Hereford Pilots Attend Convention In Wisconsin

Brand Staff Writer

While looking forward to the furthering of their education this fall at college, Dirk VanderZee and Marshall Formby of Hereford, have just completed what may have been the most educational trip they have ever taken.

The pair of 18-year-old Hereford High School graduates recently returned from a trip to the International Experimental Aircraft Association Convention in Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

VANDERZEE AND Formby were just two of thousands of persons who attended the convention between July 31-August 8. Most of those in attendance had flown in for the festivities.

The convention hosts members of the IEAA as well as a multitude of persons just interested in aviation. "There was a

Out-Of -State Fishers Hooked

AUSTIN (AP) - The Parks and Wildlife Department will ask the next legislature to enact a law requiring out-of-state visitors $10 to drop a fishing line in Texas waters. They now pay the same as Texans. $4.25.

The non-resident fishing license is part of the department's proposals to raise $2,670,000 in 1978-79, executive director Clayton Garrison told state budget examiners Wednesday.

Amin Demands Payment

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)- Uganda President Idi Amin says Israei must pay for the loss of lives and property in the Entebbe airport raid and for the "hospitality" he extended to the hijacked hostages.

Amin sent a cable to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzak Rabin giving him a week to respond to these demands, but making no specific threats if he failed, Radio Uganda said Wednesday in a broadcast monitored here.

Uganda has claimed that 20 of its soldiers were killed in the July 4 Israeli raid to free hostages taken in the hijacking of an Air France airbus by pro-Palestinian terrorists. Some of the hostages later said Amin appeared to be giving full support to the hijackers.

Longet Trial Delayed

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) - Entertainer Claudine Longet's trial on charges of killing her lover probably will not begin on schedule Aug. 30 because the prosecution has appealed a ruling suppressing her diary and other evidence, the judge says.

Miss Longet, 35, former wife of singer Andy Williams, has pleaded innocent to manslaughter in the March 21 shooting death of professional skier Spider Sabich.

The prosecution appealed to the state Supreme Court after Judge George E. Lohr granted a defense motion to suppress Miss Longet's diary and some personal papers. The judge ruled that investigators violated her rights by removing them from a dresser drawer.

'And there were some 5,000 transit aircraft present, 1,400 of which were home made," Marshall added. The aircraft at the convention included modern-day types, antiques, and those of World War II vintage.

The Hereford youths rented an airplane out of Amarillo for the trip, which took seven hours to complete. It was the first time either had attended the convention, which VanderZee called "The world's largest aviation event."

WHITTMAN FIELD in Oshkosh was the host field for the convention. "It was estimated that Whittman handled more air traffic in two days than Chicago's O'Heare Field does in two weeks," Formby revealed.

Activities during the week of the convention included forums, movies, construction workshops, clinics, and air

Many of the conventioneers flew home-made aircraft to the convention, and one group spent the week building a plane at the site. "But we left two days before the convention ended so we didn't get to see it fly," VanderZee said.

Dole Named VP

KANSAS CITY, Mo. [AP] - President Ford today chose Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas to become the Republican nominee for the vice president.

Even as the President announced the surprise selection he will ask the Republican National Convention to ratify at its windup session tonight, delegates from 19 states tried to line up a movement to draft Ronald Reagan Ford's vanquished presidential rival, for second spot on the ticket.

Reagan has said he would never accept the vice presidency.

Dole and his family left their hotel in a motorcade and joined Ford for his

THE HEREFORD YOUTHS agreed that the convention was a great place to meet people who had built their own airplanes, and to get a few trips on how to go about it. VanderZee met a man at the convention who had built a small helicopter. "It looked easy to fly, was of excellent design, and was fairly inexpensive so I'd like to look into that," he said.

Formby is interested in gliders, and he revealed that he'd like to build his own glider some day.

One attraction of the convention that impressed the Hereford pair was the reenactment of some two and a half hours of scenes from the movie "Tora, Tora, Tora" by the Conferedate Air Force.

"The forums were also very impressive, with a lot of quality speakers there," Formby said. One guest speaker at the convention was internationally famous radio personality Paul Harvey.

Both VanderZee and Formby have earned their private pilot's licenses, and Formby is also qualified for glider flying. VanderZee has over 150 hours of flying time, while Formby has logged about 130 hours in the air.

Both are leaving soon for college; VanderZee to Baylor, and Formby to Southeastern Oklahoma State, Dirk will major in Aviation Science at Baylor, while Marshall will work toward a B.S. in aviation at Southeastern.

ASKED HOW THEY got interested in flying Dirk answered "I've always been fascinated by flying, I guess I was born with it." "I flew once when I was little, and have loved it ever since," Marshall

Both Dirk and Marshall said they'd like to work as a corporate pilot in the future. Marshall added that he'd like to participate in glider contests also.

"I can stay up for a couple of hours in a glider right now," he said. "Some of the guys in Amarillo, where we fly out of, can hours, though."

The young Hereford fliers both said they'd like to go back to the convention next year. "But we'll take more money next time. We had to sleep in our airplane one night when our cash ran out," Dirk

Reagan Plans To Speak As Conservative Voice

Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Ronald Reagan, his long campaign for president over, plans to remain in the public eye, speaking out for conservative causes and Republican unity, but not as President Ford's running mate.

