control and help out the defense. Plainview has so many breakaway threats in the backfield, that we can't give up the long run or pass." Along with having the threat in the backfield, Plainview has got a defense that is extremely quick and large to say the least. The defensive line average 220 lbs. The Bulldogs may be coming off a disappointing defeat at the hands of Monterey but there is no doubt that they will be fired up for the Hereford game. It is a must win for them, a loss to Hereford could put them completely out of the district race.

Plainview Coach Greg Sherwood sees the Whitefaces as a pretty stiff competition. "I see them as a real fine football team, very aggressive, a lot of speed, able to win the close ones and they throw the ball better than any team we have played against this season. The Herd will be using its explosive passing game but they will try to run against the Bulldogs, something they haven't done real well until the Brownfield game two weeks ago when the Whitefaces rushed for 243 yards in a 21-20 win over the Cubs. Coach Cumpton commented "if we can run against Plainview it will make the passing game more effective," and the whole team will need to be in tune to come away victorious.

South Carolina Cagers Threaten To Quit

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The 14 members of the South Carolina basketball team threatened to quit if Coach Frank McGuire was fired.

Team captain Mike Doyle, in a statement signed by the other 13 members, said, "The team unanimously agrees that if Coach McGuire is fired we will not play."

McGuire said Tuesday that despite recent rumors, he had no knowledge that he would be fired, adding that he expected to coach at least through the 1979-80 season.

The great pro quarterback, Sammy Baugh, played safety on defense and in one game in 1943 he made four interceptions for the Washington Redskins against the Detroit Lions.

Philadelphia Finds Right Way, Wins Sixth Straight Game

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia 76ers finally have learned to do things the easy way. And they're making it awfully hard on the opposition.

The unbeaten 76ers won their sixth game of the National Basketball Association season Wednesday night, a 132-110 verdict over Indiana that Pacers Coach Bob Leonard called "an old-fashioned whipping." Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham appreciates his team's efforts.

"The difference between this year and last is that last year we were winning games early in the season but we were winning them in the last few seconds," said Cunningham. "They were dogfights. Now we are winning games under control and in the last few minutes the games don't mean anything since we have put the other team away."

Kermit Washington's two foul shots with 17 seconds left provided the victory margin. Denver's Tom Boswell committed the foul as Washington snared a rebound of a miss by George McGinnis.

Denver Coach Donnie Walsh was upset with the refereeing, especially on that foul call.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Atlanta 128, Cleveland 118; Boston 110, Houston 99; Detroit 104, Washington 103; Seattle 105, Kansas City 92, and Phoenix 110, Golden State 108 in overtime.

Maxwell's Free Throw Secures Victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Although Cedric Maxwell was shooting well from the field when his Boston Celtics met the Houston Rockets, he was having his problems at the free throw line. Maxwell was thinking about those problems when he stepped to the charity stripe with six seconds to play and Houston leading 99-98 Wednesday night.

"I felt a lot of pressure out here," he said. "I knew that I had missed six already. I just wanted to make those two and get out of there." And that's exactly what he did as Boston edged Houston 100-99 to take their second victory over the Rockets in the early going of this National Basketball Association season.

Maxwell was eight for 12 from the field and finished with 20 points to share game-scoring honors with Houston's Robert Reid. It was defense, however, that both coaches were talking about at the end of the game.

"We played defense tonight and we ran well," said Boston Coach Bill Fitch. "We were lucky to win because when you make 27 turnovers against a team like Houston, you're not supposed to win." Houston Coach Del Harris said the Celtics were able to push his team around and make the plays that counted. "I was pleased with our defense, and I really thought we were going to win the game," he said. "But we didn't make the big plays, and we were out-physiced." The Celtics took the early advantage and led by 10 points, 48-38, late in the first half. But Houston's Rudy White hit seven straight points to lead a Rockets surge in which they outscored Boston 12-2, and the teams broke for halftime tied at 50-50. The Rockets continued their strong play in the second half and took a 90-82 lead on a Rudy Tomjanovich lay-up with 7:58 left to play.

Art Guild Meets For Guest Night

The Hereford Art Guild met Tuesday evening at the Community Center with Ruby Lee Hickman, president, presiding.

