House to Keep New Sugar Price Support

Damaging Storm

When the rains came, apparently so did the winds. A storage building at the south end of Schley was extensively damaged by the winds from Thursday night's thunderstorms. The building, owned by Homer Hulsey, was used for antique storage.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House on Thursday adopted new national farm and food aid policies for the next four years, including fundamental changes in the food stamp program beginning next winter.

But a last-minute refusal to yank from the bill a new sugar price support program renewed the possibility of a veto by President Carter. The administration contends the program would force high import quotas against foreign sugar.

The total vote was 294 to 114 on the overall bill, which included substantially higher grain price supports as well as the major changes in the 13-year-old food stamp program.

Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock voted for the bill.

The legislation would eliminate food stamp benefits for some persons now receiving them and prompt others to join the program because it ends a requirement that families commit some of their own money to get food stamps.

Estimates put the federal cost of the House bill at $10.5 billion to $11.5 billion a year, about half of it for the food stamp program. The Senate already had passed its version, calling for $12 billion to $13 billion in spending. Carter has said he favors the House version.

Despite heavy lobbying against the sugar price supports by the administration and consumer groups, the House approved the supports 246 to 165.

The administration has said it wants a temporary program of payments to sugarbeet and sugar cane growers without propping up the sagging market.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland's top aide said it is "extremely doubtful" that Carter would sign the farm bill if that section remains after final congressional action. The Senate and House versions were to go to the conference committee with final congressional action in mid-September.

The Consumer Federation of America, cane sugar refiners and industrial buyers of 80 per cent of the sugar that Americans consume, said the sugar supports as they stand in the House version would boost the price of table sugar by 5 cents a pound.

The revamping of the $5.4 billion food stamp program along the lines recommended by Carter passed separately by a 320-91 vote.

The food stamp revisions would strip the benefits immediately from 407,160 of the 5.22 million households now using the monthly subsidized coupons to buy groceries. However, average benefits of 27 cents per meal per person would not change.

The major feature of the new program is an end to the rule that eligible families commit some of their own cash to food purchases by buying some stamps in order to get those subsidized by USDA.

Now, the typical food stamp recipient pays $74 a month to get $134 in stamps to

Briscoe County 1st to Conduct Weather Vote

Briscoe County voters go to the polls today in the first of several area elections to determine whether South Plains residents want weather modification.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. today and were scheduled to close at 7 p.m. Only Precincts 1 and 3 are included in the operational area of Plains Weather Improvement Association, a cloud-seeding operation based in Plainview, so residents in only those two precincts are eligible to vote.

Senate Bill 632 includes provisions allowing precincts in operational areas to decide through an election whether cloud seeding flights to suppress hail are permissible.

Should Briscoe County decide against hail suppression, Precincts 1 and 3 would be removed from permits authorizing cloud seeding.

The current permits expire Oct. 31. If voters in Briscoe County approve weather modification, PWIA would be free to apply for a license renewal from Texas Water Development Board.

But that isn't likely. More than 600 county residents have signed a petition promising to boycott Plainview because 64 merchants in that city support weather modification. In Precincts 1 and 3 of Briscoe County, there are slightly more than 700 registered voters.

Nine other South Plains counties have begun election procedures by circulating petitions. In order for an election to be called, 10 per cent of the registered voters in a county must sign a petition.

Part of Deaf Smith County is included in the operational area of Atmospherics, Inc., a cloud-seeding operation based in Littlefield. Some Deaf Smith County farmers have indicated interest in backing efforts of Briscoe and Swisher County anti-weather control groups but no steps have been taken in the county to force an election.

The anti-weather modification groups claim that seeding breaks up clouds, therefore decreasing or eliminating the possibility of rainfall.

Settlements Hinder Middle East Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter declared Thursday that Israel's legalization of three settlements on the West Bank of the Jordan River poses obstacles to peace. He also announced progress toward negotiating a ban on all nuclear tests.

At a nationally broadcast news conference, Carter acknowledged that he had not discussed the granting of legal status with Prime Minister Menahem Begin on his visit here last week. He called it "an oversight" on his part.

However, Carter said he had advised Begin that the establishment of new settlements "would be a difficult thing for public opinion to accept here and in Arab countries."

Still, Carter was hopeful about prospects for new negotiations on the Arab-Israeli conflict. He said the legalizing of the three settlements was an obstacle that could be overcome.

Carter opened the session with reporters by announcing the completion of preliminary negotiations with the Soviet Union and Britain on a comprehensive nuclear weapons test ban.

While a number of problems must be resolved, Carter said, "the results are sufficiently promising that the three countries can begin formal negotiations Oct. 3."

He said he hoped they could arrive at a treaty that would be signed by other countries as well.

On the domestic side, Carter said he expected to have new welfare proposals ready next week.

He said the search for a new director of the FBI was "proceeding very slowly, very methodically and with the prospect of good results."

Assessing his first six months in office, Carter said he had made mistakes "in minor things"—he declined to list them—and said the White House's relations with Congress has been improved.

Carter said the major stumbling block to reconvening of the Geneva conference, on the Mideast is the Palestinian issue. However, he said until the Palestine Liberation Organization gives up its commitment to the destruction of Israel the administration will not support PLO participating in the peace talks.

Carter rejected any notion that he is biased either toward Israel or the Arab countries. And he called on the leaders on both sides to try to cool down the situation in the Middle East by not being so adamant about their positions.

Carter said he had discussed the settlements with Prime Minister Menahem Begin during his visit here last week. However, Carter said Begin had not given him advance notice that the Israeli government would recognize the legitimacy of three new settlements, as it

Booming Thunder Accompanies Early Morning Downpour Here

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

A powerful thunderstorm unloaded welcome moisture over Hereford with a downpour beginning shortly before one this morning.

The storm had all the makings of a good horror picture, complete with blinding lightning bolts and booming thunder.

While the rain pounding down sounded like a gullywasher, only the city of Hereford received appreciable moisture accumulations from the storm. Outlying farm lands failed to receive any relief from the hot weather which is stressing the area's corn and grain sorghum crops.

KPAN radio logged a moisture total of 1.35 inches for the city and 1.30 inches of moisture was measured in a gauge on property farmed by Griffen & Brand on the city's northern edge.

Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant measured only .36 inches of precipitation, and with the exception of the Bootleg Corner vicinity, rainfall dwindled from there.

Mrs. Bill Page reported that no rain fell at her husband's farm at Bootleg Corner, but over an inch was reported at a farm five miles west of that location.

Areas to the south and north of the city have had little luck in receiving rains this summer, and this morning's showers were no exception.

A spokesman for Easter Grain south of Hereford commented, "I guess you folks in Hereford have a monopoly on the rain this year."

Raymond Schlabs who farms five miles north of the city also reported that his farm received no rain this morning, and any showers which have fallen there this summer have been "on the light side."

Pioneer Fertilizer 15 miles north of Hereford also reported no rain, and only a trace was received at the Dawn community east of Hereford.

The forecast calls for fair conditions today and Saturday with today's high in the mid 90's and the mercury expected to soar into the upper 90's for Saturday.

