

Gun sales: they're booming

By The Associated Press

One gun dealer said he could have "sold a trailer load" of semiautomatic assault rifles and others sold the weapons at twice the normal price following a ban on imports and an American company's decision to stop selling them.

"It's hysteria running wild," said Donald G. Davis, owner of Don's Guns, a chain of three stores in Indianapolis. "We could hardly give one away prior to this mass hysteria, and now every other customer that comes in here wants (one)."

Dealers said the run on guns has been limited to the rapid-fire assault weapons, and the buyers are not only gun enthusiasts worried the stock soon would be depleted. Many who bought semiautomatics Thursday were labeled by dealers as investors.

"A lot of guys who don't even know what they are want them as an investment," said Wilhelm Helfrich, owner of Duffy's Sports in Butler, Md. "They're just putting them in their cellar and waiting for the price to rise."

Prices already have tripled in some stores. "My price has gone up from about $350 to $1,000 today, and when I sell half of what I have left the price will go to $1,500," Davis said.

At The Gun Gallery in Dallas, an AK-47 cost $369 on Monday, $599 on Tuesday, and $799 today. "They (customers) don't care how much it costs," said owner Paul Rosenberg.

A semiautomatic rifle fires a round each time the trigger is pressed. The government already bans sale of automatic weapons, which fire bullets as long as the trigger is pressed.

On Wednesday, Colt Industries Inc. of Hartford, Conn., said it was suspending sales to the public of its AR-15, which authorities say is among the semiautomatic weapons used by drug dealers and other criminals. The company said the suspension was a voluntary reaction to the Bush administration's temporary import ban on semiautomatics.

The AR-15 is the civilian version of the military's standard M-16.

The ban came in response to an outcry from law enforcement officers who say they are being outgunned.

Paetzold's project flying

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

The great Waldo Pepper would look at home in the cockpit. The plane's builder, Larry Paetzold, doesn't look particularly out of place either.

Paetzold, who lives 20 miles northeast of Hereford, recently made the maiden flight in an experimental bi-plane of his own creation.

The meticulously constructed aircraft is reminiscent of the exciting, early days of aviation. The design is similar to that of the Great Lakes airplane manufactured in the 1930s.

"It's basically a Stearman, only sportier," Paetzold said.

The design for the aircraft was originally created by Nicholaus Dapuzzo in 1960. The elderly Dapuzzo, a Pennsylvania resident, has retained an active interest in his aircraft.

"He's a jolly old guy," Paetzold said.

Numerous phone calls to the plane's designer aided Paetzold during the past year as he worked on the aircraft. Paetzold also kept in contact with the Federal Aviation Administration to insure that both he and his airplane are properly certified.

He recently received proper authorization from the FAA to begin flying his home-built craft. He made the plane's maiden flight earlier this week.

"It was kind of cold," Paetzold said of his flight in the open cockpit.

His wife, Martha, and their two children, Jeremy, 13, and Lori, 10, are anxiously waiting as their husband and father make those first few flights. Paetzold will not be able to take passengers in the two-seat aircraft until he has completed 25 hours of flight time.

"For the first 25 hours, the builder is basically the test pilot," he said.

Building the plane began long before Paetzold took it over. Glen Rainwater, an aircraft mechanic in Amarillo, began construction on the frame in 1964.

Rainwater completed about 10 percent of the work before "mothballing" the project for better than 20 years. Paetzold bought the plans and frame from Rainwater and resumed work on the plane last year.

Paetzold is a member of the Experimental Aircraft Association in Amarillo. Members of the association were designated by the FAA to supervise the construction of the plane to help assure the plane's safety.

Cheney, calmly, getting approval

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Dick Cheney's comfortable glide toward confirmation as defense secretary provided a quiet finish to what began as the most bitter political dispute of the new Bush administration.

The search for a new defense secretary was expected to end today with easy Senate confirmation of Cheney, the replacement nominee President Bush chose after John Tower was rejected for the job in a bruising, partisan battle. Cheney won a unanimous endorsement Thursday from the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said the Senate would take up the nomination of the six-term Wyoming congressman today before it begins its two-week recess.

The committee voted 20-0 Thursday to recommend confirmation of Cheney at proceedings that took less than 15 minutes and stood in marked contrast to the rancorous, lengthy struggle over the Tower nomination.

Last month, the committee voted 11-9 along party lines against the former Texas senator and after six days of bitter, partisan debate, the full Senate defeated the nomination, 53-47. The Tower vote, exactly one week ago, was a major defeat for President Bush in his first high-stakes clash with Congress.

Bush, during a question-and-answer session in Houston, said he was "very pleased" at the panel's action.

But both he and Tower's opponents showed Thursday that, despite their promises to forgive, they are not quite ready to forget.

Bush used his Houston speech to reiterate his criticism of the tone of the Senate debate that led to Tower's rejection. Tower, he said, had been "tried by perception and rumor. That is not the American way."

But in Washington, Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., released an unclassified FBI report which said an investigation of Tower had turned up "a prior pattern of alcohol abuse." It was reports about Tower's drinking and relations with women, along with his acceptance of consulting fees from defense contractors, that led to his defeat.

After the angry debate over Tower, the Armed Services panel moved quickly on the selection of Cheney, a Republican congressman from Wyoming who won popularity among his colleagues on Capitol Hill as House minority whip, the chamber's second-ranking GOP leadership post.

The committee praised Cheney's "high standards of personal conduct and integrity," saying they "would help to restore public confidence in the integrity of defense management" at the Pentagon, which has been rocked by a massive contract fraud case.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the chairman of the committee who led the fight against Tower, called Cheney "highly qualified to be secretary of defense."

Cheney declined to comment on the committee's action, as he spent the day tending to legislative work and packing books, files and personal belongings in preparation for his move to the Pentagon.

The Senate battle over the Tower nomination dragged on for six weeks and was marked by accusations of partisanship among legislators.

Services may ban Europe meats

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chairmen of two House committees say they are examining the possibility of dropping European foods from U.S. military commissaries overseas in response to Europe's ban on hormone-treated meat from the United States.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, a Mission Democrat and chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and Rep. Les Aspin, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, announced Thursday they also would study the possibility of replacing the European foods with domestic products.

Aspin, D-Wis., has asked Rep. Marvin Leath, a Waco Democrat who heads the Armed Services panel with oversight on the military commissary system, to look into the matter.

"We will assess the commissary system and industry capabilities to handle the added distribution and the impact any changes would have on the U.S. military personnel in Europe," Leath said.

Aspin said it might actually be more practical now, with the falling value of the dollar in Europe, to ship U.S. foodstuffs to commissaries that sell to military personnel stationed in Europe.

