Corn Suffers Stress; Potato Yields Good

Rain Needed for Grain Crops

By JIM STEERT
Brand Farm Editor

Vegetable harvesting is progressing rapidly in Deaf Smith County while high temperatures and dry conditions are making it hard for local irrigation farmers to get water to their corn crop before moisture stress occurs.

WES FISHER OF DICK BARRETT Produce Inc. of Hereford reports that potato yields are better than in 1976, and prices have also improved for white potatoes but the market for red potatoes has turned sluggish.

"The northern states began harvesting red potatoes two weeks early and as a result we've lost the advantage we had in the marketplace," Fisher explained. "Fortunately, only about 25 per cent of our local potato acreages planned to red varieties," he added.

According to Fisher, prices for Norgold variety white potatoes ranged from $5.50 per hundredweight to $15 for a premium carton Monday afternoon.

At the same time, harvesting of the local onion crop is also progressing, and Fisher estimated that early onions are 80 per cent harvested, while harvesting of Spanish onions will begin this week.

JUMBO ONIONS ARE CURRENTLY selling for $5.50 to $6 per 50 pound bag and the market for medium onions is resting around the $3.50 level.

"Things have gone pretty well thus far during the vegetable harvest, but we're encountering a problem in obtaining refrigerated trucks to move our produce," Fisher reported. "I don't know just what the problem is, but we're having to fight to get the refrigerated trucks we need to move our potatoes to points in the east, north and south," he added.

The packing shed spokesman reported that the quality of this year's vegetable crop is excellent.

The persistent problems of moisture stress, southwestern corn borers and mites currently face the county's corn growers.

THE CURRENT LACK OF rainfall has presented a particularly pressing problem for many local farmers, according to Justin McBride, county extension agent.

"It is extremely difficult for farmers to keep up with the moisture requirements of a thirsty corn crop at this time of year," McBride commented. "Farmers have nearly all of their available irrigation on corn right now and many of them are still behind. Because irrigation water is needed for corn, much of the county's grain sorghum is being forced to wait for water."

Turning to insect problems facing the county's fall grain crops, McBride pointed out that the critical period for control of the southwestern corn borer has arrived in many local fields.

"Right now is the critical time for a lot of fields, but it is important that each individual field be inspected to obtain the best control," said McBride.

THE COUNTY AGENT RELATED that Texas A&M entomologists have estimated that egg laying by the insects will continue through approximately Aug. 5.

"We have received varying reports concerning infestations. They have ranged from a low of seven to ten percent to as high as 40 per cent," McBride stated.

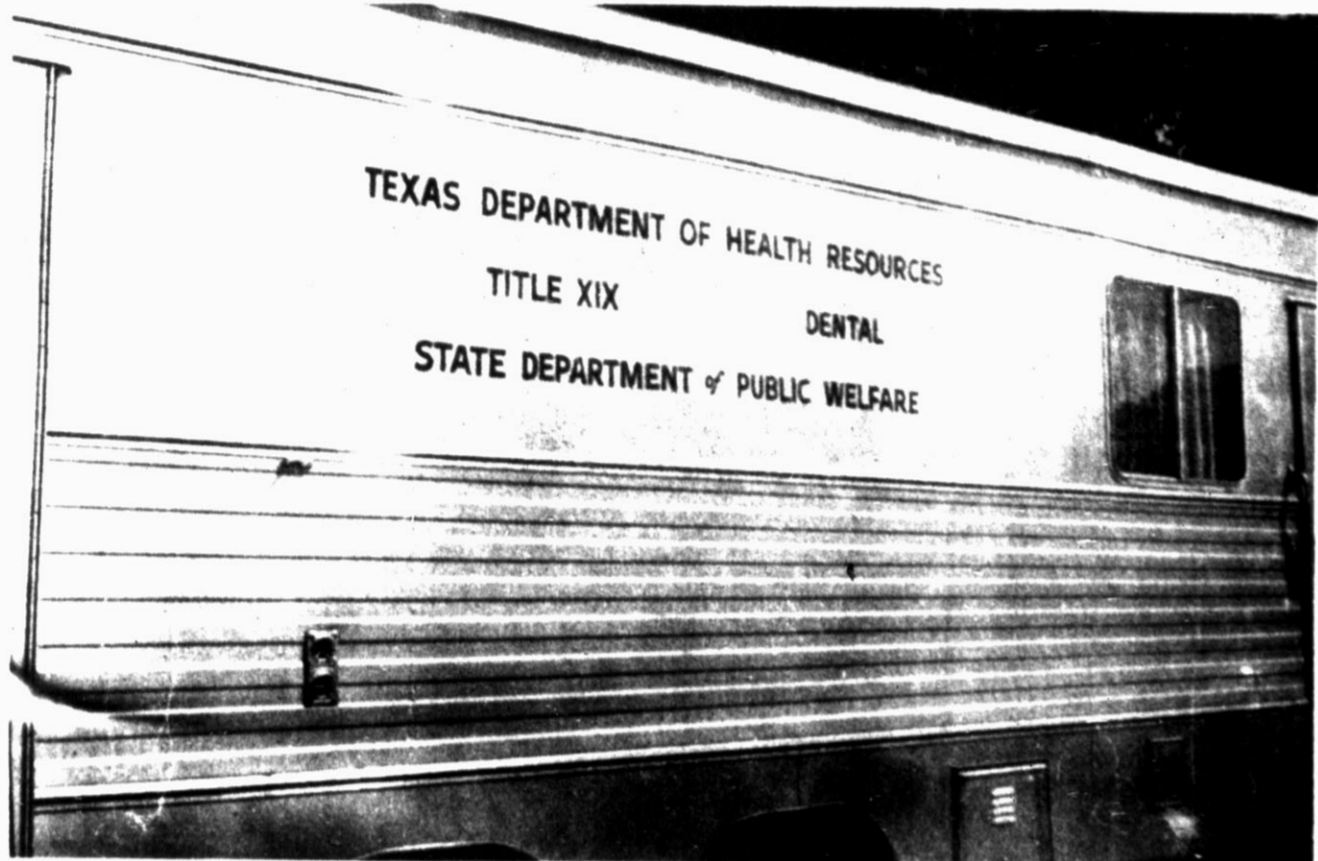

Mites are also causing problems in some corn fields, according to McBride.

"Currently, mites are doing as much damage as any other pest, and insecticides afford very little control of this pest. There have been reports of predatory mites assisting in the control of these pests in the Parmer County area," said McBride.

GREENBUG POPULATIONS in Deaf Smith and Castro Counties have not been sufficiently intense to warrant spraying of greenbug resistant sorghums, and the parasitic wasp is doing a good job in helping to control greenbugs, according to McBride.

He urged area farmers to refrain from applying pesticides for greenbug control until populations of the insect have reached the economic threshold of various fields.

Carter Hopeful About Weapons

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jimmy Carter offered a double pledge during the presidential campaign: He promised to step up efforts to stop the spread of atomic weapons and vowed to work toward removing nuclear arsenals from the earth. In a July 8 interview at the White House, AP Diplomatic Correspondent Arthur L. Gavshon discussed the issues with the President.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President

Carter says there is now "a glimmer of hope" that the spread of atomic weapons can be limited, even though "every step is going to be a challenge in itself."

"Six or eight months ago there was a general feeling around the world that nothing could be done—that it was too late—that the atomic genie was out of the bottle and that nobody could catch it to return it to captivity," the President said.

But I believe there is a different feeling now—that there is a glimmer of hope that the proliferation of nations who have an explosive atomic device can be limited. Instead of having dozens of atomic nations, I think the likelihood is we won't have very many more."

Carter also said in an interview that "I don't know of any nation" which (See WEAPONS, Page 2)

Hill Estate Donates Money To Society

The board of directors of Deaf Smith County Historical Society announced today the receipt of a donation from the trustees of the J.E. Hill estate.

The gift of several thousand dollars will be used in the renovation of the E.B. Black house, located at 508 W. Third St., which was presented to the County in February of this year by Prudis Black, widow of the late Jim Black.

Today's announcement was made by Helen Rose, one of the historical society's board members. She explained that the donation from the Jim Hill estate was made this week by the inheritance trustees, including Robert L. Thompson, Major Schroeter and Owen Bybee.

The contribution has been specifically designated for the restoration of the interior of the Black residence, which has already undergone exterior improve- (See BLACK HOUSE, Page 2)

Federal Payments on Wheat Nearly Certain Says Fuston

Unless there is an increase in wheat prices over the next four months, area wheat farmers will receive federal payment this fall, according to John Fuston, Deaf Smith County ASCS Executive Director.

"UNDER THE CURRENT wheat program, deficiency payments are to be made to producers if the national average market price for the first five months of the marketing year is less than the target price of $2.47 per bushel, and this $2.47 may be raised to the $2.90 figure everyone is talking about under the new farm bill which is supposed to be voted on today or Wednesday in the Senate," Fuston explained.

