Houston recovers from latest floods

HOUSTON (AP) - Damage from the deluge that inundated Houston, flooding at least 100 homes and swamping thousands of vehicles, may reach $50 million, Houston Mayor Bob Lanier says.

At least one death may be connected to the flooding, which struck Wednesday when a line of thunderstorms stalled over the city, dumping up to 8 inches of rain in some regions and sending bayous pouring over their banks.

A man was found lying headfirst in a ditch near Halls Bayou in northeast Houston about 5:30 a.m. Thursday. Police said he may have been a pedestrian who was swept into the water by strong flood currents.

An autopsy was being conducted Thursday.

Two children with cerebral palsy, rescued when their mini school bus was washed into a bayou, remained hospitalized in fair condition. The other two children on the bus and the driver had been treated and released.

Mayor Lanier asked state and federal officials to declare the city a disaster area. Lanier said preliminary damage estimates indicate losses in Harris County in the $25 million to $50 million range.

"What's remarkable to me is that we absorbed this much water, and it ran off this well," Lanier said after surveying the flooded areas Thursday.

Thousands of motorists spent the day looking for their vehicles after they were forced to abandon them on several highways that filled with water during the flash flooding, while other residents dug out homes damaged by the rising waters.

At least 100 homes in the lower Green's Bayou area and near the San Jacinto River below Lake Houston still had water inside Thursday, said Frank Gutierrez, shift leader for the Harris County Flood Control District.

"The river has crested and it is receding, but there is still a lot of water out there," Gutierrez said.

Residents worked to clean off the layer of slime that covered the insides of their homes and watched for snakes and ants carried by flood waters. Some said their houses were filled with up to 5 feet of water.

"On the inside, it was up to - well, the kitchen sink was under it," said Earnie Bridges as he sat in a second-story window at his home.

"We started getting little things out, and before you know it, it (the bayou) was up," said John Taylor. "It's the worst thing that anybody could ever go through."

At least two schools cancelled classes for the day as workers moved in to take up flooded carpeting and remove damaged furniture and other materials.

Among those paying $76 to retrieve their vehicles were Willie Mickens, who said the process "took me a couple of hours," and Karen Robertson, whose car flooded as she sat stranded on I-10.

"I sat there screaming and praying and crying and cursing, and the water just started going up and up," Mrs. Robertson said. "There's this beautiful point in life where you realize your life is more important than anything, so I just gathered my stuff up and left."

Report: doctors should be more tolerant toward pain from their patients

BOSTON (AP) - For people in pain and the doctors treating them, a new set of federal guidelines can be boiled down to a simple suggestion: Sometimes it's OK to say yes to drugs.

The guidelines make clear that millions of Americans have been suffering needlessly after medical procedures, largely because doctors and nurses are irrationally afraid patients will become addicted to drugs.

Narcotics such as morphine are the mainstay of pain control. Yet both patients and those treating them are often reluctant to use these medicines effectively, because they confuse them with street drugs.

About 23 million operations are performed in the United States each year. Surveys show that between 30 percent and 50 percent of hospital patients suffer more pain than is necessary after surgery, medical procedures and accidents.

The effectiveness of the "just say no" anti-drug campaign is widely cited by experts as a major reason why pain is poorly controlled.

"People think the mere exposure to these drugs will cause someone to be enslaved by them. And that's not true. It's crazy," said Dr. C. Stratton Hill Jr. of M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston.

In fact, studies show addiction is almost unheard of among people getting pain medicines. And even if a patient becomes physically dependent on narcotics, headaches and nausea can be avoided by gradually withdrawing the drugs over five to 10 days.

The Department of Health and Human Services on Wednesday issued the book-length guidelines on techniques for dealing with pain.

Palacios wins junior spelling title

Jennifer Palacios, left, won the Deaf Smith County Junior Spelling Bee on Thursday at the Deaf Smith County Library. The runner-up, center, was Lisa Coneway. With them is Bera Boyd, media specialist at West Central Intermediate School who has served many years as the pronouncer for the county spelling bees, sponsored by the Hereford Brand.

Palacios wins junior bee

Jennifer Palacios survived 42 rounds of spelling words to take the 1992 Deaf Smith County Junior Spelling Bee title Thursday.

Palacios, a fifth grader at West Central Intermediate School, qualified for today's County Spelling Bee at the Deaf Smith County Library. The winner of today's bee will compete in the Regional Spelling Bee in April at West Texas State University.

Palacios won a $50 U.S. Savings Bond from the First National Bank of Hereford.

The runner-up was Lisa Coneway, also a student at West Central. She received a $25 check from West Texas Rural Telephone.

A field of 16 fourth and fifth grade spellers, representing public and private schools in Deaf Smith County, was pared to just four after 11 rounds of words. The four included Tan Nguyen and Cinda Rico. Rico missed "ostrich" in the 14th round.

In the 17th round, Nguyen and Coneway each missed words. As Palacios sat patiently waiting, Coneway and Nguyen had a spell-off between themselves, going through 44 words before Nguyen missed "stimulus." Coneway then correctly spelled "stimulus" and "straddle" to make it to the final round against Palacios.

The students each spelled three words correctly before Coneway misspelled "swivel." Palacios correctly spelled "swivel" and "tallow" to win the junior championship.

The county champion will receive a $100 award; a $50 bond from Hereford State Bank, $25 gift certificate from Gibson's, and $25 in Hereford Bucks from The Hereford Brand. The runner-up will earn a $25 award from Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union and a $25 savings bond from Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative.

The county spelling bees are sponsored by the Hereford Brand.

O.G. Nieman is the county bee director.

The Regional Bee will be sponsored by the Amarillo Globe-News and West Texas State University. Several prizes will be awarded at region, including an expense paid trip to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C.

Entrants who qualified for the competition Friday besides Palacios include Hereford Junior High students Marivel Gamez, Michelle Denton, Joe Vanegas, Kelly Thompson, Elizabeth Valdez, Anna Witkowski, Bao Nguyen and Shawna Lindsey; Bluebonnet's Ernesto Sotelo and Robert Estrada; West Central's Eddie Montoya and Crystal Lopez; St. Anthony's Staci Betzen; Walcott's Brad Hudson; Nazarene Christian Academy's Cindy Harder, and Community Christian's Jantzen Louder.

Witkowski was the county champion in 1991, and Louder was last year's junior winner.

Chamber banquet Saturday

Hereford's Citizen of the Year for 1991 will be named at the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Bull Barn.

Bob Lewis, better known as "Tumbleweed Smith," will be the featured speaker at the banquet. Lewis has collected humorous stories from across Texas for many years for his radio program and many years on the banquet circuit.