The decline in the value of the dollar has "put a tremendous strain on the budget and has pushed up the cost of everything we buy from the Europeans, including products sold in commissaries," Aspin said. "We have also seen an improvement in the transportation system which enables the military to ship more products faster to our military around the globe."

According to the Agriculture Committee, there are 131 U.S. commissaries in Europe with annual sales of $764 million. Most of the products sold are from the United States, but certain products, including beef and some dairy products, are from European sources.

Last year, commissaries sold 46 million pounds of European beef for $55 million. Before the European ban on hormone-treated beef, the United States was selling about $100 million worth of beef in the European Economic Community.

De la Garza said the two committees would examine the transportation system, and pricing and funding of such shipments.

"Shipment of beef will be closely examined because of the high quality of the U.S. product and doubts whether European beef is being inspected to U.S. standards," said de la Garza.

Discovery ready for trip home

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Discovery's astronauts packed today for the end of their 1.9 million-mile voyage and prepared the shuttle for a fiery plunge toward a dawn landing Saturday on a California desert.

Discovery commander Michael L. Coats and pilot John E. Blaha planned to run through a series of tests today to make sure the shuttle's computers and control jets were ready for the return to Earth.

The other astronauts made final runs on a group of experiments and followed a script to shoot the last 4,000 feet of film in a powerful 70mm IMAX camera used principally to study the Earth's environmental trouble spots. Then they were to stow their equipment for the trip home.

Discovery's early bird crew preempted the traditional morning music from Mission Control in Houston for a third day in a row.

A few minutes before they were to be awakened, the astronauts beamed to Earth a tape of "Hi Ho, Hi Ho, It's Off To Work We Go," the work song of the seven dwarfs in the animated movie classic "Snow White."

Mission Control capsule communicator David Low, referring to the seven dwarfs, responded, "We can account for Grumpy, Sleepy, Happy, Sneezy and Doc up there. Who wants to sign up to be Bashful and Dopey?" "I'm not gonna touch that," said Coats with a laugh.

The other Discovery astronauts are James F. Buchli, Robert C. Springer, and Dr. James M. Bagian, a physician.

Early on Saturday, Coats and Blaha will fire two powerful rockets on the back of Discovery to slow the craft and allow it to drop into the Earth's atmosphere. The shuttle will then make a powerless glide halfway around the world and land at 6:36 a.m. at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., in the Mojave Desert.

The landing will complete a flight of four days, 23 hours and 38 minutes that circled the Earth 79 1/2 times.

If the shuttle lands at the time now scheduled, the mission will have been about 11 1/2 hours shorter than planned. Discovery was launched almost two hours late on Monday, because of weather considerations, and this put the craft in position to land in California one orbit early.

NASA officials said the forecasts call for good weather at Edwards for the shuttle landing.

Discovery will return to Earth with almost three miles of film shot with the IMAX camera. The crew captured views of urban sprawl, of pollution patterns in the oceans, and of vast areas in South America where the tropical rain forest is being cleared and burned.

The camera also photographed floods in Africa, burned areas of the Florida Everglades and western United States, and erupting volcanoes in South America and Southeast Asia.

Film from the IMAX will be edited to create a study of the environmental wounds inflicted on the Earth by industrial man. It is a joint project of NASA and the Smithsonian Institution.

The end of Discovery's mission also will be the end for four rats carried in cages aboard the shuttle. The rats will be killed so their skeletons can be studied in an experiment on how weightlessness affects the healing of injured bones. Before launch, small chips were cut from one bone on each rat.

Other experiments on Discovery include comparing the development of chicken embryos in space vs. those on Earth; a group of plants grown in space to test the effects of weightlessness on root growth; a protein crystal growth study using 19 different proteins; and a device called the heat pipe, which is a type of cooling system being tested for use on the space station.

Discovery's primary mission goal was to release the $100 million Tracking and Data Relay Satellite. This was accomplished smoothly on Monday and the satellite later rocketed itself to a stationary orbit 22,300 miles over the Atlantic. The satellite completes an orbiting communications network for NASA that includes two working TDRS and a spare.

The mission is 28th in the space shuttle and the first of seven missions planned this year by NASA. It is also the third shuttle mission since flights resumed following the 1986 Challenger disaster that killed seven astronauts.

Massive drug raid nets 25 suspects

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Twenty-five people believed linked to a multimillion-dollar drug ring are behind bars today while federal officials attempt to seize homes, horses, cars and cash they say was generated from the sale of thousands of pounds of cocaine and marijuana.

The 25 people - arrested Thursday in San Antonio, Houston, McAllen, Laredo and California - were among 34 named in a federal indictment returned Wednesday, charging they carried on a six-year effort to import narcotics from Mexico and laundered the profits through numerous banks and thrifts.

Officials believe that between 1983 and 1989 the drug ring was responsible for transporting more than 46,000 pounds of marijuana, 1,900 pounds of cocaine and conducting financial transactions or purchases of in excess of $7.6 million.

"This is one of the largest Mexican drug-trafficking organizations. How large? It's hard to quantify, but it is a very significant case and we have taken out every aspect of their operation," said Charlie Parsons, special agent-in-charge of the FBI office in San Antonio.

"We're going to take the profit out of narcotics by seizing their assets and that's our approach," he said Thursday.

More than 150 city, state and federal agents went on pre-dawn raids Thursday to arrest those named in the indictment.

Nine others named in the indictment were believed to be in Mexico, and Assistant U.S. Attorney Jack Frels said they would look into the possibility of arresting them.

All those arrested, except for one, were being held without bond pending hearings next week.

The arrests and the seizure of numerous weapons, property, including ranches, homes, vehicles, aircraft and 70 prized quarterhorses, culminated an 18-month multi-agency effort code-named "Operation Jet Set."

Federal officials said they also will try to seize cash allegedly deposited in numerous banks.

Parsons said the arrests came without incident, but some suspects tried to get rid of the evidence.

"We got one report that someone tried to dispose of a kilo of coke when he was being arrested and some guy in Houston threw $70,000 out of a window as he was being arrested," Parsons said.

U.S. Attorney Helen Eversberg said the masterminds behind the operation were Mario Salinas-Trevino, 36, of San Antonio and Ramiro Mireles-Felix, no age available, of Guadalajara, Mexico.

The indictment also alleged that Baldemar Salinas-Trevino, 41, of Wasco, Calif., directed the organization's California operations.

Mario Salinas-Trevino and Baldemar Salinas-Trevino were arrested Thursday and were held without bonds. Mireles-Felix had not been arrested as of Thursday afternoon.

Ms. Eversberg said the ring was responsible for importing the narcotics to the United States, storing it in various locations in Texas and then distributing it throughout Texas, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Florida and Massachusetts.

