

Governor To Ask for More 'Tax Relief'

Minorities Hurt, Charges CRC

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The federal government hasn't effectively enforced civil rights laws, and as a result, minorities and women in Texas face almost as much discrimination now as they did in 1968, says the head of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

It will take "vigorous, stepped up and meaningful" federal enforcement in the 1980s to improve the situation, Arthur S. Flemming said Wednesday at a symposium on civil rights in Texas.

Such enforcement of affirmative action and equal employment opportunity laws, Flemming added, must be supported by a "national movement" of public and private leaders.

The Texas Advisory Committee to the Civil Rights Commission formally released the new report Wednesday.

Blacks, Mexican-Americans and women, according to the study, are still mired in low-paying, low-ranking jobs in the areas of public employment, education, political participation and the administration of justice.

"Given these findings, the Texas Advisory Committee can only conclude that minorities and women have consistently been excluded from the major governing, decisionmaking and policymaking levels in Texas," said TAC Vice Chairman Dr. Denzer Burke.

Flemming said the situation in Texas is "consistent" with what the commission has found in the rest of the nation. "These conclusions identify very clearly the task that lies ahead," he said.

The federal government must bear much of the blame, contended Flemming.

"There hasn't been effective enough enforcement on the part of the federal government as there should have been in this area. The laws on the books are good," he said.

He said he is confident more Equal Employment Opportunity Commission officials will be sent to Texas to help improve the situation.

The federal government, however, was a prime offender, according to the TAC study of Texas' public employees at all AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements — apparently optimistic about the economy — says he will call a special legislative session in August or September to enact a "tax relief" bill of $700 million or more.

Clements said Wednesday he also would ask legislators to approve proposals authorizing state wiretaps in drug cases and enabling Texans to bypass the Legislature in adopting laws and vetoing measures passed by the Legislature.

Clements predicted the 1981 Legislature "will probably make the most significant change in the public school system of Texas since the Gilmer-Aikin bill some 30 years ago."

The governor addressed a breakfast meeting of the Texas Real Estate Political Action Committee (TREPAC), which interrupted his speech at least five times with loud applause.

After Clements had concluded his remarks, a member of the audience said TREPAC had made a mistake in supporting former Attorney General John Hill for governor against Clements in 1978 and he wanted to apologize for that mistake.

Clements said the special legislative session would "certainly" consider three of the 82 subjects that have been proposed: surveillance — "a $10 word meaning wiretap," initiative and referendum and tax reduction.

Clements said he would have to wait until summer to get a more exact figure on any "surplus" in the state treasury, but he added:

"I'm still saying if we can maintain any kind of stability in the international arena we will have a surplus of $600 million to $700 million and even perhaps higher, and I want to return that money to the Texas taxpayer from whence it came ..."

Clements said wiretap legislation would be directed at halting $3 billion in drug traffic in Texas each year.

Russians Oust Newsmen

By The Associated Press
Afghanistan's pro-Soviet government today ordered the expulsion of all American journalists, accusing them of biased reporting and interference in Afghan internal affairs, said a Western diplomat in New Delhi, India.

"The U.S. correspondents were detained by Afghan authorities at the Kabul Intercontinental Hotel and told this morning to leave on the first available flight," said the source, who declined to be identified.

The U.S. Embassy in the Indian capital said the American Embassy in Kabul was informed of the expulsion order. Initial reports said only American citizens were to be deported, the source said. It was not clear if this included non-Americans working for U.S. organizations.

The Afghan order came three days after Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime in neighboring Iran ordered all American journalists out of that country.

Diplomats in New Delhi estimated 50 to 60 Americans are in the Afghan capital. Much of their news reports and film have been handcarried to other countries since communications have not worked normally since the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan on Christmas Day.

Budget for Year YMCA Announces

Hereford YMCA directors Tuesday approved a 1980 budget of $55,608—a decrease of some $31,000 over the budget last year.

R. C. Hoelscher, incoming president, announced the board agreed to the big budget reduction because of the indebtedness of the organization. He met with the United Way board this morning and requested an advance allocation of between $6,000 and $7,000. The UW directors approved an advance of $6,600.

"We hope to retain most of the activities and programs and keep this YMCA as a vibrant organization. To do that, we must have the support of the community through memberships and through their contributions to the United Way," stated Hoelscher.

The new president said the two major areas in which expenditures are proposed to be slashed will be in the size of the facility and salaries. The board approved a proposal to occupy only one office space in Sugarland Mall, rather than the two now being used. This would cut the rent in half and reduce the cost of utilities.

Weldon Knabe, former program director, has been named interim manager of the "Y" to fill the position formerly held by Rick Wood. No new program director will be added this year, thus effecting a savings in salaries of $11,200 per year.

The "Y" had a budget of $86,650 last year. Before leaving, Wood had submitted a preliminary budget total of $90,682 for this year. Hoelscher said he had asked Knabe to submit another budget proposal which would be "more realistic for the conditions."

Cal Jones, vice president, presided at the regular monthly meeting this week in the absence of Hoelscher. The board also discussed plans for a fund-raising event and for a membership drive. Directors also voted to raise Knabe's salary to $13,500 as interim manager.

Mexico To Receive Grain

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, selling Mexico some of the millions of tons of grain embargoed for shipment to the Soviet Union, wants to expand sales to other countries, an administration official says.

Dale E. Hathaway, undersecretary of agriculture, announced Wednesday an agreement under which Mexico will buy just over 1 million tons of the 17 million metric tons of corn and wheat embargoed to the Soviets.

He said the United States was looking into the possibility of having other countries buy more of the grain that had been destined for the Soviet Union, but declined to name the countries or indicate how much grain might be involved.

On Jan. 4, President Carter cancelled the Soviet grain orders in retaliation for the Kremlin's military intervention in Afghanistan. The government bought up the grain ordered by Moscow but has no desire to hold it if suitable markets can be found.

Mexican Commerce Secretary Jorge de la Vega joined U.S. officials in announcing the deal, which he said was sparked in part by poor Mexican harvests caused by a drought and an early frost.

The agreement calls for Mexico to buy 4.8 million metric tons of farm products "above and beyond" what it had already ordered this calendar year, bringing total sales to about 7 million metric tons, said Hathaway.

That's about twice as much as Mexico bought in each of the last three years, he said.

Other administration officials said later that sales to Mexico for this year had been projected at about 6 million tons this year prior to the hastily arranged deal announced Wednesday. The officials, who asked not to be named, pegged Mexico's total commodity orders at 7.15 million tons in 1980.

That would mean the net effect of the new deal would be to increase Mexico's 1980 purchases by about 1.1 million tons from what had been expected.

Included in the agreement would be 1.7 million metric tons of corn, 1 million tons of sorghum; 650,000 tons of wheat; and 500,000 tons of soybeans.

Banquet To Be Saturday

Meeting To Kick Off Sugar Beet Weekend

By JIM STEIERT

The annual business meeting of the Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Community Center, setting the stage for the association's grower banquet Saturday night.

Two directors are to be elected during the business session tomorrow with the terms of board members Bill Cleavinger of Wildorado and Dave Thompson of Friona expiring.

Both men have announced plans to seek re-election. Comments on legislation affecting the sugar industry and the improving outlook in the sugar market will also be featured.

Production problems and procedures will be reviewed and Dr. Steve Winter of the USDA research center at Bushland will report on studies on sugar beet production.

Saturday's banquet is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Bull Barn and will feature a humorous speaker and award presentations.

Pat Leimbach of Vermilion, Ohio, hailed as an "Erma Bombeck of the farmlands" will be the featured speaker.

Mrs. Leimbach is the author of the column "County Wife" which appears in several farm publications across the nation.

She is also the author of two books on country life, "A Thread of Blue Denim" and "All My Meadows."

Highlighting the banquet for area producers will be the recognition of the association's top beet growers for the 1979 season.

Those three producers posting the top tonnage and sugar output from their beet farming operations will be recognized during the banquet, and will receive cash awards provided by area merchants in recognition of their accomplishment.

Another awards ceremony featured during the banquet will be the naming of the county's "Man of the Year in Agriculture" for the 1979 crop year.

The upcoming banquet will mark the third annual presentation of the award, which is sponsored by The Hereford Brand.

Achievement by a local agriculturalist in farming and ranching, support and aid to the area's agribusiness industry and participation in community affairs are recognized by the award.

Tickets for the banquet priced at $5, are available at the offices of association secretary James Witherspoon at 140 East Third, or may be obtained at the door Saturday night.

Easterwood Named United Way Head

Hereford attorney Rex Easterwood this morning was named president of Deaf Smith County United Way by the organization's board of directors.

Directors, who met at Thompson House, elected directors and officers, granted three United Way agency fund-raising requests and approved a new set of bylaws.

Nominating committee chairman Paul Sims recommended that Jim Bullard, Don Tardy, Carrell Ann Simmons, Dwayne Cassels, Margaret London, Troy Waddell and Pat Robbins be elected as new directors.

Officers nominated this morning were Easterwood; Jimmy Rowton, vice president; Carolyn Baxter, secretary; and Mrs. Simmons, treasurer.

The board accepted the recommendations for new directors and officers.

Directors voted to allow a March 15 Easter Opry show sponsored by the Hereford YMCA, a Feb. 23 Red Cross chili supper and a May candy sale by Kids Inc. Proceeds from the candy sale will be used to pay on a note owed by Kids Inc. for the organization's sports complex at 15th and Whittier.

The board, however, refused to grant a YMCA request to sell advertising to businesses for a program associated with the show. Directors, during brief discussion, said that businesses have been promised that they will not be solicited in fund-raising drives separate from the fall United Way campaign.

YMCA president R.C. Hoelscher requested that the YMCA be advanced between $6,000 and $7,000 to help make up for a deficit budget.

"We do have an immediate need," Hoelscher said. "The YMCA board has learned that rent and other bills have piled up over the last few months. Rent has become a critical situation." The YMCA, according to Hoelscher, owes $8,700 in back rent.

"Certainly without facilities, we're not going to be able to function," Hoelscher said.

The board voted to advance the YMCA in the amount of $6,600.

Directors, in other business, approved the treasurer's financial report.

Three law-enforcement officers who allegedly were involved in an Oct. 12 shootout with Eric Eugene Ewurs testified Wednesday in the opening day of the attempted capital murder trial of the 18-year-old Des Moines, Iowa, man.

Ewurs is on trial for attempted capital murder in connection with a high-speed chase and ensuing shootout with a Friona police officer Nick Hand, Texas Department of Public Safety trooper Gary Whitfill and Deaf Smith County Sheriff's deputy Loy Smith. The prosecution was expected to rest its case this morning after calling six witnesses Wednesday. Attorneys for both sides anticipated the trial might go to the jury later today.

If found guilty on at least one count of attempted capital murder, Ewurs could receive a life prison sentence. Each count is a first-degree felony.