Since this was guest night, hostesses served as the membership committee composed of Leota Cook, Sonja Paetzold, Lucille Naylor and Jan Bradford.

Members brought pictures and crafts as a show and tell program project.

Refreshments were served to 23 members and guests.

The next meeting will be Nov.

27 with Lottie Wertenberger giving the program on "Art History."

Members present were Ora Morgan, Opal Elliston, Eunice Petersen, Ina Mae Gilbreath, Marguerite Newell, Bob Baum, Hilda Haven, Lottie Wertenberger, Cardease Wilson, Lucille Naylor, Leota Cook, Mary Lou Aven, Nell Culpepper, Billie Hromas, Sonja Paetzold, and guests Grace Coombes, Marie Bilbrey, Ruth Allison, Virginia Woodford, Grace Tinnen, Martha Lueb, Ruby Stevenson, and Zelma Kuykendall.

Show n' Tell

Farm, Ranch Club Meets With Watson

The Farm and Ranch Club met at K-Bob's Steak House for their noon luncheon.

After lunch members met in the home of Dorothy Weaver for a program on "Time for Choosing," given by Charles Watson with Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

Slides were shown and literature passed out among those present.

Frances Mae Miller won the floating prize and Mrs. Olen Baird was introduced as a guest.

Members present were Mmes. W.B. Nunley, Paul Rudd, Elton Sorrells, and Phillip Miller.

Recipes Sought For 'Cornucopia'

Holiday recipes are now needed for The Hereford Brand's publication of the "Kitchen Cornucopia," a tabloid section to be inserted in the Thanksgiving issue, Nov. 22.

Recipes for the special issue are now being accepted at The Brand office, 130 W. 4th St. Recipes can also be mailed to "Kitchen Cornucopia," Hereford Brand, P.O. Box 673, Hereford. It is requested that all recipes be clearly printed or typed to avoid mistakes in reproduction. The name, address and phone number of the contributor should be marked on each recipe. The deadline for submitted recipes will be Nov. 15.

This is the second recipe tabloid to be published by The Brand in recent years. Last year's "Treasure Trove of Recipes" was met with enthusiasm by Brand readers, according to Kerrie Steiert, Women's Editor.

Any questions concerning the recipe tabloid should be directed to Mrs. Steiert, 364-2030.

Local Artists Plan To Exhibit Works

Amarillo Fine Arts Association has scheduled their 15th Annual Hungry Artist Show in the Western Plaza Mall in Amarillo Saturday and Sunday. The hours on Saturday are 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. and Sunday hours are 11 a.m. - 6 p.m.

The Hungry Artist Show will have 150 booths selling the artwork of people of the Amarillo trade area. All of these people are selling items of their own creation priced at $35 or less. Items will include both fine arts and craft items.

Hereford participants will include: Susan Hicks and Paula Edwards, Jean Lyles, Elaine McNutt, Betty Martin, Anna Kovacs and Bobby Decker.

Margaret Walker from Vega and Eric Boettcher from Wildorado will also participate.

Greek Sidedishes Complete Dinner

COLLEGE STATION--Sidedishes and desserts complete the perfect Greek dinner, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES
Greeks eat very few canned or processed fruits and vegetables, she continues.

Fresh vegetables are used cooked plain or as an ingredient in meat dishes.

Favorite vegetables include cauliflower, artichokes, eggplant, okra, potatoes, spinach, tomatoes and zucchini. They may be fried, stuffed and combined with cheeses and other vegetables in a casserole.

SALADS
Salads usually are a part of every Greek meal.

The most popular Greek or peasant salad includes tomatoes cut in wedges, crumbled feta cheese, Greek olives, capers, oregano, olive oil and lemon juice or vinegar.

Salad greens or spinach and cucumbers may or may not be included.

BREADS
Breads are an important component of any meal. Greek or flat bread and a sweet type of bread are eaten daily, the specialist explains.

PASTRY
Probably the most popular Greek pastry is the rich, sticky pastry made of chopped walnuts, pistachio nuts and almonds, honey-syrup, nutmeg and cinnamon known as Baklava.