She also said that others in the organization laundered the drug profits by depositing the profits in banks or buying real estate and other properties.

According to the indictment, members of the drug ring traveled to and from San Antonio via SunJet air charter service and used aircraft leased by the air service and occasionally transported currency on the aircraft.

Among those named in the indictment and arrested was Jackie Eugene Hinson, who is listed as the owner of SunJet. His daughter, Dara Hinson of San Antonio, who is an employee of SunJet, also was named in the indictment but was not arrested.

The indictment alleges that the Hinsons were money couriers for the organization.

Jackie Hinson went before U.S. Magistrate John Primomo, who set bond at $100,000 cash and ordered him to surrender his passport.

According to the indictment, the Salinas organization used vans, trailers and other vehicles to transport the narcotics into the United States and used bribery to seek cooperation from Mexican authorities to allow for safe passage of the narcotics.

The indictment also said that the organization "routinely packed the marijuana and cocaine in metal barrels of approximately 35-gallon capacity, which were in turn concealed in the transport vehicles and storage sites."

The indictment also alleges that the organization used banks and savings and loan institutions in San Antonio and Roma, Texas, and San Ysidro, Calif., to launder the narcotics profits.

Two Texas lawmakers propose workers' compensation alternative

AUSTIN (AP) - Two lawmakers said their new proposal will provide employers an alternative to buying workers' compensation insurance.

Under the plan unveiled Thursday, employers that carry comprehensive life, health, accident, and disability insurance for their employees, but not workers' comp insurance, would have common law defenses restored in case an employee is injured.

Currently, common law defenses, which include contributory negligence and assumed risk, are stripped from employers who do not carry workers' comp insurance.

Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, said the measure "will drive down the cost tremendously."

Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mt. Pleasant, said the alternate plan would provide competition to current workers' comp insurance and drive down the cost of premiums.

"If we get a competing system, we'll find out if they (insurance companies) are charging more than they should be," Ratliff said.

Ratliff said the proposal would not replace workers' comp insurance but provide an alternative.

Ratliff and Washington said their proposal is needed because many employers do not carry workers' comp because of the high cost insurance.

Businesses without workers' comp insurance run the risk of serious damages that could lead to bankruptcy if an employee is injured, Ratliff said.

"We do not believe this plan is the answer to the state's job injury problems. We believe that a total reform of our workers' compensation system is still direly needed," he said.

The Texas workers' comp system was drastically overhauled recently in the House.

The House bill would change: benefits for injured workers; the process for resolving disputed claims; and the governing board that oversees the system.

Organized labor and lawyers who represent workers with disputed injury claims oppose the House bill. The Senate is currently working on the proposal and is expected to make major changes.

The issue has been brought to the forefront because businesses have complained about the rising costs of workers' comp premiums, while labor groups say benefits to workers injured on the job are too low.

BABBLING BROOKS

By John Brooks

Dear Mom:

I know it's been awhile since I've written to you. I've been busy cooking up some new recipes. Here's one I'm sure you'll enjoy:

APPLE AND GRAPE SURPRISE

1 cup Chilean grapes
4 apples, peeled and cored
1/4 cup cyclamate (only available by squeezing Canadian rats)
You can mix this in a blender, or you can use any gun that you have converted into an automatic weapon. If you want to really take a walk on the wild side, mix in a cup of whole milk and have a tutti-frutti milkshake. And have a nice, thick, juicy steak with it. Also goes well with chicken.

Your favorite son,
John

bb

If I had enough room in my memory, I could probably list all of the stuff that has been declared bad for you.

Yes, I know these cigarettes I'm smoking are taking years off my life it almost seems that cigarette smoking is only as risky as, say, eating apple cobbler or grape jelly or enjoying almost anything.

Speaking of grapes, Tom Draper was handed a "warrant" the other morning at the coffee shop for being the one who tainted those two grapes.

Tom is a big-time grape grower, and someone put a KPAN Tablegram to use, "arresting" Tom for trying to corner the grape market.

And this was the week I was going to stop smoking and snack on grapes.

A story in Thursday's New York Times said that an Arkansas chicken company had to destroy 400,000 chickens because they were contaminated with some pesticide that was a carcinogen.

Of course, the chicken people had been hurt earlier by the little "60 Minutes" story that told about how "unsafe" chicken was to begin with, so what's a little pesticide?

For you kids who want to impress your teacher after spring break, don't take your teacher an apple.

I guess it depends on the impression you want to make. If you want to make a good impression, don't take an apple.

bb

And, since last we spoke, hunting has taken on an uglier side. I'm still trying to convert my 35-year-old Smith and Wesson 12-gauge into an automatic weapon. Since it's a double-barreled, modified-choke gun, I can get off a couple of shots in fairly rapid succession, but two rounds in about five seconds is the best I can do.

I'm not the world's most avid hunter, but I have never seen anyone hunting anything, especially around here, with an AK-47.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read a letter in your column recently from a woman who was caught in the welfare trap. I am in the same fix and can't figure a way out.

I have three small children, all conceived in marriage. Their father refuses to pay the child support ordered by the court. He lives with a girlfriend who works while he babysits her kids. She receives child support from her ex-husband and makes a good salary.

I feel that this woman is cheating my kids out of clothing, shoes and nourishing food because if my ex goes to work she loses her baby-sitter. So she supports him while the government supports his kids.

He brags about his fancy stereo equipment and a vacation condo and bought six months ago. When I asked him to buy a box of diapers for the baby (to be used during his visiting time) he refused.

We are lucky to be in a decent low-income apartment. This makes it possible for us to pay our bills and eat. But my children go without so many things they need because I don't have a spare dime.

I have a high school education and can type 50 words a minute, but the wages for mediocre typists are so low that I would be up paying my salary to a day-care provider.

Also, if I go to work my rent goes up, my food stamps go down, I lose Medicaid, and I'd be much worse off financially. Also, I would not be able to spend time with my children, as I do now.

I talked to my caseworker and she flat out told me to forget about a job because I was much better off staying on welfare. When I asked about government help for further education, she said there are no funds in our county to pay for child care while I attend classes and I'd better forget about that, too.

It's frustrating and degrading to be on welfare. When you meet a decent man and he finds out you're on welfare, he thinks you are a moocher or too lazy to go to work.

Are there any senators or congressmen out there who are interested in hearing from those of us who sincerely want to get off welfare and be self-supporting?—S.C., Grand Junction, Colo.

DEAR S.C.: Your senators are William Armstrong and Timothy E. Wirth. Your congressman is Joel Hefley. Send a copy of this column to all three. Tell them the letter is yours and you'd like some help. Please let me know what you hear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a very close relative who visits me every year for several weeks. I give her a bedroom and bath all to herself.