Two female companions who were riding in a pickup with Ewurs—sisters Ruth Streight, 15, and 18-year-old Karen Streight Llamas, both of Des Moines—testified that the trio stole $21 worth of gasoline from a Bovina service station in the early evening hours of Oct. 12.

Mrs. Llamas testified that Ewurs, who had noticed that a police car was following the pickup in the eastbound lane of U.S. Highway 60, asked Miss Streight "to load the shotgun and when she opened it up, I saw it was already loaded."

Mrs. Llamas, in response to a question from Assistant District Attorney Jerry Smith, said that there were two shotguns in the pickup.

She testified that Ewurs "was shooting at the car behind us" and demonstrated to the court that he was driving with his left hand on the wheel with the shotgun in his right hand pointed out the window towards the patrol car.

"What did Eric tell you while he was driving the pickup?"

Smith asked.

"He said that they wasn't gonna catch him alive. He said he was gonna blow their fool heads off...Me and my sister told Eric they weren't fools. He just kept on shooting," Mrs. Llamas replied.

She testified that the trio noticed another patrol car, which testimony later showed was manned by Whitfill, parked by the side of the highway. Mrs. Llamas, according to her testimony, had ducked her head, put her hands over her ears and did not notice when Ewurs turned the pickup off the highway and into a field.

"We went into a big ditch...We all flew up and hit our heads...The pickup quit running, and Eric told us to get out and run," Mrs. Llamas told Smith.

"I got out and ran until they told us to stop running."

She added that Ewurs kept running, then "got down on his knee and started shooting."

"How many times did you see Eric shoot?" Smith asked.

"Three or four times," she answered.

She testified that Ewurs was shot before surrendering to officers.

Hand testified he had just gone on patrol around 7 p.m. on Oct. 12 when he received word that someone in a green pickup

Douglas Canned

As Talk-Show Host

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mike Douglas, host of a popular syndicated television talk show for 18 years, is being replaced, the show's producers say.

The announcement Wednesday by Group W Productions followed reports that negotiations with Douglas over a new contract were foundering. Douglas' current contract expires in June.

A spokesman for Group W said "The Mike Douglas Show" — syndicated on 153 stations nationwide — has "been doing very well, but for a long-range commitment into the '80s it was felt the availability of John Davidson and his interest in doing a show for a number of years was a deciding factor."

Industry sources connected with stations that carry the show said some had been pressuring Group W to find a younger host because Douglas' loyal audience was "growing old with him." The New York Times reported today.

Neither Douglas, 54, nor his manager could be reached for comment.

Davidson's name came up two weeks ago in another replacement that made headlines — the firing of 65-year-old Bert Parks as emcee of the Miss American Pageant. However, pageant officials ruled Davidson out as a replacement for Parks.

Bomb Explosion

Kills Man in London

LONDON (AP) — A bomb explosion ripped through six rooms of a popular London hotel this morning, killing a man of "Arab origin," injuring a West German and sending terrified guests, many in nightclothes, fleeing into the chilly streets, police said.

Nearly five hours later, a second bomb exploded, apparently in the rubble. It injured no one, police said, but it created a second emergency and streets which had been reopened after the first blast were closed again.

Commander Peter Duffy of Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist squad said the dead man had been very near the bomb when it went off, but he could not say if he had been assembling the device at the time. The injured guest was named as Gerhard Buhme and detectives were at his hospital bedside.

Both blasts were on the fifth floor of the 702-room Mount Royal Hotel near Marble Arch and Hyde Park's Speaker's Corner, two noted London tourist attractions. The first blast occurred at 7:30 a.m.

Caesar Beaudoux, a Dutch businessman who was in a room 30 feet away from the blast, said most of the guests on the fifth floor seemed to be Turks and Iranians.

Poerner Says 1980

'Crucial' for Oil

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chairman John Poerner of the Texas Railroad Commission predicted today 1980 would be a "crucial year" for the oil and gas industry and urged company executives to attend the March "state of the industry" meeting.

Poerner said the three-member commission, which regulates Texas' oil and gas industry, wants "input from people who have been producing."

The commission routinely set the statewide oil allowance for February at 100 percent.

As usual, however, the large East Texas field was restricted to an 86 percent production factor to avoid possible waste.

The state of the industry meeting is scheduled for March 19 in Austin, and Poerner said, "I would like to ask all of you who represent companies to ask your chief executive officers to be present."

Prior to announcing the February oil allowance, Poerner noted that crude and petroleum product imports into the United States were 8,123,000 barrels per day for 1979, a decrease of 6,000 barrels a day from 1978.

Major purchasers of Texas crude oil said they would like to buy 2,652,720 barrels a day in February, a decrease of 18,758 barrels daily from January.

Gold Prices Fall

As Dollar Steady

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices plummeted by as much as $34.50 an ounce today in a bout of profit-taking. The dollar remained fairly steady.

In London, where gold hit a record $705 an ounce Wednesday, the mid-morning price was down to $730.50.

In Zurich, gold sold for $728.50, down from $760 Wednesday.

The dip was seen as a natural reaction to Wednesday's giant 10 percent price leap, with some investors gathering profits while they could.

Following Wednesday's surge, in which gold jumped $81.50 in Zurich in one day, prices bounced up and down in New York and then slumped in the Far East early today to close in Hong Kong at $728.42, down $4.94.

Silver, which hit a record $48 at the London afternoon fixing Wednesday, fell back to $44 this morning.

In London, a round cost $2,267.0, compared to $2,276.3.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 238.675 yen, down from 238.80.

In the last month, the price of gold has risen from $470 per ounce as war fears brought on by the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan added fervor to the already active gold market. Concern over the health of Yugoslav President Josip Tito also has driven some investors to put assets into gold, analysts say.

Ordeal Long for Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — They're not hostages — for which they feel both grateful and guilty, depending on the day.

These foreign service officers and volunteer wives, unlike the Americans held captive in Iran, can go home at night.

Most of the dozen men and women who work the State Department's Iranian Task Force office served in Tehran. Now, back in Washington, they are working long, tortuous hours to monitor the 75-day ordeal of their colleagues.

The crisis has been going on so long that some people are beginning to forget about it.

The news is shifting to America's troubles with the Soviet Union and Afghanistan.

But on the seventh floor of the State Department, just around the corner from the secretary's office, members of the Iranian Task Force think of little else but the fate of the hostages, many of whom are also friends.

Day after day, crisis after crisis, they work together in a maze of windowless rooms, behind quadruple layers of security, searching for something new in each new cable or news story from Iran.

"All of us have it on our minds all the time," said Marjorie Precht, whose husband, Henry, heads the Iranian desk at the State Department. "We repeat our dreams to each other. We wake up all through the night. It's something that never leaves you."

Another woman, whose husband would certainly be a hostage had he not been on leave when the U.S. Embassy was seized, said her family is obsessed with the hostage situation, that the tension is at times overwhelming.

"My husband has been filled with guilt feelings," she said. "Our time is filled with nightmares of no sleep at all. I'm seeing a personality change in him because of the tension."

These women are among a dozen foreign service wives, all volunteers, who keep in contact with the hostages' families, answering questions, offering moral support, interpreting the day's events.

"Sometimes it's very difficult to pick up the phone and say, 'I have nothing new to tell you, but I want to keep in touch,'" says Mrs. Precht. "Yet that means something to them."

"Sometimes the families are furious, mad at us, the government, the State Department. But we feel it's our role to let them vent this frustration. Sometimes the people are so upset they can't talk. You can hear the tears in their voices."

At first, the families were called every day, Mrs. Precht said. But as the ordeal dragged on with few developments, calls were reduced to twice a week unless there was something substantive to report.

"There have been intense negotiations before — on a boundary line, in fishing regulations, on SALT II, but never has such an emotional factor been injected into diplomatic negotiations," said one of three officers who head the task force.

Fatigue was etched around his eyes as he slumped in his chair. "You always approach it with hope. It's a question of time."

"You get annoyed. You get frustrated. You get mad. But you can't let yourself get boiling mad so you lose perspective."

The officer, a quiet, intense man who has spent almost a third of his 34 years with the State Department and knows all of the hostages personally, insisted on anonymity.

"It's like fishing," he said. "You have a lot of lines out and you check each pole to see what's biting. Some days it's active. Some days it's frustrating."

He's been through other crises, he said, including a drought in Africa in which many died, tension in the Persian Gulf when exporting nations raised oil prices and the evacuation of Americans from Iran a year ago.

But this crisis, which has lasted longer than any of the others, eats away at him, he said.

"You have to be fairly tough on yourself," he said. "You can't let it get out of hand and think it will never end. You have to keep your cool."

McCartney Remains In Jail for Marijuana

TOKYO (AP) — Rock star Paul McCartney faces a second night in a Japanese jail as narcotics officials question him about half a pound of marijuana customs officers said they found in his suitcase.

The Clear Light Society, which is campaigning to legalize marijuana smoking in Japan, called for the immediate release of the 37-year-old ex-Beatle.

Tokyo newspapers predicted he would be expelled from the country without being brought to trial.

If convicted of possessing and smuggling marijuana, he could be sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $2,000.

McCartney was arrested Wednesday when he, his wife Linda, their four children and his rock group Wings arrived for a 11-concert tour. He waved cheerfully to a group of high school students when he was brought from police headquarters to the Central Narcotics Bureau today for questioning.

He also was to confer with a Japanese attorney recommended by the British consulate.

Meanwhile, Yomiuri, the Tokyo newspaper sponsoring the concert series, canceled the tour. The paper said 100,000 tickets had been sold at prices ranging up to $40. McCartney's Japanese agent estimated $1.8 million would have to be returned to the purchasers.

The famed British musician can be held for a maximum of 20 days for questioning, but a prison official said he was getting special treatment in jail — coffee and bread instead of green tea and rice.

"He's not a Japanese, so we cannot treat him like a Japanese," the official said.

Narcotics officials said they would refer the case to the Tokyo district prosecutor's office by Friday for it to decide whether to bring formal charges. Enforcement of Japanese drug laws is strict, but in recent years most first marijuana offenders have been fined and put on probation.

Customs officials said they found the marijuana in a plastic bag in one of McCartney's suitcases when they opened it for a routine inspection at the airport. They said he told them he "brought some hemp for my smoking."

McCartney was taken away in handcuffs. Meanwhile, his wife and children accompanied the band to a Tokyo hotel. Police sources said Mrs. McCartney might be questioned later as a material witness.

McCartney was last in Japan in 1965 with the Beatles when the group was at the height of its popularity. In 1972, he, his wife and Wings drummer Denny Seiwell were fined $1,800 after pleading guilty to bringing six ounces of marijuana into Sweden, and a year later McCartney was fined $240 after police found five marijuana plants growing on his country place in the Scottish Highlands.

He was denied a Japanese visa in 1975 because it is official policy not to admit persons with drug convictions into the country. Asked why he was given a visa four years later, Foreign Ministry spokesman Tamio Amau quipped: "Maybe we thought he was clean."