Reagan said early today he will stand by earlier statements that he would never accept an offer of the vice presidential

But he refused to rule out accepting a convention draft, which his supporters had discussed on the convention floor.

"I'll answer that if and when it comes," Reagan said.

"I'll be happy to go back to the ranch," the former California governor and movie actor said in a joint news conference with Ford, two and a half hours after the President defeated him by a 1,187-1.070 margin for the Republican presidential

Ford came to Reagan after turning back the strongest intra-party challenge to an incumbent president since the Theodore Roosevlet-William Howard Taft battle in 1912. The President said he went to Reagan "for the purpose of congratulating you on a very fine campaign. I thank you."

Reagan responded: "I'll do all I can"
to elect the Ford ticket.

"It was a good fight, Mom, and he won," Reagan said with a smile. "But once the fight is over, we're all on the same side and go forward together."

In response to a question, he added: "But not as a running mate."

Ford said he discussed the vice presidency with Reagan in a 30-minute private meeting, but he did not say whether he offered it to the challenger. Reagan, however, reiterated that he wants only to resume his newspaper column, his radio commentaries and his public speaking tours. They were a lucrative profession before Reagan announced his candidacy.

A former radio announcer, sportscaster and motion picture actor before entering politics 10 years ago, Reagan grossed an estimated $500,000. For 1975, he reported a net personal income, after a paying a staff of seven, of $282,253.

That public commentator job also gives Reagan a chance to become, in effect, the conservative conscience of a Ford campaign and administration, a role which Reagan indicated he wants to play.

Although pledging his full support to the Ford campaign, Reagan also said repeatedly during the past week that one reason he would not accept the vice presidential nomination is that he wants the right to criticize.

Whether Reagan will also play an active role in the Ford campaign is unkown. Regan has offered his services and it is up to Ford, Reagan aids say.

There is another side of Reagan's varied career that will also come back into

The Federal Communications Commission ban on the telecast of Reagan's old movies was lifted with the end of his candidacy. Some 51 old films - ranging from "King's Row" to "Bedtime for Bonzo," are now back in the pool of late late show features.

Hereford Mailed Monthly Sales Tax Rebate Check

Hereford received a check for $18,373.99 for its August rebate on the one-cent city sales tax it collects. It was mailed out by Comptroller Bob Bullock's Austin office last week.

About 659 cities and towns in Texas received checks totalling 414.5 million. The total collected and rebated to cities has amounted to $173.1 million as of the August rebate.

The amounts received by other area town is as follows: Dimmitt, $19,291.66; Friona, $4,878.90; and Canyon, $7,094.86. Vega collected $260.18 during its period allocation in August and Adrian took in $154.28. They did not recieve checks since collections were too low. They receive rebates quarterly.

Also Comptroller Bullock said that field audits and desk examinations by his Field Operations Division during the month of July revealed an all-time one-month high of $18.3 million, in additional revenue owned the state.

Bullock said field audits along totaled $15 million for the month--compared to $18.6 million for the entire calendar year

In-state audits during July totaled $11.7 million, while audits of out-of- state firms totaled $3.3 million, said the Comptroller.

"Investing in a sound, aggressive audit program is better than hitting it lucky on the stock market," said Bullock.

Special Events Slated By C Of C At Meeting

The Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Board of directors held a lengthy but uneventful meeting this morning at the C of C office. Besides routine reports, plans were initiated for the next Fun Breakfast and the New Teacher Banquet.

Bill Albright, executive vice president, said that Calvin Goodin would be in charge of helping arrange a speaker of the annual chamber banquet in January, but no selection were yet decided.

The next Fun Breakfast, the chamber quarterly membership meeting, is tentatively set for 6:30 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 28, in the HHS cafeteria. No sponsor has been named.

The New Teacher Banquet is slated for 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 2, at the Hereford Civic Club Center. All incoming teachers are sponsored and will be recognized then. Some sponsorships remain open: Wayne Thomas is the special speaker for the teacher banquet. Wes Gulley, chairman of the Goals for Progress Committee, reported that the project assignments are being decided and that members will be contacted concerning them. He will detail the appropriate entities or persons who are normally responsible for helping in the different categories.

Albright said a good turnout was experienced at the early breakfast

Schools Begin Classes Today With 'Smoothness'

The Hereford Schools began the first day of classes today with relative smoothness as the buses began to roll to pick up rural students and in-town pupils either walked to school, drove or were driven by parents.

Larry Wartes, acting superintendent, said this morning that all aspects of the school start were "pleasing" with the exception of the usual traffic blocking streets or one or two bus drivers not

"We might have a flood of people Monday," Wartes said.

Miss Hoover presented a talk about her experiences in working with handicapped children at the Texas Lions

Camp at Kerrville this summer. She taught swimming to the handicapped children, many of whom were minus arms or legs, and also served as a special aide to a boys' unit at the camp. ... The camp caters to children etween the ages of seven and 16, with room available for up to 180 campers at one time. . The campers are divided into three groups each of boys and girls, and are assigned to cabins. "These kids were simply unbelievable in the things that they could accomplish in spite of their various handicaps," Miss Hoover commented.

"They were all appreciative in that the camp offered them a chance to do some things they had never been allowed to do before," she added.