Every chance she gets she goes into my bedroom and goes through my bills, receipts, correspondence and even the personal belongings in my drawers. Sometimes she helps herself to little things such as postage stamps and inexpensive jewelry and trinkets.

I don't care about the trifles, but I care about her invading my privacy. I feel violated every time she comes to visit. I'm beginning to dread having her in the house. How do I solve this problem?—Van Nuys Calif.

DEAR VAN: Tell her in a non-nonsense manner (1) you are aware of her snooping, (2) please stay out of your bedroom in the future and (3) if she wants something to ask for it.

Feeling pressured to go "all the way" because everyone else is doing it? You're not alone. For answers to your questions about sex, and to learn how your peers really feel about it, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage).

Pants Cage displays new spring, summer fashions

Veleda Study Club members and 17 guests met Monday evening at the Atrium for a style show presented by Lajeane Henry, owner of the Pants Cage.

Henry introduced models Dorothy Ott; her daughter, Melody Ott Seiver; and her granddaughter, Brooke Seiver. The women and Sondra Potts showed a wide-range of styles available in the store. Spring colors included red and white, black and white in polka dots and prints, and navy and yellow. The Southwest influence was seen in designs as was the nautical theme.

Henry showed various ways of using belts, scarves and handbags to accessorize an ensemble.

At the conclusion of the show, refreshments of cookies and punch were served from tables decorated in spring colors. The focal point of the decorations was a hand-made dressed bunny.

The next meeting will be an auction March 27 in the home of Tommie Savage.

Mid Tenn. dumps FSU; Siena upsets Stanford

By The Associated Press

Mike Buck knew it doesn't get much better than this.

He wasn't just good, he was perfect. Jumper ... swish.

Free throw ... swish.

Every time he took a shot ... swish, swish, swish.

And when it was all over, Middle Tennessee State scored the final 21 points of the game - yes, 21 consecutive points to end the game - and beat 13th-ranked Florida State 97-83 in the NCAA tournament's Southeast Regional.

"After the first couple of threes, I just kept shooting," Buck said. "We needed somebody to do something. They didn't know who I was. Now, I'm not sure I'm used to all this attention."

Buck was 7-for-7 from the field, including 6-for-6 on three pointers. He was 6-for-6 from the free-throw line.

He scored 15 consecutive points during the 21-0 run. Florida State, which led 67-50 five minutes into the second half and 83-76 with 5:05 to go, was blown away.

"I've never been involved in a game where it went from one end to the other so quickly," Seminoles coach Pat Kennedy said. "It was almost like an avalanche, where it just kept coming and coming. They kept making all their shots. We're up by 17 and before you know it, we're down by 14."

For the Blue Raiders, 23-7, it was their biggest victory since they upset Kentucky in the 1982 tournament.

Tony Dawson scored 21 points for the Seminoles, 22-10, and Tharon Mayes added 20. Randy Henry scored 26 points for Middle Tennessee.

In other games, No. 1 Arizona beat Robert Morris 94-60, No. 3 Illinois beat McNeese State 77-71, No. 4 Oklahoma beat East Tennessee State 72-71, No. 9 Duke beat South Carolina State 90-69, No. 12 Louisville beat Arkansas-Little Rock 76-71, Siena beat No. 13 Stanford 80-78, No. 15 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Idaho 68-56, No. 17 West Virginia beat Tennessee 84-68, No. 18 Ball State beat Pittsburgh 68-64, Minnesota beat Kansas State 86-78, Louisiana Tech beat La Salle 83-74, Arkansas beat Loyola Marymount 120-101, Clemson beat St. Mary's of California 83-70, Virginia beat Providence 100-97 and DePaul beat Memphis State 66-63.

Ball St. waits for Illini game

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Ball State coach Rick Majerus is undefeated against Big Ten competition this season and says his 18th-ranked Cardinals aren't intimidated over placing their 16-game winning streak on the line against No. 3 Illinois.

"There's no doubt they're an impressive team," Majerus said of the Illini, who he'll face Saturday in the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regional. "But, we won't be intimidated by them."

Ball State used a decisive 11-0 spurt and scored its final 12 points on free throws to beat Pittsburgh 68-64 Thursday night for its first-ever NCAA tournament victory. The Cardinals rallied from a seven-point deficit in the final eight minutes in bringing their record to 29-2, the best in Division I.

"This is the biggest win in the history of Ball State. It's our first NCAA win (in three tries) and the first time the (Mid-American) conference has won an NCAA game since 1983," Majerus said. "My biggest problem tonight isn't about my team or Illinois, but getting my hands on more tickets."

Top-seeded and third-ranked Illinois defeated McNeese State 77-71 in its first-round game. In Thursday's other openers, fourth-seeded and 14th-ranked Louisville topped Arkansas-Little Rock 76-71 and fifth-seeded Arkansas outscored Loyola Marymount 120-101.

The Hoosier Dome doubleheaders drew record crowds for an opening round of the tournament with 37,242 at the evening session and 37,232 at the afternoon session. The previous mark for an NCAA first-round evening session was 29,353 and the previous mark for an opening afternoon session was 25,286. Both marks were set in 1987, also at the Hoosier Dome.

"Our kids played their hearts out," said Majerus, who has seen his team defeat Minnesota, Purdue and Northwestern of the Big Ten this season.

Majerus didn't want to immediately think about facing Illinois, 28-4.

"I don't really know about what I'm going to do," he said. "I'm going to go out and eat about six pizzas and chow down with my mom and family tonight and then look at some tape later on."

Ball State survived going scoreless for more than seven minutes in the second half.

"They kept their poise and composure and were determined to win ... We didn't panic. We kept taking good shots," Majerus said.

Pittsburgh, 17-13, used a 17-0 spurt over seven minutes to open a 55-49 lead before going scoreless for five minutes.

Curtis Kidd, who scored 15 points, ignited the comeback by making a free throw with 6:22 to go. Paris McCurdy, who scored 18 points, then had six of the next eight.

Greg Miller's rebound layup with 2:51 left put Ball State ahead to stay at 56-55. The Cardinals built the lead to 60-55 with 1:47 remaining as Kidd and McCurdy made two free throws each.

"When we got down we knew we could come back on them," Ball State's Shawn Parrish said. "We came back from 15 at Minnesota, so we were confident."

Rod Brookin's 3-pointer pulled Pittsburgh within 64-61 with 39 seconds to go and the Panthers had an opportunity to get closer after grabbing a rebound with 31 seconds left. But McCurdy stole the ball and Miller made both ends of a one-and-one with 25 seconds remaining.

"They're very aggressive. They play hard man-to-man defense and they have a lot of depth. They also have a lot of good foul shooters. That didn't leave us a whole lot of options," Pittsburgh Coach Paul Evans said.