Youngster, 11, Commits Suicide

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — An 11-year-old Arlington boy, described by teachers as an "honest boy who loved sports," made earlier suicide threats before he shot himself in the head, a classmate told police.

The victim, David Arthur Castor, apparently despondent about his family life and a recent bronchial illness, killed himself Wednesday with a .22-caliber pistol while his gym teacher and two classmates watched, Arlington police said.

"It was something I wouldn't have expected from him because he was not a loner, he had a lot of friends," said homeroom teacher Nancy Wilson.

Tarrant County medical examiners office were expected to release autopsy results today.

"The youth wandered into the restroom (of the South Davis Elementary School) without permission, and was followed by two classmates who saw Castor carrying a pistol," said officer Michael Higgins. "One boy ran to get the teacher, while the other tried to get the gun away from Castor."

The sixth-grader apparently smuggled the .22-caliber pistol in his baggy pants. Sgt. Dennis Rhoten said.

When Karen Cheak, the gym teacher, entered the restroom "she observed the youth holding the pistol and the classmate wrestling with the youth, standing to the youth's backside trying to pull his arms away from the pistol," Rhoten said.

Mrs. Cheak, and the boy, 11-year-old David Sutton, struggled to try to disarm Castor. However, Rhoten said, the boy pulled away, bent over and fired the pistol.

"When I saw my friend about to die, I had to try to do something," Sutton said.

He later said Castor had made threatened suicide in the past but was uncertain how he might attempt it, Rhoten said.

Sutton and the other boy, not identified by police, apparently knew Castor brought the gun to school and that knew he was serious when he went into the restroom, Rhoten said.

The sergeant said there were no other witnesses and it did not

Ex-NTSU Head Called Con Man

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — C.C. Nolen received about $17,000 in salary supplements during his last year as president of North Texas State University as a result of a "shell game" that shuffled private donations and state money, investigators say.

Nolen has now the target of a criminal investigation and is being denied his rights, invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination 24 times Wednesday. Committee counsel Jim Vollers called Nolen to the stand twice after an investigator testified about complicated financial transactions.

Bob Shults, a Houston lawyer with a background in prosecuting white-collar crime, said his inquiry found Nolen received $17,000 in salary supplements during Nolen's last year as president.

Nolen resigned in April as the committee began its study.

A former North Texas student Wednesday told the committee about a donation to the school for the purchase of an economics collection. Harry Friedman said the Mary Poshman Lard Foundation, administered by his father, donated about $16,000 for the purchase of the collection.

Friedman said that other funds had been found to pay for the collection. Shults testified records showed $13,769 of the donation wound up in the president's supplemental salary account.

After Wednesday's session, Shults agreed the scheme was akin to a shell game — with a series of bookkeeping transactions used to rearrange the money to allow for the salary supplements.

He said the economics collection eventually was paid for with university library funds.

Nolen also refused to answer questions about the Hattson-Summers Public Administration Fellowships. The money was given to the private NTSU Educational Fund for distribution to fellowship recipients.

Shults said records showed some of the fellowships were actually paid by the university with state money. The funds designated for the fellowships went elsewhere — including printing costs for the NTSU development department and Nolen's salary supplement.

"They used the money to do things they could not do with state money," Shults told reporters.

Nolen submitted a letter to the committee Wednesday notifying them of his intention to invoke the Fifth Amendment. He said he feels he is the "subject of a criminal investigation being carried out in part by this committee."

levels. "The pattern is most pronounced for minority females who are virtually absent from the higher grade levels and have median incomes that are about one-half that of Anglo males," said the report.

Fleming agreed: "The federal government, functioning in its capacity as an employer, has done a very poor job in developing and implementing affirmative action plans."

The study showed: —Educational decisions at all levels in Texas are almost exclusively in the hands of Anglo males. "While minority students made up approximately 40 percent of the pupils in Texas, over 97 percent of the superintendents were Anglo males," said the report.

"Anglo males have dominated upwards of 90-100 percent of elected positions at all levels," the report said. Blacks, it continued, have been "virtually excluded," and Mexican-American have been successes confined to predominantly Hispanic counties in South Texas.

—There are very few minorities among those who actually enforce Texas laws. "This pattern is particularly disturbing among the state's judiciary," the report said. "All of the black district judges in Texas can be counted on the fingers of one hand and all of the Mexican-American district judges on the fingers of both hands. The overwhelming majority of women involved in the administration of justice are secretaries."

Hand said he headed west on Highway 60 before noticing a pickup matching the description traveling east about 2½ miles outside of Friona.

The Friona patrolman testified that his car and the pickup topped speeds of 100 miles per hour in the ensuing chase. He said he contacted Whitfill by radio "about two or three miles east of Friona."

According to Hand's testimony, the pickup passed several vehicles on both sides of the road.

"Officer Whitfill was setting up a roadblock east of Summerfield and was going to attempt to stop the vehicle."

Hand said that Whitfill told him to "back off" when the two vehicles reached Summerfield.

"I watched the vehicle slow down when it got to Officer Whitfill's unit, then it swerved into bar ditch and proceeded east on U.S. 60 until it came to the next crossover."

"I fell back in pursuit of the vehicle, and Officer Whitfill got into his car and he was right behind me. He made the statement that he had just been shot at."

Hand testified that the pickup turned left into a plowed field west of Hereford and the chase continued until both patrol cars became stuck in the mud.

The two officers were picked up by Smith, who then drove his car around a dike which the pickup had jumped over before sustaining a blowout, Hand said.

Hand testified that Whitfill and Smith were using service revolvers and he had a semi-automatic rifle during an exchange of gunfire between the officers and the male suspect who was on foot with the two girls.

"The females had stopped running," Hand said. Whitfill hollered, "Duck, he's shooting at us."

"The male turned around and aimed what appeared to be a rifle in our direction."

Hand testified he fired a total of nine rounds, including three warning shots, in the altercation. He added that he heard a series of rapid-fire shots coming from outside the patrol car.

Tickets are now on sale for the annual banquet, which features Grady Nutt as the principal speaker. The banquet is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 31. Nutt, who currently appears on the television show "Hee Haw," is an ordained minister, professional entertainer, author and recording star.

Another feature of the banquet is the naming of the "Citizen of the Year." Last year's recipient was Mrs. Austin (Helen) Rose. Tickets at $8 each are on sale at the chamber office and both banks.

—While minorities and women are frequently employed in rough equivalence to their percentage of the population, they are almost always confined to low-paying, low-responsibility jobs.

Black civil rights leaders criticized the report Wednesday. Eddie Bernice Johnson, a black former TAC member, said it was incomplete because it focused too much on Mexican-Americans at the expense of blacks and women.

Ms. Johnson, a former state representative, left the TAC when she was named regional director of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. She now holds a top post in the surgeon general's office.

Ms. Johnson said the TAC staff and the regional Civil Rights Commission staff was virtually all Hispanic during the time of the study. At one point, half of the 24 TAC members were Hispanic, she said, adding "That hasn't changed much now."

She said she was outvoted when she attempted to direct the focus of the study more equally to blacks and women.

"I lost interest in the study after that," she said. "I don't think the report is misleading. I think it is just incomplete. There was not a balance of attention."

San Antonio, which is predominantly Mexican-American, was used as the TAC's case study, she noted. Other studies, she added, were centered in cities with large Mexican-American populations, rather than neutral sites she and other black leaders recommended.

wood asked Hand: "You testified that Officer Whitfill had said he was going to stop the car. How do you stop a vehicle?"

"You either knock them off the road or shoot them off the road," Hand responded.

"When he told you to back off, did you know that he was going to be shot off the road?" Easterwood said.

"Yes, I did," Hand said. Easterwood attacked the portion of Hand's testimony concerning the rapid-fire shots outside the patrol car in the field.

"Did you ever hear of or see a weapon that fired rapid-fire shots except in the possession of a police officer?" Easterwood asked.

"No, I didn't," Hand answered.

Whitfill testified that he had set up a roadblock in the crossover between the east-bound and westbound lanes of Highway 60 approximately 5.8 miles west of Hereford.

"We knew we could not afford to let the vehicle into Hereford," Whitfill said.

"When it got within 30 or 40 yards of me, it was very evident that there was a rifle or shotgun sticking out of the driver's side window of the pickup," Whitfill said.

He added that it was his intention to shoot at the pickup's radiator with a 12-gauge shotgun. He said he fired two shots at the pickup.

"Then, I saw a muzzle blast and heard a shot from the rifle or shotgun in the pickup," the highway patrolman told Smith.

Whitfill testified that after the three suspects had fled from the pickup, he, Hand and Smith pursued them in the deputy's car. Several shots were exchanged "and I must have ducked up and down 10 or 15 times," he said.

Whitfill, too, said he heard several rapid-fire shots from outside the patrol car while he was down low inside the car.

The trooper told Easterwood in cross-examination that he later only found one spent shotgun shell in the area of the shootout.

Smith and Bovina service station operator Herman Grisim also testified for the state Wednesday.

Hereford Keeps Panhandle Lead In Community Blood Campaigns

By KERRIE STEIERT
Women's Editor

Despite a slight decline in total donations for 1979, Hereford continues to lead other Panhandle communities in the amount of blood given on a regular monthly basis, according to John Mitchell, public relations director for Coffee Memorial Blood Center in Amarillo.

Mitchell addressed the blood drive committee of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division during a noon luncheon yesterday at K-Bob's Steak House. He was introduced to the group by the committee chairman Pat Clark.

"We couldn't be more pleased with what you're doing here in Hereford from an inventory standpoint," Mitchell stated, praising the dependability of Hereford as a regular supply for blood. "When we want to start a community blood drive somewhere else, we hold up Hereford as an example of what can be done."

Mitchell attributed Hereford's slight drop in blood donations during the past year to the fact that only ten blood drives were staged at the Community center in 1979. He noted that the local donations of blood dropped approximately 100 pints from the 1978 total, but added that this was a negligible amount. The community blood drives netted an average of 56 pints at each drive, which is described as an excellent record for a monthly effort.

Mitchell explained that Coffee Memorial needs at least 60 pints of blood for every day it operates in meeting the blood needs of the Panhandle area. He said that the shelf life of donated blood is limited, making it important to have immediate availability of fresh blood, such as is supplied through the local drives.

In analyzing the success of Hereford's campaign for blood, Mitchell pointed to the essential role played by committee volunteers who issue telephone reminders prior to each blood drive. "Blood centers spent a lot of money trying to find out the main reason why people give blood and it was so simple we almost missed it. But the majority of people who gave blood revealed that their reason was simply because someone asked them to," Mitchell said.

Mitchell stated that a significant increase in blood orders from hospitals in Hereford, Pampa and Borger have been noted by Coffee Memorial during the past year. He explained that financial credit is given to the local hospital each time a person donates blood during a drive here. "Not only is the donor gaining blood insurance and helping an individual patient, but he is supporting the local hospital," he explained.