The low tonight should be in the upper 60's.

Sets School Starting Date

HISD To Postpone Budget Discussion

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees tabled three critical items on the agenda, blaming a lack of information concerning the impact of the new school finance bill on the Hereford school system, at Thursday night's special meeting in the high school library.

Dr. Harrell Holder, HISD superintendent, had met earlier in the day with Raymond Bynum, financial allocations director for the Texas Education Agency (TEA), to determine local effect of the $945.4 million dollar school finance legislation.

"We don't have all our information," Holder told the school board in requiring postponement of preliminary budget discussion, consideration of new employee insurance program and the setting of the salary schedule for the 1977-78 school year.

"One of the things we found out is that we had two positions funded under the old law not funded under the new law," Holder told the Board following the shortened two-hour-long meeting.

"The positions will have to be counted off the ADA (average daily attendance) under the new law."

The positions are vocational director and special education director.

"We had surmised it (the no funding of the two positions) but it was verified in the meeting in Amarillo."

Holder added during the meeting that the figure of $953,000, which Hereford is supposed to receive over last year's state money, is subject of current ADA provisions within the law for next year and is based on data two-years-old.

"We have to verify that we're going to get this money based on current conditions."

The board agreed to table the three items on the agenda until another special meeting scheduled for 7 a.m. Monday in the high school library.

The board accepted a school calendar which corresponds to new state legislation reducing the number of instructional days from 180 to 175.

Under the new calendar, one of three considered by the board, school will start on Aug. 25 and end May 25. Christmas break for students will be from Dec. 22 through Jan. 2, with Easter break from March 23-28.

Teacher in-service days will be on Aug. 22-24, Nov. 4, Nov. 18, Jan. 23, Feb. 23-24, May 5 and May 26.

In other business Thursday, the board tabled approval of junior and senior high school student handbooks and accepted several resignations and hirings.

The board accepted resignations from Michael Noland at Bluebonnet Elementary, Yolanda Cardenas at Shirley Elementary, T.A. Bell at Hereford La Plata Junior High, Eugene Barkowsky, Joy Barkowsky and Mickey McCarty at Stanton Junior High and Elaine White at the high school.

Barkowsky resigned as newly-hired assistant principal at Stanton to accept the principalship at Lamesa High School.

The board hired Carol Gage and Nan Coneway at Bluebonnet, Cathy Adkins, Joann Wagner and Jackie Crabtree at

Indicators Show Economic Slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government's index of leading indicators dropped six tenths of 1 per cent in June, foreshadowing a slowdown in economic activity, the Commerce Department said today.

The decrease in the index was the biggest since a drop of 1.3 per cent in January and followed a decline of two tenths of 1 per cent last month.

This is the first time the index has dropped two months in a row since August and September of 1976. The government index has increased steadily since last May and showed an increase as high as 2 per cent in March, reflecting recovery from the severe winter.

The administration has predicted a slight decline in the economy in the second half of the year after particularly strong activity in the first six months. Government economists still expect the economy to grow at a rate of 5 per cent in the last half of the year.

61 Protesters Arrested at Site

KENT, Ohio (AP) - Sixty-one persons protesting planned construction near the Kent State University hill near which four students were killed in a 1970 antiwar demonstration were arrested early today as they tried to reoccupy the site.

Within hours of the arrests, construction equipment was moved into the fenced-in construction site, and a bulldozer began preparing the site on Blanket Hill.

About 15 onlookers gathered at the site but offered no resistance to the construction work.

The demonstrators, defying a court order, had set up tents and a shrine to the four dead late Thursday, but the encampment lasted less than four hours as unarmed campus police began dragging the passively resisting protesters, linked arm in arm, to two waiting university buses.

Council Says Lag Fault Of Briscoe

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - A Southern Regional Council report accuses Gov. Dolph Briscoe of contributing to a Texas lag in health planning, the Austin American-Statesman said today.

"Texas is further behind in the development of its health systems agencies (HSA) than most other southern states," and Briscoe's "basically unsympathetic approach to the HSAs has served as a formidable block to their progress," the newspaper quoted the report as saying.

House Begins Debate On Energy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House started work today on President Carter's energy program and Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said the plan comes to the floor just about as Carter outlined it in an April 20 message to Congress.