Jason Matthews, who scored 23 points, made a 3-pointer as Pittsburgh closed within 66-64 with 10 seconds left, but McCurdy made two more free throws with seven seconds to play.

Pittsburgh trailed by 14 points in the first half but used a 12-0 spurt to cut its halftime deficit to 37-31. Brian Shorter, Pittsburgh's leading scorer picked up three quick fouls in the first half and then got his fourth early in the second. Shorter, averaging about 20 points, played only 20 minutes before fouling out with 1:15 to play. After scoring 10 of his team's first 14 points, he finished with 13.

"It was a physical game. I think it was just too much overaggressiveness on my part," Shorter said. No. 3 Illinois 77, McNeese St. 71

In the evening's first game, Kenny Battle had 18 points to lead an Illinois offense that had four players in double figures.

One player, who wasn't satisfied with his performance was Illini guard Kendall Gill. He had 11 points and was 5-of-13 as Illinois, 28-4, brought its mark to 20-0 in games he has played this season.

"I knew that I was due for one of those (bad) games," Gill said. "I had been playing well and I knew I don't always play like that. I'm just glad I got it out of my system."

McNeese State, making its debut in the tournament, was led by Michael Cutright's 28 points as it closed at 16-14. No. 12 Louisville 76, Ark.-Little Rock 71

Louisville, seeking a fifth trip to the Final Four and its third championship of the decade, got 17 points from Kenny Payne and 15 from LaBradford Smith to bring its record to 23-8. The Trojans, 23-8, were led by Carl Brown with 26 points. Arkansas 120, Loyola Marymount 101

Mario Credit, averaging less than 11 points a game, scored a career-high 34 for Arkansas, 25-6. He made 10 of 13 shots in scoring 24 first-half points, sparking the Razorbacks to a 15-point halftime lead. The Razorbacks led from start to finish but had to fight off several challenges in the second half.

Loyola Marymount, 20-11, surpassed 100 points for the 22nd time this season and finished with an NCAA-record scoring average of 112.5 a game. The previous mark of 110.5 was set by Nevada-Las Vegas in 1977.

Hank Gathers, the nation's top scorer and rebounder, had 28 points and 17 rebounds for Loyola.

Rangers easing Kreuter's role

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) - The Texas Rangers are doing all they can to ease the pressure on rookie catching prospect Thad Kreuter.

He's been told the job is his to lose. He's getting plenty of work in spring training and he has veteran backup help in Jim Sundberg and Geno Petralli.

Still, there are those dark moments when Kreuter realizes he's got a rugged assignment in the final weeks of spring training.

Mike Stanley, last year's opening day catcher, suffered through a pressurized exhibition season.

"Bobby hasn't put that type of pressure on me and that's made things a little easier," Kreuter said.

Kreuter does have his tense moments.

"There have been a couple of nights when you sleep kind of light," Kreuter said. "It's like there's something hanging over my head and I have to give just a little bit extra."

"I have to show them I can do it with the bat."

Kreuter hit .265 at Class AA Tulsa last season and earned Texas League all-star catching honors.

"I know I need to work on my hitting," Kreuter said. "I've got to improve my defense too but offense is where I have to concentrate."

Kreuter was hitting .250 with one home run and two doubles prior to Thursday's exhibition game against Boston.

Kreuter hit .275 in 16 games with the Rangers in the final month of the 1988 season after earning all-star honors in Class AA Tulsa.

Now he's being given a chance to skip Class AAA and earn the starting job and he's making the most of his big league opportunity.

"I was told before coming to camp that it was my job to lose and basically I believe they'll be true to their word," Kreuter said.

"I've been told I'll catch 100 innings down here so I'm in there every day for four or five innings."

Kreuter will get the job if he's clearly the superior catcher, General Manager Tom Grieve said.

"If he can play now, he's got the ability to be better than what we've got defensively because he's such a good thrower," Grieve said.

"If he's not (ready for the majors) then it makes no sense to keep him here. He should be fine tuning his skills in Oklahoma City. So far he's looking pretty good."

Kreuter is in a more comfortable situation than what Stanley, experienced last year.

Stanley was a spring project for Manager Bobby Valentine but he caught only 44 of the club's first 88 games and after July 15 he started only four games at catcher.

He hit .229 in 94 games and in 64 games as a catcher, he threw out six of 62 base stealers.

Stanley is in camp this spring as a non-roster invitee, trying to make the team as a third catcher or designated hitter.

"I know last year they put a lot of pressure on Mike saying he was No. 1 going in," Kreuter said. "We worked every day on throwing down to second base."

Health influenced by diet

Chicago--More than 1.25 million heart attacks occur each year in the United States; about 58 million Americans have high blood pressure; more than 60 million have high cholesterol levels; and more than 475,000 died of cancer last year alone.

Americans today have imbalanced diets consisting of too many foods high in fat and low in complex carbohydrates and fiber, according to Darlene Dougherty, RD (registered dietitian), president of the American Dietetic Association. She cited the U.S. Surgeon General's Report On Nutrition and Health, which said that these dietary habits can lead to a higher risk of chronic diseases including coronary heart disease, cancer, diabetes, high blood pressure, strokes or obesity.

This March, in recognition of ADA's National Nutrition Month, Dougherty says, "Improved nutrition education is the key to helping consumers learn to make positive food choices. By integrating simple changes into the daily diet, Americans can influence their future health."

According to ADA and the Surgeon General's Report, reducing fat (specifically saturated fat) and cholesterol in the diet is critical because elevated cholesterol levels in the blood can ultimately increase the risk of heart disease. ADA suggests that consumers limit their fat intake to 30-35 percent of the total calories eaten daily.

"To reduce the intake of dietary fat, avoid what I call the worst offenders--including fried foods, rich sauces, whipped cream, fatty or heavily-marbled meats and high-fat desserts," Dougherty says.

Here are some tips from ADA to help Americans reduce the amount of fat, saturated fat and cholesterol in their diets:

- Steam, boil or bake vegetables and season them with herbs and spices, rather than sauces, margarine or butter.
- Cut back on the amount of salad dressing used.
- Drink skim or low-fat milk instead of whole milk, and substitute it in soups, puddings, and home-baked products.
- Choose lean meat and fish.
- Eat poultry without the skin.
- Trim visible fat from meat before cooking.
- Broil meat.
- Chill meat or poultry broth until the fat becomes hardened, then spoon fat off before using the broth.
- Eat fewer bakery items.
- Limit your use of egg yolks and organ meats (such as liver).

In addition to reducing fat in the diet, ADA's president encourages Americans to eat foods high in complex carbohydrates and fiber. Cereals, dried beans or peas, fruits, pasta, and rice fall into this category.