Officers and directors for 1992 will be introduced at the banquet. Charles Greenawalt is 1992 president, and Lewis McDaniel is this year's vice president. Other directors include James McDowell, serving his second term as secretary-treasurer, past president Pat Robbins, and Waldo Baxter, Diane Hoelscher, Ken McLain, Bill Lyles, Donna West, Wes Fisher, Elaine McNutt, John Sherrod and Mauri Montgomery. Rita Bell, as president of the Women's Division, is also on the board.

Retiring directors Bobby Moore, Carol Gerk and Scott Keeling will also be honored.

E. Michael Carr, executive vice president of the chamber, said a new award will be announced at Saturday's banquet. Other special recognitions are scheduled.

The 1991 Citizen of the Year will be announced by Tommie Weemes, boss Lion of the Hereford Lions club. The Lions have named a Citizen of the Year in Hereford since 1946. Caudie Ola Brown was the 1990 Citizen of the Year.

The banquet will be catered by K-Bob's Steak House, and Greg Coplen will provide dinner music. Tickets are $14 per person are available from any Hereford Hustler or at the door.

Some reps want full disclosure on checks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dissenting House Republicans are demanding public disclosure of all the chamber's rubber check writers, not just the 24 current and former members a divided ethics committee wants to identify.

"We've got to come clean," Rep. Jon Kyl, R-Ariz., said Thursday in vowing to fight for disclosure of 355 House members who wrote bad checks on their accounts at the chamber's now-defunct bank.

The House ethics committee voted 10-4 on Thursday to release the names and account histories of 19 current and five former members. Seven Democrats and three Republicans supported the proposal. The four dissenters were Republicans.

The differing views set the stage for a potentially nasty battle on the House floor next week on the question of full vs. partial disclosure - or perhaps no disclosure.

"The political ramifications of this is absolutely awesome," said Rep. James V. Hansen of Utah, the ranking Republican on the ethics committee, who supported the majority.

House Democrats, with a 102-seat majority, are expected by sheer numbers to suffer more than Republicans if all the names are released.

The committee's acting chairman, Rep. Matthew F. McHugh, D-N.Y., said the majority viewed its plan as a "compromise" that met the test of "reasonableness."

"I don't know how some of these folks slept at night," said McHugh, who disclosed the total number of bad check writers.

Computer users wait for virus attack

NEW YORK (AP) - Computer users braced for a virus set to strike on Michelangelo's birthday today, but some experts weren't looking for widespread damage.

If unchecked, the rogue program found in machines built to the IBM standard can destroy all the information in a machine.

Experts said computer owners could prevent triggering of the virus today by simply not turning on their computers or by adjusting the computer's internal clock. Many others - including companies, schools and others that cannot afford to let their computers stay idle an entire day - have guarded the machines with anti-viral software.

The National Computer Security Association estimates no more than 20,000 computers could be damaged if no precautions are taken. That's about one in 2,500 of all personal computers in the United States.

"It has been overhyped, without question," said Charles Rutstein, staff researcher for the Washington, D.C.-based NCSA. "There is going to be some data lost. But for the most part, it's not a terrific problem as far as the world is concerned."

John McAfee of the Computer Virus Industry Association estimated 5 million machines may have it worldwide.

Michelangelo may have struck early in some places.

The troubled Wall Street firm Drexel Burnham Lambert reported that two of its machines were struck Thursday - apparently because their internal clocks didn't account for the leap year. The firm had made a backup copy of its computer data.

A newspaper in Uruguay reported Thursday that Michelangelo wiped out counterintelligence information in military computers. A military spokesman denied the report.

Computer viruses are the electronic equivalent of biological bugs. They sneak into computer systems aboard infected discs or in sabotaged programs copied from electronic bulletin boards. There are more than 1,000 known viruses.

"Some (viruses) are playful. You'll see a fish swim across your screen or a smiley face. It's 'Ha, ha, we gotcha,'" said Carol Sizer of the Whirlpool Corp. in Benton Harbor, Mich. "But the Michelangelo virus is destructive. It's like driving your car across someone's lawn."

First discovered in Europe last year, Michelangelo has been found in the United States in Leading Edge Products Inc., the Palisades nuclear plant of the Consumers Power Co. in Michigan, the U.S. Agriculture Department, a few machines in the House of Representatives, and the newspaper San Jose (Calif.) Mercury News, among others. It also has appeared in the computer systems of at least five Japanese companies.

A generic NCSA profile of the mischief-makers who create viruses is a white male, age 17 to 28, who is clever but most likely an underachiever, very adept at programming but trying to prove something or get attention.

They have been compared to people who pull sick practical jokes, paint graffiti on walls or call in bomb threats.

FBI chief William Sessions issued a warning about the virus this week, pointing out it is a federal crime to destroy data in government computers.

The last time one generated such a scare was Oct. 13, 1989. The NCSA said it documented only two cases of the Datacrime or Columbus Day virus.

Officer says he tried to stop beating

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) - Four white policemen charged in the videotaped beating of a black motorist began breaking ranks as the lawyer for one officer accused the others of losing control after Rodney King was pulled over.

Defense attorney John Barnett said Officer Theodore Briseno was the only policeman who tried to stop the kicking and clubbing of King following a traffic stop. Other defense lawyers and the prosecutor offered different versions of events.

"Everyone's watching a different movie," Michael Stone, attorney for Officer Laurence Powell, said outside court. "You see in this tape what you want to see."

The March 3, 1991, beating stirred outrage after the scene was captured on videotape by an amateur camaraman and broadcast across the country.

The videotape was played for jurors Thursday after opening statements in the police brutality trial began. Briseno, 39, Powell, 29, Sgt. Stacey Koon, 41, Officer Timothy Wind, 31 are charged with assault; Koon and Powell also are charged with filing false reports.

They face 4- to 8-year maximum prison sentences, if convicted. Wind, a rookie on probation, was fired. The other officers were suspended.

Pointing to scenes in the graphic videotape, Barnett said Briseno had watched King get smashed in the face with a nightstick, saw Powell swing wildly, almost hitting Briseno in the head, and stepped in to stop it.

"He has seen what that baton has done to King's face," Barnett said. "He tells King, 'Stay Down! Stay Down!'... He sees Powell winding up again. His perception is they're out of control. He has to be mindful of his own safety."

Attorneys for the other defendants said King, not the officers, was out of control.

A prosecutor called the beating unjustified.

"You will see ... a man who was down, a man who was not aggressive, who was not resisting," Deputy

East Texas suit asks $100 billion for toxic damages

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - Residents who live downstream from paper mills have filed a class action suit against more than 30 paper companies asking for $100 billion in damages from toxic waste discharges.

The 17-page suit, filed in state district court earlier this week, alleges the companies misled authorities on their dioxin discharges, trespassed on residents' property and inflicted emotional distress.

The plaintiffs live downstream from paper mills that discharge dioxin into rivers. Dioxin is widely considered a carcinogen, though manufacturers dispute its potency.