Activities such as outdoor sports, arts and crafts, campouts, skits, dances, and competitive races were provided for the campers. "At the camp kids are all treated the same, and that's the way they like it," Miss Hoover said. "They have faced up to their individual problem, and don't want any special treatment for it."

"You haven't seen anything until you've seen an armless and legless boy jump in the swimming pool and actually swim across it," she added.

Satellite Center Honors Supervisor

When The Hereford Satellite Center for mental retardation gives a going away party, they do it in style even to the extent of providing their departer with a crown.

This week, the center, which is funded through the state Mental Health and Mental Retardation department, said good bye to its supervisor, Amonna Sue Goodwin. The clients, each of whom are adult age, gave a surprise party at the center. It is presently located in the same building occupied by the Family Services Center, although they are separate entities.

The participants are trained at the center in a capacity to make them useful in everyday life. The center established work contracts with area businesses to provide a nominal income for the clients involved.

They are now sewing potato sacks together for a Hart firm. In past other jobs have been such as making candles.

A Gray Blamed In FBI Burglary

By MARGARET GENTRY Associated Press Writer

A former high-ranking FBI official is pinning the responsibility on L. Patrick Gray III for authorizing burglaries against domestic political groups while Gray was acting FBI director in Edward S. Miller, who was Gray's assistant director for the intelligence division, said Wednesday that Gray revived the burglry operation in late August 1972 in an effort to gather intelligence about Weather Underground militants suspected of terrorist bombings.

Miller acknowledged his own role in approving specific break-ins but said he did so only at Gray's direction.

Long Island lawyer Jack Solerwitz suggested that the agents burglarized only groups with connections to foreign governments.

"When the investigations

Ford Family Remains Same Despite Address

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)- because the school wouldn't let The address changed, but basically, the family didn't.

That's how Jerry Ford wanted

For when he assumed the presidency two years ago and moved his family from its unpretentious home in northern Virginia, the Fords worried that the kaleidoscopic atmosphere of the White House would dramatically alter their casual lifestyle.

To be sure, they've had adjustments to make.

But interviews with White House staff and friends of the Fords indicate that, although they often go their separate ways and sometimes disagree on the issue, the familiar bonds that unite the parents and their four children have not frayed.

First Lady Betty Ford has taken to the campaign trail. But in her more private moments, she has such maternal worries as whether son Steve, 20, will ever get riding bucking broncos out of his system.

Daughter Susan, now a slim and sophisticated 19-year- old, has become accustomed to seeing the events of her teenage life- graduation presents, boyfriends and even bouts with the flu-chronicled by the nation's press. She still wears dungarees around the White House, romps with the family's two colden retrievers and slips out for casual evenings on the town with her school friends.

Son, Jack, 24, has become an avid campaigner for his father. At the same time, he says he personally would be just as happy if his father were not President. And, like all the Ford men, he is very protective of

The Ford's oldest son, Michael, 26, and his wife, Gayle, live a quiet, private life in Essex, Mass., where Michael is in his last year at Gordon -Cornwell Theological Seminary and his wife counsels young people. Their visits to the White House go publicly unnoticed.

Asked how Mrs. Ford will feel if the President is not elected, Mrs. Weidenfeld replied, "Basically, she said she'll win either way. For the President's sake, she wants her husband in office to finish what he has started. She really believes in what he has done. She's overjoyed at the change in the mood of the Jack, who graduated last year from Utah State University as a forestry major, has had the most trouble adjusting to the White House. Kennerly said. He cannot work as a forester for the U.S. Forest Service lest nepotism be suggested. He took a job last spring as director of youth marketing for a travel agent, but he has taken leave from that to campaign full-time for his father.

Perhaps Ford's youngest son, Steve, best summed up the family attitude about living in the White House.

"It would be easy to become paranoid," he said. "But I just do what I want and try to use good judgement. The Secret Service agents won't change your life if you don't let them. They're here to protect me and not tell me what to do."

Write-In Court -Candidates Battle

HOUSTON (AP) - Tom Lornace, a 53-year-old Houston attorney, is convinced the entrance of state District Court Judge Sam Houston in the race for a seat on the Texas Supreme Court "does a diservice in the cause of defeating Don Yarbrough."

Lorance, in an interview Wednesday, said, with the Denton judge now plugging for the write-in vote, "It may just a trick name contest. But what should we do-go out and find an old boy named Davey Crockett to run even though he may not be licensed to practice law?"

Yarbrough, also a Houston lawyer, is the Democratic nominee for the Supreme Court, having won in the primary election and facing no Republican opposition.

Political observers said many voters associated Don Yarbrough with former gubernatorial candidate Don Yarbrough and onetime U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, both with an addition "O" in the names.

The one-O Yarbrough is the defendant in some 16 civil lawsuits and is under investigation by the local grievance committee of the State Bar of Lorance, who announced as a write-in candidate last week, said he had met with Judge Houston recently and that the Denton jurist told him he was undecided about the race but asked, "If I were to announce, would you withdraw."

Lorance said he answered that he was committed to the

Of Mao Tse Tung In Book

AUSTIN (AP) - A representative of the Daughters of the American Revolution says a section in a proposed "free enterprise" textbook reminds her of the teachings of Mao Tse Tung.