In answering questions from committee members, Mitchell stated that Coffee Memorial has altered many of its regulations concerning the eligibility of blood donors. Although restrictions concerning weight (must be over 110 lbs.) and a history of hepatitis are still enforced, the age limitation of 66 has been dropped, as have other arbitrary rules. Many times, the eligibility of a donor is up to the discretion of the attending nurse during a blood drive.

"If you haven't had hepatitis, then go ahead and report as a blood donor," Mitchell advised, adding that a final screening at the Community Center will determine if a person can give blood.

At least ten blood drives are planned at the Community Center during the coming year with another campaign to be conducted at the high school in March. The next scheduled drive will be from 3-6 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 23.

Mitchell concluded his program Wednesday by expressing hopes that he could return in 1981 with "the same glowing report that Hereford has earned in the past years."

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Remember back in the '70s when our children used to sit around and watch all that violence on television?

Well, thanks to electronic games, violence on television is a thing of the past. Now the kids are living it firsthand.

Especially if you have two sons who make Cain and Abel look like Donny and Marie Osmond. The whole experience starts off innocently enough. They position themselves on the floor in front of the set and freeze. All that is heard is the beep beep and an occasional ping ping as they sit with their eyes frozen to the set—their bodies poised to strike.

Then a voice. "You push my elbow once more and they'll have to tow you into a body shop!"

"Oh, yeah? I could answer the phone and come back and still beat you. You don't have the coordination to cough and breathe at the same time."

"You should talk. Who couldn't tie his own shoes and had to wear loafers until he was 15?"

"Quit complaining. This is the only game short people can play. You want showing? I'll show you what showing is...."

I told my husband, "Those kids take games too seriously. It's ridiculous. They're supposed to be having a good time, relaxing, but they're not. They're tense, pressured, irritable when they lose and the other day they played a game for four hours under a blanket so they could see the game board light up. Look at them. They look like they've just completed a death march."

"You know how kids are," said my husband. "They're immature. How about you and I playing a game of Sink the Sub?"

I sat down and put the control in my hand. Within minutes, my husband had sunk three of my subs.

He laughed about it. "I don't see anything humorous about three subs being sunk, but I suppose that's the traditional macho, male, militaristic attitude."

"You'd be great in a battle situation," he said. "What are you waiting for? A bellhop to carry your torpedoes?"

"You don't have to be sarcastic," I said. "You're just like your mother. She made fun of that poor woman at the picnic whose white sauce never thickened."

"There you go again," he snapped. "digging up the past. Why can't you remember...this is only a game!"

Oh, sure. That's what they said in Rome when the Christians met the lions.

Valentine Tea, Ball Planned by Council

Plans for the Valentine Tea on Jan. 27 and the Valentine Ball on Feb. 16 were finalized Monday night by the Beta Sigma Phi City Council during their monthly business session in the home of Mary Sledge.

Mrs. Sledge, Council president, called the meeting to order and announced that sweethearts representing the city's sorority chapters will be honored at the Valentine Tea on Jan. 27 from 2-3:30 p.m. in the E.B. Black Historical House.

Council members learned that the annual Valentine Ball on Feb. 16 will feature disco music to be brought by Amarillo disc jockey Dayton Todd. The cost per couple will be $15. This year's ball will be different from those of the past in that no queen will be crowned but all sweethearts will be honored equally. Initial preparations for the area convention, to be held here in October, were discussed with various committees being now formed.

Fifteen council members were in attendance.

Hall-iday Ball Tomorrow

Garbed in flashy Western costume, local residents will show their support for the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame tomorrow evening by attending the first "Hall-iday Benefit Ball" in the Knights of Columbus hall. The event will commence at 8 p.m. and last until midnight.

Theme of the gala event will be "Rhinestone Roundup" with sequins, satin and sparkle setting the stage for the premier benefit ball. With the hall appropriately festooned in glittering decor, it is hoped that guests will complete the mood by attending in "Western chic" attire. As a further incentive, cash prizes of $25 each will go to the best-dressed "Rhinestone Cowboy" and "Rhinestone Cowgirl."

The dance will be kicked off with the Western dance tradition—the Grand March. The evening will feature several specialty dances such as Ladies' Choice, Virginia Reel, Tag, and others.

"The Caisons," a local talent, will provide dance music for the evening with Sandy Caison Marsh, Pat Hill and Margaret Formby.

Walden performing as vocalist, Dee Anne Caison as organist and Rodney Caison as drummer. Hors d'oeuvres and drinks will be served to complete the evening's entertainment.

Several Western paintings and bronze sculptures will be displayed during the Hall-iday Ball with written bids to be accepted in a silent auction. Among the artists who have donated works for the auction are Dr. Clarence Kincaid, Kenneth Wyatt and Keith Avery.

Couples who have not yet purchased their tickets to the ball may do so by contacting Patsy Patrick at 364-6893, Cissy Wagner at 364-6475 or the Hall of Fame, 364-5252. Tickets are priced at $15 each, a fee which is tax-deductible and will go toward the operating expenses of the Hall of Fame and Western Heritage.

The Hall-iday Ball is under the direction of a steering committee composed of Jeanette Case, Roberta Caviness, Ruth Newsom, Sunny Lemons, Patsy McGinty, Angel Stubblefield, Betty Rudder, Thelma

Bro. Clyde Rill To Speak Here

The Hereford Texas Chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship invites the public to attend a buffet supper at 7 p.m. in the Hereford High School cafeteria Saturday. The routine business meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

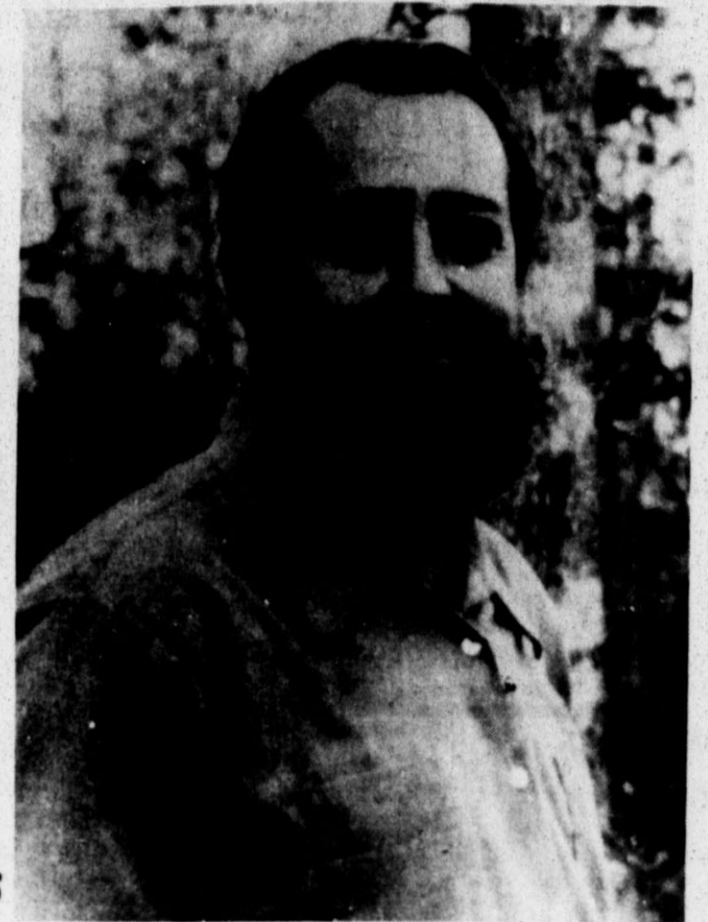

Their January speaker will be Brother Clyde Rill from Dogpatch, Ark.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Rill moved to Arkansas in 1962, where he now resides with his wife, France and family in the heart of the Ozarks, near Harrison, Ark.

Rill is a contractor and land developer in the Ozarks, and is a Field Representative for FGB-MFI. He has traveled extensively in Europe and the United States ministering. He also ministered at the Amarillo Rally last September.

God's Patch, Inc., a non-profit family Christian Corp., established by Rill, has been given the option to buy Dogpatch, USA, a vacation complex. Rill and his wife have a plan for transforming Dogpatch, USA, from a secular comic strip atmosphere to a Biblical theme surrounding a Christ-centered family recreational center.

La Plata Study Club Learns Genealogy Tips

Mozelle Neill, program chairman for La Plata Study club introduced Nell Norvell who gave a program entitled "Lookin' Back" about genealogy Tuesday evening in the home of Kay Cotten.

Mrs. Norvell encouraged members to consider drafting a family tree. She asked, "Are your ancestors as important as pets with pedigrees?" She suggested to members that they mix history with facts to make their family records come alive, and to always get the name, date born, date married and date died, and the places all these events occurred.

Mrs. Norvell explained that the Genealogy Society meets the first Thursday of each month at the library and that anyone interested is welcomed to attend.

Lavon Nieman, club president, conducted the business meeting. She extended a welcome to the club's new member, Sarah Hazelrigg.

A budget report was presented by Susie Mannschreck, treasurer. The budget included donation to Camp Fire girls, Friends of the Library, Wycliffe Bible, Heart Fund, Cancer Fund, March of Dimes, United Way and the Christmas Lighting Fund.

A resignation was submitted to the club by Ruth Farris due to her family moving to Amarillo. The club then voted to ask Carolyn Johnson as a new member.

Members discussed changing their meeting time to the third Tuesday of each month instead of the first. This will be voted on at their next meeting Feb. 5 at 7 p.m. in the home of Virginia Woodford.

Those present were Mary Helen Askew, Kay Cotten, Gloria Brown, Audine Dettman, Ruth Farris, Jean Kelley, Susie Mannschreck, Dolores McCushtian, Mozelle Neill, Lavon Nieman, Dorothea Prowell, Lucy Rogers, Margaret Schroeter, Rosemary Shook, Betty Taylor, Donna VanderZee, Avis White and Virginia Woodford.

Mrs. Owen Honored By Veleda Members

Members of Veleda Study Club extended their farewells to a charter member, Ruth Owen, who is moving from Hereford, during a business meeting Monday evening in the home of Arvella Lauderback.

Brass candlesticks were presented to Mrs. Owen on behalf of the club.

Norma Walden, club president, conducted a routine business session.

Members answered roll call by responding to the question "How have you changed with the times?" This served as an introduction to the program, presented by the Rev. Doug Manning, pastor of First Baptist church, who discussed the changes in a person's life. He also delved into the process of coping with personal grief.

Members in attendance were Marcella Brady, Juanita Brown, Janice Brownlow, Frances Crume, Darlene Fields, Betty Gilbert, Mrs. Lauderback, Betty Olson, Mrs. Owen, Jean Ruther, DeAnn Sisson, Retha Tucker, Mrs. Walden, Carolyn Waters and Margaret Zinsner.