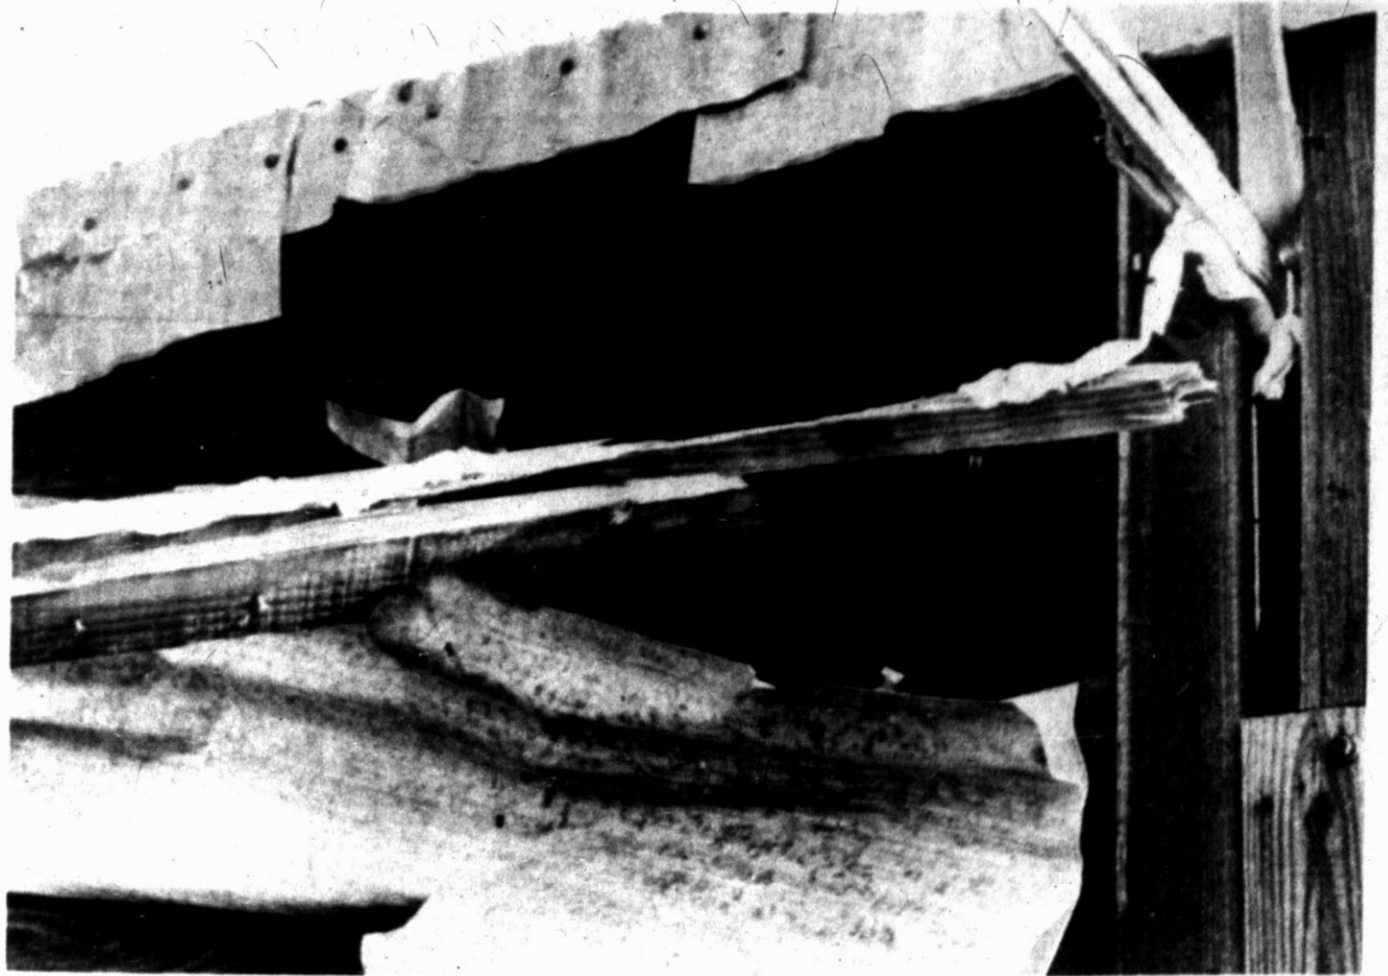

"Ninety per cent of his package is there," O'Neill told reporters. "The President should be extremely happy with the bill that has come to the floor."

The House Rules Committee cleared the bill for floor action Thursday night under guidelines which could mean several major floor fights on amendments challenging the administration package.

Police Report

A minor harassment call marred an otherwise quiet day Thursday for Hereford Police. A suspect was arrested Thursday night as the result of a complaint to Hereford police at 9:50 p.m. at 325 Ave. E.

Police are continuing to check into the Wednesday shooting of Maria Garcia. No warrant has been issued yet.

Wind Damage

Winds possibly approaching tornadic speeds, caused a length of two-inch wood support to smash into the side of another wooden structure on Hereford's far south side last night. Fortunately, winds of this kind were not common throughout the city. The only known damage from the Thursday storm was to a storage building on south Schley. (Brand Photo)

did this week.

Carter declined to castigate Begin on the settlements. He said he recognized that Begin had campaign commitments. Besides Carter said, Israel has not made the settlements permanent.

"I think we have a good chance to go to Geneva," Carter said. "There are obstacles to be resolved."

On another subject, Carter defended the administration's decision to move toward new military sales to Egypt, the Sudan and Somalia. He said the actions were compatible with his policy of reducing over-all arms sales around the world.

We are determined to begin a downward trend in the sale of weapons throughout the world, Carter said. But, at the same time, the United States must give pre-eminent consideration to the defense of this country and its allies, he said.

During the news conference Carter also made these points:

He supports public financing of Senate campaigns, saying the public often believes special interests have undue influence on elected officials. A bill providing public financing "would restore the public's trust," he said.

He considers a projected $25 billion trade deficit, largely from oil imports, "as a vivid demonstration of the need for very tight conservation methods." Asked if the deficit represents a threat to the economy, the President said, "this has been a primary concern of ours."

Both the United States and the Soviet Union have "shown great restraint" in the conflict between Egypt and Libya.

Asked whether he has made any mistakes in his first six months in office, the President said there are some minor things he might have handled better but that Congress is responding well to his proposals. He said he has learned how to work more harmoniously with Congress and praised the House and Senate's work on major appropriations bills and the establishment of a new Department of Energy.

He will have his final proposal on welfare reforms ready by next week. He noted that he had pledged to hold down "the initial cost" of the program and said that the pricetag could rise in the future.

Garner Elected VP At TUCO Inc.

The board of directors of TUCO INC. at their quarterly meeting July 25, elected Dale T. Garner vice president and a principal operating officer. The announcement was made by Berl M. Springer, vice chairman of the board of directors of the Amarillo-based firm.

TUCO INC. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Southwestern Public Service Company and provides a large portion of the electric company's fuel requirements, including natural gas, coal and fuel oil. TUCO INC. also produces other liquid hydrocarbon by-products for sale to non-related wholesalers.

Garner is a native of Manning, Kansas and is a graduate of Oklahoma University. He joined Southwestern Public Service Company on April 1, 1977 as an executive assistant in the finance department. Before coming to SPS, Garner served as a systems analyst for the Occidental Exploration and Production Company and as administrative manager for Esso Exploration, Inc. in Tokyo, Japan. His past experience also includes various financial and operational positions with the Creole Petroleum Corporation and the Carter Oil Company.

The management of TUCO INC. carries with it the extremely important responsibility of providing fuel for Southwestern Public Service Company," Springer said.

"Garner is a seasoned oil and gas executive and brings to TUCO INC. a wealth of world wide experience."

Why Be Upset

BY BOB WEAR

A FEW DAYS AGO a good friend spoke of a situation over which neither one of us had any control. He very pointedly inquired, "Aren't you upset about it?" When I answered, "No sir, I'm not upset"; he seemed perplexed, and said "Well, I am." He made me feel a bit uncomfortable, but I knew then; and know now that "being upset" did not help him, or me, or the situation.

SOME PEOPLE SEEM to be more easily upset than others, and they stay upset most of the time. They are not helping anybody or anything, but are doing a good job spoiling life for themselves and others, too.

WE CAN BE INTERESTED, and properly concerned; but to let ourselves be thrown into disorder and confusion imposes an unnecessary handicap upon us. When we are upset, we make difficulties for ourselves; and for everybody around us. We certainly do not need any more difficulties.

ALL OF US probably know the distress and the ineffectiveness which accompany an upset mind. It can be, and usually is, a terrible experience. Perhaps it is impossible to prevent all upset, but we can and we must make sure that we do not let the upset feeling abide with us.

WE CAN PREVENT MOST UPSETS by admitting to ourselves the realities of life; keeping our expectations within the bounds of reason; giving others the benefit of the doubt; doing our best and being contented with this. We must not be unduly concerned about the many things we can do nothing about.

WHEN WE ARE UPSET, we take away from the good things which we are blessed, and we enlarge and increase the personal life burden we carry. This seems very foolish, and, of course, it is foolish. If we do get upset, and we probably will, now and then; we must not let the disturbed feeling dominate our thinking.

WITH SOME VERY CAREFUL, intelligent and well-balanced introspection; we can quickly regain our composure. We do have the power to control and direct our thoughts, and we have the responsibility to choose the good and wholesome and constructive things about which to think.

WE KNOW, in general, about what is going to happen to us. We know that there will be some failures, there will be some disappointments, there will be some misunderstandings, some bad judgements, etc. We know how life is for us human beings. Therefore we can prepare ourselves so that the happenings which are ordinarily upsetting are accepted as part of life's reality. We may not like it, but there is nothing to be gained by becoming upset.