"We propose a nationwide class, every person who has been exposed against their will and against their knowledge" to dioxins by the defendants, plaintiffs' attorney John Deakle said Thursday.

Deakle and two other attorneys, Patrick Pendley and Skip Hulett, filed the suit on behalf of two southeast Texas residents and the class.

The suit names the American Paper Institute, the industry's trade and lobbying group, and large paper makers including James River Paper Co., Mead Corp., Boise Cascade Corp. and Westvaco Corp.

The suit says the companies have known about dioxins in effluents since 1985 and have taken few corrective measures. There are 103 domestic paper mills that produce dioxin as a byproduct of the bleach process used in making paper, Deakle said.

Several companies contacted Thursday declined comment, saying they had not seen the suit.

"The American Paper Institute has not seen any papers and therefore cannot comment on specifics," spokesman Tom Kraner said in New York. "The industry believes there is no basis for any litigation over dioxin."

Andrew Drysdale, spokesman for Boise Cascade, also said the company hadn't received the suit.

"This industry and this company since the time dioxin was first discovered in papermaking have worked tirelessly and very openly to understand how it was being created, what if any health risk it was posing and doing what it could and should to rid itself of dioxin," Drysdale said.

In 1985, dioxin was found to be emitted in trace amounts from plants that produce heavy, white stock from the "bleach Kraft" process, which uses chlorine.

The defendants conspired to keep the dioxin discharges secret, minimize or discount the possibility of harmful effects, manipulate test data and try to obtain favorable regulatory standards, the suit alleges.

Deakle said hundreds of documents obtained from the companies, some from whistleblowers, will back up the allegations.

He said attorneys settled on the $100 billion damage figure based on the assets and recent profit histories of the defendants.

"Arguably, this will be the largest single piece of litigation ever tried in the United States," Deakle said.

Neither the American Bar Association nor the American Trial Lawyers Association could confirm that perspective, however.

Judge commended for extending order

AUSTIN (AP) - A controversial television evangelist has praised a federal judge's decision to extend, for now, a court order prohibiting the state from getting his records.

"I felt like we finally had someone fair, intelligent to listen to us," Robert Tilton said Thursday after the hearing before U.S. District Judge Sam Sparks of Austin.

"None of us have anything to hide, but we don't like to get undressed very easily ... especially with millions of people watching," he said.

Sparks said he needed more time to sift through the numerous legal arguments before making a decision on a permanent order. He said he would make a decision by March 21.

He issued the original temporary order Feb. 7.

Sparks' announcement capped two days of lengthy, often stormy testimony in which Tilton accused the state of trying to shut down his Word of Faith World Outreach Center Church, which according to Tilton's wife grossed $65 million last year.

Tilton accused Texas Attorney General Dan Morales of feeding a media frenzy that had resulted in his 8,000-member church losing 1,000 members. He also claims that Morales' investigation is unwarranted.

Joe Crews, chief of the Consumer Protection Division of the attorney general's office, denied Tilton's accusations.

"It's not now and never has been," the state's intention to takeover Tilton's church, Crews said.

Crews said "serious allegations" based on complaints and critical television reports had surfaced about the Dallas-based ministry. The records were sought, Crews said, to evaluate "the relationship between the church finances and Tilton's finances."

Much of the controversy about Tilton erupted Nov. 21, 1991 after a broadcast about his ministry on the ABC television show "Prime Time Live."

Spring Rush held by Alpha Iota Mu Chapter

Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held its Spring Rush recently with President Glenna Calaway presiding.

This year's rush theme was "A Time For Us", a remembrance of the members' high school days. The women brought their high school yearbooks to the meeting and several appropriately wore or carried lettered sweaters and activity equipment. Name place tags were written in gold ink depicting the year they graduated from high school and highlights of that year. Centerpieces consisted of plastic music notes filled with candy. Those present played various games from the past.

Refreshments included pigs in a blanket, mini pizzas, chips, popcorn, an assortment of vegetables and dip, brownies and sodas.

Serving as hostesses were members of the membership committee: Chairman Patty Frerich, Wanda Huseman, Teresa Hopping, Jane Meiwes, MaryBob Ward and Jill Alexander.

During the business session, President Calaway read information on Founder's Day and a request for a program to be given by Janet Brigance on her new business of home service. Calaway also gave a report of the City Council meeting about the recent Valentine Ball.

Several members thanked their secret sisters for Valentine's Day gifts and cards.

The Easter candy sale brochures were distributed. The candy will arrive by April 2 and those interested in ordering may do so by contacting a chapter member. Half of the candy sale proceeds will benefit the Texas Tech Children Research Center on behalf of the chapter's little sister, Kallie Hopping.

A possible family night to be held this month was discussed and members were also reminded of the American Cancer Society's Annual Crusade Walk in April.

A progression party will be held for members that will be able to move up in Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Gwen Betzen and Danielle Culp were welcomed as guests by members: Janice Betzen, Jaimie Brorman, Calaway, Frerich, Huseman, Marrie Leverett, Meiwes, MaryBeth Messer, Ward and Patty Urbanczyk.

Bride-elect honored

A bridal shower was held for Brooke Seiver, March 14 bride-elect of Tracy Carthel, Feb. 29 in the home of Linda Daniel. Welcoming guests with the honoree were, from left, Linda Daniel, hostess; Dorothy Ott, the honoree's grandmother; Melody Seiver, her mother; Terry Carthel, the prospective bridegroom's mother; and Mrs. Mabry, his grandmother.

Miss Seiver honored with bridal shower

Brooke Seiver, March 14 bride-elect of Tracy Carthel, was honored with a bridal shower Feb. 29 in the home of Linda Daniel.

Guests were greeted by the honoree; her mother, Melody Seiver; her grandmother, Dorothy Ott; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Terry Carthel; and his grandmother, Mrs. Mabry.

Mrs. James Head and Jenifer Betzen served refreshments of sausage casserole, fresh fruit, muffins, sand tart cookies, cinnamon cream cheese roll ups, coffee and black cherry ice cream punch.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth and accented with silver appointments. It was centered by a basket of ivy intertwined with purple and pink flowers and ribbons.

Soft, sleek focus of hair

"Soft" and "sleek." Those are the words to describe the styles of spring these days, say hair care experts. They're the perfect complement to the soft lines and individualism of the season's fashions, too. With a good hair cut and the right styling aids, you can create many looks for many moods and occasions.

New styling aids are enriched with a combination of vitamins and nutrients for healthy looking hair.

Short hair can be short and severe or short with soft lines. Perimeter lines of a short cut will be from the eye to the chin, with layers for a softer look. Mousse or sculpting spritz can be used to make short hair appear full and feminine. For a sleek, more sophisticated style, comb gel through hair.