Drusilla Bearden of San Angelo devoted 31/2 hours Wednesday to a critique of American Book Co.'s "Fundamentals of Free Enterprise System," a set of three paperback books on economics.

The volumes seem to be the most controversial thus far in the week of hearings by the state Textbook Committee on proposed new books for Texas classrooms.

Mrs. Bearden complained about material that tells students how to deal with community problems, such as pollution. It suggests bringing the problem to the attention of those affected by posters, letters and personal appeals. Failing that, local or federal officials should be contacted, the selection says.

Mrs. Bearden said this amounts to urging students to "harass the businessman" in a way that "reflects the thoughts of Chairman Mao."

She also objected to material about Ralph Nader and columnist Jack Anderson, calling the latter "a very controversial muckraker about whom many facts are omitted."

One statement in the books declares that the United States has "a political system we call a democracy."

'Would just one author explain how we degenerated into a democracy?' Mrs. Bearden said.

American Book Co,'s representative did not attempt to rebut Mrs. Bearden's criticisms, saying the firm would reply on its written response.

The committee will vote on texts next month, choosing up to five in each of the subjects under consideration at this week's hearings. Education Commissioner Marlin Brockette will review its decisions, with power to strike but not add books.

Final text adoptions will be made by the State Board of Education after a hearing in November.

Society Cites Bicentennial Beech Tree

By JAMES F. SMITH Associated Press Writer WEST HARTFORD, Conn.

(AP) - The nation's only bicentennial beech tree may have shaded a Revolutionary War general and his troops as they marched to a rendezvous with George Washington.

The 250-year-old tree, found by a East Hartford woman, has been certified historically significant by the International Society of Arboriculture (ISA) in Urbana, Ill. The society said the tree is the only beech proven to be more than 200 years old in its search for bicentennial branches.

Historian Nelson Burr said New Britain Avenue, where the tree stands, was once a military highway. In 1781 Gen. Jean-Baptiste Donatien de Vimeur, le comte Rochambeau, passed by the tree with his four French regiments.

Rochambeau left Rhode Island the previous winter to meet Washington in New York, Burr said. The two armies then marched together to Chesapeake Bay, where they sur-rounded and captured the Brit-ish army of Gen. Cornwallis in the final significant military encounter of the war.

Pat Kirby, local housewife and Brownie troop leader, said she discovered the beech after learning of the ISA program. Her husband, James, is a tree surgeon, but Mrs. Kirby said she did all the work herself. "I knew that all the schools and scout troops were doing bi-centennial projects and I really wanted to find one for myself," she said. "My husband told me about this project with the un-derstanding that I wouldn't bother him."

DAR Member Reminded  Texas State Parks Booming ***

AUSTIN (AP) - State parks director Paul Schlimper told budget examiners this week that camping out is becoming so popular that the next legislature may have to decide whether the park visitors need reservations. Texas has 92 state parks, Schlimper said. He told of the opening of Galveston Island State Park to illustrate how popular they are.

"We have 150 campsites" at the Galveston park, Schlimper said, "and when we opened in February, on the first weekend it was 35 degrees and raining. and the park was filled up."

Asked if the state had made a "big" or "little dent" in Texans' demands for park space, Schlimper replied, "a little tap."

There have been more than 15 million visitors to state parks this year, with visitations running 15 per cent ahead of last year. "As the population rises, the sky's the limit on the need for acquiring parks," he said.

Park expenditures out of the general revenue fund during the current biennium are $13.2 million, and the Parks and Wildlife Department is asking for $18.3 million for 1978-79.

Holding funds at current levels, Schlimper said, would result in closing down new parks such as Galveston; Sea Rim. near Port Arthur; and McKinney Falls, near Austin, which is so popular the department often has to shut the gates because there is no place left to park. Asked if the department had steps as closing parks that are operate it. not used so much, Schlimper said the department had, but the problem often is "getting somebody to take them." He said a motion was made, for example, to give the

Chance At U.S. Open 'Zero' Richards Says

AP Sports Writer

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)- Dr. Renee Richards, who was Dr. Richard Raskind before undergoing a sex change operation, doesn't think she has a chance of playing tennis ar Forest Hills.

She's refused to take the chromosome test that the United States Open championships have ordered this year for all the women entries. Although the 41-year-old ophthalmologist says there will be an appeal, she termed her chances of success

"zero." As Richard Raskind, she fathered a youngster, practiced medicine and played outstanding tennis in the East. Last year the sex change operation was performed.

Now Dr. Richards wears tennis dresses and when she held a news conference Wednesday, she also wore a pink sweater.

A left-hander standing six feet tall, she showed power in her serves and forehand smashes while on the court. Although many believe that she would be a strong factor at Forest Hills, she said the younger women must be favored.

The transexual Dr. Richards will play in the Tennis Week Open this weekend at South Orange, N.J., but she says the only reason she has come into the spotlight is that someone revealed her identity.

"I moved 3,000 miles and went into practice here," he said. "I played in tournaments in Orange County, Calif., with out incident. When I played in La Jolla a television newsmen revealed my identity.

"If that hadn't happened, I don't think I would have even tried to play at Forest Hills."

She said. "Although I never ntended for my life to become public knowledge and, in fact, I went to tremendous lengths to keep it private, my playing in the tournament in La Jolla exposed my privacy and opened up a very important social issue.