IT IS A MISTAKE to assume that everything will be as we wish it to be. There will, however, be enough success and accomplishment and satisfaction to more than balance things out. We must not permit the disappointments, and such like to dominate our thoughts and upset the life balance.

Sugar

buy groceries for three persons. The family would pay nothing to get stamps under the revised program.

Assuming, for example, that a family's income were the same, under the new procedures it would get $83 in stamps if the income were from a job or $62 worth if came from welfare.

Special allowances are included for working parents with young children and for families living in cities and northern states with high shelter and utility costs.

Most provisions of the bill probably will have little effect on food prices or the overall economy, congressional analysts have said.

However, the boosts in corn supports, by forcing up the market this year by a predicted 20 cents a bushel, could slightly nudge up consumer food prices. Higher feed grain prices would discourage livestock producers from expanding the meat supply as much as planned.

The House placed a USDA-opposed spending ceiling on the food stamp program of $5.85 billion by next year. The bid would rise to $6.24 billion by 1981 when the measure expires.

The USDA opposed the ceiling because it would force cuts in benefits just when they would be needed most: If unemployment and inflation soar higher than the government expects.

Although some families no longer would be eligible for the food stamp program, the Congressional Budget Office says that 632,000 new families would be attracted by the no-payment provision.

About five million eligible households now do not participate, partly because they can't come up with the cash required to get into the program, USDA says.

Most of those eliminated would be households with incomes above the current federal nonfarm poverty lines. The line for the typical food stamp family of three persons is $405 a month.

In addition to the families eliminated, more than one million households would have their benefits reduced, most of them by less than $20 a month.

The proposal also contains expanded requirements for job seeking by recipients. And, the bill's advocates say, some provisions will sharply reduce the opportunities for cheating and clerical errors.

The USDA also will be required to start pilot state projects under which recipients who couldn't find jobs would be required to work without wages at a local public service job.

States also would be allowed to give elderly, blind, and disabled recipients cash instead of stamps.

The farm sections of the measure have drawn unusually harsh criticism from Congress budget committee chairmen as being fiscally irresponsible and an overreaction to farmers' problems.

They would increase price and income support rates next year for all major crops and fibers except peanuts, which would be cut, and tobacco, which comes under a permanent statute not affected by the legislation.

They also would raise this season's corn and wheat targets and make the present optional production loans for soybeans mandatory.

The programs were last revised in 1973.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I would appreciate your printing this open letter of thanks to David Zinser and Charles Allison on behalf of the tennis enthusiasts of Hereford.

In the absence of Steve Thomas, the former Hereford High School tennis coach who has recently moved to Lubbock to coach at Monterrey High School. David and Charles personally sponsored and ran last weekend's Hereford Closed Tournament. This required countless long, hot hours of work during the tournament, not to mention the tedious hours preparing the tournament draw beforehand.

Because of these fellows' efforts the tournament was a complete success. One of the most encouraging aspects of last weekend's play was the large number of young people who entered and played. Hereford is now at the crossroads of developing into a top flight tennis town and had we been unable to have the Hereford Closed Tournament this year it would have been a serious setback to this progress. The efforts of David Zinser and Charles Allison have added greatly to Hereford's tennis growth and I am sure that all those interested in the future of tennis in Hereford join with us in thanking these two young men for their outstanding job.

Sincerely yours,
Bill Marquis

The board's final item on the agenda was continuation of development of the school policy manual. Approximately one-third of the manual was studied, page by page, Thursday as the board finished two-thirds of the policies.

The final one-third will be read and approved sometime next week. The board probably will set a meeting date Monday morning.

Most of Thursday's policy considerations were about personnel matters.

Survey Shows '65' Retirement Favored by Top Management

NEW YORK (AP) - Still another survey tells us that mandatory retirement at age 65 is favored by a majority of top management, and that in fact they consider it necessary.

But even with this additional input to the controversy we are left with questions we might never resolve. Isn't such an attitude flagrantly discriminatory? Isn't it wasteful of skills years in the making?

There is no end to the questions. Isn't it morally and politically wrong to force people onto a Social Security system that's already terribly overburdened? Is enforced idleness nothing but a denial of human rights?

More: Isn't there something inconsistent about a nation's attitude that denies discrimination because of age, that encourages an individual to center his life around a job - and which then dumps him or her suddenly at 65?

But in the most recent survey of attitudes, by William M. Mercer Inc., which calls itself the nation's largest employee benefit consulting firm, a lot of these considerations weren't paramount in the minds of those queried.

This was a survey of senior management, and that makes a very big difference in many cases.

Senior management usually is well pensioned. Having been well paid, senior managers have investment accounts. They have contacts; many of them continue to serve on boards or as consultants.

"Contrary to popular belief," said A.J.C. Smith, Mercer president, "senior management does not seem to want to continue working indefinitely," an attitude that under the circumstances of executive retirement would seem to be understandable.

More so than those in other corporate positions, the senior executive can ease his way into the world of retirement, comfortably and often at his or her own pace. The talents involved are still in demand.

For the blue collar worker this usually isn't the case. Skills developed over a lifetime of work are suddenly unwanted. Should the individual attempt to use those skills, he might find he can do so only at the expense of cutting into his Social Security payments.

The issues involved in retirement, executive or other, have evolved over more than a century and roughly coincide with the development of the country from rural to urban, from agrarian to industrial.

Centuries of custom permitted the farm economy to accommodate the needs of both young and old. Three generations were able to gracefully combine their talents and their productive work.

The transition of power and authority was smooth. No bureaucratically computed age determined what a member could or could not do. The older generation eased off the work load, passing on its talents and chores to other.

There was a place, a role, a duty, a responsibility, a need for all members of the farm family. But that isn't so in industrial society.

Mrs. Bob Moeluis narrowly escaped being bitten by a large diamond-back rattlesnake this week while working in her yard. The snake was hidden in some tall weeds on the edge of her yard. As she was cutting the grass with her lawn mower she hit the tall weeds and the snake immediately struck at her. She killed the large rattler.

Mrs. Travis Sovall, who has just recently moved to this area from Almodoro, N. Mex. found a large bull-snake crawling between the window panes on top of the air conditioner at her home. She rushed outside and with a long stick was able to pull the snake down from between the windows.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelse Pearce were in Lubbock Tuesday for a medical check-up for Mrs. Pearce who underwent surgery recently. Their daughter Margaret Mote took them to Lubbock in her car.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Krivanek and Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Krivanek of House community are cutting wheat this week on their state-line farm. All other wheat has been harvested in this area.

Learning From Labels

Smart shoppers are label readers, especially at the meat counter. With the uniform meat identity program now in use throughout the country, it's easy to know at a glance exactly what you're buying. Listed first on the label is the kind of meat, such as BEEF. Identified next is the wholesale cut, such as CHUCK, which tells where the meat comes from on the animal. Finally, the retail cut such as BLADE ROAST is listed. This identifies the specific part of the wholesale cut the meat is from.