Longer hair, as long as midback, will also be back in fashion. Longer tresses can be quickly framed into a loose ponytail, chignon or French braid to help you keep your cool. To keep these styles in place, mousse the hair before it dries, arrange in place, then slick back the sides with gel.

To create these styles with a "dry" look, apply mousse while hair is damp, and spritz when it dries. For a "wet" look, just gel hair when wet and let it dry naturally.

To complete the spring's easy fashions, soft body waves will be preferred to stiff perms for all hair lengths.

In the year 1880 the population of the United States was 50,155,783.

Q. I'm writing to ask you to print the instructions again for making baby or instant oatmeal from regular oats using a blender. — Irene Estridge, Hamilton, Ohio

A. I'd be glad to. Simply place the old-fashioned or three-minute oats into a blender and "blend" for a couple of seconds until they look like instant-cooking oatmeal. That's all there is to it. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: For people who love oranges but hate to peel them, cut a small slice from the end (just enough to show the pulp), invert a large tablespoon, work it under the skin and go around the orange.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

I love chocolate cake but was never happy about the white film caused by the flour sticking to the sides and bottom. Then I found the perfect solution. I grease the pan as usual and sprinkle it with cocoa instead of flour. It works great. — Ellen, Dallas, Texas

Camp Fire celebrates birthday

Sunday has been designated Camp Fire Sunday in Hereford to kickoff a week-long celebration of Camp Fire's 82nd birthday.

The theme is "Youth, The Key." Brenda Pagett, executive director of the Hereford Camp Fire Council, said the theme is central to the agency's commitment to young people.

"We invite the community to join with us in celebrating Camp Fire's birthday," Pagett said.

The Hereford Council was founded in 1928 by Cassie Dowell. About 700 boys and girls are served every year in Hereford. The program is funded by the United Way of Deaf Smith County, an annual product sale and additional programs. Pagett said all funds stay with the local council.

Camp Fire is the oldest national nonsectarian organization for young people in the United States. Originally named Camp Fire Girls, the name was changed in the 1970s to Camp Fire and boys were welcomed into the membership.

The program addresses issues that affect youth and their families, helping them to cope with the changing world while helping seize available opportunities. Members are taught skills and gain confidence to become leaders.

The Brand welcomes news of friends, relatives, grandkids. Send to The Brand, Box 673, or call us. We're interested in local news!

Sunday proclaimed Camp Fire Sunday

Mayor Tom LeGate, seated, signed a proclamation recently designating Sunday as Camp Fire Sunday in Hereford. With him are Camp Fire members Penny Nino, Natalie Nino, Ashley Carter and Lindsey Davison and Camp Fire leader Janie Nino.

This will give you an idea of how large a blue whale is: the largest dinosaur, along with an elephant and a man could stand on a blue whale with plenty of room to spare.

Most animals of the desert have small bodies. Their size helps them escape from the desert heat. Some animals dig into the ground while others find shade under brush or rocks.

Lowfat cooking delicious

America's love affair with high fat foods is a habit deeply rooted in our culture. Ask most people to name their favorite food and the answer will invariably be high in fat.

We snack on potato chips, breakfast on fried egg and bacon, lunch on salads slathered in creamy dressings and build our dinners around 10-ounce steaks and bake potatoes with sour cream.

"Knowing we have high fat habits doesn't make it any easier to break free, unless you understand that your favorite foods can be part of a lower fat diet," states Judy Dodd, MS, RD (registered dietitian), president of The American Dietetic Association (ADA). "The secret is to eat smaller portions of higher fat foods and eat them less frequently."

During March, National Nutrition Month, the National Center for Nutrition and Dietetics (NCND), the public education initiative of the ADA and its Foundation, promote its EAT RIGHT AMERICA campaign to educate consumers on how to reduce fats in their diets.

To develop the lowfat habit, Dodd suggests first learning which foods are higher in fat, then building meals around lower fat foods and using lowfat cooking techniques.

According to Dodd, fruits and vegetables, whole grains such as rice and pasta and dried peas, beans and legumes should play an important role in your menu planning. Reducing the portion sizes of meat and switch in to lowfat dairy products are simple ways to significantly lower fat intake without sacrificing satisfaction.

For more information on developing the lowfat habit, call the national Center for Nutrition and Dietetics Nutrition Hot Line, 1-800-366-1655. Registered dietitians are available to answer specific questions from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern time, Monday through Friday. During National Nutrition Month, recorded messages concerning fat and cholesterol are available 24 hours a day.

Samarrons to lift in national tournament

Tremendous weight on his shoulders

The strain of squatting 500 pounds shows on Jose Samarron's face. Jose and his brother Richard (behind Jose, with hand on bar) are training for a national weightlifting tournament to be held Sunday. The Samarrons were training Tuesday at the Hereford YMCA with Alan Smith (left foreground), Joe Sanchez (back) and another Samarron brother, Juan (not pictured).

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Richard and Jose Samarron can lift a lot of weight. Together, they can bench press 900 pounds. That's 600 loaves of bread. Or 56 men's bowling balls. Or the Herd's starting defensive line last year. If they brought two friends, the Samarrons could lift a Yugo off the ground.

Richard and Jose will be competing in the Natural Athlete Strength Association's national weightlifting tournament Sunday in Oklahoma City.

"It's the biggest meet in the world right now," Jose said. "They'll have over 500 lifters. I'll be in the 275-pound class. The top two in each weight class go to Las Vegas in June for the Worlds."

NASA is a group which encourages weight training without the use of performance-enhancing drugs like steroids. The meets are for drug-free lifters only.

"They'll test you," Jose said.

Lifters compete in three events--squat, bench press and dead lift--and the lifter with the highest total wins his class. For a dead lift, the weight starts on the floor and the lifter raises it so his arms are straight down and his back and knees are straight. For the bench press, the lifter lies on a bench and pushes the weight straight up and away from his chest. The squat is just that: with the weight resting on neck and shoulders and in hands, the lifter starts in a standing position, squats, then stands up again.

For an average man who is not in particularly good shape, squatting just 200-300 pounds can cause light-headedness. Richard can squat 750 pounds, and Jose can squat 650. Richard has deadlifted 650 and benched 450; Jose has deadlifted 640 and benched 440.

Richard, who'll compete in the super-heavyweight class (276 pounds and up), has done well at this event before, winning the nationals in 1990.

"I was a teenager back then (competing in the teen division) but I had the best total overall. I won in 1988 in Houston. That was teenage (division). Then in 1990 I went to Russia with the United States team and got first over there."

In 1990, Richard broke three national records by benching 435 pounds, squatting 750 and totaling 1,800. Richard was unable to go to the world tournament that year because it was in Norway, and he

Randall, Canyon girls win state semi-finals

AUSTIN (AP) - Buzzer-beaters, record-setters, half-court baskets and a player who outscored the opposing team by 10 points highlighted the first day's action at the 42nd annual University Interscholastic League girls high school basketball tournament.