"The preliminary national average wheat price for all farmers was $2.00 per bushel in June, compared with $2.19 in May. June is the first month of the 5-month period used to determine if deficiency payments will be made to farmers this fall."

"Because many wheat farmers are faced with serious economic problems due to low market prices, it's important that the provisions for this additional income source be reviewed for area wheat farmers. This is the first time such payments would be made to wheat farmers under the 1973 Farm Act," said Fuston.

"The deficiency payment rate is determined by subtracting from the $2.47 target price, the higher of the June-October national average price or the national average loan rate. Using the national average wheat loan rate of $2.25 per bushel as an example, the deficiency payment rate would be 22 cents per bushel.

"FOR EXAMPLE, IF A farmer has an established yield of 25 bushels per acre, a 200-acre allotment, and the deficiency payment rate is 22 cents per bushel, the farmer's deficiency payment would total $1,100 (25x200x.22 = $1,100)."

"All farmers having wheat allotments are automatically eligible for deficiency payments, regardless of the disposition of their wheat. Whether the wheat has been sold, placed under loan with the Commodity Credit Corporation, or is stored on or off the farm does not have any bearing on a farmer's eligibility for the payment," Fuston said.

Under farm program legislation currently being considered in both the Senate and the House of Representatives, this deficiency payment provision is being continued.

Producers are reminded that both a deficiency and disaster payment may not be made on the same production unit. For example, if the above farm produced

2,000 bushels on a 200 acre wheat allotment and was eligible for and received a low yield disaster payment based on the 3,000 bu. loss, the deficiency payment would be $440, if the target price remains at $2.47 (2,000 bu. x .22 = $440.) The low yield disaster payment would be $2,460. (3,000 x .82 = $2,460.)

WHEAT FARMERS WHO would like to have further information on the wheat disaster or deficiency payment provisions of the current program relative to their farm should contact Fuston at the county ASCS office.

County Hires HE Assistant

Deaf Smith County commissioners hired Claudette Mitchell of Duncannon as home economist assistant during their regularly scheduled meeting Monday morning.

Miss Mitchell, 22, was hired following a 30-minute interview with commissioners. She replaced Sherry Harder, who recently resigned.

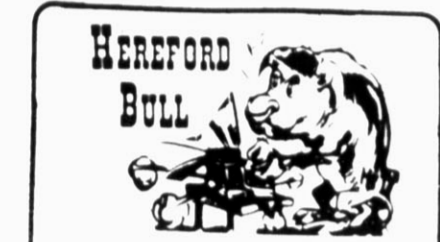

Joyce Shipp is Deaf Smith County home economist.

Commissioners also voted to extend a federal grant for one year to pay the salary of Jose Vasquez, assistant juvenile probation officer. The grant, which will expire Dec. 31, 1979, is for $10,000.

In other business the commissioners accepted a bid of $1550 from Johnny Latham of Hereford for the garage on the Black house property. There have been no bids on the small house adjacent to the garage.

Commissioners also approved road work for Precinct 2, involving the widening of the road between FM 1058 to Holly Sugar Road and agreed to pay a district court bill from the Amarillo Hospital District.

The bill—for $1193.21—is for a Hereford mental patient sent to the psychiatric pavilion in Amarillo for treatment. The patient was ruled incompetent to stand (See MEETING, Page 2)

THE ANNUAL HEREFORD Lions Club carnival got underway Monday night and continues through the week. It's a good opportunity for local citizens to satisfy the thrill of the carnival rides or the urge to knock a doll off the rack and, at the same time, know that the proceeds of the show will be used by the Lions for community projects. Tonight is "Pal Night" at the carnival and kids can clip coupons out of today's paper and, in effect, get two rides for the price of one.

WHILE SURVEYS among high school students have revealed that too many don't understand the free enterprise system, there are some bright spots. Many schools are now teaching some fundamentals about the free enterprise system that made this country great.

And, in a recent essay contest, top graduating seniors from 75 Texas high schools generally agreed on the need to be limited. The winning essay, entitled "Liberty in Jeopardy," was by Thad Ashmore of Lutheran High School in Houston. Here are some of his thoughts.

"There is a disturbing tendency on the part of the government to try to protect the citizen in all areas. The citizen is forced to pay for seat belts in his car that he may not use, compelled to pay more money into Social Security than he will ever get back, and forced to purchase services from industries that are not allowed to compete on prices.

More Patient Days But Hospital Tightens Belt

By BOB NIGH
Brand Staff Writer

Despite an increase in patient days this year over 1976, the Deaf Smith General Hospital operating report for June revealed that the hospital is tightening its belt. Ron Welty, administrator, told the hospital board of directors this morning in a routine regularly-scheduled meeting.

"The most important figure as to our utilization is that we're below last year's total," administrator Ron Welty told the board. "But, before the year is out we should come back up even with 1976 due to several new physicians here."

Welty informed the board that the hospital is "continuing to operate on a high cash flow basis" at the present.

"We're essentially operating out of the accounts receivable," he said.

The utilization report read by Welty showed that total patient days for 1977 up 962,882 from 1976. Outpatient days were up 506,501, while births at the hospital were slightly down for the year, 235,282. Also on the decrease were emergency (See HOSPITAL, Page 2)

'Natural Curiosity' Leads to 20 Years in Radio

By KEITH RIBNICK
Brand Staff Writer

A casual job offer in a Muleshoe barber shop changed the course of KPAN radio station manager, J.D. "Buddy" Peeler.

While a senior in Muleshoe High School, Peeler was offered a part-time radio job with the local AM station, KMUL. Twenty years later, Peeler is still in the broadcast field in Hereford.

"I think there's a natural curiosity in any high school age student. I had no real interest in radio, just a youthful interest," Peeler said of his radio start at KMUL as announcer and continuity staffer.

Peeler, raised in Muleshoe, worked at KMUL for almost 10 years in several different capacities. He also attended Eastern New Mexico University for a short time and worked at a Portales radio station.

After moving to Hereford in 1968, Peeler became employed with KPAN radio as an advertisement salesman. Two years later, he was appointed sales manager at KPAN and, in 1975, was promoted to station manager.

"My job includes the basic overseeing of the day-to-day operations of the station. I'm continuing to sell advertising at KPAN as part of my duties here," Peeler said.

"A radio station fills the overall need for communicating in a community setting. I think radio fills this need better in a small town than in a larger city. It's sort of a town crier which attempts to fill local needs."

Peeler advocates only minor changes in Hereford's only radio station. He said that KPAN has "changed very little from year to year," which might account for its success in Hereford.

"The first ingredient of a successful radio station is community involvement. A radio station is licensed to serve the public interest. We could still cover the basics, without our staff becoming involved in the community, but it would be a little bit shallow. Personal involvement is essential."

Peeler has become involved in community affairs extensively since his arrival in Hereford nine years ago. He has served as a past president of the local Rotary Club, as an advisory board member of the Hereford Satellite Training Center, and as a local leader in the United Way program. Peeler is currently serving his third one-year term (See PEELER, Page 2) disagrees with its goal of total and verifiable nuclear disarmament.

The President said that the United States has instituted a very strong program based on two simple principles: one is to eliminate all nuclear weapons and the other one is to control nuclear wastes and the enriched uranium inventory to prevent a transfer into explosives.

He said he has received some support and Chinese backing for his goal of stopping the spread of nuclear weapons and, ultimately, eliminating them entirely. But he also said he hopes to see even more cooperation from the two Communist giants.

He said the Soviet Union has been very forthcoming in its support of proposals to control the use and development of nuclear fuels, rods and assemblies.

He said he was disappointed by Moscow's rejection of a proposal for a "strategic reduction in atomic weapons," but added, "It's still a very real goal for my administration."

He said he and the Chinese leaders shared the goal of total nuclear disarmament. He said he had discussed "being" news with Ambassador Huang Chen, chief of China's liaison mission in Washington.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Every year, there is a childless writer who will set down suggestions on how to travel with children and have a wonderful time.

They paint a picture of serenity...the children's little noses pressed to the windows waving to cows, Mother pointing out national monuments, and Daddy leading the entire group in a moving rendition of "You'll Never Walk Alone."

The latest article to come across my desk is one of the best yet.

"Put pillows, snacks, a change of clothes and some of the children's favorite toys inside the car where they can be easily reached."

"Plan for rest stops about every two hours and if possible take a brief walk on these stops."

"Once back on the road talk about what they saw and did during each stop."

"Use your imagination for other kinds of entertainment. Play guessing games and sing songs."

Doesn't that make you want to go right out and buy a child for your next trip?

Well, friends, you're not talking to an amateur today. I have travelled with children for the last 20 years, been in three rest homes, five encounter groups, written 15 letters to Dale Evans asking for spiritual guidance, and was in analysis two years after I once admitted to abandoning a 10-year-old in a roadside gift shop. I have a few suggestions of my own.

The pillow is a great idea. The first one who whines, "Make him stop looking at me," gets it -- right over the face.