CONFIDENTIAL to True or False?: It's true--basketball players in the United States enjoy the highest incomes of all the world's athletes.

Ann Landers Bewildered Lady

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is a mastectomy really necessary? After having had one I feel as if I were rushed into it. Now I have some strong regrets and am, in fact, very depressed.

Since you have access to top medical authorities, will you please check this out for me? What is the medical world thinking now? Are there other treatments for breast cancer?--Waiting For An Answer

DEAR WAITING: Chances are very good that the mastectomy saved your life. I suggest you have a talk with your surgeon and let him explain to you exactly why your breast had to be removed.

Many women who have had mastectomies become depressed. I urge you to contact Reach for Recovery. (Look in the phone book or ask your doctor.) This group is composed of women who have gone through the same thing and they can be immensely supportive.

The following letter appeared June 2, 1974. I think it might be of interest to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was deeply disturbed by that letter signed "Too Late and Plenty Sorry." The woman had had a breast removed and was seething with resentment against the doctor who "talked her into having that horrible operation that deprived her of her womanliness and left her mutilated and ugly." She asked, "What man would want me now?"

I agree with you, Ann--she should get down on her knees and thank God her cancerous breast was removed so her life could continue.

I had a breast removed almost three years ago, and as the national co-chairman of the 1974 Cancer Crusade, I have traveled to all parts of the country and met hundreds of women who have had the same operation.

Reception Slated For Auten Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Jim H. Auten of 700 N. Miles will be honored in their home during a reception from 2:30-4 p.m. Sunday in celebration of their 40th wedding anniversary. Friends are invited.

Hosting the reception will be the couple's children, Jimmie D. of College Park, Ga., Jane Hill of Hereford and Miss Beverly Auten of the home. Assisting will be the Autens' daughter-in-law, Judy Auten; their grandchildren, James, Jonathan and Jason Auten; their son-in-law, David Hill; and Miss Auten's fiancé, John A. Curtis of Sunray.

Jim H. Auten and Theima A. Taylor were married July 11, 1937 at Judsonia, Ark. They have resided in the Hereford area since 1952 and are members of First Baptist Church.

Westway Reunion Sunday

Former residents of Westway community are encouraged to participate in reunion activities Sunday at the Westway Community House. Registration will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Westway residents will provide the luncheon, the traditional historian's report will be heard and the honorary mayor's award will be presented, along with other prizes. A brief program is planned.

In honor of the reunion, the congregations of Westway Baptist Church and Westway Community Church will merge for a joint worship service at 10 a.m. Sunday in the Community House.

Reunion president Nina Hartman Simmons will be unable to attend Sunday's festivities so vice president Vernon Wilson will officiate. Serving as secretary-treasurer will be Vesta Mae Nunley.

BE A FRIEND, HAVE A FRIEND

JOAN DWYER DIRECTOR

Don't keep Your Troubles to Yourself

Many of us have know people through the years who boast, "I always keep by problems to myself." This is usually said with the assumption that such an attitude will be commended. Being close-mouthed about troubles has often been thought of as strong and even brave. "We've all known exceptional people who had to suffer pain for quite a while, who didn't burden their friends and loved-ones with the inevitable. These people, indeed are brave and strong.

On the opposite end of the spectrum is the whiner and complainer, who never holds a pleasant thought or utters a positive word. None of us like to hear this constant flood of self-pity and despair, and we wish he would learn to keep his problems to himself.

But the practice of keeping troubles to yourself can be dangerous. The human personality, by its very nature, needs release from itself. It needs the opportunity to expel negative thoughts, guilt feelings and irritations. With the help of a professional counselor, minister or a wise understanding friend, negatives can be replaced with positives. A renewal of this mind and spirit can transpire.

This process can be energizing and refreshing, and will not only have a rewarding effect for you, but also for those around you. Don't keep your troubles to yourself.

Polynesian Prize Beef Salad

- 12 ounces beef salami
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 can (1 1/2 ounces) pineapple chunks, drained
- 2 cups cubed red apple
- 1 pound seedless green grapes, halved
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 can (8 ounces) water chestnuts, sliced
- 1/2 cup cashew nuts, halved
- Lettuce cups

Cut salami in slices 1/4 inch thick; cut in bite-size wedges. Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice, soy sauce and curry powder. Toss together salami, pineapple chunks, apple, grapes, celery, water chestnuts and nuts. Fold in mayonnaise and chill. Serve in lettuce cups, 6 servings (approximately 1 1/2 cups each).

Cook Anniversary To Be Celebrated

A silver wedding anniversary reception will honor Mr. and Mrs. Holland G. Cook, 509 Willow Lane, from 2:30-5 p.m. Sunday in the home of their eldest son, Randy G. Cook, 504 Willow Lane.

Interested persons are welcome to attend. Hosting the courtesy will be Mr. and Mrs. Randy Cook, Ricky Cook and Robby Cook, children of the honored couple. Earlene Cumpton and Hollis G. Cook exchanged marriage vows Aug. 3, 1952 at Clovis. They came to Hereford from Snyder in October of 1960. Cook is plant foreman at Tri-State Chemical Co. and is a deacon at Temple Baptist Church. His wife is employed by Deaf Smith County as welfare secretary.

Bebo Gibbs To Preach Revival

Robert "Bebo" Gibbs, a graduate of Wayland Baptist College and former associate pastor of the College Avenue Baptist Church in Fort Worth, will lead a week-long revival at the Temple Baptist Church Sunday through Friday.

Nightly services will begin at 8 p.m. Twins, Phil and Andy Dietz of Canyon, graduates of West Texas State University, will lead the music part of the services.

The Rev. Gibbs preached in more than 150 youth-led revivals while a student at Wayland. He will return to Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth in August to work on a Ph.D. in Biblical studies.

Gibbs and The Team, an evangelistic youth group, led a revival at Temple Baptist several years ago.

"I'm really glad to be able to see you and your folks and preach in your church again," Gibbs recently told Pastor Jim Bozeman.

UPC For Meat Cuts

Electronic scanners in some supermarkets are speeding up check-out time for shoppers, while automatically keeping inventory records for the grocer. The scanners will read a Universal Product Code (UPC) label on the bottom of each package, identifying the product, its price and other inventory information. The National Live Stock and Meat Board's nationwide program of standardized names for meat cuts will simplify meat counter adaptation to the UPC system. Of course, the standard meat identification label giving the name of the meat cut, price per pound, weight and total price will continue to be used on the upper surface of all packages. It's expected that UPC eventually will lead to automatic customer billing and telephone shopping services.

Better Nuclear Security Priority for CIA

EDITOR'S NOTE: The global spread of nuclear power leaves the risk of gunmen as well as governments laying hands on atomic triggers. There have been threats of attack on nuclear facilities, and there are fears that toxic nuclear fuels could be hijacked in transit. A drive to increase nuclear security. AP diplomatic correspondent Arthur L. Cavahon tells of past mistakes and future perils.

The Central Intelligence Agency is forming special squads to work on matters involving the whole range of nuclear security. Inspectors from the Vienna-based International Atomic Energy Agency and officials from the 30 countries which have bought U.S. equipment and fuel come here to learn the newest development in safeguard technology.