And to think, the six games played Thursday among Class A, 3A and 4A teams were only semifinals.

The Class 4A title game will pit Georgetown and Canyon Randall, making its tourney debut. Top-ranked Winnboro and dramatic victor Canyon will duel for the Class 3A title and undefeated Celeste meets Brock in the Class A championship.

The Class 2A and 5A semifinals will be played today at the Frank Erwin Center on the University of Texas campus.

Thursday's most exciting game was the second Class 3A semifinal in which Canyon broke McGregor's heart, but made one player's vision a reality.

"Every night after my prayers, I think '3 ... 2 ... 1 ...' I knew exactly what I wanted to do when I got the ball. There was never any doubt. I knew it was in when I let it go," said Canyon's Sandi Stevens, who buried a running jumper with 4 seconds remaining for a 45-44 victory.

McGregor's Rosalinda Wilkerson missed a chance to wear the halo. She already had tied a state record - which was later broken - with five 3-pointers, her team was up by one with 11 seconds left and she was at the free throw line.

But Wilkerson, a 60 percent foul shooter, missed the front end of a one-and-one. Stevens wound up with the ball, streaked downcourt and drilled the running 15-footer.

Canyon advances at 29-8 while McGregor ended the year 33-2.

The other Class 3A finalist, Winnboro, overcame a 10-point deficit to down Yoakum 66-60.

Winnboro advanced to this year's final the same way as last year - by downing Yoakum in the semis.

This time, Winnboro was led by Mandy Hale, who scored 21 points, including 13 in the second half.

Yoakum's Kim Jetter, another player whose great performance was overshadowed by a defeat, put her team ahead 41-31 with 5:39 left in the third quarter.

But 36-3 Winnboro fought back to a tie at 51 then Hale secured the lead for good. Yoakum dropped to 31-6.

While Stevens may have had her dreams come true, Canyon Randall's Amanda Sandlin may have had divine intervention in her Class 4A game.

"I prayed and prayed and prayed. I'm not kidding. I prayed when I was out there and during the pre-game, too," said Sandlin, who scored eight points during a 14-0 run over the last five minutes to break open a close game against Austin Westlake.

Westlake, 28-5, led most of the game, but a pass in the backcourt hit the backboard and rim, and deflected to a Randall player. That basket began the run that led to the 66-50 victory.

Before the late rally, Randall's only highlight was a half-court bank shot by Tandy Dunavin to end the first quarter. By winning its 19th straight game, Randall improved to 32-2.

Randall will face Georgetown, a 59-44 winner over Kaufman in an all-black-shoe semifinal. Georgetown was led by guard Shawna Ford's 30 points including a state-record six 3-pointers.

Georgetown, 33-2, which lost to Dallas Lincoln last season in the semis, won its 29th straight game. Kaufman finishes at 27-8.

Ford, who was 2-of-8 from the arc in the loss to Lincoln last year, also passed four assists and picked off four passes - three coming on consecutive plays.

Lanae Jones represented most of Kaufman's offense, scoring 29 points, pulling down 12 rebounds and swatting away eight shots. The 6-4 senior is an Oklahoma signee.

Ford, who was averaging 13 points a game, scored the first 12 of the second half on four consecutive 3-pointers to put Georgetown ahead 47-24. Kaufman closed to within 13 with 2:58 left, but could get no closer.

The most outstanding individual performance of the day came from Celeste's Shalonda Enis, who scored a tourney-record 44 points to lead her team past North Zulch 73-34 in a Class A semifinal.

If Celeste, 36-0, defeats 33-4 Brock in Saturday's final, they would become the first undefeated Class A titlist since Nazareth went 33-0 in 1985.

North Zulch, by far the smallest school in the semifinals with 63 students, ended the season 32-5.

Enis, who averaged 31.8 points per game in the regular season, connected on 19 of 29 shots and hauled in 12 rebounds. Her point total was the most since 1979, when the Texas girls switched from six-on-six to five-on-five.

The all-time mark is 68 by Juvcan McWhorter of Class A Collinsville in 1956.

Brock earned its spot in the Class A final by defeating Claude 58-53. Sophomore Elisha Walker's 16 points and seven rebounds helped 33-4 Brock overcome an 11-point deficit.

Claude, 33-3, was led by Shalmarie Stoffle's 23 points, 12 rebounds and eight steals. They built a 23-12 lead, but a 13-1 late run by Brock sealed the game.

Notes from state tourney

AUSTIN (AP) - First shot honors in the girls state high school basketball tournament went to Ali Hudson of Brock against Claude in the first Class A semifinal game. The 5-foot-4 guard drilled a three-pointer off the opening tip.

The Claude-Brock match-up may have been one of the shortest in tournament history. Eight of the 10 starters were 5-foot-6 or under and the tallest player on the floor was 5-foot-9. Claude's top reserve was 5-foot-1 Thelma Samayoa.

In contrast, Celeste sends one of the tallest teams in Class A history onto the court. Shalonda Enis checks in at 6-foot, while front-line mates Abigail Olson and Brandi Pearson stand 5-foot-11. Six-foot-one Maria McWhorter comes off the bench.

North Zulch claims the smallest enrollment of any school in the tournament with 63 students, while Duncanville boasts the largest school with 2,853 students.

At 35-0, Celeste is trying to become the first unbeaten Class A champ since Nazareth went 33-0 in 1985. In the 42-year history of the tournament, there have only been eight undefeated champions. You don't have to go back too far to find the last time someone went through undaunted, Duncanville was 37-0 in 1990. There has never been an unbeaten champion in Class 2A or 3A.

The 42nd girls state tournament may be remembered as much for the teams that aren't here as for the teams that did make it. Some of the state's basketball royalty were denied trips to the final four, possibly signaling a changing of the guard.

Basketball mecca Nazareth did not make the journey south for the first time since 1987 and only the second time since 1976. The Swiftettes won their 12th title in 14 years at last year's tournament.

Victoria, which has been to the tournament a record 13 times with five championships is also absent.

Dean Weese's Levelland team will not have a chance to defend its title after losing to Canyon Randall in the regional finals. The Loboettes, who appeared in the tournament eight times from 1982-91, won four straight crowns from 1986-89 and tacked on one more last year.

Another no-show is Abernathy, which corralled six trophies from 1981 to 1991. Abernathy lost to Panhandle in the regional finals.

Cavs turn game over to Warriors

By The Associated Press

Turnovers turned the tide for Golden State.

Sarunas Marciulionis matched his season high with 29 points and the Warriors capitalized on Cleveland's 18 turnovers to beat the Cavaliers 116-108 Thursday night.

The Warriors scored 30 points off the mistakes by Cleveland, which had a season-low seven turnovers Wednesday against Sacramento.