Funds Continue For Teenagers

Donations are still being accepted at both local banks on behalf of Eugenia Combs, 17, and Chip Combs, 15, children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gene Combs. The funds have been established to help with the living expenses and educational needs of the two teenagers, whose father died recently.

Appreciation Banquet

To Honor Scout Leaders

The Annual Tierra Blanca District Appreciation Banquet for the Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer Leaders will be staged this evening at the Community Center beginning promptly at 7:30 p.m.

A special invitation to parents of Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts has been extended as an opportunity to show appreciation to unit leaders. The public is welcome to attend the potluck dinner at a cost of 75 cents per person with each asked to bring a vegetable or meat dish. Beverages will be provided. Dress for the evening will be casual/formal.

The Appreciation Banquet is an annual event which provides the opportunity for the District, Council and Scouts' parents to recognize the leaders for their dedication and leadership to the Scouting program. Each Scouting unit is asked to bring a centerpiece for their table at this evening's banquet. Each unit flat and stand must be brought to the Community Center for display at 7:15 p.m. Further details can be provided by Dave Cortez, District Executive, at 364-1965.

Stanton Dogie Roundup

Stanton students who have been working towards honors in the Spelling Bee include six 7th graders and seven 8th graders. Mrs. Claypool, the Bee sponsor, began the eliminations last week. Those who participated in the first elimination were Alfred Cano, Chad Fitzgerald, Melanie Ivey, Kim Claypool, Buffy Huckert, Randy Villarreal, Steve Graham, Juan Gamez, Scott Klimek, Alan Morris, Chris Crowley, Minnie Morales and Emily Gomez. Those in the final elimination are Melanie Ivey, Kim Claypool, Buffy Huckert, Randy Villarreal, and Juan Gamez. All students who participated and studied for the Bee are to be commended. This takes many hours of study and each person will benefit from the experience.

Report cards for the third six-week period will be handed out today.

After suffering losses by all the basketball teams except the eighth grade boys' team, all six teams will be back fighting for wins today. The boys' teams will be meeting Plainview Red here while the girls' teams travel to Plainview to meet their Red team.

Argen Draper Cited For Work in PEP

The Family Living Youth Task Force of the Panhandle Economic Program has recognized Mrs. Argen Draper and Leo Forrest for outstanding leadership. They received special plaques expressing appreciation for the work they have done since PEP began in 1966.

Forrest was the first chairman of the PEP program and under his leadership, task forces were appointed to work in five areas. One area was family living and youth. Forrest is presently serving as chairman of that task force.

Recently at the Annual Meeting the task force also elected Mrs. Draper to serve as vice-chairman for 1980. Mrs. Draper gave leadership to writing the Family Living Section of the PEP Handbook, which is the Long Range Program.

The task force has sponsored eight seminars on the following subjects. John Gilliland and a team from Hereford received special recognition for a special program at the Handling Medical Emergencies Seminar in 1979. Joyce Shipp, former Extension Agent in Deaf Smith County, coordinated this part of the seminar. She served on the task force.

Past seminar topics have included:

- 1979 - Handling Medical Emergencies Seminar
- 1978 - Living In An Energy Conscious World Seminar
- 1977 - Communications - The Life Line of Family Life Seminar
- 1976 - Healthy Minds, Healthy Bodies Seminar
- 1975 - Arthritis Seminar
- 1974 - Cancer Seminar
- 1973 - Healthy Heart Seminar
- 1972 - Family Financing Seminar

The topic for the 1980 seminar scheduled for April 29 is "Refueling In Middle Age." It will be held at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center. The program is open to anyone regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

IN WASHINGTON

Donald F. Graff

A matter of opinion

There are some people who don't have to be told anything twice, and there are others who ought to be. They are the millions of Americans who undergo non-emergency surgery every year, too many of whom may be doing so without first getting a second opinion as to the necessity of an operation.

It's not that a second professional evaluation of an individual's medical condition is difficult to obtain. It's simply that most prospective surgical patients aren't informed as to the advisability of further consultation or don't bother to seek it.

In an effort to remedy that situation, the federal Home Care Financing Administration is launching a nationwide campaign to alert the public to the importance of second opinions and how to go about getting same.

The goal, of course, is to reduce unnecessary surgery, which evidence suggests accounts for a sizable and costly proportion of the more than 20 million operations performed annually on in-patients in U.S. hospitals.

In a three-year New York demonstration project begun in 1978, second opinions are available without charge to more than a million Medicare beneficiaries in 17 counties of the metropolitan New York City area. First-year results showed that for a total 1,464 patients recommended for surgery, the need was not confirmed by consulting physicians in 31 percent of the cases.

A Michigan project covering some 365,000 individuals produced similar results. Both projects are joint undertakings of the Health Care Financing Administration, which administers Medicare and Medicaid, and local Blue Cross Blue Shield organizations.

Medicare at present pays for second opinions on a nationwide basis while Medicaid covers charges in most states.

The campaign, making heavy use of radio and television spot announcements, stresses the ease of obtaining second opinions. To start with, patients are urged to discuss the situation frankly with their own physicians.

And if it is necessary to turn elsewhere for guidance on physicians willing to give second opinions, it is available via a toll-free hotline.

The number is 1 (800) 638-6833, except in Maryland where it is 1 (800) 492-6603.

A call could be well worth it. There is nothing to lose and possibly much to gain.

When value takes flight

It's not that Americans don't get around much anymore, but that non-Americans are getting around much, much more—particularly to the United States.

With the result that 1980 is likely to be the first year in which foreign visitors to the country will outnumber Americans going abroad via air transportation.

This estimate is based on preliminary figures being processed by the Department of Transportation indicating that the division in 1979 between Americans traveling abroad and foreigners flying to the United States was just about even, confirming an accelerating shift in the U.S.-international air travel market. As recently as February 1978, Americans accounted for 61 percent of the passenger total.

Americans are not suddenly becoming homebodies; the foreign air travelers among us increased by 4 percent during the first nine months of 1979, the latest period for which complete statistics are available. But wanderlust is becoming epidemic among non-Americans; foreign arrivals in the United States increased 28 percent during the same period.

This is being read in part as an indication of the success of American efforts to promote international air competition and the United States as a place to visit.

It is probably even more a consequence of the decline of the dollar, which makes its homeland an increasingly inexpensive destination for citizens of hard-currency nations.

Success may be sweet, but the price at times can be painfully high.

Ann Landers

Yale "Boys"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why does a liberal, fair-minded person of your reputation constantly malign one simple minority group? As gentleman and scholar, I take issue with your repeated references to the young men at Yale as Yale "boys." They may be pranksters, but they are not "boys."

Today's Yale student already suffers more than he can endure in the way of expense (almost $10,000 a year), intense social and academic pressures and shrinking opportunities after graduation. Yale students are forced to grow up pretty fast. Please don't add insult to injury by referring to these troubled young adults as "boys."

I might add that male alumni were always referred to as Yale men in our day. You wouldn't call Senator William Proxmire a "boy," would you? You might call him a hard-headed loony, a skunk, or a pussycat—but never

a "boy." A Yale Man in New York

DEAR NEW YORK: I would not call Senator Proxmire a hard-headed loony or a skunk. Actually, he is something of a pussycat, a strange paradox since he also serves as a watchdog or the taxpayer's dollar. Would I call him a "boy?" Well, maybe. He does have a boyish grin.

Hundreds of Yalies have written to me, but you are the first to hit me with this number. I'd appreciate it if you'd get off my case until I have a chance to talk to these students in person. I'll be speaking on the Yale campus again this spring and promise to report back.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter might sound peculiar but it is a serious problem and I don't know who else to ask.

My husband's sister doesn't have a car, so we drive her wherever she wants to go. She insists on filling up the gas tank every few days—which is more than some people do. No complaint there.

The problem is she weighs at least 450 pounds. Whenever the woman gets into the car, I wonder if the seat is going to collapse. After all, automobiles were built to hold people, not Sherman tanks.

We pay good money for our cars, and we don't want to abuse them. Should we come right out and tell her we are concerned, or would it be best to make up some excuse when she calls?—Lost For Words

DEAR LOST: Apparently your sister-in-law has been a frequent passenger in your car, and she hasn't fallen through the floorboards yet. Most cars are sturdy enough to haul extremely obese passengers. I wouldn't worry.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a problem that is extremely confidential. Before I pour out my heart to you, I would like to know what do you do with letters from readers after they've been answered through the mail or printed in the newspapers? Please reply.—Need To Know In Camden, N.J.

DEAR NEED TO KNOW: All my mail is shredded as soon as it is answered. The letters with no names and addresses (these, of course, cannot be answered) are also destroyed.

CONFIDENTIAL to What Do I Say Now?: How about, "Goodbye?" This free-loading female has taken you for at least $15,000, if my calculator is accurate. Wake up and smell the coffee, sucker.

Are drugs OK if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (28 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Board Members Review Events

The board of directors of the American Heart Association met recently in regular monthly session at the E.B. Black House for a report of upcoming events. Seat Russell presided.

Janie Matthews, R.N. reported that 235 people were screened at the blood pressure clinic held recently at Sugarland Mall.

Special events chairman, Judy Detton, reported that the recent turkey walk netted $852.55, with only 11 walkers participating.

The annual Heart Ball was postponed until spring due to remodeling at the Hereford Country Club announced members of the board.

It was also announced that a second annual teen dance is scheduled for Feb. 16 at the Community Center to benefit AHA. All junior and senior students are invited.

L'Allegria Study Club will sponsor a bridge tournament Feb. 18. The cost of this event will be $3 per player.

The Heart Drive goal this year has been set at $15,000. Heart Sunday has been set for Feb. 10.

Chairman for this year include Charlie Bell, Heart Fund chairman; the Boyd Fosters and Joe Arthos, Heart home chairman; John Stribling, rural chairman; Thelma Lamm, memorial chairman; and Judy Detton, special events chairman.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I am submitting the following, taken from a church bulletin, for consideration by your readers:

The Bible has a word of peace for the time of peril, a word of consolation for the day of calamity, a word of comfort for the hour of darkness. Its oracles are repeated in the assembly of the people, and its counsels are whispered in the ears of the lonely at its warnings. To the wounded and penitent, it has a mother's voice. The wilderness and the solitary pace have been made glad by it, and the fires of the hearth have lighted the readings of its well-worn pages. It has woven itself into our deepest affections, sympathy and devotion. Memory and hope put on the beautiful garments of its treasured speech, breathing of frankincense and myrrh.

Above the cradle and beside the grave its great words come to us uncalled. They fill our prayers with power larger than we know, and the beauty of them lingers in our ears long after the sermons they have adorned have been forgotten. They return to us swiftly and quietly, like birds flying from far away, like springs of water breathing forth from the mountain beside a long-forgotten path. No man is poor or desolate who has this treasure for his own. When the landscape darkens and the trembling pilgrim comes to the valley of shadow of death, he is not afraid to enter. He takes the rod and the staff of the scripture in his hand. He says to friend and comrade, "Goodbye, we shall meet again!" Comforted by that support, he goes toward the lonely pass as one who climbs through the darkness into light.