"Contrary to popular belief, starch foods are not high in calories, and they are low in fat," Ada's Dougherty explains, adding that a slice of whole grain bread has 65 calories and a small plain baked potato has only 90 calories. A high fiber diet may protect against certain types of cancer and also helps the digestive tract run smoothly.

According to Dougherty, "The important effects of diet on the health of Americans can no longer be ignored."

Consumers interested in learning more about positive dietary habits can receive a copy of ADA's brochure, "The Dietary Guidelines," by sending $1 and a business-sized, self-addressed stamped envelope to: The American Dietetic Association, Department 12, c/o Anderson Secretarial, 1132 S. Jefferson, Chicago, Il. 60607.

NEW YORK (AP) - Donald Trump has a vision of "Disneyland in Atlantic City" and "the most spectacular building" in the country - his casino. The 1,250-room Trump Taj Mahal Casino Resort - compete with Arabic-style domes, an amusement park and a heliport - will be the biggest gambling casino in the world, Trump said Tuesday.

Trump said the Atlantic City, N.J., casino will be worth $1 billion when about 4,000 workers finish building it in early 1990. Construction began in 1983.

Military Muster

Navy Seaman Recruit Robert D. Shirley, son of Ronnie G. Shirley and Gloria J. Casey, both of Hereford, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During Shirley's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Shirley's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

A 1987 graduate of Hereford High School, Shirley joined the Navy in November 1988.

Fellowship to meet

The Hereford chapter of Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship will meet Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Community Center.

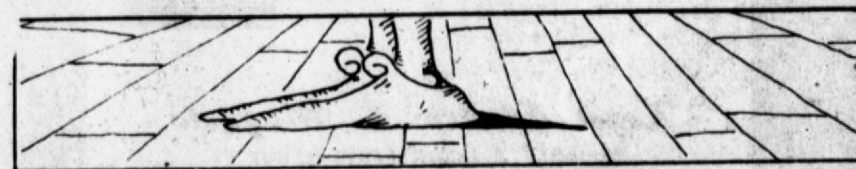

Caisson House Restaurant will cater the event and Jeff and Donna Fromm will provide special music.

Guest speaker will be former Hereford resident Dale Hunt, now of Elk City, Okla. Hunt left Hereford in 1981 to pursue a career in the oilfield, then returned to direct sales.

Hunt has served the FGBMFI Chapter in Elk City as president, vice president, and treasurer.

The public is invited to attend this event.

Wood was first used as flooring in the Middle Ages.

APPLETON, Wis. (AP) - Miss America Gretchen Carlson says the public often expects beauty queens to be knowledgeable on world issues and that she wants to be remembered for addressing the importance of family and education.

"There are a lot of issues that Miss America is asked to address and people think you are an expert on every world problem," Miss Carlson said during an appearance Wednesday.

"I would like to say that I am, but I am not," she said.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:

We recently printed information about a reader's laundry having rust stains on it.

Since then we have received some valuable information from a leading manufacturer of washing machines: The rust is usually caused by iron or manganese in the water supply. It can also come from a rusty water heater or rusty water lines. The water should be tested for the iron or manganese (rust) content. Your local water company can help you with this or contact a water quality company.

They suggested that when iron is present in the water, use an extra amount of detergent plus a non-precipitating water conditioner. Dissolve the detergent and water conditioner in warm water before adding it to the washer to achieve the best results.

If iron is in the water or rust is a recurring problem, you may want to think about installing a water softener, chemical feeder or special filters to remove the iron and manganese from the water supply.

We thank the manufacturer for sharing this information with us. — Heloise

SCAVENGER HUNT

Dear Heloise: My husband always seems to find just the right thing to occupy our daughters' time when he has to entertain them.

Recently, when a medical appointment presented a longer wait than usual, he sent them on a scavenger hunt. He gave them a list of items and a magazine and asked them to find pictures of the items. When they did, they were to write the page number by each item.

It was a great way to keep the girls occupied and it made their wait a lot more enjoyable. — Nancy Dunn, San Antonio, Texas

COVERING NICKS AND SCRATCHES

Dear Heloise: Many of us postpone applying paint or varnish to a nick or scratch on our walls because it would entail cleaning a paintbrush.

Pipe cleaners make handy throw-away tools for dabbing on paint with no paintbrush to wash afterward. They also work well for cleaning crevices that you just can't seem to get to and make excellent extra ties for garbage and lawn bags. — Reggie Pell, Mt. View, Hawaii

PILLOW CASES

Dear Heloise: Living in the breezy Northeast, I discovered a marvelous idea for hanging pillow cases on the clothesline.

Instead of hanging them the usual way by the bottoms, I hang them lengthwise with the opening facing the direction of the breeze. I find they dry faster as the breeze billows them open. An additional benefit is that they do not wrap themselves around other clotheslines, so they are wrinkle-free. — E.A. Buxton, Union, Maine

DINNERWARE

Dear Heloise: Because I hate to pay inflated prices for specialty items at RV and marine stores, I make my own non-skid dinnerware and cups for our boat and motor home.

I use clear silicone caulking in a tube or my glue gun, put a bead of silicone around the perimeter of the item's base and keep it upside down until it loses its stickiness. Then I put it right side up on waxed paper to slightly flatten out and dry. When using the glue gun, the material dries quicker and I have to put the item on waxed paper sooner.

I've been doing this for years! — Barbara McCary, San Clemente, Calif.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise: I have read and enjoyed your column for many years. Over the years I have been amazed with the new finds. They now have coffee with no caffeine, wine and beer with no alcohol and sugar substitutes that taste as good as the real thing.

Now all I am waiting for is someone to come up with a delectable strawberry cheesecake with no calories! I wonder if I'm dreaming too much. — Vi Schmidt, Topeka, Kan.

Manufacturers are making more and more dishes with fewer calories. I think one day soon there will be a low-calorie cheesecake. I can't wait! Yum! — Heloise

TALKING CHILDREN

Dear Heloise: I have seven children who are close in age. When they would get home from school, all of them would want to talk about their day at the same time. The children would interrupt each other and feelings would get hurt.

One day while they were at school, I put numbers on seven little slips of paper and placed them in a box. Now when the children come home they draw numbers and each one has a turn talking to me, starting of course with 1 and going through 7. Worked well for me. — A Mother of Plenty, Trenton, N.J.

Peanuts take deserved bow during March

Americans eat more than 10 pounds of peanuts per capita every year. No wonder they set aside the month of March to pay homage to the high-protein snack food.

To celebrate National Peanut Month—and inform the public on the merits of peanuts—the Texas Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Texas Peanut Producers Board will sponsor peanut promotions in 14 Texas cities March 6-17.