Cleveland's Craig Ehlo, who just missed a triple double with 10 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists, said the Cavaliers were weary from playing their second road game in as many nights.

"I felt pretty good," he said. "I just wanted to play."

Steve Kerr's 3-pointer cut Golden State's lead to 91-85 with 10:07 remaining. But the Warriors, who trail first-place Portland by a half-game in the Pacific Division, increased the margin to 100-89 on a driving layup by Marciulionis with 7:13 left.

The Cavaliers were led by Larry Nance and Brad Daugherty, who each had 20 points and 10 rebounds.

Knicks 101, Clippers 91

Patrick Ewing broke out of a scoring slump with 31 points as New York beat the visiting Clippers.

Los Angeles led 83-79 on Ken Norman's jumper with 8:32 left, but the Clippers didn't score for the next 4:27 while the Knicks had 11 straight points to take the lead for good, 90-83.

The Clippers made five of six free throws to close to 91-88 with 2:38 left. But Ewing, who had a season-low four points in his previous game and five straight outings without scoring 20, then hit two baskets in a 6-0 run.

Bullets 119, Mavericks 109

Pervis Ellison had 21 points and 10 rebounds as Washington snapped a five-game home losing streak.

Ledell Eackles scored 23 points for the Bullets and Michael Adams had 20.

Derek Harper led Dallas with 30 points and Rolando Blackman added 21.

Bulls 113, Timberwolves 100

Michael Jordan scored 10 of his 33 points during an 18-0 third-quarter run as Chicago rebounded from a rare home loss.

Playing almost as poorly as they did in Tuesday's loss to Indiana, the defending NBA champion Bulls trailed expansion Minnesota 67-61 with 7:51 left in the third period. But Chicago snapped out of its stupor behind Jordan.

Rockets 114, Heat 93

Otis Thorpe had 23 of his 25 points in the first half and Vernon Maxwell hit seven of 10 from 3-point range as Houston beat the visiting Heat.

Hakeem Olajuwon had 13 of his 22 points in the fourth period, and Kenny Smith added 20 points and nine assists. Maxwell finished with 25 points.

Reserves Brian Shaw and Kevin Edwards led Miami. Shaw had 20 points and Edwards added 17.

Suns 118, SuperSonics 105

Kevin Johnson scored eight of his 24 points during a 17-3 third-quarter run as Phoenix beat visiting Seattle.

The Suns were out rebounded 38-21 in the first half, but took control of the boards 19-7 in the third quarter when their five-minute burst brought them from four points down to an 81-71 lead with 2:48 left.

Tom Chambers led Phoenix with 27 points. Ricky Pierce scored 23 points for Seattle.

UCLA squeaks by Washington St.

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) - UCLA was on the verge of its fourth consecutive loss when Don MacLean made 3 of 4 free throws in the final 30 seconds to salvage a victory over Washington State.

"We realized how important this game was," MacLean said after the Bruins' 89-85 victory. "We knew when they made a run, we had to do something to stop it."

"It was up to us to hit the big shot and hit free throws to keep that little gap between us and not let them get all the way back in the game."

UCLA raised its record to 22-4 overall and 13-2 in the Pacific-10, while Washington dropped to 19-10 and 7-9.

withstood charges in both halves.

"When it seems they needed a basket, Murray or MacLean was there for them," Washington State coach Kelvin Sampson said. "They've got too many weapons."

The victory kept UCLA in a first-place tie with Southern Cal.

Washington State had hoped to beat a nationally-ranked team and gain a 20th victory for a shot at the NCAA tournament.

"I think this was the best Washington State team I've faced," Harrick said. "I think they're a tournament team, one of the best 64 in the country, no doubt."

Washington State was led by Ken Critton, Neil Derrick and Terrence Lewis, each with 16 points.

The Wildcats, with six players in double figures, led by as many as 26 points in the first half, during which they shot 61 percent.

No. 8 Southern California 75, Washington 63

At Seattle, Harold Miner did not have a sharpshooting night, but he was good enough to keep the Trojans atop the Pac-10. Miner has 21 points on just 7-for-18 shooting. The 21 points gave him 682 for the season, one more than the single-season record he scored for the Trojans (21-4, 13-2) last year.

No. 13 Michigan State 72, Northwestern 55

At Evanston, Ill., Shawn Respert

scored 20 points and Mike Peplowski added 17. The Spartans broke open a tight game with a 19-4 run sparked by Peplowski midway in the second half.

Van Poppel content to come along slowly

By TONY DeMARCO
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
ARLINGTON, Texas (AP)—Four months before Todd Van Poppel reached his 20th birthday, he faced Chicago White Sox hitters Robin Ventura, Frank Thomas, Carlton Fisk, Dan Pasqua and Warren Newsome in succession.
 And struck them out.
 With only one effective pitch.
 Seven months later, there is no rush to get Van Poppel in the big leagues to stay. And he couldn't be happier.
 "One of the reasons I signed (out of Martin High School) was that the Oakland A's said they would take care of me," Van Poppel said. "And that's what they've done. Whatever they decide, I'll be happy. If I'm ready for the big leagues this year, I'm ready. If not, I'm not."

 What the Athletics have decided as their Cactus League schedule opens is that Van Poppel, now all of 20, will start the season at their Triple-A Tacoma, Wash., affiliate.
 "That's what we're projecting," A's general manager Sandy Alderson said. "There's always a chance he could do something extraordinary and make the team, but in ordinary circumstances, he's ticketed for Tacoma."

This is a watershed season for the three-time former American League champions. Twelve veteran players are in the final years of their contracts, including Dave Stewart, Dennis Eckersley, Harold Baines, Terry Steinbach, Mark McGwire and Mike Moore. Coming off an 84-77 record and fourth-place finish in 1991, the A's are hoping to regroup rather than rebuild. They will take one more shot at an American League West title with a roster of expensive, aging stars, then determine their course.
 In terms of the starting rotation, that meant re-signing right-hander

Ron Darling and adding left-hander Jim Deshaies to a group of fifth-starter candidates that also includes Joe Slusarski, Reggie Harris and Eric Show - but in all likelihood, not Van Poppel.
 "We added veteran depth so we can shelter some of our younger pitchers such as Todd," Alderson said. "We don't want to be in a position where we have to rush anybody. We saw enough of that last year (when youngsters Bruce Walton, Johnny Guzman and John Briscoe were force-fed because of injuries) that we don't want to see it again."
 But you can expect to see Van Poppel in Oakland at some point this season, even if it's only another September audition or two, Alderson said.

Van Poppel pitched last season with the Athletics' Double-A Huntsville, Ala., farm club. His record was an underwhelming 6-13 with a 3.47 earned-run average, but two mitigating factors were the team's 61-83 record and the fact that only 51 of the 69 runs scored against Van Poppel were earned. And don't discount the desire of 22- and 23-year-old opponents to knock around the 19-year-old, $1.2 million bonus baby.