As for commercial games and toys, forget 'em. Children usually like to make up their own. "There's 'Name That Thud.'" With her head turned toward the no-draft, Mom has to guess what is making Robbie cry out in pain. There's "Window Roulette" where all the bodies in the back seat are airborne trying to get a seat by the two windows. Other cars will often slow down to watch this one.

I personally like "Statue," a take-off on the old summer game where Mom reaches over the back seat, gives each a thump and no matter what position they land in, they must remain that way for the next 200 miles.

If you encourage a child to share with you his observations of the last pit stop, be prepared to hear language from a restroom wall that will make your radiator boil over.

Throughout the years I have discovered there is only one way to thoroughly enjoy your travels with children. When you're over-kidged, travel under sedation.

Longer Tresses in Vogue

Hair styles will drop back to the shoulders for the upcoming winter in designs of Solar hair, according to the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. Waves and curls will be a major element in the warm, lengthened styles.

Hairdresser Attends NHCA Convention

Local hairdresser Phyllis Neill learned the latest hair fashions while attending the 57th annual convention of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association in San Francisco.

Solar hair "With all the warmth of the sun" was the main theme for winter coifs, which will have renewed emphasis on the longer looks, from just-below-the-shoulder to earlength. According to stylists, Solar hair features curled volume on both sides and the back of the head. This design may be varied for evening wear by styling the curls to one side of the head for an asymmetrical look.

Women who wish to retain short hair can assimilate the Solar hair trend by having wisps of tight curls. The latest fashion color for hair, according to Mrs. Neill, is henna, illuminated by natural suns streaks.

Woman Doctor Tells Of Drama

The real-life drama of the medical profession is related from a woman's point of view in "Woman Doctor" by Florence Haseltine, which is being promoted this week by Deaf Smith County Library. Also recommended for reading is "The Silver Leopard" by Zoe Cass.

A woman's internship in a large city hospital is the fiber of high-pressure which revolves around life and death each day. The personal struggle and fulfillment of the "Woman Doctor" is recounted in this new book.

For lighter reading, Zoe Cass provides her latest publication, "The Silver Leopard," which is set in the beautiful highlands and moors of Scotland. The heroine, Caroline Westwood, is thrown into tumult after the sudden death of her mother.

Deaf Smith County Library is open free to the public from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. other weekdays; and until noon Saturday.

WOMAN DOCTOR by Florence Haseltine

In "Woman Doctor, Phyllis Donnan tells the up-and-down, non-stop story of her internship in a large urban hospital. With unflinching honesty, she recounts her often funny, often painful initiation into the mysteries of birth, sickness and death, and her struggle as a woman to win her rightful place in a male-dominated medical profession.

"Woman Doctor" tells the whole truth about how women and men relate in the naked, high-pressure environment of the hospital, how prejudice, ignorance, fear, desire and love work among doctors, nurses and patients-day in and day out. Phyllis's grueling rotations take her through private and ward medicine, emergency, obstetrics, gynecology, surgery and pediatrics, where we witness her first difficult lessons in understanding her patients not simply as cases, but as human beings she both cares about and cares for.

Inevitably, in this totally engrossing year, her personal life is also centered in the hospital, and Amy Paredes, her fellow intern, the "Screw King" surgeon Dennis Danes, and Stella Black, a beautiful and intelligent woman dying of cancer, are three of the people who become important to Phyllis.

"Woman Doctor" is the result of an unusual collaboration: Florence Haseltine, a doctor, and Yvonne Yaw, a novelist, have produced an authentic and telling portrait of a contemporary intern, based on actual experience. Phyllis Donnan comes vividly to life in the pages of their book--an utterly believable character is an unforgettable story of medicine and medical people as they really are today.

THE SILVER LEOPARD

By Zoe Cass

"The great drawing room of Quern Lodge held a score of friends, men and women, talking quietly and drinking coffee of malt whisky. Some had driven many miles, for Highland houses are set far apart, separated by moor and mountain, loch and torrent. Julian Bennet and I had come farthest of all, our station wagon gulping down the miles between London and Skeran in north Arhyllshire during the dark hours of the night. We had rolled to a halt in front of the gray stone house at eight o'clock this morning, surprise guests and perhaps even unwelcome."

Thus Caroline Westwood reaches her family's home in Scotland. She had been on a trip, scouring the countryside for antiques for her fashionable London shop, and when she returned she found awaiting her the news of her mother's sudden death. With her partner, Julian she rushed to Quern Lodge and arrived barely in time for the funeral.

Her sadness at not being with her mother at the time of her death is heightened by the hostility and the strange behavior of her young step-sister, Flora, and stepbrother Cosmo. Each moment seems to draw Caroline further back into her old life, engulfing her in the beauty of the country, in her confused emotions about her family and friends, and into the terror and sadness of her recent past.

Caroline's grandfather, from whom the immediate family has been estranged, unexpectedly sends for her to visit him at Invercorrie Castle, the great house at the edge of the sea in which Caroline spent her early childhood. Meeting with her grandfather, and with Robb Morrison, the man whom she had loved as a young girl, awakens in Caroline's mind further memories of her past. She feels again the pain of her mother's second marriage to Angus Cunningham, a dissolute and profligate man who died a violent and unexplained death at the sea. She remembers the complications of her relationship with Angus and with her own mother, and she is brought face-to-face with the terrible ambition of Flora and Cosmo.

Torn between loyalty to her grandfather and anger at his coldness toward her, between love of her London life and her continuing attraction to Robb, Caroline soon learns that the forces that threaten her are not only psychological but physical as well. She has several near misses with death and realizes that more people than she could have suspected are involved in her private affairs in Scotland.

This beautifully-told tale unfolds in a suspenseful way, so that the reader is held entranced until the very end. The love story is very sweetly drawn and the Scottish setting is vivid in this skilled writer's hands.

Ann Landers Kid Quiz

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a mother of three children and have had it up to here with quizzes that are supposed to show whether I am a "good parent."

My answer is, "I am as good a parent as I can be," and I mean it. My husband and I love each other (Father Theodore Hesburgh's first rule). We do things as a family. We take an interest in our children's school projects and activities. We don't spoil them with gifts or privileges. They work for spending money. They aren't disciplined with a strap. We use the "talk-it-out" approach.

What then is my gripe? Simply this: As they get older they become more surly, more irresponsible and more disobedient. They argue among themselves, whine, sulk and complain. I used to enjoy doing things for them but now I find it neither satisfying nor rewarding.

I know we are not alone. Ann. Our friends tell us, "If you think they are a handful now, just wait a couple of years."

Maybe if kids would try a little harder, more parents would be able to answer "yes" to that survey you ran recently--"If you had it to do over again would you have had children?"

He's a quiz for THEM--for a change:

1. When did you last hug your mom without wanting something?
2. When did you last make an attempt to be especially pleasant to you dad without asking him to fix something?
3. Do you say hello to your parents' friends and treat them with respect?
4. Do you take pride in your home or do you leave yogurt cups in the living room and the sprints for someone else to clean up? How about the yard? Did you leave your new football out in the rain all night?

5. How about the car? Can a person sit down without getting stuck to a wad of gum? Speaking of the car, when was the last time Dad had to pull over to the curb or the shoulder of the road because of the yelling or fighting in the back seat?

6. When did you last tell your mom the dinner was good and that you appreciate the effort she puts into cooking for you?

7. Are you on time when Mom or Dad offers to drive you somewhere or pick you up? Are you where you are supposed to be or do they have to look for you?

8. When was the last time

Mom or Dad had to bring a forgotten lunch or a book to school? Do you ever say thanks for this?

9. When did you last do what you were told without asking why or saying "Wait a minute," or, "Do I have to?"

10. Are you proud of your mom or dad? Their manners? Could they be proud of you? Please, kids, we love you. We could have a wonderful time together, but it's a two-way street. You have to do your part.--Florida Mom

DEAR MOM: Millions of eyes will see your letter and the Kid Quiz. It's sure to make many parents feel less alone. (Your complaints are par for the course.) It may also connect with a million kids out there who need to shape up. Thanks for the input.

Doctor Named ACS President

J. Harold Cheek, M.D., of Dallas, was elected President of the Texas Division, American Cancer Society at the 32nd Annual Meeting of the Membership Luncheon, July 15. Russell Perry of Dallas was re-elected Chairman of the Board.

Other officers elected were: Gerald L. Woolam, M.D. of Lubbock, President Elect; Larry K. Fuller of Borger, Vice Chairman of the Board; Mrs. Irene Wischer of San Antonio, Secretary; and Glen Soderstrom of Amarillo, Treasurer.

Area Vice Presidents elected were T. Paige Carruth, Ph.D., Canyon-Area I; Carl Norton, Waco-Area II; D.P. McClure, Corpus Christi-Area III; Mrs. Jack Clarke Jr., Conroe-Area IV; Weldon Mays, Greenville-Area V; and Garland Dummit, M.D., Fort Worth-Area VI.