Through the 1970s, there have been between 55 and 65 acts of international terrorism a year. There already have been some incidents involving nuclear power or facilities.

On Oct. 27, 1970, a 14-year-old schoolboy in Orlando, Fla., sent a letter to city authorities demanding $1 million and threatening to blow up the city with an H bomb. He enclosed a diagram of what experts said was a workable bomb. Local police were set to deliver the money when the youngster was found and arrested. It was a hoax; here was no bomb.

Trotskyite urban guerrillas temporarily occupied Argentina's Atucha reactor in 1973 when it was being built.

A would-be saboteur, protesting the proposed establishment of nuclear reactor in Massachusetts, wrecked a meteorological tower on the site in 1974.

Two workers at a reactor in Bradwell, England, were reported in 1975 to have been discovered tossing 20 fuel rods over the perimeter fence.

Unidentified groups, thought to be separatists exploded bombs in 1975 at French nuclear plants at Fessenheim and at Mt. D'Arree.

In 1976, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission sent formal warnings to 58 nuclear plants that it had received word of threatened attacks by two terrorist groups. Precautions were redoubled. Nothing happened.

Through the 1960s and 1960s, various U.S. corporations, including Kerr-McGee and the Nuclear Materials and Equipment Corporation - Numec - reported losing track of either plutonium or highly enriched uranium over a period of years. Geller says nuclear material often is out of sight temporarily in reactor systems and the missing items cannot be assumed to have been stolen.

There has been no loss of life so far in any of the incidents directed against nuclear facilities. Threats have proved empty.

Yet, spreading nuclear power and all that goes with it has deepened concern and turned attention to four interlocking questions:

1. Will terrorists turn to the nuclear sector?

On Feb. 28, West Germany fired one of its leading nuclear physicists, Klaus Traube, fearing he might pass secrets to terrorists with whom he allegedly maintained "intensive contacts."

Existence of some sort of "Terrorists International," with radical aims, is known to Western governments. A rough device, one-hundredth the strength of the obsolete Hiroshima bomb of 15 kilotons - 15,000 tons of TNT - could kill up to 5,000 people in a city setting, mostly by radiation. And terrorists need not use bombs for their deadly work. Eight ounces of plutonium powder fed into an air conditioner would menace the lives of everyone in a 20-story building by spreading lung fibrosis.

2. Will there be another Arab oil embargo? And anyway, are oil supplies running out? The five-fold hike in oil prices already has spurred a global search for new sources of energy with nuclear power high on the list of priorities for nations able to pay.

3. Who, the big powers are asking, will be next among the developing nations to detonate an atomic device - and what will its neighbors do?

The coded message telephoned to Indira Gandhi on May 18, 1974, said crisply: "The Buddha is smiling." It meant a nuclear device had just been fired successfully underground in the Rajasthan desert. The political fallout from the first-ever test by a developing country exceeded its explosive yield. There were strong demands then for tightened safeguards against what was taken to be India's misuse of equipment and material supplied by the United States and Canada. India insisted no weapon had been fired, only a device intended for "peaceful purposes."

4. West Germany and France in 1975 and 1976 clinched deals to sell Brazil and Pakistan facilities for enriching uranium and producing plutonium. U.S. criticisms of the deals thus far have been resisted and rejected. If the deals are not modified, Carter wants to know, can there be any hope of an organized, worldwide understanding among the powers to head off a free-for-all dash toward nuclear weaponry?

Few authorities today dispute that President Dwight D. Eisenhower, through his 1953 "atoms for peace" plan, opened the gates to a lightly controlled spread of nuclear technology. It was the first stage toward a weapons spread. U.S. firms were permitted to share and to sell their long-secret nuclear know-how and plants to foreigners.

U.S. firms collared the market in reactors and nuclear fuels. For 20 years until the early 1970s, they kept up to 90 per cent of the orders. But in recent years the U.S. share has been halved, as European competitors mounted a challenge. In most cases, the U.S. government subsidized the sale of reactor systems to help U.S. corporations, paying half the price for the reactors and lending the rest of the money at low rates of interest.

A Library of Congress handbook shows U.S. firms capturing more of the 287 reactor sales-reactors either working, building or planned than all foreign competitors combined. The Energy Research and Development Administration estimated U.S. export earnings from reactor and related services run to $2.3 billion yearly and by the year 2000 will add up to about $100 billion.

Dr. Fred C. Ickle, former director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, has acknowledged that the United States oversold the "atoms for peace" plan. Not enough safeguards were written into sales contracts.

Some 40 countries around the world using nuclear reactors are filling up their stopgap depositories for waste fuel to the bursting point for want of safe and sure locations to store the radioactive materials, which will stay toxic for at least 24,000 years. All the sites and systems they are using could be targets of terrorist attack that could, if carried out, imperil millions.

Five years ago, a physicist named Hannes Alfvén wrote on safety in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists:

"Fission energy is safe only if a number of critical devices work as they should, if a number of people follow all of their instructions, if there is no sabotage, no hijacking of transports, if no reactor fuel processing plant or waste repository anywhere in the world is situated in a region of riots, or guerrilla activity, and no revolution or war—even a 'conventional one' - takes place in these regions. The enormous quantities of extremely dangerous material must not get into the hands of ignorant people or desperadoes. No acts of God can be permitted."

Fire Under Control After 22 Injured

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—A disastrous brush fire that was started by an errant kite touching a power line has finally been controlled, fire officials said Thursday. The blaze injured 22 persons, destroyed or damaged 385 expensive homes and caused a loss estimated by officials at $50 million.

"It's very quiet this morning. There are no flames at all," said Dennis Orbus, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman. "We're just tamping down the hot spots now."

The fire which began Tuesday night and was contained Wednesday had burned 740 acres of brush. An estimated 3,000 persons fled the area.

Authorities said they were told by a young man who they would not identify that the fire, one of the worst in this scenic community's history, began when his kite blew into a high-voltage power line in Sycamore Canyon.

House Writes Drilling Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special House panel has completed work on legislation to revamp federal regulations for offshore oil drilling.

The overhaul of the offshore drilling laws comes as the government steps up the exploration for oil on the eastern and western outer continental shelves.

The Senate already has completed its version of the legislation. Its measure closely resembles the bill finished Wednesday by the House Select Committee on the Outer Continental Shelf.

Essentially, the legislation would give states a larger role in offshore drilling planning. However, the final say on whether to proceed with the leasing plan would be reserved to the Secretary of Interior.

Both bills require that environment considerations be given heavy weight in deciding to approve a drilling plan. And a portion of drilling lease revenue, up to $200 million, is earmarked for paying for the clean up and damages of oil spills.

Under both bills, the Interior Secretary would be directed to experiment with new forms of bidding for at least half the tracts in a new leasing area.

Past policy has called for awarding leases to the company making the highest cash bid-procedure that favors the largest companies with the most ready cash.