She added that she welcomed the opportunity of becoming an example "and invested myself in the task of doing something about it."

However, she would not discuss her former wife and

She did say that she could not have continued her life as a male and for 12 years before the operation in 1975 she had been preparing for it.

Dr. Richards said her medical license to practice ophthalmology- the function and diseases of the eye-still carries the dual names of Renee Richards and Richard Raskind. She hopes to have the latter removed shortly.

She wears here hair in a page boy cut, talks with a husky tone and appears distincly feminine. She says that although she doesn't expect to be permitted into the Forest Hills Tournament, she will continue trying and perhaps go to the courts to seek a legal entry into major

DALE NOLÉS

The management of AVI Corporation would like to introduce you to Dale Noles, one of our service and maintenance technicians who work on Valley Center Pivot Irrigation systems.

Dale, like his fellow workers with AVI Corporation; is one of the prime examples why we have enjoyed such a great success in the field of center pivot irrigation.

Dale has been fully trained in technical school on the repair and preventive maintenance on Valley Center Pivot Irrigation systems and in addition has received many hours of on-the-job experience and training. AVI Corporation has equipped Dale and our other service personnel wit with the finest equipment, including two-way radio equipped service vehicles so that whenever your Valley system should develop a malfunction, your down-time will be held at a

Dale and his wife, Judy have two children: Jes-sica, 4 and Caressa, 11 months. The family attends the Central Church of Christ. As for hobbies, Dale enjoys golfing and auto mechanics.

Halfway Station To Feature Pivot Irrigation System

HALFWAY -- The Texas at the station site, 14 miles west Agricultural Experiment Station at Halfway will display an experimental pivot irrigation system featuring specially modified drop outlets for reducing evaporation loss during the upcoming annual field day, Sept. 14.

An expected crowd of over 1,000 will have the opportunity to view research developments tion.

of Plainview on Highway 70. Among the highlights of the event are cotton, sorghum, corn and sunflower research projects featuring crop variety studies, irrigation, soil fertility and other production-oriented research. The Texas Agricultural Ex-

Dr. Otto Wilke, TAES agricultural enginneer, says the pivot irrigation system is on loan to the Experiment Station from Gifford Hill Inc.

The modified system, installed this summer on the 320-acre Halfway station site, is expected to reduce water and energy use. Wilke says the research project will take at least two years. The electrical system for the one-tower span was put together by Gifford Hill. Wilke installed a switching tensiometer to trigger the irrigation unit. This tensiometer is a device placed in the soil to measure moisture availability, and automatically turns the unit on when soil moisture tension reaches a

Other features at this year's field day include a large machinery display and special Wilke says the biggest tours of field crop research. The event gets underway at 1:00

Bluebonnet Seed Needs Planting By August

COLLEGE STATION- If you're planning a cover of Texas bluebonnets for the home landscape next spring, seed should be planted as soon as possible.

"Seeds must be sown by late August if blossoms are wanted next spring." emphasizes Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Late summer plantings is essential as bluebonnets are actually winter annuals," explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. They germinate in late summer, exist as a small rosette of leaves throughout the winter while developing a good root system, and then grow rapidly during the spring rainy season to produce acres of blue flowers."

Many seeds are wasted each year to improper planting, notes Janne. Just tossing the seed into a grassy area along the road or in the corner of the yard does little else than provide expensive food for birds.

Germination is also a problem. Poor germination usually occurs unless something is done to soften the hard seed coat to allow moisture to

"The oft recommended practice of puncturing the seed with a needle or ice pick will work but is rather time consuming as well as hard on the hands. Scratching the seed coat between two layers of sandpaper that have been glued to boards will also help," says

To treat large quantities of seed, the horticulturist suggests mixing them with sand and tumbling them in a cement mixer to scratch the seed coat. Or, they may be soaked in warm water (about 130 to 150 degrees water at least daily until the "Plants affected by this from charcoal rot." condition die prematurely from damage to the lower stalk," explains Dr. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. 'Corn ears or sorghum heads will not develop properly, and loding (stalks falling over) will be widespread if winds occur." A producer can diagnose the disease by cutting a stalk of soil moisture will help ward lengthwise and looking at the plant tissue. If the fungus is present, the soft tissue will have been eaten away, leaving only It may look as though someone had taken a comb and actually combed out the softer tissues, explains Horne. Infection cuts off the flow of water and nutrients to the upper portions of the plant, causing the plant to die quickly and the grain fails to mature properly.

"Charcoal rot fungus is in the soil throughout the year, and most fields are infected," says Horne. "However, the disease infects corn and sorghum only at heading time and when plants are under drought stress. Since the disease causes little problem the capability of irrigation can completely eliminate damage

However, dryland producers can also take steps to avoid charcoal rot damage to corn and sorghum, points out the Texas A&M University System specia-

"As far as lodging is concerned, there is considerable difference among hybrids," notes Horne. "Some hybrids have stronger stalks so less lodging occurs, making it appear that they are more resistant to charcoal rot than other varieties."

White To Introduce the water-transporting bundles. High Power Tractors

White Farm Equipment Company announced that it will introduce two new high horsepower farm tractors this fall with advanced engineering features for higher productivity, increased operator comfort and reduced operating expense.

White Farm Equipment Company is a subsidiary of White Motor Corporation.