Dr. Cheek is a twenty-one year volunteer who has served as District 23 Medical Director-at-Large, as a member of the Division Medical and Scientific Committee, and as chairman of the Division Service and Rehabilitation Committee. He is also a longtime Dallas Unit volunteer who has been involved in programs ranging from being chairman of the Walter Hagen Golf Tournament, as an advocate and pioneer in the Reach to Recovery Mastectomy Rehabilitation program, in Breast Self-Examination educational efforts, and often as a member of Professional Education Traveling Teams.

Dr. Cheek received a B.A. degree from Texas Tech, his M.D. from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, and an M.S. in Surgery from Baylor University. He is a Fellow in the American College of Surgeons and Diplomate American Board of Surgery.

Perry, also of Dallas, is another longtime ACS volunteer, having served as Chairman of the Board and Crusade Chairman in that unit plus being involved in the various fund raising and Educational projects. He is Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer for Republic Financial Services, Inc. and is said to be "involved in every worthwhile project in Dallas". He was named Dallas Boss of the Year in 1976 and has worked extensively with the Dallas and Texas Chamber of Commerce organizations. Perry graduated cum laude from Brooklyn Law School and is a member of the American Judiciary Society, the Federation of Insurance Council, and the American Insurance Institute.

Dr. Frank J. Rauscher, Jr., ACS Senior Vice President for Research, was keynote speaker at the Annual Meeting Dinner Thursday night. Dr. Rauscher reported that "about 90 per cent of cancers occur because of something we do, eat, drink or smoke. About 50 per cent of cancers can be controlled by personal decisions - like not smoking for example. But the other 40 per cent are beyond the individuals control. This is where regulatory agencies have to protect people".

All American Cancer Society standing committees met during the meeting to evaluate volunteer activities to-date for the 1976-77 program year and to set objectives for the 1977-78 program year, starting September 1, 1977.

Mrs. Walter Lalley of Missouri City was recognized for 30 years of volunteer service and received the National American Cancer Society's Division Award. One such award is given each year for "Distinguished Volunteer Service". Mrs. Lalley has served as Secretary of the Texas Division Board and twice as its Vice Chairman.

Twenty-five year award recipients were: Freeman Barkley of Spearman, Mrs. Ed Mann of Laredo, Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Watkins of Llano, Mrs. Murphy Chagnier of Port Arthur, and Lewis Spears of Austin.

Protestors Ready Again

KENT, Ohio (AP)--Opponents of a construction project near the site of the 1970 Kent State University shootings have decided to reoccupy the area if a judge permits the building.

Greg Rambo, spokesman for the May 4th Coalition, said coalition members agreed Sunday to be ready to reestablish an encampment near the slope where four students were shot to death and nine were wounded in the 1970 antiwar protest.

Portage County Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kainrad is expected to rule this week on the legality of the university's decision to build a $6 million gymnasium annex adjacent to the embattled slope, known as Blanket Hill.

The area was home for tentdwelling protesters for 62 days, until July 12, when police arrested 193 demonstrators for violating the judge's order to leave voluntarily.

Kainrad heard testimony last week from university officials who said the annex needs to be adjacent to the existing gym and that it would be no closer than 120 feet from where the wounded fell or from where Ohio National Guardsmen stood to fire upon demonstrators seven years ago May.

The coalition, maintained in testimony that the university could have picked another, less controversial, site for the annex.

Construction has yet to begin on the annex, delayed first by the "Tent City" encampment and now by the coalition's efforts in court to relocate the annex. The coalition, meanwhile, has asked for an Interior Department study into the feasibility of designating the shooting scene a national historic area.

Things Not So Bad In January, February

NEW YORK (AP)--To recall the icy days of last January and February might serve to keep you a bit cooler, but there is an economic lesson to be learned also.

You should have little difficulty remembering the mood at the time. Factories were shut down. People were forced to stay indoors, away from the stores. Fuel bills soared and, it was said, prevented home owners from spending on consumer goods.

Soon after the quarter ended, however, the statistics showed that things were a lot better than we had believed. Car and housing sales were especially strong, but a whole list of other goods showed gains too.

The Gross National Product increase for the quarter was reported at a 6.9 per cent annual rate, not just strong but downright lusty. And yet it was understated. On review, it was raised last week to 7.5 per cent, a torrid pace for any quarter.

Since then the pace has simmered down some. The rate of GNP increase in the second quarter was said to be a strong 6.4 per cent, seasonally adjusted, and again, subject to almost certain revision, most likely upward.

The two quarters add up to one of the brightest economic performances in years - even though the views of some professionals, and surveys of consumer moods, indicated the performance would be a good deal greater.

The lesson all of us can learn from this is most revealingly posed as a question: Why is it that we can generally tell where we have been, and claim to know where we are going, but seldom know where we are, economically speaking?

Marshall McLuhan has an observation that might be as appropriate as any. "Anybody's total surround, or environment, creates a condition of nonperception, said the social analyst and critic. We are blinded by our involvement.

This being so, stock market advances often are well under way before they are perceived, automobile sales might be soaring for several weeks before we realize they aren't an aberration, housing might be recovered while we continue to speak about the terrible conditions in the housing market.

This latter example provides the very best illustration of the tendency of even some highly regarded economists to listen to their projections rather than to the story being told in the market place.

Right under the long noses of the learned analysts, and in outright defiance of their gloomy outlooks, perhaps the most vigorous housing sales activity this country has ever known was under way.

But it couldn't be, said those who study the statistical bones. Houses were priced beyond the means of two many people. Interest rates were too high. Confidence was low. It couldn't be. But it was.

And so a modest proposal for economists: Please try to tell us where we are, not where we've been or are going. And another for ordinary mortals: Try to have more faith in your own observations.

Utes, Comanches Puff Peace Pipe

IGNACIO, Colo. (AP)--Drums are silent, the dancers gone. The peace pipe has been smoked and the sacred cedar fire extinguished. After two centuries of strife, the Utes and Comanches are brothers, united by their vow that the fighting has ended.

Two painted buckskin scrolls are all that remain from the four days of ceremony and celebration here on the Southern Ute Indian reservation in the rolling hills of southwestern Colorado.

The 40 Ute and Comanche leaders and elders signed their names on the scrolls Sunday, attesting that they took part in the sacred peace ceremony inside a teepee.

In the weeks before the two nations signed the treaty, leaders from both tribes said they believed the document would mean "a new era for all American Indians."

The two tribes once were bitter enemies, their warriors clashing again and again over hunting rights on the southern plains.

As the buffalo were decimated and the white man advanced, the tribes met about 1870 to talk peace, only to be thwarted when someone fired a shot that sent them back into battle.

More than 100 years later, their lands reduced to reservations and with tribal chairmen instead of chiefs, they met again. Two years of planning attracted nearly 4,000 spectators to Sunday's footnote to history.

'Golden Fleece' Goes to UPS

WASHINGTON (AP)-- Sen. William Proxmire is awarding his "Golden Fleece" award to the U.S. Postal Service, saying the mail agency spent more than $3.4 million on a Madison Avenue advertising campaign aimed at persuading Americans to write more letters.

"Spending public money trying to make Americans more prolific letter-writers is a dubious project at best," the Wisconsin Democrat said in a statement released Monday.

"People write letters for many reasons, but I doubt that a public relations pitch from the federal government is one of them. In my view, this kind of hype just won't make Americans type," Proxmire said.

Proxmire announces monthly "Golden Fleece" awards to what he feels is "the biggest, most ridiculous or most ironic example of wasting federal tax dollars."

In addition to the $3,475,600 paid to New York advertising agencies Young and Rubicam and Needham, Harper and Steers, the Postal Service also has spent $774,500 to run its ads in three test markets and evaluate the results.

Postal officials are considering whether to spend another $1 million for additional tests in 1978.

Postal Service spokesmen said the purpose of the tests is to see if advertising can lead to an increase in the lagging volume of mail, one of the reasons for the agency's chronic deficit.

"The program ended in the spring of 1976 and we are still analyzing the data. We have no firm plans to go any further," one spokesman said.

Ghana The African nation of Ghana is named after an earlier state that flourished along the Niger river between 800 and 1076 A.D. The modern nation covers 92,100 square miles, slightly smaller than the state of Oregon, with a population of some 10 million, principally members of the Adansi, Akwamu and Ga tribes. Ruled by Great Britain as the Gold Coast for 113 years, it was the first British African colony to be granted full independence, in 1961.

Laetrile Users Become Sick

WASHINGTON (AP)--Two cancer patients developed severe adverse reactions after taking the controversial substance Laetrile, Georgetown University cancer specialists say.

"It cannot be assumed that Laetrile is nontoxic or that this compound has not already contributed to the death of patients with malignant diseases," the specialists say in a report submitted to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Philip S. Schein, chief of the Georgetown's medical oncology, division, said "this potentially is the first example of Laetrile toxicity to reach medical literature." The two patients were not taking Laetrile under Georgetown's auspices.

"The main purpose of the report is to alert the medical profession and the public that this material may not be safe," Schein said in a telephone interview Sunday. "It has been assumed by the lay public and the medical profession that this material is at worst a harmless placebo. It may not even fit that criteria."