However, the usual Greek home never eats pastry for dessert but enjoys fresh fruits, cheese or nuts.

The rich Baklava instead is used for treating guests on holidays and festive occasions with a cup of hot or iced Greek coffee.

A similar rich pastry is made with shredded wheat but has much the same ingredients as the Baklava.

SNACKS
Fruits leathers made with fruit pulp, sugar and dried in thin sheets and rolled up make chewy snacks for quick snacks.

These are popular in Greece as well as in the United States, Ms. Sweeten adds.

Keep a card file of fabric bought as a quick inventory reference for color, fiber, content, yardage, care and other information, suggests Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Luncheon Scheduled By Forum

The Women's Forum will meet Monday Oct. 29, at The Community Center for a noon luncheon.

The luncheon will be hosted by Summerfield Study Club, Bud to Blossom Garden Club and Pioneer Study Club. Members attending need to bring a dish.

The program for the afternoon will be presented by the International Students from West Texas State University.

All interested women are invited to attend.

The largest pink diamond in the world is the "Sea of Light," one of the prized jewels of Iran. Iran is reputed to have the greatest jewel treasury in the world, and the Darya-I Nur diamond, estimated to weigh 185 carats, is one of these.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

We were eating in a Spanish restaurant the other night when my friend and I excused ourselves and went to the restroom.

Since both of us are farsighted, she arrived at the first door, pressed her nose two inches from it, and with her hands traced the outline of what she thought to be a hooped skirt. It turned out to be the cape of a bullfighter and we found ourselves in the men's room. The two of us hid in a booth until it was prudent to come out.

Naturally, we do not consider ourselves authorities on men's rooms, but since few women have visited the last bastion of male dominance, we made some observations on the subject.

Men go to the restroom alone. I don't know why they do this, but I have yet to see a man stand up in a room, announce where he is going and ask if any other man at the table would like to go with him. With women it's a social outing...something you share. My husband calls it the Ark connections, where women go into the restroom two by two and come out the same way.

Men whistle. Without fail, every man who came into the restroom whistled and didn't stop until he left. Women, on the other hand, never whistle. They talk. There is everything to talk about. Why there are no towels. Why there is no soap. Why the hand blower doesn't work. Why there is a toll charge for using the bathroom. I have established more meaningful relationships from holding the door of a pay booth open than you can imagine. In fact, a lot of us still correspond.

Men return from the facilities and seem embarrassed to discuss where they've been. They never hear any gossip. Never see any celebrities. Never find out if the fish on the menu is frozen or that the blonde waitress is married to the drummer who is jealous.

A restroom to women is an adventure. Where men instinctively check out the location before the sit down, women buzz around asking the bartender, the cashier, the maitre d' and end up wandering around the kitchen, going through doors that lead to the parking lot, and giggling in a dark corridor about whether or not a unicorn is male or female.

I don't know how to explain any of this. Maybe women just don't get out a lot.

Ann Landers

Remarried Women

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a second wife who would like to speak her piece in behalf of all women who are married to widowers.

Most wedding ceremonies contain the words, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow." This is as it should be. Anything less is not a total commitment.

If men or women have children by a first marriage, they should give the kids the money before they remarry--and not expect a second mate to do it after death.

I also believe all wills should be made a matter of public record as soon as they are written. People would be a lot more thoughtful and generous if they knew their wills were being read while they were still alive. Too many people do their dirty work from the grave.--No Nonsense Nellie From Hays, Kans.

DEAR NELLIE: You say most wedding ceremonies contain the words, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow..." Obviously we haven't been going to the same weddings. I haven't heard anyone say that in 25 years.

I am also in disagreement with your suggestion that children should receive their inheritance while their parents are alive. The old folks just might need it themselves.

Making a will a matter of public record as soon as it is filed is not such a hot idea either. People often decide to change their wills--furthermore, whose business is it besides those who are intimately involved?

Sorry to veto three out of three, but that's the way I see it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your opinion on the strange behavior of some relatives on my husband's side.

The mother of two teenage sons is raising these boys to do some pretty weird things. For example, they sit in the living room, take off their shirts and Mommy scratches their backs--even when guests are present. They interrupt conversations with "lower" or "higher," "More to this side," and "Oh, gee...that feels good."