Sincerely,
Cora Johnson

SCANDIA PUDDING
Honey and satisfying.
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup quick-cooking oats
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1-3rd cup butter
1/2 cup toasted slivered blanched almonds
2 cups sweetened thick applesauce (homemade or canned)
1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
Grated rind of 1 lemon
2 large eggs
1 cup heavy cream

Stir together flour, oats and sugar; cut in butter until particles are fine; stir in almonds. Stir together applesauce, cardamom and lemon rind. Beat eggs and cream just until blended. In a well-buttered 1 1/2 quart round casserole (7 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) alternate 3 layers of the crumbs with 2 layers of the applesauce. Pour cream mixture over top; with a fork, pierce top to allow mixture to soak into the layers. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden brown and set — 45 to 50 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Planning Extravaganza

Members of the Hereford Art Guild planning committee met Friday afternoon in the home of Eunice Petersen for a discussion of their upcoming Arts & Crafts Extravaganza scheduled tentatively for March 22-23 in the Community Center. A fee of $15 will be charged for booth space and any interested local artists are asked to have reservations made by March 15 by contacting any

2 hard-boiled eggs, peeled
Large bunch fresh parsley
8 fillets anchovies
1 small onion, peeled
2 pieces whole red pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped garlic
1 1/2 tablespoons medium-sized capers
Freshly ground black pepper
1/2 cup red wine vinegar

Put eggs, parsley, anchovies, onion and pimiento through grinder; then mix ingredients well in deep bowl, adding garlic, capers and pepper to taste. (This recipe needs no salt.) Still mixing, add oil and vinegar. Taste. Sauce must have distinctive vinaigrette flavor; if it seems too mild, add more vinegar. Serve on the side with hot vegetables. Yield: approximately 2 cups.

Man's Dead Wives Prompt Sheriff Investigation

WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Before she died, Edward James Huggins' sixth wife said she had been shot by her husband. Now the county sheriff is reopening his investigation of the unsolved shotgun slaying of the man's fourth wife and the drug overdose death of the fifth. District Court Judge John Kilby on Wednesday ordered Huggins, 48, to stand trial for murder in the shooting death of his sixth wife, 38-year-old Rose

Lynn Williams Huggins. Huggins was divorced from his first three wives, but his last three wives died and Wilkes County Sheriff Kyle Gentry says he is investigating. Rose Lynn Huggins was shot in the chest with a pistol at the couple's mobile home last month. She died a short time later at Wilkes General Hospital after telling investigators that she had been shot by her husband, authorities said. Huggins was first married in 1955, when he was 21, to Arlene Lola Wilke of Taylorsville. She divorced him, remarried and moved to Ohio, according to relatives. Sylvia H. Adams, a divorcee with three children, eloped to South Carolina with Huggins in 1964. They lived together for two weeks before Huggins left, she said in her 1968 request for a divorce. In 1969, Huggins was married for six months to Pansy Elizabeth Bare of Ashe County. She asked that her divorce papers be served on Huggins in prison. Huggins was often in prison. He has served 13 alcohol-related prison terms in the past two dozen years. Late in June 1978, a man walking along a Brushy Mountain path found the decomposing body of Blanche Huggins in the dense undergrowth. Huggins told detectives he and Blanche had gone for a drive to a scenic overlook on the mountain near their mobile home where they drank for a while. He fell asleep, he said. When he awakened, his wife was gone. She had been shot in the head with a shotgun. No weapon was found, and no one was ever charged in the slaying. About five months after Blanche's death, Huggins married Eva Marie Nichols Whittington and moved to the northern part of the county. On Jan. 2, 1979, Marie Huggins died of a drug overdose after consuming between 20 and 30 Darvon capsules, according to the North Carolina state Chief Medical Examiner Page Hudson. The death was ruled suicide. "I don't believe you could force an adult to take that many capsules involuntarily," Hudson said. Several months after Marie died, Huggins started seeing Rose Lynn Williams, a 38-year-old native of Chester, S.C. On Dec. 30, an ambulance was called to the Huggins' trailer in the Pores Knob community of southern Wilkes County. Huggins told the deputies that his wife had tried to commit suicide. Rose Huggins was lying in the front yard of the mobile home with two 9-millimeter shells in her chest. But she was still partially conscious. "The ambulance driver asked her what happened to her, and she said, 'Ed Huggins shot me,'" Gentry said. She lived a little more than an hour and gave her statements to detectives.

Suspect May Be Connected to 18 Silver Burglaries

HIGHLAND PARK, Texas (AP) — A man who made headlines for two decades in Ohio as "The Silver Burglar" is now making ripples in Texas. Kermit Francis Gabel Jr. is accused of stealing three valuable cases of silverware from a home in this exclusive Dallas suburb last week. And now that police have learned of his penchant in the past for stealing silver, they're questioning him about 18 burglaries here in the past 18 months in which $200,000 in silverware has been taken. The father of three was arrested last Thursday night as he jumped from the upper branches of a tree outside a Highland Park residence. A resident called police and said he found several sets of silverware and a silver coffee service when he went downstairs to investigate suspicious noises. Dressed in Army fatigues, combat boots and a baseball cap, Gabel carried no identification, and he was charged only with breaking into a home and stealing three valuable cases of silverware. Then, Highland Park police learned he had been arrested 14 times since 1956 in connection with silver and jewelry burglaries in swank neighborhoods near Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio. Gabel made $25,000 bond from the Dallas County Jail Tuesday but by 2:40 a.m. Wednesday he was back in custody again. Police chased a man they saw running near some houses and, minutes later, found Gabel hiding under a tree between two houses. It was less than two blocks from where he was picked up last week. This time, police filed a habitual criminal charge against Gabel, which carries a life prison sentence. He was arraigned Wednesday and bond set at $200,000. "We call him the silver burglar" because he allegedly steals silver and melts it down, said Harry Eidan, a detective in the Cleveland suburb of Shaker Heights. Gabel has served a half dozen jail sentences since 1955 for burglary, grand larceny, arson, mail fraud and possession of burglary tools, Ohio officials said. Gabel currently is awaiting trial in Cleveland on two counts of aggravated burglary and two counts of possession of criminal tools, Eidan said.

"He's served about 20 years in jail, off and on," and has a "lengthy record dating back to the 1950s," Eidan said. First sentenced to state prison in Marion, Ohio, for burglary in 1956, Gabel was paroled in 1959, and returned for a parole violation in 1961. He left Marion in 1963, but was back again eight months later because, he told the judge in the case, he "just couldn't resist the urge to steal." Until last week, it had almost a year since Gabel was arrested. That arrest followed a rash of about 40 burglaries in the Shaker Heights area, but the only charges pending against Gabel are the aggravated burglary and criminal tool possession charges. However, Eidan said, "after the arrest, the burglaries stopped."

Maryland Nets Top Scoring Spot

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
The Atlantic Coast Conference has five of its eight teams in the Top Twenty but Maryland, which isn't one of them, is No. 1 where it counts...in the conference standings.

The Terrapins made it to the top of the standings Wednesday night by edging No. 17 Clemson 84-83 on Greg Manning's short driving one-hander with three seconds to play. A desperation shot by Clemson's Billy Williams went in but came after the final buzzer.

"Manning was one of several options on that play," Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell explained. "There were a lot of things we could do, but when he comes off a pick, we can give it to him. He beat Duke on the same play last year."

Wake Forest almost beat

Duke Wednesday night but the fifth-ranked Blue Devils held on to nip the Demon Deacons 67-66 behind Mike Gminski's 27 points. In another nip-and-tuck ACC game, ninth-ranked North Carolina ended No. 16 North Carolina State's 11-game winning streak 67-64. Another ACC member, 12th-ranked Virginia, clobbered Penn 69-39 in a non-league contest.

In other games involving

North Carolina came from 16 points behind in the first half to nose out N.C. State. Al Wood led the way with 15 points, Mike O'Koren had 14, James Worthy 13 and Dave Colescott 10 to offset a 28-point effort by members of The Associated Press Top Twenty. 10th-ranked St. John's turned back Boston College 66-63, No. 13 Missouri trounced Iowa State 85-70 and No. 14 Louisiana State trimmed Auburn 93-82.

Clemson, 11-3, had taken an 83-82 lead over Maryland on Chris Dodds' basket with 27 seconds remaining. Manning's game-winning shot boosted Maryland's record to 12-2. Albert King led the Terps with 26 points while Manning and Ernest Graham had 19 apiece. Williams scored 28 for the losers.

first half but Carolina closed the gap with 14 unanswered points.

Lee Raker returned to the Virginia lineup for the first time since a Dec. 29 injury and scored 12 of his 14 points in a 22-4 second-half surge against Penn. The burst began with 14:43 left and the Cavaliers ahead by eight points. Virginia's Jeff Lamp led all scorers with 19 points while 7-foot-4 freshman Ralph Sampson had 10 points, grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked four shots.

Reggie Carter's 23 points helped St. John's defeat Boston College for the second time this season and boost its record to 13-1.

Missouri freshman Steve Stipanovich scored 16 of his 18 points in the second half as the Tigers pulled away from a two-point halftime margin to win a Big Eight contest from Iowa State. The 6-11 Stipanovich also held Dean Uthoff, Iowa State's all-conference center, to eight points.

In the Southeastern Conference, Rudy Macklin scored 26 points and pulled down 22 rebounds as LSU rebounded from a pair of one-point setbacks and whipped Auburn. The winners opened a 15-point spread in the first half and eventually led by as many as 24.

Lombardi Award Dinner Honors Football Players

By MICHAEL A. LUTY
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The legend and philosophy of Vince Lombardi apparently knew no bounds, flourishing in the 1970s in such diverse locations as Freer, Texas; Hinckley, Ohio and Natchez, Miss.

"Back when I was growing up, as little information as we got in a small town, I read Vince Lombardi's book," said Texas defensive tackle Steve McMichael, a Freer native and one of four finalists for tonight's presentation of the 10th annual Vince Lombardi Award.

"I decided that's the way to win so I've tried to pattern my football career around his philosophies. So winning this award would just be the epitome of what I've tried to achieve."

Memories of the former Green Bay and Washington coach who died of cancer in 1970 will be rekindled tonight at the 10th annual Lombardi Award dinner, a $125 per plate affair to name the nation's outstanding collegiate lineman of 1979.

Proceeds from the dinner go to the American Cancer Society for research.

Other finalists are North Carolina State's Jim Ritcher, Hinckley, Ohio; Pittsburgh's Hugh Green, Natchez, Miss., and Southern California's Brad Budde.

Ritcher, who earlier won the Outland Trophy as the nation's outstanding interior lineman, also recalled Lombardi's influence on his career.

"The main thing he's known for is discipline and that's sort of what I think about," Ritcher said. "I've always respected people with a lot of discipline so that's why it would mean a lot to me to win it."