Schein and three colleagues made the report.

Legion Meeting Not a Disaster

PITTSBURGH (AP)--The tragedy surrounding their 1976 meeting faded to a memory as Pennsylvania American Legion delegates ended their 59th annual convention with a parade.

"We were prepared for problems this year, but thankfully they didn't occur," said state adjutant Edward Hoak as marching units gathered around him at the Civic Arena.

Twenty-nine persons died following the Legion's convention in Philadelphia last year. Another 162 were sickened by a mystery illness that came to be known as Legionnaires Disease.

"Our spirits are excellent right now," Hoak said Saturday. In fact, their real concern was for another tragedy-killer floods in the Johnstown area.

Delegates to the convention donated blood and more than $5,000 for use in the devastated area.

They also approved 28 resolutions at a wrap-up work session Friday.

One resolution called for the return of the military draft.

Others asked Congress to re-establish May 30 as Memorial Day and to re-appoint a House Committee on Internal Security.

Eugene Eichelberger of St. Thomas, Pa., was elected new state commander.

Ali At It Again

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—"Carunch. Gulp. sa-lurp." Muhammad Ali, a good eater and pretty fair talker, was doing both at once before an open microphone.

"I'm overexposed so I don't want to do no talking," said Muhammad Ali before launching his remarks that ran better than an hour at a news conference Monday to announce formally his heavyweight title defense against Earnie Shavers Sept. 29 at Madison Square Garden.

"So you ask some questions... while I eat," said Ali, who proceeded to show that food doesn't hinder his talking anymore than a mouthpiece does when he fights.

Foreman. "I'm gonna take this fight seriously."
But Ali, sitting with a few people about 15 minutes before the news conference began, was already talking about his asking price for fighting the winner of the Nov. 5 Ken Norton-Jimmy Young fight in Las Vegas-$12 million.

"They'll have to meet my price," said the highest-priced athlete in history. "I've already beaten them both and I can't add to my greatness as a fighter."

But although he won title defenses against Young and Norton, Ali realizes fully the lucrative financial aspects stemming from the controversy surrounding both fights.

There's no doubt he realizes the ability of both.
"I have no reason to take a risky fight if they don't pay me right," said Ali, who never has underestimated his drawing power. "The winner of that fight Norton-Young will make $2 million against me."

But the possible "gold mine" fight against Norton or Young hasn't blinded the champion from the task of selling the Shavers fight which will be televised live by NBC, with no blackout of the New York metropolitan area.

"People will say, 'now, here's the big mouth,'" said Ali, his eyes lighting up. "We got him now. He's in there with a puncher."

Fidrych Placed On Disabled List

DETROIT (AP)—Mark Fidrych, the Detroit Tiger's ailing pitching star, has been placed on the 21-day disabled list to give his sore right arm time to heal.

The Tigers made the announcement Monday after "The Bird" tested his right arm in the bullpen and said it still hurt every time he took a pitch. "The hurt is still there. What more can I say?" Fidrych said after lobbing about 10 throws to bullpen Coach Jim Hegan.

Teams physicians last week diagnosed Fidrych's condition as tendonitis. The Tigers said the 21-day disability status was retroactive to July 20, putting Fidrych out of action at least until Aug. 9.

"The way I look at it, it was just time for my arm to go," Fidrych said. "Maybe I didn't get enough rest and maybe my arm was a little tired, but I don't think so. I just think my time had come."

The Tigers are 11½ games out of first place in the American League East with a 44-52 record. However, they moved into fourth place Monday night, one per centage point ahead of Cleveland.

Tigers Manager Ralph Houk said, "Even if we hadn't placed him on the disabled list, there was no way we could expect him to come back and pitch much before Aug. 10."

Fidrych, last year's American League Rookie of the Year, was 6-4 this year after starting the season late because of the knee operation.

To replace The Bird, the Tigers purchased the contract of right-handed pitcher Jack Morris from their Evansville farm club Monday.

Clark Second At TAAF Track Meet

Bruce Clark, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clark of Hereford, placed second in the high jump at the TAAF track meet held in Houston Friday. Clark took runner-up honors in the junior division with a leap of 5-7.

The top finisher at the meet cleared the bar at 5-11, a state record. Clark was in a group of several leapers who cleared 5-7, but the Hereford competitor took second on fewer misses.

Clark's finish qualified him for the National meet to be held in Tennessee, but he will be unable to go.

Bellard Optimistic For Aggie Offense

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP)—The Texas Aggies averaged 30 points a game last year from their Wishbone-T offense. And there's every indication things could become even more explosive in 1977.

The Aggies have been picked by Dave Campbell's Texas Football Magazine to win the Southwest Conference title and every preseason preview in the country has A&M in the Top Ten.

Aggie Coach Emory Bellard said, "I've reason to believe our offense could be the best ever."

"We were 10th in the nation. We get all our backfield back. They've done a good job—you're not speculating there."

Massive fullback George Woodard, veteran quarterback David Walker and slick halfback Curtis Dickey head the Aggie backfield.

Asked what Woodard would weigh this year, Bellard shook his head and said "You've seen him play good at 245 and at 265. I don't know what he weighs now. He stays in good shape. He better because when he reports to camp I'm going to run the dog out of him. It never seems to bother George."

Defensively, Bellard said "We could be a good football team if we mature quickly."

"We will have a lot of new names out there," said Bellard. "We've lost people like tackle Edgar Fields and defensive end Tank Marshall and All-American middle linebacker Robert Jackson. But we have some good young players coming up."

"We're not going to overwhelm anyone with our experience but we'll be aggressive and get after the other side good."

Part of the Aggie fate could hinge on how linebacker Roderick Reed and defensive end Eugene Sanders fare in summer school.

"Both have a chance to return if they can make the grades. That's something we can't count on until it happens."

Bellard alluded to the Aggie confidence factor as they come off a thumping of Florida in the Sun Bowl.

"We have some people who feel like they can play and that comes from results," said Bellard. "They have a reason to feel like they can play. They have the winningest record over the last three years in the conference."

The Aggies face a tough schedule, opening with Kansas followed by Virginia Tech, Texas Tech and Michigan before an open date.

"We have to have a fast start," said Bellard. "Last year when the season ended I felt like we could play with anyone in the nation. I felt like we could play any team with a chance to win."

Bellard was in Dallas for the annual Texas High School Coaches' association coaching school.

Sox' Luck Changes

To win at Boston's Fenway Park, "You have to be lucky," according to Chicago White Sox Manager Bob Lemon.

"We were hitting the ball well but right at somebody."

That was just for the first part of Monday night's game.

"I though we were unlucky for about the first six innings," said Lemon after his White Sox rallied from a 6-1 deficit with a home run barrage and defeated Red Sox, 8-7.

"We came out in the end swinging like a fighter," Lemon said. "It's been like this all year."

Eric Soderholm, Jim Spencer and Brian Downing hit homers, and two more drives might have gone for extra bases but for two stellar plays by Boston center fielder Fred Lynn.

While Lynn was practicing his magic in the outfield during that rain-delayed contest, Luis Tiant was baffling the White Sox with his assortment of off-speed pitches.

Then the roof fell in.

Soderholm, robbed twice by Lynn's catches on drives to the base of the center field wall, cracked a 3-2 pitch for his third homer in two days.

Mays Headed To Nationals

Hereford's James Mays has qualified for the National AAU Junior Olympics track meet to be held in Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12-13.

Mays qualified for the big meet by taking second place in the 880-yard dash Saturday in the Region 9 AAU Junior Olympic track and field meet. The competition was held at the Gregory-Portland High School track field near Corpus Christi.

Although Mays was beaten for the first time this year in his specialty, the top two finishers qualified for the national competition. James Green of Houston, who Mays had defeated in the state UIL meet in April was the first-place finisher Saturday with a 1:56.4 clocking. May was right behind at 1:56.6

Two other Hereford Juniors had qualified for the Region 9 meet, but they failed to qualify for the national. Scott Gentry competed in the mile run and was out of contention with a 5:30 time. Beverly Nixon had a 61 flat in the 440 but was not among the top finishers.

Nixon and Gentry were competing against older participants, since the intermediates and juniors were placed in one division at the Region 9 meet. Nixon had also qualified to run the 100-yard dash, but it was scheduled just prior to the 440 and she scratched from the event.

Weldon Knabe, Hereford YMCA, accompanied the trio to the meet, as well as Mr. and Mrs. James Gentry, who provided transportation. Knabe reported the national finals are scheduled to be on national tv, probably on Sunday, Aug. 14.

Claude Huard, executive director of the YMCA, announced that a fund is being set up for anyone who wants to help pay expenses for Mays' trip to the national meet. The "Y" is the sponsor of the local AAU track program.

Donations can be taken to the "Y" office at Sugarland Mall, or checks can be mailed to the Hereford YMCA, Sugarland Mall.