 "Every game I went out, it was, 'Van Poppel's pitching,'" Van Poppel said. "The other team was all pumped up for me. But I love that. I want to face the best people at their best. It made me be a better pitcher. I'm glad I had to face that."
 Van Poppel also issued an inordinately high total of 90 walks (along with 118 hits and 115 strikeouts) in 132 innings. But agent Scott Boras says part of Van Poppel's control problems were due to a curveball that was too good.
 "I don't think the umpires were used to seeing that quality of a pitch and didn't know how to call it," Boras said. "It reminds me a lot of a guy I faced in the minors, Rod Scurry. He threw very, very sharp breaking balls, and the umpires called them balls, but they were strikes."
 But it was the curveball that eluded Van Poppel on that Sept. 11 afternoon when he took the Oakland Coliseum mound for his only major-league start.
 Van Poppel pitched three hitless innings, including the string of strikeouts. But by the second time around the order, White Sox hitters

Owners postpone decision on sale of Seattle Mariners

ROSEMONT, Ill. (AP) - While baseball owners put off a decision on the Seattle Mariners, they did impose a significant restriction on the bargaining power of high school draft picks.
 Thursday's final session of the two-day spring meetings produced no big decision on a $100 million Japanese-backed offer for the Seattle club. Baseball officials will now formulate a counterproposal for the Japanese-led group, which is 60 percent financed by the owner of Nintendo Co. Ltd. of Kyoto.
 Owners clearly are uncomfortable with a foreign buyer and want the structure of the group changed. The percentage of foreign ownership they would allow has been the subject of much internal debate.

"It's a complicated situation," said Fred Kuhlmann of the St. Louis Cardinals, chairman of the ownership committee, "and that's part of the thing we're working out."
 Commissioner Fay Vincent, at a news conference closing the meetings, reiterated his support for keeping the team in Seattle.
 "Baseball is important to Seattle, and the people in Seattle are telling us that," Vincent said. "I am hopeful the franchise can remain in Seattle."
 Vincent and other baseball officials will meet with John Ellis, the head of the intended purchasing group, within the next few weeks. The next step is unclear.
 Meanwhile, owners approved a rule change that eliminates the ability of high school draft picks to use college baseball as a threat in negotiations. Clubs currently have rights to their draft picks for only one year.

 Under the new rule, if a high school player is drafted and enters college, teams would retain rights until he leaves college and for one additional year.
 Vincent said the change was made to ensure players would not be pressured to sign out of high school and not attend college. But it also means teams will not feel as much pressure to sign those players.
 Baseball officials said the change did not need approval from the Major League Baseball Players Association, but Eugene Orza, the union's associate general counsel, disagreed.

Perez faces drug suspension

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - New York Yankees pitcher Pascual Perez tested positive for drugs and is facing a one-year suspension, a source close to the player said.
 Perez failed to show up at the Yankees' spring training camp on Thursday, and the club at first said his absence was "unexplained." The Yankees would neither confirm nor deny that Perez had failed the drug test.
 The New York Times reported in today's editions that Perez decided not to show up at camp when he learned of the test results Wednesday night.
 A spokesman at the commissioner's office would not comment directly on the drug test result, but said a statement concerning Perez's status was expected today. The spokesman said commissioner Fay Vincent was en route from the owner's meetings in Rosemont, Ill. to Florida.
 In 1984, as a member of the Atlanta Braves, Perez was suspended by then-commissioner Bowie Kuhn after he served a three-month prison term in his native Dominican Republic for cocaine possession.
 Perez, 34, also spent two months in drug rehabilitation prior to the 1989 season while a member of the Montreal Expos.

 To avoid suspension in 1989, Perez agreed to accept a one-year suspension if a second test from the same urine sample proved to be positive, the source said. Perez would also have to apply to the commissioner for reinstatement.
 The New York Daily News reported in today's editions that a Yankee source confirmed that Perez and his agent, Tom Reich, had been notified that a second urine test was needed.
 Baseball and the Major League Baseball Players Association agreed to a joint drug program on June 21, 1984, after owners backed off their demand for random testing. The owners, however, terminated the agreement on Oct. 22, 1985, and began to demand drug-testing clauses in individual contracts.
 Arbitrator Thomas Roberts voided the drug-testing clauses in a grievance decision during 1986, saying the matter had to be collectively bargained.
 The owners announced their own drug plan on March 15, 1988, but the union has not agreed to it. Whenever a drug issue arises, penalties and rehabilitation are negotiated between the player's agent, the union and the owner's Player Relations Committee.

 The source close to Perez, who asked not to be identified, told the Associated Press that representatives of the pitcher had yet to meet with the players association. They were expected to meet today.
 Pitcher Melido Perez, acquired by the Yankees from the Chicago White Sox over the winter, said he did not know if his brother had tested positive for drugs.
 "If it did happen, I feel sorry for him. I love my brother," Melido told WABC Radio.
 Pascual Perez has been brought along slowly following an arm injury that caused him to miss the majority of the last two years. To make matters worse, Perez failed to throw with any regularity this off-season, then missed the team's first five workouts for pitchers and catchers.
 Last week, Perez acknowledged that he did not use the off-season to prepare himself.
 "I didn't do anything all winter," he said. "I started touching my glove and ball in January."
 Perez is entering the final season of a three-year, $5.7-million contract. If he is suspended, the Yankees would not have to pay the final year.

White Sox open, raid Pirates

By The Associated Press
Jim Leyland helped Gene Lamont get his job as manager of the Chicago White Sox. So how does Lamont show his gratitude?
 By beating him, that's how.
 Lamont's White Sox opened their exhibition season Thursday with a 6-1 victory over Leyland's Pittsburgh Pirates.
 "The game means a great deal regardless of who we're playing, but this makes it more special," said Lamont, who spent six years as Leyland's third-base coach in Pittsburgh before replacing Jeff Torborg in November.
 "Jim had a lot to do with my getting the job."
 Hobbling slugger Bo Jackson went 2-for-2 with two RBIs for the White Sox. But he once again limped around the bases, a clear sign that he may never fully recover from his hip injury.
 "There are some days when I get the best of it, and then there are some days, weeks, when it gets the best of me," Jackson said. "It's probably going to get worse as time goes on. There will be some days when I'm not able to play."
 "When it gets to the point where I can't handle it, I'll move on. My wife always said that when my athletic career was over, she'd take care of me. I guess I'd become 'Mr. Mom.' But we're not at that point yet."