Green, the lone junior among the four finalists, said Lombardi's philosophies pervade southern football.

"I've read his different philosophies and I think any player that grows up in the deep south, grows up by those theories," Green said.

All four finalists were first or second team Associated Press

All-American selections last season.

Budde, 6-5, 253, was a first team All-America offensive guard, who led USC sbeeps for Heisman Trophy winner Charles White, the nation's leading rusher. Green, 6-1, 224, a first team All-American defensive end, led Pittsburgh in tackles with 126.

McMichael, a first team All-America defensive tackle, led the Longhorn defense with 133 tackles and nine quarterback sacks. Ritcher, a 6-3, 245 center, played in the Hula Bowl and Japan Bowl earlier this month.

Six of the previous nine Lombardi Award winners also won Outland Trophies. Penn State's Bruce Clark won the Lombardi Award last year.

Ranger's Dave Maloney Relaxes After Win

By The Associated Press
New York Rangers defenseman Dave Maloney, relaxing after a 4-1 National Hockey League victory over the Winnipeg Jets, found time for some philosophy.

"I always say there are eight or 10 outstanding players on a good team, but it's what is done by the other eight or 10 — the ones you never hear of — that makes the difference," he said.

The Rangers beat the Jets Wednesday night largely because they have that reserve of talent on which to draw, while the Jets — enduring the expected growing pains of their first NHL campaign — do not.

"It's just a lack of depth," said General Manager John Ferguson, who was GM with the Rangers until Fred Shero took over. "We're trying to make do with eight or nine rookies in the lineup. The team that played tonight, only three guys had played in the NHL before."

The three were right wing Hilliard Graves, center Jude linemate Pierre Larouche had a goal and three assists to power Montreal past Chicago and give the Canadians their fifth consecutive triumph.

North Stars 7, Blues 3

Tom Youngmans, Craig Hartshorn and Al MacAdam scored two goals each to carry the North Stars past the Blues and help Minnesota avenge a 2-1 defeat at St. Louis Tuesday night.

Oilers 5, Capitals 2

Ron Chipperfield, Wayne Gretzky and Stan Weir scored second-period goals to give Edmonton its victory over Washington and its first road triumph since Dec. 28. The victory was only the Oilers' third in 20 road games.

Penguins 6, Maple Leafs 4

Mario Faubert's power play goal at 7:11 of the third period tied the score 4-4 and Peter Lee added the game-winner with 3:29 remaining to help Pittsburgh offset three goals by Toronto's Darryl Sittler and record its comeback triumph. Each of Sittler's goals came on power plays.

Red Wings 5, Rockies 1

Pete Mahovich scored two goals and set up a third as Detroit defeated Colorado and extend the Rockies' road winless streak to seven games. Lucien DeBlois scored a third-period goal for Colorado, which has only one victory — at Detroit two weeks ago — in its last 11 road games.

Bruins 3, Nordiques 1

Terry O'Reilly scored just 12 seconds after the opening faceoff and Quebec-born Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert stifled the Nordiques as the Bruins beat Quebec.

The Nordiques are playing without two of their top five scorers, Marc Tardif and Serge Bernier, both of whom have knee injuries. Tardif will be out at least two weeks while Bernier, who underwent surgery Wednesday, will be out at least two months.

Flames 5, Canucks 3

Kent Nilsson's second goal of the game, a power play tally 38 seconds into the third period, snapped a tie and carried Atlanta to victory. Rookie Flames netminder Pat Riggin made 46 saves to help hand Vancouver its sixth successive loss.

Droutin and defenseman Al Cameron. Otherwise, the Jets were simply outmanned.

Beyond that, the Jets lost three of their top scorers in the expansion process when center Kent Nilsson (107 points last season) was taken by the Atlanta Flames and center Terry Ruskowski (86 points) and left wing Rich Preston (60 points) went to Chicago.

In the other NHL games, Buffalo trimmed Los Angeles 4-2, Montreal downed Chicago 6-1, Minnesota bombed St. Louis 7-3, Edmonton topped Washington 5-2, Pittsburgh bested Toronto 6-4, Detroit downed Colorado 5-1, Boston beat Quebec 3-1 and Atlanta beat Vancouver 5-3.

Sabres 4, Kings 2

Rick Dudley scored two goals, including the game-winner at 5:53 of the third period, to help Buffalo snap the Kings' seven-game home winning streak.

Canadians 6, Black Hawks 1

Guy Lafleur scored twice and

Olympic Runner Trains

BOSTON (AP) — Premier marathoner Bill Rodgers is off for an intensive training program in Arizona, not sure whether he and other U.S. athletes will be participating in the Olympic Games in Moscow this year.

"It'd be good to make a decision sooner or later and quit playing with peoples' minds," Rodgers said Wednesday. "Not only the minds of the athletes, but the minds of the American people. Every day it's a new thing. My mind is bogged. I don't know what to think."

Rodgers had said he might not honor any possible boycott of the Olympics by the U.S. government, prompted by the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. But now says he'll do what the American Olympic teams do.

"I've always felt that politics and athletics don't mix," he said as he departed for the Phoenix area. "but if you can't compete, you can't compete...I'm going to keep on training and if we don't compete in the Olympics, I'll run the Boston Marathon."

Since the U.S. Olympic marathon trials are set for May 24 in Buffalo, most top U.S. marathoners are skipping the Boston Marathon held in April.

Rodgers, of Melrose, Mass., says that although there are reports that a majority of Americans feel the Olympics should be boycotted, and that President Carter is leaning toward a boycott, he believes the American team will be in Moscow this summer.

Nets Get Third Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Newlin can't explain the New Jersey Nets' dominance of the Houston Rockets, but said "we'll take anything we can get" after the Nets' 122-112 win over Houston Wednesday night.

It was the Nets' third win in four meetings this year with Houston, and Newlin dumped in 30 points — 14 in the fourth quarter — to snap a five-game Rocket winning streak.

The Nets led 62-53 at halftime, then Houston rallied in the third quarter to take a 90-89 lead as the quarter ended.

But the Nets took off at the start of the final quarter, outscoring the Rockets 17-8 in the first six minutes to move back into a comfortable 106-98 lead.

And the Nets not only outshot the Rockets, they out-rebounded them by a 17-7 margin, despite Houston center Moses Malone, who pulled down a game-high 19 rebounds and led all scorers with 31 points.

"We didn't have top effort," said Houston coach Del Harris. "Coming in, I thought we would play well. We had won five in a row and had a good practice Tuesday."

Harris said the Rockets "threw everything" at Newlin in an effort to slow him down, but nothing worked.

Marine's Kin Still Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) - The family of a dead Marine recruit from Texas has taken to the Supreme Court its bid to recover millions of dollars in damages.

Lynn McClure - whose family contends he was mentally retarded and should never have been recruited - was knocked out Dec. 6, 1975, during a succession of pugil stick bouts at a San Diego training center.

The 20-year-old recruit from Lufkin died three months later at a Houston veterans hospital.

McClure's family filed a federal court suit in California seeking $14 million for wrongful death and personal injury from the U.S. government and other defendants.

U.S. District Judge William Enright dismissed the suit in 1977, referring to a previous U.S. Supreme Court ruling that servicemen cannot sue the government for injuries suffered during active duty.

Last September, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Enright's decision.

"The problem is we can never get to try the case because it's always dismissed summarily," Myron Cohn, the attorney for McClure's family, said in a telephone interview Wednesday. "It's a very, very tough case."

Wichita Falls Jailer Suspended from Duty

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - A city jailer and a jail information officer have been suspended from duty and accused of accepting favors from employees of a bonding company in return for referring clients to them.

Charges of accepting bribes were filed late Wednesday afternoon against jailer Robert Hines and first-shift information officer Katie Collier.

Hines and Ms. Collier, a 27-year-veteran of the Wichita Falls Police Department, were released on $1,500 bond each.

A bail bondsman was arrested Wednesday, and a warrant was issued for another employee of the same company, but neither had been charged by late Wednesday.

Three other jailers were questioned, police said.

Police Chief Curtis Harrelson said the arrests culminated a 2-year investigation that began after attorneys, bonding companies and citizens complained one bonding company was getting an edge on its competitors by receiving restricted information on inmates.

Competitors complained the company was soliciting business from prisoners at the city jail without being called by the prisoners or members of their families.

According to the charge, Hines - a jailer for 17 months - accepted lizard skin cowboy boots from an employee of the bonding company last Oct. 10. He accepted smoked turkeys from the employee the previous two years, the charge said.

Hines in turn gave the employee information about persons in the jail needing bonds, the charge alleges. Ms. Collier's part in the alleged transactions was not specified.

The chief asked that the Civil Service Commission suspend Ms. Collier.

The U.N. General Assembly has six official languages - Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish.

Youngster Sought By Frantic Parent

DALLAS (AP) - Jamie Fernando Ponce de Leon, fearing his 6-year-old daughter soon may be adopted by a Dallas family, has begun a frantic search to locate the little girl who was taken by his ex-wife and probably abandoned in this area.

The child, Mary Rosana Ponce de Leon, has been involved in a see-saw custody battle since her parents were divorced in 1975, according to New Orleans police.

Ron Cannatella, a New Orleans-child abuse investigator, said Mary was taken by her mother, Linda Faye Chammiss, in August and police believe she was abandoned here before her mother left town.

"She may have just abandoned her little girl near Dallas and the family that took her in believes they have an orphan," he said. "They probably do not realize the child has a father who desperately wants his child back."

Ponce de Leon says he is frantically trying to locate the family before the adoption is finalized.

"We don't want to lose her," he said. "We all loved her very Why Afghanistan?

Is this in Afghanistan yet another "religious war?" By now you know that Soviet Russia sent 100,000 troops to Afghanistan, figuring that would be enough. It was not. They are experienced winter fighters, determined to crush all resistance before spring. Yet in several sectors they have been stopped by Moslem mountain fighters headquartered across the border in Pakistan. The Afghan night fighters have some guns but they prefer meat cleavers. It is bitter cold in Afghanistan right now. A lot of bodies lie unburied on the frozen ground. In the wake of the fighting the sink of war. And any dogface who did up-front time in Korea or Nam will smell that smell for the rest of his life. And there are other obvious similarities between this war and those.

I can't know, but I'm thinking that Soviet President Brezhnev, old and sick--and Soviet Prime Minister Kosygin, old and sick--that they may have had little or nothing to do with this misadventure. It sounds more like something Gromyko and Ustinov would cook up. Official Washington has sent a warning to Russia not to move its military forces beyond Afghanistan--implying that we are prepared to stop them if they try. On the White House-Kremlin hotline, Brezhnev has said that Russian troops will be withdrawn "only after they have completed their work"--whatever that means. Most Western observers have assumed that Russia is in Afghanistan as a first step to further conquest of the oil-rich Middle East. That could be. But Soviet communism is threatened by any other religion.