A First

Finishing second in the 880 was a first for Hereford's James Mays last weekend at the Region IX AAU Track and Field Meet held at Gregory-Portland. Mays [left] finished behind Houston's James Green in the event. Mays had beaten Green for the State 4A 880 title earlier this year. Both runners will compete in the National AAU Meet in a few weeks. Major Stars At Sectional

The Hereford Bronco Major All-Stars open Sectional baseball action at 9 p.m. tonight against host Seminole, Oklahoma as they play in the six-team tournament. A loss tonight would put the stars into a loser's bracket game Wednesday evening, while a win advances them to a Thursday night game.

The Hereford team advanced to the sectional by downing El Paso Ysleta in straight games recently. Coaching the team are

If the team wins the sectional tournament they will advance to play at Altus, Oklahoma Sunday, Aug. 1.

TORONTO (AP)—Guillermo Vilas, the top-spinning power-hitter from Argentina, will defend his title at the Canadian open championships Aug. 15-22, it was announced Monday.

Vilas, 24, who won the French pen in June, will be joined by Davis Cup teammate Ricardo Cano.

Cano defeated Dick Stockton in a key match earlier this year to help Argentina to its 3-2 Davis Cup victory over the United States.

Billy Martin of the U.S., Buster Mottram of Britain, Balazs Taroczy of Hungary and Francois Jaffret of France also will compete in the tournament.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An El Paso, Tex., sprint car driver has died from injuries suffered in an accident July 16 at Manzanita Speedway here, a spokesman for the race track said.

Steve Bartram, 21 died Monday at Barrows Neurological Institute, where he had been hospitalized since the accident.

Bartram suffered head injuries after his car hit the wall and flipped several times.

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP)—The Detroit Lions have acquired veteran defensive back Chris Fletcher from the San Diego Chargers in exchange for a ninth-round draft choice in 1978.

Fairbanks, Patriots Lengthen Agreement

By The Associated Press

O.J. Simpson may not be looking forward to another winter in Buffalo, but Chuck Fairbanks is ready for another in Foxboro, Mass., and another, and another...

Fairbanks had three years remaining on his original eight-year contract with the New England Patriots and signed a new long-term contract with the National Football League team Monday.

Club President William H. Sullivan announced the agreement Monday, saying the contract calls for a pay raise and retains Fairbanks as general manager. No other details were announced.

The 44-year-old Fairbanks joined the Patriots in 1973 after six seasons at the University of Oklahoma. He has piloted New England to a four-year record of 26-30. Last season the club had its best record ever, 11-3, and advanced to the playoffs for the first time in 13 years.

In Buffalo, meanwhile, Simpson made it clear to the Bills that he is upset over the team's trade of center Mike Montler and the inability of the club to strengthen itself.

"It's frustrating. There's no straighter way to say it. I've always worked hard and always

Anderson Receives New Contract, Loss

It was a day of good news and bad news for Sparky Anderson. He got the good news in the afternoon Monday when the management of the Cincinnati Reds extended his contract for two years. He got the bad news Monday night when his team's losing streak was extended to seven games.

"There's no question the contract felt good, but we've simply got to win more games," said Anderson, shaking his head after a 9-8 nationally televised defeat by the Cardinals.

played hard. But you can only do so much," Simpson said.

The Bills continued housecleaning by placing former All-Pro cornerback Robert James on waiver at his request.

James, who missed the last two seasons, failed the team physical this season. Meanwhile, Buffalo announced that offensive tackle Donnie Green, who lost his starting job to Joe Devlin late last year, had walked out of training camp for unknown reasons.

Cincinnati Bengals Coach Bill Johnson said two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin would see more action this season.

"Maybe we made a mistake the first half of the season. Had he played the entire season, I'm sure he would have gained 1,000 yards," said Johnson, referring to the celebrated running back.

New Orleans Coach Hank Stram announced he was not going to trade his next No. 1 draft choice—not even to get an All-Pro defensive back.

Stram said he wouldn't swap a first-round draft choice for Mel Blount, the Pittsburgh star who has filed a $5 million slander suit against Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll.

Blount claims he was damaged by court testimony in which Noll said Blount sometimes could be considered part of the "criminal element" of the NFL.

In Washington, Redskins Coach George Allen announced that running back Mike Thomas and wide receiver Frank Grant will be fined the maximum $500 per day for missing training camp.

The fines are part of Allen's "get tough" approach with holdouts.

Kansas City punter Jerrel Wilson has asked the Chiefs to trade him to Houston so he can be close to his ailing poster parents, but talks between the two clubs have reached a stalemate.

In other developments, the Cleveland Browns announced they had signed veteran offensive tackle and captain Doug Dieken, ending a brief holdout, while the Detroit Lions acquired veteran defensive back Chris Fletcher from the San Diego Chargers for a ninth-round draft choice in 1978.

By BOB NIGH

Redbirds End With Losses

By BOB NIGH
Brand Sports Editor

Hereford's American Legion Redbirds closed out the season last weekend, dropping a pair of contests to Amarillo High and a close decision to Caprock. A doubleheader with AHS was played Saturday after rain postponements earlier in the week.

AHS downed the 'Birds 5-3, 9-0 in the doubleheader to sweep into the loop playoffs against Canyon. Caprock, called "possibly the best team in the district right now" by Hereford coach Joe Don Cummings, had to scramble for a 4-3 win over Hereford Sunday in the season finale for both clubs.

"Caprock won their last six games, and defeated AHS 7-1 the last time they played," Cummings revealed. "We played good baseball in all three games, although the second AHS game was a letdown after the first loss.

The loss knocked the Redbirds out of a possible playoff position.

A five-run fourth inning, in which AHS got both their hits in the game, was enough to put the winners in the playoffs. Chris Hill took the loss for Hereford despite giving up only two hits while striking out eight and walking six.

"We played exceptionally well, but lost," Cummings said. "AHS and Canyon are equal in strength."

The nightcap was a nightmare for Hereford, who saw themselves behind 7-0 after two innings. Redbird starter Mike Foster was tagged for seven runs while giving up just four hits. Hill relieved Foster only to allow two runs in the sixth as AHS celebrated their playoff victory.

Sunday's game against Caprock was another good showing by the 'Birds, but Hereford couldn't keep Caprock from its sixth straight win. Don Weemes took to the mound for Hereford and went almost six innings before being relieved by Hill. Weemes struck out two while issuing four bases on balls.

Timmy Frost got the win for Caprock.

"We again played outstanding baseball only to lose," Cummings said. "The young men played well all season."

The trio of losses dropped Hereford to 4-8 on the year, good enough for a fourth-place tie in the loop.

Looking at some team statistics Ron Plummer and Foster led the team in hitting with .400 marks. Foster went 14-35 with two home runs and 10 RBIs, while Plummer was 8-20 with a pair of two-baggers

Back in 1973, it occurred to Sam Shoula that others were building home equities, while he was merely building his landlord's bank account. Sam decided to buy, and found a nice 3 Bedroom. But it cost $27,000.00. He decided to wait awhile for interest and prices to come down. Each year Sam says, "I Shoulda Bought Last Year," but hesitates to buy. A similar home today costs $38,000.00, and Sam says "I Shoulda Bought Last Year." Don't be another Sam Shoula. Don't wait to buy. Buy and wait.

'Thorn Birds' Doesn't Reach Its Desired High Altitude

THE THORN BIRDS. By Colleen McCullough. Harper & Row. 530 Pages. $9.95.
Thorn birds, so Colleen McCullough tells us, are said in an ancient Celtic legend to search for a thorn tree on which to impale themselves, then sing one song of ravishing sweetness and die.
Her thorn birds are the Cleary family, of Irish Catholic ancestry, whom we first encounter in New Zealand, struggling along in difficult circumstances. They are summoned to Australia by an enormously wealthy relative who owns the sheep station, Drogheda, which thereafter becomes their home.
Although financial security is assured from then on, tranquility and contentment are not. Loves and hates, droughts and fires, religious compulsions, aspirations and ambitions bring shocking fatalities, spiritual anguish, mental and physical maiming.
The Clearys' lives are followed from 1915 to 1969 as, from the base at Drogheda, events involve them in episodes set in other parts of Australia, in Europe, in the Vatican, in the North African desert and Far East of World War II.
In spite of the "toughness" of scenes and action that Miss McCullough introduces, this is essentially a rather conventional romantic novel that doesn't achieve the profundity or emotion of its ambitious pretensions. There seem to be some simple morals indicated, and themes repeated: jealous gods demand appeasement for too much love bestowed by humans here on earth; long-suffering women pay the heaviest price in pain even though their ambitious and active menfolk often pay with their lives. The concept of man the idealist and martyr, of woman the survivor and sufferer, is a perennial one that classical tragedy has treated with power and poetry lacking here.
Miss McCullough's characters are carefully "described," but knowing precisely what color their hair is fails to convey psychological reality and complexity. Wordage devoted to description serves Miss McCullough better in scene setting, especially the periodic elaboration of the social, historical and geographical background of Australian life. We learn many details of sheep shearing, for example, and the exact color of Drogheda's grass — except in drought, it remains unchanging through the years which turn her characters' hair from brightness of youth to white of age.
"The Thorn Birds," evidently conceived as an epic saga, is in execution a better-quality soap opera that can't rise to the occasion. One's disappointment is comparable to that of the would-be traveler to some illuminating new country who finds all his ticket offers is a slide show in overexposed technicolor.