Five TDA marketing specialists will visit Midland, Odessa, Abilene, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Beaumont, Port Arthur, El Paso, San Antonio, Harlingen, McAllen, Amarillo and Lubbock. They will appear on radio and television talk shows and meet food editors and county extension agents to talk about peanut lore, nutrition and recipes.

"A lot of folks in urban areas don't even know that we grow peanuts in Texas when in fact the state ranks fourth in production," said Mary Webb, executive director of the Texas Peanut Producers Board. "Last year Texas farmers harvested more than 410 million pounds worth $115 million in on-farm value."

People also may not know that: Peanuts are not really nuts but legumes. Like dried beans and peas, they have more protein than any other plant food.

Spanish and Florunner peanuts, grown in Texas, are used in candy. Florunners are also processed into peanut butter.

The United States harvests about 3.7 billion pounds of peanuts annually, about 10 percent of world production. Peanuts are 26 percent protein, which, when combined with a grain or dairy product, has all the amino acids necessary for complete protein.

Many countries make use of this low-cost, high quality protein in main dishes. Nutty Zucchini and Corn Au Gratin makes a nutritious entree or side dish.

NUTTY ZUCCHINI AND CORN AU GRATIN

1 1/2 lb. sliced zucchini
3 Tbsp. butter or margarine, divided
3 Tbsp. all-purpose flour
1 3/4 c. half-and-half

1/8 tsp. grated nutmeg
cayenne pepper to taste
1/2 c. chopped peanuts
1/4 c. shredded sharp cheddar cheese
salt and pepper to taste

1 (12 oz.) can whole-kernel corn, drained

Steam zucchini 5 minutes or until barely tender. Do not overcook. Melt 2 Tbsp. butter in large saucepan. Blend in flour and add half-and-half, stirring rapidly. When thickened and smooth, add nutmeg and cayenne.

Cook about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Fold in peanuts, cheese, salt and pepper. Fold zucchini and corn into cream sauce. Pour mixture into baking dish. Dot with remaining butter. Bake at 350 degrees F. 25 to 30 minutes or until golden. Makes 6 servings.

"BREAKFAST." People believe to cure a sore throat, wrap a piece of bacon around your neck.

Names in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Fred Astaire's widow has filed a $10 million libel lawsuit against Globe International magazine for allegedly describing her as a reclusive, greedy slob.

The magazine's Jan. 31 editions featured an article titled "Fred Astaire's Widow Is Living In A Dump" citing sources identified only as an "insider" and a "pal," according to the lawsuit filed in Superior Court on Thursday.

The article said Robyn Astaire is bitter about not inheriting Astaire's full estate, that she has let the couple's home fall into disrepair and that friend's have abandoned her, the lawsuit said.

The story also said Mrs. Astaire's home isn't cleaned regularly and that its cupboards are bare, the lawsuit said.

"Plaintiff is not a miserly eccentric who is stingy in the upkeep of her house and who refused to buy food," the lawsuit said.

Globe International officials couldn't immediately be reached for comment.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Actress Jill Ireland suffered a setback in her battle with cancer and was hospitalized briefly in Texas before her husband, Charles Bronson, took her home to California.

"Jill has had a setback. She's dealing with it the best that she can," spokeswoman Lori Jonas said Thursday.

The actress was hospitalized in Arlington, Texas, and underwent chemotherapy, Jonas said. Bronson accompanied his wife on her return to Malibu on Thursday.

Miss Ireland lost her right breast to cancer in 1984 and learned last summer the disease had returned.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Randy Owen, lead singer for the band Alabama, sold an apron for $350 to bring in the top bid among the T-shirts, photographs, candy and hats that country music entertainers sold at a benefit auction.

The sale was Wednesday during the annual DreamMakers Celebrity Waiters Luncheon, the proceeds of which go toward fulfilling the dreams of children with life-threatening illnesses.

stripped of his role over a sexual tryst with a church secretary and questions about the ministry's finances.

His search for hotel property was confirmed Thursday by a woman at Jim and Tammy Ministries who declined to give her name. She did not know what he planned to do with a hotel.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A Broadway producer wants to help preserve a statue of actress Myrna Loy that has been repeatedly damaged by vandals.

Charles Swissman, who is producing the upcoming Broadway musical "Nick and Nora," heard of sculptor William Van Orden's efforts to restore the statue after it was again damaged last month and offered to pay for a security system.

Miss Loy posed for the Venus statue outside Venice High School in the 1920s when she was an art student named Myrna Williams. Since then, it's been hit by vandals about a dozen times, including one attack in 1978 in which the head was blown off by dynamite.

Van Orden, 66, has made it a personal crusade to restore the statue each time, but he fears he may not be able to fix it this time because he is suffering from cancer.

When Swissman learned of the statue's condition, he sent Van Orden a donation.

Miss Loy, 83, lives in New York.

Woman's Health

FALLOPIAN TUBES
By Robert C. Park, M.D.,
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

A woman's reproductive system is made up of several fragile organs that work together to allow new life to grow. The fallopian tubes are an important part of this system. If all conditions are right, the man's sperm fertilizes the woman's egg and pregnancy begins in these delicate tubes.

Your uterus (womb), where a baby grows during pregnancy, is a pear-shaped organ located in your lower abdomen. The fallopian tubes extend four to five inches out from both sides of the upper part of the uterus and end in tiny finger-like projections. Close by these projections are the ovaries, organs which produce and release an egg each month.

During a normal menstrual cycle, an egg is released from the ovaries about two weeks after the first day of a woman's period. The egg is then gently drawn into the nearest fallopian tube by the "fingers." Once inside the tube, the egg may be fertilized by a man's sperm. If that occurs, the fertilized egg - embryo - will take a few days to travel down the tube into the uterus where the embryo begins to develop.

Because it is the egg's only route from the ovary to the uterus, a fallopian tube that is scarred or blocked can prevent pregnancy. For example, the most common method of permanent birth control is tubal ligation, or having your tubes "tied." Using a special instrument called a laparoscope, is one method that the doctor can use to either tie, remove, or burn (cauterize) sections of both fallopian tubes to prevent the egg and sperm from meeting.

Fallopian tubes that are blocked by scar tissue caused by infection disease, or previous surgery can cause infertility problems for women. A blocked tube can also cause a pregnancy to grow outside the uterus - ectopic pregnancy. When an ectopic pregnancy occurs, it is usually in a fallopian tube and can cause serious damage to the tube.

Thanks to new microsurgery techniques, some damaged fallopian tubes can be repaired. If there is extensive scarring of a tube or if one was ruptured by an ectopic pregnancy, however, it may have to be removed. If so, a woman can still become pregnant with only one tube.