The aim of liberalizing the bidding system is to encourage smaller independent companies who may now be awarded a lease by promising the government the highest royalty on oil production.

Other provisions in the legislation would:

-Reimburse fishermen for equipment losses due to off shore development.

-Ban Interior Department drilling program officials from going to work in the oil industry for two years after they leave government.

-Require Interior audit all offshore oil and natural gas reserves.

Rep. William J. Hughes D-N.J., a member of the House panel, said the legislation "address every major concern ever expressed by coastal states which face the development of energy resources off their shores.

"Once this bill is signed into law, we will be assured that offshore drilling will be conducted in a manner protective of our multibillion dollar tourist industry and compatible with our traditional way of life," Hughes said.

In 1925 it was possible to buy an automobile for as little as $260!

For God So Loved The World

THROUGH THE EYES OF FAITH WE SEE LIFE

our eyes are your windows of the world you live in, through which you are able to observe your surroundings, recognize your fellow beings, perform your everyday tasks and follow the pathway of your life. They enable you to concentrate on a single object or person, or scan every detail of the panorama within your field of vision. You can develop your powers of observation so as to enjoy the natural beauty of God's creation whenever you step out of doors, and you can also quickly identify a situation that should be remedied or a person in need of your help. At the Church of your choice you will learn to see all the good things of this world through the eyes of faith.

The eye of each man sees but what it has the power of seeing.

Diehl Uses Lessons To Nab Lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Terry Diehl, calling himself "a much better over-all player" since some secret lessons from Ken Venturi, clipped six strokes off par with a 65 that staked him to a one-shot lead Thursday in the first round of the $200,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Diehl, 27, whose only pro victory came in his rookie season of 1974, once made birdie from a bunker and needed only 12 putts over the last 11 holes at the 6,687-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

"My career was in a valley—just doing nothing," said Diehl. Then help from former U.S. Open champion Venturi turned him around. "I haven't missed a cut since Doral (in March) and for me that's pretty good. He's a tremendous guy, and he's made a world of difference in my game," Diehl said.

The nature of the help, however, is a secret. "He made me vow I wouldn't tell anybody about it," said Diehl, who lost a playoff for this title a year ago.

The man who beat him, Tim Kite, shot a five-under-par 66 in opening defense of the only title he has acquired. He was tied for second, one shot back, with J.S. Snead, another former Philadelphia champion.

"I was a little apprehensive," Kite said. "I didn't want to put too much pressure on myself, but at the same time I wanted to get off to a good start. I'm very pleased that I played exceedingly well. I played some good shots, made some putts, shot a good score out there."

Danny Edwards, winner of the Greensboro Open earlier in the season, and Texan Bill Rogers were next at 67.

Tied at 68 were Bob Gilder, Mike Hill, Rod Curl, Don Pooley and Ray Floyd, winner of two 1977 titles.

U.S. Open champion Hubert Green matched par 71 in the mild, sunny, breezy weather but Ben Crenshaw's troubles continued with a third consecutive round in the 80s.

He withdrew after an 81 that included a two-stroke penalty for being late for his tee time and two balls out of bounds on the sixth hole.

RUSTON, La. - J.D. Barnett, assistant basketball coach at West Texas State who resigned that position effective Aug. 15, was named head basketball coach at Louisiana Tech here today.

Barnett, who coached for Ron Ekker four years at West Texas State, will return to Canyon for the West Texas State Cadillac Cager Classic golf tournament Monday. The 33-year-old plans to return to Ruston as soon as his resignation goes into effect.

"I am very concerned about our (Louisiana Tech) schedule," Barnett said. "It is very tough and we have 17 games on the road."

"Louisiana Tech lost its best player off a team that finished below .500 last season. We will be young and inexperienced, especially at forwards."

Barnett came to the Buffs from the University of Richmond where he was an assistant for one year.

"I just can't play," the upset, bitterly, disappointed Crenshaw said. "I can't explain it. There's nothing wrong with me physically. I'm just playing awful. It's a deep, deep slump. There's no point in me trying to play like this. Maybe I just need some time off."

And he's taking some. He won't play again until the PGA national championship.

"I'm going to play some tennis, maybe swim some. Anything but golf," Crenshaw said.

Diehl triggered his round with a bunker shot that found the cup for a birdie on his eighth hole.

He birdied his 10th from about 12 feet, flipped a pitching wedge shot to within a foot of the cup on the 12th, saved par from the fringe on the next, dropped another 12-footer for birdie on the next, holed a wide-breaking 25-foot putt on the next and closed it out with an eight-foot birdie putt on the final hole that gave him the lead alone.

Butcher Meets Romero

Abdullah the Butcher meets Ricky Romero in the main event at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn this Saturday night, as Lions Club Wrestling brings one of the greatest matches ever to hit Hereford.

The 308-pound Butcher, from Africa's Sudan, is managed by the notorious J.J. Dillon, who fought all over the Southwest a couple of years ago. Romero, at 224, is giving away over eighty pounds. Abdullah has met and defeated many of the best in the country and in the orient. He once resided in the Philippines, and was required to leave by the authorities. Said a recent opponent of the Sudanese wrestler: "The only difference between Abdullah the Butcher and Lunatic Gorilla is that Abdullah can put on his own shoes."

In semi-main action, Western States, Tag Team Champions Teddy Dibise and Ervin Smith take on Rip Hawk and Swede

Hanson in a non-title bout. Dibise, heir to a great wrestling name, played football for the West Texas Buffaloes, and weighs in at 245. Smith is a former national A.A.U. champion on the mat, and captained the Tampa, Florida football team, where he also put the shot for the university.

Hawk and Hanson together tip the beam at 540, and are more experienced as a team. They came here from North Carolina, where they ruled the ring for a number of years. In the opening match, rough house Randy Colley returns to take the measure of tough young Dennis Alberts. Alberts at 230 will be giving away over twenty pounds and several years of experience.

In last week's action, Dory Funk was again frustrated in his attempt to get his hand raised over Smith. Their first match ended in a forty-five minute draw two weeks ago. Last week's main event saw another draw in a grueling two out of three fall, sixty minute match. Funk is issuing a challenge to Smith for a ninety minute match in the near future.

Dibise used a power slam to defeat Alberts in the semi. Alberts wrestled twice, substituting for an ailing Sputnik Monroe. Commissioner Stanley Blackburn noted that he was investigating Monroe's failure to appear, with an eye to his suspension.

Girl wrestlers in a bruising match saw blond bomber Vicki Williams squeeze out a victory over Lei Lani Kai with a flying grapevine, while Alberts used a suplex to down Gary Starr in the opener.

J.C. Simpson, custodian at the Bull Barn, was warned that his job may be more difficult this coming Saturday night by the wildman, Abdullah. Said manager Dillon: "There are three great furniture movers in the country: Allied, Mayflower, and Abdullah."

Action starts at 9 p.m.

Grid Stars Play To 20-20 Deadlock

DALLAS (AP) - North linebacker Doug Carr of Gainesville smothered South halfback Allen Polk on a vital fourth-and-one at the goal with less than 10 minutes to play Thursday night and Polk later misfired on a fake field goal as the Texas Schoolboy All-Star football teams scrapped to a 20-20 tie.