Officials at White Farm said the two new unites would be in the popular over 100 PTO horsepower range. They will be of conventional two-wheel-drive design and available in both row crop and wheatland style.

The two new tractors are totally new designs and will offer all the latest engineering concepts and operator features demanded by modern high acreage farming.

White Farm Equipment said the new tractors will be shown publicly in mid-September, 1976, and that full-scale production is scheduled for early 1977.

ZOOM revving up

It's a word. It's a feeling. It's a landmark in children's programming. It's ZOOM. ZOOM is a kick-up-your-heels dance, a funny skit, a stripey shirt and sneakers, a secret language. It's the Emmy-winning television show written by, for, and with children - real kids with their own real ideas on what's fun and interesting. And now ZOOM is entering its fifth

The event deserves a little fanfare, please, perhaps a tickertape parade of ZOOMcards from the third floor office of station WGBH Boston. Thanks in large part to a $330, 000 grant from General Foods Corporation, ZOOM will be back this fall, with seven new ZOOMers. Unfortunately, there is only funding for ten new shows, but a whole slew of past ZOOMshows will return. Be thankful for small favors.

To celebrate the new season, a short history of ZOOM is in

It all began in the summer of '71. Christopher Sarson, a WGBH producer (he got Masterpiece Theatre off the ground), became interested in a TV show to entertain and nurture the creative appetite of the 7-12-year-old set. By observing his own kids, he came up with the idea of a show written by and for kids that would capitalize on creative kid-tokid communication.

No more would kids be told by adults what it was like to be a child, or how to have fun. For once, television would tap the natural creativity of its young audience. ZOOM was born, the idea being to zoom in on subjects of interest to 7-12-yearolds, although many a grownup kid would become captivated by the show's charm.

In January of 1972, ZOOM began its first formal season insofar as ZOOMers could be formal -- running on Sundays at 7 p.m. Critic Cecil Smith of the Los Angeles Times wrote that he couldn't get his children to the dinner table because of ZOOM. Other critics were equally impressed. Most important, ZOOMviewers were delighted: ZOOMail poured in to that memorable address. Box 350, Boston, Mass. 02134, by the thousands.

Things ran pretty smoothly for three seasons, but after this time the show's first financial crisis arose. When ZOOM was not among the shows to be funded in 1974 by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB), shock and panic was felt by many a ZOOMenthusiast. The famous ZOOMalarm was sent out.

Third season ZOOMer Maura went before the cameras, and looking straight into our eyes and hearts she made an appeal to save the

The appeal produced an avalanche of letters from viewers which were lugged down to CPB headquarters. Newspapers and magazines picked up the event. Press coverage was unstinting.

The battle was half won --CPB gave half the funds needed. Cut to McDonald's Corporation vice-president watching television with his young son. The boy urged his dad to watch ZOOM. Dad watched. Dad loved ZOOM. and faster than you could say Big Mac, McDonald's came through with the funds and saved the day for ZOOM and then ZOOM.

But when McDonald's underwriting ran its course, the unthinkable happened. In June of 1975 ZOOM went off the air.

Enter General Foods Corporation, with enough money to tape the ten new shows, keep the mailroom open and renew the about-to-expire rerun

ZOOM taping is now underway, and the latest crop of ZOOMers are revving up. Let's face it. ZOOM is what kids are all about. It is a show that should be permitted to live and thrive as long as there are kids out there to keep it a success.

ZOOMers in their stripey shirts will once again cavort on screen, as ZOOM begins its fifth season on PBS.

JUDGEMENT DAY -- The Tony Randall Show premieres September 21, on ABC, with Randall (1) as a judge. Rachel Roberts as his housekeeper and Barney Martin as the court reporter.

THE TONY RANDALL SHOW

With the cancellation of The Odd Couple, Tony Randall has decided once more to take another crack at the sit-com circuit. This time around, there's no denying he's the star. the series being called The Tony Randall Show. It premieres Tuesday, Sept. 21 (9:30-10 p.m., ET), on ABC.

Randall stars as Philadelphia Judge Walter Franklin, a widower, who lives a frustrating life caused by a variety of mishaps occurring in his life both in court and at home. Needless to say, this is the basis of humor. The highlight of the show would seem to be the inclusion of British stage and screen actress Rachel Roberts in the cast. She should add something to the show with her portrayal of the Franklin family's housekeeper, Mrs. Mc-Clellan. Barney Martin plays Franklin's court reporter and loval friend, and Allyn Ann McLerie portrays the judge's sharp-tongued secretary. Devon Scott is his daughter and Brad Savage his son. The series is an MTM production, which on television usually stands for success.

James Komack has come up with another situation comedy that is a bit out of the ordinary in Snip. That somewhat crazed stand-up comic. David Brenner. stars in Snip. as David, a footloose, free-spirited hairdresser from Philadelphia who takes off to Cape Cod in hope of renewing a long standing romance with his exgirlfriend. Doe-eyed Lesley Ann Warren plays the girlfriend, Beverly,

Here's the situation. Beverly, who had worked with David in Philadelphia, but became discouraged with their relationship, moved to the Cape and opened her own salon. Her plans for a new life apparently did not include David. But upon his arrival, they resume their "can't-live-with-or-without" relationship amid the excitement and chaos of a modern day beauty salon. Can you wait?