The fallopian tubes are a small but essential part of a woman's reproductive system. To learn more about these special tubes, ask your doctor at your next regular visit.

NEW YORK (AP) - Actor Tim Matheson has taken control of National Lampoon Inc., the company that produced the hit movie "Animal House" in which Matheson played a college Don Juan.

Matheson and his business partner, Daniel Grodnik, said Thursday they bought the stake in National Lampoon held by its founder and chairman, Matty Simmons, paying $6 a share, or more than $761,400.

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates (AP) - Prince Charles and Princess Diana arrived to a jubilant reception, with no mention made of neighboring Iran's criticism of the royal couple's tour of the Middle East.

Large crowds cheered the couple and waved British flags upon their arrival Thursday.

The couple was to stay through today, when Charles travels to Saudi Arabia and the princess returns home.

The Iranian government accused the royals of trying to cause a rift in the Moslem world with their tour.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Television evangelist Jim Bakker has toured at least two Florida hotels and apparently is looking to buy one.

He told the owner of the once majestic 101-year-old Ormond Hotel that he's in the market.

Bakker also toured the Lakeside Inn in Mount Dora, about 20 miles northwest of Orlando, with a real estate broker.

Bakker, a former Assemblies of God minister, headed the PTL television ministry until he was

Advices ADA

Guard against quackery

With a more health-conscious public, nutrition-related health fraud and quackery have flourished to a multi-billion dollar industry.

The American Dietetic Association (ADA), in a position paper just released, urges consumers to learn how to identify nutrition misinformation and seek facts from reliable sources. The Association explains that "The best protection against quackery is being an informed consumer. Most victims of quackery are not gullible, but unsuspecting."

To master the necessary attitude of "sober skepticism," ADA says consumers need to recognize techniques used to manipulate the public:

-The claim sounds too good to be true—but the claims are what people want to hear. Non-scientific practitioners may play on emotion and misinformation, promoting ineffective diets, vitamin and mineral supplements, herbs or special foods touted without mention of possible side effects or other harms that may result.

-Consumers should be wary of practitioners who may belittle the regular food supply, established medicine and scientifically-based nutrition and regulation by government under the guise that people should have the "freedom of choice." Unproven treatments often are billed as "alternatives" to established treatments.

-Beware of practitioners who may rely too heavily on case histories, testimonials or subjective evidence to justify their claims. What's called a cure may in fact be spontaneous remission or the symptom-free periods common in chronic diseases. Other possibilities include misdiagnosis and the placebo effect, in which a person taking some non-therapeutic substance improves in the belief that it is a genuine medication.

The ADA statement also offers several points for consumers to evaluate scientific studies and reports.

-The scientific method used should depend on controlled experimentation to evaluate hypotheses. Not all experimental designs provide evidence that a particular nutrient actually caused the observed effect.

-Results of studies using animals may not be directly applicable to humans since the nutritional needs of animal species differ from those of humans.

-If results of studies on select human subjects are to be applied to the general population, the characteristics of the study group should represent the population at large. The number and type of patients, sex, age and demographic characteristics are important.

-Credible nutrition scientists usually report their work in reputable scientific journals where their work is reviewed and evaluated by their peers.

When books or magazine and newspaper articles seem credible, ADA recommends taking the following into consideration. Usually a reputable author is one whose educational background or affiliation is with an accredited university or medical center with programs or courses in nutrition, medicine or closely allied specialty.

Claims and statements should be documented with references to scientific journals where original research was published. Any conflicting research, unanswered questions and controversial issues should be mentioned. Professional journals often review a wide variety of publications and indicate their reliability. The judgement of registered dietitians or qualified nutritionists affiliated with a local college, university, hospital or health department can also be helpful.

For sound nutrition information,

ADA recommends consulting reliable sources, including such government agencies as the Food and Drug Administration, the United States Department of Health and Human Services or the United States Department of Agriculture. Volunteer organizations, such as the American Cancer Society and the American Heart Association, are also good resources. Professional and scientific organizations like The American Dietetic Association, the American Medical Association or the Society for Nutrition Education also are trustworthy, as are consumer groups such as the National Council Against Health Fraud, the Better Business Bureau and the American Council of Science and Health.

The American Dietetic Association, whose 57,000 members comprise the nation's largest group of nutrition professionals, is dedicated to the promotion of optimal health and nutrition status of the population.

3. Preheat the broiler. Line a large broiler pan with aluminum foil.

3. Prepare the grill.
4. Remove the meat from the marinade and grill over hot coals until done to your liking (about 10 minutes for rare), turning the meat once while cooking.
5. Remove the meat from the grill and slice diagonally, against the grain.

Accent on Health

One day four years ago, 13-year-old Johnny (not his real name) went from the normal activity of a teenager, to sitting in a wheelchair, with only the use of his hands.

Struck by a careless driver, the boy became a quadriplegic. And even though he remained mentally bright, he and his family faced the confusion of his long, complicated medical care and rehabilitation.

Then a case manager from the Texas Department of Health (TDH) entered the scene. The manager was from the TDH Bureau of Chronically III and Disabled Children's Services (CIDC). The CIDC program assists children with certain severely handicapping medical problems.

The CIDC case manager assigned to help Johnny provided emotional support to the family and saw to it that their home was modified so Johnny could get around in it independently. In addition, through the CIDC program, the case manager arranged payment for an electric wheelchair and for most of Johnny's rehabilitation and medical expenses.

Today, Johnny transports himself from class to class at school in his electric wheelchair. He is doing well in his studies, and in outside activities. He even has a part-time job as a disc jockey at a local radio station.

Johnny's progress is largely credited to the help offered by the CIDC program, and by the program's case management plan. Under this plan each client is assigned a specific case manager. The manager creates an overall health program for the clients, coordinating CIDC services and other needed medical, social, nutritional and educational services.

By assigning an individual case manager to coordinate the care for each patient, CIDC spares patients much of the frustration often associated with ongoing medical care.

In 1988, the CIDC program served 16,000 clients. To be eligible for the program, a person must be younger than 21, be a resident of Texas, meet income guidelines, and have one of the special health needs covered by CIDC services.

The CIDC program pays the medical costs for many chronic illnesses, including birth defects; bone, muscle, and joint problems; heart conditions; neurological disorders; cleft palate; cystic fibrosis; cancer; hemophilia; certain eye and ear disorders; and severe burns.

Some of the expenses paid for through CIDC include fees for physical therapy, speech therapy, transportation for the patient, 60 days or less in a hospital, and prescribed medicines, braces, and artificial limbs.

For more information, contact Jim Ramin, Bureau of Chronically III and Disabled Children's Services at 512/458/7355 or Margaret Wilson, Public Health Promotion Division, at 512/458/7405.