The South charged 68 yards after Tim Orr of Abilene Cooper scored on a one-yard plunge to tie the game with 11:11 to play. However, Mel Maxfield of Gorman fumbled the snap on the extra point attempt.

South quarterback Richy Ethridge of Port Neches Groves completed a 20-yard pass to Eric Herring on fourth and nine at the North 25 to set up the big South opportunity.

However, three carries by Polk of Huntsville failed.

After Carr made his crucial tackle, the South came right back. But on fourth down from the North 21, the South gave the ball to Polk on a reverse off a field goal fake and he flipped a wobbly pass into the end zone, where it was knocked down.

Maxfield redeemed himself somewhat on the final play of the game by intercepting a desperation South pass.

It was the first tie in the game since 1955 in the series, which the North leads 23-15-4. Only 11,848 fans braved the near 100-degree heat in the Cotton Bowl for contest that featured high-scoring offenses.

The South took the opening kickoff and thundered 81 yards with quarterback Mike Mosley of Humble skipping the last three yards untouched. The extra point attempt was blocked.

The North retaliated on the ensuing kickoff on a 77-yard dive, climaxed by a three-yard plunge by Don Earl of Stamford. Carl Birdsong of Amarillo kicked the extra point for a 7-6 North lead at the end of the first quarter.

The teams went into intermission tied 14-14 as Polk ripped off a seven-yard touchdown run and Ethridge flipped a two-point conversion to San Antonio Churchill's Mark Harrelson and the North tacked on a two-yard scoring plunge by Bill Woodard of San Angelo Central.

The South took command in the third quarter on a 62-yard march, in which Bobby Shaffer of Orange Grove took a picture-perfect pitch from quar-

Male Bowlers To Form Association

Interested male bowlers in Hereford and the surrounding area are urged to attend the Hereford Men's Bowling Association organizational meeting which will take place in the Community Center lounge at 8:30 p.m. Monday, August 1.

"Any man who is currently bowling in a league, any man who plans to bowl in any league here in the future, or any man who is just interested in bowling should attend the meeting," Bowling's Bowl Manager David Pope said in making the announcement.

Pope said that drawing up a charter, the election of officers, and the writing of bylaws for the local association would be covered at the meeting. Officers to be elected include a president, vice president, secretary, and six directors.

"These will be association officers only, with each respective league responsible for electing their own particular officers," Pope added. The association officers will serve one-year terms from the date of election.

"With a strong association we will have good league bowling," Pope continued. "Some experience would be helpful, but is not necessary."

The manager said that tentative plans call for two men's leagues to bowl on Wednesday nights through the Fall and Winter. At the present one 14-team men's league is in action.

Local women will be getting together soon to form their own association.

All-Stars Downed, 8-1

The Hereford Bronco Major League All-Stars suffered their first defeat in post season play Thursday night by dropping an 8-1 decision to the Tri City All-Stars out of Oklahoma City at the sectional tournament at Seminole Oklahoma.

The loss sent the local team into the loser's bracket where they will play Bethany, Oklahoma at 8 p.m. tonight. A win tonight will send them into another contest at 7 p.m. Saturday.

ROUNDUP CAN BE APPLIED AS A SPOT TREATMENT IN THE CROP.

The State of Texas has registered a "Supplemental Label" for Roundup® herbicide by Monsanto for distribution and use only within Texas.

If spot infestations of annual and perennial weeds are getting out of hand, this message is too important to overlook.

Farmers can now apply Roundup herbicide in soybeans, milo, corn, wheat, oats and barley.

Naturally, the crop in the treated area will also be destroyed. But a spot application of Roundup herbicide offers a special opportunity to control weeds as tough as emerged rhizome johnsongrass and bermudagrass. Plus many other labeled annual and perennial weeds.

According to the "Supplemental Label," treatment must be made prior to heading of small grains, initial pod set on soybeans and silking of corn. For best results, weeds should be treated at the stage of growth specified on the container label. As a spot treatment, Roundup can be applied with most types of equipment, except the recirculating sprayer.

Spot treatment may be your best opportunity to keep the weed problem from spreading and help reduce the risk of an even more serious weed infestation next year.

See your dealer today. Ask him for a copy of the "Supplemental Label" for Roundup herbicide. Remember, this label must be in your possession at the time of spot treatment. Follow label directions carefully.

Always read and carefully follow the label instructions for Roundup herbicide. Roundup® is a registered trademark of the Monsanto Company, St. Louis, Missouri.

Taxes Too High, Claim Americans

NEW YORK (AP)-At the request of H&R Block, the income tax people, and with their money too, The Roper Organization, the polling people, are finally able to tell us what we think about the income tax system. "Over half of all taxpayers think their own federal income taxes are 'excessively high,' as opposed to 'about right' or 'very reasonable,' " the report tells us. You might have known that, of course, but did you know the percentages are 55, 31, and 10? Or that 7 of 10 Americans are against higher gasoline or heating oil taxes? Or that 55 per cent approve higher liquor taxes? The authority of computer numbers is remarkable, because now that the fractions and decimals and percentages buttress what we all have felt for

Bookstore, Theatre Owners Get Both Good, Bad News

HOUSTON (AP) - Adult bookstore and theater owners in Houston have broken even in two court decisions - obtaining a favorable ruling from one judge and an unfavorable one from another.

reached trial. Earlier, U.S. District Court Judge Robert O'Connor denied a request from the owners of an adult bookstore that Houston vice squad officers be prohibited from interfering with the operation of the business.

But sometimes the numbers, no matter how clean and precise, are not the easy to add up, or so it would seem from the conclusion on page 10, that "The public would welcome a call for tax reform," and the statement on page 29: "Despite a general indictment of the income tax system as unfair, and a high lack of understanding of how to fill out a tax return, demand for tax reform and simplification has relatively low priority in the general scheme of things," said Richard Baxter, Roper vice president, "It's consistent." If you look through the study and its numbers, he indicated, the truth is revealed. A feeling for tax reform, he said, "is pervasive throughout the study."

A federal judge issued an order Wednesday that temporarily enjoins the city of Houston from enforcing an ordinance that would close 19 adult bookstores and theaters. U.S. District Court Judge Ross Sterling set an Aug. 5 hearing date for the city to oppose a preliminary injunction, which would prohibit enactment of the ordinance until the case

Attorney Rick Young, who represented the plaintiffs, called the temporary restraining order a "temporary victory" for the shop owners and "a victory for the Constitution."

When pinned down, however, the public's desire for tax reform seems to have a "get the other guy" quality. People don't want reform if it means losing the ordinance, passed last month by the city council but opposed by Mayor Fred Hofheinz, would prohibit the operation of an adult commercial establishment within 2,000 feet of a school, church or other educational or charitable institution.

The word "booze" is believed to come from the Dutch buizen, meaning "to drink to excess."

Roller skates were invented 114 years ago by Dr. James L. Plimpton, an American, who made $1 million from his ingenious idea.