Also on hand are Michael, a gay hairdresser that looks like a defensive lineman, played by Walter Wanderman: Daffney, the shop's wacky manicurist, played by BeBe Drake-Hooks: and Hope Summers is Mrs. Fitcherly, an eccentric old woman and a fixture in the house Beverly and David have moved into. Getting into more than each other's hair here, eh! The series is scheduled for Thursdays (9:30-10 p.m., ET) over NBC.

By The Garden Gate With Glad By Gladys Manjeot

A review of my gardening leaves me less than inspired. Seems about all I've grown this whole summer is TIRED. However my love for gardening is still with me! Somehow, I find I just can't quit trying and being GLAD, of the success I have had with some of the newer plants and that this summer I have had the loveliest roses I have ever grown.

Foliage is a long slender leaf, tough and deep green in color. Flower heads show off best when arranged with contrasting colors and in planting they should be grown with an attractive background.

Mine are grown in front of a grey (aged) fence interspersed with heliotrope, the flowers make an attractive contrast. As cut flowers they are long lasting. When arranged they keep their placement real well, only change is that the tips of the flower head will bend with temperatures, making the line interesting. I enjoy using mine with roses-red, pink or bi-colored.

If nothing happens I will have an abundance of plants next spring. These I will gladly share with others. They should be divided in the spring. This perennial is often confused with Digitalis (Foxglove) florets of both are very similar, in form and color. Growth pattern is differnet, in that digitalis does not have double rows of florets, and it also comes in more colors. To give a boost to spring gardening now, I would suggest that early fall days are an excellent time to transplant perennials. Iris can be divided and planted as soon as the days become cooler, or can be planted now if not placed in the direct afternoon sunlight. Dianthus should be divided and replanted to have a good showing in the spring and summer days. Chyrsanthemums, a favorite perennial, will soon be in bloom, Some of the early varities are in bloom now. I have had chysanthemums in bloom for They estimate that 40 per cent of cigarette tobacco may be infected with virus.

By ERMA BOMBECK

It's only been in the last couple of years that designers of fashions have chosen to sign their work on the outside.

I know a lot of women (two) who walk around looking like billboards. Their bags carry the Gucci signature, their scarfs spell out Yves St. Laurent, and their blouses have the name of Wayne Rogers incorporated in the design.

I never know who makes my clothes. Whoever they are, they're too ashamed to sign 'em. The closest I ever came to finding out was when I shook a pair of slacks out one day and a little piece of paper fell out, "INSPECTED BY 56." I have no idea who No. 56 is or where she came from, but by wearing the slacks, I got a mental picture of inspector 56. She was a former designer for an awning company until her vision started to go. When she could no longer see to attach a zipper to a tent flap, she was put in slacks. one size fits all.

I tried to track her down, but I heard she changed her name to inspector 94. Like I say, it doesn't bother me a bit that kids walk around in Hang Ten sweat socks with the two little feet emblem, or flaunt Levi labels coming out of their seams, but Mayva ... she's a real status seeker.

"Did you see that?" she gasped at a luncheon last week. "Violet is wearing a LANVIN blouse."

"How can you tell?"

"If you just read her chest, you can tell," she said.

"That's shabby. If people can't look at my clothes and by their style and cut know who designed them, I'm certainly not going to advertise."

"Don't give me that," she snapped. "If your dresses had a perma-press label in them, you'd wear them wrong-side

"The trouble with you, Mayva, is you're a snob. Don't you think I know you sit up nights drawing penquins on your husband's golf shirts?" "Who told you that?"

"It would serve you right if you got stuck with one of those $50 handbags that came out about a year ago." It seems a couple of designers subtly included an eight-letter noun with an obscene word woven into the pattern."

As Mayva counted the letters out on her fingers, she exclaimed, "Just nod your head if, I'm right. It's a 'J.C. Penney,' isn't it?"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I Chapter for information about individual benefits. This service is free and confidential. As a volunteer I am enormously proud of the services performed by the Red Cross for people who had no idea they could get help. Please print this letter and pass the word, Ann. -- Janice Stanton,

Dear Janice: Here's your letter and my thanks for the opportunity to give visibility to one of the world's most respected service organizations. I hope the phones will ring like crazy today at Red Cross offices all over the U.S., Canada, Nassau, etc. They have a lot to

DEAR ANN: For reasons too numerous to mention, I am leaving my wife. The dilemma revolves around our daughter who will soon be three years old. Try for as generous a commitment as you can get in regard to visiting privileges. Your presence could contribute a great deal to your daughter's emotional support. This is far more important than any financial assistance you might give her mother.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a person who follows "the new philosophy" of telling the truth whether it hurts a friend's feelings or not?

Recently I had extensive surgery. It kept me away from work for several weeks. I lost quite a lot of weight, which I needed to do, and felt better for it. When I returned to my job everyone said I looked marvelous except one woman who announced in the presence of a group, "You may be thinner but you certainly do look OLDER." Another woman spoke up and told her she was being unkind. Her reply was, "I have a new philosophy. I speak the truth regardless of the consequences.

It is emotionally very healthy."