Olivia Sticks With Country Flavor

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures
Olivia Newton-John, wearing a bright green velvet jogging outfit, her blonde hair in two pigtails, looks younger than 28, shorter than 5 feet 6 and smaller than 110 pounds. Twice during an interview she reacts to questions by rolling over on a couch and kicking her legs gleefully up in the air like an adored child. Her smile flashes frequently, as bright as Debbie Reynolds, making her face suddenly quite beautiful.

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

She's in New York for her first-ever performance in the city and it was her decision finally to play there. "I just didn't think the time was right for New York for me. I was apprehensive. But nothing is decided without my okay." A classy hall was chosen for the concert — the Metropolitan Opera — and each person attending was handed a long-stemmed rose.
The New York Times review is headlined "Olivia Newton-John Conveys Her Niceness" and the review, thoughtful, with some flattering things to say, some not, describes her as blending "images of the crinolined, antebellum South with the buoyancy of a modern-day Texas cheerleader."
In her teens, Miss Newton-John just sang, naturally, without working at it. Later she had some good advice which steered her toward country-flavored songs and now she says she has the experience to know what's best for herself. It's still ballads and the country-flavored.
She was born in Cambridge, England, where her Welsh father taught in a college, moved to Melbourne, Australia, when he accepted a job there. She lived in Australia from 5 to 16.
At 15 she won a talent contest, which led to offers to sing on TV. The prize was a trip to England, which she didn't want. Her parents had been divorced when she was 10, and her German mother thought she should sample some of England's culture.
"She encouraged my singing career and made me work hard and realize I wasn't going to get anywhere being lazy. I was no different than any other kid of 15; you resent your mother. Now I look back, I see she was very important to me."
"When I went to England I had a boyfriend in Australia. I intended to stay three months; all I wanted to do was go back and get married and settle down. Eventually I went home after a year and I heard myself saying, 'No, I don't want to get married. I want to go back to England.'"
Miss Newton-John toured as a duo with Pat Carroll, another Australian, until Miss Carroll's visa ran out and she had to go back. "I had an English passport. My mother again. I wanted to be like everyone else and have an Australian one but she said someday I'd be pleased to have an English one and she was right again."
She now lives in Malibu, Calif., with a cat, dogs and horses which she rides in the hills behind her home. In New York she walks a friend's dogs in Central Park.
The New York performance is the last of three weeks of one-nighters which followed a week each in Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe.
All six of Miss Newton-John's albums on MCA Records and four singles have been certified gold. She also has received three Grammy awards, best country female vocal, in 1973, for "Let Me Be There," and best pop female vocal and record of the year, in 1974, for "I Honestly Love You."

After Pat Carroll went back to Australia, Miss Newton-John joined TooMorrow, "which looked like a sure shot. It was going to be the new Monkees, in a series of films rather than TV. There was a black guy, a Cockney boy, a handsome cowboy from Georgia and me. We made a film and it died. For two years we were being flown around and introduced to people and we didn't work at all. I think we were a tax writeoff, actually."
Only after that did Miss Newton-John's career get going. Her manager then, Peter Gornley, liked country music. He picked "If Not for You," her first single, which became a hit in England. Some Nashville folk didn't like this foreigner's success with country music, a brouhaha which she says has blown over. "Anyway, you can't put music in a suitcase and shut the lid."
"I always wanted to be a ballad singer. My biggest record has been 'I Honestly Love You.' It's the sort of ballad I always dreamed of finding. My producer rang me up and said he'd found this incredible song in a box of demos. I heard it and flipped. Helen-Reddy tells me she'd heard it and told them to send it to me. I didn't know that; it was just amongst a pile of junk. Now we listen to everything that comes in, just in case it happens again."
The demo was sung by its composer Peter Allen, an Australian, as is Miss Reddy.
She thinks she has always been ambitious. Miss Newton-John says, though that word meant ruthless when she was growing up, so she denied it in herself. But she thinks it's probably what kept her going, through years like TooMorrow.
It hasn't been difficult to keep her private life private, she says, because "I've been with one person for a long time until recently. There was nothing to write about."
"Maybe one day I'll marry. I've always looked after myself financially, so marriage doesn't represent that kind of security to me. I still believe it should mean being with someone the rest of my life. To make that commitment is the hardest thing. I've seen so many negative things in marriage. I'm going to be 100 per cent certain."

Seven Attend 70th Reunion At Mt. Holyoke College

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass. (AP) — Traveling from as far as Florida, Michigan and Tennessee, seven members of the Class of 1907 returned to their alma mater, Mount Holyoke College, here for their 70th reunion.
The biggest surprise "is our being here at all — and no one is more surprised at that than we are," Susan Reed Stiefer of Pleasant Hill, Tenn., commented.
Classmate Julia Adams Davis of Lansdowne, Pa., added, "Don't call us relics. I still live in my own apartment and do my own cooking."
The women received rousing ovations from nearly 10,000 alumnae, on campus for the weekend reunion celebration, and some 500 members of the college's 140th graduating class, when they took their place at the head of the reunion parade for a march around campus.
Later they shared memories of 1907 college days — "lights out" at 10 every night and dances in the gym with "young Amherst swains," even though there was "promenading" instead of dancing. They agreed that their class's most memorable contribution was finally introducing dancing to the Mount Holyoke social scene.

They also reported on their post-graduation accomplishments, which included a Ph.D. in history, college teaching, several master's degrees, a 13-year career — between ages 67 and 80 — with a New York fashion magazine, a World War I tour in France with the Cocoa Barrage and the 1948 "American Mother of the Year" award.

A Look At The Lives Of Two Funnymen

BUD & LOU. By Bob Thomas. Lippincott. 224 Pages. $10.
The taller of the two men spoke: "Now on our ballclub, the fellas have peculiar names," he would say in his rasping voice. "Who's on first, What's on Second, I Don't Know's on third..." And so would begin the now classic comedy routine that was to become the trademark of "Bud & Lou" — better known as Abbott and Costello.
Beginning in burlesque and progressing to radio, movies and television, this comedy duo amassed a loyal and large coterie of fans. Bud Abbott, the tall, lean half of the duo, was the straight man, the quick-talking carnival barker type always out to bewilder, frustrate and connive partner Lou Costello, short and chubby, the simpliminded manchild. Abbott was the villain, Costello, the victim.
But that was only on stage. In real life, Costello is revealed as a shrewd, relentless businessman and a selfish and conceited star. Abbott, on the other hand, emerges as a devoted performer who often made sacrifices for the welfare of his "little buddy" and his desire to keep the duo intact.
Bob Thomas, a veteran reporter of Hollywood goings-on and author of several books on the entertainment field, has done a splendid job in illuminating the little-known private lives and the less-than-harmonious relationship of these two comics. Though Abbott and Costello were pure low-grade high-jinks on stage, privately their lives were clouded with tragedies. Costello, battling rheumatic fever, grieving at the drowning death of his baby son, was a man who made threats unless his often-outrageous demands were met. They usually were, and often Abbott, who had his own problems with epilepsy, the taxman, etc., was the victim.

This book is a fine chronicle of the surprisingly tragic lives and careers of two funnymen. More importantly, perhaps, it strips the gold-plate of Hollywood glamor down to the bare metal.

Brown Assures South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - Defense Secretary Harold Brown today ended talks with South Korean officials on the U.S. troop withdrawal plan, pledging continued military support and reassuring Seoul that the United States will not negotiate with North Korea behind its back.

It then went on to list, without specifying the cost, the elements of "the proposed military aid program - the transfer of U.S. military equipment, an increase in military sales credits for Seoul and continued support for "general Korean force improvement."

The communique also said Brown reaffirmed that the United States "would not enter any negotiations on the future of Korea with North Korea without the participation of the Republic of Korea."

This was an apparent effort to ease South Korean fears that the United States, as it did in the case of China and Taiwan, might suddenly open a bilateral dialogue with North Korea, by-passing Seoul.

first group of 6,000 soldiers will be withdrawn by the end of 1978, and the remaining troops will be "carefully" phased out after that.

The headquarters and two brigades of the 2nd Infantry Division, the principal Army unit here, will remain in Korea until the final phase of the withdrawal, it said.

The communique said both sides agreed that "compensatory measures will be implemented in advance or in parallel with the withdrawals."

Brown's talks with Suh and South Korean President Park Chung-hee were marked by repeated reassurances - including one in a letter from President Carter to Park - that the United States would honor its treaty commitment to defend South Korea.

"So long as an American security commitment exists, no one should have any doubt about our intention of honoring it," Brown said at a news conference before departing for Tokyo.