These boys are not little kids. Ann--one is in high school. When Mommy isn't scratching their backs she is massaging their feet. It's revolting to see these hulks, naked from the waist up, barefooted, moaning and groaning while Mommy scratches and massages.

Is it possible the boys will turn into homosexuals?--Appalled In Tucson

DEAR TUCSON: The scene you describe is gross, to say the least, but it will not turn the boys into homosexuals. Sexual preferences are established well before the teen years--some authorities say within the first three or four years of life.

I agree it's the pits--but you can't tell people how to behave in their own home. You could, however, pull a bar of medicinal soap out of your purse and say, "This did Uncle Herb a world of good when he had the itch."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Be a friend to the mailmen, please. Heaven knows they are good friends of yours. Print these DON'TS for your readers:

(1) Don't stop your car on the other side of a busy street and motion for the mailman to run across and get your letter.

(2) Don't let your German shepherd or Doberman pinscher sit unleashed on the porch and announce, "Don't worry...he doesn't bite."

(3) Don't buy one of these pretty, impractical slim mailboxes and say, "He can get in all the mail if he really tries."--E.M., Newsday, L.I.

DEAR READERS: If anyone sees himself in the column today, please take the hint.

Mail-Order Dentures Cause Complications

COLLEGE STATION -- Mail-order dentures may "cost you" much more in the long run, although they appear to cost less at first glance, says a health education specialist. Dentures must be fitted to your own mouth--for best results, says Carla Shearer.

Mail-order dentures that do not fit can cause damage to mouth tissues, and that can lead to other complications, including open mouth sores and other serious lesions, she warns.

Ms. Shearer is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Also, ill-fitting dentures tempt some people not to wear them--so any money spent in buying them is wasted, no matter how "economical" they were.

In addition, without proper fit of dentures, problems with eating and speaking can arise--along with the possibility of destroying the bone which supports dentures.

There is help available for persons who cannot afford custom-fitted dentures, Ms. Shearer says.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Despite rising energy costs, more than 10 million households in the United States have no attic insulation, according to a recent report by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.

The attic is one of the major areas of heat loss in the home. The report also says another 22 million households (excluding mobile homes and multi-family dwellings with more than four units) have only 1 to 5 inches of attic insulation. Six inches is considered the minimum in most areas of the country.

Owens-Corning said the majority of dwellings without attic insulation were over 30 years old. About two-thirds of the occupants were over 50 and two-thirds earned less than $15,000 a year.

COMMENTARY

The rewinning of the West

Donald F. Graff

It was not too many years back that the federal holdings limit sovereignty and obstruct economic development. Some of the federal land is in national parks and forests, about which there is little objection. But most is wilderness, timberland and range in the custody of the Bureau of Land Management, which, as local government's see it, does not do a very good job of managing.

Several states are contesting Washington's right to the public lands — Nevada having gone so far as to legislatively expropriate 49 million federal acres. Taking possession is, however, another matter.

With their energy resources, the states are in a different position — a much more advantageous one. The land is subject to state jurisdiction, enabling state governments to determine to a great extent the conditions of exploitation. And most are doing so.

Montana, whose vast coal deposits are only beginning to be tapped, has enacted stringent severance regulations and fees that are models of their kind in minimizing the destructive environmental and social havoc that mineral extraction can entail. It has profited from the example — a bad one — of neighboring Wyoming, which got into the energy game earlier with much looser rules and has suffered some of the disadvantages of too-summer grown, such a shanty boom towns and law enforcement problems.

The Western 12 have joined — working through the two-year-old Western Governors Policy Office — to develop common policies where possible and present a united front to Washington. And they are being courted by Washington, by no less an emissary than the much-traveled Jimmy Carter who between trains and river steamers managed to work in a visit to Albuquerque especially to confer with the governors.

He found them not so much difficult as determined — that that West is not going to repeat an earlier chapter in its history which Colorado Gov. Richard D. Lamm entitles "rape and run."

With good reason. The region's present inhabitants are not like most of the old prospectors who were the first to exploit its riches. They were just passing through.

Today's Westerners are there to stay.