May I have your opinion, Ann? -- Hurt

DEAR H.: A cruel and hurtful remark under the guise of speaking the truth is a very old technique. "Emotionally healthy" my eye. People who do this are mean and destructive.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love it more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Childbirth

Classes In

Session

Expectant parents are invited to attend Lamaze method of childbirth classes at 8 p.m. each Thursday at First Assembly of God Church. The classes will be conducted through September

These sessions are sponsored by the Prepared Childbirth Education League of Amarillo.

Individuals wishing to sign up for the classes or obtain additional information should Smith General Hospital, at 364-2141, Extension 240.

CLASS PLANNED

Members of the American Association of Retired Persons, Chapter 884, will sponsor a defensive driving class September 15-16 beginning at 10 a.m. in the REC Medallion Room. Reservations must be made by calling 364-1954 or 364-6917.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -Janet Calmels, a dental assistant, was waiting for a street car when she heard a scream and saw a young man run off with an elderly woman's purse.

Miss Calmels gave chase. She and a man who joined the chase caught the snatcher and were holding him for the police when a friend of the snatcher came along, wrestled him free and they both escaped. Miss Calmels, however, managed to recover the woman's purse and return it to her. Then she discovered some-thing. During the chase a $100 bill she had put in her knee sock for safe keeping had slipped out and disappeared.

Vegetable Grower Makes Suggestions At EPA Hearing

Texas Citrus & Vegetables Growers & Shippers, represented by C.K. Rivera, newly appointed Executive Vice President of the Harlingen based agricultural association, appeared before the Environmental Protection Agency's Pesticide Advisory Committee at a public hearing in Dallas, recently to offer comments and suggestions on behalf of the citrus, melon and vegetables growers and shippers of Texas as to how the EPA could improve its regulation of pesticides for the benefit of the consumer.

In a prepared statement presented before the EPA. Rivera recommended that the EPA Policy Advisory Committee take a page from the book of the Food and Drug Administration and consider placing agriculturual science-trained personnel throughout decision making levels of the agency in an effort to improve the present EPA

Tech Class Sign-Up Slated

Registration for the fall semester at Texas Tech University will take place 8 a.m.-6 p.m., Aug. 25-27, in the Coliseum, in Lubbock. Students who wish to continue attendance at Texas Tech but have not received their registration materials in the mail by Monday (Aug. 16) should consult the Registrar's Office, 742-3651.

Transfer students, and students who have recently reapplied to Texas Tech, should receive their registration packets by Wednesday (Aug. 18). If those students fail to receive their packets, they should check with the Office of Admissions, room 101, West Hall, 742-3661.

regulations with respect to the registration, handling and use of pesticides. Rivera said that recent EPA actions in removing chlordane as a material for ant control would imperil the future growth of citrus in the Rio Grande Valley.

He stated that growers will be faced with added production costs since suitable alternate materials are not necessarily as effective for the control of the deleterious effects of ants as is chloradne, and recommended. the EPA reconsider its position relative to the application of chlordane.

Rivera stated that before the promulgation of new and possibly more stringent regulations on pesticides, the EPA should develop a viable program for utilizing the expertise of our land grant universities in addition to industry and USDA scientists and that the EPA recognize the importance of the Texas State Department of Agriculture by granting that regulatory body the authority to act for and on behalf of the EPA through their regional offices to effect the issuance of experimental labels and the registration of materials for use on an experimental basis for the special needs of local farmers.

Texas Tech University researchers have completed studies to determine if differences exist in body proportions from one animal to the next.

Engaged in the studies were Profs. C. Boyd Ramsey, Robert C. Albin, and Robert A. Long of the animal science faculty and a graduate student, ML. Stabel. Dr. Ramsey reported the results at the 68th annual meeting of the American Society of Animal Science, Aug. 15-18 at Texas

A&M University. "The traditional concept of selecting certain breeding herd replacements because they are longer-loined or longer-rumped, Israel has the bomb, manufactufor example," Ramsey said, 'appears unfounded."

He said there are definite size differences. Some cattle are larger and longer in all skeletal measurements than others, but the cattle differ little in body

"We should be talking about cattle size, not type," Ramsey

When measurements were expressed as a per cent of either carcass length, body length -shoulder to pins -- or leg length, nearly all differences between sexes, types or feeding time were removed, he said. The differences between sexes, types or feeding who were very small and generally averaged less than .5 per cent. Exceptions were in heifers that proved to be deeper chested than bulls, Ramsey

Although cattle judges traditionally look for variation in body, proportion, Ramsey said, the data from the Texas Tech studies suggest that such a conception is false.

In the Texas experiments 103 animals -- Hereford bulls, steers and heifers from one Texas ranch -- were used. Half were considered to be large types Measurements taken included the length of cervical. thoracic, lumbar and sacral vertebrae; shoulder to pin length; carcass length -- the first rib to the pelvic bone, and hind leg length - femur plus the shank bone. The chest depth was taken at the fifth rib.

Book Adds Little To History

THE EVADERS. By Leo Morrow. 239 Pages. Why would someone now

write a book on how survivors of British troops who tried unsuccessfully to capture a Dutch bridge succeeded in staying alive in occupied country, par-ticularly when that book doesn't really add anything to what already is known?

That answer can't be found in "The Evaders," a book that, at best, is a supplement for readers interested in any and everything on World War II.

Parts of it are interesting.

But parts of it are also dull.