Oh, yes, communism is a godless religion, to be sure, but a religion, nonetheless. Thus Soviet communism is careful to limit freedom for any other religions inside the Soviet Union. But the religion of Islam--in Iran and in Afghanistan--has been spilling across those borders into the Soviet Union. And this thrust may be primarily intended to contain that. Before young Americans are asked to go to war, they deserve to know what for. If it is to protect Mideast oil supplies, it would be a lot cheaper to spend the same money accelerating the development of substitutes for oil. If it is to make the area safe for Moslems our sons deserve better than to be sent into the crossfire of a religious war. If it is to oppose the advance of communism, we don't need to travel 6,000 miles from home to do that; we can start 90 miles from Florida.

Industry Fights New Regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) - American industry is lining up for a fight over a new government regulation designed to increase worker protection from hundreds of potential cancer-causing chemicals found on the job. Several industry groups are going to coerd to challenge the regulation, which the government hopes will speed up the lengthy process of identifying and regulating some 500 chemicals that may threaten the health of hundreds of thousands of workers. The regulation, announced Wednesday by the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration, would replace the current policy of regulating cabinogens on a slow case-by-case basis. OSHA's administrator, Eula Bingham, estimated the new approach would enable the agency to establish worker exposure limits on about 10 chemicals a year, up from the current two per year. A 1977 survey by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health indicated that 1 million Americans may be exposed to known cancer-causing substances on the job.

Real Estate Tips
 by Tommy Bowling

I understand that some Americans are importing antique houses from Europe and re-building them here. What would the cost be for such an undertaking? If it's a 250 to 500 year old English farmhouse or barn, you're interested in, the cost, delivered to this country, ranges from $17,000 to $35,000. Of course, it can cost as much as $70,000 just to get the structure up and habitable. A fully-reassembled French Chateau could cost much more. However, some of the 19th Century mansions are being sold by the "part" . . . a stairway, turret, mantle piece, door, or oak beam, etc., making it possible to own a "conversation piece" of real estate at a fairly livable price.

14. CARD OF THANKS

My husband and I want to take this time to express our deepest thanks to Dr. D.G. Carruth, Dr. Mims and all the nurses in O.B. Because of these people, mine and our twins stay in the hospital was a very pleasant one. Their smiles, care, concern, help, and thoughtfulness means a great deal to us. We feel we had the best care of any place we know. Each and every one held a special place in our hearts. Thank you and bless each and every one.

Our Sincere Thanks,
Mike & Marlene Parmer

Liberal Demos Like Maloney's

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Pat Maloney and his liberal Democrat cronies gather every Friday evening in Maloney's historic downtown building, drink their beloved Irish whiskey and probably send old George Washington Brackenridge spinning in his grave.

You see, back before Maloney and his band of self-admitted Irish hooligans took over the decaying, vacant building in 1977, it housed the First National Bank Building. That was George Washington Brackenridge's bank, and Brackenridge was a staunch Republican and a prohibitionist.

Maloney, 55, a nationally known attorney and practicing Irishman, savors the irony as much as he does the Irish whiskey. St. Patrick's Day and the bank building he's wanted to own all his life.

"Mr. Brackenridge was a Republican and a teetotaler. As you can see, I'm not exactly bent in that direction. I imagine the old boy is spinning in his grave. I relish it," said the colorful Maloney, who is turning Brackenridge's personal safe into a liquor cabinet.

"We work hard and we play hard. We gather here every Friday only because we deserve it," he philosophized.

At the risk of spoiling the hooligans' fun, we must note that history books indicate Brackenridge might not be spinning as much as they'd like him to be.

First of all, Brackenridge, dead since 1920, would no doubt be pleased to see what the Maloneys have done to restore and save the distinctive, three-story stone building — a downtown fixture since 1886.

Brackenridge, according to biographer Marilyn McAdams Sibley, was also somewhat of a political maverick. He supported women's rights and had a few other liberal cracks in his Republicanism.

The Maloneys, loyal University of Texas fans, host their parties in the gaudy, orange-and-white Longhorn Room — once Brackenridge's apartment on the bank's third floor. But Brackenridge was a longtime University of Texas regent. No quarrel there.

And as for Brackenridge's notorious teetotaling reputation, Ms. Sibley said he kept a wine cellar and acknowledged enjoying an occasional toot of good whiskey.

But Brackenridge did restrict the deed to the land donated for the city's famous Brackenridge Park to prevent the consumption or sale of booze and beer. That's still enforced.

There was no such deed restriction on the bank building, Maloney checked.

Town Commemorates Soldier

Luxembourg (AP) — On Saturday, this town of 40 houses commemorates a Texas soldier who died here near the end of World War II in a vain attempt to save a small Oberwampach boy clutched in his arms.

"We could never honor a finer man," says Tilly Kimmes of nearby Clervaux. She was speaking of U.S. Army Sgt. Hassel C. Whitefield of Dublin, Texas who was killed Jan. 17, 1945 by a German shell while fleeing a burning home.

With him died Marcel Schilling, 5, whose home Whitefield had entered only moments earlier to seek cover against a barrage of German rockets.

When the home was hit, Whitefield, then 24, scooped the little boy off the floor, bolted from the dwelling and raced toward a nearby home.

They never made it. On Saturday, a plaque on an outside wall of the local church will be unveiled in Whitefield's honor. The ceremony will be attended by relatives of Whitefield and representatives of the U.S. embassies in Belgium and Luxembourg.

Also attending will be officials of the Cercle d'Etudes sur la Bataille des Ardennes — the Ardennes Battle Study Group. The regional volunteer organization documents the events here during and after Nazi Germany's last-ditch offensive in late 1944 in the Ardennes hills straddling the Belgium-Luxembourg frontier.

The offensive forced the Battle of the Bulge, a three-week Nazi onslaught that ended at Christmas 1944 and in which 16,000 Americans and 24,200 Germans died.

The story of Whitefield, an artillery spotter in the U.S. 90th Division, and the little boy is not unlike many other wartime rescues.

And, in a way, it is a unique one.

Until last year, the identity of the American soldier who tried to save Marcel Schilling's life, was unknown to the study group. Whitefield's name was discovered after Edwin Calvin of Raytown, Mo., a 90th Division veteran, searched the memories of fellow veterans throughout the United States.

"Saturday's ceremony," says Mrs. Kimmes, who is the secretary of the study group, "marks the first time we'll honor an American soldier who attempted to save the life of a civilian."

"We could never honor a finer man."

The unveiling of the plaque," adds Jean Winkin, an Oberwampach town councillor, "will be an act of gratitude to Oberwampach's population to its American liberators."

Oberwampach, which has a population of about 180, suffered greatly in the Battle of the Bulge which was centered around the Belgian city of Bastogne, 8 mile east of here.

Fifteen Oberwampach inhabitants, including Marcel Schilling, died as a result of the fighting and one-third of the town's homes were destroyed. Many others were badly damaged.

Today, nearly 35 years after the guns fell silent, the study group plans to erect its own monument for those who gave their lives fighting Hitler's forces.

It will be yet another memorial in an area of Europe that already is sprinkled with graves, crosses, cairns, monuments and other reminders of that war.

A plate left by Sir Francis Drake when he claimed California for England in 1579 was found in Marin County in 1936.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am very surprised that in your column on insomnia you did not mention a very common cause — the use of substances containing caffeine before bedtime.

Many people have coffee or tea with their evening meal or dessert. Some people take hot chocolate at bedtime, ironically to make them sleep, not realizing that chocolate and cocoa contain a great deal of caffeine.

My husband used to regularly have ice cream with chocolate syrup on it at bedtime, resulting in poor sleep.

You mentioned the college student who had trouble sleeping. She was probably guzzling colas while studying and ingesting large amounts of caffeine. Then other people take large amounts of these during the day until they build up the amount that's in the body. Many people also with caffeine headaches are taking aspirin — another caffeine-containing substance, not realizing they're adding insult to injury. By eliminating or moderating the use of caffeine in our diet we can also eliminate the use of sleeping drugs in many instances.

DEAR READER — Sometimes space does not permit me to cover everything on a single topic. However, if you had read The Health Letter on sleep problems that was offered with the column, you would have found that the problem of caffeine was discussed. You are absolutely right, caffeine is a brain stimulant. I sometimes refer to coffee as a liquid go pill.

People do have differences in tolerance to caffeine associated with their habit of drinking it regularly or occasionally as the case may be.

Caffeine-containing beverages that you've listed have many different effects. To round out your information, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 14-4. Controversial Beverages: Coffee, Tea, Colas and Chocolate. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You'll find out that caffeine has been implicated in a long list of things, including the possibility of increasing heart attacks, causing lumpy breasts in women, increasing levels of anxiety and tension and causing indigestion. You may also be surprised to learn that decaffeinated coffee increases the formation of acid digestive juices, and in my opinion, anybody who has digestive complaints should avoid the decaffeinated products as well as coffee that contains caffeine.

There's one error in your letter: aspirin does not contain caffeine. Aspirin is acetylsalicylic acid. You've confused this with the APC which is a combination medicine and does contain some caffeine.

Finally, let me emphasize

Coffee may be culprit that mental activity immediately before the sleep hour often contributes to loss of sleep. That is another reason why college students and individuals who do mental or office work at home just before bedtime may have trouble sleeping. It's important to unwind before bedtime and sort of let your whole body and mind begin to relax.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer
Streaked stainless steel

DEAR POLLY — The large stainless steel refrigerator where I work looks terrible. We cannot find a way to clean the outside that does not leave streaks. — MRS. D.G.

DEAR MRS. D.G. — Usually soap and water will clean such stainless steel but if more is needed use a mild scouring powder and a soft damp cloth. Rub with a soft dry cloth to bring up the luster and remove the streaks. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The sides and back of my Naugahyde sofa and chair used to get sticky — I was told this was from grass heat. I tried all sorts of things to remove it but nothing worked until I finally tried corn starch that I rubbed in with a cloth. It was like magic as all the stickiness disappeared and it was smooth as new. — MAE

DEAR POLLY — When my grandchildren come to visit I use my "tie around the waist" aprons as bibs and they are great crumb catchers. — M.M.B.

DEAR POLLY — We have made such nice place mats for our kitchen table. For each mat a piece of cardboard was cut to the desired size and then covered with wallpaper left from papering the kitchen. This was covered with clear adhesive-backed paper and while we particularly like them matching the wallpaper any pretty paper or picture could be done the same way.

My Pet Peeve is with those people who will not let the phone ring more than three or four times before they hang up. — MARCIE

DEAR POLLY — To make all my cookies the same size I use my hamburger press. I put a piece of waxed paper on the bottom of the press and one on top of the rolled cookie dough and press. The same waxed paper can be used throughout the job. When one wants crisp thin cookies press hard. Otherwise press lightly to get the size you want. I find this much faster than using a fork to press them down — in fact, it takes less than half the time. — CAROL