 In other exhibition games, the Atlanta Braves blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers 10-0 and the Kansas City Royals beat Central Florida University 5-0.
 However, the biggest loser of the day may have been Pascual Perez.
 The New York Yankees pitcher reportedly flunked a drug test for the second time in his career and could be facing a one-year suspension.
 The Yankees declined comment on the ESPN report, which was confirmed by a source close to the player. But a spokesman for the commissioner's office said a statement on Perez would be issued today.
 "We are pursuing all the facts, and until we have all the facts we will not comment," Yankees manager Buck Showalter said. "It's something we will be able to address better tomorrow or the next day."
 "I'm not going to say anything now," general manager Gene Michael said. "We're looking into it."
 Steve Avery and David Justice, who helped Atlanta win the National League pennant last year, led the Braves to victory in their exhibition opener at West Palm Beach, Fla.

 Avery started and struck out three in two innings, while Justice hit a two-run homer and drove in four runs. Braves fans celebrated Justice's homer by doing the tomahawk chop, which became a craze in Atlanta last season.
 "Yeah. It looked a lot like last year," Avery said.
 At Haines City, Fla., Mark Davis and four Kansas City relievers combined for the shutout over Central Florida.

Congratulations to Keith Frost of Plainview for his victory over 35 of the most dedicated big bass anglers in this part of Texas during February's Lake Baylor Big Bass Tournament. "Crankbait" Keith fished deeper than the other anglers and found schools of small male bass with an occasional quality big female. He caught 25 bass and eventually won with a healthy 5.95-pounder. Total winnings for his day-at-the-lake were almost $1,000.

Second place and $250 went Keith Taylor of Pampa, who is making a habit of finishing second at this kind of tournament. Keith also found some deep water bass that would hit a crawdad-colored crankbait. Third place and $150 went to Lake Greenbelt expert Jackie Ivy of Southwestern Public Service. The $50 Luck-of-the-Draw was won by Mike Naples of the Amarillo post office.

The really big bass should be cruising the shallow water during March, and serious fishermen know that the biggest bass of the year are normally caught then. March is not the time for a wimpy rod and light line. It's trophy time.

The next Lake Baylor Big Bass Tournament is scheduled for Saturday, March 14. This fishing contest is open to the public. The early entry fee is $50 if paid before Monday, when the fee increases to $60. Polygraph tests will be given. Both Lake Baylor and Childress are off-limits on Friday, and either may be fished during the tournament.

For rules and entry forms, call (806) 353-3654, or stop by Anchor Marine, Billy's Boat Ramp, or Camper Roundup in Amarillo. Forms are also available from Roy Rapavi at the concession at Lake Baylor. The field is limited to the first 100 anglers and fishing hours will be from 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

The next boat show is scheduled for today and Saturday in Sugarland Mall in Hereford. This show is free, so bring the kids. With interest rates at a ten-year low, Panhandle Pete predicts a banner year for local boat and RV dealers.

1992 is a strange year. The lack of cold winter weather means the normal winter kill of shad has not happened. A huge supply of these baitfish should provide extra food for the gamefish.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is at a crossroads. Do they follow the lead of the free-loading radical environmentalists or do they listen to the hunters and anglers who are paying the bills? If you want better hunting and fishing in Texas, make your voice heard by writing them at 4200 Smith School Road; Austin, Texas 78744.

Mel Phillips is an avid hunter, a tournament fisherman and host of a Wednesday evening talk show on KGNC-radio (710 AM). He is also an award-winning member of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association.

SAMARRONS

couldn't afford that trip. A trip to Las Vegas this year is a little more feasible, especially with the help of the brothers' sponsor, Eddie Morton of Gold Nugget Pawn Shop.

The brothers are from Friona and got their start their when encouraged by a Friona High School coach. Now they work out four times a week at the Hereford YMCA.

"We always benched in high school," Richard said. "We started to squat and dead lift in 1987, and I guess we started to compete then, too. We weren't that good, but we competed."

Now they only give strong performances.

Amarillo umps to hold tourney

The Amarillo Softball Umpires Association will sponsor a softball tournament for men and women April 3-4 in Amarillo.

Play will include Divisions I and II, using A.S.A. rules. The entry fee is $100, and the deadline is March 27. Entries should be mailed to Amarillo Softball Umpires Association; 3204 Ricks; Amarillo, Texas 79103.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

STONING

STONING WAS THE ORDINARY MODE OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT PRESCRIBED BY HEBREW LAW. THIS ANCIENT METHOD WAS NOT CONFINED TO THE HEBREWS BUT WAS USED BY THE MACEDONIANS AND PERSIANS ALSO. THE PRISONER WAS TAKEN TO THE EDGE OF THE CITY, WITNESSES PLACED THEIR HANDS ON HIS HEAD IN TOKEN OF THE GUILT RESTING ON HIM. THE CULPRIT WAS THROWN TO THE GROUND FROM A SCAFFOLD ABOUT TEN FEET HIGH BY THE FIRST WITNESS, THE FIRST STONE CAST BY THE SECOND WITNESS, ON THE CHEST OVER THE HEART. IF IT FAILED TO CAUSE DEATH, THE BYSTANDERS COMPLETED THE EXECUTION. THERE WAS NO REPRIEVE TO THIS CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

NOW DIE, THOU BLASPHEMING SON OF BELIAL!

What was that you said?

What is the difference in sending a Valentine's Card or simply saying, "I love you"? The spoken word has little staying power. With Valentine's Day only coming once a year, a few words is not enough to last. The card, however, is something you can hold on to, refer back to, carry with you, read again and again, save in your scrapbook forever. The card is a lasting record and a part of your personal history. The same can be said when comparing radio to newspaper. Notice which one can be held, referred back to, carried on shopping trips, and found in libraries for generation after generation.

Newspaper vs. Radio

- Radio copy depends on word imagery and it is limited to 30 or 60 seconds, not enough time for complex issues.
- Average recall for a 1/2 page newspaper ad is 32%; for a 1/4 page ad, it's 31%. Radio ad recall is only 4%.
- Once a commercial is aired, it is gone. There is absolutely no tangible evidence it existed. For those listeners not tuned in at that specific time, the commercial is lost.
- Radio is an entertainment medium. People listen for musical enjoyment (passive experience).
- Newspapers are an information medium. People read to seek data and learn (active experience).
- Newspapers are the only medium that allow shoppers to compare values offered by competitive advertisers.
- 77% of all newspaper readers look at every page. No audience can actively listen to the radio 77% of the time (Audits and Survey, Inc.).
- 44% of newspaper readers look forward to ads, compared to 10% for radio (Audits and Survey, Inc.).

Newspapers are the way to reach today's consumers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Country singer Ricky Skaggs says his hit song "Same Ol' Love" is a tribute to its late composer.

Chris Austin died in the March 16, 1991, plane crash that killed seven members of country-western singer Reba McEntire's band.

"Chris was one of the most 'real' people I'd ever known," Skaggs said Thursday of the musician who formerly played in Skaggs' band.

Proceeds from the song, co-written by Greg Barnhill, will be donated to Austin's family, Skaggs said.