Our Amateur Ambassadors

America really needs professional diplomats. President Carter, while campaigning, said that he recognized this fact - yet he continues to appoint amateur ambassadors to obscure posts.

I know of no other country in the world which selects its ambassadors from the unschooled, unskilled and unprepared as we do.

Charles Yost was 35 years in the foreign service. He is highest at the manner in which this President - like his predecessors - continues to go outside the ranks of our trained foreign service people in his ambassadorial appointments.

During the last presidential campaign, Jimmy Carter frequently deplored the frequent ineptness of our politically appointed ambassadors.

In his book, "Why Not the Best," he wrote of the "disgraceful and counterproductive policy of appointing unqualified persons to major diplomatic posts on political payoffs. This must be stopped immediately."

You can remember more than enough examples: Ex-actor John Davis Lodge to Spain. Bill Saxbe to India. Gen. Jim Gavin to Paris. Publisher Walter Annenberg to Britain.

We once sent an ambassador to Sri Lanka who could not pronounce the name of Sri Lanka's prime minister, Bandaranaike.

When Soapy Williams went to Africa I doubt he knew where the Congo was - until he got there.

And we still have too many such.

Actually, President Carter has made about 76 per cent of his appointments to 125 embassies from among career foreign service people. And that is five to 10 per cent more than heretofore.

But most of these went to 23 of 25 African posts. In Europe - where the plum posts are also the most critical ones - some 30 per cent of Carter's choices will be political; in Latin America nearly 40 per cent.

This criticism is not meant to include such appointees as former Senate Majority Leader

Mike Mansfield to Japan and longtime presidential adviser Richard N. Gardner to Rome. These are politicians, to be sure, but both are men much experienced in foreign relations.

Admittedly, part of the problem is that the State Department is traditionally viewed with suspicion by the President, the Congress and the public.

F.D.R. considered State Department personnel hopelessly reactionary.

Fifteen years later, the pendulum had swung the other way and the State Department was viewed as populated mostly by Reds, subversives and/or "ugly Americans."

Longtime overseas correspondents whose judgment I have come to trust - professional observers - affirm that they have never encountered a foreign service officer who was either disloyal or disobedient.

True, the professional is likely to "tell it like it is," even to the President.

Whereas, the political appointee is likely to tell the President what he wants to hear - such things as "we can take Castro" and "we can handle Vietnam."

Australian Cowboy Struck by Airplane

PERTH, Australia (AP) - Tiger Julama, a cowboy, was hit by an airplane over the weekend. Authorities said Julama, 49, was astride his horse in the Australian outback rounding up cattle and driving them into a corral with the help of a light airplane.

The plane suddenly dipped too low and the nose wheel struck Julama on the back of the head, knocking him unconscious to the ground. The plane crash-landed nearby, but the pilot was unhurt.

The injured Julama later was flown from the ranch, in the eastern part of the state of Western Australia, and was taken to a hospital where a doctor pronounced his condition "fair considering he is lucky to be alive."

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal budget director Bert Lance Monday described as business-like, proper and entirely legitimate the $3.4 million loan that financed his purchase of 200,000 shares in the Atlanta bank he once headed.

Lance told a Senate committee he hopes to sell that stock in the National Bank of Georgia as soon as possible and a message from his trustee indicated such a sale is imminent.

Lance responded also to several other allegations about his business conduct before joining the government as director of the Office of Management and Budget. He said because they all were raised at once they have "certainly created a haze" of unwarranted uncertainty around me.

In an opening statement, and in response to questions from members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, Lance said he negotiated the $3.4 million loan from the First National Bank of Chicago just before entering government service because he felt he had a commitment to do so.

Lance said the commitment arose from his promise to the Manufacturers Hanover Bank of New York, which previously had financed his stock purchases, to pay off the loan should he leave the Atlanta bank and no longer be in charge of its operations.

Testifying under oath he denied there was any relation whatsoever between the loan he received from the Chicago bank and the establishment there by the National Bank of Georgia of a noninterest-bearing correspondent account.

Specifically, he denied there was any quid pro quo arrangement and denied he was granted an interest-free personal loan or given the privilege of deferring interest payments.

Lance said his loan bears an interest rate of three-quarters of a per cent above the prime rate and is payable quarterly.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., a former Chicago business executive, said it is his information that such an interest rate represents the market rate when backed with collateral such as owned by Lance.

Responding to another allegation, Lance denied any impropriety on the part of the National Bank of Georgia in its acceptance of an $18 million trust account from the controversial Teamster Union's Central States pension fund. Lance said Teamsters officials had decided to deposit large sums in the trust accounts of five banks around the country in what Lance described as an attempt "to get their business straightened out."

He said that the pension fund account was "desirable business" for the National Bank of Georgia to go after and that, "I saw nothing wrong with it."

Barrow, 55, was appointed to the court by Gov. Dolph Briscoe on July 15, the day Don Yarbrough resigned as justice. Yarbrough beat Barrow in the 1976 Democratic primary - presumably because voters confused him with Don Yarbrough, who thrice ran strong races for governor in the 1960s.

"When we say we are delighted, gratified and happy to have you with us, that is the understatement of the year!" Greenhill told Barrow.

The standing room only crowd of several hundred in the courtroom laughed knowingly.

After Mrs. Barrow helped him slip into his judicial robe - a gift from the staff of the San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals where he was chief justice until today - Barrow made a brief speech.

Illegal Aliens Not a Burden

AUSTIN (AP) - It is a myth that illegal Mexican aliens are a burden on the United States' welfare and unemployment insurance programs, says a University of Texas specialist on Latin America.

Dr. Stanley Ross told ex-students recently that one study shows that 3.9 per cent of the aliens are on unemployment and only .05 per cent on welfare, while 31 per cent pay taxes.

Ross said, however, the illegal migration of Mexicans into the United States is the most serious problem between the two countries.

He said estimates of Mexicans illegally in this country range from 4.5 million to 8 million.

The impact, he says, is in health care and education. He said Mexicans and Americans feel the movement of migrants into the U.S. is an important political and economic safety valve for Mexico.

Sixty-six per cent of Mexico's total trade is tied to the United States.

"We have a vested interest in a stable Mexico," Ross said. In the long run, he said, illegal migration will not be halted until Mexico is capable of producing enough jobs.

There are other problems, too, he said, such as the movement of heroin from Mexico into the United States. In 1972, he said, 40 per cent of the heroin confiscated in the United States was Mexican brown heroin, but the amount had risen to 90 per cent by 1975.

Some experts believe, Ross said, that tied with the illegal smuggling of drugs is the smuggling of arms from the U.S. into Mexico.

Also, he said, it is estimated that $240 million worth of consumer goods entered Mexico illegally in 1970.

"When you consider that amounts to half of Mexico's trade deficit with the U.S. for that year, you can imagine the gravity of the situation," he said.

Barrow Assumed Role As Court Justice

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Charles Barrow was sworn in Monday as a Texas Supreme Court justice - the post denied him by the voters in the famous Yarbrough-Yarbrough mix-up of 1976.

"For a fella to see Baylor in the Cotton Bowl, and then this," Barrow said after receiving the oath of office from Chief Justice Joe Greenhill.

Barrow, 55, was appointed to the court by Gov. Dolph Briscoe on July 15, the day Don Yarbrough resigned as justice. Yarbrough beat Barrow in the 1976 Democratic primary - presumably because voters confused him with Don Yarbrough, who thrice ran strong races for governor in the 1960s.

Former Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert introduced Barrow to the court and alluded to the Yarbrough affair.

"Now the right man and the court have come together. So let the light shine on the supreme murder-for-hire of a witness against him in another case. The State Bar of Texas has begun disbarment proceedings, and the Judicial Qualifications Commission had started removal action before Yarbrough resigned.

Barrow has been on the San Antonio appeals court since 1962 and has been chief justice since 1966. Before that, he was judge of the 45th District Court for three years.

HELPING HUMAN HEALTH - Many formerly impossible studies, particularly of the heart, can now be made because of a new instrument.

This year more than one million Americans will suffer a heart attack, reports the American Heart Association, including many in the prime years of life.

Fortunately, because of recent advances, a large and increasing number of patients now survive a first and even a second heart attack - and a majority of these patients return to productive lives.

One significant advance in diagnosing possible heart trouble is a computerized, scanning gamma camera. Detailed clinical information which before could be obtained only with considerable patient time, trauma and expense may now be derived routinely, painlessly and at far less cost - on an out-patient basis.

Called the Baird-Atomic System Seventy-Seven, the camera can perform many studies, particularly of the heart, which were formerly impossible. It was developed by scientists at Baird-Atomic, a high-technology company that has made a major contribution in the field of medicine as well as other areas for more than 40 years.

The new camera has become an indispensable diagnostic tool in clinics throughout the world and has also become a means of encouraging cardiac care on a preventive medicine basis, in which an annual checkup of the heart will soon become as routine as a chest X-ray every year.
